NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,

THE CHEN YUEN SUNK

Fierce Battle Fought Between the Chinese and Japanese Forces.

Two Cruisers Captured by the Japs—Another Reported Destroyed—One Thousand Men Were Drowned—Among Them German Officers—Statement by the Japanese Government—Interest Manifested at Washington—The British Lion Roars.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1.—The battle between the Chinese and Japanese naval forces, which was fought Monday, was a fierce one. The Chinese ironclad man-of-war Chen Yuen, the largest and most recently built ship in the Chinese navy, was sunk, and two Chinese cruisers, built by the Armstrongs at Elswick, were captured by the Japanese.

The two Chinese cruisers which were captured by the Japanese were the Chin Yuen and Ching Yuen.

It is reported that another cruiser, the Foo Tsching, was also destroyed.

The Chinese fleet carried about 1,000 men, most of whom were drowned. Among the killed were two German officers attached to the Chen Yuen.

The Chen Yuen was a battleship of 7,400 tons displacement, carrying 14 1-2 inches compound armor at the water line. Her battery included four 13-inch guns, protected by an armored breastwork, and two smaller Krupps, eleven Hotchkiss cannon, two 81-4-inch and 6-inch Krupps, in her main battery, and a secondary battery of Hotchkiss revolving cannon. She also had tubes for Whitehead torpedoes. The Chen Yuen was built for China at the Stettin works. She was a sister ship of the Ting Yuen, and was the most powerful warship in the Chinese navy, with the exception of Ting Yuen.

JAPANESE STATEMENT.

Differences Which Led to the Rupture Between the Two Countries.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 1.—The Japanese government has issued the following official statement:

"Japan and China were approaching a settlement of their difficulties when China suddenly requested Japan to withdraw her fleet from Korea and to give a formal compliance with the Chinese demands by the July 20, otherwise the Chinese forces were to land and a sea advance upon the part of China was to be made. The Japanese regarded this as an ultimatum, but, acting under the advice of the friendly powers, they agreed to the proposals in principle in amended form, at the same time declaring that if the threatened Chinese advance was made on July 20 it would be regarded as a menace to Japan."

The Japanese assert that the claim that the Kow Shing was flying the British flag is unfounded. They also deny with indignation the charges that the officers and crew of the Japanese cruiser that sunk the Kow Shing were brutal in their treatment of the Chinese sailors while struggling in the water.

WAR NEWS AT THE CAPITAL.

Much Interest Manifested at the State and Navy Departments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The news of the second naval engagement between the Chinese and Japanese ironclads, with its disastrous results to the Chinese navy, as conveyed by press despatches, was read with much interest at the state and navy departments and at the foreign legations, but not one line of additional news was received here by cable from any source.

The seventeen illustrious Mandarins comprising the Chinese legation are still officially ignorant that any differences of opinion have arisen between the Celestial kingdom and Japan, but the Japanese legation is kept better informed, or, perhaps, is more communicative as to the information it receives.

The Japanese legation has just received from the Japanese government full telegraphic reports of the first great naval fight off the Korean coast between Japanese and Chinese men-of-war. It is positively stated that the Chinese gave the first provocation, and that the Chinese ironclad Soi Yen, which was one of the convoy, and which is the most powerful vessel in the Chinese northern squadron, fled after the exchange of a few shots.

One Chinese man-of-war was captured and one transport was sunk, as has already been stated, but none of the Japanese vessels was injured, as reported in telegrams from Peking and Shanghai.

BRITISH LION ROARS.

The Sinking of the Kow Shing Denounced.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Standard denounces the Japanese for sinking the Kow Shing. It says:

"The pretexts for the war are as flimsy as any ever advanced. If a further and more disastrous conflict cannot be prevented, it will unquestionably be because the Japanese have resolved upon war and that nothing shall divert them from that policy."

The Standard warns the Japanese that if in the earlier stages of the fighting they carry off the honors, there is a patient and resourceful endurance about the Chinese that is likely to embarrass and tire even a more powerful foe than Japan. It advises the Japanese to awake to the probability that Europeans will interfere, adding that if the report about the Kow Shing is true Japan will also have to reckon with Great Britain, which has every reason to assert its position in the most uncompromising manner.

The Times says: Such explanations as Japan has put forth are certainly not of the sort that will diminish the indignation of China or gain the sympathies of other powers. The Japanese may have real excuses for the action of their sailors; if so, it is high time that they produced them, as the world is getting anxious to know.

ENGLAND INTERESTED.

Wants a Detailed Report of the Sinking of the Kow Shing.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Lord Kimberley, secretary for foreign affairs, has telegraphed to the British consul at Tien-Tsin for a detailed report of the sinking of the Kow Shing. The British government will probably ask the French government to get the commander of the French gunboat Lion to report on the affair.

The officials of the Japanese embassy here have telegraphed to Tokio for an explanation of the Chinese charges that an unresisting transport was blown up.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The Chinese embassy here has received no confirmation of the report of a naval engagement on July 30. Some of the dispatches reporting the engagement are dated from Tien-Tsin, via Shanghai. The embassy officials say that telegraphic communication with Tien-Tsin is at present interrupted.

MANNED BY BRITONS.

Owners of the Kow Shing Claim She Was a British Steamer.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The manager of the Indo-Chinese Steam Navigation company, which owned the steamer Kow Shing, stated that there is no room for doubt that that vessel was in every respect a British steamer, though she was in the Chinese government service. She was manned, they declare, by British officers, and carried the British flag. Besides the English captain the Kow Shing had four British officers, three of them engineers. The managers of the company say that the action of the Japanese in attacking the vessel was most extraordinary, seeing that their own government was at that time negotiating for the charter of steamers.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

It May Stay in the Air Until the Winter Session.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The tariff bill is not the only measure over which there is a deadlock between the houses of congress. The river and harbor bill, which is now in conference, is not only deadlocked, but it is intimated that it may either fail altogether or its further consideration be postponed until next winter. The conferees on the part of both houses are as usual reticent about what occurs in the committee rooms. But the fact has leaked out that the house conferees have taken a determined stand and flatly informed their senatorial associates that they will not consent to the increase made in the bill by the upper house.

The bill as it passed the house carried an appropriation of $9,500,000 in addition to the $8,500,000 provided for in the sundry bill to continue work under contract. This made the total river and harbor appropriations for the next two years $18,000,000 in round numbers. The senate increased the appropriation $3,500,000. The bill has now been in conference for some days, and thus far the senate conferees have yielded only $635,000. This is not enough to satisfy the representatives of the house. They insist that the bill as it passed the house was as liberal a measure as could have been expected, considering the depleted condition of the treasury.

MISSIONARIES MISUSED.

An American Church Demolished and a Christian Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—From Hong Kong come reports which indicate that missionaries in southern and northern China are being molested by natives.

A serious disturbance occurred in Shek Lung near Tung Kun on the Pearl river on June 20. The American Presbyterian church was demolished by the heathen and one Christian killed. It is not known whether the victim was a foreigner or a native.

Chinese soldiers guarded the Catholic church, as at Kiang Yon, where another anti-missionary distubance occurred, and it escaped damage.

SAVED LINCOLN'S LIFE.

Col. Silloway Penniless and Destitute in Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—William Allen Huntley Silloway, who once saved President Lincoln and who possesses an enviable war record, is, with his wife, living in a single room in a lodging house, penniless and destitute.

Col. Silloway is in his 76th year. He is an applicant for a pension on account of his wounds, but his application is hung up in Washington.

The feat which brought him national reputation was the saving of President Lincoln's life in 1863. This happened after Col. Silloway was wounded at South Mountain and had resigned to go into the navy. The affair happened in May, 1863, and in the old man's words the story of it is as follows:

"The president had been down to City Point and was coming back with us on the Brooks. We were running by Tobacco Point, when a confederate battery opened fire on us, and a shot came through our port paddle.

"The steamer stopped and began to drift. We could see them on the Virginia shore preparing to get a boat off to us. Capt. Brooks, our commander, did not know what to do, when I came on deck and said to him that we must get the president off at all hazards.

"I said I would go if we could get a crew. The captain agreed, and a boat was manned and shoved off from the vessel. It was dusk, and the boat, with its charge, was soon lost in the shadows hovering over the river. We landed the president safely on the Maryland shore, where he remained in security until he could be transported to Washington."

Col. Silloway received letters from the president, Secretary Stanton and Secretary Welles in recognition of the event, and Secretary Stanton said in his letter: "The president believes that you, under the guidance of Providence, saved him from capture, if not from instant death."

He was then commissioned a full-fledged colonel as a reward for his services.

THE PULLMAN STRIKE.

Militia Withdrawn from the Town—No Further Trouble Expected.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—As a result of a conference between Mayor Hopkins and Vice-President Wickes, of the Pullman company, participated in by Adjt.-Gen. Orendorff and Asst. Adjt.-Gen. Bayles, it was decided to call in eight of the twelve companies of state militia composing the First regiment and now doing duty between Fordham and Riverdale. This district includes the town of Pullman. Three of the four companies which remain will be stationed at Pullman. This will leave about one hundred soldiers in charge of the town.

Mr. Wickes does not expect any trouble. He declined to say when an attempt to open the Pullman shops would be made, but it is believed that such an endeavor will take place this week.

Mr. Wickes did not oppose the withdrawal of the militia. He said the Pullman company would either resume operations with the old men or not at all. No attempt would be made at the present time to import new men.

MEGIE'S SENTENCE.

The Ship's Writer Severely Punished for His Conduct.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Benjamin F. Megie, ship's writer in the navy, attached to United States steamer Dolphin, having been tried before a general court martial upon the charge of committing "scandalous conduct tending to the destruction of good morals," and found guilty, has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the prison at Charlestown, to loose pay aggregating $359 and, at the expiration of his sentence, to be dishonorably discharged from the service.

Forger Baker in Jail.

VINELAND, N. J., Aug. 1.—Horace D. Baker, the notorious forger, was committed to jail without bail to await further proceedings in his case. Baker has lived in this vicinity for more than two years, and was known as John W. Ford. During his residence here he has committed a number of forgeries, and is wanted in a number of states. Officers have arrived from Maryland, West Virginia and Worcester, Mass., with warrants for his arrest.

Siege of Sicily To Be Raised.

ROME, Aug. 1.—The ministry has decided to raise the state of siege in Sicily, and the necessary decree will soon be issued. Gen. Morra di Livriano, who was appointed military governor of Sicily when the state of siege was proclaimed, will be rewarded for his services with a high decoration and will be given the command of the sixth army corps, with headquarters at Bologna.

A Guardian Society Disfranchised.

ALBANY, Aug. 1.—Deputy Attorney-General Hogan secured from Justice Mayhall, of the supreme court, an order annulling and forfeiting the privileges of franchise of the New York Juvenile Guardian society. The action was the result of the irregularities disclosed by the recent investigation into the society's affairs by the state board of charities.

Rev. Dr. Wood Accepts.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Rev. Nathan E. Wood, D. D., of Brooklyn, who has received calls to succeed Rev. Philip Moxom as pastor of the First Baptist church, in this city, and also to the presidency of Colgate university, of Hamilton, N. Y., has decided to accept the former position. He will assume his new duties about Sept. 1.

Eighteen Business Houses Burned.

EAGLE GROVE, IA., Aug. 1.—Fire here destroyed eighteen business houses and two residences. Loss about $70,000; insurance very light. The water supply was scant and the fire department had a hard struggle to save the town.

In Favor of Labor.

ALBANY, Aug. 1.—The prison committee of the constitutional convention took a test vote on the question of prison labor and decided in favor of labor, the product of which shall not be sold to the public.

HE WAS SHANGHAIED

Strange Disappearance of a Rich Pittsburg Man.

Followed by Detectives Around the World—After Two Years' Absence He Arrives at San Francisco—Said To Be Worth Nearly Two Million Dollars.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—Among the passengers who arrived on the Gaelic here was E. M. Byers, a rich iron manufacturer, of Pittsburg, who came in company with Dr. Samuel A. Boyd, a physician, who has lately been traveling with him. According to the stories circulated Byers had for some time been abroad because of ill health, some say because he was not in his right mind. But another story has it that Byer's brother, who is his partner in the iron business in Pittsburg, is anxious to keep him abroad, there being a couple of million dollars concerned in it.

According to the story Byers was "Shanghaied" from his home two years ago. His wife was in great grief and besought the brother to give some clew as to her husband's whereabouts. This he would not do. She then engaged detectives, supplied them plentifully with money, and urged them to use every endeavor to find him. They searched throughout the United States without avail.

A year ago they succeeded in locating him in Japan. When the detectives arrived there, however, Byers was gone. The detectives sent to bring him home followed him to Australia, China and the Hawaiian islands. The sick man was finally followed back to Japan. The wife's detectives discovered by this time that Byer's brother had been using detectives, and furthermore that he had a doctor engaged to travel with the missing man. Necessary legal papers were procured and Mrs. Byers' detectives took the invalid in charge and started back with him. All went well till they reached Honolulu. There the detectives employed by the brother attempted to prevent them from coming any further. They succeeded in getting away, however, and there was no more trouble until Byers and the detectives arrived here.

After some trouble between detectives representing the different interests, Byers was taken east on the overland, thwarting the efforts of his brother, who was trying to get out a habeas corpus. Mrs. Byers had her husband taken from her in a peculiar way and by the same brother. He had been spirited away, and she had found him and was attending him in his illness. She stepped from the room for a moment, and when she returned he was gone. The doctor in attendance had been bought over by the brother, it is charged, and he, with the attendants, disappeared with the patient.

Mr. Byers, the kidnapped man, who has been so long abroad, is said to be worth between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. He is interested in extensive iron works at both Pittsburg and Philadelphia, and is the possessor of much other property.

RIOT IN A MINING CAMP.

Six Men Killed and Several Women Wounded.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 1.—At a mining camp named Yale, seven miles east of Pittsburg, a row started in a saloon run by Tom Doss, a colored tough from this city, where a lot of negro miners had congregated prior to going out to try some new Winchester rifles they had purchased. Doss was killed and several wounded, and the fight continued outside, drawing into battle men and women alike.

A report has just reached here that six men were killed outright and seven men and eight women wounded, some of them mortally. The row was among the Alabama colored miners imported here last year to take the places of the strikers, among whom are ex-convicts and criminals of vicious character.

Woman Suicide Identified.

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 1.—The woman who committed suicide here by drinking oxalic acid has been identified as Mrs. Daniel Bradley, of 74 South Twelfth street, Newark. The identification was made by the woman's son and daughter. She was formerly an inmate of the Essex county insane asylum and was discharged on the 7th of July. She was sent to the asylum for melancholia. She had attempted suicide once before.

Duel to the Death.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 1.—W. G. Randolph, parish treasurer of East Baton Rouge, and one of the most prominent men in politics and society in that parish, was shot and mortally wounded here by Dr. King Holt, city physician, who stands equally high in the business, political and social circles of the capital. Holt received bullet through the leg. Bad blood had existed between the men for some time.

Street Railroad Sold.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Aug. 1.—The Attleboro, North Attleboro & Wrentham street railway, which has been in the hands of the receiver and closed for the past six months, was privately sold to the United Traction company, of Providence. The price paid is not stated. It is expected that the line will be opened at once under the old management.

Killed by a Quarry Explosion.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—One man was killed, and two were fatally and several others seriously injured by an explosion of dynamite at the quarries of Delose & Shepard in Hawthorne yesterday. The man killed is said to be F. Corbin, the superintendent of the quarries. What caused the explosion is not known.

To Study Popocatepetl.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 1.—A party of scientists will leave this city to-day to make a topographical and geological study of the volcano Popocatepetl, in the state of Puebla. The party goes by request of President Diaz, in view of attempts by an American company to purchase the mountain.

Minneapolis in Dry Dock.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—The crack new cruiser Minneapolis met with the same fate as her sister ship—the Columbia, when she grounded in the Delaware river, and the new flyer has three dents in her bottom. The Minneapolis was placed in the dry dock at League Island navy yard.

No Cholera at Marseilles.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The mayor of Marseilles officially denies that cholera is epidemic in that city. He says that the death rate is no higher now than it has been for two years, and that quarantine against the city is unjustifiable.

BLOCKED BY SUGAR

Mr. Jones Says the Senate Will Not Surrender.

Representative Springer Reviews the Situation and Thinks the Fate of the Bill Will Not Rest With the Senate—Basis of Settlement Offered by the House Conferees.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Mr. Springer went over to the senate side of the capitol yesterday to look up the situation and see what the chances were for the success of the house bill or a compromise. He returned to the house feeling very confident that there was no sign of weakening on the part of the senate.

"There have been all sorts of rumors abroad to-day," said Mr. Springer, "to the effect that the senate would recede from the main items in dispute. I have looked carefully over the situation this afternoon and while I believe the senate conferees will be glad to recede, the fate of the bill does not seem to rest with them. The more important question is how do Senators Gorman, Smith, Murphy, Brice, Camden, Faulkner, Pugh and Morgan feel about the matter. I have endeavored to ascertain some of the sentiments to-day and the result of my investigation convinces me that there is no sign of weakening on the part of these senators. They appear to be as zealous as they have ever been in behalf of the senate bill. I believe this congress will still pass a tariff bill, and I do not think the day of its passage is far distant."

When asked about his call for a caucus, Mr. Springer replied that he had more than the requisite number, and that the caucus would be held. He had given very little attention to the matter, but inasmuch as the date had been postponed Mr. Springer said there was still ample time in which to call a caucus.

In the face of investigation by Mr. Springer and the statements of senators recognized as leading factors in the senate "combine," a story is circulated to the effect that the house conferees offered their senate colleagues a basis of settlement for the three disputed items, to wit: Iron ore to be placed on the free list; coal to be taxed at 40 cents a ton, with a reciprocal provision that would make coal from Canada free if that country admitted our coal under like conditions; that a duty of 45 per cent. flat be levied on all sugar, and that a bounty be paid on the 1894 crop at the rate of eight-tenths of a cent. a pound on all sugar testing between 80 and 90 degrees, and nine-tenths of a cent. a pound on all sugar testing more than 90 degrees.

So far as the Louisiana delegation is concerned, it is said that at a conference held during the afternoon the senators and members of the house from that state agreed that they would accept this proposition.

This is not to be wondered at, for it is the identical proposition advocated by the two Louisiana senators, both in caucus and on the floor of the senate. The senate by a vote refused to grant the bounty, and the house struck it out altogether. How it figures as a part of the conference agreement under such circumstances does not seem clear.

According to this same story it is said the senate conferees are anxious to accept the proposition, and that Senator Jones had a long conference with Mr. Smith, urging him to give his consent to its acceptance. After the democratic members of the conference committee adjourned, Messrs. Gorman, Vest and Jones held a long consultation in the room of the committee on appropriations at which this proposition is said to have received consideration.

Opposed to this story is another to the effect that at the conference in the morning, Mr. Jones gave the house conferees an ultimatum on the part of the senate. It was that upon the three items of coal, iron ore and sugar, the house must accept the senate bill, and that definite results must be reached within 48 hours. Several of the leading members of the conservatives denied with emphasis that the senate conferees would accept a proposition similar to that indicated above, or that any had been made. Such a resolution would, they say, be not a compromise, but absolute surrender, a conclusion to which the senate will not agree.

Anti-Lynch Committee.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The duke of Argyll, several clergymen and numerous members of the house of commons, among them Sir J. E. Gorst and Justin McCarthy, have joined a new "anti-lynch" committee, formed to act in concert with a similar committee in the United States. The Ida Wells campaign seems to have originated the movement. Passmore Edwards is treasurer and Florence Balgarnie secretary of the committee.

First Execution in Fifty Years.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 1.—The first execution in Norfolk for fifty years took place at noon yesterday, when Madison Brown, colored, was hanged for the murder of John Dollard. The execution was witnessed by about sixty persons and went off without a hitch. Brown was decidedly the coolest man in the crowd.

Trying to Stop a Paper's Sale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 1.—The local authorities have taken a hand in the Waterbury Globe matter and will endeavor to stop the sale of it in this city. Notices have been issued to local dealers, informing them that they will be prosecuted if they continue to deal in the paper.

New Line of Steamers Likely.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Consul Downes, at Amsterdam, under date of July 17, informs the state department that the chamber of commerce of that city has recommended the establishment of a new line of steamers direct from Amsterdam to New York.

Rich for Governor of Wisconsin.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 1.—The republicans of Michigan, after a bolt of one of their gubernatorial candidates, yesterday placed in nomination for governor, John T. Rich, of Elba.

Giving the Anarchists a Chance.

ROME, Aug. 1.—The government has issued a circular letter to prefects instructing them to refrain from prosecuting anarchists and socialists who are keeping within the limits of the new law.

Rebel Malays Killed.

MADRID, Aug. 1.—The government is informed that on July 24 the Spanish troops at Mindanao fought a battle with the rebel Malays at that place, and routed them with the loss of 250 killed.

About Nervous Prostration
By
H. C. CHAPIN,
Editor St. Paul Pioneer Press.

"After a most thorough trial and receiving the most gratifying results, I am glad to testify in favor of

BOVININE
The Original Raw Food

"By it I was brought up with remarkable rapidity from a long siege of nervous prostration."

All Physicians Endorse It.

Bovinine is an ideal food—an unequalled nutrient, is palatable to the most delicate stomach. Alone it will sustain strength for weeks. It makes new blood. It contains the largest amount of nutrition in the smallest possible bulk.

For sale at all druggists.

The WREN in Business

It is characteristic of the Wren that it will sneak in and occupy the nest made by another bird, in preference to building one of its own. This same trait is often seen in business. It is shown by the imitators of

COTTOLENE

No sooner has the wonderful merit of this new vegetable shortening, so much better than lard, created for it a remarkable sale and popularity, than the business wrens are ready to move upon the market with many worthless counterfeits. Any housekeeper can be easily and cheaply convinced of the value of COTTOLENE by simply giving it a trial. They will then be unwilling to go back to lard, or go down to fraudulent imitations.

—Box 134, corner of Westervelt and and Mountain avenues, was blown for a test at 3 this afternoon. The blows were correct and distinct. The final test of all the boxes will be made Saturday afternoon at 3 when the members of the Borough Council will be able to hear the whistling.

Tossed Into a Fit.

An attempt was made Saturday to burn the Plainfield Ice Company's icehouse in the West End. While some boys were there yesterday, one of them jokingly accused six-year-old Morris Brokaw of being the firebug. The little fellow was so frightened that he went into a fit, and piteously cried "Take me home to mamma before I die". He then tried to choke himself. Elmer Hoffman pounded him on the back, and Morris lay down in a wagon and soon recovered.

The Sprague Family Again.

Constable VanHorn this morning arrested Lewis Sprague of Dupont street on a State warrant sworn out by Mrs. Sprague. A family row is at the bottom of it. Some say that the man is insane. There are two distinct sides to the question. Sprague was placed in the lockup to await further action in his case.

THE "BURGLAR" A COP.

POLICEMAN SAUNDERS MISTAKEN FOR A HOUSE-BREAKER.

But 'Twas His Own Fault, for Prowling on Tiptoe in People's Yards at Midnight—He Smoked a Cigar on Duty.

When a belated resident of Westervelt avenue went home at 12:30 last night he noticed a man cross the street some distance ahead, on tiptoe, and stand concealed in the shadow by J. F. Buckle's house. As just after the resident went into his house the mysterious person lighted and smoked a cigar, still in the shadow, suspicion was disarmed, but presently on looking out a window the citizen saw the man discard the butt and tiptoe back to the other side of the street.

The stranger cautiously opened a gate and disappeared in the yard of Auguste Saltzman. Ten minutes later a slight noise was heard, and he came swiftly but silently out and crossed to his former hiding-place. Presently he returned to the Saltzman yard, and staid there a time, out of sight.

Soon afterwards he tiptoed forth, noiselessly entered the yard of J. L. Moore, and was again hidden. Not knowing what operations were in progress, and believing that the suspicious actions were those of a house-breaker, the citizen sent a member of his household on a quick run for the police, and stayed at his lookout.

Footsteps were heard down the street and the dark form stole forth from the Moore yard and hid in the darkness by Buckle's. The person approaching proved to be E. E. Anthony, who let himself into his house by a pass-key. For a time the midnight prowler kept still, then he cautiously returned to the Saltzman yard.

It was now 40 minutes since the first citizen had begun his vigil, and still the individual in the street kept up his queer actions. Two dark forms were seen coming through Orange street, making a slight noise. Simultaneously the prowler reappeared, and stood by the Saltzman gate, watching. The Orange street approachers proved to be the messenger and Policeman Cooney. The officer went rapidly but stealthily along the fence, his hand on his revolver, ready to fire if the stranger started to run.

But the man stood still, and to his surprise Cooney found on close scrutiny that the suspected character was none other than the Negro policeman, Saunders. Cooney was now reinforced by Policeman Frederickson.

In the explanations that followed, Saunders said he had been watching since 10 o'clock to find out who owned a bicycle that stood at the curb! The wheel was promptly identified as that of Judy Fritts, and as it was thought he must be not far away it was left in its place and the little gathering dispersed. Saunders did not stay to pursue his investigation.

Saunders is likely to be asked by the Police Board why he was prowling so peculiarly about people's houses, instead of patrolling his beat; and why he transgressed the regulations by smoking while on duty. It has not been supposed to be in the province of a bluecoat to peep into private apartments to satisfy curiosity.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The choir at the First Baptist Church will take a six-weeks vacation. The music meanwhile will be in charge of E. J. Fitzhugh, organist, and a precentor.

A concert will be given in the German Lutheran Church tomorrow evening for the benefit of the church. Leading local talent will appear, including Miss Isa Lezem, Miss Sumbatoff, Miss Lavinia French, Mrs. Alonzo Millett, and W. E. MacClymont.

A lecture on "The African and his Achievements from the Time of the Repopulation of the World, also His Loyalty and Trueness to the White Man 272 Years in America", will be delivered by Rev. Royal H. Brown, in the Emmanuel Baptist Church, Fillmore avenue, Thursday evening, August 2, at 8. The proceeds are to help to remove the indebtedness of the new church edifice.

Funeral of Conrad Seawald.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the Turn Verein Hall over the remains of Conrad Seawald, who died suddenly from heart failure at the Arlington Hotel, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Windham wished to have the funeral from the hotel, but members of the Saengerbund decided to hold the services in the hall of the society to which Conrad belonged.

Rev. George Hauser of the German Reformed Church conducted the services which lasted from 4:15 to 4:45. Many of the members of the society were present and a number of them sang. The interment was made in the First Presbyterian Cemetery.

The Dog Lives On.

Robert Peel complained to the police this morning that he had been bitten in the leg by a dog owned by a resident of Stiger's alley. He was authorized to deal with the dog himself, and spent a part of the morning trying to induce the woman in charge to let him shoot it.

A Woman Carpenter.

The progressive women of the times are striving not only for political power, but for admission into the medical, legal and clerical professions. Very few of them, however, are desirous of earning a livelihood as ordinary mechanics. It is interesting, therefore, to learn from the Philadelphia Carpenter that a lively young Danish woman, Miss Sophie Christensen, is anxious to get work in Chicago as a carpenter and joiner. In the city of Copenhagen she learned her trade, to which she was bound as an apprentice. When her apprenticeship was completed a short time ago, she was admitted to full membership in the union. She displayed great aptitude and skill as a worker at the trade, and she is ready to display specimens of her handicraft. Among other things, she has made a "self closing bookcase" which is serviceable, artistic and beautiful and which is admired by everybody who sees it. She is but 26 years old, and she expects to get a good job in Chicago as soon as the trade brightens up.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. S. Cahoone has returned from Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clay of LaGrande avenue are enjoying a vacation in Vermont.

Mrs. Charles Runyon of North avenue is improving slowly from a serious illness.

Miss Mary Callahan of Richmond street is entertaining Miss Annie Ryan of New York.

Miss K. D. Rodgers of 317 East Third street has gone to Ocean Grove for a few weeks.

The family of F. S. Green of East Fifth street went today to Manasquan to spend a month.

Mrs. S. G. Smith and sons George and Seymour leave for Hartwick, N. Y., this afternoon.

Expressman Al. Dunavan is still confined to his home by his slight attack of sunstroke.

Nathan Lane, Jr., of Sycamore avenue leaves Saturday for Good Ground, L. I., to spend ten days.

Mrs. VanBuren and L. H. VanBuren will go Saturday to Hot Springs, Va., to visit there for two weeks.

Samuel P. Huntington and family of Franklin place have gone to Westchester, N. Y., on a pleasure trip.

Mrs. Voorhees Laing and daughter Ella of East Front street returned home yesterday from Asbury Park.

Samuel P. T. Wilbur and family leave town tomorrow for the Catskills, where they will remain during August.

L. H. DeBois and family of Putnam avenue leave next week for Sullivan County, N. Y., to stay a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wright of Plainfield registered at the Water Gap House, Delaware Water Gap, Sunday.

Henry Mason and family of East Sixth street are to go to East Moriches, L. I., to spend a month by the Great South Bay.

Judge W. A. Coddington and wife returned home from Asbury Park yesterday afternoon after a delightful two weeks rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conover and son Ernest, and Mrs. VanNest, will return tomorrow from their pleasant stay in Asbury Park.

A. B. Dunlap of Watchung avenue, who returned Monday from his vacation, will go back tomorrow to Pasque Island, off New Bedford, Mass.

W. J. Roome of Sycamore avenue will go tomorrow to Avon-by-the-Sea with his family to remain there a week, returning to drive to Paxinosa.

Superintendent Adleman of the street railway is entertaining a number of friends from Newark at his home and about the city this afternoon.

George Bull of East Ninth street will go to Shelter Island, L. I., next week to enjoy an outing there as the guest of Howard Miller of Brooklyn.

Edward VanBuren will return to his home on Central avenue tomorrow from a visit with J. W. Reinhart, who is spending the season at Hot Springs, Va.

The family of John M. Crane of West Eighth street, who is now in the insurance business in Chicago, will spend a vacation on the Hudson, near Iona Island.

The Richfield News records that Miss Carrie Clark Dewey, of Plainfield, accompanied by Miss Louise Blanchard Mandeville of Binghamton, is at the Earlington.

Miss Edith C. Lane will leave her home on Sycamore avenue tomorrow to spend two days in Brooklyn, and thence to go to Rochester on a visit with relatives there.

David Angerbauer of West Third street started this morning for Saratoga, to return with Mrs. Angerbauer who has been staying at the Springs during the past month.

Constable Amos Moffett was able to leave his home on West Sixth street this morning for the first time since his illness. Although much improved, the veteran constable is still very weak.

Miss Mason, a sister of Henry Mason, who is visiting him at his home on East Sixth street, returned Saturday from a trip abroad. She has spent the past eight years in Asia, Africa and Europe.

Chief Marshal William N. Pangborn returned last night from his vacation of nine days. His rest has improved his general health very much. He made his headquarters in the Orange Mountains, and thence went forth each day to seek pleasure wherever he thought it could be the most easily obtained.

Mayor and Mrs. W. L. Saunders left today for Paxinosa Inn, Pa., where they will spend August. This elegant hostelry commands a magnificent view from the summit of the mountain range back of Easton. Paxinosa surveys a Pennsylvania valley rich in cultivation, and all New Jersey is at its feet. On that elevation Summer is a breezy delight.

Isaac C. Varian of Brooklyn, the new lessee of Music Hall, was in town today arranging for the season's work. He is a hustling and experienced theatrical manager, and success attends whatever he attempts. He is an expert photographer, and his skill in taking faces secured for him the position of official photographer for the Brooklyn Rogues Gallery. Already he has engaged first-class bookings for the Winter.

Popular Albion.

Following are the new arrivals at Hotel Albion:

Isaac Varian, Florence Varian, and G. Kane and wife, of Brooklyn; H. L. Barnard, L. R. Dunham and wife, Wm. Hale, and Wm. Brandon, of New York; and Oscar H. Moore of Pottstown.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

A Family Carriage.

There are thousands of bicycle riders in Buffalo, fast racers and fancy men, women who do their "century" in a day, and many other varieties of the genus bicyclist. But so far as we are aware there is only one man in Buffalo or anywhere else who has successfully converted his bicycle into a family carriage with comfortable seats for five. That is Mr. Henry J. vom Scheidt, of whom, with his four boys, we give portraits herewith as they appear on the wheel. On setting out the wheel is steadied by the father, and Johnny, the youngest, is lifted into his place; then Arthur is established in front of him, and Willie climbs into his place in front of all. The father then takes the saddle, and when under slow headway Henry runs after and mounts to his seat behind.

In this way the father and four boys have ridden over 500 miles this season, visiting Lancaster, Tonawanda, Bellevue and other neighboring towns, where, as in Buffalo parks and streets, they are always much gazed at and admired. They have never had an accident. The frame which provides the extra seats for the children was built by Mr. vom Scheidt himself. It can be taken off in a minute and a half and placed in three minutes.

"Little Dirty Face."

We have a little maid at home,
She says, "My name is Dwace."
To pa and ma she's better known
As "Little Dirty Face."

You scrub and dress that child at ten—
White muslin trimmed with lace—
In fifteen minutes, often less,
She's Little Dirty Face.

But smiles oft break that crust of dirt,
And smiles the dimples chase,
And tender eyes light up with love
That little dirty face.

'Tis naught but superficial dirt,
Which scrubbing will erase.
So ma and pa are rather proud
Of Little Dirty Face.

On tot's small phiz the trouble is
To find a kissing place.
But, stay—I see a rosebud mouth
On Little Dirty Face.

Then come and give that sweet "bear hug,"
Thou little toddling Grace.
Thy soul's as pure as angels' robes,
My Little Dirty Face.

To Make a Ball That Bounces.

Boys who are always losing their balls can make them themselves. Take a common cork and cut it as round as possible, making it the size of an ordinary marble. Then tear off very narrow strips of rag and wind these, one at a time, around the cork until the ball is of the desired size. Then cover it with cloth, or if a boy is fortunate enough to have an obliging sister she will make a cover of crewels by dividing the ball into quarters, winding the wool several times around it, then buttonholing the quarters all round one-half, then the other half, till an edge is formed on each side of each quarter, then buttonholing with any colors of wool till the quarters are quite filled up, when a seam finishes them, and a capital ball is the result, costing nothing to make, but really serviceable.

The Prince's Gold Inlaid Cot.

England's new baby prince has a gorgeous layette. The queen has made a historical addition to it in the shape of a delicate bassinet covered with rich white satin, having over it a filmy veiling of fine honiton lace. It is the ordinary old world shape, not hanging and without rockers.

There is an inscription on a silver plate giving the history of this interesting item in the outfit. It reads as follows: "This bassinet was made for Princess Victoria Royal in 1840 and was used by all her majesty's children and was given by the queen to the Duchess of York in 1894."

Playing Circus.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE POWER OF THE HUMAN EYE.

It Subdued a Cast-iron Bulldog, but Not the Man Who Owned Him.

A family druggist in North Chicago happened to look up from the tub of fruit syrup he was compounding, and was astonished to see the shattered wreck of a man enter and throw itself upon a chair. The wreck was in an awful condition, bleeding, like Col. Marco Bozarris, at every vein.

"What in the name of Sir Walter Scott has happened to you?" cried the druggist.

"Pour a few quarts of arnica on me," responded the wreck wearily, "and I'll tell you."

The druggist stitched him up and soaked him in healing fluids and listened for the story.

"I live on Clinton avenue," said the wreck. 'I have lately been reading up on lion tamers, and I came to the conclusion that the human eye would subdue any beast that walks. I tried it on all the animals in the neighborhood, and it seemed to work all right. For two or three weeks I went around subduing things with my eye. Then I got into an argument with a neighbor on the question. He held that a really fierce animal didn't care a red cent for the human eye. I offered to bet $10 that he couldn't produce an animal I couldn't conquer by looking at."

I can guess the rest," said the druggist. He trotted out a big mastiff with a mouth as large as the Arctic regions, and you tried to subdue it, and it wouldn't subdue to amount to anything; and in the grand symposium that followed the dog tried to make a record at plain and fancy chewing and succeeded."

"That sounds reasonable enough," replied the wreck wearily, "but it wasn't the way it happened. My neighbor took me into a strange yard by moonlight and asked me to hypnotize a big sorrel bulldog that was sitting on the porch. Several strangers were there to see the experiment, and I went to work. I stared into the orbs of that beast for fifteen minutes, and it didn't seem to move a muscle; then to show that it was thoroughly subdued, I went up and placed my hand on his head. It was a cast-iron bulldog, and was subdued when it first came from the foundry. While the spectators were laughing I sailed into my neighbor, determined to whip him all round the block and up and down an alley, and you see the result. I wish that you would pour a pint of oil of sassafras down my neck."—Chicago Tribune.

HE TWISTED TAMMANY'S TAIL.

John W. Goff Who Made Life Unpleasant for Office Holders.

The counsel for the state senate committee who investigated alleged corruption in the management of the public affairs of New York City, is the best known man of the metropolis. Mr. Goff came from Ireland a poor boy twenty-five years ago, and found employment as a porter in H. B. Claflin's dry goods store. He attended to his duties at the store in the daytime and spent his evening hours at a night school. One day an errand took him into one of the local court-rooms. He sat down and heard a lawyer sum up a case. Then he said to himself: "Why can't I be a lawyer?" Within an hour he had decided that he could and would be one. That afternoon, when his day's duties were ended, he borrowed some law books and set to work. His room mate, a young man named Fitzgerald, decided that he, too, would study law. So they set to work together, toiling days and studying nights. Charles O'Conor and others gave them encouragement from time to time, and in the face of a hundred difficulties and obstacles they persisted in their task. By and by they were admitted to the bar and went into politics. To-day Fitzgerald is a judge and Goff one of the leading lawyers of New York.

Mr. Goff is a poet-orator, and everything he says goes right to the heart. Nor does he lack the force which logic gives to his arguments, as every one who has heard him in the courts will acknowledge. In conversation he is brilliant, witty and instructive, and as a raconteur is almost unrivaled. His voice is soft and musical, with just enough of his native accent to make it sweet. He is deceptive in appearance, for beneath his quiet exterior he conceals the ferocity of the inquisitor, as none are more willing to admit than the witnesses who suffer the tortures of his questioning.

He Was That Man.

"I knowed a man," remarked the stranger in the end of the seat to the drummer over by the window, "that left his farm and started out west to grow up with the country and git rich."

"Did he have any money?" inquired the drummer.

"He had upwards of $2,000 in cash."

"Well, he ought to be rich by this time."

"Don't know about that. Any way, before he had gone 200 miles, he met some three-card-monte men, and the fust thing he knowed they had all his money and he didn't have nothing much but experience and his clothes."

"That must have been a long time ago."

"About three days."

"Great Scott, man!" exclaimed the drummer, "you don't mean to tell me that in this enlightened age there is a big enough fool to get stuck that way?"

"I've heerd there was a few left," admitted the stranger.

"Well, by George! I'd give a dollar, straight, to see one, just for the curiosity of the thing."

The stranger took his feet in out of the aisle and faced the drummer.

"Gimme the dollar," he said sheepishly, "and take a look at me. I'm on my way back home now, and that dollar'll seem bigger'n a cart wheel."—Detroit Free Press.

OUR OLD TEAM BACK.

ONCE MORE THEY'LL WHACK THE BALL 'NEATH PLAINFIELD'S BANNER.

And All the Kranks Will Cheer Their Pranks Quite in the Old-Time Manner—They'll Tune Their Throats to Rooting Notes—and Then, "Hurrah for Banner!"

How the blood of the kranks will stir at learning from The Daily Press that they may see all their old-time Crescent favorites together again battling for the supremacy against base-ball giants! Those who have hungered all Summer for a return of the good old days may now rejoice, for steps are under way to get together for a glorious series the men who used to lift the scalps of the Somervilles and who carried off the pennant.

It's all the doings of that big-hearted krank Tom Keller. He has n't felt right since Plainfield forsook the team, and he wants the true-blues to have another chance to root for their pets as in the days that are gone.

So he's quietly but with his accustomed liveliness skirmishing around to gather the Crescent graduates for a grand revival. The boys who used to bring joy to the bosoms of Plainfield's bravest and fairest are now playing winning ball on the biggest teams of the land. But they all rejoice at a chance to play together again, and their managers are considerately listening to their prayers, and will probably loan them.

The plan is to arrange a series of games with Poughkeepsie and other strong Hudson River teams, and when the temporarily revived Crescents make the trip you may be sure Plainfield will send along a great gang of enthusiasts.

Won't it be great to see Tuck Turner, Billy Keeler, Leo Smith, Bonner, Freddie Jones, McIndoe, and the rest of 'em, all in team harness again!

BASE-BALL CHATTER.

Bonner has been taken from the bench again, to help win games.

Elizabeth gives a good showing with old Plainfielders on the team.

Turner is in splendid form, and all the League managers have an eye on him for next season.

Harkins is filling a barrel with money, from the wholesale bottling business in New Brunswick.

When Manager Keller accomplishes his latest Crescent enterprise, every Plainfield krank will arise and call him blessed.

Freddie Jones is the West Ends' stronghold behind the bat. The Plainfield colt has grown big and strong and kept his agility.

The Orientals of this city will play a game of base-ball Saturday afternoon at 2:30 with the Diamonds of Plainfield for a purse of $25. The Orientals: Fleming, cf.; Doyle, 2b.; McGinley, ss.; Moran, c.; Winn, p.; Kuhn, 3b.; Sheridan, lf.; Melvin, rf. Mr. Melvin, manager.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Thomas H Pittis of 912 Central avenue purchased two Columbia wheels of F. L. C. Martin today.

The absence of training cyclers has been the feature at the Crescent track the past two days.

Some misguided cyclers still persist in sidewalk trespassing in districts where police surveillance is lax.

Routine business matters will be brought up at the monthly meeting of the Crescent Board of Governors this evening.

A "solid comfort" club run will be taken by the Elizabeth Wheelmen tonight to Tier's Lake, Plainfield, where the cyclers will feast on cake and ice-cream.

The report obtained yesterday that Monte Scott had established a new world's record by riding 5 miles in 12:26 on Manhattan Field. The fatal obstacle was that he did not start at scratch.

Curt Gotthelf continues to interest wheelmen with his Hy-lo changeable gear. Last night he had his wheel geared up to 80 for speeding on the level, which could be immediately reduced to low gear for hill climbing. Those who tried it were enthusiastic over its effectiveness.

The changing of the local races from Saturday afternoon to Wednesday of next week is looked upon by many members of the Crescents an unfortunate move, and the attendance of afternoon holiday people was depended upon. The sanction of the L. A. W. could not be obtained for Saturday, however, and it was thought best to postpone the affair three days and secure recognition. The attendance of all the wheelmen is assured at any rate, and it is probable that the riders will take the thing up and make the riding interesting. The sanction obtained is good for matinee races on the Crescent track every Wednesday in August, and all the days allowed may then be used, if sufficient interest is shown in the first meet.

They Saw Snakes.

A party of great fishermen drove to the Passaic yesterday, leaving here at 3 a. m. They were George Thatcher, Ed. Marble, Chas. Smith, Neaf Apgar, Warren Squires, Jack Haberle, and Tim McCarthy. Fifteen bass was their total catch. George Thatcher hung his solitary fish in the water and when he pulled it out it had turned into a snake, a big water pilot having gulped it down and being caught on the hook. The minstrel had to stand during the rain, while the others had camp stools.

THE DEADLY PUTTY BLOWER.

Let This Be a Lesson to Plainfield Boys.

George Slingland, aged 6 years, is a patient in the Paterson General Hospital with a probably mortal injury to his neck caused by a putty blower. While the lad, when on a pile of boards with a number of playmates, was blowing balls of putty from the blower at another boy across the street, a gruff-voiced carpenter ordered the children to get off the lumber. The boy was so frightened that he fell from the lumber upon his face. The putty blower was forced down his throat, puncturing the tonsil on the right side and coming out of the neck back of the right ear. It cut a large artery in the neck in transit.

As soon as the boy regained his feet he grasped the end of the tube that protruded from his mouth and jerked it out of the wound without wincing. He did not cry until he saw the blood spurting from the severed artery. He was carried into his home, and at sight of the blood-covered face his mother fainted.

Yesterday morning, when George's father, George Slingland, driver of the Fire Department supply wagon, left the house, the boy begged him for a penny with which to buy a putty blower. The father took the boy on his knee and, after kissing him fondly, said:

"Don't buy a putty blower, Georgie; they are dangerous toys for little boys. I once knew of a little boy who swallowed a putty blower, and it killed him."

But when Georgie saw the other boys with putty blowers the temptation was too strong for him to resist and he bought one. Dr. Merritt, the house physician, says the boy had no pulse when he was received at the hospital, and that his condition is more than critical.

ATHLETIC RAILROADING.

Mary Singer of Stony Hill Jumps From an Express Train, But Her Skirts Serve as a Parachute and Save Her Life.

As the west-bound Blue Line express pulled out of Elizabeth yesterday afternoon at 5:30, a pretty young woman jumped on the front steps of the rear car. Her skirts were seen fluttering from the side of the side of the car as the train passed out of sight. When the express neared Aldene it was traveling at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Persons standing at the Aldene station noticed the fluttering skirts, and were horrified at seeing the young woman leap from the train.

As she leaped her skirts spread, and for a second she seemed to be skimming along in the air. Then she fell to the ground and rolled over among the stones at the side of the track. The young woman was unconscious when the onlookers reached her and blood poured from a dozen cuts about her head and arms, but she was not fatally injured. When she jumped from the train her outspread skirts had acted as a parachute and had broken the force of her fall.

On reviving the young woman gave her name as Mary Singer and her home as Stony Hill, a hamlet in the mountains back of Scotch Plains. She was on her way to Fanwood, and had boarded the express, thinking it was a local train. The vestibule doors were closed, and she could make no one inside hear her pounding upon them. She became frightened at the prospect of being carried beyond her home, and blindly leaped from the train.

The young woman was removed to the home of her brother John Singer, in Westfield.

THE SAME OLD GAG.

These Chaps and Ed Crater Worked It Successfully in Plainfield Four Years Ago.

William H. Hutchings and E. G. Irvine were the originators of a scheme in New Brunswick by which members of a club they formed were to get a $35 suit of clothes for $15. Their establishment was known as the United States Purchasing and Supply Company. Both men were glib talkers, and a large club was formed. The scheme was put in operation about two years ago.

It was part of the plan that drawings should be held weekly. Each member was to pay $1 a week, and no member was to pay longer than 15 weeks without receiving an order for the $35 suit. The drawings were held, but the members failed to draw winning numbers. It finally dawned upon them that the scheme was a swindle, but before any action was taken Hutchings left town.

The case was placed in Detective Oliver's hands, and Hutchings was located, after a long search, in Norristown, Pa. He was selling rings, under the name of John D. Benson, alias Armstrong. Requisition papers were secured and Hutchings was brought to New Brunswick and lodged in jail. He will have to answer to thirty-four indictments at the next term of court.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church will meet this evening in the church to arrange for the quilt for which the members have been collecting money. It will be used in a New York Hospital.

There is an abundance of wild carrots about six feet high growing by the roadside near the 8-row of houses on West Front street. According to law they should not be permitted to grow, and someone in authority should see that they are cut down.

A social and business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian Church will be held Thursevening in the chapel, Rev. Mr. Davis of Bound Brook, Miss Emily Corriel of Plainfield, and William Milliken of the home society, will report on the recent convention held in Cleveland. There will be vocal and instrumental music, and refreshments.

THE COLONEL AS AN INVENTOR.

He Has a Patent That Controls Rampant Sewers, But He Did n't Invent a Check on Steam Expansion.

One knowing the many-sided nature of Col. Charles K. Moore, and his varied abilities, will not be surprised to learn that he is the modest inventor of an important engineering success—an automatic check valve to prevent back-flow in sewers. The superiority of his patent is in its perfect line of flow, leaving no obstacle to accumulate foul matter.

Col. Moore was led to invent the valve by the necessity of just such a thing in Waterford, N. Y., where he built the sewers. The river there backs up periodically, but since his check valves were put in no cellar suffers from high water. He is continually filling orders for the valves from towns afflicted by the sudden rise of streams.

Speaking of his experiences in Waterford, Col. Moore illustrates the mutability of riches by telling how the boiler of a paper mill he owned exploded, wrecking the mill, killing several men, and cleaning him out of $40,000 in an instant.

WEST END NOTES.

Mrs. Seymour of Grant avenue is visiting in Newark.

Michael F. Watson of Grant avenue is learning to ride a wheel.

C. Burns has accepted a position in Brooklyn in the Campbell Machine Works.

EQUAL HONORS.

The Girls Did as Well as Trained Cadets, and Both Sides Were Much Admired.

The Third Regiment Cadet Corps, under the direction of Captain George F Edwards, drilled for the benefit of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in Evona on the grounds between the church and the parish building last evening. Quite a number witnessed the drilling. Philip Hapenny drummed for the march.

The feature of the evening was the competitive drill between 12 of the cadet corps and 16 young women. It was agreed that neither could be awarded the palm over the other. Of the two drills, the young women performed the required evolutions the better without muskets; but when arms were shouldered, the young men came out ahead. The boys were not accustomed to marching to the sound of the drum, and their opponents were.

After the drill, refreshments were served, and a dance was enjoyed in the parish house. The affair was a most pleasant one throughout, those in charge only expressing regret that so many of the cadets and friends of the church were away on vacations.

HAIL AT NEW BRUNSWICK.

Many Windows Broken and a Number of Trees Blown Down.

New Brunswick was visited by a storm at 4 yesterday afternoon. The rain fell in torrents and the storm was accompanied by hail and severe thunder and lightning. The hail stones were as large as beans, and many window panes were broken throughout the city.

The streets were deluged by the copious downpour, and a number of trees were blown down and doors and windows blown in by the gale. The storm was of short duration.

Excursion Tomorrow.

The train for Asbury Park conducted by the Crescent Avenue Sunday-school will leave the North Avenue station at 8, in two sections, stopping at Netherwood for the Church of Our Saviour and its friends.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

NOTES!

Not for 30 or 60 days, but notes of sweet music. We have arranged with one of the largest publishing houses in New York City to furnish us with the latest sheet music, including songs and dances, and for a short while only we will give one of these elegant pieces of music to every purchaser of 50c or over. The retail price of this music is 40c a sheet, and if you are fond of music and bargains, call and examine them.

Received today 10 dozen ladies' waists at 25c, worth 40c; 10 pieces of outing flannel 6c, worth 12½c; 25 pieces of calico, slightly dampened by salt water, 3c yard, or 10 yards for 29c. We have marked down every article in our millinery department and you can save money by calling on us.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE

Legislation of Little Importance Transacted.

The Old Subject of a Site for the Government Printing Office Discussed. It Goes Over Without Final Action. No Money To Extirpate the Russian Thistle in the Northwest.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The stupefying dullness of the senate proceedings yesterday was interrupted but not enlivened late in the afternoon by a repetition of the discussion which comes up every year on the subject of a site for a new building for the government printing office. For several years past there have been three rival propositions passed with about equal pertinacity. The one which has had heretofore the most numerous partisans, including Senators Sherman, of Ohio, and Teller, of Colorado, is the acquisition of the square known as the "Mahone lot," not far from the present building. The next in point of number of supporters, including the chairman of the committee on printing in the last congress, Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, is the purchase of the square known as the "Baseball lot." And the third, of which the present chairman of the committee on printing, Senator Gorman, of Maryland, is the chief advocate, is the retention of the present building and the acquisition of adjoining property sufficient to erect an addition that will meet all the requirements of the government in the way of public printing and binding.

In the sundry civil appropriation bill, when it came before the senate, an amendment was reported looking to the purchase of the Mahone lot, although the chairman of the committee, Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, declared himself opposed to it and in favor of Senator Gorman's plan. A motion to substitute the baseball lot was made by Senator Manderson and was rejected—Yeas, 13; nays, 34.

A motion to acquire an addition to the site of the existing building was also rejected—Yeas, 15; nays, 29—and the amendment reported by the committee on appropriations for the purchase of the Mahone lot was agreed to without division. The bill went over without final action.

The conference report on the Indian appropriation bill, showing agreements on some amendments and disagreements on others, was presented and adopted and a further conference was ordered. The general deficiency bill was reported and placed on the calendar, and so was the house bankruptcy bill, which is to be taken up for consideration on Monday next. Some half a dozen bills were taken from the calendar and passed, and the senate at 5:45 adjourned.

House of Representatives.

The house transacted considerable business in the three and a half hours that it was in session, but little of it was important. Most of the bills passed were reported from the committee on naval affairs and one only was of general interest. It authorized the secretary of the navy, under proper regulations, to loan to the states applying for them such ships as can be spared for that purpose, to be used for the instruction and improvement of the naval militia of the states.

Mr. Hatch (dem., Mo.) reported the result of the conference on the agricultural appropriation bill—an agreement on all items except the one appropriating $1,000,000 for the extirpation of the Russian thistle in the northwest, put on the bill in the senate. By an overwhelming vote the house determined to adhere to its disagreement and to further confer about the amendment, as the senate requested.

Contempt Case Postponed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The contempt case against President Overton and the other officials of the stock yards branch of the American Railway union came up yesterday before Judge Grosscup, but was continued to Friday morning. The information charges the officers of the union with issuing a strike circular in violation of the injunction, and the answer denies that the union had anything to do with the circular or knew anything of it until after it was issued and posted up at the yards.

Buncoed Out of $6,000.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 1.—L. Joseph Rodier, proprietor of Rodier Bros.' shoe store in this city, fears he is the victim of a well planned confidence game to the tune of about $6,000. He gave a bill of sale to William F. Gibson, 21 West Cedar street, Somerville, receiving in return a deed of 1,000 acres of woodland in Johnston county, Ky. Rodier sent a dispatch to the clerk of Johnston county, who said he could not guarantee a clear title of the land.

Case of Gold Disappears.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—A case of gold valued at $50,000, part of the consignment of $2,000,000 brought from New York by the steamer La Touraine, which arrived at Havre on Sunday last, mysteriously disappeared somewhere in transit between Havre and Paris. The discovery of the loss was made when the agents of Lazard Freres, to whom part of the gold was consigned, went to the western station in Paris to take charge of the cases.

Unreclaimed Prize Money.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—In a reply to a resolution, Secretary Carlisle sent to the house information relative to the money now in the treasury arising from arrears of pay, bounty and prize money due the estates of deceased colored soldiers. The actual amount of this fund now in the treasury claimed is $93,514, and the actual amount unclaimed is $230,018.

American Arms for China.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 1.—It was learned here last night on good authority that several car-loads of arms and ammunition were shipped by the Winchester Repeating Arms company to an agent of the Chinese government at Montreal, the goods to go thence via Vancouver to China.

Crops Destroyed in Colorado.

DENVER, Aug. 1.—Despatches from six counties in eastern Colorado, along the Kansas and Nebraska lines, report that owing to the hot winds the crops will be a total failure. Many farmers are leaving in search of employment and many more would go if they could get away.

Church Struck by Lightning.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 1.—A sharp electrical storm occurred here yesterday. Lightning struck the Baptist church at Hamilton square and also several barns, one of which took fire and was destroyed. The church was not seriously damaged.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

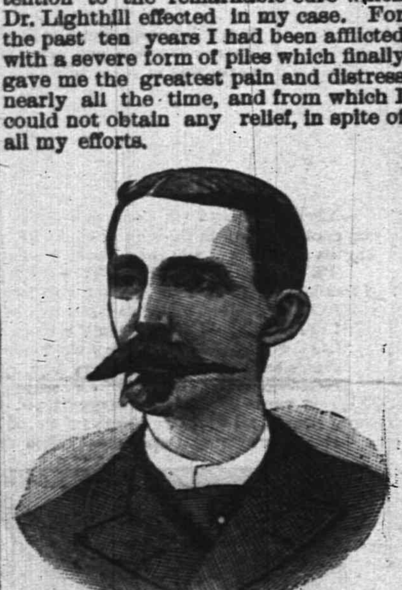
A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.



Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

Deafness, Catarrh and Diseases of the Head, Throat and Lungs successfully treated.

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

Mental and Nervous Derangements Epilepsy, Diseases of the Skin and Blood, Rheumatic, Neuralgic and Scrofulous Affections.

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

DECLARATION OF WAR

Japan's Minister to England Informs Lord Kimberley of the Fact.

English Army Officers in the Chinese Service Placed in a Peculiar Position—The Japanese Government Expresses Regret at the Sinking of the Kow Shing—The Chen Yuen Not Sunk, But Badly Damaged—Fortifying Taku's Harbor.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Earl of Kimberley, minister of foreign affairs, received a despatch yesterday from Hugh Fraser, British minister in Tokio, announcing the declaration of war. He was visited today by the Japanese minister, who personally communicated to him a similar announcement of the declaration. The government will hold a cabinet meeting within the next two days to consider the attitude of Great Britain to the Korean question. Despite the explanation and apology of the Japanese for the Kow Shing affair, the greatest indignation is still felt by ship-owners and other persons interested in the eastern trade. They insist that the government must press Japan for ample compensation and for assurances of better faith in the future. All the stories of Japanese cruelty are regarded in shipping circles as true, and the Japanese are denounced as cowardly and bloodthirsty.

A dispatch from Yokohama says: The commander of the Japanese squadron reports that the captain of the Kow Shing desired to surrender, but was prevented by the crew and troops from doing so.

The vessels which China purchased for the purposes of war from England would have been ready to sail in a few days more. The loss of their services is expected to prove a serious check to China's plans.

The declaration of war also puts in a peculiar position those English army officers who were taken recently into the Chinese service and are now on their way to Chinese ports. The officers in question will be liable to arrest under the foreign enlistment act the moment they come within the jurisdiction of British authority in any treaty port. At the same time they will have no valid claim upon Great Britain's protection if they be caught by the Japanese.

SINKING OF THE KOW SHING.

Japan's Official Account of the Affair.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 2.—The Japanese government has issued the following official account of the engagement between the Chinese and Japanese warships which resulted in the sinking of the transport Kow Shing:

"The Chinese cruisers, the Chihi-Yuen and the Kuwanii, were observed steaming from Kasan, and a transport, carrying Chinese soldiers, conveyed by the Chinese warship Tsao-Kiang, was seen coming from Toki towards Kasan. The Japanese cruisers Akitsusu, Yoshino and Naniwa met the Chinese warships near Pantao Island. The Chinese did not salute, but made warlike preparations.

"In order to get out of the narrow waters in which they were situated, the Japanese cruisers put to sea, whereupon the Tsao-Kiang pursued the Naniwa. The Naniwa thereupon put about and steamed towards the Chinese ships. The Chihi-Yuen and the Kuwanii, however, retreated, and the Chihi-Yuen hoisted the white flag above the Japanese naval ensign. The Naniwa, consequently, delayed firing upon the warship, and then the transport crossed the bow of the Naniwa. The latter fired a blank shot and signalled the transport to stop.

"In the meantime the Chihi-Yuen had approached under the Naniwa's stern, and when within a distance of about 300 metres she discharged a torpedo which missed the Japanese warship.

The Naniwa then opened fire upon the Chihi-Yuen, and the Yoshino joined in the action. The Chihi-Yuen finally fled and was pursued. The Chinese ship, however, was not overtaken.

"The second Chinese warship, the Kuwanii, had in the meantime been engaged with the Japanese Antisusu, but, like the Chihi Yuen, she finally fled and took refuge between the shore and a shoal.

"The transport carried six guns and had 1,100 soldiers on board. The captain of the transport surrendered, but the soldiers on board of her refused to do so and resisted capture.

"The Naniwa was ultimately obliged to open fire upon the transport and eventually sank her. The captain and others were rescued by the boats of the Naniwa.

"It was afterwards discovered that the transport was a British steamer, the Kow Shing. She had on board four chiefs of battalion and fifteen colonels of the Chinese army, in addition to the soldiers referred to.

"The Japanese government, as soon as it was informed of the sinking of the British ship, expressed its regret, declaring to the British charge d'affaires that if, after an inquiry into the subject had been made, Japan was shown to be in the wrong, the Japanese government was prepared to make full reparation for the loss sustained."

The naval engagement of July 25 should not be confounded with the battle fought on July 30, nor should the Chihi Yuen, a Chinese unarmored ship of 2,300 tons, in the first encounter, be confounded with the Chinese armored battleship Chen Yuen, 7,500 tons, which is reported to have been sunk in the second fight.

TAKU ALARMED.

Fortifying the Harbor Against Bombardment by the Japs.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—Nine heavy guns have been added to the artillery at Taku harbor in the last three days, and submarine mines have been laid in expectation of an attack from the Japanese fleet. Great alarm is felt at Taku, as the people there believe that any day may bring several Japanese war vessels and a bombardment. The steam launches of the Chinese customs service are scouting along the coast to ascertain whether or not the Japanese are approaching. Their officers report that several Japanese cruisers have been seen in the Gulf of Pechili. The ability of the Taku forts to withstand a bombardment is doubted. The fort works were not built to withstand the fire of modern guns.

SHANGHAI ADVICES.

The Chen Yuen Badly Damaged—Native Fanaticism Revived.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—The damage to the Chen Yuen is so great that some time must elapse before it can be fully repaired and the vessel sent out to the scene of operations.

Six Chinese transports packed with troops sailed on Monday from Che Foo. They were convoyed by three warships.

The North China News confirms the report of fighting at Yashan. It says that the Japanese brought up for the attack every available man, almost denuding Seoul of troops. The successful defense made by the Chinese was directed by European officers.

A letter from Han-Kow says that the outbreak of hostilities has revived all the nativist fanaticism of the Chinese. Foreigners are insulted openly and violence is feared.

Celestials Leaving America.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 2.—Two carloads of Chinese, numbering 100 persons, passed through here from New York. They are alleged to be bound for China to fight against Japan. While the cars remained on the siding at the station the doors were closely guarded. It is stated that they had firearms and ammunition with them

AN AERONAUT KILLED.

Tillie Sabern's First Ascension Results in Her Death.

ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 2.—At five o'clock last evening Miss Tillie Sabern made a balloon ascension from Ironwood park. When she cut loose with the parachute it failed to open until within a hundred feet of the earth and the sudden jerk, when it spread, broke her hold and she fell to the ground and was dead when picked up. Her neck was broken, the spine badly crushed and every limb broken.

The girl was but 17 years of age. Her home was at Richmond, Ind., where her mother pleaded with her not to attempt the ascension. It was her first trip and her death was witnessed by a brother and a cousin. The dead girl was well known at Richmond.

SOUTH CAROLINA POLITICS.

Reformers Appear To Be Fighting Among Themselves.

SPARTANSBURG, S. C., Aug. 2.—At the campaign meeting here yesterday there were symptoms of one of ye olden tyme howl-downs. Gov. Tillman had the crowd, as did Evans and Wilson, but in the chief debate Gen. Butler set the pace. He made an eloquent speech, with no personal allusions; neither did Gov. Tillman.

The crowd got rampant at times in its evidence of loyalty to Tillman, Evans, Wilson, Gantt, and the dispensary.

The more that is seen all the more certain does it appear that there is as severe a fight going on among the reformers as there was between the conservatives and the Tillmanites.

CUT TO PIECES.

Charles Bishop Run Over by a Train and Killed.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Charles Bishop, of this city, was run over during the morning by a Lehigh Valley train and cut to pieces, his head and legs being severed from the trunk.

Bishop was about 60 years old, a fisherman by occupation, and lived a semi-barbaric life on the shore of the lake. He it was who was suspected of finding and secreting the body of the Cornell student, Miss Yeargin, who was drowned, together with Prof. Merriam, last fall.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Senator Hoar Enlivens the Senate Session.

Contributes to Mr. Stevenson's Presidential Aspirations—Most of the Day Devoted to the Sundry Civil Bill Amendments—Funston To Be Unseated in the House To-Day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The senate was enlived by a little speech from Senator Hoar (rep., Mass.,) who referred to a printed petition presented to the senate yesterday and which had been circulated in Boston purporting to have been adopted at public meetings in Faneuil hall and upon Boston Common, with the motto, "Let Congress Resign." The question of the time when public officials should lay down their trust had been fixed by the American people, Mr. Hoar said, in the constitution and laws, and in a much more peremptory manner than could possibly be done by "the worthy gentlemen" who had signed the petition. Senators and representatives had terms fixed to their offices, and the president of the senate (the vice president of the United States) would cease to exercise his official duties on the 4th of March, 1897, unless he should be "promoted to an office more honorable or with more power." This was Mr. Hoar's witty contribution to the presidential aspirations of Mr. Stevenson, who listened to it and only smiled in his placid manner.

Most of the day was occupied in the consideration of amendments offered by senators to the sundry civil bill. Among those that were adopted were:

Appropriating $175,000 for additional ground at the Philadelphia post-office.

Appropriating $30,000 additional to finish the Chester, Pa., custom house and postoffice in stone instead of brick.

Increasing from $375,000 to $400,000 the appropriations for surveys of public lands.

Making the decision of immigration commissioners excluding aliens final, and making those officers presidential appointments for four years.

Some additional work for Senator Gray's sugar investigating committee has been proposed by Senator Chandler, who offered a resolution instructing that committee to inquire into the facts connected with the organization and history of Dominion Coal company of Nova Scotia; whether the company owed its organization to assurance that the tariff duty on coal shall be repealed by congress, and who gave such assurances. The resolution will come up to-day.

The conference report on the agricultural appropriation bill was presented and agreed to—the senate receded from its Russian thistle million dollar amendment.

Final action was not taken on the sundry civil bill, and the senate at 5:50 adjourned.

House of Representatives.

After agreeing to the conference report on the senate amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill appropriating a million dollars for the extermination of the Russian thistle in the northwest—the senate abandoning the appropriation, the house proceeded to the consideration of the contested election case of Moore vs Funston from the Second Kansas district. The committee on elections reported in favor of Moore's claim to the seat, for which Mr. Funston holds the certificate, and which he has occupied since congress met. The resolutions offered by the minority that Moore was not elected and that Funston was were defeated by party votes, and then the house adjourned, postponing until today the votes that will unseat Funston and put Moore in his place.

WANT TO GO HOME.

Kelley's 'Wealers in a Starving Condition at the Capital.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A delegation representing 600 of Kelley's commonwealers, accompanied by Col. Tracy, commissioner of charities, waited on the district commissioners and asked to be sent home. The men stated briefly that they had been deluded into coming here, and that they were now at the point of starvation. They suggested that a freight train be run as far west as Denver, or even further, and that the men be allowed to drop off as they arrived in the places where their homes were. The commissioners promised that they would do all in their power for the sufferers.

DISPENSARIES OPEN AGAIN.

Gov. Tillman Gives the Saloons Fifteen Days To Close.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 2.—The dispensaries are open again throughout the state, but nowhere is there any trouble. People pay little attention to the matter. The only change noticeable is that the dispensaries added to the number of saloons already open. There is a tacit understanding that Gov. Tillman will give the saloon men fifteen days in which to dispose of their stock. It is understood that he will after that time notify them that they must absolutely quit business and will instruct constables to see that the law is enforced.

Against the Pacific Funding Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Representative Loud, of California, received a telegram from San Francisco, informing him that $2,000 signatures had been obtained to the protest against the proposed Pacific railroad funding bill, all within the past three days. Mr. Loud thinks that a good showing to be made in a city with but 50,000 voters all told.

CHICAGO'S BIG BLAZE

The Worst Fire To Fight in Twenty-two Years.

Over $3,000,000 Worth of Property Destroyed—A Square of Over Half a Mile Consumed by the Flames in Less Than Three Hours—One Death and Many Persons Injured.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Flames last night destroyed more property and in a shorter space of time than any fire which has visited Chicago since the big conflagration in 1872. Over $3,000,000 worth of lumber, electrical apparatus, cars, carwheels, castings, stoves, patterns, buildings and other materials were consumed in a blazing furnace of over a half mile square in less than three hours' time.

The scene of the fire is what is known as the lumber district. The territory burned over was bounded by Ashland avenue on the east, the South branch of the Chicago river on the south, Blue Island avenue on the north, and Roby street on the west.

The fire was the worst which the fire department has been called on to fight in the last 22 years.

There were many casualties among the firemen and spectators. The only death, so far as known, was that of a boy who fell from a lumber pile into a river slip and was drowned.

Several firemen were seriously injured and taken to hospitals.

The firms whose property was destroyed and the estimated losses are as follows:

Siemans & Halske Electric Company of America, manufacturers of dynamos, motors and electric machines of all kinds, Nos. 1168-1182 South Wood street, works completely destroyed; loss, $800,000; well insured.

Wells & French, manufacturers of car wheels, freight and refrigerator and street cars, works from Wood to Paulina streets, destroyed, including casting foundry, wheel foundry, patterns, freight cars and lumber; loss $300,000.

Perley, Lowe & Co., lumber dealers, yards adjoining Wells, French & Co.'s foundry, 15,000,000 feet of lumber, chiefly soft pine, destroyed; loss $300,000. Office building saved.

S. K. Martin Lumber company, Blue Island avenue and Lincoln street, known as the largest lumber yards in the country, 35,000,000 feet of lumber and the offices consumed; loss $700,000.

R. F. Conwar cedar posts and blocks, mill and wagons, almost completely destroyed.

Barber Asphalt company, Pauline street and the river, asphalt stock, two-story brick building and machinery destroyed; loss $150,000. Nothing left.

Chicago Stove works, addition to main foundry destroyed, including patterns and stock in an advanced state; loss $250,000.

Longley, Lowe & Co., lumber yards, Wood street; loss $100,000.

Shoemaker & Higbee, heavy lumber yards, Pauline street and Blue Island avenue, one-quarter saved; loss $100,000.

Keystone Lumber company, Robey street and Blue Island avenue, yards partly destroyed; loss $150,000.

Edward Hines Lumber company, Roby street, south of Blue Island avenue, yards destroyed; loss $200,000.

Wakefield Rattan company, 1187 South Robey street, works destroyed; loss, $75,000.

Four frame dwellings occupied by employes of the burned out firms inside the fire-swept district, loss, including contents, $10,000.

One fire engine, a dozen lengths of hose and much pipe burned; loss, $5,000.

Griffith's Machine company, Lincoln street and Blue Island, factory destroyed; loss, $50,000.

The total insurance will probably not exceed half the amount of the losses.

COULD NOT TAME HER.

Prof. Gleason Loses the Divorce Suit Against His Wife.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Prof. Oscar R. Gleason, the horse tamer, last May brought a libel for divorce in the Suffolk superior court against his wife, Catherine E., on the ground of alleged cruelty. The libel has been dismissed in the equity session of that court by Judge Dunbar, on the ground that the professor for eight weeks has failed to pay his wife the weekly alimony granted her in May. This alimony was to continue during the pendancy of the divorce proceedings.

GAS PLAYING OUT.

Only a Matter of Time Until Indiana's Natural Supply Is Gone.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 2.—State Gas Inspector Jordan to-day filed his annual report with the governor. It shows that since the discovery of natural gas in Indiana seven years ago capital to the amount of $800,000,000 had been brought into the state in manufacturing enterprises. The initial rock pressure, he says, has already fallen from an average of 350 pounds to 240 pounds, showing that it is only a question of time until the supply is exhausted.

Sculptor Park Divorced.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Justice McConnell granted a divorce to Mrs. Park, wife of Richard Park, the well known sculptor, who modeled the Montana silver statue of Ada Rehan at the World's fair and the Drake fountain at the city hall. The couple were married in 1887 at Grand Haven and separated a year later. The divorce was granted on several statutory grounds.

Pullman Works Open To-day.

PULLMAN, Ill., Aug. 2.—It was announced that the repair and passenger departments of the Pullman works will be reopened to-day with as many men as will return to their posts. Company officials say that they have about 1,000 applications and that 800 men will be enough to set the works going.

D'Elva Wounds Editor Drumont.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 2.—Editor Drumont, of La Libre Parole, Paris, was wounded in the thigh early in the morning in a duel fought near Rozendal, just beyond the Dutch-Belgian frontier. His antagonist is said to have been Comte d'Elva, the deputy whom he insulted a few days ago in an article in his journal.

DEATH OF GEN. HOLT.

An Order Issued to the Army by Secretary of War Lamont.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The secretary of war announces to the army the death in this city of Brevet Major-General Joseph Holt, brigadier-general, retired.

General Holt was born in Kentucky, Jan. 6, 1807. Bred to the law, he became eminent in his profession, and especially noted as an advocate and orator. In 1857 he became commissioner of patents under President Buchanan. In 1859 he entered the cabinet as postmaster-general, and in 1860 became secretary of war. In 1862 he was appointed by President Lincoln to be judge-advocate-general, and served in that capacity until the date of his retirement, Dec. 1, 1875. For over 18 years he thus held continuously distinguished positions and rendered eminent service at the capital of the nation. He was brevetted major-general, March 13, 1865, "for faithful, meritorious, and distinguished services in the bureau of military justice during the war." Since the date upon which he relinquished active public service he has lived quietly in retiracy at his residence in this city.

His remains will be interred in his native state. As a mark of respect to his memory, the flag upon the war department will be held at half-mast until the funeral cortege shall have passed beyond the boundaries of the city.

TIRED OF STRIKES.

Debs Is Through With Them in the Future.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Eugene V. Debs, accompanied by his brother Theodore, arrived in this city from Terre Haute yesterday. He returned to Chicago to preside at a convention of the American Railway union which will be held to-day at Uhlich's hall to decide whether the railway strike will be officially declared off, or, if it be continued, to formulate a new plan of operation. If the delegates think as Mr. Debs does, and there is little doubt that they will defer to his judgment, to-day's convention will probably conclude that there is nothing to be gained by continuing a strike in which they are beaten.

"I will never again have any official connection with a strike," said Mr. Debs, this morning, and in what followed he admitted, for the first time that the A. R. U. strike had resulted in failure. "The organized elements of society are opposed to strikes," he continued, "and so long as strikes are repugnant to society, it is useless to inaugurate them. We might start in now and organize a strike on a most extensive plan, but it would end inevitably as this one has."

HIS PECULIAR ACT.

A Young Man Digs His Own Grave, Lies Down in It and Drinks Poison.

ARLINGTON, Mass., Aug. 2.—Early in the morning the superintendent of a Catholic cemetery near the Cambridge line discovered a new-made mound of earth in an unauthorized place. Upon investigation he found a shallow hole, with a man lying in it in an unconscious state. A bouquet of flowers lay upon his breast and a half-filled bottle of laudanum lay beside him. He was alive and after three hours' hard work was restored to consciousness.

It was ascertained that his name is Edward Walker, 27 years of age, living on Brattle street, Cambridge. He has been considered a young man of much promise and has shown marked ability as a designer of humorous pictures for the illustrated papers.

About two years ago he was dangerously ill from typhoid fever. While he was recovering from this attack his intended wife died. The sad news was broken to him before he had fully recovered his strength, and it is thought his mind has not been right since that time.

Walker dug the grave himself.

RIOTOUS EXCURSIONISTS.

Hot Water Turned on Them and Thirty Were Scalded.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 2.—A riot occurred last night between a number of excursionists and the crews of the tug boat Idlewild and the barges Coxsackie and Columbia, at Sylvan Beach grove, eight miles below Elizabeth on the Staten Island sound.

There were about 1,000 excursionists from Brooklyn and at the hour appointed for departure some of the excursionists objected to the boats leaving. The boat crews were attacked with bottles, hawsers, and a number of pistol shots were fired. James Sullivan, a fireman on the Idlewild, was shot in the leg and had his head cut. Capt. Franklin turned a stream of hot water from the tug on the attacking party. About thirty people were scalded.

The tug escaped to Elizabethport and the injured fireman was sent home on a train. The barges, with the excursionists, were left at the grove. A number of women and children were in the party. They were greatly frightened. The scene on the barges during the melee was one of terror.

GEN. LONGSTREET'S PENSION.

Wants $50 a Month for Wounds Received in the Mexican War.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A bill providing for a pension of $50 a month for Gen. Jas. Longstreet, the Confederate general, on account of wounds received in the Mexican war, while he was serving as major and paymaster in the United States army, was introduced in the senate by Mr. Walsh (dem., Ga.).

Gen. Longstreet receives a pension of $12 a month under the general pension act for the relief of Mexican war veterans. He asks that this be increased because of his advanced age, wounds received and total disability.

Adjt.-Gen. Tarsney Resigns.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 2.—Adjt.-Gen. Tarsney's resignation has been handed to the governor as a result of a quarrel over the payment of the National guard. The militia pay rolls have caused a breach between the governor and the adjutant general, which in all probability will result in the acceptance of the latter's resignation.

Tank Steamer Sunk.

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 2.—The tank steamer August Korff, from Bremen for Philadelphia, collided last night in a fog off the Dutch coast with the steamship Grenadier, from Rotterdam for Newcastle. She sank almost immediately. All on board were rescued by the crew of the Grenadier.

A CRAZY VISITOR.

He Wanted President Cleveland To Get Work for Him.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A crazy stonecutter from Boston, named Thomas Cadogan, who has frequently visited the white house in the past few days, asking for work at his trade, and always carrying his tools with him, insisted on seeing the president yesterday morning, claiming that he would starve if he did not get work. When he was told that the president could not see him, he became violent and was taken away in the patrol wagon.

Internal Revenue Collections.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Internal Revenue Commissioner Miller has submitted to Secretary Carlisle his preliminary report of the operations of the internal revenue bureau for the last fiscal year. It shows that the total revenue collections for the year were $147,156,442, a decrease of $13,836,547 for the year.

Woolen Mills Close Down.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 2.—The Lippitt Woolen company will close its mills here, employing 250 hands, on Aug. 11, unless orders are received, or a settlement of the tariff question reached before that date.

Dresden Art Academy Opened.

DRESDEN, Aug. 2.—The king, his court and all the ministers attended the opening of the new art academy on the Bruehl Terrace. Many Americans were present at the ceremony.

Troy Club's Franchise.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 2.—President Powers, of the Eastern league, is in this city. His presence here is for the purpose of talking with the Troy players in regard to back wages due them. He says that the Troy franchise will be transferred to Scranton, Pa., or some other city.

Tim Keefe Appointed Umpire.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—President N. E. Young, of the National league announced that Umpire John McQuaid had resigned on account of ill health and T. J. Keefe had been appointed to fill the vacancy.

COTTOLENE IS MADE TO EAT

Made from clarified oil, expressed from Cotton Seed—as pure and golden as the Southern Sunshine which produces it.

For convenience in handling, there is added to this oil enough beef suet to make it a semi-solid.

The combination of these two pure natural products makes Cottolene, a shortening and cooking fat, with which in healthfulness, cleanliness, flavor and economy, nothing in the world can compare.

IMITATIONS are MADE TO SELL

To sell on the merits of the genuine. To sell by substitution; or by deception. To sell to the injury of the genuine, to the dissatisfaction of the consumer, to the detriment of the dealer, to the loss of all concerned—except the scheming counterfeiter himself.

If you wish the best food and the best health, you should insist that your cooking be done with genuine Cottolene. Refuse all counterfeits.

The marriage of Miss Minnie Godown and A. D. VanSciver is to take place this evening at the home of the bride, 141 East Fifth street, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smalley, Jr., returned from Asheville, N. C., last night, and are now visiting Mr. Smalley's father on Craig place. Mr. Smalley came north because of the serious illness of his infant child.

Annie, the seven-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Willbee, died last evening at the home of her father, 1139 West Front street. The funeral will take place at the house tomorrow morning, and interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Herbert Randolph of Mt. Pleasant enjoyed a trip to Glen Island yesterday. He saw the steamship Majestic come in, on which was James J. Corbett. He says the reception accorded him was very flattering, as cheer after cheer went up for the fistic champion.

Saves Household Drudgery.

Edwin A. Couch of Lake street is a florist, and aesthetic, but he is also practical and gallant, and thinks out things to save woman drudgery. His latest device is a dish cleaner, which is so effective and labor-saving that he has had it patented and will manufacture it so that all housewives may enjoy its benefits.

She Will Recover.

Dr. Kinch of Westfield says that Miss Singer who fell from a Blue Line train will recover.

TO STAY A MISSION.

Lively Church Meeting in Evona.

At a lively annual meeting of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Evona, last evening, it was voted by a ballot of 28 to 19 that the church should remain a mission.

The pastor and others desired the formation of a parish. It is claimed by them that outsiders from the Monroe Avenue Chapel and Hope Chapel, who were brought in by the opposition to the parish movement had no right to vote. No action has been decided on by them.

LODGE NIGHT.

GLEANINGS OUTSIDE THE WICKET OF THE SECRET ORDERS.

What Local Societies Are Planning and Doing — Plainfield Plumed Knights Make Ready for the Great Encampment — Important Junior Business Tonight—Gossip Among Members.

The adoption degree was worked on one candidate by Paugh Caugh Naugh Sinque Tribe of Red Men last evening.

Urgent business demands the attendance of every member of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., at the session tonight. Among other things to be discussed is the decision on the uniforms to be worn in the parade in Asbury Park American Day.

A meeting of the Board of Officers of the New Jersey Brigade, U. R., K. of P., was held in the armory of Black Prince Division in Newark Monday night. 60 officers attended from all over the State, among them being Captain Flannery and Lieutenants Turton and Blimm of Crescent Division, Plainfield. The session was long and argumentative, but considerable business was transacted of importance to those who intend to visit Washington during the week of August 27, and to participate in the biennial encampment of the Knights. It is the intention of the Brigade to go to the encampment in a body, and for this purpose a special train will be run by the superb Pennsylvania Railroad, the terms of that road having been very considerate. The train will leave Jersey City at 9 a. m., August 27; and Crescent Division will go to Elizabeth, where she will board the special. Captain Flannery cannot tell yet just how many of the members of his command will visit the encampment, but a good proportion of them is sure to go. Quite a number of guests will accompany the Plainfield Knights, and many of them will take their wives along. Altogether, there promises to be a large colony of Plainfielders at the National Capital during the visit of the plumed army. By earnest effort the committee having the matter in charge has obtained rates that are reasonable, enabling the Knights and their friends of this city to spend the entire week at the encampment for an amount that will not exceed $15 a person. Major-General Carnahan expects that about 15,000 Sir Knights will occupy the tents that will surround the Washington Monument and comprise the camp. They will gather from all over the United States. The enjoyable time that is expected can be told of by any Sir Knight who had the pleasure of accompanying the New Jersey regiment went it went to Kansas City two years ago, or on the trip to Minneapolis in 1890.

OBITUARY.

Miss Elizabeth Vandemburg.

Miss Elizabeth Vandemburg died at her home, 225 East Fifth street, early this morning. She was found dead in bed by her sister, Miss Gertrude Vandemburg, at 5. She had died in the night without a struggle.

The three sisters, the Misses Alice, Gertrude and Elizabeth Vandemburg, have lived in Plainfield many years. They belonged to Trinity Reformed Church and were well known about the city. Miss Gertrude has never been very strong, and her younger sister, Elizabeth, used to be with her continually when she walked out for her health.

Miss Elizabeth was taken ill Monday with indigestion, and was attended by Dr. J. F. Berg. Last night she had a fainting spell, and her sisters wished to send again for the physician. She recovered, however, and said that she felt much better. At 11 she went to bed.

At 5 this morning Miss Gertrude awoke and found her sister dead beside her. The body was still warm, and the two sisters thought Elizabeth might have had another attack of faintness. Dr. Berg was called, and found that life had fled.

Garret C. Schenck.

The death of Garret C. Schenck occurred at his home, 48 Manning avenue, yesterday afternoon, after a long illness. He was 21 years and four months old and leaves a brother, sister and a widowed mother. He was a member of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., and members of that lodge will attend his funeral from the house at 3 Saturday afternoon.

TO SUE THE COMPANY.

The Courts to Decide If Sewald Died of Trolley Shock.

The relatives of Conrad Seawald, the hostler who died suddenly in the Arlington Hotel Sunday afternoon, have engaged Attorney Winfield S. Angleman to bring suit in the Supreme Court against the Plainfield Electric Railway Company. They claim damages on the ground that Dr. Reed of Somerville said that the electric shock the man received from a broken trolley wire on Somerset street at the corner of Chatham street, two months and a half ago, was the cause of his death.

Accused by His Daughter.

Lewis Sprague of Dupont street gave bonds for $200 in Justice Crosley's Court to await the action of the Grand Jury in the Fall. He is charged with assault and battery in abusing his family, the specific charge being made by his daughter, Miss Annie Sprague.

The Wasp as a Jockey.

A wasp stung the horse of C. B. Clifton, as the rig stood by Mr. Clifton's store this morning at 7:30, and started a runaway which lasted for about 20 feet. The horse was skilfully stopped by Ed. Conshen.

UNCLE SAM PROTECTS THEM.

Both Japanese and Chinese Find Shelter 'Neath Our Flag.

(Special to The Press.)

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—It is stated here today that the Japanese Government have withdrawn all their troops from Seoul.

The statement is also made that 30,000 Chinese soldiers have crossed the Corean frontier from Manchuria.

Advices received here from different points in China and Japan state that the Japanese in China and the Chinese in Japan have placed themselves under the protection of the United States representatives in those countries.

ST PETERSBURG, Aug. 2.—The eight Russian men-of-war which, it was stated last night, were about to start for Vladivostock, have a large number of troops on board. Their destination cannot be ascertained, as they are to sail under sealed orders.

COPENHAGEN, August 2—It is officially announced here that the Chinese northern fleet, consisting of thirteen vessels, has left Chefoo for Corea, and that a battle between the Chinese and Japanese may be soon expected.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A three-pound carp was caught in Tier's Lake this morning.

—When looking at trunks, do not forget to call on Hallock, opposite Somerset street. He has the largest and best assortment in town.

—Ira Beaumont, the colored man who met with quite a serious accident by the upsetting of his employer's wagon last Monday, is able to be out again.

—Justice Nash today adjourned for two weeks the case of Thompson against Sherwood; and for one week the case of VanNess against Stelle. Both are on contract.

—Judgment was entered by Justice Nash today for $37.40 and costs in the contract case of Noll against Beech, the the plaintiff being allowed the amount claimed.

—The breach-of promise-suit of Lulu Robinson against Benjamin Perkins has been withdrawn from Justice Mosher's Court, Perkins's employer having paid the amount demanded by Miss Robinson.

—The stock of pianos and organs that Vanderbeek & Sattelis have just received speaks well for this old reliable firm. A visit to their warerooms, 221 Park avenue, will pay you. Among the new stock is the wonderful Behr Bros. folding-top piano.

End of a Notorious Swindle.

A Supreme Court order has been issued annulling and forfeiting the privileges and franchises of the New York Juvenile Guardian Society which consisted chiefly of "Rev." David F. Robertson of 330 East Second street and his female assistant. The information on which this action is based was supplied by the Charity Organization Society, one of the objects of which is the protection of the public from unworthy organizations asking its support.

Afflicted With Epilepsy.

William Gulick, aged 28, of West Fourth street, was taken to Morris Plains this morning by Constable W. B. Mattox. He is subject to epileptic fits, and it was thought that recently he had become dangerous. Doctors Simpson and Tomlinson examined him several days ago and certified that he was suffering from epileptic insanity.

Their Bodies Brought Home.

The bodies of Arthur Clark and Harry Coutin of Westfield have been brought home. The young men were killed by the cars near Pittsburg. Mr. Coutin married, July 6, Miss Ginevra Day, Rev. Dr. Parks of Scotch Plains officiating. Mr. Clark was a son of Addison Clark.

Missed It.

Four colored women ran across the freight yard at the North Avenue station this morning at 8:15 just in time to see the second section of the excursion leave for the beach. They returned home with their lunch baskets, amusing those who were near with their remarks.

Took 'Em the Long Way Round.

Two strangers, a man and his wife, who arrived in Plainfield at 11:30 last night, were taken to their destination on Emily street by a hackman who gave them a preliminary drive about the city and then charged $1 fare.

Another Big One.

Twenty-two cars, in two sections, took the Crescent Avenue, Bethel Chapel and Church of Our Saviour excursionists to Asbury Park at 8 this morning.

Minnie Hauk Decorated.

Mme. Minnie Hauk, who is making a tour of the world with her husband, the Chevalier von Hesse Wartegg, arrived some time ago at Singapore and sang at Johore by invitation for the sultan, the princess and datos, who were greatly pleased. The sultan conferred on the prima donna and her husband the order of the Crown of Johore, this being the eleventh order Mme. Hauk has received from the hands of ruling monarchs.

Honors For Betsy Ross.

A ceremony to be repeated every year took place on Decoration day at Mount Moriah cemetery, Philadelphia. This was the raising of a flag over the grave of Betsy Ross, who made the first stars and stripes. The ceremony was conducted by the U. S. Grant camp, Sons of Veterans, and they have assumed the future charge of the observance.

Bernhardt's Latest.

DO MEN LOVE LEARNED WOMEN?

The New York Professional Woman's League Says No.

At a recent meeting of the Professional Woman's League, the subject for discussion was:

"Do Men Care for Erudition in Women."

Miss Ella Starr said that the subject first suggested itself to her from a paragraph of Herbert Spencer's in a London magazine. The quotation ran:

"Men care little for erudition in women, but very much for physical beauty, good nature and sound common sense. How many conquests does the blue stocking make through her extensive knowledge of history? What man ever fell in love with a woman because she understood Italian? But rosy cheeks and laughing eyes are great attractions, and a finely rounded figure draws admiring glances."

"I at once determined," she said, "to interview the first few bachelors that came across and note what they had to say.

"Out of a half-dozen bachelors in different walks in life, only two really cared a rap about erudition in women, and I began to believe that Herbert Spencer knew what he was talking about, and that men were men the world over."

An animated discussion then took place between those present, including Miss Phœbe Cousins, Mrs. C. B. Bishop, Miss Estelle Clayton, Mme. de Loule, Mrs. Bertha Welby, Miss Penfield and Mrs. Rachel McAuley.

The question was finally decided in the negative.

Mrs. McAuley argued that woman could be learned, but should allow her knowledge to teach her tact, and by refraining from constantly flaunting her erudition in a man's face she could be his true companion, and companionship between man and women was the secret of marital happiness.

Sizing Up a Husband.

For a man's birth look to his linen and finger nails and observe the inflection of his voice. For his tastes study the color of his ties, the pattern and hang of his trousers, his friends and his rings—if any. For his propensities, walk round and look carefully at the back of his head and remember, girls, never marry a man whose neck bulges ever so little over his collar. If you want a successful man, see that he has a neat foot; he will move quicker, get over obstacles faster, than a man who falls over his own toes and trips up other folks with 'em, too. For his breeding, talk sentiment to him when he is starving and ask him to carry a handbox down the public street when you've just had a row. To test his temper tell him his nose is a little on one side and you don't like the way his hair grows—and if that won't fetch him nothing will.—Commercial Advertiser.

Reign of White Petticoats.

The reign of white petticoats, predicted for several months, approaches slowly. The lifted dress skirt still shows the dainty silk and lace trimmed petticoats in a more bewildering variety than ever. For wear under white and delicately tinted lawns, mousseline de soies, and other gauzy materials, nothing is so satisfactory as silk, imparting a finish and effect that are impalpable, yet missed without it, and except under gingham gowns of the plainest variety the muslin or cambric petticoat has no sphere.

A Rhymed Receipe for Rice Pudding.

One quart of milk, to make it nice;
Only nine teaspoonfuls of rice,
Nine teaspoonfuls of sugar, too,
Also a pinch of salt mixed through.
Two teaspoonfuls of any flavor
Of which you want the dish to savor;

Consider lemon is the best.
Bake for two hours—not fast, nor slow,
But in a moderate oven—so
When it is done it ought to seem
Thick as the richest kind of cream.

Miss Harraden's Serious Handicap.

Beatrice Harraden, the author of "Ships That Pass in the Night," is a hopeless invalid, whose literary work is accomplished sentence by sentence, as any exertion prolonged over five minutes is exhausting. She is girlish looking, 30 years of age, as brown as a Spanish gypsy, and as helpless as a child. For the last five years she has suffered from paralysis that enfeebled the entire right side of her body. She is very near-sighted and wears eyeglasses, and is a tiny bit of humanity, weighing only about 60 pounds.

AN ORDINANCE

An ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage.

Whereas, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in said city as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in the said city in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1880;

And whereas, On said 21st day of May, A. D., eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification;

And whereas, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the common council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said common council;

And whereas, it has appeared and does appear to the said common council and the said common council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in the said city as shown by the assessors books have petitioned said common council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said city in the manner provided by said act;

And whereas, in the opinion of the said common council the public good requires that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said common council has so determined and doth hereby so determine; therefore,

Plainfield to Have a Cycling Congress—25-Mile Record to Be Smashed in the Rahway Road Race—Plainfield's Own Barnett Training Hard to Win—Track Talk.

Purists prefer bicycler to bicyclist, and give velociman first choice.

Mrs. James G. Voorhies of Madison avenue has adopted a modern reform cycling costume.

A. H. Barnett will probably ride an 80-gear in his attempt to break the record in the Labor Day race.

The Victor Wheelmen will have a meeting at the home of Captain Israel Jones on Washington avenue this evening.

A colored cyclist riding on a wager from Newark to Long Branch gashed his tire near Netherwood and was patched up at Martin's.

Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry has written a cycling song to be added to the original volume of the Plainfield Lady Cyclers, to whom it is dedicated.

No quorum was present at the meeting of the Crescents' Board of Governors last evening, so business was postponed until tonight. Final arrangements for the Wednesday matinee races will be made at the meeting.

Five jolly cyclers from Summit rode to Plainfield last night. One was a novice, and the four others were visiting him. He agreed that wheeling was great sport, but said a very tired feeling accompanied it. The distance from Springfield to Plainfield was covered in 45 minutes.

Plainfield is to have a cycling congress this Fall. The fair feminine "velocimen" will engineer it, and 't will be a great event. Among other interesting features will be the practical explanation of model cycling clothing. The whole cycling people of this section will flock to town to participate in the novel convention and to profit by the exchange of ideas.

The Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey under which the great 25-mile Handicap New Jersey Road Race is to be held, is working very hard to have this the greatest road race ever held in this part of the country. The race committee are now at work arranging the details of the race. Carl VonLengerke is chairman, and secretary A. H. Chamberlain is receiving letters every mail for entry blanks. The prize list will be very large, consisting of bicycles, diamonds medals, etc. The course is in tiptop condition with no hills, and the record will surely go. A. H. Barnett, winner of the Irvington-Milburn race, is now training for this event, and expects to break the world's record. This race will take place Labor Day, Sept. 3. It starts at 11:30 a. m. sharp, at Morris avenue, Elizabeth, then to Springfield, to Westfield, to Rahway, to Elizabeth, and return and finish in Rahway. All the boys say this course is velvet—just watch the dust fly and the record go. This course has only one return, so there will be no time lost all the time turning like in the Irvington-Milburn race. A diagram and cut of this course is now printing, and will be mailed on application to the secretary. The committee expect to hear favorably from all the crack road riders. This course is over the best macadam of Union County, and everbody knows what the Union County roads are, without going into details. The Union County Roadsters of Rahway have engaged a band of 15 pieces to play at the finish of the race, and at 3 sharp the same day on the Rahway track the Union County Roadsters will hold a race meet of five exciting races for elegant prize. Those that attend the finish of the road race can stay in Rahway and go to the track meet, and see first-class track racing. Royce, 1 mile champion, George C. Smith, Goodman, and other crack Class A men, will be on hand. A. H. Chamberlain, Lock Box 55, Rahway, can be addressed for entry blanks; he has charge of both events.

Plainfield's Prince of Gastronomy.

People who are fond of a good table but who want to be spared the bother of having meals prepared at home are finding in the new enterprise of Max Wiertz just the service they want. Mr. Wiertz has a restaurant that provides for the inner man as daintily and as satisfactorily as the veriest epicure could desire.

It is a great thing to serve a meal so that to the consumer it is a perpetual pleasure in memory as well as in fact, and that is just Mr. Wiertz does.

If one inclines to go out to dinner, alone or with a party, what could be cozier or more convenient than the residence restaurant at 544 West Front street? And when a special dish or a complete meal is to be served at one's home, Mr. Wiertz and his expert assistants can be relied on to supply a sumptuous surprise. Sunday dinners especially are a feature of the service, many households surrendering the culinary department entirely to Mr. Wiertz.

His reputation gained during his stewardship of the Country Club has brought to him the patronage of the leading families, and in his enlarged scope he is adding to his laurels.

Tarry Not, But Heed Ye These Bargains Straightway.

Edsall combines business with pleasure. He is clearing out his Summer stock to make ready for the Fall. That's business. He has chopped the profit clean off the prices. That's pleasure. Go there now and join in the fun, for soon the chance will be gone, and you'll feel like the woman who started for the excursion and missed the train.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen and New Market.

F. Lewis is improving from his illness.

Miss Lizzie Kuldeshe is confined to the house by illness.

Richard Stevens of Plainfield was in town yesterday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peters entertained friends from Montclair Tuesday.

Mrs. Stelle and daughter May of Plainfield visited Dunellen friends yesterday.

Miss Lydia Harold of Plainfield went to Washington Rock yesterday and enjoyed the picnic.

Dunellen had the appearance of Sunday yesterday as everybody went to the picnic at the Rock.

Miss Lillie VanMiddlesworth has returned from a visit with Mrs. J. H. Kitchen in Plainfield.

Mrs. Whitehead and Miss Weber of Plainfield drove through Dunellen yesterday on a pleasure trip.

Mrs. Palmer has moved from New Market and taken up her residence with relatives in Greenbrook.

Miss Della Fritts will leave town in a few days for High Bridge, where she will spend a week with friends.

John Clasen, who has been in the employ of Frank Haffner, has given up his position and gone to Philadelphia, where he will go to sea on a sailing vessel.

Ernest Peters, who has been visiting relatives in New York, was taken ill with cramps yesterday, and his mother was obliged to go to the city to attend him.

Mr. Hodge of New Market has exchanged his property for that owned by Harry Dunham, which is known as "Castle Thunder", and has opened a barber shop.

Steven Doty, a resident of Dunellen, died this morning at his home. He had been ill some time. Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., of Plainfield, of which he was a member, will probably have charge of the funeral, the arrangements of which have not yet been made.

Dunellen can boast that she has a citizen who is a crack shot with the gun. Yesterday afternoon William Carman went out with ten old birds, and shells filled with 13 cent powder and No. 8 shot, and killed the 10 birds straight, 28 yards rise. The day before he killed 9 out of 12 birds, and recently he made 6 straight.

A number of Dunellen's young girls have interested themselves in the New York World's Sick Baby Fund, and for some time past have been making fancy articles, etc., which they are going to sell at a fair to be held on Dr. Brakely's lawn Thursday afternoon, August 9, from 3 to 8. There will be a variety of good things for sale, including ice-cream and cake, and all are earnestly asked to be present and assist in this worthy cause. The officers who pilot the society are: President, Edith Bolce; Vice-president, Charles Teel; Secretary, Louise Brakely; Treasurer, Maxwell Brakely.

At the meeting of the newly-elected School Commissioners held in the New Market Public School Wednesday afternoon at 3, the following officers were chosen: President, W. F. Randolph; District Clerk, Dr. M. J. Whitford. Those present then drew lots to determine the number of years the Commissioners would hold office, and this was decided as follows: One year, Taylor Jelliff, C. T. Rogers, W. F. Randolph; two years, F. O. Nelson, J. C. Morris, G. Conover; three years, I. S. Dayton, A. Sopher, Dr. M. J. Whitford. The following committees were appointed: Rules and Regulations—F. O. Nelson, C. T. Rogers, I. S. Dayton. Text Books and Course of Study—Dr. M. J. Whitford, Taylor Jelliff, Albert Sopher. Teachers and Visitation—J. C. Morris, Dr. M. J. Whitford, C. T. Rogers, Albert Sopher. Repairs and Supplies—F. O. Nelson, George Conover, Albert Sopher. Finance—J. C. Morris, C. T. Rogers, Taylor Jelliff.

About 1,500 people attended the picnic at Washington Rock yesterday. It was arranged by the Warren County Sunday-schools. People for miles around came in large numbers, bringing lunches, and staying all day. Friendship Cornet Band from New Market discoursed excellent music, which put everybody in the best of humor. Games and various other amusements occupied the attention of the young people, while in the afternoon excellent addresses by Rev. W. C. Kinsey, Rev. Dr. C. S. Ryman of Elizabeth, Rev. J. F. Dobbs and Rev. A. J. Martine, were listened to with pleasure by all. Stages from Dunellen and Plainfield were run all day and brought crowds of people from both places, and very many meeting friends for the first in many years held a genuine re-union. The people began to leave about 5 in the afternoon and all decided that the affair was a large success and would be repeated next year. During the day spiritual hymns were sung, Miss Bowers presiding at the melodeon, and Mr. Blackford leading. Pastor Rhodes of Mt. Horeb was the efficient chairman. The new Washington Rock March was greatly admired.

OVER THE MOUNTAIN.

John Ackens of Millington is a guest of his brother-in-law, George Demler.

Miss Rosie Bartels and Miss Carrie Chipol are home from their Staten Island trip.

A barn at Liberty Corner was destroyed by lightning Tuesday night. It contained a fine stock of hay, straw, and grain.

Mrs. Gibbs and daughter of Scotch Plains are visiting Mrs. Thomas Stead, who, in her ninety-sixth year, spreads sunshine in the home of her son-in-law, Arlon Allen.

Could n't Raise It.

Frank Stores was arrested by Sergeant Kiely last evening shortly before 7 for being drunk and disorderly on Park avenue. This morning he attempted unsuccessfully to raise the $10 fine which City Judge Coddington told him he could pay or go to jail for 30 days.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

OPENING OF THE BEECHWOOD.

It Will Be an Auspicious Event and Will Be Attended by People of Prominence.

Invitations have been issued by Wm. T. Newell, manager of the Hotel Beechwood, for the formal opening of that inn tonight.

The Beechwood, which has been built for an all-the-year-round hotel, is situated on one of the highest points of Summit, and is within three-minutes walk of the railroad station. It is surrounded by drives that are varied and beautiful, the principal roads being macadamized and kept in splendid condition.

The hotel is constructed of frame and stone, and is imposing architecturally. One of the features of the house is a roof garden from which there is a superb view of the hills of Northern New Jersey, sweeping from New York city and harbor and Staten Island on the east to Bernardsville and other towns on the west. The building is surrounded by wide piazzas affording a promenade of several hundred feet.

There is a spacious music hall and ball room about 46 by 90 feet, and bowling alleys, billiard room, elevator to roof garden, and all the appointments necessary to a first-class hotel.

Dancing will commence at 9 and will be informal. At midnight there will be an elaborate supper.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The officers of the Sunday-school of the First Church of Christ will meet with Elder Hand and his Sunday-school class at his home, 376 West Front street, tonight, for a social time.

The congregation and friends of the Union Village Methodist Church will hold a Harvest Home on the large lawn of Israel Coon, South Sterling, Tuesday afternoon and evening, August 21.

Following is the programme of the concert to be given in St. Petri Kirche, corner of Grove street and Mercer avenue, tonight:

MARY A. TUPPER

IN A WOMAN'S PRISON.

Restored to Her Husband at Wilton, Me., After Months of Suffering.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women's prisons are not always built of iron bars and solid masonry. It is easy to shut women up from the beautiful, joyous world without these means.

Mrs. Mary A. Tupper has been released at Wilton, Me., from the custody of extreme female weakness and nervousness which kept her a prisoner in bed, unable to walk.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound went to the root of her trouble, and gave her the liberty of health, so that after taking two bottles she was able to go out of doors and surprise her husband and friends by her rapid improvement.

She says: "Women should beware of dizziness, sudden faintness, backache, extreme lassitude and depression. They are danger signals of female weakness, or some derangement of the uterus or womb. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and be thankful for your life as I am. It only costs a dollar to try it, and the result is worth millions. Ask some druggist about it."

THE WAYS OF WOMEN.

THE HOME IN WARM WEATHER AND HOW TO MAKE IT COOL.

Ways Worth Following to Add to the Family Comfort in Summer. Other Facts that Interest the Present Century Wives and Daughters.

In planning for the comfort of the household during the heated term, the intelligent homemaker realizes that half the battle is gained when a cool appearance is secured. To this end she divests her rooms of every bit of drapery, window, mantel, and door hangings, and puts cool-looking mattings, which come now in inexpensive and artistic weaves, on the floor.

Covers for the upholstered furniture are very effective and summery in appearance, now that the linen fabrics for them come in graceful rosebud and fern designs and delicate tints. If our housekeeper is very up-to-date she can make these coverings herself, their shapely fit being not at all difficult to secure. If it is desired to cover the chandeliers and pictures, a delicate buff tarletan is most restful to the eye. This sheer material lends itself gracefully to chandlier draping, and is additionally ornamental tied down with narrow ribbons of the same hue. It can be used as well laid in smooth folds over mirror and picture frames, held in place at the back by small gimp tacks.

Green shades at the windows are an absolute necessity through the warm days, and, with the indispensable awning, temper the glare in the most grateful way. Those of hunter's green are the best in color and can be bought as low as forty cents.

Have the hues of your dining-room neutral in tone. Do this by banishing gay cloths and brilliant effects of any sort except the box of window plants, whose bloom is a pleasure and whose cultivation a saving occupation. If your china is strong in color, put it away, and use the creamy white. For your relishes have plenty of ice. A pretty table centre at a certain suburban home is, for the six o'clock dinner, on hot days, a crystal bowl filled with bits of loose ice, among which nest the rosy radish and the succulent olive.

The care of sleeping rooms in summer is important. Do not make them the day sitting rooms, as is often done unnecessarily. If you have two, furnish one for morning use and the other to sleep in. Let all decorations be as simple as possible. Complexity of ornament is fatiguing, and in summer everying should be restful. Keep your sewing corner out of your bedroom.

Screen your windows from flies and insects. The best screens are those that cover the entire frame space, hooking into a staple at each side. These are expensive to begin with, but, if you own your house or have a long lease, more than pay in comfort for the first cost. If you cannot put them all over the house, have them in the kitchen and in the bedrooms. In the former they will permit the capricious and careless window shifting of the cook without harm, and in the bedrooms will make possible opening windows both top and bottom, thus securing the best ventilation.

All beds should have very thin sheets, summer blankets, and honeycomb spreads. Pillow and bolster cases should be lightly trimmed, and, on very hot days, in the cool twilight the beds should be uncovered to insure later comfort. At the headboard keep always a large palm leaf fan, and a tray on the small table by the bedside which will hold iced water, a glass, lemons, and bowl for sugar will be found acceptable many times.

In the second room a cool linen covered lounge or divan, with pillows to match, out of the draught, yet within reach of air, will be an inviting siesta nook, with a Turkish stool near on which books and papers are piled. In the closet hang a loose sack or gown of fine muslin, that bit of thin stuff which has ruffle and lace, but not a regular fit. All these may be trifles, but it will be found that much of the discomfort of the summer solstice is lessened by their observance.

For Summer Brides.

The summer bride can have considerable range wherein to develop her individuality. The choice of materials is not so restricted as formerly, and the variety of styles in which the bridal gown can be trimmed is very great. White velvet, miroir brilliante, moire antique and crystal crepe vary the more conventional attire of duchesse satin, or corded silk. Ivory is the shade more generally worn, although pronounced brunettes favor a creamy tint. One point is absolute, the gown must be cut with a train, long or shorter; a round skirt is inadmissible. A bridal robe of rich ivory white satin has the petticoat and train edged with a trail of orange blossoms; the swathed bodice tastefully arranged with chiffon, and small rosettes of the same placed across the front and in the sleeves at the wrist, a large bow and ends of satin ribbon, with sprays of orange flowers, falls from the left side of the bodice.

Three Unsuccessful Euphemisms.

"Wood's Hole" was the original name of a place on the coast of Massachusetts. When it became a fashionable watering place the name was changed to Wood's "Holl" as being more genteel, although meaningless. The national government has just revived the first name officially and the genteel folk are indignant, as cheers of their ilk were when the Government refused to change the name of New York's dangerous waterway, "Hell Gate" to the idiotic "Hurl Gate." This Miss Nancy delicacy recalls the Vermont purist who replaced a vigorous apostrophe of Byron, beginning O God!" with what he thought the more refined "O Gosh!"—Boston Pilot.

Woman the World Over.

According to statistics, women to-day are two inches taller on an average than they were but twenty or thirty years ago.

According to Miss Frances E. Willard, in 1876 there were but thirty-six vocations open to women; now there are over 1000.

Mrs. Henry Irving is an Irishwoman, whose maiden name, O'Callahan, effectually proves it. She lives very quietly in London with her two sons on the $5,000 a year which her distinguished actor-husband allows her.

The latest bit of gossip about fads of well-known women is that Mrs. Levi P. Morton spends a small fortune on shoes, slippers, and other forms of foot gear. She has them fitted till not a wrinkle can be seen. The person who retails the gossip says that Mrs. Morton has shoes of patent leather, suede kid in four or five shades, satin, silk, velvet, and various other materials.

POOR ECONOMY AND BAD TASTE.

Muslin and Linen In Place of Silk for Underwear.

Certain young women traveling abroad several years ago during the height of the popular craze for silk underwear were not permitted by their parents to buy any of it because it was immoral—a most whimsical reason. That silk in the place of fresh, easily laundered muslin and linen is poor economy and worse taste would seem to be so sufficiently strong arguments against its use that the introduction of moral scruples would be unnecessary, even if it were not absurd as well. The notion of degrees of morality in the materials of which undergarments are made appears to be widespread, however. A certain novelist is careful to tell his readers that the particularly villainous and debased hero wore a pink silk nightshirt. This was only at the outset of his evil career. The clothing he adopted at the crisis of his infamy must have been unspeakable, for the author maintains a horrified silence concerning it. It was probably some specially noxious kind of silk, for that has the most abandoned character of any goods now in use.

It may be inferred from some casual remarks of Goethe's that linen had once the same unenviable reputation, but the whirligig of time brings round many revenges, and linen is now highly esteemed and is considered indeed too cold and austere for ordinary wear. So eminently respectable is it that all aristocratic underwear, of whatever stuff it may be made, is at present called lingerie. Perhaps years hence silk, too, will conquer every prejudice except the ones founded on a practical basis.

Silk underwear is really not worth buying, except in the form of the knitted garments worn next the skin, and even then it is much better when mixed with fine wool. Silk is made up into complete sets, however, and is sufficiently fashionable to be frequently described in publications devoted to the interests of the wardrobe. China silk or pongee is usually selected as best enduring the laundering process, and it is almost always trimmed with valenciennes lace. The material chosen for the articles illustrated was cream pongee embroidered with pink dots, and the trimming consists of lace, beading and narrow ribbon.

NOTES!

Not for 30 or 60 days, but notes of sweet music. We have arranged with one of the largest publishing houses in New York City to furnish us with the latest sheet music, including songs and dances, and for a short while only we will give one of these elegant pieces of music to every purchaser of 50c or over. The retail price of this music is 40c a sheet, and if you are fond of music and bargains, call and examine them.

Received today 10 dozen ladies' waists at 25c, worth 40c; 10 pieces of outing flannel 6c, worth 12½c; 25 pieces of calico, slightly dampened by salt water, 3c yard, or 10 yards for 29c. We have marked down every article in our millinery department and you can save money by calling on us.

Tariff Conferees Cannot Agree on Sugar.

Chairman Wilson Confers With the President—Senator Jones and Secretary Carlisle Discuss the Situation—House Members Piqued at the Conduct of Senators.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—It was thought that when the democratic members of the conference committee on the tariff bill adjourned yesterday something definite would have been agreed upon, but the reverse was the case. The conferees were, to use the language of one of the senators, as far apart as on the first day they met at the conference table. At the close of the morning session Chairman Wilson, of the ways and means committee, who represents the administration on the conference committee, went directly to the white house and had a long conference with the president. During the afternoon Senator Jones visited Secretary Carlisle and discussed the situation with that official. Out of these two visits it was believed that harmony and unity of action would come, but such hopes were doomed to disappointment.

When the conferees met a number of tentative propositions were advanced by the house, but none of them were such that they could be accepted by the senate. It is known that the sugar schedule alone prevents an agreement, and that as soon as that is out of the way the rest of the work will require but a very short time. At the conference the house members offered as a solution of the trouble the original schedule proposed by the senate granting a specific duty of 1 cent a pound for sugar testing 80 degrees and then progressing upwards to refined sugar, but this was rejected as not acceptable to the senate.

Several other suggestions were made, but the senate conferees notified their colleagues that no schedule could be agreed to that did not include the differential to refined sugar. After more or less discussion the conference adjourned to meet today at 10 o'clock in the hope that the difficult problem might be solved at that time.

One of house members of the conference said last evening that when they met last Saturday the senate members were in an ugly mood and were inclined to be dictatorial, and that the house conferees were piqued at their conduct. This member said it would necessarily take some time for the cordial relations to be restored, but that they had now returned to a working basis and were getting on nicely. He said the house conferees were giving way in a number of instances, and the senate was as liberal as they could be under the circumstances. This member recognized the fact that the senate conferees were not free and that what they did was subject to the restraint that was placed upon them. However, he expected to see them get together and declared they were making as good progress as could be expected.

At the conclusion of the afternoon conference Senator Jones said that there did not appear to be any change in the situation. It was true that a number of propositions had been submitted, but whether they would be satisfactory no one knew. He frankly confessed that he saw but little hope in the future unless the house was ready to yield on the three items that were now in dispute.

It is learned from another source that the hopes of the senate for speedy action was due to the talk of the house members Tuesday, indicating that they were ready to consider the items of the senate in the proper light, but when they came into conference again the house members pursued their former policy of refusing to consider anything but a complete let-down on the part of the senate.

The senate members felt very blue over the situation last night, and one senator, not a member of the conference, but one who is in touch with all that is done there, made the statement that he would not be surprised if another disagreeing report were made within the next two or three days. When it was suggested that this might kill the bill his only reply was: "The president is responsible for that result if it should come upon the country, and no one else."

NO HOPE FOR CASERIO.

His Own Counsel Says He Cannot Save Him.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—M. Dubreuil, who will conduct the defence for Santo Caserio, the murderer of President Carnot, visited his client in the Lyons prison. Subsequently he said he did not have the slightest hope of saving Caserio's head. The grief and resentment in Lyons were so strong that it was foolish to expect a local jury even to find extenuating circumstances. M. Dubreuil regards Caserio as mentally unbalanced, although not sufficiently so as to render him irresponsible.

Graduated with High Honor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The secretary of the navy has been notified that Assistant Naval Constructors Horatio G. Gillmore and Henry G. Smith, who have been studying ship architecture at the Royal Naval college, Greenwich, England, have been graduated, ranking respectively first and third in their class. Similar high honors have been won by graduates from Annapolis in every class at the Royal Naval college for several years.

Tobacco Crops Ruined.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 2.—The heavy thunder storm accompanied by a great fall of hail, which swept the eastern part of Lancaster county, caused terrible destruction of the tobacco crop. In many fields not a leaf escaped and the crop will not be worth harvesting. The loss to the farmers will be many thousands of dollars.

Capt. Price Gets Off.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The police commissioners passed on the case of Capt. James K. Price, of the West Thirty-seventh street station, who was tried in June on charges of neglect of duty for failing to suppress a gambling house at No. 345 West Thirty-first street. Capt. Price was found not guilty and the charges were dismissed.

A WRECK

of the physical constitution often comes from unnatural, pernicious habits, contracted through ignorance or from excesses. Such habits result in loss of manly power, nervous exhaustion, nervous debility, impaired memory, low spirits, irritable temper, and a thousand and one derangements of mind and body. Epilepsy, paralysis, softening of the brain and even dread insanity sometimes result from such reckless self-abuse.

To reach, reclaim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of the publishers of a book written in plain but chaste language, on the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. This book will be sent sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of ten cents in stamps to pay postage.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

Deafness, Catarrh and Diseases of the Head, Throat and Lungs successfully treated.

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

Mental and Nervous Derangements Epilepsy, Diseases of the Skin and Blood, Rheumatic, Neuralgic and Scrofulous Affections.

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

CHINA ACCEPTS WAR

The Emperor Says It Was Thrust Upon Him.

Issues a Strong Manifesto in Answer to the Japanese Declaration—Throws the Blame for the Shedding of Blood Upon That Country—The Pei Yang Squadron Returns.

TIEN-TSIN, Aug. 3.—The emperor of China has issued a manifesto in response to Japan's declaration of war. The manifesto declares that the emperor accepts the war which Japan has thrust upon him and orders the viceroys and commanders of the imperial forces to "root the pestilential Japanese from their lairs."

The emperor throws the whole blame for the shedding of blood upon the Japanese, who, he asserts, are fighting in an unjust cause.

The emperor has expressed a desire to come to Tien-Tsin in order to be near the centre of interest, but Viceroy Li Hung Chang is opposed to the movement, on the ground that Tien-Tsin does not afford suitable accommodations for his majesty.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 3.—For some reason not ascertainable, the Pei Yang squadron returned to Che Foo yesterday. The affidavits of Capt. Galsworthy and Chief Officer Tamplin, of the transport Kow Shing, which was sunk by the Japanese cruiser Naniwa, have been laid before the Japanese authorities. They agree in the main with the previous accounts of the affair, but give these additional details:

When the Naniwa began firing on the Kow Shing, Galsworthy and several others jumped overboard. While they were swimming the Chinese aboard the Kow Shing kept firing at them. The Naniwa lowered a boat, which picked up Galsworthy and Tamlin. These officers were treated with every kindness by the Japanese.

Previously, when Galsworthy had attempted to follow the Naniwa or leave the ship, the Chinese generals had threatened to kill him. The Japanese boarded the Kow Shing the second time to transfer the Europeans to the Naniwa, but the Chinese prevented this.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Earl of Kimberley has demanded a strict inquiry on Japan's part into the Kow Shing affair and insists that a British consul attend the court martial of the Naniwa's commander.

The German government has instructed Col. von Hanneken, who was aboard the Kow Shing, to give all information in his possession to the British consul in Seoul.

THE WAR DECLARATION.

Received by the Japanese Legation at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The Japanese legation has received an official copy of the note which on July 31 the Japanese minister for foreign affairs addressed to the representatives of all the foreign powers in Tokio. The text of this important declaration is as follows:

"The Japanese government, having exhausted every honorable means to bring about a just and lasting settlement of the differences existing between Japan and China, and those efforts having proved wholly unavailing, the undersigned has the honor, in fulfillment of the duty devolving upon him, to announce to you that a state of war exists between Japan and China."

YANG-TSE-KIANG BLOCKED.

Lights Removed and Torpedoes Have Been Laid.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 3.—Although the treaty ports are exempt from hostilities during the war, the precautions taken to block the Yang-tse-Kiang have rendered navigation unsafe except in broad daylight. The lights at the entrance to the river have been removed, and many torpedoes have been laid. The Chinese steamer plying between this port and Ning-Po has hoisted the British flag. The Smith & Cass local Chinese coasters have raised the American flag.

Russia May Interfere.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 3.—It is reported from a semi-official source that the government here, desiring a prompt settlement of the Japanese-Chinese conflict, is willing to act in complete accord with Great Britain. Should their joint efforts fail to restore peace, Russia is determined not to let any power take possession of any part of Corea.

Council of War at Tien-Tsin.

TIEN-TSIN, Aug. 3.—A council of war was held here yesterday. Afterward the viceroy told the representatives of European powers that he was confident of the ultimate defeat of the Japanese. He had no fears of an attack upon Taku, as the garrison had been strongly reinforced.

BOOM IN IRON MOLDING.

Over 500 Workingmen Given Employment at Albany.

ALBANY, Aug. 3.—There is a well developed boom in the iron molding business here, over 500 men being given employment.

Perry & Co. and Vanwormer & McGarvey have started up on full time, and Rathbone, Sard & Co. on one-quarter time.

Next week the Albany Stove company will resume operations.

Dying with a Fractured Skull.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Stephen Shufeldt is lying at the point of death at Cairo with a fracture of the skull inflicted, it is thought, with a bottle by persons unknown. He went riding on Tuesday night and at a late hour a small boy brought the rig home. Some time Wednesday morning unknown persons brought Shufeldt to his door and left him there.

Good Catch of Sperm Oil.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 3.—The whaling steamer Pedro Varelo arrived from a three years' whaling voyage, having taken 1,750 barrels of sperm oil, which is considered a good catch. She reports that she was in company with the whaling bark George and Mary off Block Island. The latter vessel is full and bound home.

Pullman Strikers Return to Work.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—About 300 men, some of them newly hired, but the majority from the ranks of the strikers, went to work in the passenger car repair department of the Pullman works this morning.

Hatters Out on a Strike.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 3.—About 100 men employed in Yates, Wharton & Co.'s hat shop went out on strike yesterday, their demand for an increase of three cents a hat having been refused.

Barns Burned and Horses and Cattle Killed.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Aug. 3.—During a shower yesterday lightning struck and burned George Van Sinderan's barn. The season's crops and four horses were consumed. The loss is about $4,000. The large hay barn belonging to Edward Deats, filled with hay, was also burned. Loss $2,500. A barn containing three horses and six cows, belonging to Ross Jones, was also consumed. Loss $8,000. R. H. Romine's barn, containing hay, machinery, horses and cows, was also destroyed. Loss $3,500.

THE CHICAGO'S MACHINERY.

New Engines Are Expected To Make Her a 20-Knot Cruiser.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Secretary Herbert has decided to build the new machinery for the cruiser Chicago at the New York navy yard, and has ordered Chief Engineer Melville to commence the work under authority of the naval appropriation bill, which provides $200,000 for that purpose. The new engines and boilers are to cost $500,000 and are expected to make the Chicago a 20-knot cruiser.

SAMOA'S CIVIL WAR.

Many of the King's Supporters Go Over to the Rebels.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—The following advices have been received from Apia, Samoa:

The civil war still drags. The rebels are well entrenched at Atua and Aana. They are well provisioned. The royalist troops are on half rations, though content in preventing the rebels from reaching the seat of government. The inaction of the king's party is responsible for much disaffection, many of the king's party going over to the enemy.

A party of 200 rebels under Tamasese has worried the government seriously by constantly appearing where least expected, burning houses and killing stragglers. Officers of the German ship Falke are on extremely cordial relations with the rebels, and feasts in their honor have been held at Laulii.

THE A. R. U. STRIKE.

Members of the Organization Can Go Back To Work Separately.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The American Railway union will not officially declare the railroad strike off. Neither will it advise the continuance of the struggle. The members of the organization on each road will be allowed to return separately if they so decide, or remain out, but they will receive neither orders nor advice from the union as a whole. This was the sense of the delegation's convention which assembled yesterday in this city to discuss the situation.

Must Not Bother the Dispenser.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 3.—At Aiken Judge Aldrich signed an order restraining the local authorities of Aiken from interfering with the state dispenser in the discharge of his duties. The order was made returnable on Aug. 9, and will probably result in a decision upon the constitutionality of the dispensary law of 1893, under which Gov. Tillman claims the right to resurrect the dispensary.

Anxious To Get Back.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 3.—The Omaha shops opened for work yesterday with 85 men, and will soon have a full force at work. All the American Railway union men were anxious to get back, but the company is only taking in such individuals as they choose. This ends all signs of a strike on the Omaha line.

Murdered His Father.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—Chris Evans, a farmer living near Bull's Gap, quarrelled with his 17-year-old son Bud last night after returning home in an intoxicated state, and inflicted a slight wound with a Winchester. He was in the act of shooting again when his son fired and killed his father.

Gold Takes Another Drop.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The gold reserve in the treasury was reduced yesterday to $52,482,000 by the further engagement at New York or shipment Saturday of $1,250,000 in gold for Europe and $50,000 for shipment to Canada.

SENATORS IMPATIENT

Conferees Are Too Long Trying To Agree.

The Bill, However, Is in Such a Shape That an Agreement Can Be Speedily Reached If the House Wishes It. Mr. Murphy's Democratic Colleagues Uneasy.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—It is not probable that the democrats of the tariff conference committee should meet for three and a half hours and fail to accomplish something. Still, when they adjourned, the old stereotyped replies that nothing had been done was given to all inquirers. This is probably true to a certain extent, and it is known that, while a number of tentative propositions were discussed regarding the principal items in dispute, none of them were adopted. But there appears to be a prospect of success in the near future. In discussing the condition of affairs, Mr. Jones, one of the senate conferees, made the statement that things were now in such shape that it was possible for the conferees to hope that they could reach a conclusion. There could be, he said, during the past few days a general discussion of the whole bill and both sides knew what was expected and what would probably have to be done when it came to a settlement of the disputed matters before them. Mr. Jones was not prepared to say that the conferees were ready to agree. He was exceedingly diplomatic in all his statements and left much to be inferred.

As described by one conferee to-day, the bill is now in such shape that an agreement can be reached very speedily if the house wishes it, or the whole bill may be defeated if the house insists upon it. There are items of vastly more importance to the country in the bill than sugar, iron ore and coal, but as they do not possess the political significance that attaches to coal, iron ore and sugar, they have been lost sight of. They have not been overlooked by the senators who succeeded in having them injected into the bill, and how to make any concession on these things without offending the "combine" is a question that is tormenting the senate conferees. Considerable time has been consumed in ascertaining how changes on these items will be received by interested senators. It is believed though, that these matters can be arranged if sugar is once determined.

The most important of the changes in other schedules have already been indicated by these dispatches, and there is, as yet, no reason to make a single change in the list. Some of the senators are getting impatient at the long delay in getting the conferees to agree. The assertion was made to-day that unless the conferees could agree within the next two or three days—not later than Monday—the pressure would be brought bear to bring in another disagreeing report and let the bill take its fate, whatever it might be. Mr. Murphy, of New York, left the city yesterday for Saratoga, where he will remain for some time. It was said that he had gone away without arranging a pair, but it turned out that he had arranged a pair with Mr. Chandler. There is, however, a very general belief that Mr. Chandler has been given a wide latitude as to how he may use the pair. As one senator put it this morning, and he is a senator on the democratic side of the chamber, too, "the pair was arranged so that Mr. Chandler might vote in any way to defeat the bill."

There is no doubt that Mr. Murphy's democratic colleagues are uneasy at the way he has been talking in the cloak rooms of late. While no detail of his conversation is given, his general talk was designated by a prominent democrat as "ugly." If Mr. Murphy's absence should tend to heighten the chances for the defeat of the bill it is said that some democrats would not be surprised.

When the house conferees returned to the house after the recess yesterday they were surrounded by the representatives who were eager for information from the committee room. One conferee replied stiffly to a question as to what they had done, that he was not at liberty to make public what occurred at the morning session, while the other conferees, more tactful than their associate, simply answered that nothing definite had been agreed upon. It was subsequently stated by one of the conferees that the senate members of the conference were submitting from day to day to the other members of the senate certain of the propositions which had been advanced by the members of the house committee, and that it might be several days yet before a careful canvass of the senate would show how the 43 democratic members of that body would stand.

AN ANIMAL DESTROYER.

A Paris Inventor's Device for Putting Them To Death.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 3.—The Connecticut Humane society has ordered a supply of an animal killing device designed by a Paris inventor. The device consists of a mask which fits tightly over the animal's head, blindfolding it. In the centre is a spike set in such a way that it can be driven into the brain by a single blow, causing instant death. The society will kill all diseased or injured animals in this manner instead of shooting them, and will endeavor to have butchers do the same in slaughtering cattle.

New Steerage Rates.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A new steerage rate to points in Great Britain on the Cunard, White Star and American lines went into effect to-day. The former outgoing steerage rate was $10, it is now $15, and to Scandinavian ports it is $16.

A Humane Hanging Machine.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 3.—Gov. Morris and Lieut.-Gov. Cary visited the state prison yesterday and inspected the new hanging machine. Gov. Morris unhesitatingly approved the machine as humane, quick and certain in action.

CASERIO IS ON TRIAL

Carnot's Assassin Displays Remarkable Coolness on the Stand.

Recites the Killing of France's President in a Firm Voice—Has Never Felt Any Remorse Whatever for His Act—When Questions Were Repeated He Lost His Temper—Sorry He Could Not Have Killed the Man Who Captured Him After Striking the Fatal Blow.

LYONS, Aug. 3.—The trial of Santo Caserio for the murder of President Carnot began here yesterday. Caserio was transferred from the prison to the Palace of Justice under a strong escort of gendarmes. The court-room doors were opened early and the jurymen, witnesses, members of the press and other necessary or privileged persons quickly filled the small room to overflowing. As the judges took their seats upon the bench Caserio was ordered to be placed in the prisoners' dock. The assassin is a mild-faced, commonplace youth.

Judge Breuillac began his interrogation of the prisoner. Under the questioning of the judge, Caserio recapitulated his antecedents. His Christian name, he said, was Santo Geronimo. He was born in November, 1873, and his father was a ferryman. When questions were repeated to him he easily lost his temper, and it was necessary to translate the queries into Italian.

Coming to the question of the prisoner's responsibility, the judge said: "It is an important point whether you are responsible or not."

Caserio replied in a firm voice: "Yes; I am absolutely responsible."

Throughout the examination the prisoner defended himself against accusations of connection with anarchists with rare skill, inch by inch fighting the ground.

There was a profound sensation in the court room when Assistant Registrar Mathieu removed the covering from a dagger and handed it to the judge.

The weapon was still stained with the blood of the murdered president, and as the magistrate held it up a thrill of horror ran through the assemblage.

"Is this the one you brought from Cette?" asked the judge.

"Yes," replied the prisoner, without flinching.

Through the interpreter, De Genneval, Caserio minutely detailed his journey from Cette to Lyons, the jury following him attentively as he narrated his peregrinations in Lyons until he arrived outside the Credit Lyonnais. Here the prisoner, with brutal coolness, described his later movements as follows:

"When I saw M. Carnot's carriage arriving I unsheathed my dagger. I ran forward and planted the dagger, turned and withdrew, when I was struck down. M. Carnot looked me straight in the eyes."

Judge—"Did you not have some sensation of the enormity of your act when you saw the eyes of your victim fixed upon you? Hasn't remorseful memory troubled you since?"

Caserio—"No, I have felt nothing whatever."

Coming to the question of premeditation Caserio readily admitted that the anarchist was the enemy of all chiefs of state and also that the purchase of the dagger was a further indication of premeditation.

The Judge—"How long had you meditated the crime?"

Caserio—"You'll find that in the prosecution papers."

The judge then read a number of inflammatory statements attributed to Caserio, and said: "You declared that if you returned to Italy you would kill both the king and the pope."

Caserio—"That is impossible. The pope and the king are never together. Therefore I couldn't kill both."

He also denied that the crime was the result of a plot in which the assassin was designated by lot.

Gen. Voizin, the military governor of Lyons, who was in the carriage with President Carnot at the time of the murder, was next called. Gen. Voizin testified as follows:

"I was riding in the president's carriage. The streets were crowded with people. We had arrived before the Credit Lyonnaise building, when suddenly a man with paper held conspicuously in his hand approached the carriage. Instead of throwing the paper he continued to advance rapidly until he came right against M. Carnot and struck at him. I thought the man had miscalculated his aim, as the president did not speak or move. When a few seconds had elapsed, however, the president's face paled and we realized that he had been hurt. I stood up in the carriage and called upon the police and citizens to arrest the assassin. I then resumed my seat and ordered the carriage to be driven at once to the prefecture, meanwhile stanching the blood from the president's wound."

The bootmaker, Domergue, who caught Caserio as he was fleeing after striking the fatal blow, related the circumstances.

Caserio contradicted Domergue, saying: "You are not the first man who seized me; it was somebody else. You are claiming glory that you did not earn."

Incidentally Caserio expressed regret that he had thrown his dagger away, as, had he retained it, he would have stabbed Domergue or anyone else who attempted to stop him. At this Domergue, whose face had been almost crimson, turned white.

Marie Granger, Emile Bertillier and a barber named Reservant Gills, who were among the populace on the day of the assassination, testified to having beaten the criminal, and described their struggle with him.

M. Laynard, manager of the Commercial club, saw the tragedy from the opposite side of the street and so testified.

Detective Dubois, who was attached as a special officer to the person of M. Carnot, testified to having run after Caserio when the criminal fled and to having assisted in his arrest.

A short recess had been taken, during which M. Debreuil, the prisoner's counsel, was interviewed by a representative of the United Press. Even he expressed astonishment at the imperturbability of Caserio. He had believed him to be less stony in his nature; but since seeing him in court this morning he was bound to admit that he had displayed undoubted symptoms of insanity in his fixity of gaze and ideas. "I shall," he said, "make the most of his epileptic antecedents as evidenced in his father."

When the sitting was resumed Dr. Poncet, who attended the president after he was conveyed to the Prefecture, gave a lengthy description of the nature of M. Carnot's wound, an illustration of the operation performed upon the victim of Caserio, and a statement showing his heroic stoicism and his extreme gratitude to those who were endeavoring to aid him. From the first examination of the wound, he said, he was convinced that death therefrom was absolutely certain. During the examination Dr. Poncet and his elucidation of his diagnosis of the president's wound the prisoner sat with an expression of mute elation, drinking every word with the avidity of a student thirsting for knowledge.

At the conclusion of Dr. Poncet's testimony Caserio demanded writing materials.

Professor Ollier confirmed the diagnosis of Dr. Poncet. Each expert took occasion to puff the other and, as in the case of the other expert medical testimony offered, Caserio had nothing to object to.

Drs. Coutagne and La Cassagne, medical officers attached to the Lyons prefecture, who assisted in the postmortem examination, gave testimony similar to that of Dr. Poncet and Professor Ollier.

M. Vaux, the cutler, of Cette, from whom Caserio purchased the dagger he plunged into M. Carnot's body, testified to the best of his knowledge and belief that he sold the knife to the prisoner on the Friday evening before the assassination. Caserio maintains that he bought the knife on Saturday.

M. Viala, the baker, who was Caserio's employer in Cette, testified that the prisoner was industrious, but excessively quick tempered. He had left his employ on the Saturday before the crime, having quarrelled with him and his wife about some trivial matter. During this testimony Caserio listened attentively and smiled.

M. Fochier read an affidavit from Mme. Viala, wife of the preceding witness, which stated that Caserio was the centre of a group of anarchists in Cette. She related how Caserio had said that if he should ever mount the scaffold he would be more courageous than Henry.

Caserio interrupted at this point and said that was incorrect. "Henry," he said, "was courageous to the last. He couldn't have done better."

M. Crociocha, the police commissary at Cette, who was recently dismissed from his post for neglect of duty, testified that Caserio had been expelled from France. This testimony tended to discredit the theory that Caserio was a prominent anarchist in Cette. M. Boy, police commissary at Vienna, testified in a strain similar to that of M. Crociocha.

M. Pernel, police commissary at Lyons, testified that when Caserio passed through Lyons on an occasion previous to the assassination of M. Carnot he had attended an anarchist meeting.

The court adjourned until to-day.

CAUSED BY A TACK.

Two Firemen Killed and $70,000 Damage Done at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—A tack dropped in a picker machine caused a $70,000 fire last evening in the four-story mill at Randolph and Jefferson streets, occupied by Mr. Closkey and O'Hara, carpet cleaning works, and John A. Cronin & Co., yarn spinners, and two firemen were killed and seven injured by a falling floor. The firemen killed were George Geissell, hoseman, and George W. Dickell, truckman. The injured firemen were Joseph Burns, Martin Casey, William Cappint, John Kelly, William Lumpf, James McGarry and Samuel Cook, foreman. None of those injured will die, but they have all severe bruises and contusions.

Train Robbers Foiled.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—Train No. 3 on the San Francisco railroad, which left here at 8:30 p. m., was boarded when it reached Eureka Springs, Mo., at 10 o'clock by three men. They made an assault on the Pacific Express company's car. The messenger succeeded in closing the door, but got a pistol bullet through the fleshy part of the left hand. The train proceeded on its way and the robbers escaped in the darkness. The train carried a large amount of treasure.

Strikers' Sympathizer Convicted.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 3.—Robert Seidel, the Hamilton avenue saloonkeeper, who took an active part in the recent labor strike, has been found guilty of sending threatening letters to William Strange the silk manufacturer, and also to Jacob Weidman, president of the Weidman Silk Dyeing company. The jury was out about forty minutes.

GOOD MUSIC FROM ALL.

Local and Metropolitan Talent Appear for the Benefit of St. Peter's Church.

A concert for the benefit of the church was well attended in St. Peter's German Lutheran Church last evening. The programme, which included music by the talent of the church, and by local and out-of-town people who kindly gave their services, was an excellent one. The selections were of a high order, and were uniformly well rendered. The programme was as published in The Press of yesterday.

A feature of the evening was the music of the orchestra, which was composed of first violins, N. H. Guttman and M Korff; second violin, J. Conde; base, F. Conde; flute, F. Manchester; first clarionet, F. Cone, Jr.; second clarionet, J. Hewitt; first cornet, M. Sorensen; trombone, George Dunham; piano, G. Rogers.

Included in the evening's enjoyment were piano selections by Miss Lavinia French, played with much feeling and precision, and piano duets by Miss French and Miss Mabel Maxson. Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett sang a solo by Rubinstein, repeating her former successes. Charles Dresselt and George Richter sang a duet, and Oscar and George Smith, two pupils of Rev. E. Klonka, gave a creditable duet with violin and piano. J. VanEps rendered a fine zither solo, George Dunham a trombone solo, and M. Korff a violoncello solo. Well received were a piano solo by Miss Helene Sumtvatoff, who has gained in technique and feeling, and soprano solos by Mrs. Alonzo Millet, both of New York. Mrs. Millet is a pupil of Madame Fursch-Madi the dramatic singer, and has a high soprano voice of rare quality. She won the only encore of the evening.

MALLARD A DUCK.

He Used His Wings to Carry Away Comrades' Cash and Clothing.

Philip Mallard, also known as Philip Martel, left town yesterday afternoon. Gilbert Murray of Roberts's stables and Thomas Stevens of Blair's Metropolitan Stables are anxiously waiting for him to return.

Mallard is about 35 years old, and came, it is said, from Maine. Some time ago he worked as a stableman in the Metropolitan, and then went away. Two weeks ago he came back and secured employment in Roberts's stables. He is about the same size as Murray, and evidently concluded that Murray's clothes would fit him.

At any rate he went away by train, and about the same time an $18 coat and vest which Murray had left in a room in the rear of the stables went too. Murray discussed his loss with his friends, and found that just before he went Mallard borrowed $4 from Thomas Stevens. He said then that he wished to bring his wife from New York to Plainfield, and when he left he said he was going to the city to return with her.

The Crescent Avenue Excursion.

The weather first and the surf afterwards conspired to render the annual excursion of the Cresent Avenue Presbyterian Church, including Bethel Mission, and of the Church of Our Saviour, Netherwood, a day of real pleasure and enjoyment. There were seats in the cars for all, and the long trains went through without hitch, and almost without halting, arriving at the height of the bathing period. A good share of the excursionists plunged into the sea, which was at its best. Perhaps the jolliest event, rather series of events, was connected with the landing of about fifty people from a schooner at anchor, in whale boats. Few escaped without a drenching in salt water. The ladies were carried through the surf in the strong arms of the sailors. The return trip was made in less than two hours, all arriving safely home at dusk.

Saved From Injury.

When the second section of the excursion train approached the North Avenue station last evening, the engineer brought the cars almost to a stop, and then started up again slowly when he noticed that another train was coming in from the other direction. Mrs. Patrick Keeley of LaGrande avenue, who was returning from the beach, thought it was time to leave the train, and stepped off while it was moving. She slipped and was dragged a short distance, and would no doubt have been thrown under the wheels had not a brakeman dragged her from her dangerous position just as she was about to fall.

For Fires in the Borough.

It has been decided that the new system of fire alarms in the borough will call out the engine only for fires in distant parts of the community, where the hydrants are not handy. Both of the apparatuses will respond to calls from boxes 132, 134, 145, 153, 154 and 156. To others the hose alone will go out. The double six call will be an appeal for the Plainfield department. The time blows of three blows each, still alarm people who do not remember for the moment that the hour is told by three instead of a single blow.

Going-Across Going Up.

Mulford Estil's agency was notified this morning by the White Star Line that the steerage rate to Europe had been raised from $10 to $15.

—6 cents a lb. is mighty little for fish, yet that's all you have to pay for fresh blue or weak fish, at Rogers's special cash sale tomorrow. The price for spanish mackerel and halibut is 15 cents, and cod 10. No goods will be delivered at these prices.

BOLTS FROM THE SKY.

STRUCK THE CRESCENT TOWER.

Lightning Damages the Rink Building and Plays Pranks Beneath The Press Roof.

At 8 this morning during the thunder shower, lightning struck the tower of the Crescent Rink. A few boards were ripped off and one of the yellow pine posts which support the upper part of the tower was shattered.

The bolt entered at the top on the south side and threw strips of tin and pieces of mouldings down to the main roof. It then crossed by way of the tin roofing to the cornice beneath on the opposite side, and there tore away a post.

Thence the electricity passed to the wires on the tall pole nearby, and the current ran on the wires to the corner of North and Park avenues, where crackling blue blazes were liberated into The Press composing rooms on the top floor. Pieces of wood and tin fell to the sidewalk on Watchung avenue as the lightning struck the tower. It was thought by some today that a strong wind would be liable to blow the tower down, weakened as it was by the loss of one post.

BARN BURNED.

Electricity Breaks Loose in Fanwood With Sad Results.

Lightning struck a Fanwood barn at 7:30 this morning, and caused a fire which resulted in the loss of $3 500 worth of property.

The building was the property of Frank Herbst and stood near his house on the Fanwood side of Terrill road, near the Jackson school-house. Herbst was carting in Scotch Plains at the time, and his horses therefore escaped.

The barn began to burn fiercely after it was struck, and the neighbors who turned out were unable to save the barn and adjoining buildings. All were destroyed, but the flames were prevented from spreading to the house. The Scotch Plains fire department made a quick run to the fire and deserve much credit for their efforts, the blaze being at such a distance from headquarters.

The building was valued at $2,500. The contents, hay, oats and wheat, and a quantity of coal, were worth $1,000. The insurance on all was $1,300, placed through the agency of C. A. Smith & Co. of Fanwood. The barn was built years ago by Chief T. O. Doane and his father, just after they came from Plainfield to Brooklyn, and was still a very serviceable structure.

Telephones Troubled.

The lightning came in on telephone lines profusely, causing considerable trouble, and burning out several fuses.

EMPTY TREASURY, BUT NO DEBT.

Subscriptions Necessary for the Coming Winter's Work.

A monthly business meeting of the Reform Club was held last evening, the principal subject under consideration being the financial standing of the organization. H Newton Spencer presided, and Treasurer J. D. Spicer presented his report.

It was found that the club had an empty treasury, but was free from debt. In view of these circumstances, it was decided to dispense with the services of the janitor, George Rockafellow, until some other arrangement might be made. The Executive Committee agreed to look after the building during the month of August, making it ready for all meetings without cost to the club.

The raising of money to pay the future expenses was next discussed. The most important need is a new boiler. Last Winter it was thought that the old boiler might be repaired, but it was found that it was entirely burned out and was not worth the expense. The cost of a new one will be about $200. For this purpose $45 was subscribed by the members present last night. To complete the amount required, a committee was appointed, to consist of Chairman John King, William C. Smith and one other yet to be selected. They will start at once to solicit subscriptions.

Wants to Think It Over.

The contract case of Musician A G. Carpenter against Contractor Thomas Doud was tried in Justice Sperry's Court yesterday afternoon. Carpenter sued for $30 for services as music-teacher. He was represented by Attorney H O. Hance, and the defendant's counsel was Attorney George DeMeza. Justice Sperry reserved his decision for one week.

Booming Him for Mayor.

S. S. Bogart, formerly manager of the North Avenue Western Union Telegraph office, and brother of Joseph N. Bogart of East Second street, is prominently mentioned as candidate for mayor of Schraalenburgh, Bergen County, his present home. Other leading citizens are declining in his favor, and the indications are that he will be elected by a large majority.

Explained His Actions.

Although no formal complaint was made against Policeman Saunders for his mysterious conduct of Tuesday night, he presented himself before Mayor Gilbert yesterday afternoon and related his story. He told Mr. Gilbert that he was doing only what he believed to be his duty, and the Mayor talked with him and sent him away happy.

He's a Bowler.

The score of 240 which George Worth of the Park Club made on the Coleman House Alleys, Asbury Park, July 4, remains the high score of the season on the alleys.

CARNOT'S ASSASSIN TO DIE.

(Special to The Press.)

LYONS, Aug. 3.—The trial of Caserio Santo, the assassin of President Carnot, was concluded in the Assize Court here today, and the prisoner was sentenced to be executed by the guillotine.

HYMENEAL.

VanSciver—Godown.

At the home of the bride, 141 East Fifth street, last evening at 8, the marriage of Miss Mina Medora Godown to Abram Deacon VanSciver took place. The ceremony, which was a beautiful one, was performed by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

Immediately after the wedding husband and wife boarded the 8:53 train for New York, amid a shower of old shoes and rice.

The happy bride and groom received many handsome gifts.

Those who witnessed the ceremony were:

Mrs. C. F. Curran and daughters, the Misses Florence and Anna Curran, of Mauch Chunk; Mrs. W. W. Dilts of Trenton; Mrs. J. Shields of Flemington; Mrs. Judson Voorhees of Cranford; Mrs. A. Walker, mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Dickinson, Miss Marion Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Godown, Geo. Godown, Miss Seidentop.

Mr. and Mrs. VanSciver are expected to return to Plainfield Saturday.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. C. E. Herring is at The Howland, Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Thomas E Warman of Grove street is quite ill.

Miss Clara Hellwig is registered at the Hawthorne, Asbury Park.

Miss Anna Frazee of Grove street will spend August at the Nelson House, New Market.

J. Frank Hubbard of West Fifth street has gone to Lake Hopatcong to spend a few days.

Lewis M. Bird and family of Summit avenue left town this morning for a short outing on the shore.

Mrs. R. A. Meeker and son Bobbie of East Second street are at Asbury Park for a week or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smalley, Jr., who have been living in Ashville, N. C., have returned to Plainfield.

Frank Smith of Potter's leaves town tonight, accompanied by his sister, for a trip along the St. Lawrence.

Supt. McClurg of the Plainfield Electric Light Company will spend his 10-days vacation among the Thousand Islands.

Miss Mamie Pizie moved from Elizabethport yesterday and will live with her sister, Mrs. Dennis in North Plainfield.

George Worth of Grove street has returned from a visit with the family of Gen. Ell Long at his Summer home in Penn Yan.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Townsend of Somerset street leave Monday for Geneseo, Ill. Mr. Townsend expects to enter business there.

Mrs. J. E. Danielson, wife of Dr. J. E. Danielson of Brooklyn, and daughter Miss Lillian, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force of 82 Duer street.

Mrs. C. Frank French of Somerset street and Miss Jennie Abbott of West Front street returned home last evening after a pleasant week at Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Cadmus and daughter Helen are at the home of Mrs. Cadmus's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Cole, 78 Duer street, for the month of August.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth B. Vandenbergh will take place from her late residence, 225 East Fifth street, tomorrow morning at 11. Interment will be in Greenwood.

H. E Bider, able manager for A. D. Thompson, has been granted two-weeks leave of absence, the first in two years of close application, and goes with his wife to his old home in Utica.

T. E. Hazell and bride, who are on their wedding tour, have left the Catskill Mountains and are enjoying seashore life at Ocean Grove. They are pleasantly situated at Dr. Stark's Hotel, corner of Pitman and Beach avenues.

About 25 members and officers of the First Church of Christ Sunday-school passed a social evening last night at the home of B. W. Hand on West Front street. Refreshments were served, and a very pleasant time was enjoyed.

Rev. S. P. Simpson of Watchung avenue will spend next Sunday at Spring Lake, where he will be the guest of J. J H. Poilion, formerly of this city. Mr. Simpson expects to officiate in Holy Trinity Church, and Rev. Father Johnson of the Church of the Redeemer, New York, will hold the services in the Church of Our Saviour.

—Plainfield and Queen City lodges, I. O. O. F., will run an excursion to Asbury Park, Labor Day.

THE DISCOVERY OF A PROCESS OF ARTIFICIAL DIGESTION.

WHAT THE WRITER SAW.

Prominent People Express Themselves Freely Concerning It and Just What They Say is Made Public.

It is not often that science makes a discovery that demands special investigation on the part of newspapers. Once in a while it does, however, such as occurred in New York recently.

It has been stated positively that a process has been found whereby food, mixed with fruit acids, became digested before it had even entered the mouth. Certainly if this were true it would mark an era in the history of civilization, and the writer was delegated to thoroughly investigate and report upon the same.

The first call was made at the office of the company, which is now manufacturing the food in question, and I was permitted to inspect the process of manufacture. I found it exceedingly elaborate and scientific, and after inspecting it thoroughly I was shown the way in which it actually worked.

A piece of fresh meat was placed in an open dish and some of the pre-digested food mixed with it. Almost immediately there was a change in the color of the meat, next its fibers seem to separate and soon it became a liquid mass, the same as it does in the human stomach after being eaten. The effect, the change, the entire process, was most wonderful and speedy.

"This as you see, is a demonstration of what can be done," said the manager, "but we prefer that you ascertain just what this food accomplishes with people who use it. Here is a list of names, and you are at liberty to see them, and ascertain just what their opinions may be.

Armed with this list the writer began a tour of investigation, with the following results:

Sergeant Elias B. Dunn, chief of the Weather Bureau, was found in his office, looking exceedingly well. In response to my inquiry he said: "I have used the pre-digested food Paskola myself and in my family, and I must say that I have found it just what is claimed for it. In fact, I have been chanting the praises of it very steadily ever since I first began to use it. Why shouldn't I? It has built me up and made a new man of me. You see how fresh and rosy I am, and I intend to keep so."

Colonel John R. Fellows, the eloquent District Attorney of New York, in response to my question said: "If I am called upon to deliver an address or make a speech upon which much depends, I first look out for my stomach. When it is healthy my brain is clear, my thoughts are logical and it is a comparatively easy matter to clothe them in proper language. When I am not feeling well I take Paskola the pre-digested food, which sets the stomach right, clears the cobwebs from the brain and sets the machinery of thought and eloquence in motion. There is nothing like Paskola for such a purpose, and I believe it has won more cases before a jury than you would imagine."

Both Messrs. Howe and Hummel, the well-known lawyers, fully confirmed that I had already heard. Mr. Howe said:

"Look at me! Feel how firm my arm is! You can see I am in perfect health, and yet I was, not long ago, advised by my doctor to go away for my health; my present condition is the result of the use of Paskola. It is a labor-saving discovery—saves your stomach the labor of digesting food. Try it as I did, and grow fat and jolly."

His partner, Mr. Hummel, said:

"I have seen a number of people try Paskola whose stomachs were so weak that they could digest nothing else, but who were able to assimilate this pre-digested food without the slightest difficulty I have known an adult man wasted to a shadow by indigestion, who gained forty pounds in three months by its use."

Wherever I went the reports were the same, and I was forced to the inevitable conclusion that a great discovery had certainly been made for building up the system, increasing the strength and prolonging the life without any drain or strain upon the digestive organs, which has been the great bane of our American life. Certainly the results of the research prove so.

Anyone who desires further information upon the subject should send for a free pamphlet to the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade st., New York.

COMPROMISING WITH CREDITORS.

Contractors on the McNabb Building Partly Agree to Concessions.

E. E. Wright, the new owner of the unfinished McNabb building at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fifth street, is placing contracts for the completion of the work. The building is of brick, three stories high, with two stores on the ground floor, and a brick stable in the rear.

It was started by Builder Robert McNabb of the Rahway road. Mr. Wright bought the property with all of the building liens attached, and has now begun to settle with the holders of the liens, masons and workmen and material men. The claimants are represented by Lawyers William A. Coddington, George W. DeMeza, Craig A. Marsh and Charles A Reed. Mr. Wright's attorney is Winfield S. Angleman.

The claims are being settled with a reduction of ten per cent, and most of the creditors have accepted these terms. They feel that they can afford to lose the discount because the building was started in hard times when they had but little to do in their lines. Mr. Wright, who is a wealthy resident of Montclair, bought the property for an investment, and may follow it up by moving to this city. Extensive litigation may ensue before the affair is settled.

—The Liederkranz practised singing at the home of Fred Casper on East Front street last evening.

—The story of the robbery of Silas Whans by his hired man was told in The Daily Press Monday. The other local papers published it as news last night, three days after The Press.

—Suits on contract brought through Attorney George DeMeza that Justice Crosley will try next week are of A. G. Vogeler against James P. Streeter, and of Jules V. Bovey against Sarah C. Lewis.

—White of Plainfield is making an extra effort by offering greater inducements than ever to secure the business. The warm days we have had have created an unusual demand for thin dress fabrics and he says that no better assortment can be found in Plainfield, or out of it, than they are displaying. His ad. tells the story.

HEAVENLY REST.

Further Developments in the Parish Discussion.

As was exclusively told in The Press last night the attempt of Dr. Page, two of the trustees of the Church of Heavenly Rest and other members to have a parish formed was the cause of a spirited meeting Wednesday night.

The matter is the one subject for discussion in Evona. Five of the trustees oppose the other two who support the clergymen. The opposition brought the meeting about in order to have the matter settled, and it is claimed brought in the outsiders to vote. The canon is not very explicit on voting in a mission, the law having been made for England.

If a parish is finally formed, the communicants alone will have a voice, and it is then expected that the five trustees referred to will give place to a different faction in the elected bodies.

The matter starts from a misunderstanding of a letter from Dr. Page to a woman of the church who had opposed him, and who thought that the word "advertise" which he used in the clerical meaning of notifying her privately of exclusion from the church, meant a threat of public disgrace. The complications which have arisen will bring about new difficulties, it is feared.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Miss Emily Corlell will probably speak at the Christian Endeavor convention in Cleveland at the Christian Endeavor meeting in the First Baptist Church this evening.

The Best Chance Yet.

Extra features especially commend the excursion of Trinity Reformed Church to the seashore August 9. Besides being the last church excursion of the season, it affords longer opportunity for enjoying the Park pleasures, as the train does not leave for home till 7. The surf bathing at the Park is just beginning to be good. The water has been too cold, but is now reaching the proper temperature and will be just right for the Plainfield visitors Aug. 9. Go along.

Frisbie Gets Off.

On complaint of Dennis Murray ex-dog-catcher Frisbie appeared in Borough Magistrate Crosley's Court last night at 7:30, charged with assault and battery for striking Murray at the Arlington Hotel last Saturday evening. Murray did not come to prosecute, and the case was dismissed. Frisbie had his witnesses with him, and was confident of proving that he wasn't guilty.

The Outside Audience.

A crowd of 50, the greater part of them women, enjoyed the Lutheran concert from the lawn and sidewalk outside last evening. When part two began, the rain started. A few of them secured umbrellas, others went home, and the rest found shelter in the rear of the church.

Real-Estate Exchange.

A. D. Thompson has secured ownership of the valuable business property, 132 North avenue, formerly occupied downstairs by F. W. Dunn and owned by Mrs. Abner Bartlett. Property in Watchung Park was exchanged for it.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

115 West Front Street.
Millinery goods at cost—Every trimmed and untrimmed hat that we have will be disposed of at cost price. There is a line of ladies' cambric waists at 43c, made up in the same style and quality as any 50c waist sold. We have a small assortment of last season's styles of shirt waists, the best grades of satines and percales, which we will sell at less than factory prices. The best values in a 50c. and $1 summer corset can be obtained in our corset department. There is left a small quantity of the special line of gent's gauze underwear at 29c, value 40c. We have a line of ladies Swiss ribbed vests at 15c each, value 25c. The low prices we offer on men's and young men's straw hats has brought us a big trade in that department; splendid values for $1, 75c and 50c. A limited quantity of the 75c outing shirts for 50c; outing shirts from 25c to $3.

THE HEM OF THE TOWN.

GLEANINGS FROM PLAINFIELD'S SUBURBAN FIELDS.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Westcott are now keeping house on Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Scotch Plains are spending August at La Pierre, Ocean Grove.

Mrs. George Collins is entertaining her mother from Brooklyn at her home near the mountain.

The old Cottrell house on the mountain-side is being improved by the application of a coat of paint.

Mrs. Hascott and family, with her son from Plainfield, went to Boynton Beach on a pleasure trip Wednesday.

Mrs. Morse has returned to her home in Brooklyn after a short visit with her daughter, Mrs. William E. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stanbury and child and Mr. Stanbury's mother have gone to Seabright to spend a month.

The ball team will come out in new uniforms at the game tomorrow afternoon. The suit is gray, and the stockings are black.

Wilbur Miller, formerly a Press carrier, has a position on the Central Railroad as a locomotive wiper. He still sells Sunday papers.

A. A. Champion, the colored barber, has fixed up his shop very creditably with new fixtures. He sleeps in the rear every night.

Edward Dorward and George Vanderbilt went yesterday afternoon to Feltville, with an elaborate equipment for catching shiners.

The Hollingsworth fur mill has been shut down for repairs. The boiler is being bricked in, and other work is being done about the building.

Through the efforts of Pastor Braker, it has been arranged that a stage will run from Fanwood to the Baptist Church every Sunday morning.

The improvements being made on the old Osborne residence on Front street are about completed, and it is probable that the property will soon be rented.

Mr. Harrison of Brooklyn has hired the Rocca house on Crescent avenue, Fanwood, for the rest of the season, and is now residing there with his family.

Miss Andrews will return to her home in Lewisburg, Pa., tomorrow, after a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. S. Braker. Mrs. Braker will accompany her, to spend a month in Lewisburg.

A large crowd of young people of the Plains and Fanwood, together with friends from Plainfield, went in Jacob Kliner's stage to Chimney Rock yesterday, and enjoyed a pleasant picnic.

John H. Force of Bound Brook took possession of the old hotel on Front street formerly conducted by the late William J. Lowe, Wednesday. Improvements are in progress under the new management.

Dr. Coles has drained and cleaned the lake on his property on the mountain-side, and has begun to improve the appearance of its surroundings. The boys caught eels and fish by the wholesale when the water flowed away.

Gustav Kuehne has moved with his family from Elizabeth, and now occupies Peter Frazer's house on Bottle avenue, the rental having been made through Thomas Paff's agency. Mr. Kuehne is a tinsmith and plumber now in the employ of Robert Jahn.

The union excursion to Asbury Park of the churches of Westfield and vicinity was largely attended by people from the Plains and Fanwood, representing the Methodist, Baptist and Episcopal churches. Everybody went, and everyone had a pleasant time.

The same officers, President Westcott and Clerk Nicoll, are serving on the new board of school trustees, having been chosen at a meeting of the board the night of election. The result of the organization meeting was not given out to the general public at the time.

Rev. J. S. Braker, the pastor of the Baptist Church, is organizing a choral society. The first meeting of the proposed society will be held in the latter part of September. The minister is much interested in the project, is a fine singer himself, and has two others receiving names. The selection of a professional leader has not yet been considered.

A game of base-ball has been arranged for tomorrow afternoon at 3 on the new grounds on Westfield avenue, between the new Twilights and the "Crescents", Manager Howard Woolston, of Plainfield. George Johnson is pitching in fine shape, and the Scotch Plains players have hopes of treating the Plainfielders in the same way that they did the Garwoods last Saturday afternoon, when they defeated them in eight innings by the score of 26 to 5.

An outdoor service will be held on the grounds of the Baptist Church Sunday evening, and similar services will be continued throughout the remainder of the hot weather. A song and praise service will begin outside, and then adjournment will be made to the church, where Pastor Braker's lecture will be illustrated by the Messrs. Hall of Fanwood with the stereopticon, as was done at the service last Sunday night. The subject then was "The Prodigal Son". The next will touch on the life of Christ.

Mrs. Robert Reutch died at her home, corner of Midway avenue and Hunter, near the Netherwood station, yesterday forenoon. She was 33 years of age. The family came from New York to Fanwood four years ago. Mr. Reutch secured employment in the Scott Press Works. He gave up his job last Spring, and went to raising chickens at his home. He was not successful, and Mrs. Reutch sought work to support the family. She has been employed as a nurse, and was known as a careful, hard-working woman. She had never been very strong, and the work and anxiety made her unable to battle with disease. She first consulted a physician last Saturday. She had passed beyond a possibility of recovering. The children she leaves are two girls and a boy, the oldest aged nine, and the youngest, the son, aged two. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning, at 8:30 at house and 9:30 from St. Mary's Church, Plainfield.

Dunellen and New Market.

Bartley Kelley is improving from recent illness.

Miss May Gise called on Somerville friends yesterday.

Mr. Price of Newark called on Dunellen friends yesterday.

Miss Lillie Staats, who has been ill for a few days, is able to be out again.

Mr. Bambridge, the popular salesman from Newark, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. N. B. Snell and daughter Miss Lillie are enjoying a few days in Basking Ridge.

Sisters of Charity from Plainfield were in Dunellen yesterday on errands of mercy.

Miss Margaret Coriell of Plainfield was a welcome guest of Dunellen friends yesterday.

Mrs. John Kennedy and family, accompanied by Mrs. Stone, are visiting friends in Boston.

Fred Nelson purchased a team of horses from J. P. Homan in Plainfield yesterday.

Mrs. Howard Giles, who has been visiting her mother in Perth Amboy, has returned home.

Miss Brennan of Cranford spent yesterday afternoon and evening with the Misses Maier.

Henry Peters of New York and George Oreimann of Montclair are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Peters.

Miss Maude Giles of Port Richmond returned home yesterday after a visit with Mrs. Enoch Giles.

Mrs. Smith and family of Somerville are visiting Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Swackhamer.

M. Eganey, who has been a sufferer from a severe attack of malarial fever, is out again, and feels much better.

Arthur Giles has secured the contract for the tinning work on the houses being built by John Apgar and Firman Gise.

Mrs. Peters returned from New York Wednesday evening with her son Ernest, who was taken ill while in the city. He is very much improved.

Miss Alice Trenchard and Miss Maude Melvin, accompanied by Herbert Nelson and Charles Rogers, all of New Market, drove to Boynton Beach yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Cooley of Everittstown, Hunterdon County, formerly parishoners of Rev. W. C. Kinsey, spent yesterday very pleasantly with Mr. Kinsey.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church at their meeting Wednesday decided not to call in the blocks for their quilt yet, but allow the members more time. It is thought that about $50 will be realized therefrom.

Dr. M. J. Whitford says he apprehends no trouble in Dunellen's securing sufficient representation in the school district. The scheme of the borough withdrawing from the township seems to be favored by only a few.

The funeral of the late Stephen Doty was held this afternoon at 4 from the home of Mrs. Sutphen where he had lived several years. Interment was in Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield. A large delegation attended from Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., of which decedent was a member. Rev. A. I. Martine officiated.

The social given by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian Church in their chapel last evening was a great success, about 300 Endeavorers and their friends being present. Reports from delegates to the Cleveland Convention were the main feature of the evening. William Milliken presided, and after Rev. A. I. Martine offered prayer he gave an address of welcome, which made everyone feel at home. The hymn "Scatter Seeds of Kindness" was then sung by those present. Mr. Foster of Somerville was called on by the chairman for the report on "Decorations" which he gave in a very interesting manner, telling of this important feature of the late convention. A pleasing instrumental duet by Miss Irene Day and Miss Emma Nelson preceded the report of Horace Martin of Plainfield on "Music", which he gave very enthusiastically, enlisting the attention of all. A pretty vocal duet by Miss Maude Benton and Mr. Smith of Elizabeth was admired exceedingly. Miss Emily Corriel of Plainfield then reported on the subject "Christian Endeavor on Wheels", and told in an interesting manner of the time spent in travel, going and coming. Several incidents given were very touching. The audience then had the pleasure of hearing William Holmes of Plainfield, whose excellent singing is always enjoyed. One of the best reports was that of J. Slack of Raritan, which was enlivened with humorous incidents. The selection by the trio, Miss Maud Benton, Mr. Smith and Wm. Holmes, was much enjoyed, as was also the instrumental duet by the Misses Maltbie. At the conclusion of the above, all were introduced to the delegates, and a general social time was enjoyed. Ice-cream and cake were served. Spencer Smith rendered several selections on the piano, and Robert Carpenter pleased all with his banjo playing. This, with a number of vocal solos, concluded an evening of pleasure. In retiring, the delegates gave the New Jersey cry used at the convention. Wm. Milliken will give his report next Sunday evening, as time would not permit it last night.

The business meeting of the Dunellen C. E. Society of the First Presbyterian Church will be held next Thursday evening.

Westfield.

The remains of the two young men who were killed by the cars in Pittsburg Sunday night were buried yesterday in the Park Cemetery. The funeral of Arthur Clark was held in the morning at 10, at the home of his father, Addison Clark. In the afternoon at 2 services were held over the body of Harry Coutant at the residence of his aunt, Mrs. Schoonmaker. Pastors Dyer and Cadwell officiated. The mother of the young man, Mrs. W. W. Pettis of Astoria, L. I., fainted at the entrance to the cemetery, and last night it was feared that she might die. The father of the bride of Coutant, William Day of Scotch Plains, received the news of the accident from a telegraph opeaator in Pittsburg whose brother Mr. Day is acquainted with. The two young men were on their way west to get work on a ranch near Kansas City. They started Sunday, last week. How they were killed is not definitely known. They must have been struck by an express, and thrown aside, as the bodies were crushed and bruised, not cut as if a train had passed over them. The bodies were found by the track side by side, not a foot apart, by the day men when they went to work Monday morning. The way the bodies lay together, it is thought, shows that Coutant, whose remains were the less mangled, was not killed outright, but lived long enough to crawl to the side of his dead friend. Mrs. Coutant who was married July 6, is at the home of her father.

OVER THE MOUNTAIN.

A Dominie Jokes Over His Mishap —High Jump on a Mountaineer's Birthday.

Miss Brown of Brooklyn is a guest of Miss Nettie J. Beeching.

J. E. Townsend, owner of the Somerset street granite works, has erected a handsome monument in the New Providence Cemetery to Mr. and Mrs. John Tieley.

A birthday party was given to Stephen H. Beeching Saturday. A large number of Masonic brethren attended. A friendly athletic competition being suggested, Mr. Beeching stumped them all by leaping over a 4-rail fence.

Rev. Dr. Peter Gibbs of Millington was driving at the head of a funeral procession from Stirling, Saturday, when he heard Samuel Allen of Liberty Corner drive up behind. He turned out to the right side to let him pass, but Allen's rig was on the wrong side and struck the hind wheel of the Doctor's buggy, wrecking the wheel, breaking the buggy top, upsetting the vehicle, and throwing the dominie to the ground. Dr. Gibbs was cut on the head and received severe bruises. Allen apologized, and offered the use of his wagon. The dominie accepted the apology, but with his characteristic Scotch good humor he declined the ride, saying that Allen must be in a hurry and 't would be a pity to detain him. He was taken into one of the coaches, and officiated at the further obsequies.

READY FOR WORK.

The Great Thatcher Production Proceeding Merrily.

C. H. Beede, the popular advance of George Thatcher's Minstrels and Comedy company, arrived in the city yesterday morning ready to adorn the vacant boardings of Plainfield and vicinity with some striking specimens of lithographic beauty, descriptive of Thatcher's new production "About Gotham", the rehearsals of which, as before announced, will begin at Music Hall next Monday.

Mr. Beede states the outside show, however, will not display one-hundreth part of the many glories of the production, for it is an impossibility to reproduce on paper the elegance of the many costumes now being made in New York, the beauty of the special scenery, or the graceful charms of the ten handsome women of the cast, whom he declares quite surpass in loveliness any similar number ever gathered together in one organization.

Then we are all aware of George Thatcher's elegant personal appearance, and his vis-a-vis, and co-worker, Carroll Johnson, has been an acknowledged living picture for years. Taken altogether, elegance and dash will be the prime concomitants of this new production which will make its first bid for popular favor in Music Hall Thursday evening, Aug.

On the Wings of the Dove.

Every lover of romance and song is familiar with the plaintive beauty of "Speed Away", the sentiment of which was brought home to Plainfielders Wednesday at the funeral of Frederick P. Westphal. Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men had charge of the service at the grave, and the Indian custom was fulfilled of releasing a dove to accompany the spirit to the happy hunting-grounds.

Previous to the burial, services were held by Rev. T. Logan Murphy in the Church of the Holy Cross. Joseph Neiman, Edward Wolf, James Cashen, George Richter, R. B. York, and William Kelvey, were the pall-bearers.

Change of Management.

Mrs. Julia A., widow of James H. Force, has transferred to J. Erwin Hillpot the Mansion House in Bound Brook. For a week or more she will assist her son John in his new venture in Scotch Plains, and will then take an earned rest in New York State, returning to Plainfield later.

The Operation Unsuccessful.

The many friends in Plainfield of Moses W. Mulford of Roselle sympathize with him in the death of his twelve-year-old son, Roy, who died Wednesday from appendicitis after an operation had been performed last Friday.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost marvellous cures are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

CRESCENT PRIZES.

THE LIST NOW FIRST PUBLISHED.

Various Notes of Special Interest to Velocimen.

No entry fee will be charged at the matinee races of the Crescents, and entries will be received on the ground up to the time of starting each race.

Secretary Clarence Teel and Racer Monte Scott left on the 8:44 train this morning for Philadelphia, where Scott will race tomorrow at the meet of the Tioga Cricket Club on the Westmoreland three-lap track. Scott tries the track in practice this afternoon.

Aaron V. Kline of the Crescents has returned from his commercial trip, and for the next month will take an active interest in the doings of the wheelmen. His special work will be in the advertising department, keeping the cycling world and the local enthusiasts posted on the accomplishments of the Crescents.

Charles Brown, the pet of the Elizabeth Athletic Cyclers, has announced that he has given up racing for this season. Although he is not ill, as has been rumored, his doctor advises him to prevent an attack of heart trouble by leaving the track for the present. He has started in 17 races this year, and in 16 of them has secured prizes.

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Governors of the Crescents held in the club-house last evening, Henry B. Scott, brother of Monte Scott, was elected a member of the club, another Spalding rider thus being added to the list. Aaron V. Kline, W. H. Rogers and Charles Dunham were appointed a committee to arrange the matinee races.

A feature of the race meet of the Crescents to be held Saturday, August 18, will be a two-mile lap race. It will be the first lap race run on the new track. It is one of the most interesting of races. The riders are scored each time they cross the tape. The first man each time except the last is given three points, the second two, and the third one. On the last lap the first man gets four, the second two, and the third one. This scheme provides for a sprint at the finish of each lap, the man who scores the greatest number of points being declared the winner, and the others following in their order as they have secured points.

The following prizes have been arranged for the meet on the Crescent track Saturday afternoon, Aug. 18:

Vacations for the Others.

Assistant Marshal Lines will leave tomorrow night for a vacation, returning next Thursday evening. Constable J. W. VanHorn will probably take his place at night duty during his five days of recreation.

Marshal Wilson will probably have his vacation about the middle of the month. It is supposed that he will take the little black dog that goes the rounds at night along with him on pleasure trip. The dog, called at random by any of the names, "Stumpy", "Nigger" or "Watch", met the marshal nearly nine months ago, and since that time has not failed to follow him on his beat for a single night. He is being trained to seize the clothing of anyone whom his master tells him to catch.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 176 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

NATIONAL LAWMAKING

Senator Chandler Makes a Sarcastic Speech.

Wants the History of the Dominion Coal Company Investigated—Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill Passed. Mr. Peffer Offers a Bill Prepared by the 'Wealers Now at the Capital.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Senator Chandler (rep., N. H.) occupied an hour and a half in a statement of the reasons why he had offered and why the senate should adopt his resolution for an investigation of the history of the Dominion Coal company of Nova Scotia, in connection with assurances that the tariff duty of 75 cents a ton on coal would be removed by congress. He quoted from the prospectus of the company to show that that was the principle inducement to help out the sale of its stocks and bonds, which consisted, he said, of $15,000,000 common stock (of which $12,500,000 was water) $3,000,000 of prefred stock and $3,000,000 of bonds, one-half of which preferred stock and bonds was to be retained in the treasury of the company for corruption purposes, Mr. Chandler intimated. He gave the names of Mr. Whitney, of Boston; Mr. Frank Jones, of New Hampshire, and Mr. John E. Russell, of Massachusetts, as officers or representatives of the company, and spoke of the latter gentleman as one of the president's inn-kitchen cabinet advisers, who had been consulted as to the famous Wilson letter, and who had been loud in his declarations, about the hotels and in the railroad cars, that the president would insist on free coal. He thought that such a statement of facts not only justified, but required, the proposition for an investigation. There were a few interruptions to Mr. Chandler's speech, but there was no reply made to it, and Senator Hill moved to lay the motion on the table. That motion was rejected—Yeas, 16; nays, 30. The resolution then went to the calendar, and can only be brought before the senate again on a motion and by a majority vote.

The sundry civil appropriation bill was then taken up, and was, after many amendments, passed, leaving the general deficiency bill as the only appropriation on which the senate has yet to act.

The populist senator from Kansas was the sponsor for a bill conceived and prepared by the representatives of "the United States Industrial army," now encamped near Washington, or on its march to the capital, under the terms of which the secretary of war is to inaugurate a system of public improvements that will furnish employment to all United States citizens who may apply for it at the minimum wages of $2 a day, and the secretary of the treasury is to provide a fund for their payment by the issue of $250,000,000 in treasury notes.

A bill for the exclusion of anarchists was reported from the committee on immigration and was placed on the calendar. The senate at 5:50 adjourned.

House of Representatives.

A spirit of indolence manifested itself in the house to-day, the result of combined hot weather and lack of necessity to do to do anything, and at 3 o'clock adjournment was effected without anything of importance having been accomplished.

The most interesting incident of the session was the attack of Mr. Grosvenor (rep., O.) upon the conditions in the army, the existence of which made possible the recent conviction of Private Cedarquist, in the department of the Platte, who refused to obey an order to engage in target practice on Sunday.

In the course of Mr. Grosvenor's statement it was developed that President Cleveland had taken hold of the matter, ordered Cedarquist's release, and that the fine against him be remitted, and that the officer who issued the order for Sunday target practice be himself arrested and tried for disobedience of President Lincoln's order of November, 1864, which has been the law of the army ever since.

The conference reports on the Indian and District of Columbia appropriation bills were agreed to, and Mr. Moore (dem.) was seated in place of Mr. Funston (rep.) from the Second district of Kansas. An hour was spent in an unavailing effort to pass a bill providing for the establishment of a school on the naval reservation at Pensacola, Fla., and then the house adjourned.

DANGEROUS COUNTERFEIT.

A $10 Note Difficult To Detect From the Genuine Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The most dangerous counterfeit of United States money discovered for years is announced from the treasury department. Because it is so difficult of detection from the genuine note, the counterfeit is described in minute detail by the secret service in order to put the public upon its guard. The counterfeit is of the $10 legal tender note, series of 1880, check letter B, face plate number 2250, back plate number 2224, signed by W. S. Rosecrans, register; James W. Hyatt, treasurer, and bearing a portrait of Webster and a large round seal.

Amateur Shooting Record Broken.

RIVERTON, N. J., Aug. 3.—The sixth match shoot for the Riverton challenge plate was contested here on the grounds of the Riverton Gun club, between A. Welch, the holder, and James Wolstoncroft, both of the Riverton club. The conditions of the match were 100 birds each, 30 yards rise, 50 yards boundary. Welch finally won by the score of 98 to 89, breaking the world's competive amateur record.

Cannot Hold Two Offices.

ALBANY, Aug. 3.—In response of Henry E. Fuller, of Syracuse, Attorney-General Hancock has written an opinion holding that a supervisor may become a candidate for county treasurer, but cannot hold the two offices. He also holds that a county treasurer cannot be elected to the office of supervisor.

Want Olney Impeached.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Mr. Keifer, of Minnesota, presented to the house a resolution signed by 105 citizens of St. Paul, Minn., praying for the impeachment of Attorney-General Olney for his connection with the late A. R. U. strike.

New Cases of Cholera.

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 3.—There were six fresh cases of cholera and five deaths in Maastricht yesterday. The totals for the Netherlands were 26 cases and 13 deaths.

Bennett's Nomination Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The senate has confirmed the nomination of James L. Bennett, to be United States attorney for the eastern district of New York.

MRS. SARAH M. KYKER.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—My wife was afflicted with asthma for twenty years; as she grew older she grew worse. Her case was treated by three eminent doctors, but all failed; they told me there was no cure for it. Discouraged as I was, I resolved to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; she used five bottles and two vials of your "Pleasant Pellets," which has made a permanent cure. She has gained twenty pounds in weight since the cure was effected. D. B. KYKER.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

WILL BE DECAPITATED

The Murderer of President Carnot Sentenced To Death.

Caserio Smiled When He Heard the Verdict—Exciting Scenes in the Court Room During the Trial—Said He Was Not Chosen To Kill Carnot—Found Guilty Without Extenuating Circumstances—Counsel Will Appeal.

LYONS, Aug. 4.—At the conclusion of the trial of Santo Caserio, the murderer of President Carnot, in the assize court here yesterday, the prisoner was sentenced to be executed by the guillotine.

The prisoner was defiant and took his seat with a mocking smile upon his face.

Leblanc, the soldier who was a fellow prisoner with Caserio at Marseilles, testified that Caserio told him he intended to kill President Carnot, probably at Lyons, when the chief magistrate visited that city.

"That is a lie," interrupted Caserio, excitedly. "I never told you or any one else anything about my plans."

Leblanc continued: "Caserio confided to me that he was designated by lot."

"That is untrue," shrieked Caserio.

"How untrue?" asked the soldier, turning to the prisoner. "I said to you, after you had made that remark: 'But who would be so bold as to kill President Carnot? I saw him in Paris surrounded by troops and police.' You answered: 'He will be chosen by lot.'"

There was great excitement in court while the prisoner and Leblanc were speaking to each other.

Later Leblanc said: "Caserio told me that he had often seen King Humbert in the streets, but he added that to kill him it would be necessary to have a rifle and shoot him from the street, as he would be so surrounded by soldiers."

"That is a lie," shouted Caserio. "I was never chosen to kill President Carnot. Moreover, absolute liberty of action prevails among anarchists."

The prosecuting attorney reviewed at length all the details of the trial, and demanded that the jury should not hesitate to do its duty. M. Dubreuil, counsel for the defence, followed, and made an appeal for the prisoner.

The jury then retired, and after an absence of about a quarter of an hour, during which there was considerable excitement in court, returned and announced a verdict of guilty, without extenuating circumstances.

The presiding judge, M. Breuillac, then pronounced the sentence of death by the guillotine.

When the death sentence was uttered Caserio shouted: "Vive la revolution sociale!"

The prisoner was immediately seized by the gendarmes and hurried towards the cell beneath the courthouse. As he left the courtroom he cried: "Courage, comarades! Vive l'anarchie!"

In spite of the prisoner's defiant attitude his habitual smile disappeared from his face when the sentence of death was pronounced.

M. Dubreuil, the prisoner's counsel, gave notice of appeal, and in so doing asked that the presiding judge's charge to the jury at the opening of the session be entered on the reports.

IMPALED BY HIS EYE.

Remarkable Nerve Displayed by a 16-Year-Old Boy.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 4.—An accident in which remarkable nerve and presence of mind were displayed, occurred on the farm of Mark Supplee, near Marion station. His son Frank, aged 16 years, was standing on a box feeding cows. In making a spring to jump from his perch, his head struck an iron hook used for holding the lantern. The sharp point of the hook passed under his right eyelid and came out above the eyebrow, suspending him from the ground. The entire weight of the boy's body was placed on the impaled eye, making his position an extremely painful one. With rare presence of mind he caught a beam above his head, and, raising his body upwards, gradually worked the hook from his forehead.

WANT $10,000 EACH.

A Kansas Sheriff Sued by American Railway Union Men.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 4.—The officers of the local lodge of the American Railway union have employed two prominent attorneys to institute damage suits against Sheriff Budge of this county for illegally imprisoning men brought to Topeka for the alleged violation of orders of the federal courts during the recent strike. The suits will be for $10,000 for each of the men. It is charged that each of them were confined for a number of days without being regularly committed, and that they were finally released without trial, their imprisonment having accomplished the object for which they were detained.

ARSENIC IN STONE BOTTLES.

Manufacturers of Wild Cherry Beer Requested To Use Glass.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 4.—The coroner's jury selected to inquire into the circumstances of the death of the two Baker children, who were poisoned a week ago by drinking wild cherry beer, rendered a verdict that the death of the children was caused by arsenic acid and requested the manufacturers of the beverage to use glass instead of stone bottles. The chemists employed by the coroner reported that he found arsenic enough in the remainder of the cherry beer contained in the bottle to kill a number of persons.

Rebels Reported to be Flying.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Brazilian legation here has received a flat denial of the report sent from Buenos Ayres that 3,000 insurgents were marching against Porto Alegra, Rio Grande do Sul. On the contrary, the officers of the legation declare the insurgents are fleeing and are being pursued by federal troops.

Large Boot and Shoe Failure.

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 4.—John E. Drake & Co., manufacturers of boots and shoes, failed and assigned yesterday to Timothy Reed and Henry Rodgers. Mr. Drake is an old manufacturer in the town and has done a business of about $400,000 a year.

Fresh Cases of Cholera.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 4.—There were six fresh cases of cholera and one death in Naastricht, one case in Amsterdam, and one in Dordrecht.

FOUGHT FOR HOURS

Chinese Routed in a Battle at Shan Yeng.

Driven From Their Positions by the Japanese, Who Capture Many Prisoners and Munitions of War—Li Hung Chang, Viceroy of China, Divested of His High Authority.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—A cablegram was received at the Japanese legation last evening, shortly after 6 o'clock, saying that on the 29th ultimo a portion of the Japanese troops stationed at Seoul made an advance upon the Chinese position at Shan Yeng, which contained a larger number of soldiers than in the Japanese body, and after a fight which lasted several hours the Chinese were routed and driven from their stronghold. Many prisoners and munitions of war were captured, and, after the victory, on the morning of the 30th, the Japanese troops proceeded to march to Gasan.

The legation has not yet received any news of a fight at the latter place, and believes, in view of what has been received about the battle at Shan Yeng, that the reports of the Chinese victory at Ashun or Yashan have been confused with a battle which took place at Gasan.

The legation officers here say that the Chinese would have to go the same distance as the Japanese to telegraph the result of such a battle, and they wish to again deny that a victory has been achieved by the former, as news of it would have been received here.

The legation received a detailed dispatch from Japan confirming the accounts of the United Press of the sinking of the British transport Kow Saing, and reiterating the assertion that the fight was begun by the firing of a torpedo from the Chinese warship Chinued upon the Japanese cruiser Naniwa Kan.

A cablegram received at the Chinese legation here from the home government confirms the recent repulse of the Japanese by the Chinese at Ashan. The message is very short and simply gives the result of the battle and an estimated loss to the Japanese of 2,000 persons.

There is every reason to believe that the state department is keeping a closer watch upon the developments of the Japanese-Chinese war and is possessed of much more information as to the inside diplomatic phases of the struggle than any authorized public statements heretofore made would imply.

There has been no relation in the efforts of all the great powers through concerted action to bring the Chinese and Japanese governments to accepts the voluntary proposal of the United States to arbitrate the Korean dispute.

The assertion is made at the state department that never in the history of diplomacy have such efforts been put forth to settle an international difficulty as have been made in the present instance.

The feeling of the belligerents toward the United States, as shown by both countries placing their legations and affairs in the hands of American representatives at Peking and Tokio, is taken as indicating perfect confidence in the impartiality of the United States and auguring well for the probability of submitting all differences to the United States for adjustment.

LI HUNG CHANG DEGRADED.

Divested of the Order of the Yellow Jacket by the Emperor.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4.—The action of the emperor in divesting Viceroy Li Hung Chang of the order of the Yellow Jacket has fallen like a thunderbolt here, as it is feared that the incident will lead to his complete overthrow. He is regarded here as the only leader capable of coping with Japan in the inevitable long war. A crisis is regarded as imminent.

The emperor has been influenced in his action by members of his family hostile to the viceroy's pro-European policy.

It is expected that Sir Robert Hart, the British representative, will assert his authority and support Li Hung Chang.

The soldiers beheaded at Tien-Sain for desertion pleaded in extenuation of their offense hunger and exhaustion. Before they were executed they were stripped of their uniforms and their pigtails cut off. The example has terrified the army.

An edict has gone forth that the army will receive double pay henceforth, during the war with Japan, and a large bonus has been offered to officers competent to navigate the Chinese naval vessels and transports.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—In a leader on the degradation of Li Hung Chang, the Standard says.

"The true explanation of Li Hung Chang's apparent disgrace is that it is an established Chinese mode of inciting to renewed efforts. The rebuke merely signifies that the war is to be prosecuted in earnest and the viceroy will be held primarily responsible for the issue. Probably we soon shall hear that Li Hung Chang has submitted with contrition and has devoted himself with increased energy to his task."

Scored a "Beat."

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—A new paper appeared in New York yesterday, and it scored a "beat" on its contemporaries in its first issue. It does not, however, pretend to be a rival of the other journals. It bears a formidable-looking title, which, being translated, reads, "The Chinese News." Its editor, Yung Kwai, and the publishers, W. J. Hanley and Steve Lingard, say that it is the only paper in the world published entirely in the Chinese language.

Drank Two Ounces of Aconite.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 4.—Henry Claflin drank two ounces of aconite yesterday and died three hours later at the hospital. Claflin was formerly a well known auctioneer. He had been engaged for the past few days in a drug store and there he drank the aconite. He had been despondent.

Herz Sentenced in His Absence.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Dr. Cornelius Herz, the Panama lobbyist, though absent from Paris, was sentenced in his absence to a term of five years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of 8,000 francs.

Dr. J. B. Andrews' Dead.

BUFFALO, Aug. 4.—Dr. Judson B. Andrews, superintendent of the Buffalo state hospital for the insane, died last evening as a result of a gradual decline in health extending over a period of two years.

Gold in the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Further engagements of gold—$400,000 for Canada and $100,000 for export to Europe—at the New York sub-treasury reduces the treasury gold reserve to $52,139,000.

NEGLIGENT ENGINEERS.

Reprimanded for the Accident to the Montgomery.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Secretary Herbert has decided that the repairs to the Montgomery shall be made at the expense of the government, and at the Norfolk navy yard. Upon investigation he has determined that the accident which demolished the high pressure cylinder of the Montgomery on her recent trial trip was not due to any fault of her builders, as the vessel had been in government hands for six months. When the trial was about half completed a nut on the connecting rod worked loose and led to the breaking of the cylinder. A naval board which looked into the matter report that in their judgment the builders were responsible. The secretary has reversed this finding and written sharp letters of reprimand to the engineers of the vessel, whom he held to be contributorily negligent. The secretary's action is generally approved by naval officers.

COL. WATROUS ANGRY.

Rebukes Kearney Post, G. A. R., of Richmond, Va.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 4.—Department Commander Watrous, of the G. A. R., has written a stinging letter in reply to the action of Kearney post, G. A. R., of Richmond, Va., in denouncing him as "the shameful author of brazen falsehoods, who, in violation of all sense of honor among comrades, has ignored the truths set forth in their reply and persists in repeating the flagrant falsehoods."

The Richmond post's action is the result of charges of the misappropriation of funds that were sent to the post for decorating the graves of federal soldiers.

Col. Watrous says that he wants to have the matter taken before the national encampment for investigation.

COXEYITES CLUBBED.

Refused To Leave Osceola, Ark., When Ordered.

OSCEOLA, Ark., Aug. 4.—A party of Coxeyites arrived here on a flatboat and Col. Schoefer, the commander, asked permission of Mayor Borum to march his men through the streets and make a speech, which he refused. Col. Schoefer and his men went to the north end of the town, but refused to go further. The mayor, marshal and sheriff went to them asking them to leave peaceably, but the men resisted. Then mayor Borum sent for help and about 30 men responded. Col. Schoefer and his followers, numbering 15 or 18 men, were ordered to their boats and forced to embark. Some of the men were struck with clubs and revolvers, but none were seriously hurt.

EMANCIPATION OF WOMEN.

Labor Commissioner Wright Gives His Views at Chautauqua.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Hon. Carroll D. Wright, labor commissioner at Washington, lectured here upon the industrial emancipation of woman. He believes that with her full development in the intellectual and industrial line will come her ultimate political emancipation. Colonel Wright compared and contrasted women's early and present condition, and of course regarded her present as far superior to her past condition. He thought the words in Genesis in relation to women being under bondage to men were inspired rather by the devil than the deity.

STRIKERS RETURNING.

Over 500 at Work in the Pullman Repair Shops.

PULLMAN, Ill., Aug. 4.—When the steam whistle blew at the works this morning for workmen to begin their day's labor 500 men, a majority of whom were formerly strikers, reported for duty in the repair department. Forty more had applied for their old places before the noon whistle blew. The total number of men at work in this department at the time of the strike was 600. Supt. Middleton expects the full working force in the department Monday.

Baseball Player's Skull Fractured.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 4.—During the progress of the Allentown-Lancaster game yesterday, James Toman, the short stop of the Lancaster club, was struck on the head with a pitched ball in the second inning by Kilroy, and knocked insensible. An examination showed that his skull was fractured and his condition is very critical and he is not expected to live.

Want More Money.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 4.—It has been determined by the commission having charge of the soldiers' orphans schools to ask the legislature for a further appropriation to complete the state industrial school at Scotland, Franklin county. The building committee is directed to spend the remainder of the original appropriation on permanent improvements.

Valkyrie Sold.

GREENOCK, Aug. 4.—Lord Dunraven's yacht Valkyrie was sold at auction, as she stood in her dock yesterday. She was sold for £650. Her boats and sails were sold separately, and fetched low prices.

NATIONAL LEGISLATION.

Last of the Appropriation Bills Passed by the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The last of the appropriation bills—the general deficiency—passed the senate and will now go to the conference, in which the disagreeing votes of the two houses will be reconciled and adjusted. Seven out of the fourteen appropriation bills have become laws through the signature of the president. These are:

Fortifications, pension, military academy, naval academy, postoffice, diplomatic, and legislative. Of the other seven, some are in the president's hands awaiting his approval, and the rest are in conference.

The house bill to subject national bank notes and United States treasury notes to state taxation was allowed to be taken up in the senate on the assurance by Mr. George (dem., Miss.), who had reported it from the judiciary commitee, that it would not occupy more than fifteen minutes. After twice that length of time had been spent upon it, attention was called by Mr. Hale (rep., Me.) to the fact that the silver-tongued populist senator from Nevada, Mr. Stewart, was about to make a speech upon it, and probably to offer his free coinage bill as an amendment to it, and Mr. Hale remarked that the bill could not be disposed of in fifteen hours or in fifteen days. Mr. Stewart laughingly admitted the correctness of Mr. Hale's guess, and the effort to pass the bill was given up for the day—the deficiency bill taking its place and going through to its final passage about 6:20 p. m.

House of Representatives.

The house was in session five hours and the net result was the passage of a bill directing the payment of $10,000 to Representative Heard, of Missouri, for legal services to the old settlers or western Cherokee Indians out of their funds in the treasury, and of a bill providing for the payment of about $40,000 of 5 per cent. District of Columbia greenback certificates.

The conference report on the river and harbor bill was agreed to and a conference was ordered on the sundry civil appropriation bill, also upon the bill regulating the printing and publication of public documents.

Mr. Blair (rep., N. H.) introduced a joint resolution directing an investigation by the department of labor into the lynchings of the past ten years, the cause thereof, etc., which was referred to the committee on labor.

A MATRIMONAL CHAMPION.

An Indiana Woman Who Has Been Eleven Times a Bride.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Dr. Spencer, of Bourbon, has just been joined in wedlock to her eleventh husband. She is but 44 years of age.

The career of Mrs. Spencer is believed to be one of the most remarkable on record, and her penchant for making a collection is only equaled by her ability to anul marriage contracts.

Mrs. Spencer was a bride when a girl of fifteen summers, and her first venture continued over the longest period of time, ten years elapsing before the marriage was demonstrated to be a complete failure. The second and third husbands were deserted.

The fourth husband was wedded as the sequel of a romance. A convict in the Joliet prison won her good graces, and a pardon which was granted by a sympathetic governor had a matrimonial ending. He died, and the season of mourning was followed in quick succession by the choice of a fifth and sixth husband from among a legion of suitors.

A charge of bigamy was disproved in connection with the marriage of the seventh husband, who proved recreant to the vows of constancy.

The eighth husband was secured through the medium of a matrimonial paper. His life had a tragice ending, and at the age of 36 years Mrs. S. H. Brown concluded negotiations with No. 9, with whom she lived two years, and to this union the first child was born. The next alliance, with a Dr. Spencer, a venerable physician, was terminated by his sudden death.

The courts of the state fail to record a parallel with Mrs. Spencer's matrimonial life.

THE VIGILANT'S RATING.

No Certainty That She Has Won More Than One Prize.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Standard discusses at length the performances of the Vigilant on this side. The writer thinks that her defeats may be due largely to the facts that the conditions in general are less suited to her, that the air is much damper, and that she has been deprived of shifting ballast.

"It is remarkable," says the writer, "that Vigilant has sailed thirteen times without being measured, and, if reports be true, ballast has been put in and out contrary to rule 25 of the Y. R. A. Owing to the fact that her rating is unknown, there is no certainty that she has won a prize from Britannia except at Bangor, when Britannia had an accident. This is satisfactory neither to Britannia or Vigilant. Very probable there is good reason for Vigilant's not having her waterline marked and not having a certificate of rating. Our protest, however, is not against her individually, but, generally and on principle, against the laxity in enforcing the rules."

ARRESTED FOR RIOTING.

Twelve Prominent Citizens of Darlington, S. C., Give Bonds.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 4.—The state caused the arrest of twelve prominent citizens of Darlington for participating in the whiskey riot there last spring. The arrests were made by State Detective Newbold. Chas. McCullough, L. A. Normont, K. D. Lucas and Henry Appelli are charged with the murder of Constable Pepper.

C. S. Nettles, Dr. J. Wilcox, W. Byrd, S. H. Wilds, C. S. McCullough, McIver Williamson, L. M. Normont and J. H. Edmunds were arrested for shooting into a train in which the constables were. They all gave bonds, and the preliminary hearing will take place on the 14th inst. The attorney-general says the cases will be pushed to the end.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

Improvement Reported at Various Cities.

General Trade at San Francisco Better Owing To War in Asia—Slight Increase in Demand at Pittsburg and Baltimore—Southern Cities Report Fair Prospects.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Bradstreet's weekly report of the state of trade says that while little significance is attached to the moderate improvement in trade in San Francisco, Pittsburg, Baltimore, Augusta and Atlanta, when it is added that clearing-house totals for July report twenty-nine cities with larger aggregates than in July last year, contrasted with the June report, which contained only eighteen cities with aggregates larger than those in June a year ago, it is perceived that there are influences at work at the interior favoring an increase in the volume of business.

Wool remains steady at last week's 1c. advance, speculation having been stimulated by difference of opinion as to the tariff outlook for that staple. Wheat has advanced, in sympathy with corn, on increased orders and reports of crop damage from abroad, while corn's sharp advance is due partly to exaggerated notions of damage from drouth. There is little likelihood of the corn crop being smaller than in either of the two preceding years, notwithstanding our advices of 25 per cent. damage in Kansas and 40 per cent. in Nebraska. Southern crop prospects generally are excellent.

The improvement announced in general trade at San Francisco is in part based on interest manifested in the war in Asia, provision dealers particularly anticipating largely increased sales. War between China and Japan has not affected the price of tea as yet, although an increased demand is noted at New York, Boston and Chicago. Cable advices say that the crops of tea are likely to equal those of last year. Teas are low now, and stocks here moderate. If tea ports should close, high prices would follow quickly. China exports but little rice, and Japan's export season is passed, while we are entering upon a new crop. Prices of rice would be sharply affected should the war continue another season. They may be moderately enhanced in any event.

Wheat exports, United States and Canada, both coasts, six days ending with August 3, amount to 2,977,000 bushels, against 3,388,000 bushels last week, as compared with 5,622,000 bushels in the week one year ago, 3,978,000 bushels two years ago, 4,080,000 bushels three years ago, and with 2,166,000 bushels four years ago.

There are 220 business failures in the United States this week against 237 last week, and as compared with 459 in the corresponding week a year ago, which will be recalled was a period of extreme unrest in business circles. In the like week in 1892 the total was 145 and in 1891 it was 218.

Boston reports all lines of staple merchandise very quiet, cottons selling at concessions. Added interest in wool has characterized the Philadelphia as well as the Boston markets. Slight increases in the demand in nearly all leading lines are reported from Pittsburg, and at Baltimore jobbers in dry goods, notions, hats, and shoes report business more encouraging. Providence jewelry manufacturers report orders very small and the outlook unpromising.

Advices from southern cities report moderate gains and fair prospects for the fall at Memphis, no improvement at Charleston, the trade selling cautiously at Savannah, and business quiet at Jacksonville, where collections are slow. There is an improvement in the volume of business at Augusta, and jobbers at Atlanta are filling orders more freely, owing to good crop prospects. Nashville, too, announces an improved outlook. Chattanooga's July trade is reported larger than that for June, but at Birmingham business is quiet and collections unimproved. Trade has been slack at New Orleans, but the boot and shoe business is improving and manufacturers are busy. Advices from Galveston and other points in Texas continue to report improvements.

BIG TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

To Be Held at Norwood Park, Long Branch, N. J.

WEST END, LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 4.—Arrangements for one of the greatest tennis tournaments ever held along the New Jersey coast have just been completed by Mrs. Norman L. Munro, of Norwood Park. The tournament is an invitation one, and will be held at Norwood Park this month from the 6th to the 11th inclusive. Among the crack players who have accepted invitations to participate in the games announced are Messrs. Larned, Stevens, Chase, Wrenn, V. G. Hall, E. D. Hall, Goodbody, the Englishman, and others. The Norwood challenge cup, valued at $200, will be the chief prize to be competed for. This cup will have to be won three years in succession by one player before it becomes his property.

Died in the Woods.

MERIDEN, Conn., Aug. 4.—Aaron G. Rader, aged 53 years, was found dead in woods near Hanover park. He was out berrying with a friend and during a short time in which the two were separated Raler was stricken with apoplexy and was dead before his friend returned. Rader was a member of John Hill post, G. A. R., of Boonton, N. J., and came here about a year ago. He leaves a widow and three children.

Bennington Disabled.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. — The United States warship Bennington, with Ezeta on board, on her way from Acapulco to San Francisco, is proceeding under half power owing to one of her engines being disabled and is not expected to reach her destination earlier than Aug. 10. After thorough repairs at the Mare Island navy yard she will return to the coast of Central America.

Hanrahan Committed Suicide.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 4.—The story sent out from here yesterday that Hanrahan, the Binghamton, N. Y., man, who jumped from a boat in the Maumee river, had returned and eloped with the young lady whose parents had indirectly incited the act, is untrue. Hanrahan committed suicide, and his body has been found.

Situation in Peru Serious.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Times correspondent in Iquique, Chili, telegraphs that the situation in Peru is becoming more serious daily. Civil rights have been suspended and all telegrams are subjected to a rigid censorship. The insurgents continue their guerilla warfare.

HAVE THEY AGREED?

Tariff Conferees Said To Be Closer Together.

The Sugar Schedule Is Thought To Have Been Practically Disposed Of. To-day May See the Beginning of the End of the Long Fight—Senate Will Accept Concessions.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—If any faith at all can be put in the signs that manifest themselves about the capitol, to-day will witness the beginning of the end of the tariff conference. There is every indication that the democratic members will get closer together than they have been at any time yet. This is due to the fact that the sugar schedule is practically out of the way. Every member of the committee denies that there has been any agreement, but sufficient has leaked from the conference room and other sources to show that there can be no longer any reason to doubt that they have agreed as to what they will do when the time comes to act.

The house conferees have always held that there was hidden away in the schedule of the senate bill a protection to the trust that greatly augmented the differential one-eight that was given them, and they have contended that this should be removed. Upon this basis they made the demand that the text of the bill should be changed in a spirit of concession. The senate to that extent yielded.

As now prepared the sugar schedule will provide for the levying of the following duties. On all raw and refined sugars 40 per cent. ad valorem, the rame rate as heretofore, but with this difference, that the duty will be based, not on the price per pound, whatever it may be, or the mere pound of the article purchased, but upon the sacharine strength of the sugar found in the total amount.

If the sugar is raw, the duty will be collected upon only the pure sugar that it contains, and when it comes to the collection of the duty on refined sugar, instead of the collection being made upon the value of the refined article it will be based upon the value and amount of pure sugar necessary to make the refined product.

In this way, it is claimed, there will be absolutely no hidden protection for the trust, and that nothing can accrue to them through the process of refining. The refiner will be given a differential duty of 1-5 of a cent a pound on refined sugar and a discriminating duty levied against such countries as pay an export bounty on refined sugar, equivalent to the amount of that bounty.

It is figured out by those who advocate this duty that it is not any better for the trust than the other schedule, although this is denied in other quarters. It is also said that the house conferees will accept this as a solution of the problem, and that they will claim it as a victory, because it does do away with the alleged hidden protection.

The next step, after the house agreed to accept this schedule, was to find out if the refining interests would take it. It is understood that the senators who have cared for this interest were consulted, and that they reluctantly accepted the schedule as the best that could be had and agreed that it would not be antagonized.

If this schedule is finally determined upon to-day, for there is always a possibility of a change at the last moment, it is probable that the remainder of the bill may be speedily disposed of and there is a hope that the full conference may be had Monday and the report made to the senate early in the week. The most of the day was consumed in a discussion of the other schedules, and there is now a pretty clear understanding as to what shall be done with the rest of the bill.

It is said that the Louisiana senators and Messrs. Allen and Kyle, the latter representing the beet sugar industry, will not accept the proposed schedule. If this be true, it is not apparent how the democrats expect to pass the bill. There is no provision in the schedule for the bounty for 1894, and both the Louisiana senators have declared that unless this bounty is put in the bill they cannot support it. It is probable that by to-night the situation will have crystalized in something tangible, and that the outcome will be known with some degree of definiteness.

OVERTON DISCHARGED.

The Contempt Case Dismissed by Judge Grosscup.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The contempt case against President Overton and the other officers of the Stock Yards lodge of the A. R. U., was heard by Judge Grosscup. Overton, in his answer, said the circular calling upon the stock yards men to strike and which forms the basis of the contempt charge, was a forgery and was not issued by the union. He did not sign the circular nor authorize any one to place his name to it, that the lodge did not authorize its publication and took no action concerning it. He denied that at any time he counselled violence to non-union men, but said he had on several occasions dispersed crowds to prevent violence.

The judge discharged the prisoner upon his answer, reserving the right to reinstate the case in the event of the filing of new and sufficient information.

An Anarchist Scare.

LYONS, Aug. 4.—A loud report startled the residents of the district around the place de la Croix last evening. Everybody in the district supposed that the anarchists had begun taking revenge for Caserio's condemnation. Their alarm was allayed by the discovery that there had merely been a slight accident in the boiler room of Pictet's silk works.

Stockholders Want a Settlement.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 4.—The attorney-general of Illinois has begun proceedings against the Illinois Building & Loan association on complaints which have been received at the state insurance department. It is believed that the company has in its possession nearly $800,000 of money contributed by stockholders.

Retired from Active Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Captain Levi F. Burnett, seventh infantry, having been found by an army retiring board incapacitated for active service on account of disability incident to the service, by direction of the president has been retired from active service.

To Hang Sept. 20.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 4.—The death warrantt of two men, who will be hanged Sept. 20, were read to them yesterday. They are George Schmous, a Bavarian, who killed his wife and two children, and George Dackovic, who killed a compatriot.

GIRLS EARNING A LIVING.

This Summer Weather Tests the Resources of Working Girls—Must Keep Neat and Well at Small Expense—Paine's Celery Compound.

One, two, three, four crisp dollar bills—pay for a whole week's tiresome work behind counters or in some factory.

Imagine it your own daughter.

It shocks one to think that lace and ribbons could so dear and human life so cheap.

Trying to earn a living at this rate soon brings out all the working girl's womanly resources to keep neatly dressed, pleasant faced and well. Few days can be spared for sickness and strength must not flag till past closing time.

The best friend the working girl has ever had is Paine's celery compound. It keeps her well and full of strength and courage. It restores vitality to tired nerves; it feeds every tissue of the body when unusual waste has reduced weight and strength of the body, as is frequently the case in the heated season. It gives new appetite and keeps every part of the body, nerves and blood, so well nourished that the nervous, exhausted, tired, "run down" feeling from worry and hard work soon disappears.

In headaches, the head is not alone the offending part; the brain is the centre of the great nervous system, and there is a continual communication from every part of the body to it. Hence a derangement of the stomach, liver or kidneys produces headaches, though the head be in a healthy condition.

Nervous headache, neuralgia, rheumatism and heart trouble are due to blood insufficient in quantity and lacking in richness. Worry and long hours of uninterrupted work, especially in the summer, exhaust the nervous substance as surely as walking exhausts the muscles. To quickly furnish a fresh and abundant supply of nutriment for every tissue of the body is the purpose for which Paine's celery compound was first prepared. This rapid production of fresh nervous energy and pure blood was the one endeavor of Prof. Edward E. Phelps' long study of the causes of nervous exhaustion. The result of his life work was Paine's celery compound, that remarkable remedy that permanently and speedily cures diseases of the liver, kidneys and stomach. It is the greatest nerve regulator and blood purifier of this present century.

PRICE BOY IN THE TOILS.

He Obtained Goods of a Plainfield Merchant Pretending They Were for His Employer.

A. M. Griffen presented a bill to Mrs. Anna McKee of 311 Orange street the first of the month. The amount was over $12, and Mrs. McKee promptly said that none of the items was to be paid by her except the first which was for a screen-door, purchased June 4.

It was found that the articles had been ordered by William Price, the eighteen-year-old son of Thomas Price of East Front street, who worked for Mrs. McKee six months. The orders began June 20 with a screw driver and an oiler, and continued until the 20th. The goods, most of which the merchant is prepared to prove the boy ordered, included also a door-bell, copper wire, hammer, bicycle wrench, electric bell, tape measure, two bits, revolver and cartridges, hammer handles, wrench, knife, saw and carpenter's pencil.

On a warrant from Justice Nash the boy was arrested yesterday by Sergeant Kiely, and placed in the lockup. From remarks which were made when he was arrested, it is inferred that the boy had had an experience with a butcher and had settled with him. Mr. Price claims his son is not exactly of sound mind, and intimates that the merry-go-round man sent him for the tools and paid him for them. The McKees think the boy had some connection with the disappearance of their chickens a short time ago. He said they died at the time, but the bodies could not be found.

The boy has a bad reputation, for petty swindling transactions in the past. He would forge requests for money on people for whom his mother worked.

The boy waived examination this afternoon, and was held for the Grand Jury by Justice Nash, Thomas Maier furnishing a $100 bond.

PARENTS' SAD AFFLICTION.

Baby Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Ryder Drowned.

A terrible affliction put an end yesterday to the Summer pleasures of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ryder and party, at Long Beach. At one swift and cruel blow their bright and merry little two-year-old daughter was taken from them.

The little one had been with her mother, visiting H. B. Ryder, proprietor of the club house, who is a brother of E. B., and wandered out on the dock. No one saw the accident, but later the baby was missing and a boatman found her doll floating on the water. A searching party searched the bay for the body, but it has not been found.

In their heartrending grief the family have the sincerest sympathy of everyone. Such an affliction as this is a personal sorrow to every friend.

Early Morning Exercise.

Policeman Cooney pulled Box 42 at five minutes before 4 this morning, having seen what he thought were indications of fire to the south. According to the rule Alert Hose Company, the truck and No. 2's hose wagon responded. They did not go to the box, as the men saw the reflection of fire in the direction of New Market. Alerts went as far as the corner of Grant avenue and Seventh street before they turned back, while the others stopped at the corner of Plainfield avenue and Seventh street. The fire was watched by the electric light works night force 20 minutes before the alarm was given.

The fire was the burning of the canal stables at the outlet lock, New Brunswick. Twenty-one mules were burned. Loss, $6,500.

Changes in Churches.

Because of the absence from Plainfield of several pastors, their pulpits will be supplied tomorrow by preachers from out of town. The Sunday Service column should be read carefully to note changes, but do n't lose sight of the fact that some of our own mighty good ministers are still with us preaching with their accustomed zeal and effectiveness.

Not to be Sold.

Rev. Mr. Encell, pastor of the Second Christian Church of Rochester, and now supplying S. T. Willis's pulpit, 199th street, promises to preach in Plainfield's First Church of Christ on trial about Sept. 1. He hopes to move to Plainfield. It is good news that arrangements are being made so that the church will not be sold.

To Invite Mrs. Cleveland to Plainfield.

Miss Duvier of West Fifth street leaves today for Washington to spend the balance of the Summer with her cousin. Before her return she will call on Mrs. Cleveland at the White House and extend to her an invitation to visit Iona Council of this city.

Stiles the Hustler.

Capt. Stiles, the veteran bill poster, is in town today posting bills for the Waverly Fair which takes place Sept. 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7. The Captain is a hustler and has the faculty of placing the bills where they will do the most good.

In Its Sunday Dress.

Car No. 2, which has received a new coat of paint, will be put into service tomorrow morning, in charge of Conductor John Huyler and Motorman Michael Higgins.

CYCLING FIRE BRIGADE.

GOOD SALVAGE EFFECTED BY WHEELMEN IN THE SUBURBS.

Birds' Nests in a Chimney May Have Started This Blaze, Which Destroyed the Crugiers' Costly Home on Park Avenue, Just Beyond the City Line.

The handsome home of the Crugiers on Park avenue, just beyond the driving park, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Insurance about covers the loss. The barn was not near enough to be reached by the flames.

The fire started at 3. Mrs. Crugier was at the barn when she noticed smoke coming from the roof. She ran to the house and began to remove articles which she valued the most. With help at hand at that time, it is probable that the building might have been saved, as the walls were filled in with brick, and the slate roof kept the flames without draught in the south corner of the attic where they started. The place is beyond the city line, and the lack of water would have prevented the firemen from accomplishing much had they gone to the fire.

A long time passed before the people in the neighborhood knew that the house was burning. Those who first went to Mrs. Crugier's assistance were cyclers and men who happened to be driving on the avenue in front of the house. The fire burned very slowly, and plenty of opportunity was offered for the removal of all of the goods on the lower floors. The articles stored in the attic could not be reached.

Twenty-five cyclers and about as many others were soon at work, the men taking the things out and the women taking them away from the house. Carpets and shades and kitchen utensils were all saved. Even a new Herring safe which was on the second floor was lifted by six men and thrown from a window. It crashed through a balcony roof on the way down. The men had just finished when the flames worked down from the garret, caught a draught from the stairway, and began to spread through the whole house. It was 4:30 before the roof crashed in.

Among those who worked the hardest were Charles Freehan, the bicycle racer of South River, and his trainer, Fred Simmons, who were on the way back from Plainfield when they saw the fire. Before the smoke and flames broke forth on the outside, the affair had the appearance of an auction, rather than a fire, the furniture and people being scattered about the lawn and the house being hidden by the trees. Ellis Campbell and his son Edward Campbell were included in the party that first reached the blaze. They noticed the smoke from the club-house for 20 minutes before they thought that the house could be afire. It was back from the street at the base of a hill, and surrounded by trees.

At 7 the chimneys stood alone in the midst of a mass of burning ruins. The timbers in the house were of oak, and the plastering and woodwork were of such good material that the greater part did not catch from the spreading flames quickly. The house was built by day's work by John T. Pearson 21 years ago. It cost about $10,000. It contained 13 rooms and was supplied with all the modern improvements. Seven years ago Henry Crugier, a rising politician, came from New York and bought the place. At that time costly improvements were made. The sale was made after various complications in effecting it. Capt. W. B Ostrom of East Ninth street was the first purchaser, one year after it was built. His children owned it after him.

Mr. Crugier died five months ago, and since that time Mrs Crugier has lived on the place with her two young sons. She stored the more valuable furniture in the attic, together with clothes and other costly property. Last night she was to have begun to take boarders, having made arrangements with New York people to come out in the evening. She was preparing for the guests, and two of them had just arrived when the fire broke out. She felt much discouraged by her misfortune.

The building was insured for $10 000, and the contents were insured for $5,000 Perhaps $2,000 worth of the personal property was in the attic and was destroyed. The policies are held by John Townsend of New York who holds a mortgage on the place.

It is not known how the fire started. Mrs. Crugier had been burning sweepings in a fireplace, but does not think it probable that this could have caused the fire The chimneys were almost filled with bats' nests, and it is possible that the material in them caught fire from sparks.

MAYBE GREEN HAY SET THIS FIRE.

But Owner Meyer Declares Otherwise.

The barn of Henry Meyer on the brow of the mountain at the Scotch Plains ending of Johnston's drive was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. The flames were first noticed coming from the peak at 2:30. The alarm was sent to the Scotch Plains fire department, and the men turned out and climbed the mountain side. They could do nothing, however. The horse and carriages had already been removed.

The building was on the old Spencer place, and was erected by John L. Spencer. It was L shaped, and was large and commodious. It was fitted up in good shape inside, the walls being ceiled. Mr. Meyer moved to the place from Tremont, N. Y., in the Spring, when he bought it from John R. Marsh, who had obtained it from Mr. Spencer in foreclosure proceedings. The barn was valued at $1,800. There were also burned four tons of hay and all of Mr. Meyer's farming and carpenter's tools.

The real cause of the fire cannot be determined. It was said by some at the fire that it originated from spontaneous combustion in green hay. Mr. Meyer says that the hay was perfectly dry when it was housed. The house was not close to the barn, and did not take fire. The building was insured, but the contents were not.

AT REST.

Miss Elizabeth Vandenbergh.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth B. Vandenbergh took place from her late residence, 225 East Fifth street, this morning. The pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, had been summoned by telegraph from Sprucetop, Green County, N. Y., where he and his family had gone Wednesday. He came last evening, and officiated at the funeral.

His remarks he based on Matthew 24: 44—"Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh".

On this he gave many inspiring thoughts, and also read many comforting passages of Scripture.

There were many tear-dimmed eyes during his recital of the exemplary Christian life of the departed, of her transition during sleep from earth to Heaven, and of the meeting of parents and loved ones on the other shore.

Pastor Schenck was followed with heartfelt prayer by Rev. J. G. Todd of Dunellen.

Many of the young women of the Sunday-school class of the departed were present, and the house resounded with their sobs as Mr. Schenck alluded to her worth and work as a teacher.

Several beautiful floral tributes were given. From the Ladies Christian Work Society was an anchor, from the Sunday-school a cross, from the Sunday-school class a pillow bearing the word "Teacher", from the family a bunch of rare blossoms, and from Mrs. D. N. Moore, a neighbor, another beautiful bouquet.

The body was taken on the 1:07 train and laid to rest beside the parents of the decedent, in the family plot in Greenwood.

HOTEL NETHERWOOD.

The Event of This Week a Birthday Party of the Children.

All the little people of Hotel Netherwood were delighted yesterday, as were their elders, with the children's party charmingly arranged by Mrs. F. E. Miller in honor of Miss Constance Purdy, whose birthday it was.

The day was ushered in with dancing and games in the parlors, and a dainty lunch was served at 12. Exquisite were the favors, consisting of large bonquets tied with streaming silk ribbons. Lunch over, the young people were grouped artistically on the main piazza and were photographed. Then came a stage drive, and from 2 to 4 there was dancing again

Mrs. Miller was assisted in the event by Mrs. Mulford, Mrs. Williams, Mrs Herrick and Mrs. Ogden, Jr.

These were the happy participants:

Miss Constance Purdy, Master Weston Williams, Miss Hazel Stillwell, Master Julian Smallwood, Miss Ethel Sparks, Master Delaplaine Smallwood, Miss S. Adelaide Howe, Master Bertrand Perry, Miss Annetta Howe, Master Marcus Olive, Miss Gladys Balch, Master Jules Harlan, Miss Grace Smallwood, Master Willie Brady, Miss S. Beatrice Harlan, Master Harold Fulford, Miss Edna Brady Master Clark Perry, Miss Mortina Balch, Master Arthur Stillwell.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John L. Blackford made a trip to Bethlehem, Pa., yesterday.

Mayor Needham was about this afternoon after his illness of yesterday.

H. P. Reynolds leaves this afternoon for a Sabbath at Paxinosa Inn, Easton.

John M. Whiting and family of Central avenue leave Monday for Magnolia, Mass.

Alfred C. Jopling of New York is spending his vacation with J. Y Green of Somerset street.

Mrs. John Valiant and son John, Jr., left town today for the Catskills to join the rest of her family.

Thomas Peff of Park avenue, Scotch Plains, caught two bass in Lambert's pond yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Helmken of Savannah is spending the Summer with her sister, Mrs. George Gibblehouse of Arlington avenue.

Mrs T. S. Armstrong and family leave Monday for Middletown, N. Y. Mr. Armstrong will rough it in the Maine woods.

Mr. and Mrs D. Snediker and daughter Miss Lou returned to their home on Grove street today, after a month in Asbury Park.

Mrs. James C. Pope and son left this morning for Asbury Park, where they will stop at the Hotel Vehdome for the rest of the season.

Thomas C. Purdy, Vice-President of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway, is the guest of F. E. Miller of Hotel Netherwood over Sunday.

D. W. Rogers the seafood man is taking his first vacation in four years. He has gone to Waterford, Conn., to spend a few days with his wife, who is visiting there.

Rev. Andrew Hegaman of Belleville, N J, and Rev. George Swain, D. D, of Allentown, N. J., are visiting their brother, Philip Swain, and his family, on Craig place.

The Sunday-school session in Warren Chapel tomorrow afternoon will be in charge of the superintendent, Leander Lovell, who returns for the day from a Summer in New England.

Rev. Father Cushing, formerly of St. Mary's Church, this city, and of St. Joseph's in the borough, is now in Springfield, Washington County, Ky. He is connected with St. Rose's Church in that place.

Miss Hannah O'Brien and mother returned to their home in New York last evening after a visit with Mr. and Mrs Lawrence Bray of South Second street. Little Alice Bray went with them to spend two weeks in New York.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Vigilant defeated the Britannia today.

—Borough Magistrate Crosley this afternoon sent James Haley to jail for 30 days for begging.

—Henry Windham will favor the public with an open-air concert at the Arlington Hotel this evening.

—The statement is incorrect that Mrs. Patrick Keeley stepped off the Crescent Avenue excursion train while it was in motion. Instead, the train was at a standstill, and started as she stepped.

—You're sure to find something that will suit you in the line of wall-paper, brushes, paints, artist materials, stationery, and window glass, at E. Love's, North avenue. Cars stop at the door.

—A horse owned by Mr. Wright of West Seventh street ran away with a part of the harness on at 7 last night and cut up the lawn about Mr. Anthor's house before recapture. The horse was slightly cut by a barbed-wire fence.

—The upright timber of the Crescent Rink tower that was fractured by lightning is only one of eight such, and the giant flagstaff through the centre alone would hold the tower. So timid people need not be afraid of its falling. Besides, repairs are in progress.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Castle Point Cyclers of Hoboken will run to Plainfield Oct. 21.

The racers could not ride on the Crescent track yesterday because of the damage done to the track and the turns by the storm of the morning. It was thought it would be ready for use this afternoon.

The Crescent Wheelmen will give a matinee race meet next Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. The admission, including grand-stand will be 10 cents. The races are open to all members and residents of Plainfield and North Plainfield. Entries are booked only on the grounds on the day of the races, and no extra charge will be made to enter the races. 1st race, ¼ mile scratch. 2d race, 1 mile handicap. 3:1 race, 1 mile exhibition 4th race 2 mile handicap, (open to Victor Wheelmen only) 5th race, ½ mile (boys under 16) 6th race, ¼ mile exhibition.

The Great Inter-State Fair.

As there is only one Great Inter-State Fair, just so there is only one John Guild Muirheid. It is Mr. Muirheid's originality, progressiveness, forethought, and executive ability, that make the fair at Trenton the wonder that it is. This greatest of all fairs grows annually in the admiration and patronage of the people, and the outlook for the coming meet is better than ever before. The dates are Sept. 24, 25, 26, 27, and 28, and Mr. Muirheid has already issued the big and handsome book of prizes. Valuable premiums are offered for almost every conceivable production, and it behooves all experts in any branch of industry to get a copy now. Write to Mr. Muirheid in Trenton.

Ways of Cooking Trout.

The ideal way of cooking trout is the simplest. Choose fish weighing about a quarter of a pound. After cleaning them wipe them well and lay them upon a plate with a tablespoonful of melted butter and a little pepper.

After rolling the fish well broil them for about five minutes on the flesh side and two on the other and serve them without delay. Prepare trout in exactly the same way and wrap them in writing paper that has been thoroughly soaked in melted butter, after first laying a very thin strip of larding pork under the fish. The paper should be tied loosely over the fish, so that there is only one thickness between it and the heat; then lay the fish on their envelopes in a baking pan and bake them in a hot oven for 25 minutes. Serve them in their envelopes, removing the strings alone to insure their being eaten hot and in perfection, is the advice of a writer in the New York Tribune.

A Step in Advance in France.

Mme. Henri Schmohl, the valiant champion of women in France and foundress of The Avant Courriere, has won what may be considered as a preparatory victory that bodes well for the eventual success of her campaign in the cause of feminine reform. M. Goirand, a deputy and a lawyer by profession, has just brought in a bill embodying the two essential reforms which The Avant Courriere is intended to further. As will be remembered, these two all important reforms are the repeal of the law by which no Frenchwoman can act as witness to any legal deed and the passing of a French married women's property act. Of course M. Goirand's bill may be thrown out, but the mere fact that a bill of the kind should be put before the house at all is a great step in advance.

Girls Objected to the Uniform.

The Pacific Hotel company has issued an order that the girls presiding over its lunch counters and its dining rooms must wear a blue serge dress, rather loose fitting and reaching just below the knee, and also a blue cap, sailor fashion. Miss Mamie Kelly and Miss Lou Koogle, who serve the coffee and pie at the Omaha Union depot, objected to donning the uniform and rather than do so resigned. The girls say the uniform is neither becoming nor pretty and is far from modest. It is understood the girls along the Union Pacific object to wearing it and will quit before they will do so. In speaking of the matter to a friend, the girls said they thought that it was "perfectly horrid."—Omaha Dispatch.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 5. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Plain living and high thinking.—Mark x, 23-31.

The passage quoted here points out the difficulty of the rich to inherit the kingdom of heaven and the fact that those who give up anything for Jesus Christ shall be abundantly rewarded. We practically have wealth and poverty contrasted in their relation to salvation, and following the suggestion of the topic we may consider each as follows:

1. High living and plain thinking (Mark x, 23-27). In these verses are contained Christ's words that it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. It is impossible for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, and therefore it must be impossible for a rich man to be saved. But what is a rich man? Not necessarily one who possesses riches. Many wealthy men are devout Christians and will be saved. The rich man here is one who values riches above everything else—above God and eternity. He may live high because of his wealth, but his thinking is plain. It rises no higher than his money and himself. Such a man cannot be saved. We canot serve God and Mammon. This is the great danger of wealth—that it may draw our minds from God and cause us to center our affections solely upon the earth rather than upon things above when Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

2. Plain living and high thinking. When Christ had spoken thus of those who were rich, Peter said, "We have left all and followed Thee," and Jesus answered and said, "There is no man that hath left house or brethren or sisters or father or mother or wife or children or lands for My sake and the gospel's but he shall receive a hundredfold in this time and in the world to come eternal life." By the sacrifice of the worldly possessions and employments the apostles may have been reduced to plain living, but their thinking was elevated. They thought of God and eternity rather than self or time. Plain living and high thinking go well together. They have been characteristic perhaps of the most of God's efficient workmen. Whether we live plain or high, let us have high thoughts, communion with God, noble aspirations that will be satisfied with nothing less than perfection of life and character in Jesus Christ.

The Highest Ambition.

To become like Christ is the only thing in the world worth caring for, the thing before which every ambition of man is folly and all lower achievement vain. Those only who make this quest the supreme desire and passion of their lives can ever begin to hope to reach it. The image of Christ that is forming within us—that is life's one charge. Let every project stand aside for that. "Till Christ be formed" no man's work is finished, no religion crowned, no life has fulfilled its end. Is the infinite task begun? When, how, are we to be different? Time cannot change men. Death cannot change men. Christ can. Wherefore put on Christ.—Drummond.

A Notable Anniversary.

The New York Police Society of Christian Endeavor held an anniversary recently that was a notable affair. The only police Christian Endeavor society welcomed the first Christian Endeavor society in the United States navy, the first Junior society in the navy, the only French society in New York, and the only Christian Endeavor society among the Friends in New York city; also the only colored Christian Endeavor society in the city. There were present various Presbyterian and Baptist societies also, and the meeting was a very enthusiastic one.—Golden Rule.

Three Big Bishoprics.

Three of the Protestant Episcopal dioceses of New York state have more than 1,000,000 inhabitants each, and one of the three, the diocese of New York, has more than 2,000,000. The diocese of Long Island is the most densely populated. It has an area of about 1,400 square miles, and a population of more than 1,000,000. The diocese of New York has an area of about 5,000 square miles, with a population exceeding 2,000,000.

Shine and Shadow.

Till a man has learned to be happy without the sunshine, and therein becomes capable of enjoying it perfectly, it is well that the shine and the shadow should be mingled as God only knows how to mingle them. To effect the blessedness for which God made him man must become a fellow worker with God.—George MacDonald.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

The Presbyterian Endeavorers contributed to home missions for the year ending March 31, $13,607; to foreign missions, $17,790; total, $31,397.

"Lay your wire to Cleveland and get power and light," says President Roads of Pennsylvania.

The west division of the Chicago union has grown so large that two union meetings are necessary.

Denominational rallies were an important feature of the great London Christian Endeavor convention.

The letters "C. E." were hung from the door leading to the supper room of a Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor social. The Endeavorers present interpreted them, of course, to mean, "Come and eat."

A Christian, when he makes a good profession, should be sure to make his profession good. It is sad to see many walk in the dark themselves who carry a lantern for others.—Pecker.

Arthur Bentz, a 6-year-old boy of Lebanon, Pa., died from the effects of swallowing a tadpole, which his little companions had forced into his mouth.

It is estimated that foreign stocks amounting to $3,819,035,000 are held in Great Britain, and the interest receivable from them $145,000,000 per annum.

Since Denmark established dairy schools and made a science of butter-making, 100,000,000 pounds of butter have been exported from the country annually.

At Washington there is a list of all the known anarchists in the world, and their place of residence when last heard from. The French government has a similar list.

Street bands are not permitted in Germany unless they accompany processions. In Vienna the organ grinders are allowed to play only between midday and sunset.

The tail of the kangaroo is the fleshiest part of the animal. It is considered dainty food when boiled in its own skin, which afterwards may be drawn off like a glove.

Mourners at Persian funerals are furnished with little wads of cotton with which to wipe away their tears. The tears are then preserved and are supposed to contain restorative qualities in case of fainting.

Taking the earth as the center of the universe and the polar star as the limit of our vision, the visible universe embraces an aerial space with a diameter of 420,000,000,000 miles and a circumference of 1,329,742,000,000 miles.

Plants often exhibit something very much like intelligence. If a bucket of water during a dry season be placed a few inches from a growing pumpkin or melon vine the latter will turn from its course and in a day or two will get one of its leaves in the water.

Philadelphia has the name of "Mother City of Photographic Portraiture," because it was the first city in this country to adopt photography after Deguerre, and was the first in all the world to apply the new art to the reproduction of human faces.

People in the middle ages believed in were-wolves as well at witches. Were-wolves were supposed to be men who, while preserving their appearance as human beings, were yet transformed into wolves, with an appetite which nothing but human flesh would satisfy.

THE SPICE BOX.

Teacher—"How many eggs does it take to make a dozen, Mamie?" Mamie (whose father keeps a grocery) —"Six good ones, four doubtful ones and two bad ones."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Board of Health of Orange, N. J., has formally resolved that kissing promotes disease. It is a disease that the young men will treat on the principle that like cures like.—Rochester Herald.

The Father—"You're not exactly the kind of man I would like for a son-in-law." The Suitor—"Well, you're not my ideal of a father-in-law, but we needn't be chummy unless you wish." —Judge.

Practical Aunt—Do you think you are qualified to become the wife of a poor man?" Sweet Girl—"Oh, yes, it's all fixed. We are to live in a cottage, and I know how to make cottage pudding.—Life.

"I bet Jimmy Jenks had an awful good time the Fourth." Mamma—"Why?" "Well, I've seen the doctor go there twice to-day and the whole house smells like arnica."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Governess—"You see, my dear, the Antipodes live on the other side of the earth, and they only go to bed when we are getting up." Little Emma—"Then I suppose my brother Fred is an Antipode, eh?"—Fliegende Blaetter.

Father—"Yes, I admit that your lover has a good income; but he has very expensive tastes, very." Daughter—"You amaze me. What does he ever want that is so expensive." Father—"Well, you, for one thing."—New York Weekly.

The Atchison Globe says the girl who is engaged is the one who complains most about her vaccination hurting her. This isn't saying, though, that every Buffalo girl who goes about pulling the sleeve of her shirt waist away from her arm is engaged.

It is necessary to meet good luck half ways, but bad luck will chase you.—Atchison Globe.

CURRENT EVENTS.

A sensational New York preacher think that city is suffering from Tamanasia. Tamanafrica would be better, considering the many finds in the Lexow woodpile.

The smart youth at the Coney Island show who gave Rain-in-the-Face a loaded cigar which went off between the noble red man's teeth is nursing a lacerated scalp, due to the blows which the chief gave him in return for the familiarity.

A thoughtful little boy sent five cents to a New York newspaper to help pay for ice for the polar bears in the Park. Human beings inclined to murmur at the prolonged heat might gather from this incident a refreshing whiff of philosophy.

It is not possible for every family to drink expensive table waters, but the worst water that ever ran from a city faucet can be made entirely germless and perfectly pure by boiling it before drinking it. And, of course, after boiling it can be made as cold as you please.—New York Recorder.

The New York Herald says: "The Tenderloin district is not alone in its roof gardens. They have them on the tops of tenement houses on the East Side also, not so pretty of course, but the tenants have arranged flower pots along the coping of the roofs and have strung Chinese lanterns across them, making a striking effect."

"I saw an eagle killed last summer in rather a strange way," said Fred J. Hancock, of Harrisburg. "One afternoon while out hunting I noticed an immense eagle flying directly overhead, bearing in its talons a burden that apparently worried it. I noticed that the bird commenced to show signs of weakness, but was somewhat surprised when a moment or two later the bird began descending rapidly and soon fell to the ground. Hastening to the spot I found the eagle dying, yet firmly grasping in its powerful talons a large-sized ferret as its prey. The animal was fighting frantically for freedom, and had killed its captor. The eagle had evidently stolen a march upon its cunning victim, but greatly mistook its game. The ferret was held in such a manner as to inflict no vital injury. Its head being being entirely at liberty, it had torn and lacerated its captor in a terrible manner, and at last killed it.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

An incident in the recent European flurry over Moroccan affairs was a striking refutation of the charges of inefficiency brought against the French navy. At an early hour one morning Vice Admiral de Boissoudy, commanding the Mediterranean squadron at Toulon, received an order from the Minister of Marine at Paris to prepare at once for the departure of one of the divisions of his squadron. The order was entirely unexpected, but within five hours the Admiral had selected four of his fastest and best ships, filled their magazines, taken on board provisions for three months, and the division, with nearly 2,000 men and sixty-four guns, had put out to sea. Nor was this all. Three battleships—the Devastation, Admiral Duperre and Magenta—and the first class cruiser Alger were gotten under stream, and Vice Admiral de Boissoudy himself, with the battleship Formidable and two more cruisers, were in readiness to follow had there been occasion for their services. So long as the admirals shall be able to get their naval divisions in readiness to put to sea at a few hours' notice the Mediterranean squadron of the French navy should be supposed to be equal to meet any probable emergency calling for its services.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

The Pullman porter doesn't make many a "half and half" these days.

Generosity does not consist in giving but in making sacrifices in order that you may be able to give.—Barrows.

A pound of energy with an ounce of talent will achieve greater results than a pound of talent and an ounce of energy.—William Mathews.

"Don't you think it is rather cowardly," said the bald-headed professor to the fly, "for a six-footer like you to jump on me in this manner?"—Washington Star.

The Wife—"It shocks me to hear you using profane language, George." The Husband—"I intend to give up the habit, dearest." "At once." "Well not exactly—as soon as the tariff bill is disposed of."—New York World.

Merchant—"Did you deliver my message to Mr. Smith?" Boy—"No, sir; he was out, and the office was locked up." "Well, why didn't you wait for him, as I told you?" "There was a notice on the door saying: 'Return at once,' so I came back as quick as I could."—Truth.

He—"And so your father said he feared I didn't have any get up and go about me, did he? I wonder what gave him that impression?" She—"I presume it is because it is always so late when you do finally get up and go that he's asleep and doesn't hear you."—Arkansaw Traveler.

SUBJECTS FOR THOUGHT.

Some people never get higher than a towering rage.

It will not make your heart any whiter to try to blacken somebody else.

Do well the little things now; so shall great things come to thee by and by, asking to be done.

We are all apt to forget that happiness grows at our own fireside, and is not to be picked up in strangers' gardens.

Self-love is at once the most delicate and the most tenacious of our sentiments; a mere nothing will wound it, but there is nothing on earth will kill it.

A peculiarly modern form of selfishness is that bred among striking workingmen in their efforts to prevent all industry because they are not themselves satisfied. It is based on a principle inimical to prosperity, and hence defeats its own ends.

An obstinate man does not hold opinions, but they hold him.—Pope.

Occupation is the necessary basis of all enjoyment.—Leigh Hunt.

PEOPLE OF NOTE.

M. Dupuy and M. Declasse, each 42 years old, are the oldest men in the French cabinet.

Mr. S. B. Armour, of Kansas City, a member of the famous firm of packers, has given $25,000 to the Childrens Home of that city.

Two of Mr. Cleveland's numerous "doubles" are John G. Johnson, of Philadelphia, and John McDonald, of New York, both lawyers.

At the commencement exercises of Elmira college the degree of Doctor of Philosophy was conferred upon Miss Jeanie Elizabeth Hotchkiss, of the class of 1887.

M. Casimir-Perier, the new president of France, received from his father the snug legacy of 40,000,000 francs and has since added largely to his fortune.

Although 164 Harvard graduates died last year, the Rev. Dr. Furness, of Philadelphia, lives on, hale and hearty, the oldest alumnus of the university, aged 92.

Prof. Goldwin Smith, who has returned from England to his home in Canada, is now at work revising several of his books, new editions of which will soon appear.

Brander Matthews resides in New York. He is married and has one daughter. Mr. Matthews does not depend upon literature for a living. He inherited a fortune.

The Woodford prize in oratory, which is given annually at Cornell University, has been awarded this year to a woman, for the first time in the history of the university.

The Pope, although there is no remarkable change in him, is declining in strength. He is much bowed in figure, and has rather frequent fits of somnolence, as was the case about two years ago.

Dr. W. S. Lumpkin, of Atlanta, Ga., sued that city for $10,000 damages, alleging that the injurious fumes from an open sewer had ruined his health. The jury found in his favor to the amount of $400.

C. S. Bushnell, of Connecticut, who furnished the money necessary for the building of the Monitor, and carried out in full the ideas of its inventor, John Ericsson, is still living and enjoying good health.

John Handson Craig, known professionally as John Powers, the Kentucky giant, died at Danville, Ind., recently, aged 45. He was a museum attraction for twenty years, and weighed 700 pounds.

Mrs. Adeline Knapp, who has been for several years race track reporter of the San Francisco Call, rides, man-fashion, in Turkish trousers, a cutaway coat, and a silk hat. She owns a number of fine horses.

Richard Henry Stoddard, who is now in his 70th year, and next to Dr. Holmes, our oldest living poet, is still in the literary harness, and contributes book reviews regularly to one of the New York newspapers.

The Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor—the highest order in the gift of France—has been bestowed by President Carnot upon Ambrose Thomas, the composer of "Mignon." He is the first musician who has ever been thus honored.

Julian Hawthorne, who went with his wife and children to Jamaica a few months ago, has concluded to reside there permanently. He is living on a fine plantation near Kingston, and is growing orange and citron trees and coffee.

Dr. Karl Blind informs the students of Oxford that their annual custom of bringing in a boar's head to their Christmas banquet is a survival of the sacrificial banquet the old Vikings used to hold in honor of Freye, the Norse sun god.

Prince Bismarck, it is said, has the peculiar habit of drinking champagne from the bottle, not from the glass—of course only in his own house. He declares that only in that way can he get its good effects. He drinks it by order of his physician.

The ruler of Cobourg, better known as the Duke of Edinburg, is a man of many hobbies. Among them must be counted his curious mania for collecting miniature silver ships. At the present time he is the proud possessor of a fleet numbering considerably over fifty.

The Scribner Bros., book publishers, of New York, under the name of of the well-known New Jersey millionCharles Scribner's Sons, are grandsons aire, John I. Blair. Their mother, Aurelia Blair, was one of the two daughters of the man who is to-day probably the richest man in New Jersey.

Miss Margaret Rogers, a twenty-three-year-old girl of Monterey county, California, has already made a fortune in the horse and cattle business. She rounds up cattle, breaks horses, can plow, sow and harvest, and is withal a refined woman who abhors loudness. She is a charming hostess, a good performer on the piano, and has an excellent education.—Harper's Bazar.

The Art Institute of Chicago has received from Harriet Hosmer the cast she made in 1853 of the clasped hands of Robert Browning and his wife. This is the cast of which Hawthorne wrote in the "Marble Faun": "It symbolizes the individuality and heroic union of two high poetic lives." The autograph of "Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Rome, May, 1853," is on the wrist of one; "Robert Browning, Rome," on the wrist of the other. Miss Hosmer refused in England an offer of $5,000 for the unique cast.

Henry Mueller, who celebrated his one hundredth birthday in the New Jersey soldiers' home at Kearny, June 24, was a German of Brunswick, who enlisted in Napoleons's service when seventeen years old, and went through the Moscow campaign; he was in the field again in the Hundred Days, and wound up that part of his career with Waterloo. Then coming over to America, he enlisted in the United States Army, served through the Seminole and Mexican wars, and then was discharged. When the rebellion broke out he was in California, sixty-seven years old, and straightway enlisted in the Sixth Infantry, but closed the war as a member of the Thirteenth Independent Company of New York Artillery.—Springfield Republican.

HUMOROUS.

"Boy, is your father in?" "I guess so. Heard ma call somebody a dunce." —New York Herald.

Smith—"Jones seems to have spruced up lately. What's he doing?" Brown —"His wife is taking boarders."—New York Sun.

"I fail," said the boarder, frantically sawing at the steak, "to find a weak point in this Armour plate."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Swizzles.—"Do you practice with the health-lift?" Smythe—"No, but I regulate an awning just outside my window."—Chicago Record.

Pipkin—"What are you going to do with your son when he gets out of college?" Potts—"I think some of sending him to school."—Puck.

"Were you good to your little sister on the Fourth, Tommy?" "Oh, indeed I was. Why, I set off all her crackers for her."—Harper's Bazar.

She—"I rode down in the same horse car with you yesterday." He—"Strange I didn't see you." She—"Not at all. You were sitting down."—Truth.

Mother—"Why do you stay at home all the time? Have you no friends to visit?" Laura—"Yes, one, but I cannot endure her."—Fliegende Blaetter.

It is supposed that the fashion among women of reading the final pages of a novel first is due to their predilection for the last word.—Boston Transcript.

Resident Maine town (proudly)— "No, sir; the words whisky and beer are unknown in this town." Drummer (in anxious whisper)—"What do you ask for?"—Puck.

The spinster—"Do you believe marriage is a failure?" The bachelor— "Having had no experience, I cannot tell. You might ask Lillian Russell." —New York Press.

He—"I hope you do not doubt the warmth of my affection for you?" She—"If you have any affection at all, it must be warm this sort of weather." —Indianapolis Journal.

Hungry Higgins—"Say, it ain't hot on the road here, ner nuthin'." Weary Watkins—"You said 'er. Don't you wish we was in some nice, cool jail?"—Indianapolis Journal.

"So you feel you cannot marry him." "Yes, I am fully decided." "Why don't you like him?" "O, I like him well enough, but I can't get him to propose."—Brooklyn Life.

Judge—"What were you arrested for?" Prisoner—"I rescued an amateur cornet player from drowning, your honor." Judge—"Thirty days for contempt."—New York World.

MISSING LINKS.

Statistics show that the growth of great foreign cities has been even more rapid than our own.

The average distance that a passenger travels in this country during a single journey is 23 miles.

A rapidly rising barometer indicates an unsettled condition of the weather; a gradual rise the contrary.

The ancients entertained the idea that the dew was distilled upon the earth by the moon and stars.

The birth rate of the United States diminished from 1880 to 1890 from 30.95 per 1,000 population to 26.68.

The earliest method of spinning was by bunching a few fibres and rolling them into a thread with the hands.

In olden times screws were made by hand, and five minutes were spent in making one. Now a machine rattles out 60 in a minute.

A serpentine dancer in a London music hall twirls around with so much rapidity that the clocks in her stockings get all wound up.

The windmill will water the stock, grind and chop the feed, and irrigate the garden. There are few farms where they will not repay the cost.

Of 146 ships in the transatlantic trade belonging to American citizens, 64 are under foreign flags. They are all steel or iron steamships, mostly tramps.

It is understood that a golden wedding in the Western divorce belt means the fiftieth entrance upon matrimony, not the fiftieth anniversary of marriage.

There are said to be 100 lepers in New Orleans, and 100 more in the State outside the city. The isolation and care of these unfortunates have become a most serious problem.

It is solemnly affirmed that at a recent funeral on a hot day in Berkshire county, one of the mourners followed the corpse to the grave on a bicycle. No closed carriage for him, while he is able to make his legs go.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Cold meat or fish may be hashed fine and mixed with potato, rice or hominy and a sauce, and made into croquettes.

Gravies, sauces and soups, no matter how small the quantity, should be saved to use in warming over meat, fish, or vegetables.

Tough pieces of meat and bones may be used in making little stews or a little soup stock. All kinds of meat can be combined in making a stew or soup.

Pieces of bread may be used for puddings and griddle cakes, and in the form of dried crumbs for breading. Pieces of cake and gingerbread may be used in puddings.

A few spoonfuls of almost any kind of meat, fish or vegetable may be heated in a sauce and spread over a plain omelet just before rolling it up, thus giving a change in this dish of eggs.

The odds and ends left over from a meal should not be thrown away. The careful housekeeper can find many ways of turning then into dainty and healthful dishes. Pieces of cold meat or fish may be divided into small pieces and warmed in a white or brown sauce, or the sauce and meat or fish may be put in a small baking dish, covered with grated bread crumbs and then browned in the oven.

MAGIC

For Nerve, Brain and Blood.

MAGIC IRON-TONE is an ideal summer drink. Served at fountains with soda it is incomparable. It must be remembered that the average summer drink is just so much syrup and water, having no medicinal properties, and which only serves to provoke instead of to assuage thirst. But MAGIC IRON-TONE not only quenches thirst, it gratifies the longing for "something that will go to the spot;" it sparkles and bubbles along the palate and the throat; it gratifies the parched stomach and immediately clears the films from the brain. It dispels the despondent, depressed feeling inseparable from weariness and overwork; it lightens the load the system seems to be carrying, causes the eye to flash, the mind to spring into activity, and the nerves and muscles to jump from a flaccid to an elastic condition.

MAGIC IRON-TONE EXTRACT FOR HOME USE.

25 CTS. A BOTTLE.

One bottle makes thirty-five Delicious Drinks when prepared as per directions, and served with Ice Water or Ice Cold Carbonic Water.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

AN ELOQUENT TRIBUTE TO A TALENTED KENTUCKY GIRL.

Teach the Children to Swim—Good Results Always—When My Lady Sleeps—The Female British "Drummer"—Items of Interest to Mothers and Housekeepers.

Kentucky has one violinist, Miss Currie Duke of this city, who cannot complain of a lack of appreciation. She is the daughter of General Basil Duke, the brother-in-law and successor to General John H. Morgan, the daring Confederate cavalry leader. Miss Currie returned home last year after five years spent in musical studies in Germany. She has been engaged as a soloist for Thomas' orchestra next season and is a beautiful woman as well as an accomplished musician. She has been admired and praised at home, and at a concert she gave last week at Lawrenceburg Attorney L. H. Carter of that town introduced her with the following bit of dazzling Kentucky rhetoric:

"Since the gladsome morn of creation, when the stars sang together and the universe resounded with the symphony as the hand of God swept it into harmony, music has played no small part in the history of the world. All men everywhere—barbaric and civilized—are sensible to its magic spell. I have always maintained that that education is incomplete which develops the body in the gymnasium, the mind in the college curriculum and leaves uncultivated the emotional nature. To think and to do the right it is necessary to feel the right. Such a feast and such a pleasure have I the honor to herald to you tonight.

"The very distinguished daughter of one of Kentucky's most distinguished and honored sons—a son who, both in the tented field and at the bar, has represented the highest type of Kentucky manhood—is here to ravish and steal away our hearts with the sweetest strains that ever breathed in human souls. Mythology tells us that Orpheus played so divinely on the lyre that all nature stopped to listen to his music, and she who will open the crust of care tonight and start the liquid flow of joy in your soul is no unworthy disciple of him whose head and lyre floated 'down the swift Helms to the Lesbian shore.' From the hours of prattling childhood the witchery of her performance on the violin was known and appreciated, the wonder and pride of her friends. What the greatest masters at home and abroad could do was done, and in the fullness of time she burst forth on an astonished world a star of the first magnitude, before whom paled the greatest reputations in the musical world. As a violinist she stood without a peer among womankind, and with very few, if any, among the sterner sex. The greatest talent of Europe wondered, admired and praised, and her native land received her as the child of her pride, well worthy the triumphs; but, above all, Kentucky is proud of her most distinguished daughter and claims her as her own:

"Ours while deathless love remains,
Ours by right divine and human,
Ours for worth and fame endears,
And, by a heritage in common,
Ours through all eternal years.

"Beautiful, talented, distinguished, a great artist and a superb type of womanhood, I introduce to you in the person of Currie Duke."—Louisville Letter.

Teach Children to Swim.

In view of the many and harrowing deaths by drowning that are always among the distressing incidents of the summer season, it would seem as though parents would consider it far more necessary to have their children taught to swim than to spend so much care and trouble on accomplishments that are of no earthly value to the latter who gets into water over his or her head.

This little preach is not meant in any way to run down the advantages to be derived from the highest mental training, but what good will diplomas and honorary degrees be if in a moment of impulsive recklessness or owing to some unforeseen accident the student learns, alas! that it is sink or swim, with nine chances out of ten in favor of the former, if there has never heretofore been given, along with the other thought to be necessary lessons, a single one in one of the most important branches of human education?

Boys and girls alike should be given instruction in this branch. Parents would feel highly incensed if some outsider were to remark that they cared more for the mental health of their children than for their physical welfare. Yet in many cases this is true, though perhaps unwittingly so. Outside of the fact that a knowledge of swimming may some time be the means of saving life, it is a most healthful and delightful exercise, even though never put to any more exacting purpose than to pass away pleasantly a few hours at the natatorium or in the surf. In giving children as many of the pleasures of life as lie within the power of their parents, to grant lessons in swimming should be among the first thought of, for the pastime, unlike many others, serves a double purpose that may some day prove its practical usefulness.—Philadelphia Times.

Good Results Always.

The results of woman suffrage seem to be curiously alike all the world over. The last number of Lady Henry Somerset's paper, The Woman's Signal, of London, contains a letter from a New Zealand correspondent giving some interesting facts in regard to the newly enfranchised women of the antipodes, who cast their first parliamentary vote at the recent elections. Though the time allowed for registration was short, 109,461 women registered, of whom 90,290 voted. There were 193,536 men registered, of whom 129,792 voted. "It was found that the presence of large numbers of women was a far more effectual restraint on ruffianism than the police force could have been. Every male voter had a sister, wife, mother, daughter or some one equally dear to him for whose sake all riotousness must be restrained."

The daily papers were unanimous in their reports as to the good order that prevailed. The elections resulted in a defeat for the Conservatives, but many causes combined to bring this about. A result more distinctly attributable to the women's vote is that "the present parliament is a cleansed and purified one. A number of M. H. R.'s, whose reputation had been unsavory, have been rejected, though professing the popular creed in politics. In all this it will be seen," says the New Zealand correspondent, "that the moral and social condition of the nation is, from a woman's standpoint, the first consideration."—Boston Transcript.

When My Lady Sleeps.

The new night robes are victims of the lace craze, like all else which pertains to my lady's wardrobe. They are gay with ribbons, too, and many are pretty and elaborate enough to appear as tea gowns.

The night robe in best taste is white. A dainty and not too dressy gown is made of sheer cambric with a deep yoke of torchon lace. This is outlined with a ruffle of cambric edged with lace, so that the whole appears much like a sailor collar. It is fastened in front with narrow white moire ribbons. The full sleeves are also tied with a little bow at the wrist and finished with a deep fall of lace.

Nightgowns of nainsook are trimmed elaborately with valenciennes lace. Many of the gowns have the lace insertion arranged to simulate a bolero jacket. The lace frills which outline it make the effect soft and pretty.

White embroidery with a colored edge is much in favor for the less expensive nightgowns, and coarse, embroidered yokes are finished with heading through which narrow ribbons are run. A rather eccentric novelty, and one which presumably will not be welcomed with fervent joy, is the gown of delicately tinted chambray, trimmed with ecru insertion and lace.—Philadelphia Times.

The Female British "Drummer."

The "lady commercial" is fast becoming an institution in Birmingham, as elsewhere. She is, generally speaking, quite as smart and resourceful as her male competitor, and her sex gives her an additional advantage. Apart altogether from the difficulty of saying "No" to a woman, especially if young and handsome, the more drastic methods of getting rid of unwelcome importunities are obviously out of the question when the "traveler" is of the gentler sex. And then, of course, the lady is bound to have the last word. An enterprising member of the fraternity—or should I rather say sisterhood?—called upon a local firm the other morning. She was assured that the stock in her special line was full up. "But I should like to show you my samples. I'm sure you'd like them." "Not today, thank you. Besides we have no account with your firm." "I know you haven't, but you'll allow me to open one, won't you? Only a small line for a beginning?" "No; we positively don't require anything in that way just now." "Really! Well, good morning. I'll call again in the afternoon. Gentlemen are generally more open to reason when they have dined."—Birmingham Mail.

Women Officeholders Abroad.

There are at present 5,353 women in French provincial postoffices and 1,060 female telegraph clerks. In 69 towns the telephone stations are under the management of women, affording employment for 745 women. The national savings banks employ 425 women, etc. The railways have, however, been the best friends to the women. It was the Dombes company which made the experiment with employing female clerks at the offices or as station mistresses at the small stations, but gradually nearly all the French railway companies have followed this example. Women are employed at the ticket offices as watchers, etc. The East company employs 3,082 women, North company, 2,790; the Paris-Lyons Mediterranee, 5,728; the Orleans company, 4,358—altogether some 24,000 women—in which number the thousands of female gatekeepers are not included. In the whole of Europe it is calculated that over 600,000 women hold public appointments.—London Queen.

Indian Carpet For the Queen.

Those who have recently raised the question of the import of prison made goods from abroad will perhaps read with surprise that the queen will shortly be the possessor of one of the most remarkable articles ever made in a prison. The superintendent of Agra jail some months back received an order to weave a carpet of special design for her majesty. This is now complete. On it 28 of the deftest convicts of the establishment have been engaged, and the texture measures 77 feet by 40 feet and is estimated to contain no fewer than 59,000,000 stitches. The pattern, known as the Poona, is rarely met with. It has a dark ground, upon which the device and border are executed in delicate shades of vegetable dyed blues, yellows, browns and greens. The carpet, which is of great value, will be used in her majesty's Indian room at Osborne. The Agra jail convicts are also making a carpet for the German emperor.—Manchester Examiner.

New Brooms Wanted.

A Washington correspondent writes to an exchange:

I am in favor of electing at least one dozen women as members of the house, woman suffrage or no woman suffrage. The place is so foul and nasty that to sit for two hours in its bad smelling atmosphere completely prostrates one. The house appoints committee after committee to look after the "ventilation," and it results in nothing. What the place needs is a regular housecleaning, the floors scrubbed, the cellars whitewashed, the carpets shaken, the walls frescoed and woodwork repainted. If there were a few women members, they wouldn't be there a week before they would have the bad smelling old place fit to live in. It is not fit to live in now. It is dangerous. And yet from 1,000 to 2,000 people are there from six to ten hours every day. Please elect a few women this fall and have the place cleaned.

Six of a Kind.

The most decided effort to set the pace or fashion in connection with bathing suits was made recently by a party of six Philadelphia girls, who are stopping at a swell ocean front hotel at Atlantic City. Three of them are sisters. On the afternoon of July 4 they created a mild sensation on the beach by appearing in lovely pure white cashmere bathing robes, made in the regulation style and neatly trimmed at the skirt, waist and sleeves with many strands of narrow black cord. About the neck of each fair maiden was a black silken cord, from which depended a small silver whistle. The latter were vigorously piped when any of the merry party strayed from the flock, and altogether the girls were the cynosure of all eyes, had a good time and were much admired.—Atlantic City Correspondent.

A Hundred Years Ago.

Women grow more frivolous every day. Young ladies scorn housework and learn to embroider, to play the piano and to flirt while their mothers are engaged in all the drudgery of the household. They eschew all useful reading and prefer French novels to English classics. In selecting husbands they choose dandies with social graces rather than men with solid attainments. They are full of strange, whimsical notions peculiar to the age. Reader, this is a synopsis of the opinions of an English magazine writer of 1789 on the women of his time. They sound very much as if they were written by certain pessimists of today. There is no new thing under the sun.—Boston Transcript.

A Useful Club.

There is a club of women in New York city that is as modest as it is remarkable. It is called the Best Way club and is composed of well to do women living in a handsome cross street up town. The objects of the organization are mutual help and encouragement. It takes its name from the obligation a member is under to disclose to her colleagues the details of any discovery she may make as to the best way of performing any of the duties, labors or obligations that devolve upon her in her various relations of life. It is an open secret that the club has carefully avoided discussing the best way of obtaining the suffrage.—New York World.

Children and Heat.

"In very hot weather it is my custom," said an eminent physician, "to give babies small quantities of brandy. By small quantities I mean from 15 to 20 drops. Care must be taken not to overclothe children in hot weather too. They should be treated as grown people treat themselves in the matter of clothes.

"There is very much more danger that children will catch heat than that they will catch cold. Up to a comparatively recent time in New York all cases of cholera infantum were called 'heat strokes.' In hot weather a child should have a cool bath once a day and be out in the air as much as possible, day and night."

Necktie and Hatband.

To be absolutely swagger the necktie and hatband must be an exact match. So says the summer girl. Not in so many words, but in practicing what she silently preaches. If the necktie happens to be dark blue, with diagonal white stripes running in opposite directions and forming little diamond shaped plaids, it is the correct thing to wear a hatband exactly like it. Of course if there isn't something a bit different from the generality of plain solid colors in either it is hardly noticeable that they are alike and the correct thing.

English Coiffures.

A peculiarity of English women is the wearing of elaborate coiffures. Nowhere is so much false hair worn as in England. It is made up in all sorts of ingenious ways to be pinned on bodily. The fashion of parting the hair and wearing the little curl in the middle of the forehead so prevalent here is not seen there. Instead the fine frizzes worn by the Princess of Wales and her daughters are imitated by most of the sex.

A Mexican Innovation.

Miss Maria Gonzales Hermosillo has been appointed by President Diaz of Mexico postmaster at Teocaltiche, in the state of Jalisco. Miss Hermosillo is the first woman appointed to office in Mexico, and the departure has created a sensation among the women of the republic.

It is a suggestion of one of the army of bright young women that a band of mauve velvet ribbon around neck and wrists is an admirable set off against the red or brown, as the case may be, of the adjoining skin after too faithful boating, tennis or golf in the sun and wind.

A sister of the late Mr. Spurgeon preached twice recently to crowded congregations at the handsome church in Hampstead Road in connection with the service. Her manner is impressive, and she bears a personal resemblance to her eminent brother.

From the vigorous way in which the suffragists are going at it the issue is likely to be a very lively one, and the chances are highly favorable to the adoption of the amendment.—Topeka Capital.

Furman university, the great Baptist institution at Greenville, S. C., has opened its doors to women students desiring to pursue special studies or to stand for degrees.

If you fear that your new print frock is going to fade, put a little vinegar in the rinse water.

A BEAUTY COURSE.

It Is Quite Simple, and the Leading Medicament Is Soap and Water.

A young woman has lately published an article telling how to become beautiful in two weeks without the aid of a complexion specialist. She states her own personal experience of the treatment she recommends, which includes such unusual medicaments as abundant fresh air, food and sleep. It would not seem that two weeks of this regime, which the young woman appears to think will appeal to the world as something entirely new, would suffice to metamorphose even a person to whom it was as great a novelty as she evidently found it, but she says it did and relates the details of the wondrous change. Wondrous it was, for at the beginning of the two weeks her hands were rough and sunburned, her skin yellow, eruptive and covered with black specks, her eyes dull, her hair thin and her joints stiff and even squeaking. What she could have been doing to get into such a condition is beyond conjecture, but thus she was, and mere common wholesomeness of appearance must have looked like ravishing beauty beside her. In order to make the most of her curative 14 days, she went into the country, where she set about the beautifying process in desperate earnest by obtaining some warm water and castile soap and washing her face. The immediate improvement in her looks encouraged her to further exertions, and she began brushing her hair thoroughly, a practice which she kept up conscientiously every day of the memorable fortnight. By wearing gloves when she went out of doors she triumphed over the sunburn on her hands, and a liberal diet of sulphur and molasses—a remedy that smells to heaven, and the odor of which is as persistent as musk—caused the rose and the lily to quarrel for the supremacy in her complexion. How the squeaking joints were quieted the patient does not clearly state, but at the end of the two weeks they were silenced, and she was beautiful. The process is so simple that if it had only been found out before there would not be a plain woman on the face of the earth by this time. But now that the young woman has generously divulged her discovery we can all retire for a couple of weeks, and, with the aid of soap and water, reappear so much altered and improved that our friends cannot recognize us.

A sketch is given of a gown of rose colored muslin, with pale green stripes. The skirt, which has a peplum, is made over a rose colored taffeta underskirt and is decorated in front with green ribbons. The round bodice has green folded bretelles which cross over the bosom and are edged with ecru lace. The guimpe is of rose colored gauze, and the short puffed sleeves are finished with three ruffles of lace.

PARISIAN FANCIES.

Tendency For Different Materials and Contrasting Colors.

Paris is all alive over what it calls "Le Pas de Quatre," otherwise "Dancing In the Barn," which is already out of date here. It was carried to France from England and has met with an enthusiastic reception. It is undoubtedly a pretty dance, infinitely more picturesque than the stiff kneed "York" or any other of its contemporaries that were so popular in America a few years ago.

It is altogether fashionable to have the bodice and skirt of different materials and contrasting colors. Even more variation is allowed than appeared last year, for the eye has become thoroughly accustomed to abrupt transitions.

All white costumes are quite the mode, and white often enters largely into the composition of costumes of combined colors. It is frequently employed with gray, brown, blue and black and is considered very effective, although it is perishable in anything except wash fabrics. White and colored lawns are much worn.

Tussore silk is used for children's garments, and yellow is much liked for them, especially in straw and corn shades. Decided yellow is by no means a juvenile color, any more than clear green or purple, and should therefore be avoided, particularly in combination with black. Red, blue, brown and olive in various shades for dark colors and pale blue, rose, straw and white for light ones allow a quite sufficient range for little people, who should be confined to youthful tints and styles as long as possible, childhood being so small a part of life, even when mothers make the most of it.

The girl's gown illustrated is of ecru silk gingham trimmed with a band of insertion laid over ruby satin ribbon. The chemisette, over which the ample crossed revers open, is of ruby surah.

BOROUGH COUNCIL TO FIX IT THURSDAY, AUG. 16.

Last Night's Session Devoted to Ordinary Business—$500 Appropriated to Patch Somerset Street—$70 More Required for Myrtle Avenue—Duer Street Going Ahead.

Mayor Needham's illness prevented his attendance at the meeting of the Borough Council last evening, and accordingly Councilman Neal was chosen chairman after the meeting had been called to order by Clerk Arnold. Councilman Howell was also absent.

Borough Magistrate Crosley reported having received $26 in fines during the month. Licenses were reported collected to the amount of $36.75. These reports were filed, as was that of Treasurer Spencer, who gave the balances to the different accounts as follows:

Borough account	$ 964.53
Lights	180.75
Roads	260.12
Fire	461.32
Total	$1,906.72

A number of petitions were received and placed on file. Residents of Myrtle avenue asked for the grading and macadamizing of the avenue between Willow and Giraud avenues, a distance of 1,000 feet. A subscription list with a total of $200 accompanied the request. Residents of Duer street subscribed $160.50, and asked to have the street macadamized between Emily street and Linden avenue, 800 feet. A crosswalk was claimed to be necessary on the southwest side of Westervelt avenue across Jackson avenue, and on the southeast side of Fairview avenue across Watchung avenue. The taxpayers who presented the petition for the Fairview avenue walk also asked that Mr. Johnson be requested to put the walk about his place corner of Westervelt and Jackson avenues in good condition.

The Street Committee was asked for an opinion on the granting of a request for a lamp to be placed either upon or near the bridge at the corner of Brook avenue and Chatham street. Collector Spencer reported pay-rolls for the months of $145.39, and for April 6 last of $6.80. The Sewerage Committee reported having made progress. Chairman Peck of the Fire Committee said that the new fire-alarm system had been completed, and called the attention of the members of the council to the test of this afternoon. Chairman Neal of the Elections Committee reported no settlement of the claims for rent of polling-places in the Heyniger Building, the date of the transfer being the cause of the dispute between Mr. Kline and Mrs. Bolce. He thought it well to refer the matter to Borough Counsel Reed.

Chairman Lounsbury of the Marshals Committee said that he had allowed Chief Marshal Pangborn a vacation of nine days, and that he proposed to give the two assistants vacations of five days each. Councilmen Neal and Valiant suggested that the two should be allowed just as long a vacation as the chief, and Chairman Lounsbury thought it might be well to do so. Bills were referred to the Auditing Committee. Councilman Lounsbury told of the new arrangement whereby prisoners are sent from the lockup to the Somerset County Jail for short terms, relieving the borough of the expense of caring for them in the lockup.

Chairman Valiant of the Street Committee reported that the work of the month had been the decision to expend $500 on Somerset street, and that this was now being done by the street commissioner. From estimates which had been obtained, Councilman Lounsbury, in the absence of Chairman Howell of the Printing Committee, reported that the cost of printing 500 copies of the amended ordinances altered since the printing of the last pamphlet, would be $40. For the same number of copies of all of the ordinances, the price would be about $100. Typewritten copies of the new matter would cost $25, each written from the ribbon; $18 50 would be the price for six originals and six carbon copies; and $15 for four originals and eight carbon copies.

The macadamizing of Linden avenue between Somerset street and Sycamore avenue was authorized when the payment of the $200 subscribed was made. When $70 is received from residents of Myrtle avenue between Willow and Sycamore avenues, the Council decided, that portion of the avenue will be macadamized. Mr. Valiant explained that a resolution passed at the previous meeting had provided for the improvement of the rest of the avenue mentioned in the petition presented last night. The macadamizing of Duer street between Emily and Linden, as petitioned for, was authorized. A crosswalk was ordered laid on Chatham street at the Elm Place bridge.

On motion of Councilman Lounsbury, Assistant Marshals Lines and Wilson were given vacations of ten days. Councilman Peck proposed that the ordinance relating to the placing of the electric light poles in the streets of the borough be laid over for further action until the next meeting, as he wished to consult with the Borough Counsel concerning it. Clerk Arnold said the ordinance could be amended easily to change the date from August 20, as was first intended, to a date in September.

Attention was called to the fact that the assessor would have his books ready for the Council within two weeks, and that the council would have to approve them before August 20. Councilman Winckler asked if a quorum could be obtained at a meeting in two weeks. He thought that Councilman Valiant might be absent then. Mr. Valiant remarked that he did not constitute a quorum, and Mr. Winckler said that he would be away himself that night.

A number of bills were ordered paid. Councilman Neal said he had allowed the bill of Executioner Bergen for $15 for killing dogs in June, but withheld for further investigation his other bill of $33 for services since. On motion of Mr. Lounsbury the Fire Committee were authorized to accept the offer of Rumsey & Co. of $40 for the old hose carriage. The Council then adjourned until Thursday, August 16.

BUSY BOROUGH BUDGET.

What Dunellen Has Just Been Doing, and What She Does Tomorrow.

Miss Cora Case is visiting friends in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd are entertaining friends from Plainfield.

Mrs. Meinch spent yesterday with Plainfield friends.

The Borough Council Commissioners meet Monday evening.

Mrs. John Huff spent Thursday with her mother in Deal Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Teel returned yesterday from a short vacation.

Smith Lane was taken ill at his home, and is being attended by Dr. Brakeley.

Fred Andrews has returned to George Conover's Tide-Water Station as operator.

Mr. Weise, of the firm of Engel, Heller & Co., New York, called on friends yesterday.

Frank Nelson was kicked by one of his brother's horses yesterday, but was not seriously hurt.

North avenue was rolled down yesterday, and is now ready for another layer of crushed stone.

F. Lewis's illness is more serious than was at first supposed, and his condition is now very critical.

Miss Addie Weaver and Miss Martin of Plainfield enjoyed a spin on their wheels in Dunellen yesterday.

George Oriemann returned to his home in Montclair yesterday, after a pleasant visit with Dunellen friends.

Frank Marienscheck, who was stabbed by his father, was able to return to work yesterday, and is feeling much better.

In the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow Rev. A. I. Martine, pastor, will preach in the morning. In the evening Wm. Milliken will give his report of the Cleveland Christian Endeavor Convention.

A movement is on foot to get the residents of West Front street and North avenue to attend the next meeting of the Plainfield Council and petition them to hurry up the extension of the street railway.

The Junior League of the Methodist Church gave a lawn party on the parsonage lawn yesterday. It was a delightful affair, and the Juniors had an enjoyable time. Mrs. W. C. Kinsey is the Superintendent, and they number about 25.

B. Taylor and Edward White of Manasquan rode their wheels to Trenton Thursday to attend the annual meeting of the Haymakers Association, auxiliary to the Order of Red Men. Yesterday they rode to Dunellen to call on their friend C. F. Maire, who entertained them a few hours.

During the heavy shower yesterday morning water ran through a leader at the Park Hotel into the rooms, soaking the plastering on the walls and ceilings. In the pantry on the first floor a maid-servant was busily engaged, and had just left the room when a large piece of plastering fell.

In the M. E. Church tomorrow morning at 10:30 the pastor, Rev. W. C. Kinsey, will preach from the subject "Three Allies of Christianity". In the evening at 7:45 the pulpit will be filled by a Plainfield man, as Mr. Kinsey goes to East Millstone to address a union young people's meeting.

One of the most popular conductors on the Jersey Central is a resident of Dunellen, Charles Dodwell. He has been in the employ of the company 22 years, and has never had an accident nor complaint against him. With the commuters he is known as an affable gentleman, always ready to serve passengers faithfully. As a citizen he is well known in the borough, and though railway duty prevents his being much in town he takes a great interest in her affairs. Mr. Dodwell has a most estimable family, and is justly proud of his home.

Fanwood.

Mrs. George Kyte is home from Belmar, with health much improved.

Walter Force of Fanwood arose from a bed of sickness to go to Herbst's fire Friday morning. Upon reaching there he was totally exhausted and stimulants were administered by Dr. Westcott after which he was taken home. He is slowly recovering.

EVERYTHING LOVELY.

A Most Attractive Summer Outing by the Pennsylvania Railroad—A Tour Among the Lakes and Islands of the North.

The party composing the Pennsylvania Railroad's first tour to the North has just returned home, delighted not only with the general attractiveness of the trip, but the admirable manner in which it was conducted. The second party is now forming, and will go out under like conditions on Aug. 21, reaching home on return trip Sept. 3. The party will leave Philadelphia in special Pullman parlor cars over the picturesque route of the Pennsylvania to Watkins Glen, thence to Niagara Falls, the Thousand Islands, the Rapids of the St. Lawrence, Montreal, Au Sable Chasm, Lakes Champlain and George, Saratoga, and, lastly, a delightful trip down the romantic Hudson.

Ample time is allowed at each point for sight-seeing, and all the traveling is done by daylight. It would be a difficult matter to plan a trip of greater diversity of interest and attraction, and for those whose Summer vacation is limited there is no outing comparable to it. The round-trip rate, including all necessary expenses, from New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Trenton, Baltimore and Washington, is $90. Tickets will also be sold from other stations at proportionate rates. Tourist Agent and Chaperon will conduct the party.

For tickets, descriptive itineraries, and reservation of seats on the train, address Tourist Agent, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

ATTACK ON REINHART.

HINTS THAT HE WILL RESIGN THE PRESIDENCY.

Going Away on a Long Vacation on the Eve of the Atchison Investigation—His Failing Health—Thomas Baring on the Way.

(From The New York Herald of This Day.)

The Atchison Railroad scandals may develop sensations that will throw into the shade McLeod's transactions in the Philadelphia and Reading. Members of the Protective Committee say that there will be plenty of dramatic incidents in connection with the investigation of the supposed systematic overcharging of accounts to the extent of $7,200,000 during the last four years, which has shocked the investing public of this country and Europe.

But there is a surprise already in store President J. W. Reinhart, of Netherwood, it is said, is preparing to take a long vacation for his health, which is said to have greatly run down. For the past week he has been at a resort in Virginia somewhat to the surprise of certain business friends, who thought that he was in excellent health when they saw him last.

He will return to New York on Monday in time to attend the important meeting of the Reorganization Committee on Tuesday, if he chooses, when a stormy time is expected in connection with the supposed fictitious bookkeeping during the four years prior to the receivership, when the net earnings were alleged to be millions of dollars out of the way from what the management reported.

The directors of the company seem to have been put to great confusion, and it is thought that certain of them may attend the meeting and take the opportunity to free themselves from any suspicions that may be entertained. Thomas Baring, who is now on the way over from England, is expected to arrive on Monday, and without much doubt he will attend the meeting.

Mr. Reinhart's presence at the meeting would certainly be interesting, to say the least, but it is unknown whether he intends to be on hand. It cannot yet be said where he intends to spend his long vacation, but it is rumored that he may go to Europe. Richard Croker found that climate very salubrious when he was suddenly compelled to leave on account of the loss of his health, when he would have preferred to remain and testify before the Lexow Investigating Committee about the police scandals. But there are a great many foreigners whom Mr. Reinhart would not care to meet just at present, and the choice of a trip outside of America and Europe is somewhat limited.

ANOTHER GREAT INDUSTRY.

Plainfield Capital to Be Heavily Invested in a Plainfield Invention.

Acting on the principle that it is the useful novelties that make fortunes, and realizing the need of just such an article as his mechanical mind has evolved, J. T. Vegiard of North avenue, an employe of the Scott Printing Machine Works, has invented a self-locking furniture castor on which chairs or tables rest firmly until required to move, when at the instant will of the operator they make easy rolling. Mr. Vegiard has received his patent, and has shown his device to Garret Q. Packer the furniture man, who deems it so good a thing that he will enter into the manufacture of the article on a large scale. The castor is sure to be wanted for application to all movable furniture, and the Plainfield manufactory will find the demand so immense that many hands will be required in manufacture.

Jealous of Our Joy.

Before Thatcher took up his permanent abode in his present beautiful Plainfield home, he was for some time a resident of Westfield, and the fact that his Minstrel and Farce Comedy Company are to take Plainfield by storm daily for the next two weeks, during their rehearsals of the new production "About Gotham", appears to have already made Westfielders jealous. Mr. Thatcher received the following curious letter from that borough yesterday:

"Dere Sur—cann yer oblidge wee3 by rursing 1 da in yore towne & rursing nex da in own cos wees bote like yu ekwal as muche. Wen wees red abote yore pritty ladys, sum of wees wantid to jine yorseho. Anteur—J—— W——"

Mr. Thatcher replied as follows:

"Honored citizen of Westfield:—I am compelled to refuse your request, as the proprietor of Plainfield Music Hall objects to my moving his building backwards and forwards between here and your vicinity, and unless I keep my artists regularly in the theatre I fear I might have some of my 'pritty ladys' stolen from me. But the Central Railroad runs several trains daily from Westfield to Plainfield, and if you pay us a visit the evening of Aug. 23, I shall be happy to introduce you—to the Box Office."

In Court for Calling Names.

Two girls, Mamie and Josie Barry, were in the City Court this morning. They live in Marsh's row, and Mrs. Edmundson of the same locality charged them with having called her children names. The interesting story was told by both, and then the Judge remarked that all were equally to blame. The delegation from the row was finally dismissed with threats of punishment for each if they came to court again.

The Greatest Sufferers of the World are women; their delicate organizations being particularly susceptible to derangement and disease. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., purifies the blood and cures all the sicknesses peculiar to the sex; it fortifies the system against the diseases incident to old age. It is the best medicine in the world.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

A Woman Paid It.

John Kiely and John McGowan were punished in the City Court this morning for fighting on South Second street yesterday afternoon. The two were arrested by Chief Grant and Sergeant Kiely, who were told by a woman that a row was on in the house where McGowan rooms. The men were found on the front stoop. McGowan had the best of it, as he had obtained a glass and blackened one of Kiely's eyes. Each was sentenced to pay a fine of $8 or go to jail for 30 days by City Judge Coddington this morning. Kiely sent out for the money, but McGowan appeared to be glad to have the chance to go to prison and made no effort to raise the cash. A lady friend paid the fine.

POOR CHILDREN.

Big Names For Youngsters of the Future If This Idea "Goes."

Among the reforms which the coming woman will probably insist upon when she has secured her full legal and political rights will be a modification in the present custom which requires her to adopt the name of the man whom she marries. Ladies of advanced ideas have long maintained that this custom was a relic of barbarism as well as a badge of servitude. Its origin can be clearly traced to the uncivilized ages of rapine, when a wife was captured, not courted; won after the fashion of Romulus, not wooed after the manner of Romeo. In barbarous times and among savage people if a man wanted a wife he would go out and hunt one, just as he would food or some other thing essential to his comfort, and after he had bagged her would take her home and set her to cooking and making herself generally useful. She was his property by right of capture, and he called her by his name to prevent any mistakes in the matter of title. Possibly originally he may have branded her with his mark to keep thieves and unprovided bachelors from helping themselves to his stock. As time went on, however, and women became more abundant wives were much more easily captured, their disposition to run away from wife hunters apparently decreasing in precise proportion to the increase in their number, and it became unnecessary to do more than bring them into the household camp and give them the name of their owner.

The custom of forcing the wife to assume her husband's name and regarding her as a sort of matrimonial chattel finally became so firmly established that woman herself came to acquiesce in it as a matter of course and even to take pride in it. But there is clearly neither logic nor justice in it, and the coming woman is likely to protest against it as a survival of barbarism and as a mark of inequality. If man nowadays, when he feels in want of a wife, went out, as he did in the early ages, and captured one, there would be some reason in imposing his name upon her. But in point of fact he does not do all the hunting and capturing at the present day.

He is quite frequently the hunted and the captured, and it is the height of audacity for him in such cases to expect his captor to take his name and allow him all the honors of war. Apart from such considerations as these, there is no more reason why a woman should take a man's name when she marries him than that the man should take hers. If there is to be a change, why should he not change his? When John Jones marries Mary Smith, why should he not be known as Mr. Mary Smith rather than she as Mrs. John Jones? What has been the logic for the goose all these years ought to be logic for the gander under the new dispensation. Under the old custom we have had innumerable Mrs. Generals, Mrs. Presidents, Mrs. Doctors, etc. The wife, it must be admitted, nearly always is Mrs. General in point of fact, but why should it not be quite as logical for the husband to take her title, when she has one, as she is sure to have under the better regime that is promised us? If she is a judge, a doctor, a bishop or the like, the man could be conveniently and accurately described as the husband of Mrs. Bishop or Mrs. Judge So-and-so, giving him the benefit both of her glory and her maiden name.

Before the fall of man and the period when he was forced to capture his wives there appear to have been perfect equity and equality in the matter of names in matrimonial contracts. When Eve married, she did not change her name to Mrs. Adam. She insisted on preserving her individuality and her family identity by retaining her maiden name. Nor do business partners at the present time surrender their name when they enter into these relations. Why should not something of the same sort be done in matrimonial partnerships? If a woman named Green should marry a man named Dunn, for instance, the firm could be known as Green, Dunn & Co., the company being the general name for the children. If Mrs. Green should have a son John who should marry a woman named Brown, he could sign himself John Green-Dunn Brown. In this way the family pedigree could be preserved in the names, and the family tree would be easily climbed. The fact that family names would soon grow as long as the titles of some of the foreign princes who marry American girls furnishes no valid objection to this suggestion, but rather an aristocratic charm. —Baltimore Sun.

Drummond on the Ascent of Woman.

Professor Drummond, whose "Ascent of Man" has been attracting so much attention, is also a believer in the ascent of woman. In a speech at Haddo House, Lord Aberdeen's place, the other day, he remarked that "woman had been put through a marvelous discipline during the long night of history to teach her the virtues of unselfishness, tenderness, patience, compassion and love, so that she might become the teacher of the world, and it was quite certain, by all the laws of science and all the traditions of the world's past, that the great factor in the future evolution of society must be the ascent of woman." —Westminster Gazette.

Harriet Hosmer's Gift.

The Art institute of Chicago has received a gift from Harriet Hosmer of the cast she made in 1853 of the clasped hands of Robert Browning and his wife. This is the cast of which Hawthorne wrote in "The Marble Faun," "It symbolizes the individuality and heroic union of two high, poetic lives." The autograph of "Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Rome, May, 1853," is on the wrist of one; "Robert Browning, Rome," on the wrist of the other. Miss Hosmer refused in England an offer of $5,000 for this unique cast.

HEIMGANG.

"Heimgang!" So the German people
Whisper when they hear the bell
Tolling from some gray old steeple
Death's familiar tale to tell;
When they hear the organ dirges
Swelling out from chapel dome,
And the singers chanting surges,
"Heimgang!" Always going home.

Heimgang! Quaint and tender saying,
In the grand old German tongue,
That has shaped Melancthon's praying,
And the hymns that Luther sung;
Blessed is our loving Maker,
That where'er our feet shall roam,
Still we journey towards God's Acre,
Heimgang! Always going home.

STORY OF A WILL.

"I do wish the postman would come!" said Marion Cross Harfield, namesake of a maiden aunt, who had died nearly nine years ago, worth about $100,000, and, who in her will had given directions that a certain sum of this money was to be used by Mr. Harfield for the benefit of his family until her godchild, Marion, was eighteen years of age.

On the anniversary of that eighteenth birthday Marion was to receive a letter from her aunt's lawyer, which would state how the money was to be disposed of after that time.

The morning had arrived, and Marion's excitement about the letter was intense. The postman came at last, and Mr. Harfield handed to his daughter the longed for missive.

"Oh, dear, it's the queerest letter," said Marion, handing it to her father. "Please read it, papa; I can't understand it yet."

And Mr. Harfield commenced:

"Years ago I was to have been married to a man whom I thought all truth and honor. I need not tell you the whole story. It is sufficient to tell you that he did not marry me. He ruined my faith in mankind, and that's the reason that I die unmarried. I would save you, my child, from a fate like mine; therefore, I bequeath to you the interest of my money so long as you remain unmarried.

"If, at the age of forty, you are resigned to spinsterhood, the whole, principal and interest, is at your disposal.

"Whoever would get married at forty? And what's the use of all that money at that age?" exclaimed Marion.

"Should you, however, meet one for whom you can give up this money, on the wedding day read the other letter which my lawyer will forward you, and which will tell you how I wish my money disposed of."

"But, papa, and all of you; no outsiders need be told about the conditions on which I receive my money. We are going to enjoy life with it."

And "enjoy life" she did, and pretty Marion Harfield was one of the most sought after young ladies in the place.

It soon began to be noticed that wherever Marion Harfield was there, or very near, was Cecil Lynes, the son of a neighboring baronet, to be found.

The day came when Cecil could no longer refrain from telling his love. And Marion? Well, who could blame her?

"Oh, Cecil! I said I'd live and die an old maid; but, my dear, I love you—and—can't!"

"And how soon can I have my wife?" questioned Cecil some half hour afterward.

"Oh, Cecil, I forgot! Perhaps you won't marry when I tell you about my money."

And then she told the story, with a merry twinkle in her eyes, for she did not for a moment doubt the sincerity of his love.

"My darling! What do I care for your money? But what will your father say?"

"Oh! papa will sanction anything that is for my happiness, Cecil!" shyly answered Marion.

In spite of his sweetheart's words, however, it was with rather a faint heart that Cecil presented himself before Mr. Harfield.

"One may be a very estimable sort of a fellow, you know, and all that kind of thing," said the poor boy to himself; "but it's going a bit too far, I'm afraid, when it comes to offering oneself as a substitute for $100,000!"

Mr. Harfield, however, did not prove the bear that Cecil expected.

And so the engagement was agreed to. The wedding was arranged to take place early in January, and Mr. Bliss, the lawyer, was written to. He graciously accepted the invitation sent him to be present at the ceremony, and promised to bring the fateful letter with him.

The wedding and breakfast were over. The last guest had departed.

"Good-by, money!" cried excited Marion as the family gathered in the drawing-room. "Now Mr. Bliss, for the letter!"

Mr. Bliss calmly and deliberately adjusted his glasses, untied a package, and finally passed a sealed envelope to Marion.

She tore it open, tried to read it, and ended by passing it to her husband with a request to read it aloud. These were the words he read:

"And so, my child, if you are reading these lines you are married. Some one in the world has made you care enough for him to give up your fortune; and he, knowing that you will have to do so, has proved that it was for yourself alone that he wooed you.

"You are thinking, I suppose, that Aunt Marion was not so wise after all, and you have told yourself that life with even a little, with one you love, and by whom you are beloved, is better than a solitary, rich life. Well, dear, perhaps you are right. Nevertheless, my plan has succeeded. I have saved you, my child, from the misery which I had to endure.

"It was for my money, not myself, that I was wooed, and I was determined that you, my darling, should be spared this trial.

"Although when you read these words the hand that penned them will be cold in death, yet I say God bless you both! Keep the money. If you are reading this it has served its best purpose, and may he to whom you have intrusted yourself prove worthy of the trust. My plot will have succeeded!—Marion Cross."

"God helping me, I will," answered Cecil, fervently, and then, after a moment's pause, he exclaimed, in quite a disappointed tone, "You are not poor then, after all, my darling?"

"I could never be that," answered Marion, "with your love."—Forget-Me-Not.

If Lion Pulls and Horse Pulls.

If a lion and a strong horse were to pull in opposite directions, the horse would pull the lion backward with comparative ease; but if the lion were hitched behind the horse and facing in the same direction, and were allowed to exert his strength in backing, he could easily pull the horse down upon his haunches or drag him across the ring, so much greater is his strength when exerted backward from the hind legs than in forward pulling.

AN EXTRAORDINARY STORY.

A Lurid Bit of Alleged History of the Great Chicago Fair.

It is not generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that a conspiracy was organized for an anarchistic coup at the dedication of the World's Fair buildings in 1892. Two women volunteered to convey bombs to the roof of the Liberals Arts buildings and to throw them among the vast crowd assembled for the dedicatory exercises.

The plot was discovered by Major McClaughry, Chief of Police, and, upon the advice of confidential friends, he summoned into his presence the three acknowledged leaders of the Anarchists in Chicago and he told them that if within a certain time they did not provide him with satisfactory assurances that the contemplated outrage was abondoned orders would be secretly issued to the police to shoot them (the three leaders) at sight. "And," said Major McClaughry, "the police will be protected in the extreme action."

The anarchists went their way, held hurried conferences, and in due time provided the chief of police with the assurance he demanded. It is believed that only this prompt and determined stand saved Chicago from a frightful tragedy that would surely have jeoparded the success of the World's Fair; for who would have come to that Exhibtiion in the face of so monstrous a demonstration?

It is not surprising that this incident was not exploited at the time, but it is curious that since the close of the World's Fair it has not leaked out and been given a place in the secret history of that great national enterprise.

How Carlyle Thundered.

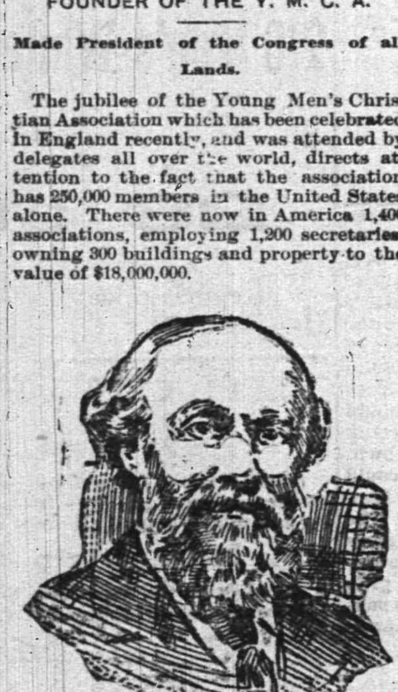
Emerson was led by David Scott to speak of Carlyle; and it was soon plain that he had sore feelings from recent intercourse with that friend, who, when trying merely to tickle, often savagely tore, the sympathies of a companion.

Emerson mentioned that, in response to an urgent telegram from Carlyle to go without a moment's delay to Chelsea, he had taken first train, and at midnight stood at the door, which was opened by Carlyle himself, who received him with the heartiest welcome. Next morning Sartor's mood was changed. He asked gruffly what had brought him over to the old country?" Surely not the "lecture!" —"the most damnable occupation the devil had suggested in this march of intellect age. Were there not wind bags enough in Lancashire, even after the Anti-Corn Law League balloon had burst? When you cry, 'Hear, O Israel!'—what are they to hear, and what have your own people heard? Turning from two-legged prophets, I am ready to cudgel all the asses of Christendom, if by striking I could force out a divine message from them, as Balaam did from his donkey!"—Blackwood's Magazine.

FOUNDER OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Made President of the Congress of all Lands.

The jubilee of the Young Men's Christian Association which has been celebrated in England recently, and was attended by delegates all over the world, directs attention to the fact that the association has 250,000 members in the United States alone. There were now in America 1,400 associations, employing 1,200 secretaries, owning 300 buildings and property to the value of $18,000,000.



SIR GEORGE WILLIAMS.

The report to the International conference referred particularly to the influence of the 450 college associations, and to the hearty support which the 100 railway associations are receiving from railroad officials, and to the prominence given to athletics and to the educational department.

The London conference elected as International president, Sir George Williams, who is distinguished as the founder of the Y. M. C. A. Among the honorable vice presidents who were chosen are, Cornelius Vanderbilt, of New York; John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, and Morris K. Jesup, of New York. L. E. Brown, of Chicago, was made the American secretary.

Says Luther Did Not Write It.

The pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church, of New York, writes to the editor of the Herald to shield Luther from the authorship of a couplet not quite in Luther's religious vein. He says: You conclude your excellent editorial on the Saengerfest with the well-known couplet:

Wer nicht liebt Wein, Weib und Gesang,
Der bleibt ein Narr sein Leben lang.

This you attribute, as is often done, to Luther. But Luther had nothing to do with this adage, which first appeared in the last century in the "Wandsbeeker Boke" and in the "Musenalmanak" of the German poet Vose, who was presumably its author.

Voss wrongly ascribed it to Luther, although it occurs as a mediaeval sentiment before Luther. Herber gave currency to Voss' forgery by inserting it in his "Volkslieder." In this manner the popular impression, which charges Luther with originating this adage, arose.

Luther, as is proven by the latest historical researches, was a very temperate man. His works are full of denunciations of intemperance and impurity, and he never spared the Germans in their weakness for drink. Vehemently he discoursed against the "Saufteufe."

NEW YORK LETTER.

HOW A GREAT METROPOLIS SPENDS ITS SUMMERS.

The King of the Dudes and the Wickedest Man Reappear to Public Gaze. A Trinity Church Door that Cost $100,000 of the Astor Millions.

A peculiar effect of the hard times may be seen any night if you will take the trouble to climb the stairs to the top gallary in some one of the few good theatres now open. You will be decidedly surprised by the class of people you will find occupying the seats in that lofty and precipitous place. In the halcyon days of plentiful money, good business, and ability to put on a little style, these people sat down in the parquet and occasionally twisted their necks a good deal for a curious glance up at the "peanut gallery," as they called it with jocular scorn. Then the pinch came. The theatre is generally one of the first places to feel the effects of a tide of economy.

Harry Hill's appearance on the stand before the Lexow investigators recalls the fact that the dive keepers of his particular stripe have almost entirely disappeared from New York. There was a time when a number of men of more or less prominence in a social and professional way frequented the resorts of such men as Harry Hill, "Billy" Borst, The Allen, and "Billy McGlory. Many of the most prominent pugilists of the present day got their first start in these dives. They have since developed into politicians, criminal lawyers, hotel keepers, theatrical men, and, indeed, almost everything else, while the dive keepers have gradually drifted away and gone out of business or wound up the circuit of their lives. To-day not any of the old school of dive keepers are in active business.

The milk-drinking habit is spreading in New York, and dealers in milk and cream, especially those professing to supply a peculiarly rich and wholesome article, find it worth while to provide in their shops little stands at which customers may sit to drink milk. There are regular milk-drinking visitors at such places, and even milk treating is practiced. A sixth avenue milk and butter dealer sells hundreds of glasses of milk over the counter, and has customers who come daily to luncheon, to drink milk and eat bread. It is not generally known that the milk-shake, unadulterated with any foreign flavor, is peculiarly wholesome, as it is palatable.

Berry Wall now has charge of an uptown broker's office, opposite Delmonico's, and solicits trade among his acquaintances. The ex-king of the dudes has developed into a business man of considerable ability. He gave up the life insurance business to identify himself with a broker's office, because he thinks the times are too hard to make money in life insurance, whereas people are always willing to speculate in the stock market if there is any chance to make money.

Manhattan Beach has secured Sousa, and it is probable that this leader will in time take the place once occupied in the affections of the public by the late P. S. Gilmore. Sousa's success is due in a great measure to his compositions, which have acquired an extraordinary popularity, but in addition to this he has a very healthy notion of the sort of music that holiday people want, and he is not disturbed in laying out his programme by any theories as to classical or profound compositions. With the Hagenbeck show, the fireworks, the surf, and the racing at Sheepshead Bay, Manhattan Beach, will probably have a remarkably successful season. The Sheepshead Bay course has always been the most popular one in the vicinity of New York. The Coney Island Racing Association has a track which the "talent" love with an abiding affection. The track is without eccentricities of any sort, and for some reason or other the horses seem to run more according to the prognostications of the "bookies" than anywhere else. Hence its enormous popularity.

The great two hundred million candle power searchlight recently put in position at Sandy Hook, constitutes an additional safeguard to the metropolis against attack by the sea. From the successful test that was made of it experts believe that a message could be flashed as far away as Yonkers, a distance of about thirty miles. Such a powerful instrument of communication—the most powerful of its kind in the world—would be of great value should any enemy make an attack by sea. At present no such attack is probable, but such a safeguard against it adds a little to the improbability.

New York has enriched the English language with the soft liquid word "pantata." By this word the Bohemians here mean the "Old Man"—the police officer who receives the money paid for "protection" by persons who are engaged in unlawful pursuits. The sweetness and melody are all in the word. The subject which it describes is irremediably bad.

Mrs. Philip Sheridan is said to be almost the only widow of a great war chief who has absolutely declined purses, funds, and any such testimonials after his death, and to resolutely opposed all offers from military societies and others who wished to erect his monument. She said she wished no other provision than Gen. Sheridan had himself made for his family; and that the erection of his tombstone was too precious a duty to be assigned to any one else.

The shops are gay with ribbons. And the summer gown is a ribbon-bedecked creation. Ribbons float o'er gauzy skirts, they tie up the puffs of huge sleeves and they are formed into Frenchy rosettes which appear in the most unexpected places. Neck ribbons are the vogue again.

The Astor memorial doors, modelled by Karl Bitter, for the main entrance of Trinity church, have been finished in bronze. The total cost of the work, including the side doors, reaches $100,000. The gates proper are about fourteen feet in height, and are surmounted by a carved tympanum, four feet in height, on which is represented Christ with arms extended, opening the Kingdom of Heaven. To the right and left hand are angels, while directly below, in niches, are the figures of the twelve apostles. At the sides of the six panels of the gates are sixteen niches filled with the figures of saints. The first panel represents the expulsion from Paradise, the second the dream of Jacob, the third the Annunciation, the fourth the Resurrection, the fifth a scene from the Apocalypse of St. John—the twenty-four elders praising the Lord—and the sixth the end of the world. Above and below the panels are figures relative to them representing respectively, mortality and sin, time and addition, eternity and divine justice. These in turn are surrounded by the heads of people prominent in New York history. The work is the most elaborate of its kind this side of the ocean.

CHRIS BUCKLEY'S PRIZE FIGHT.

How the Blind Statesman Received the Story of a Big Mill.

"Did you ever hear how Chris Buckley, the blind statesman, came near being knocked out in a prize fight?" said a distinguished Californian at the Metropole not long ago. "It happened in this way: While in London a few years ago, he went to see the Slavin-Jackson fight in company with John Russell and Charles Frohman. 'Look here, John,' said Chris, 'you needn't bother about describing each movement of the fight to me. I'll sit between you and Charlie, and whenever Jackson gets in a good punch, you give me a nudge and let Charlie do the same for Slavin.' In the excitement of the fight, the two managers hit somewhat harder than they intended, and as Jackson had the best of it, Russell became particularly strong. When the colored fighter knocked out the Australian, the politician got a terrific nudge from Russell's elbow, who shouted at the same time:—'Slavin is knocked out!' 'Thank heaven for that,' gasped Buckley, 'if it had lasted another round it would have been me.'"

He Didn't Want the Extra Room.

The real estate man had sent the facetious man to look at a five room house he said he wanted. The prospective tenant found it in need of extensive repairs, and went back to the agent's office.

"I didn't want a six room house," he said, solemnly.

"That isn't a six room house," retorted the agent.

"Yes, it is."

"But I say it is not," and the agent began counting them—"there's the kitchen, two bed-rooms, reception room and dining-room; that's five, ain't it?"

"Yes, and there's room for improvement; that's six," added the facetious man, and wanted to see something else.—Detroit Free Press.

An Englishman's Opinion of Niagara.

The difficulty which certain foreigners have in finding anything remarkable in what they see on this continent is illustrated by a story of an Englishman's visit to Niagara. A Canadian friend who was acting as guide fell into ecstasies over the scene.

"Now," said the Canadian, "you stand before Niagara itself."

"Niagara? aw—Niagara. But, now—aw—tell me, you know, what is there wonderful about it?"

"What is there wonderful! Why, it is Niagara!"

"Ah! But, you know, it's only water coming down. But if it were going up, now!"

Astonishing—Until You Know.

It is hard to be called upon to see the point of a joke without being given sufficient time to see it in. A gentleman with a serious face said at a recent small gathering of people:

"What are we coming to? Statistics show that in Massachusetts there are thirty thousand persons, all natives of the United States, who cannot speak the english language."

"Impossible!" every one exclaimed.

"It is true, nevertheless," persisted the grave faced man.

"And native Americans, you say?"

"Certainly—and all under two years of age!"—Youth's Companion.

A Joke, from London.

According to a London newspaper, a cow that wore a bell having been run over and killed on the railway, the owner brought suit against the railway company for damages. It was proved that the driver blew his whistle loudly and tried to frighten he cow off the track. But the farmer's lawyer also proved that the cow rang her bell and tried to frighten the engine off the track, and so the jury decided in his favor.

From the Elephant's Point of View.

"In the slow evolution of the race," mused the elephant, looking with languid interest at the throng of curious gazers that stood on the outside of the ropes and fed him with cakes, peanuts and candy, "how many millions of years it must require to evolve from the shapeless and rudimentary projection on the face of the creature called man the full and perfect proboscis!"—Chicago Tribune.

He Wasn't Sensitive.

Mother—"Miss Smithers, your schoolmistress, tells me she is always being obliged to scold you, Johnnie. I'm so sorry to hear that."

Johnnie (considerately)—"Oh, never mind, mother. It doesn't matter. I'm not one of those sensitive children, you know!"—Brooklyn Life.

Goodsby (waking up)—Br-r-randy!

Simple Enough.

"You raise an enormous lot of tomatoes, John!" said the city dweller. "What in the would do you do with them?"

"Why, we eat as many as we can, and what we can't eat we can."

A Creditable Admission.

A great deal can be said in favor of water as a beverage.—Nebraska State Journal.

An English officer named Harrington in India discovered a working telephone between the two temples at Pauj, about a mile apart. The system is said to have been in operation at Pauj for over 2000 years.

IT'S HARD, BUT LET'S ALL TRY.

When you've got a thing to say,
Say it! Don't take half a day.
When your tale's got little in it,
Crowd the whole thing in a minute!
Life is short—a fleeting vapor—
Don't you fill the whole blame paper
With a tale, which at a pinch,
Could be cornered in an inch!
Boil her down until she simmers;
Polish her until she glimmers.
When you've got a thing to say,
Say it! Don't take half a day!
—Atlanta Constitution.

NO REST FOR THE WEARY.

'Twould do a feller lots o' good,
Before the seasons pass,
To get away from politics—
Off yonder, in the grass,

To roam aroun' a little,
Where the river sings its song,
With nothin' but a can o' bait
An' fishin' rod along.

But there's little use in wishin'
For a breath o' country air;
For the candidates are fishin',
An' they'd catch you—even there!

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

CONFLICT OFF KOREA

Japan Reported To Have Captured Three Ships.

Chinese Residents in Kobe Attacked by a Mob and Badly Treated—Japanese Legation at Taku Insulted by Roughs—Vessels Forbidden To Fly the American Flag.

London, Aug. 6.—A dispatch from the Central News from Shanghai, dated Aug. 5, says:

"It is reported that there has been another engagement off the Korean coast, in which three Chinese warships were captured by the Japanese. The report has not been confirmed.

"A Japanese mob attacked the Chinese residents in Kobe a day or two ago, severely maltreating them. A riot ensued, in which many were injured.

A Chinese mob in Taku insulted the members of the Japanese legation as they were returning home from Pekin. The mob's action led to a tumult, which was tardily suppressed by the authorities.

"The Japanese in Canton have been attacked a number of times by roughs, but so far there has been no serious trouble there.

"The European Municipal Council of Shanghai has warned the volunteers to be ready to act promptly in the event of rioting or incendiarism.

"The Smith and Cass coasting vessels, which now fly the American flag, have been forbidden by the American consul to land munitions of war in Formosa."

The officials of the Chinese legation in London say that they have received no information concerning the naval engagement mentioned in the foregoing dispatch. They also profess to regard the fight of July 29 as a trifling and overrated affair.

AN ENGLISH PROPOSITION.

Wants Chinese and Japanese To Withdraw From Korea.

London, Aug. 6.—The Standard maintains that, despite every excuse deducible from later reports, there is nothing that exonerates Japan from the charge of brutality and barbarism towards the Chinese. Not long ago, it says, an incident like the Kow shing affair would have immediately brought a British squadron to Tokio. The Standard proposes that Russia and England jointly demand that both China and Japan withdraw their forces from Korea forthwith, and entrust the government of the peninsular to an international conference. "Failing this," the Standard adds, "we must anticipate a very anxious period, and no time should be be lost in increasing the British squadron in the far east."

Think That Japan Will Win.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The progress of the Chinese-Japanese war is watched here with impartial interest. The people have no bias in favor of either side. The expectation is that Japan will win. It is based on the facts that for years retired German officers have been at work in the Japanese army, while numerous Japanese officers have got their educations in German residents. The latter have always shown high capacity for learning the art of war. Gen. Oshima, now commanding the Japanese army in Korea, studied the German system carefully and used his influence to engage Col. Frieherr von Gotschreiber to organize the Japanese general staff.

A FARMER BADLY THRASHED.

He Insulted a Child and Persons Came Miles To Punish Him.

Elkton, Md., Aug. 6.—The village of Fair Hill, this county, is much agitated over an affair that took place in that vicinity.

Several days ago William Carnish, aged sixty years, insulted Mabel Anderson, a four-year-old child of a prosperous farmer, and the citizens took it upon themselves to punish the offender. All the farmers for several miles around came into town about dark, and, going to the home of Carnish, took him into a field and there gave him a good thrashing. The citizens that composed the mob were all well known to Carnish. The latter was severely whipped, and his cries could be heard for a considerable distance.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

Rhode Island's Summer Resorts Report Several Cases.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 6.—John Sisson was drowned at Quonoconaug Beach yesterday while bathing. He was unmarried.

William Allen, aged sixty-two, while bathing at Apponaug Cove, was stricken with heart-disease and died immediately. He leaves a wife and five sons.

A Frenchman, whose name could not be learned, watchman at the Rockingham House, Narragansett Pier, was drowned while bathing there.

End of a Big Mine Strike.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 6.—The long strike is over. Late Saturday night the miners' convention voted to declare the strike off and work will be resumed in most of the mines to-morrow morning at the terms first announced by the operators, forty cents a ton. The vote stood 137 in favor of declaring the strike off to 96 against. Thirteen thousand miners were represented.

Banca Romana Scandal.

London, Aug. 6.—The Rome correspondent of the Central News says that the Italian government has appointed a committee of three—Presidents Cesarini and Bonasi, of the courts of cassation, and Senator Costa—to inquire into the conduct of the judges who presided over the recent trial of persons implicated in the Banca Romana scandal.

Jackson Leaves for the East.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 6.—Peter Jackson leaves San Francisco to-morrow, en route for New York, and will arrive in this city next Saturday.

Death of an Old Citizen.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Franklin Lawton, one of the oldest and best-known residents of New Rochelle, N. Y., is dead at his home.

AN AMERICAN'S VIEWS

Ex-Secretary Foster on the China-Japan War.

Says That the Deprivation of Li Hung Chang of the Yellow Coat Indicates a Change in the Administration of the Chinese Empire—Affairs To Be Managed by Younger Men.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster, who is sojourning at Henderson Harbor, near here, with his family, and who has recently returned from China, Korea and Japan, was interviewed by a representative of the United Press on the China-Japan war, and the deprivation of Li Hung Chung of the yellow coat. General Foster said:

"When I was in China last Li Hung Chang was the recognized ruling spirit of the Chinese government in all foreign matters. It must have been a very grave neglect that would bring about such a severe measure as that reported in the papers. It probably indicates a change of personnel in the administration of the Chinese Empire. I know nothing, of course, about the immediate causes which have led to such an act as the deposition of the viceroy, Li Hung Chang, who has for the past generation been a leading force in the Chinese administration.

"Li Hung Chang is already past 70 years of age, and two or three years ago was in poor health, and even at the time of my last visit, although he appeared in good physical condition he was very careful of his diet and gave himself special care. It may be that the Chinese emperor, entering as he is upon a great foreign war, has been recommended by his counsellors to put the management of affairs into the hands of younger men, better adapted to bear the strain of the great burden which is certain to rest upon them while the struggle continues."

Being asked if the loss of the yellow coat is irreparable, General Foster said:

"I think it signifies more than temporary displeasure. It is rather an indication of the loss of the confidence of the government in him as the administrative head of affairs."

Concerning the particular issue on which the war has been declared, the veteran diplomat said he knew no more about that than what he had seen in the newspapers.

"China and Japan," he said, "have for generations occupied very much the same attitude towards each other as the French and Germans do in their relations. It is also a well-known fact that for a number of years there has been a hostile feeling between them growing out of their relations to Korea, but the enmity is more deep-seated and long standing, and the Korean imbroglio is probably taken advantage of to settle by war their old differences and animosities."

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT.

Senator Harris' Daughter Marries a Livery Stable Keeper.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 6.—Miss Lavinia L. Harris, a young and attractive daughter of Congressman Harris, of Kansas, was quietly married here on Saturday to Wade D. Bohannon, proprietor of a livery stable at Luray, Va.

Miss Harris has been attending a school at Luray, and during this season was spending the summer there. Some time ago she met Bohannon, with whom she formed a close friendship, which ripened into love.

On Saturday when Miss Harris received a letter calling her to Washington, she notified her affianced, and an elopement was arranged and carried out. The couple reached Hagerstown late Saturday night and were married in the parlors at the Baldwin House, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Dr. S. W. Owen.

FLOODS IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

An Unusually Heavy Downpour of Rains.

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 6.—Specials from various sections of the state report an unusually heavy downpour of rain. At Sumter 10 to 12 inches fell during the last twenty-four hours. There were no church services and no trains on the Charleston, Sumter and Northern railroad there yesterday.

At Florence the rainfall in forty-eight hours was five and three-quarters inches. Streams are out of their banks, bridges washed away and crops seriously injured.

Comments on the Race.

London, Aug. 6.—The Sportsman says that Saturday's race was fairly sailed and without a fluke, and that George Gould and Hank Haff have good reason to be proud of their boat.

The Times says: "The result is adequately accounted for by the admitted superiority of the Vigilant in a strong wind. That is something on which the Americans can legitimately plume themselves. It is a conclusive answer to the cavils of British yachtsmen against the American type of yacht as less able than the British in squally weather."

Slight Chance of Recovery.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—There is but little hope that F. A. Podsuck, the Russian travelling salesman for George Lamb & Son, of Buffalo, N. Y., who shot himself under the right ear at the Nicollet hotel Saturday, will recover. Podsuck had been robbed and became despondent.

Mrs. John W. Dunne Dead.

New York, Aug. 6.—Mrs. John W. Dunne, wife of the well-known theatrical manager, and who was known upon the stage as Miss Patti Rosa, died yesterday at St. Francis's Hospital from the effects of an operation performed for inflammation of the vermiform appendix.

Artists Burned Out.

New York, Aug. 6.—A fire which started in the Vandyke studio buildings, Nos. 939 to 945 Eighth avenue, last night, burned out half the colony of artists occupying the three upper floors of the buildings. The loss will probably reach $100,000.

CAPT. FREITCH'S VOYAGE.

Starts for Queenstown in a 40-Foot Boat Built by Himself.

New York, Aug. 6.—Captain A. Freitch, the daring navigator who intends to cross the ocean to Queenstown in a forty-foot boat, started from the Battery yesterday afternoon on his voyage. There was a large crowd of Scandanavians on the battery to see him go, and were very enthusiastic. Others accompanied him down the bay on tugs, and some rowboats went as far as the Narrows.

The McCuldin brothers gave the brave skipper a gratuitous tow out to the hook. A number of Swedish Americans acted as escort to the Mina as far as the lower bay.

The Mina is a schooner-rigged craft, with a centre board, and the captain will also be the cook, mate and crew. He says he can make the voyage in about six weeks. His vessel has provisions for six months. The Mina was built by Captain Freitch without assistance from any one, and she is a shapely and staunch boat. She has two masts and a cabin large enough for the crew.

ILLEGAL SEAL FISHING.

The First Case To Come Up Under the Paris Tribunal Findings.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 6.—The first case to come up under the provisions of the findings of the Paris tribunal of arbitration to settle the Behring Sea controversy between the United States and Great Britain, was brought to light at Astoria by the arrival there last Thursday of the American schooner Kate and Ann from Behring waters, having on board 608 sealskins, part of which were caught within the closed zone in the waters covered by the provisions of the tribunal's findings and included in the proclamation of the president, issued in pursuance of the same.

Collector Paige being in doubt as to the status of the case, has asked instructions from the United States District attorney. If the facts are as set out in Collector Paige's letter the vessel will likely be seized and libelled.

VON DER AHE AMUSED.

Says the Salaries of His Ball Players Are Not Overdue.

St. Louis, Aug. 6.—The statement from Pittsburg that the Browns were up in arms because their salaries were long overdue amused President Von Der Ahe when he was informed about it. "My men are paid off every fifteen days when they are at home," said he, "and all the boys received their salaries in full on July 15 except Shugart, against whom I had assessed a fine of $25, which was afterwards remitted.

"About $1,700 is due them for the period that has elapsed since then, but no salaries are paid while the team is away from home. The league contracts make this stipulation, and the players know that I am not required to pay them a cent until they return in September."

CHARGED WITH HIGH TREASON.

German Socialist Editors and Printers Placed Under Arrest.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—Editor Duefel, of the socialist paper Volksstimme, of Mannheim, and the printers, Dreesbach and Fents, have been arrested on the charge of high treason in having printed, on August 3, the republican manifesto of 1848. Dreesbach was formerly a member of the Reichstag.

Judge Aylesworth Dead.

Providence, R. I., August 6.—Judge Eli Aylesworth, a well-known man of the city and state, died at his late residence yesterday in the ninety-third year of his age. He was identified with many of the banks in this city in the capacity of director or president, and besides being a member of the legislature at various times, was judge of the common pleas court from 1838 to 1841.

To Prolong the Strike.

Spring Valley, Ill., Aug. 6.—The miners of this city, La Salle, Peru, Oglesby, Seatonville, Ladd and Laceyville, to the number of about 5,000, held a mass-meeting near this city Saturday and, with the exception of 200 La Salle miners who have signed contracts to return to work to-day at the Columbus scale, all voted in favor of prolonging the strike begun last May.

Coal Strike Ended.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 6.—The coal strike here, excepting the miners of the Consolidated Coal company, is virtually ended. At a mass-meeting the operators representing the Kelly and Pawnee Coal companies and the miners reached an agreement. Shooters will be paid $2.50 a day and shovelers 15 cents a ton. Work will be resumed to-morrow.

Gay Head Clay Land.

Cottage City, Mass., Aug. 6.—A New York syndicate has purchased a large tract of Gay Head clay land and will begin operations there immediately. A new wharf and approved appliances for digging the various clays are projected. Huyler, the confectioner, is in the

Nothing of Special Importance in View This Week.

Washington, Aug. 6.—No programme has been arranged for this week in the house. Mr. Paynter gave notice last Thursday that he would call up the Williams-Settle contested election case, from the Fifth North Carolina district, to-day, and that it is the only important item of business whose consideration is fixed. Mr. Paynter and Mr. Brown, the latter chairman of the committee, and both democrats, are booked for speeches in favor of Settle. Committees which have not already had an opportunity to present bills for consideration will doubtless be given a day in turn for that purpose, but the assignments will be made from day to day.

Conference reports on the appropriation bills yet remaining undisposed of and on the tariff bill will, of course, have the right of way at all times. The appropriation bills are the sundry civil, Indian, river and harbor and general deficiency. The river and harbor bill was supposed to have been disposed of Friday, but the discovery of errors of omission from the statement will probably necessitate a new reference to the conferees, as was done in the senate Saturday.

The report on the tariff bill, even should one be agreed upon, as expected, within a day or two, will not reach the house until the close of the week, as it must first go to the senate for consideration.

FIRE ON A BALL FIELD.

The Chicago Club Loses $15,000 Through a Cigar Stub.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Time was called in the seventh inning of the Chicago-Cincinnati ball game yesterday afternoon at the Westside park by the cry of fire, followed by scenes never before witnessed at a sporting event in this city. Curiosity to see the fire led more than a thousand spectators to rush into danger, and in their frantic efforts to extricate themselves from their perilous positions they became panic-stricken.

They found themselves hemmed in by fire on one side and high barbed-wire fences on the other, erected to keep the people from encroaching on the diamond.

The exits were few and small, and although other means of escape were provided, the imperilled and fear-crazed crowd backed against the barbed fencing. Their mad rush to get away from the advancing flames resulted in the injury of scores.

Cuts, bruises, contusions, a broken arm and broken leg were the injuries sustained. Many of the victims, although badly hurt, left the grounds before the police or others could get their names.

The property of the club was damaged $15,000 before the fire department extinguished the flames. A cigar stub thrown among rubbish started the fire.

HOBOES IN A FIGHT.

They Have an Encounter With B. & O. Employes.

Connellsville, Pa., Aug. 6.—A detachment of hoboes from Coxey's camp at Washington, D. C., had an encounter with a Baltimore and Ohio railroad crew a short distance east of here yesterday. A train for the west was pulling out when about twenty-five of the commonwealers boarded a box car and refused to be dislodged. Reinforcements arrived and the Coxeyites bound west fled.

About 200 members of the Washington State army are camped here, waiting on the division that is in jail at Uniontown for trespassing on railroad property. Jeffries addressed his followers yesterday. He said he and his men would go to the national capital over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and that they would not walk. His intention is to go in small squads as far as Harper's Ferry, where all the forces, amounting to 2,000 men, will be consolidated and march to Washington in a body.

FOR KILLING HIS DOG.

A Desperate Pole Makes an Effort To Wreck a Trolley Car.

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 6.—A Polander made a bold attempt to wreck a trolley car on the Norristown and Bridgeport line. The car carried eight passengers, and as it neared Swede's church, going at a high rate of speed, Motorman William Winterbottam saw a high stump on the track, but managed to stop the car as the stump was struck.

The Polander then jumped out from behind some bushes and attacked the motorman with an axe.

Conductor Deering went to Winterbottam's assistance, and was badly cut with the axe. Winterbottam finally knocked the Polander down with the motor handle, cutting a deep gash in his head. A warrant is out for the man's arrest.

The killing of the Polander's dog by the trolley was the cause of his attempt to wreck the car.

Mrs. Croker's Condition Unchanged.

Quarantine, S. I., Aug. 6.—The condition of Richard Croker's mother, who is ill at the residence of her son-in-law, Health Officer Jenkins, is unchanged. Dr. Jenkins does not look for any immediate improvement or relapse. The old lady is eighty-six years of age.

STRIKE OFF AT CHICAGO

The A. R. U. Admits Defeat at Last.

It Is Said the Strike Will Be Declared at an End at Other Points by the Middle of the Week—President Debs Offered a Large Salary To Travel and Lecture.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—At a meeting of the general strike committee selected by the special convention of the American Railway Union last week, and which was held at Uhlich's hall yesterday, it was decided to declare the great strike off in Chicago. This does not include the Chicago and Eastern Illinois nor the Santa Fe, where the men have voted to continue the strike to settle local grievances, and where they think they have a fair show of winning.

There were twenty-four local unions represented at the meeting in the afternoon and each representative had been empowered to vote to declare the strike off. The meeting was a secret one, and at adjournment the only statement given out was the following:

"By a vote of the local unions of the American Railway Union in Chicago they have decided that the strike shall be declared off in the city of Chicago, with the exception of the local unions on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois and the Santa Fe, where the strike still remains in full force and effect. This is effective at 7 o'clock Monday morning, August 6. The decision does not apply to the systems outside of Chicago and the Pullman employes will be expected to settle their own differences."

Resolutions explaining the reasons for calling off the strike were adopted.

The example set by the Chicago unions will be followed immediately by the unions throughout the western country, and by Wednesday night at the latest the strike will be declared off all over the country except on the two roads named.

President Debs left the city yesterday for Terre Haute, and will go from there to New York, where he will deliver a lecture at Cooper Institute. Debs has been offered a large salary to travel and lecture under the auspices of a Boston lecture bureau, which he may accept while east.

FOR A SWIMMING CONTEST.

Efforts Being Made to Bring Eastern and Western Clubs Together.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Last year a swimming competition was arranged between the New York Athletic club and the Chicago Athletic association, but the scheme did not go through, owing to some difference of opinion on the expense question. It now appears that there will be some rare sport this fall among the swimmers, for a C. A. A. man says:

"It is almost certain that a series of and the C. A. A. The idea originated swimming contests will be arranged between the athletes of the N. Y. A. C. and the C. A. A. The idea originated with Prof. John Robinson, who attempted to put it through last season, but failed because of the decision of the N. Y. A. C. in regard to the prizes.

A representative of the Chicago organization will go east in a few days with full power to confer with the N. Y. A. C. officers regarding the contests. Efforts will also be directed to bring the Boston Athletic Association into line for another series of contests in the Hub.

2,037 MILES ON BICYCLES.

The Relay Race from Washington to Denver Begins To-Day.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The relay bicycle race to Denver is attracting much attention from cycle riders all over the country. The great race of 2,037 miles, from Washington to Denver, will start from this city to-day. Washington wheelmen will make the first run of seventy-seven miles to Hagerstown. The time scheduled is seven hours and thirty-five minutes, but the boys say they may do the distance in an even seven hours.

GOOD GOVERNMENT LEAGUE.

Citizens of Allegheny Organize to Suppress Gambling.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 6.—An organization known as the Good Government league has been formed in Allegheny city. The object of the order is to rid the city of gambling houses and to wipe out the corruption said to exist in municipal affairs.

The league is composed of prominent Allegheny citizens.

Signed the Outhwaite Law.

New York, Aug. 6.—It has been announced that President Cleveland had signed the Outhwaite law regulating enlistment in the army and for all recruiting to be done in accordance with its provisions in the future. This law reduces the term of all enlistments from five to two years, and does away with the provisions for a discharge after part of the term has been served.

Killed His Wife, Shot Himself.

New York, Aug. 6.—Joseph B. Hunt, a paper-hanger, forty years old, shot and killed his wife, Barbara, thirty-seven years old, at No. 1499 Second avenue yesterday. He then turned the revolver upon himself and put a bullet through his head. Hunt will probably die.

Pittsburg Strikers Return To Work.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 6.—The Pittsburg Forge and Iron company's men have been on strike for two weeks, but returned to work this morning, the company having agreed to the amalgamated association's rate of $4 per ton for puddling.

A Mother's Rash Act.

Parsons, W. Va., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Robert Cross, of Moore, this county, yesterday attempted to poison herself and four children with "Rough on Rats." The timely arrival of a physician saved the lives of all. No cause is assigned for the deed.

To-Day's Yacht Race.

Cowes, Aug. 6.—The Vigilant, Britannia and Satanita will take part in the Royal London Yacht club regatta to-day.

Local Weather Forecast.

Fair; warmer; west winds becoming variable.

IN WILHELM'S REALM

The Desire To Repress Socialism Criticised.

A Fierce Political Battle Likely To Occur in Germany—German Papers Comment on the Emperor's Wishes. Revolutionary Danger Will Grow—Doubt as to the Nature of Bills.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The announcement of the Nordeutsche Allgemeine Zietung that bills for the suppression of socialism and anarchism will be laid before parliament is in all months. That it precludes a bitter political conflict nobody can doubt. Before it was made the report was abroad that several heads of federal states, notably Bavaria, Saxony and Baden, had been urging the emperor to assent to the renewal of the old exceptional laws in a modified form. Well-grounded fears that the report was true were voiced at once in liberal quarters. The vigor of the protests give a foretaste of the bitterness which the government's proposals will bring into politics.

Prof. Delbrueck, in his Preussische Jahrbuecher, predicts what will happen after the new anti-socialist bill shall have been passed. The hope of the masses that they can attain to their legitimate aims through direct parliamentary action, he says, will become vaguer, the tendency to avenge their wrongs by other means will increase. The revolutionary danger will grow instead of lessening. The causes of social discontent, instead of being cured, will take on more aggravated forms. The Freissinige Zeitung, Eugen Richter's radical daily, expresses similar opinions. After analyzing the case of Santo Caserio, the murderer of President Carnot, it says:

"Against such crimes exceptional laws are of no avail. The uselessness of the new French law has been demonstrated throughout Caserio's trial."

On the other hand the Hamburger Nachrichten fights for its patron, Prince Bismarck, and inveighs against everybody who points to the failure of his repressive laws. "Prof. Delbrueck's article," it says, "is an appeal to cowardice. No statesman can allow the threats of the enemies of the order to influence his policy. The danger to which the heads of government may be exposed in taking a certain course of action will not influence them if the measures decided upon be deemed necessary to the safety of the state."

There is still much doubt as to the exact nature of the bills to which the Nordeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung alluded in its fateful announcement. In a recent issue of the Freissinnige Zeitung Richter expressed the belief that the government would continue to act upon the conviction that, while it was necessary to attempt by law the suppression of the social democracy, it would not serve the purpose to enact exceptional laws. Richter does not doubt, however, that strong reactionary changes in the criminal laws are contemplated. His information is to this effect:

Count Botho zu Eulenburg, the Prussian premier, has placed himself in strong antagonism to the chancellor and with Dr. Miquel, is calling for a dashing campaign against the democrats in Prussia. He proposes to grant the police power to prevent or dissolve summarily all political meetings called by anti-government parties. He wishes to strike all who oppose the government, and thus throw down the gauntlet to the parties who constitute a majority of the Reichstag.

Richter points clearly to a government plan of divergent politics in Prussia and the empire, with the reaction in full control of Prussia. This idea, however, does not correspond with the Nordeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung's statement nor with general opinion. He is right without doubt in saying that repressive measures would consolidate the social democratic ranks.

The National Zeitung published on Friday a curious leader on American affairs. The writer's conclusion was that the Anglo-Saxon and German races were losing their determining influence on the union's affairs. The influx of Catholic Irish and Italians, as well as other Latin elements, he thought, would at no very distant date, lead to the crisis—feared now by some American politicians—in which the union would be divided into three publics, one on the Pacific, another on the Atlantic and the third on the Gulf of Mexico.

The summer resorts are crowded as seldom before. The Americans are exceptionally numerous, especially at Kissengen. This resort has had 12,159 visitors since the season opened. Ems and Carlsbad are enjoying an unusually successful season.

CAPT. TOWNSEND DROWNED.

The Last of Newport's Deep Sea Skippers Gone.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 6.—Captain William F. Townsend, harbor master and the last of Newport's deep-sea captains, was drowned while bathing at the beach late last evening.

He had, with a friend, partaken heartily of a clambake, and it is presumed that he received a shock while in the water. He was a prominent Elk and a member of Washington Commandery, K. T., also president of the Marine Society an old association of sea captains, of whom he was the last representative.

Blinded With Acid.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Mrs. John W. Froma, the wife of John W. Froma, the general superintendent of a large wholesale furniture establishment in this city, met Miss Louise Leber, a young woman of the east side, at the corner of Clinton and Emslie streets at a late hour in the night and dashed a vessel filled with corrosive acid in Miss Leber's face.

The young woman's face is in a horrible condition and she will lose her eyesight. Almost a pint of the burning liquid was used.

The crime, it is supposed, was prompted by jealousy.

China Thanks Germany.

London, Aug. 6.—The Chinese government has specially thanked Germany for the action of the German warship Iltis in rescuing 150 Chinese who were struggling in the water after the sinking of the transport Kow Shing.

TOOTS IN THE BOROUGH.

North Plainfield Has a Perfect Signal System at Last.

The completion of the borough's system of electric fire-alarm was marked by a celebration with sample sounds Saturday afternoon. The testing of the boxes was done with the whistle blown by 100 pounds of steam and the blows were as loud as could have been desired.

Each of the twelve boxes was pulled, beginning with 141 at the corner of Pearl and Somerset streets, and ending with 151 on Washington avenue in front of the Park Club.

The sounding of boxes was attended to by a party which included Councilmen Lounsbury and Peck of the Fire Committee, Chief Fairchild of the fire department and Frank Stover of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company. They drove from box to box in a carriage, always drawing a group of interested boroughites about them.

In the engine house Driver Peter Seader wound up the clockwork and recorded the signals. A. C. Farrand, who had charge of the establishing of the system, attended to the workings of the whistle at the electric light works.

The testing began just before 5 and lasted for an hour. Not a mistake was made by the whistle, and those in the house counted the seconds and followed the wagon by the sounds until they were satisfied that no fault could be found with any part of the system. The indicator with which the borough system is furnished showed the figures of the blow in plain sight, not punching holes in a paper band as the city clockwork does.

In blowing Box 157 there was a long pause between the first and second rounds, and when the number 115 came in, instead of the second 157, the crowd in the house thought at once that a flaw had been found in the system. They found out afterwards that the alarm had purposely been cut out and changed for the one round to show the councilmen the complete scheme of operation.

All of the householders keys will soon be given out by Chief Fairchild. No change will be made in the signalling, the authorities being satisfied with everything, including the three blows for time at 6 in the afternoon with which a number of boroughites have found fault.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Crescent track is again in good condition.

Harry Yaeger of Edsall's is spending a week wheeling through the State.

Herbert Randolph of Mt. Pleasant starts tomorrow on his wheel for Lake Hopatcong.

Walter Freeman and Harry Coward took a ride on their wheels Saturday to Mt. Laurens, near Springfield. They report having had a delightful time.

With probably a single exception, it is probable that the Crescents will not pay the entry fee of their riders in any more races this season. The racers are discussing the matter at length.

Monte Scott won three prizes at the meet of the Tioga Cricket Club in Philadelphia Saturday. He will receive but one of the prizes, however, as a time limit had been fixed and the mud on the track prevented the riders from coming in in time in two of the races that Scott was in.

Of course no estimate can be made of the entries that the Crescents will have in their matinee races of Wednesday, as the racers are allowed to enter at the track, but that about everyone in the local crowd will be in is an assured fact. It is expected that the race open to members of the Victor Wheelmen will be among the most hotly contested.

The statement made by the Elizabeth Journal Saturday that the Crescents would not be able to have their proposed races Saturday, August 18, because they could not secure a sanction, had not the slightest foundation. No difficulty was experienced in getting the L. A. W. permission to hold the meet. The entries are coming in, and all arrangements are being made in spite of the remark of the Elizabeth paper.

The New York Press of yesterday gave the Crescents an article of praise and advertisement yesterday, commenting upon the success of the club, commending the zeal and skilful arranging of the officers, telling of the records held by its crack member, Barnett, and of the rise of Monte Scott under its colors, and then concluding with a total forgetfulness of the magnificent track, remarking that the club held a great meet July 4 on the Waverly track and that they are to hold another soon on the same track.

Lightning's Queer Freak.

A case which is exciting considerable interest among the residents of Bonhamtown, south of Metuchen, is the affliction of Miss Henrietta Sofield of that place, a cousin of Mrs. Joseph Krewson of West Front street and a niece of Mrs. John Q. Adams of East Second street. Miss Sofield was sitting by a window at her home with a heated iron in her hand when a flash of lightning appeared to enter the house and play about her head and arm.

It did not harm her directly, but the shock and fright paralyzed part of the nerves of her face and distorted it somewhat. She is about the house at her work as usual, and her physician thinks she will finally recover entirely. The affliction is the more peculiar because the lightning made no other demonstration about the house or in the neighborhood at the time it brought about the attack of nerve paralysis.

E. B. Ryder of Central avenue went today to Long Beach to search for the body of Mabel A., his two-year-old daughter, who was drowned by falling from a dock there Friday afternoon. No news has yet been received.

Miss Mabel Wilson, efficient saleswoman in Putman & DeGraw's dry-goods store, left town this morning on a two-weeks vacation, which will be spent in Jerusalem, a suburb of Albany. She will go by boat from New York.

Charles A. Lee of 50 Grove street leaves tomorrow for Course Gold Gulch, Colorado, where are situated the mines in which he invested. He is secretary of the New Citizens Gold Mining Company, and has just received a sworn statement that the gold assays $43 a ton.

There's only one Charley Hall, and Plainfield is as glad to get him back as she was disconsolate while he was away. After a glorious bicycle trip all through New York State he is back at his post in Reynolds's Pharmacy, and Manager Armstrong has gone away to rusticate.

Henry F. Ritterbusche of 23 Summit avenue, special officer of the Jersey Central, has obtained two-weeks leave of absence, and will have a vacation such as he deserves. He will visit the Thousand Islands, Niagara, Montreal, and wind up at Barnegat Bay for a season of such fishing as only New Jersey can give.

A Mile Against Time.

What! You never saw Barnett ride? Well then be sure and see him do his mile against time at the matinee races at Crescent Oval Wednesday, Aug. 8. Admission, 10 cents, including grand stand.

TELEGRAPH TICKS.

Foreign Happenings of Today.

Vigilant won again a beautiful race. She is yet to race almost every day till Sept. 5.

The Philadelphia base-ball grand-stand burned.

Ira Perego, the New York hatter, failed.

Austin Blair, ex-Governor of Michigan, died.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Law Lowrie, porter of Reynolds's Pharmacy, is mastering the bike.

Charles McCutchen acted with his accustomed ability as precentor in the First Baptist Church yesterday.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will meet Wednesday afternoon at 4 in the First Baptist Church.

Grace M. E. Church was crowded at the union service last evening, and Pastor Randolph delivered an excellent sermon.

A meeting of the deacons and elders of the First Church of Christ will be held at the home of B. W. Hand on West Front street tonight.

At the communion service in the First Baptist Church yesterday morning three persons received the right hand of fellowship. The number of communicants was very large.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes of the First Baptist Church starts today on a four-weeks vacation, which will be spent in Saratoga. The first two Sundays his pulpit will be occupied by Rev. Ashley Jones, brother of Rev. Carter Helm Jones, and the last two Sundays by Rev. Arthur Crane.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Freeman of East Sixth street had the misfortune to lose their infant son Henry, who was buried yesterday.

—The single blow of the city fire-gong at 3:35 this afternoon was a test after repairs had been made to the whistle clockwork.

—"Romeo", the pet canine of B. T. Barnes and family, has been put to death by poison, administered by hands unknown, though suspected.

—Relief from the heat of August will be afforded Thursday. A long day at the shore may be just the change you need. Go then with Trinity and have a glorious time.

—A man from Summit broke two carriage wheels in the track at the corner of Front and Somerset streets yesterday afternoon. His wagon was repaired at Roberts's stables.

—Don't fail to go to the matinee races, Wednesday, Aug. 8, at Crescent Oval, and see Monte Scott get a hump on him for that track record. Admission, 10 cents, including grand-stand.

—Car 2 of the street railway went on the tracks again today, in all the glory of bright new paint. It is colored the same as the new Car 6 with the exception of the roof, which is a sky blue.

—The stagnant pool of water in front of the Turn Verein Hall is one of the nuisances on Somerset street that the street commissioner will probably remove now that his attention is called to it.

—Messrs. George, John, and Frank Rickert, John Hibbits, Dr. Roberts and Alfred Hemple of Elizabeth drove to Perth Amboy Saturday night in Rickert's truck, to try their luck at fishing. They succeeded in getting 28 porgies. The party returned last evening.

Press Ads Pay Before They're Published.

Talk about Daily Press ads paying! Here's a case of returns received before insertion.

Mrs. J. C. VanDyke of East Front street came to The Press Saturday seeking the owner of a valuable solid gold chain bracelet.

A little while later came Wm. Addis looking for just such a bracelet, which his daughter, to whom it had been a prized gift, had lost.

Through the agency of The Press, all were made happy.

This Is as It Should Be.

Senator McPherson will be a candidate for re-election; and President Cleveland, whom he has loyally supported, will support him. Senator McPherson has been an unflagging supporter of the President. He has been a stanch champion of the policy of the Administration. He has been leal to the principles of the Democratic party. He has been open and aboveboard in his course toward all the vital issues in the success of which the reputation of the Administration has been concerned. He should be re-elected without opposition.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Young People's Society of the First Church of Christ will hold a business meeting in the church tomorrow evening.

More Night-Blooming Cereus.

Mrs. Sarah Bradshaw of 82 Duer street had four of the blossoms out last night, and six are expected to unfold tonight or tomorrow night.

Mrs. William Paine of West Front street had four blossoms open out of 30 buds, Saturday night. 50 people witnessed the beautiful sight.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Dr. Parmly's Funeral.

The funeral of Rev. Dr. Wheelock H. Parmly was held at the First Baptist Church, Jersey City, Saturday, Aug. 4, at 2 p. m. The large house was crowded. It took nearly an hour for all to pass to view the remains.

Rev. Dr. Horr of the Bergen Point Baptist Church make the principal address. Dr. Parmly was called to the church 40 years ago. Since then he had baptized over 1,300, married over 1,400, attended over 1,850 funerals, and preached over 5,000 sermons. He was well-known to the Baptists of Plainfield.

The bearers of honor were A. D. Mills of Newark, Charles A. Haynes of Plainfield, Gilbert Collins, ex-Mayor of Jersey City, George Miller, J. J. Richards, Charles Carpenter, Robert Seers, and Lyman Brown.

The Husband Chased Him.

The West End had a great laugh Saturday night over the scene of Charles McIntosh chasing a strange man through back yards, over fences, and across side streets.

The infuriated pursuer had found the stranger in his house, on his unexpected return from Philadelphia.

The stranger escaped.

MISLEADING FOLLY.

Judie Choliet on Trying to Make Something Out of Nothing.

It is to be hoped that we shall soon pass beyond the stage of reading and attempting to follow directions how to convert a shabby parlor—for such advice is usually intended for suburban and country residents—into a beautiful and artistic one by means of some old barrels, a scant measure of denim, some turkey red cotton and unlimited straw and tacks. Securely protected by the insulating medium of the press, the household writer revels in descriptions of this costless luxury. Even when she preserves a fairly decent front in directions for the remodeling of the down stairs region, once among the bedrooms she flings all restraints to the wind and surfeits herself on castoff fruit tins, dry goods cases, soap boxes and pink glazed cambric at 4 cents per yard. Out of these materials she creates, on paper, furniture for an exquisite sleeping apartment, which needs only the addition of a burlap rug or two and some advertisement pictures framed in julep straws to be artistically complete. It would be interesting to know on psychical grounds if the person who is guilty of promulating such misleading folly sleeps well o' nights. In poetical justice she should be tormented by a perpetual nightmare in which she attempts to follow her own advice. The hay padded box that she declares so perfect a substitute for the usual couch with springs and hair cushions should be her only resting place, and she should be compelled to continually regard her favorite article of bric-a-brac—a pickle bottle adorned with gilt paper and scrap pictures. When a housekeeper has artistic yearnings and no means of gratifying them, she is in just the position to be led astray by fallacious directions for making something out of nothing, but "nothing comes of nothing" and worse than nothing from the something which consists of a scant allowance of colored cambric and unlimited decorative ambition. The whitewashed walls and bare floor of a convent cell are more artistic and therefore more pleasing to the eye than cheap frippery, for there is no pretense about them and therefore no failure. If only $1 or $2 can be afforded for refitting a room, let it be spent on fresh paint for the woodwork or the furniture or a pair of good muslin curtains, which will be a real addition to the attractiveness of the apartment.

A sketch is given of a wall pocket made of white or ecru linen and embroidered in cross stitch, with red and blue crewels. A set of flannel leaves is added at the bottom to hold needles and pins. Each pocket is bound with braid across the top before being sewed to the back, and the entire article is similarly bound around the edge.

Women In Sugar.

No fewer than 100 women appear on a Louisiana list of persons producing sugar and receiving bounty thereon. They are either individual operators or are members of sugar producing firms, and their business compares very favorably with that of men. The firm of Ware & Baker collected $18,018 bounty in one year and is made up of Mary E. Ware and Elizabeth E. Baker. In the firm of Wheadon & Weems Mrs. Florretta Wheadon is the senior partner, with Mr. R. B. Weems the junior member.

Another "Soul" Married.

Another of the famous "souls" of London has married, Miss Violet Maxse, who has lately become Lady Cecil. The literary tastes of the bride were hinted at by the large number of books to be found among her wedding gifts and by the presence at her bridal of such distinguished writers at Mrs. Humphry Ward, Mr. George Meredith and Mr. Oscar Wilde.

The Cereus Season.

The floral treasures of Mrs. Abner Bartlett, Jr., were the admiration of many Saturday evening. Her night-blooming cereus had begun to bloom, and contained seven blossoms at once.

Five fine blossoms appeared on the cereus of Mrs. W. H. Clum at once Saturday evening.

THE HEAVENLY REST DISCUSSION.

Claims of the Side Opposing the Formation of a Parish.

In regard to the discussion of the parish movement in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Evona, those who favor the idea of keeping the church as a mission say that misrepresentations have been made by the other side.

They claim that the matter should be one to be decided by the people alone, uninfluenced by any minister. The trustees now stand six to two against the parish plan, and represent the conservative parties who, up to now and the advent of Dr. Page, have supported and managed the church. The law in the canon distinctly says that the matter is one for the consideration of the congregation, and it is claimed that all who voted at the meeting of Wednesday night were members of the congregation, even if they were not communicants.

The letter from Bishop Scarborough which was read at the meeting states that he thought the conditions could not be fulfilled, and if they were, the new arrangement would not benefit the church. The friends of the mission say that it is not understood what the difference between the two plans of management is. Under the present system, the property cannot be mortgaged, and if difficulty came, the church doors would simply be closed until such time as the people would be able to pay the debt and resume. As a parish the church property could be mortgaged by the rector and the wardens to clear themselves of liabilities until practically nothing was left.

This is the vital point upon which the matter rests. The majority of the trustees cannot endorse the proposed change as a good move under these conditions. As the Bishop infers in his letter, the church is not a wealthy one, and in its struggles until the town grows out to it, there will always be a chance that it will become financially involved in such a way that it could only be properly sustained under the mission plan.

OBITUARY.

Smith W. Laing.

The death of another well-known citizen of this section occurred yesterday afternoon, when Smith W. Laing passed away after a brief and severe illness.

Smith W. Laing was a son of Isaac Laing, brother of Mrs. Amelia Sandford, and was for many years with Strickland & VanNest, tobacconists, 87 Warren street, New York. He was widely known in the trade and generally for his just and honest dealings. His financial ability made him trusted with many personal matters, and he was treasurer of Dunellen Court, 1123, Independent Order of Foresters.

Mr. Laing was in South River, Thursday, on business, and while there was taken ill with violent cramps. He consulted a physician, and was told to go to bed. But as he was anxious to get home he hired a man and buggy to drive him to Dunellen. He was in awful misery all the way home, and since reaching there Dr. Brakeley was in constant attendance. Saturday morning Dr. Hedges was called in consultation, and it was decided that the sufferer had a serious attack of peritonitis. He was semi-unconscious Saturday and Sunday, but able to recognize his father and mother. The end came at 4:35 Sunday afternoon. He leaves a wife, a son Isaac W., and a daughter, Mrs. George VanNest. He was in his 55th year.

The funeral services for the relatives and Foresters will take place tomorrow evening at 7:30 from the house in Dunellen, and for all friends from the Watchung Avenue meeting-house, Plainfield, Wednesday morning at 11.

Parson McClure.

Billy MacKenzie is one of the most famous jokers of the Canadian section where Counselor W. K. McClure of this city is now in camp, and is one of the leading citizens as well. Everybody knows him, and everybody calls him Billy. He is a particular friend of the counselor, and when Mr. McClure boarded a Canadian train and found Billy among the passengers he expected some fun before the trip was over. Sure enough, when the conductor came along Billy said in his most serious yet blandest way: "My friend, Rev Dr. McClure!" So the conductor took only half-fare and passed on. But Billy made him blow in the difference between regular and clerical tariff, so Mac doesn't see just who's ahead.

Good Preaching.

Rev. Andrew Hegaman of Belleville, who preached in Trinity Reformed Church yesterday, received much congratulatory approbation after each service from the worshipers who were so fortunate as to hear him. His sermons were of surpassing excellence, and they were greatly enjoyed by large congregations. At the morning service he invited his brother-in-law, Rev. Dr. George Swain of Allentown, to a chair in the pulpit, and to offer prayer. Revs. Swain and Hegaman were the guests of Rev. Swain's brother, Philip, during their stay here.

Up The Hudson.

On August 9, 16, 23, and 30 the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run excursions to the "Upper Hudson," under personal escort. Special excursion tickets will be sold on those dates for regular trains arriving at Jersey City prior to 9:30 a. m., good to return on same day on any regular train leaving Jersey City after arrival of steamer.

Round-trip rates will be as follows: Princeton, $2; New Brunswick, Metuchen, and Perth Amboy, $1; Rahway, 80 cents; Elizabeth, 75 cents; Newark, 50 cents, and proportionate rates from other points.

BASE-BALL.

The Young Senators went to Scotch Plains Saturday and played the junior team of the Plains. At the end of five innings the umpire suddenly remembered that he had another engagement and left the field. The score then stood 6 to 6.

The Scotch Plains Juniors will play the Young Senators on the Richmond Street grounds next Saturday.

GAVE THEM A KIND GOOD-BYE.

Rev. B. W. Hand Retires with Tender Words from the Christ Church Pulpit.

Pastor B. W. Hand, of the First Church of Christ, preached his farewell sermon last night, reading first the eighth chapter of Romans. He said he had selected no text, but that he intended to speak on the dissolution of partnership which was to take place that night.

He said he felt sad and yet joyful, sad when he thought of the many opportunities for doing God's work, joyful when he remembered how much good had been accomplished in the church during his pastorate. Whatever there had been of dissension, all were of the one family of God and all would be reunited in Heaven. Asking the people to forget that he was preaching his last sermon as pastor, he went on to deliver an address full of practical Christianity.

Referring again to his pastorate he said he had missed four Sunday services in the year and a half, two when he was away and two when he was ill. He had done what he could. Some of the others in the church had attended as often as he, some had not. He could recall 42 baptisms. Some were still faithful, some had left, four had died in the faith.

He asked that any unpleasantness might be forgotten, and said that though he left the pastorate he would remain for the present to do his share in the church. He did not leave to go to $1,500, he had received no offer of a place with pay, but went from the pulpit because he thought it might bring a greater blessing to the people than his preaching. With kindly wishes he left the pulpit and greeted the people at the door for the last time as pastor.

PRESIDENT REINHART ON DECK.

He Will Appear at the Atchinson Hearing and Silence Scandal.

President J. W. Reinhart of the Atchinson system returned to his Netherwood home yesterday afternoon from Virginia, accompanied by Edward VanBuren. He will undoubtedly appear at the meeting in New York Tuesday, to investigate the Atchinson book-keeping, where he will undoubtedly silence the scandals that have been running rife here for the past few weeks.

AT REST.

Garrett Schenck.

The funeral of the late Garrett C. Schenck took place Saturday afternoon at 3, from the home of his mother, 40 Manning avenue. The gathering of friends and relatives of the decedent was large. Many of them had known him from childhood. Among the mourners was a large delegation from Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., of which he was a member, and several members from Somerset Council, J. O. U. A. M.

Rev. Herbert Randolph, pastor of Grace M. E. Church, opened the service with Scripture reading, after which a quartette, Mrs. Steiner, Miss Phœbe Mills, Horace Martin and Mr. Townsend, sang "Oh, to be Over Yonder".

Mr. Randolph took his text from the fortieth chapter of Luke, 30th verse; "The man began to build, and was not able to finish."

He said in part: "We have all noticed a building being erected, when the cellar is dug, the foundations laid, and the frame work put into place. The work is a gradual one. So in our lives we start from babyhood, and gradually grow and increase in strength. We see in the case of our brother today that he was not able to finish his building. He fought like a man, bravely for life, as God has taught each of us to do. He has given us that love for living, and when a man is living a true life he has no desire to die but to live on to benefit his fellows. I believe that like all of us the departed built air castles; he had his ideals of what life ought to be; and his ambitions no doubt were very strong and such as we have. But in the bloom of youth he has been taken away, and he has not been able to finish building.

"The lesson that comes home to each one today is a grand one. Never in my experience have I met a person who was willing to say that his work was complete, that he had done all he could, and was willing to die. I have stood by the side of the aged, and heard them say 'If I could only live on; there is so much I would like to do'. And so none of us feel as though our lives were complete. But our Saviour, when he hung on the cross, was able to say 'It is finished'. His work was completed, and He was ready to go.

"And though our lives can never be complete, let us strive to be ready for the last call."

At the conclusion of his remarks the quartette sang with much feeling "Oh, Tender and Sweet", after which Mr. Randolph offered a very touching prayer.

Those present were then given an opportunity of looking for the last time on the face of one whom they knew so well and one whom they all had loved.

Interment was made in the Presbyterian Cemetery, where Financial Secretary David Bodine conducted the service of the order, assisted by Rev. Mr. Randolph. The pall-bearers from Franklin Council were: Brethren John Beekman, Harvey Thorn, Herbert Rodine, Herbert McVoy, William Force, and David Dunavan.

A very handsome pillow with the inscription "Our Brother in V. L. and P.", from Franklin Council, and a large bunch of cut flowers, comprised the floral offerings.

STATE CAMP ECHOES.

Charles J. Wilson, the popular Pullman conductor, accompanied Mr. Beck, and it was regretted that his stay was so short.

Of the late visitors Chas. F. Beck, proprietor of the Jersey Central Communipaw ferry restaurant, was most welcome His invitation to the boys to call at his establishment either going to or returning from camp was highly appreciated, and generally accepted.

The brothers of Dr. Frank Herbert of this city, with their families at Manasquan, entertained numerous members of the Third, and whenever they appeared in camp were cordially welcomed. An officer's hostler was heard to remark "No swearing around here, boys, so long as such ladies as them stays in camp".

Lieut. C. L. Bauer's postponed trial on the charge of attempted perjury was concluded. He produced the "lost angels", thus partially verifying his statement of their existence, and on account of his record, his gun detachment having taken first prize at the sea-target practice, was honorably discharged by Messrs. Moore and Garrison.

W. E. Hoskins, editor of The Coast Star-Democrat of Manasquan, entertained the guardsmen in a most hospitable manner. His kindness in furnishing the heads of departments with headed letter paper was greatly appreciated, and that little act, together with his successful efforts for the general comfort and welfare, has endeared him to the Second Brigade, and won him many fast friends.

The provost guard who stopped the train at Sea Girt, arrested and afterward released Preuscher and Zasconski, the barber of Elizabeth, were G. C. Baldwin of Burlington, and J. N. Mulliner, W. S. Bennett, A. Earl and J. McGill, of Long Branch. The arrests were made by order of the Officer of the Day, Capt. Morris, and were no joke, but when the barber threw himself on the car floor and threatened the guard with a razor they withdrew to avoid bloodshed.

The quartermasters department of the Third remained in camp after the regiment departed, and Captain C. M. Hawkins of Elizabeth, Sergt. Rocchietti of Linden, and Col. Moore, attended the Presbyterian Church in uniform, accompanying Dr. and Mrs. George Herbert of Manasquan. "Sergeant, are you married"—inquired a very pretty woman, after the service. "I am;"—replied the sergeant—"Why?" "Oh, I thought you couldn't be—you look so young and handsome."

—Engine Company No. 2 will meet this evening in adjourned session.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

STATUS OF THE SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

What Has Been Done, and What Will Be Done Tonight.

So much has been written and said about the sewage system that is to be built to the improvement of Plainfield and the joy of all its inhabitants, that many people have not been able to extract the facts of the case as they are today from the mass of controversy with which the people have been regaled for the past year.

The ordinance providing for the building of a system was signed by the Mayor immediately on its passing the Council on July 25 and having been duly advertised becomes a law today.

At the regular meeting of the Common Council tonight the affairs of the committee on water and sewers will be considered, and the report embracing the immense amount of work already done by the individual members of the committee will be submitted. The action of electing a permanent committee on sewers will also be taken, which will amount in substance to re-electing the present committee as the officials to have the entire construction in charge.

Engineer, Mr. Farquhar, partner in a well known engineering firm of Newport, R. I., is expected in town today. The engineer for the city, Andrew F. Gavett, and the assistant engineers, Messrs. VanEmburgh and Hubbard, are well known in Plainfield.

The Council will advertise for bids on the work of construction, which bids will be opened two weeks from the time of advertising, the contract going to the lowest bidder.

The engineers will be formally appointed and confirmed by the Council tonight. The work of construction will be under the direct supervision of inspectors appointed by the committee.

It is confidently expected that ground will be broken early in September and that the first week in that month will see four gangs at work in various parts of the city. Four more gangs will probably be put on toward the last of the month and several miles of main pipe will be laid before Winter sets in.

The entire cost of the system projected for now and the future will be $250,000, of which $125,000 will be spent in the mains to be laid at once.

Tax-payers may congratulate themselves on the masterly way in which, not only the engineering features have been handled but on the management of the finances as it will be three years before they will be assessed and then the city assessment will amount, for a 75 foot lot, to about the same sum that it would cost to clean out a cesspool twice.

The connections from the houses to the main pipes will be of course at the property owner's expense and only licensed plumbers will be allowed to do the work of connecting which will be inspected by the city before the trench is filled.

Councilman Frost, the active chairman of the committee, is an experienced engineer and his supervision insures the city against any possible damage from faulty construction or careless work.

The entire work will be spread over a period of three years and at the end of that time Plainfield will be able to say proudly that her one blemish has been removed.

The establishing of sewers in Plainfield means about $125,000 business for the local plumbers for making house connections, and anything that helps local trade is a good thing.

Won't Carry Fire Passengers.

Driver Peter Seader objects to the action of the half-dozen boroughites who persist in boarding the hose cart as it leaves the house in answer to alarms, and promises to stop short when it occurs again rather than kill his horse by driving with the added weight destroying the balance of the cart.

Sizing It Up.

Frank Hedden and a fine span of horses from his stables took Mayor Gilbert and Councilmen Frost and Dumont yesterday afternoon for a tour of inspection over the proposed course of the new sewage system.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d. N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies." —Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892.

These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

GAVETT'S

THE DRESS TRAGEDY

RESPONSIBILITY FOR WHAT WE WEAR ON OUR BODIES.

Rev. Dr. Talmage on the Influence of the Idol of Fashion—Business and Character Shipwrecked on the Wardrobe—A Practical and Powerful Sermon.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 5.—Rev. Dr. Talmage, who is now in Melbourne on his round the world tour, has chosen as the subject of his sermon for today through the press "The Tragedy of Dress," the text selected being I Peter iii, 3, 4, "Whose adorning let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair and the wearing of gold or of putting on of apparel, but let it be the hidden man of the heart."

That we should all be clad is proved by the opening of the first wardrobe in paradise with its apparel of dark green. That we should all, as far as our means allow us, be beautifully and gracefully appareled is proved by the fact that God never made a wave but he gilded it with golden sunbeams, or a tree but he garlanded it with blossoms, or a sky but he studded it with stars, or allowed even the smoke of a furnace to ascend but he columned and turreted and domed and scrolled it into outlines of indescribable gracefulness. When I see the apple orchard of the spring and the pageantry of the autumnal forests, I come to the conclusion that if nature ever does join the church, while she may be a Quaker in the silence of her worship, she never will be a Quaker in the style of her dress. Why the notches of a fern leaf or the stamen of a water lily? Why, when the day departs, does it let the folding doors of heaven stay open so long, when it might go in so quickly?

One summer morning I saw an army of a million spears, each one adorned with a diamond of the first water—I mean the grass with the dew on it. When the prodigal came home, his father not only put a coat on his back, but jewelry on his hand. Christ wore a beard. Paul, the bachelor apostle, not afflicted with any sentimentality, admired the arrangement of a woman's hair when he said in his epistle, "If a woman have long hair, it is a glory unto her." There will be a fashion in heaven as on earth, but it will be a different kind of fashion. It will decide the color of the dress, and the population of that country, by a beautiful law, will wear white. I say these things as a background to my sermon, to show you that I have no prim, precise, prudish or cast iron theories on the subject of human apparel. But the goddess of fashion has set up her throne in this world, and at the sound of the timbrels we are all expected to fall down and worship. The Old and New Testament of her Bible are the fashion plates. Her altars smoke with the sacrifice of the bodies, minds and souls of 10,000 victims. In her temple four people stand in the organ loft, and from them there comes down a cold drizzle of music, freezing on the ears of her worshipers. This goddess of fashion has become a rival of the Lord of heaven and earth, and it is high time that we unlimbered our batteries against this idolatry. When I come to count the victims of fashion, I find as many masculine as feminine. Men make an easy tirade against woman, as though she were the chief worshiper at this idolatrous shrine, and no doubt some men in the more conspicuous part of the pew have already cast glances at the more retired part of the pew, their look a prophecy of a generous distribution. My sermon shall be as appropriate for one end of the pew as for the other.

Frivolities of Men.

Men are as much the idolators of fashion as women, but they sacrifice on a different part of the altar. With men the fashion goes to cigars and clubrooms and yachting parties and wine suppers. In the United States the men chew up and smoke $100,000,000 worth of tobacco every year. That is their fashion. In London not long ago a man died who had started in life with $750,000, but he ate it all up in gluttonies, sending his agents to all parts of the earth for some rare delicacy for the palate, sometimes one plate of food costing him $300 or $400. He ate up his whole fortune and had only one guinea left. With that he bought a woodcock, had it dressed in the very best style, ate it, gave two hours for digestion, then walked out on Westminster bridge and threw himself into the Thames and died, doing on a large scale what you and I have often seen done on a small scale. But men do not abstain from millinery and elaboration of skirt through any superiority of humility. It is only because such appendages would be a blockade to business. What would sashes and trains 3½ yards long do in a stock market? And yet men are the disciples of fashion just as much as women. Some of them wear boots so tight they can hardly walk in the paths of righteousness. And there are men who buy expensive suits of clothes and never pay for them, and who go through the streets in great stripes of color, like animated checkerboards. I say these things because I want to show you that I am impartial in my discourse, and that both sexes, in the language of the surrogate's office, shall "share and share alike." As God may help me, I shall show you what are the destroying and deathful influences of inordinate fashion.

The first baleful influence I notice is in fraud, illimitable and ghastly. Do you know that Arnold of the Revolution proposed to sell his country in order to get money to support his wife's wardrobe? I declare here before God and this people that the effort to keep up expensive establishments in this country is sending more business men to temporal perdition than all other causes combined. What was it that sent Gilman to the penitentiary, and Philadelphia Morton to the watering of stocks, and the life insurance presidents to perjured statements about their assets, and has completely upset our American finances? What was it that overthrew the United States secretary at Washington, the crash of whose fall shook the continent? But why should I go to these famous defaultings to show what men will do in order to keep up great home style and expensive wardrobe, when you and I know scores of men who are put to their wits' end and are lashed from January to December in the attempt?

Our politicians may theorize until the expiration of their terms of office as to the best way of improving our monetary condition in this country. It will be of no use and things will be no better until we learn to put on our heads and backs and feet and hands no more than we can pay for.

Tragedy of Human Clothes.

There are clerks in stores and banks on limited salaries who, in the vain attempt to keep the wardrobe of their family as showy as other folks' wardrobes, are dying of muffs and diamonds and shawls and high hats, and they have nothing left except what they give to cigars and wine suppers, and they die before their time, and they will expect us ministers to preach about them as though they were the victims of early piety, and after a high class funeral, with silver handles at the side of the coffin of extraordinary brightness, it will be found out that the undertaker is cheated out of his legitimate expenses!

Do not send to me to preach the funeral sermon of a man who dies like that. I will blurt out the whole truth and tell that he was strangled to death by his wife's ribbons. Our countries are dressed to death. You are not surprised to find that the putting up of one public building in New York cost millions of dollars more than it ought to have cost when you find that the man who gave out the contracts paid more than $5,000 for his daughter's wedding dress. Cashmeres of a thousand dollars each are not rare on Broadway. It is estimated that there are 10,000 women in these two cities who have expended on their personal array $4,000 a year.

What are men to do in order to keep up such home wardrobes? Steal! That is the only respectable thing they can do. During the last 15 years there have been innumerable fine businesses shipwrecked on the wardrobe. The temptation comes in this way: A man thinks more of his family than of all the world outside, and if they spend the evening in describing to him the superior wardrobe of the family across the street, that they cannot bear the sight of, the man is thown on his gallantry and on his pride of family and without translating his feelings into plain language he goes into extortion and issuing of false stock and skillful penmanship in writing somebody else's name at the foot of a promissory note, and they all go down together—the husband to the prison, the wife to the sewing machine, the children to be taken care of by those who were called poor relations. Oh, for some new Shakespeare to arise and write the tragedy of human clothes!

Will you forgive me if I say in tersest shape possible that some of the men have to forge and to perjure and to swindle to pay for their wives' dresses? I will say it whether you forgive me or not.

A Foe of Almsgiving.

Again, inordinate fashion is the foe of all Christian almsgiving. Men and women put so much in personal display that they often have nothing for God and the cause of suffering humanity. A Christian man cracking his Palais Royal glove across the back by shutting up his hand to hide the cent he puts into the poorbox. A Christian woman, at the story of the Hottentots, crying copious tears into a $25 handkerchief and then giving a 2 cent piece to the collection, thrusting it under the bills so people will not know but it was a $10 goldpiece. One hundred dollars for incense to fashion; 2 cents for God. God gives us 90 cents out of every dollar. The other 10 cents by command of his Bible belong to him. Is not God liberal according to his tithing system laid down in the Old Testament? Is not God liberal in giving us 90 cents out of a dollar when he takes but 10? We do not like that. We want to have 99 cents for ourselves and 1 for God.

Now, I would a great deal rather steal 10 cents from you than from God. I think one reason why a great many people do not get along in worldly accumulation faster is because they do not observe this divine rule. God says, "Well, if that man is not satisfied with 90 cents of a dollar, then I will take the whole dollar, and I will give it to the man or woman who is honest with me." The greatest obstacle to charity in the Christian church today is the fact that men expend so much money on their table, and women so much on their dress, they have got nothing left for the work of God and the world's betterment. In my first settlement at Belleville, N. J., the cause of missions was being presented one Sabbath, and a plea for the charity of the people was being made, when an old Christian man in the audience lost his balance and said right out in the midst of the sermon, "Mr. Talmage, how are we to give liberally to these grand and glorious causes when our families dress as they do?" I did not answer that question. It was the only time in my life when I had nothing to say.

How Fashion Distracts Worship.

Again, inordinate fashion is distraction to public worship. You know very well there are a good many people who come to church just as they go to the races to see who will come out first. What a flutter it makes in church when some woman with extraordinary display of fashion comes in! "What a love of a bonnet!" says some one. "What a perfect fright!" say five hundred. For the most merciless critics in the world are fashion critics. Men and women with souls to be saved passing the hour in wondering where that man got his cravat or what store that woman patronizes. In many of our churches the preliminary exercises are taken up with the discussion of wardrobes. It is pitiable. Is it not wonderful that the Lord does not strike the meeting houses with lightning! What distraction of public worship! Dying men and women, whose bodies are soon to be turned into dust, yet before three worlds strutting like peacocks, the awful question of the soul's destiny submerged by the question of navy blue velvet and long fan train skirt, long enough to drag up the church aisle, the husband's store, office, shop, factory, fortune and the admiration of half the people in the building. Men and women come late to church to show their clothes. People sitting down in a pew or taking up a hymnbook, all absorbed at the same time in personal array to sing:

> Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings;
> Thy better portion trace.
> Rise from transitory things
> Toward heaven, thy native place.

I adopt the Episcopalian prayer and say, "Good Lord, deliver us!"

Insatiate fashion also belittles the intellect. Our minds are enlarged or they dwindle just in proportion to the importance of the subject on which we constantly dwell. Can you imagine anything more dwarfing to the human intellect than the study of fashion? I see men on the street who, judging from their elaboration, I think must have taken two hours to arrange their apparel. After a few years of that kind of absorption, which one of McAllister's magnifying glasses will be powerful enough to make the man's character visible? They all land in idiocy. I have seen men at the summer watering places through fashion the mere wreck of what they once were. Sallow of cheek. Meager of limb. Hollow at the chest. Showing no animation save in rushing across a room to pick up a lady's fan. Simpering along the corridors, the same compliments they simpered 20 years ago. A New York lawyer at United States hotel, Saratoga, within our hearing, rushed across a room to say to a sensible woman, "You are as sweet as peaches!" The fools of fashion are myriad. Fashion not only destroys the body, but it makes idiotic the intellect.

A Wasted Life.

Yet, my friends, I have given you only the milder phase of this evil. It shuts a great multitude out of heaven. The first peal of thunder that shook Sinai declared, "Thou shalt have no other God before me," and you will have to choose between the goddess of fashion and the Christian God. There are a great many seats in heaven, and they are all easy seats, but not one seat for the devotee of fashion. Heaven is for meek and quiet spirits. Heaven is for those who think more of their souls than of their bodies. Heaven is for those who have more joy in Christian charity than in dry goods religion. Why, if you with your idolatry of fashion should somehow get into heaven, you would be for putting a French roof on the "house of many mansions." Give up this idolatry of fashion or give up heaven.

What would you do standing beside the Countess of Huntington, whose joy it was to build chapels for the poor, or with that Christian woman of Boston who fed 1,500 children of the street at Faneuil hall on New Year's day, giving out as a sort of doxology at the end of the meeting a pair of shoes to each one of them, or those Dorcases of modern society who have consecrated their needles to the Lord, and who will get eternal reward for every stitch they take. Oh, men and women, give up the idolatry of fashion. The rivalries and the competitions of such a life are a stupendous wretchedness. You will always find some one with brighter array, and with more palatial residence, and with lavender kid gloves that make a tighter fit. And if you buy this thing and wear it you will wish you had bought something else and worn it. And the frets of such a life will bring the crows' feet to your temples before they are due, and when you come to die you will have a miserable time. I have seen men and women of fashion die, and I never saw one of them die well. The trappings off, there they lay on the tumbled pillow, and there were just two things that bothered them—a wasted life and a coming eternity. I could not pacify them, for their body, mind and soul had been exhausted in the worship of fashion, and they could not appreciate the gospel. When I knelt by their bedside, they were mumbling out their regrets and saying: "O God! O God!" Their garments hung up in the wardrobe never again to be seen by them. Without any exception, so far as my memory serves me, they died without hope and went into eternity unprepared.

Eternal Expatriation.

The most ghastly deathbeds on earth are the one where a man dies of delirium tremens, and the other where a woman dies after having sacrificed all her faculties of body, mind and soul in the worship of fashion. My friends, we must appear in judgment to answer for what we have worn on our bodies as well as for what repentances we have exercised with our souls. On that day I see coming in Beau Brummel of the last century, without his cloak, like which all England got a cloak, and without his cane, like which all England got a cane; without his snuffbox, like which all England got a snuffbox. He, the fop of the ages, particular about everything but his morals, and Aaron Burr, without the letters that down to old age he showed in pride to prove his early wicked gallantries, and Absolom without his hair, and Marchioness Pompadour without her titles, and Mrs. Arnold, the belle of Wall street when that was the center of fashion, without her fripperies of vesture.

And in great haggardness they shall go away into eternal expatriation, while among the queens of heavenly society will be found Vashti, who wore the modest veil before the palatial bacchanalians, and Hannah, who annually made a little coat for Samuel at the temple, and Grandmother Lois, the ancestress of Timothy, who imitated her virtue, and Mary, who gave Jesus Christ to the world, and many of you, the wives and mothers and sisters and daughters of the present Christian church, who, through great tribulation, are entering into the kingdom of God. Christ announced who would make up the royal family of heaven when he said, "Whosoever doeth the will of God, the same is my brother, my sister, my mother."

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

SHE'S A NOBLE BOAT

The Vigilant Too Much for the Britons.

Emperor William One of the Spectators at Yesterday's Race Around the Isle of Wight, Over Which Course the America Won a Cup Forty-three Years Ago.

Cowes, Aug. 7.—Forty-three years ago, when Queen Victoria was in her matronly prime, she saw the surf test of England's peerless pleasure fleet defeated by the Yankee schooner America. Yesterday her son, the Prince of Wales, saw his cutter, the Britannia, vanquished handsomely over the same course, from Cowes around the Isle of Wight, that the America traversed when she taught British tars the value of a beamy model.

The Emperor William of Germany and his suite came into the roads late in the afternoon on the steam yacht Hohenzollern and saw the cutter of his royal relative defeated.

The race recalled the contest between the America and the British yachts of long ago. The weather was just about as variable as it was then, and the Yankee sloop won easily. The Britannia had bad luck and the Satanita a breeze—and a lack of breeze—that didn't suit her. She never has been so thoroughly defeated.

The course around the little island is estimated to be about sixty miles.

From the beginning to that part of the race where it was evident that the Britannia could not win, the Yankee sloop and the Prince's cutter hung to each other with the tenacity of bull dogs. There seemed to be a mutual fear that one might get away from the other.

Off Ventnor, on the southwest coast of the island, when it was a question whether the Vigilant or Britannia would get the better of the light sailing, the cutter headed inshore. Her skipper had evidently decided to go wind-hunting. Captain Hank Haff steered a course that brought him pretty close to the Briton. It is a maxim of Yankee skippers to stick to the yacht that they think they can defeat under the same weather conditions. Captain Hank held on to the Briton. Pilot Diaper, of the Vigilant, became fearful for the safety of the white sloop. He shouted:

"If we keep on this course we will go ashore." Mr. Iselin, who was in charge of the Vigilant, said to Captain Haff: "I don't care; stick to her. We will go wherever she goes."

A moment later the Britannia thumped on the bottom. She struck again, and then the Vigilant grounded.

The Britannia's knocks were hard ones, and she may be injured. She will be docked to-day and examined. The Vigilant's centre-board was up and she merely grazed the bottom.

The accident to the Britannia lost her some time, but not enough to counterbalance the later gains of the Vigilant. The Britannia was beaten by eight minutes and thirteen seconds actual time, and somewhat less than six minutes corrected time.

The Vigilant won a prize of $650, subscribed by the Royal London Yacht club.

The announcement that the Satanita, regarded by the British yachtsmen as their representative rouga-weather cutter, would take part in the contest intensified interest in the event and made the Britons pray for half a gale.

The Times on the Vigilant's Victory.

London, Aug. 7.—The Times says this morning: "The merit of the Vigilant's victory yesterday is moderate as compared with that of Saturday's and other races in which she was victorious. She was lucky in catching streaks. Moreover, the course requires too much piloting to afford a good speed test."

Gould and Wales.

London, Aug. 7.—The Daily Telegraph says that the cup won by the Vigilant on Saturday was presented to George Gould by the Prince of Wales on the royal yacht Osborne on Saturday evening. The Prince congratulated Mr. Gould on his victory.

UNDER WATER TEN MINUTES.

Remarkable Resuscitation of a Boy Thought to Have Been Drowned.

Rome, N. Y., Aug. 7.—A remarkable case of resuscitation from drowning occurred here yesterday afternoon.

Arthur Smith, aged fourteen, while bathing in the Mohawk river, got beyond his depth. Being unable to swim, he went down in ten feet of water. Boys who were with him gave the alarm.

George E. Neiss was the first man to respond. He dived, found the boy on the bottom of the river and brought him ashore.

He had been under water fully ten minutes and was apparently dead. Mr. Neiss worked over him ten to fifteen minutes and finally resuscitated him. He is confined to his bed, but will fully recover.

CATHOLIC SALOON-KEEPERS.

Mgr. Dugas Will Enforce Satolli's Decision at Cohoes.

Albany, Aug. 7.—At the services in St. Joseph's Catholic church, in Cohoes, Monsignor Dugas read Mgr. Satolli's letter as to saloon-keepers belonging to Catholic societies. After reading the letter the reverend gentleman said that he could no longer recognize any society connected with the church that had in its ranks saloon-keepers, and he said, furthermore, that he would refuse the sacraments to saloon-keepers who sold intoxicants on Sunday.

May Try Tailor Dowe's Coat.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Herr Dowe, the German tailor who invented the bullet-proof coat which has been so successfully tested in this country, has made overtures to the United States government, through his agent, towards supplying our army with his protector. An answer has been sent by the war department, asking for terms, &c., towards conducting a test in this country, but no reply has been received.

JAPAN'S NEW MINISTER.

A Despatch Received in Washington Announcing His Appointment.

Washington, Aug. 7.—A telegram has just been received at the Japanese legation announcing the appointment of Mr. Shinichiro Kurino, chief of the diplomatic bureau of the department for foreign affairs, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States.

Mr. Kurino was one of the students who were sent to this country by the government of Japan as soon as that government decided upon the policy of sending her young men abroad to pursue the course of studies in colleges and universities of Europe and America. Some twenty years ago, when this gentleman had thoroughly mastered the English language, he devoted himself to the study of law at Harvard college. Upon his return to Japan he received an appointment in the department for foreign affairs, where he dealt mostly with matters involving legal questions. A few years later he interested himself in the postal administration and held an important position in the imperial department of communications, where he inaugurated many improvements in the postal and telegraphic service of the Japanese government.

In 1891, when certain changes were introduced in the organization of the department for foreign affairs, he was appointed to be chief of the diplomatic bureau.

His abilities and high character are recognized not only by his own but also by the officials of the foreign governments whose duties have brought them into contact with him.

GUARDING GRAY GABLES.

Detectives Keeping Watchful Eyes on Mrs. Cleveland and Children.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Aug. 7.—The report that Detectives Hazins, Walsh and Griffith, of the secret service, were on duty at Gray Gables, detailed to guard Mrs. Cleveland and children, was received with some surprise here, for the matter had been kept secret for nearly two weeks. So carefully have these officers conducted themselves and their work that the true nature of their business could not be ascertained.

These officers kept a watchful eye on Gray Gables day and night. They do not follow Mrs. Cleveland or the children wherever they go, but are here simply to apprehend any suspicious character that may come to Buzzard's Bay or any way disturb Mrs. Cleveland or family. Personally Mrs. Cleveland said to-day what she has said before, that she was not in the least frightened or alarmed.

The Treasury Reserve Further Reduced To-Day.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The gold reserve has been further reduced by the engagement for export by to-day's steamers of $530,000. This leaves the reserve at $52,026,615.

Gold to the amount of $2,0,000 was gained in ordinary business in the west, but this normal gain is being daily wiped out by the continued abnormal movement to Europe.

The balance, which includes the gold reserve, is stated to-day at $119,1[illegible]7,000.

DIES OF HIS INJURIES.

Senator Daniel's Son's Accident Proves Fatal.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 7.—The eight-year-old son of Senator John W. Daniel, who was thrown from his horse Sunday afternoon, died from his injuries last night.

He was dragged a considerable distance by the animal and his skull was fractured and his arm broken.

BEEHLER'S SOLARMETER.

The Little Instrument To Be Given a Deep Sea Test.

Washington, Aug. 7.—At the authorization of the secretary of the navy, Lieut. W. H. Beehler, of the navy, will during the latter part of this week take his solarmeter to Baltimore and place it on the North German Lloyd steamer Wicmar, for the purpose of giving that instrument a thorough deep sea test.

The solarmeter, the invention of Lieut. Beehler, is intended to supplant the compass, which, on account of its deviation, especially on iron and steel ships without frequent comparisons to some known standard, would be perfectly worthless. This instrument is the only practical one devised for directing the course of ships or determining the points of the compass at sea, since the discovery of the compass over three hundred years ago.

The instrument, which is a beautiful and delicate piece of workmanship, the most prominent part of which is a little telescope about three inches long, is floated on quicksilver, this vessel being hung in another one of the same metal, and this one being hung on gimbals, so that in the heaviest sea the solarmeter is always on a dead level.

It is thought that the new invention will revolutionize navigation. Lieut. Beehler's model cost about $1,000. A company has been formed in Baltimore for the manufacture of the instruments, with a view to furnishing them to the merchantmen.

COXEY KILLED A HORSE.

At Any Rate the Animal Dropped Dead After the Wealer's Speech.

Alliance, O., Aug. 7.—Jacob Sechler Coxey, nominated by the populists in McKinley's old district—the eighteenth congressional of Ohio—with a splendid brass band, opened his campaign here with two mass-meetings yesterday. He came from Canton with the lesser wealers in the afternoon, and they followed the band of twenty-five pieces to Rock Hill park. The general handed out green badges, showing his face behind the bars and above the grating the words, "Keep off the grass."

There were 1,500 people, mostly farmers, at the afternoon services in Rock Hill park, and Coxey received but little cheering as he spoke on the public square in the evening. He said he wanted everybody to send food to Washington as a bait for all the tramps to go there, get arrested, and have to build jails for themselves, thus getting and giving employment. A strange coincidence was that as he finished this and a small flutter of applause went up a horse hitched close by dropped dead on the pavement, causing a howl of laughter.

VIEWING HISTORICAL SPOTS.

The Philadelphia Pilgrims Entertained To-Day at Tarrytown.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The Philadelphia historical Pilgrims arrived here on the 5 o'clock train over the Central Hudson railroad yesterday and were met at the station by a committee of arrangement. They were taken in stages to see the historical Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Washington Irving's resting-place. In the evening the pilgrims attended a special service at the old Dutch church in Sleepy Hollow, where an address of welcome was made by Mayor M. H. Bright.

To-day the pilgrims are taking a more extended view of the historical spots in the vicinity.

HARMONY AGAIN REIGNS.

Trouble Between Two Factions in the Order of Elks Ended.

Buffalo, Aug. 7.—The injunction obtained by the Jamestown Lodge of Elks against the grand lodge of the order, restraining that body from holding its annual session at Atlantic City has been dissolved in the supreme court. The injunction was granted during the great fight in the order last summer over the place of meeting as to whether it should be Jamestown or Atlantic City.

This means that the trouble existing between the two factions has been bridged over and that harmony will again reign in the order.

CHOLERA IN CANTON.

Forty Thousand Deaths From the Disease Since March 1.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Consul Seymour, in reports to the hospital service, just received and dated Canton, June 30, says that cholera has made its appearance there in epidemic form. So far it is not considered serious, and no measures have been taken against it. The plague, he writes, is still raging among the natives and does not seem to yield to medical treatment, the mortality being 50 per cent. of the cases.

Forty thousand deaths have occurred from the disease in Canton since the first of March.

Death of an Old Cemetery Keeper.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Benjamin F. Connell, aged eighty-two, who was for years superintendent of Sleepy Hollow cemetery, died at the Washington hotel, in this place, yesterday. Mr. Connell was a native of Newport, R. I., where he was well known.

Populist Nominations.

Corning, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The Steuben county populists have nominated the following ticket: Members of assembly—First district, J. O. Hoagland, of Howard; Second district, J. T. Beckwith, of Cameron Mills. The nominations include a full county ticket.

Evicted Tenants' Bill.

London, Aug. 7.—The evicted tenants' bill, with the governmental and Irish amendments, was reported in the house of commons last evening. The third reading of the bill will be moved to-day.

BIG GAME RUN DOWN

An Extensive Nest of Counterfeiters Unearthed.

Located Near Danbury, Conn.—Well Equipped for the Manufacture of Spurious Money—Discovered by Skillful Detective Work—The Arrests Believed To Be Important.

Danbury, Conn., Aug. 7.—Detectives of the treasury department have just succeeded in unearthing the headquarters of a gang of counterfeiters, of which Russell D. Hoyt and Samuel Massey, who are now under arrest in New York, are leaders, and they made one of the most valuable and important finds of counterfeiters' tools, plates and papers that has been known for years. Agents of the United States secret service have been in this city since last Friday, and have been prosecuting the search, based on clues that they have obtained during a period covering several months, if not years. Search has been made in and around Bethel, three miles below Danbury, and it was here that the efforts of the officers were crowned with success.

Last Saturday Detectives James Scanlon and Frank E. Squirrell placed a man who gave his name as John Davis under arrest, ostensibly on suspicion of his being connected with the gang. Davis boarded with Joseph Morgan, three miles out of Bethel, which is the same place where Russell D. Hoyt boarded up to about three weeks ago. They had been there since last May. Davis suddenly disappeared Saturday, and there is little doubt now that he was a detective, who won the confidence of the counterfeiters and learned their secrets.

It is supposed that it is on the information this unknown Davis furnished that the whole thing has been brought to light.

Morgan's house and premises were searched without any results to give color to the deception.

The really important arrest took place Sunday night and the discovery followed yesterday.

Sunday night Lorenzo Hoyt, who lives in Bethel and who is a brother of Russell D. Hoyt, was arrested by detectives, whose number had been increased by the arrival of Thomas T. Callahan, and brought to Danbury. Little was known of the arrest so still was the matter kept.

The detectives surprised Hoyt by telling him what they knew of the case and his connection with it, and he soon gave up the secret of the hiding place of the presses, tools and other paraphernalia used in the manufacture of counterfeit bank notes, and also of the plates. It was not, however, till after the officers had made an examination of Hoyt's house, barn and premises, in which they used axes and hammers and tore up flooring and carpets in the house and pulled the sides of the barn down. Then Hoyt told them that the articles were buried in the garden.

Then they commenced digging in the garden, under Hoyt's directions, and a great quantity of machinery, bank notes, etc., was unearthed. Part of the find was $13,000 in $10 notes. These were of the issue that had been described as bearing the head of Webster and are considered excellent representations of genuine notes. In fact, the bank officials have passed them as good.

The plates from which these same bills were printed were found buried in the same vicinity.

There was also found a new plate of a $20 gold certificate. None of these notes had been printed. The plate has the head of Garfield, and the detectives pronounced it one of the finest counterfeits that they had ever seen. A big bundle of green paper, closely imitating genuine bank-note paper, was also dug up. It weighed about seventy-five pounds, and would be sufficient to print several thousand notes.

The officers estimated that the gang could have issued half a million dollars with the material that was found.

A very fine set of engravers' tools was also found.

It is supposed that Hoyt, as soon as he heard of the arrest of his associates in New York, buried all of the stuff.

Hoyt is about thirty-five years of age and has lived in Bethel the greater part of his life. He is a hatter, and has been employed at Baird & Levy's, where he was very popular with his associates. His reputation has been beyond reproach. Now that he is under arrest the neighbors tell stories of his peculiar habits.

He had a little shop in the rear of the house, where he spent a great deal of his time, often having the windows covered with papers. His Sundays were spent there. He told those who inquired about his doings that he was at work upon an invention. Hoyt was taken to New Haven and given a hearing before United States Commissioner Wright yesterday afternoon.

The detectives have not finished their work in this vicinity yet, and it is thought that more arrests will follow.

Her Body Not Yet Recovered.

Coney Island, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Steam canal boats John Lang and J. F. Moulton, before reported in collision and beached at Old Hen, L. I., have been pumped up and towed to New York. The body of Mrs. Jameson, who was drowned at the time of the collision, has not been recovered.

McAuliffe and Griffo Matched.

New York, Aug. 7.—Jack McAuliffe, lightweight champion of the world, and Young Griffo, feather-weight champion of Australia, have been matched to box ten rounds before the Seaside club on August 29, at catch weights, for a purse, with five-ounce gloves.

Jockey Club Assigns.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 7.—The Louisville Jockey club has made an assignment. The step was taken to legally effect a sale of the property, which will at once be made to a syndicate.

Declare the Strike Off.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7.—The local organization of the A. R. U. on the St. Paul and Duluth, Omaha, Burlington and Milwaukee systems at this point has declared the strike off formally.

CHINESE WAR PLANS

Li Hung Chang Continues to Direct Them.

The Absence of His Yellow Jacket the Subject of Much Remark—Chinese Soldiers Who Offended the Japanese Minister at Taku To Be Punished—Foreigners Fear Anarchy.

London, Aug. 7.—A dispatch to the Central News from Tien-Tsin says:

"Li Hung Chang continues to direct the war preparations of the Chinese. To-day he reviewed the newly-arrived troops. The absence of his yellow jacket was the subject of much remark.

"Li Hung Chang has sent a message to the Japanese minister expressing regret for the treatment to which the minister was subjected in Taku and promising that the offending Chinese will be punished. The soldiers in question abused and derided the minister and threw mud and stones at him.

"A telephone line has been established between Taku and Tien-Tsin. The commander at Taku has prepared to block the Pei-Ho on short notice. The laying of torpedoes continues. All competent men in the training schools have been drafted for service on various warships."

The Shanghai correspondent of the Central News telegraphs as follows:

"Yesterday's report that there had been another engagement off the Korean coast, in which three Chinese warships had been captured by the Japanese, is not credited here. The Chinese northern fleet remains at Weihai-Wei, and no Chinese transports have recently ventured to sea.

"The Russian troops north of the Trumen river have been reinforced.

"Several Japanese transports, escorted by warships, have been sighted in the Yellow sea. It is presumed that they were bound for Chemulpo.

"Letters from Han-Kow, where there are only eighty Europeans, say that great anxiety prevails among the foreigners lest anarchy break out among the natives in the event of a disaster to the Chinese forces. All of the male Europeans have enrolled as volunteers. Uneasiness is felt also in Chin-Klang, Huhu, Tchang and other places."

The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says: "The Japanese Major Ando, director of the military school in Tokio, who has been sojourning here since February studying the military schools, has been recalled to Japan. Twelve other Japanese officers who were delegated to study in military institutions in Germany and Austria, have returned home."

The Shanghai correspondent of the Times telegraphs: "Li Hung Chang expects that England will claim compensation for the relatives of the Kow Shing victims and for the owners of the vessel and cargo. He estimates the indemnity due China for the sinking of the Kow Shing at $3,500,000.

AFTER TWENTY-ONE YEARS.

A Western Man Returns With a Queer Story of Adventure.

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 7.—Samuel Ensign, who left this city twenty-one years ago to make a trip as engineer of an ocean steamer, returned to this county yesterday and tells a strange story of his absence. The vessel on which he shipped went to Cuba, where the captain got into trouble with the authorities and the crew was seized by the Spanish authorities. Ensign was thrown into a cell in the old government prison, where he was kept prisoner for twelve years, when he was taken out and given to a prominent Catholic priest as a body servant, and for nine years he was a slave.

The priest, with Ensign as valet, started on a year's tour, arriving in New Orleans about a month ago, when Ensign deserted him, starting north to try and find his wife, whom he had left in this city.

Yesterday he reached Michigan City and made his way to the home of James and John Prentice, two prominent farmers, who are nephews of his, and where he found his wife.

The Czar's Daughter Married.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 7.—Grand Duchess Xenia, daughter of the Czar, was married yesterday to Grand Duke Alexander Michailovitch, in the imperial palace at Peterhof. The ceremony was a brilliant one. Metropolitan Palladius officiated. The bride and bridegroom were led by the Czar to their places at the platform in the center of the chapel. The bride wore a scarlet mantle lined with ermine over her bridal dress.

A salute of 100 guns were fired at the conclusion of the ceremony, and great enthusiasm was displayed by the immense crowd that had gathered outside the palace.

The Alabama Election.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 7.—The election yesterday passed off unusually quiet. The new ballot law worked like a charm.

The returns up to this morning indicate that Oates' majority will run considerably over 20,000, while the legislature is democratic in both branches, with a majority of more than ten on joint ballot. Morgan's return to the senate is assured.

This, Jefferson county, was the seat and though the democrats lost heavily, they have elected their entire ticket by from 500 to 1,000.

Cleveland Defended.

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 7.—In the convention to-day of the Charleston city and county democracy resolutions were passed denouncing "the uncalled for tirade of abuse and misrepresentation levelled at Grover Cleveland by the men now in control of the state democratic organization, and that the democracy of Charleston pledge their undivided support to the national democratic party and its matchless leader, Grover Cleveland."

Father and Children Perished.

Wilmar, Minn., Aug. 7.—S. O. Ostenson, a farmer living eight miles north of here, and his four children, were burned to death in the destruction of their farm-house yesterday. Mrs. Ostensen narrowly escaped a similar fate and is crazed over the awful fate of the family. Lightning caused the fire.

FEEDING A DELICATE BABY.

Words of a Famous Physician That Should Be Written on the Walls of Every Nursery—How to Supplement Mother's Milk.

"One-half of the deaths of infants are caused by improper feeding", should be written on the walls of every nursery.

It is known to all doctors that there is no food for an infant equal to the milk of a robust woman. But there are hosts of mothers who cannot nurse their children during the entire year, and many others who ought not to, as the nutriment which they furnish steadily loses in richness and power to make firm flesh and bone and to keep baby well. This is especially true in Summer.

"How shall I feed my baby?" is then the question of these mothers who cannot nurse their babies.

"Feed the little one on lactated food," says the more experienced mother.

Years and years of splendid results in the rearing of delicate children lactated food have given it its brilliant reputation among mothers and physicians. As a nutriment and preventive of disease it has been subjected to the most trying tests, and has brought thousands of babies safely through the hot summer, sustaining their strength in the exhausting diseases peculiar to childhood.

Here is the experience of the sweet baby boy whose portrait is given above. His mother, Mrs. W. H. P. Caron, who resides at 30 North First st., Meriden, Coun., writes:

"I take pleasure in sending you the picture of our little Walter. He was a very sick baby and would not nurse. We tried everything we could, but he never got well until a friend recommended lactated food to us. We gave it to him and he improved rapidly; this is his second summer and is very trying to him, as he is cutting teeth, but in spite of that he is larger than a good many as old. He will eat nothing but lactated food. I hope that I may have many chances to recommend it, for I know of nothing else that deserves so much praise as lactated food.

MINERVA'S MERRIMENT.

Pythian Sisters Entertain Their Friends With a Musical and Literary Programme, Refreshments, and a Dance.

Red Men's Hall was well filled last evening with friends of Minerva Temple, No. 5, Pythian Sisters, all of whom fully enjoyed the entertainment and social provided by the Sisters.

The hall was prettily decorated with bunting and flags, making the scene one of splendor.

Mrs. Benjamin Moore was chairman of the affair, and officiated with ability and grace. The entertainment opened with the singing of "The Old Oaken Bucket", by the Sisters, and was well received for its excellent rendition, as was also the recitation by Miss Haberle which followed. Mrs. Fred Canfield then favored those present with two charming piano solos, which were heartily applauded.

A dialogue entitled "Rose and Thorn" was given in excellent style by A. D. Pope as "J. Thorn", Mrs. Alfred Dawe as "Rose Thorn", Mrs. E. E. Hann as "The Aunt", and Mrs. A. D. Pope as "Peggy". It was an amusing sketch, and very much enjoyed.

"Mr. and Mrs. Sims" was the title of a vocal duet by Mrs. A. D. Pope and C. J. Ackerman. Mrs. William Lyons then recited the amusing selection, "Socrates Snooks", which elicited hearty laughter and applause.

A quartette, Joseph Martin, Harry Roberts, E. Southard and Harry Spencer, by request, gave a selection, which was very well rendered and received.

The programme concluded with the vocal selection, "My Own Native Isle", by Mrs. A. D. Pope, soprano; Mrs. J. Wakefield, alto; J. Thompson, tenor, and C. J. Ackerman, bass. J. B. Higham was the efficient pianist. It was then announced that those present could secure ice-cream and cake by adjourning to the banquet hall, and after all were supplied the young people indulged in a dance

Campers.

Clarence Thorn, Percy McVoy, Walter Hetfield, Jr., Harry Dencklau and Wyatt Barnes left Plainfield yesterday morning at 4 for Cedar Pond, about five miles from Newfoundland.

A horse and wagon conveyed the boys, together with provisions, tents, cooking utensils, etc.

They will camp for 10 days, and no doubt will have a delightful time. Cedar Pond is about sixty miles from Plainfield.

An amusing incident of the trip was when one of the party slept under the wagon with a gun by his side, thinking someone might molest the goods.

Central Cycling Course.

David Weaver and Justice Mosher announce that they have cleared away the land between the court building and Roberts's stables, preparatory to constructing an egg-shaped bicycle track. Each of the owners will then learn to ride there, and when both are proficient races will be held daily in full view of the sidewal. A grand stand is to be built upon the roof of the Justice's store with an entrance through the skylight in William J. Ford's shoe shop. The name of the club, to be managed of course in the approved way by the two men alone, has not been selected.

To Manage the Schools.

Through the failure of the North Plainfield Township to elect school commissioners according to law, County Superintendent John L. Anderson has appointed the following to fill the vacancies until the next annual meeting for the election of such board in the township next March: Robert Clark, Jr., Theodore Leurseen, G. W. Bullman, Andrew Wilson, George Stewart, John B. Doty, A. S Voorhees, Wm H. Morris. H. Jennings. The board will meet in a few days to organize.

Tick in Central Pharmacy.

The Postal Telegraph Company have arranged with Druggist Leggett to rent a portion of his pharmacy at the corner of Park avenue and Front street, using the entrance in the rear of the store opening on Park avenue. The company will not be able to leave its quarters in the Metropolitan stables until September 1. After the wires are out, A. D. Thompson will tear down the partitions, and build a new office where the operator now ticks.

A Victim of Drink.

Henry Fosberg was arrested in the borough Saturday for being drunk and disorderly in the old way. Borough Magistrate Crosley paroled him to appear for a hearing last night. Yesterday morning he started in on another period of intoxication, and so he answered for a double charge when he finally came in the court-room last evening. He was fined $5, and paid it at once.

Thursday, to the Park.

You are always sorry that you left the shore so early after a Plainfield excursion, but you will have no cause for complaint this week Thursday. The Trinity excursion takes place then, and the managers will hold the train there till 7 in the evening. Is n't that an inducement? On Trinity excursions sociability is extreme, and this is the last church excursion of the season.

Killing Time.

A. H Barnett should make a very fast mile in his race against time at the matinee of the Crescents tomorrow. The track was never in better condition. Ten cents admits to grounds and grand-stand.

Close Your Windows.

The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will practise two new pieces in their rooms tonight.

NO NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

THE EDUCATIONAL BOARD WITHDRAWS ITS REQUEST.

Common Council Not to Be Asked to Grant an Appropriation.

The Plainfield School Board held a short session last night. The customary routine business was transacted, including the payment of bills, and one important decision was made. This was the reconsideration of the resolution to ask the Common Council to grant $75,000 appropriation for a new High School. The former action was rescinded, and nothing will be done towards securing increased school accommodations before the September meeting, if then.

GENERAL THATCHER'S ARMY.

The Men Are Marvels of Minstrelsy, and the Maidens Are Queens of Comedy and Song.

If not so strong in numbers as the late ill-starred army led by General Coxey, still stronger in point of melody, beauty, and elegance, was the comey d regiment that invaded Plainfield yesterday and commenced the rehearsals of the new minstrel farce comedy, "About Gotham". Among those who will be residents among us from now until the night of production, Aug 23, are the Comedy Adonis, Carroll Johnson; the mass of mirth, Dave Foy; Griffin and Marks and John Daly, the monarchs of dancing; E. C. Jobson, who, in conjunction with our old friend Ed. Marble, will delineate the humorous side of trampdom; the sweet singing quartette, Messrs. Oakland, Thompson, Binkley and Bode; the great international orchestral maestro, Theodore A. Metz; and a bevy of beautiful and artistically brilliant ladies including Miss Alice Blauvelt, prima donna soprano; Miss Esther Moore, principal contralto; Miss Anna Caldwell, the brightest of comediennes; those pretty and vivacious sisters, Helen and Henrietta Byron; Miss Cecile Lorain; and the "Sunbeams" (look out for them) Florence McKinley, Frances and Birdie Smythe and Ella Middleton. Harry W. Emmet is stage directing the production, and the "boss" himself, George Thatcher, completes an organization never excelled in versatility, vivacity and vigor.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Asbury Park races this week will attract a number of Plainfielders besides the racers.

John Crawford, Al. Coburn and C. S. Gotthell rode to New Brunswick on their wheels yesterday afternoon, returning in the evening.

At the Crescent track Sunday afternoon a man from Rahway had $3 taken from his pocket by a boy who reached for it as the man leaned over the fence. The cycler discovered his loss and the boy, took his money back, and sent the boy off.

George Taggart left at noon today for Denver, where he will represent The United Press at the national meet of the L. A. W. His wheel and Crescent colors go along, too, and he will let the Westerners know that Plainfield has the finest racing path in this part of the earth.

Andrew E. Kenney has blossomed out into poetry. He sends from St. Paul a blank-verse idyl of the wheel. His brother John will read it at the next meeting of the Crescent League, and if it is not fatal Andrew will come home and write some more. The rare humor of the piece is indicated by the portion stating that the corn was growing near Springfield so that the chiropodists might cut it.

Starting Monday, August 27, C. S. Gotthell will ride to Chicago on his Spalding with Hy-Lo attachment. He will go with Road Rider Truax, who works for the Spalding people. Each of their wheels will be fitted with 72 54 Hy-Lo gears. Truax rides to break the record of ten days from New York to Chicago. He expects to make the distance in eight days. Gotthell will ride with him as far as Buffalo, and will then take to the railroad, stopping off ahead and resting, and then riding at times the rest of the way. In returning on his wheel, Gotthell will make a slow trip, displaying the advantages of the changeable gear to cyclists he may meet on the route back.

CRESCENT RACERS TURBULENT

As was mentioned in The Press alone last night, the refusal of the Crescent managers to pay the entry fees of the racers who ride under its colors is the topic for discussion among the members who are interested in the racing part of the club's affairs. As a result of the declaration that the fees of only those "who bring home prizes" will be paid hereafter, Crane and D. S. Lewis have entered the races in Asbury Park next Friday and Saturday unattached. Because of his objection to the new move, Cuming's mount has been taken away, and he will leave the track for the present. Lines's wheel is undergoing repairs, but there is no doubt expressed about his action when he gets on the track again. Henry Scott has kept his wheel rather than refuse to pay his entry fees while riding under the club colors, his brother of course being secured by his records. Barnett remains a Crescent rider. Others besides those referred to have entered races this month without the formality of placing the Crescent name after their own on the entry blank. The boys claim that they keep the name of the club before the public by their riding, and that they are compelled to pay their annual dues to remain in the club membership. The entry fees are a small matter for the club to kick about, they think, and they intend to stand out on the principle of the thing. It can be imagined how they will respond to the request of the management to give exhibition racing on the track at the matinee tomorrow to advertise the track and the Crescent club among the townspeople.

Why Frisbie Serves Uncle Sam.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CHURCH CHIMES.

A flag and flower carnival and promenade carnival will be given in Central Hall Labor Day for the benefit of Emmanuel Baptist Church.

Notwithstanding the hot weather of the past week, the club-room of the Holy Cross Brotherhood was largely attended. This augurs well for a brilliant Fall and Winter season.

All of the officers of the First Church of Christ attended the meeting at the home of ex-Pastor B. W. Hand last evening except Elder Lunger. Papers were examined and matters were discussed, but the business under consideration was not finished, and the meeting was finally adjourned till Friday evening.

Exonerated.

Mayor Gilbert last night tried Policeman Vanderweg on the charge of wrongfully clubbing a prisoner, and acquitted him.

NEWS FROM THE NEW CHURCH PAPER.

Dr. Rodman's Going Abroad, and a Dutch Market in the New Y. M. C. A. Building.

(From The Advance.)

We are glad to be able to announce that Mrs. Rodman has so far recovered from her serious illness as to make it possible for the Rector to take his contemplated 2-months trip to Europe.

There is to be given by the women of Plainfield a "Dutch Market" in the new Y. M. C. A. building during the second week of November next, for the purpose of of raising funds to furnish the building. The Chairman of the Committee from Grace Church is Mrs. A. W. Kleinecke, who solicits contributions of any of the following articles for the purpose named: fancy articles, dressed dolls, household articles, refreshments, dry groceries and candies. Money in lieu thereof will be gladly received. If those who are willing to contribute for this purpose will send their names to Mrs. A. W. Kleinecke, 346 Franklin place, they will be notified in due time where and when to send their contributions.

Grown Beyond Its Parish Limits.

The Grace Parish Record has been changed to The Advance, and henceforth is devoted to the Church Catholic of Plainfield. It is a courageous move, and the paper is so earnest and so effective in covering its field that it deserves full support among all denominations.

She Will Not Prosecute.

Miss Annie Singer, of Stony Hill, has almost entirely recovered from the results of her fall from a Blue Line train last week. The report that she intends to prosecute the company for damages is denied.

PLAINFIELD CITIZENS AND COUNCIL AFTER THE WATER CONCERN.

Want to Know Why Cedar Brook Is Dried up and the Water Deported—Also Why the Contract With the City Is Not Fulfilled—Sewer Contract to Be Awarded—Mr. Frazee Fights for the Workingman.

The meeting of the Common Council last evening was important, and all of the members attended. After the minutes had been approved, the first of the petitions was read. It was as follows:

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN:—Your attention is respectfully called to the growing dissatisfaction of citizens, bordering on disgust, with the manner in which the Plainfield Water Supply Company conducts its business.

Permit me to suggest:

First—Obtaining a competent legal opinion as to the rights of the said company to steal water belonging to citizens and sell it elsewhere. Cedar brook formerly flowed into the city across Terrill road. This supply has been dried up by the water company. If one company can thus take away the heritage of some of our citizens, 100 companies could tap our water supply and ruin all our wells dry.

Second—An examination and inquiry by a proper committee as to the expense of duplicating the plant and pipes of the said company with the object in view of the city's putting down its own system of distribution pipes and owning its own wells and pumping station, so as to supply water in a proper business manner and at cost.

Now appears to be the proper time to act, and citizens will back up your honorable body in furnishing water as well as sewerage.

Respectfully,
LEMUEL W. SERRELL.

The matter was referred to the Water and Sewers Committee as was a similar reference to the matter made in the last message of the Mayor. To the Fire and Buildings Committee was referred the petition of John H. Tier, who asked to be allowed to replace with an iron post the wooden one which now supports a kerosene lamp at the corner of Bank place and East Front street. Edward Rushmore's request that the assessment of $150 which he paid for the abandoned Watchung Avenue extension December 20, 1892, be returned to him, was sent to the Finance Committee.

E. M. Clay, as president of the Local Union of Christian Endeavor Societies, asked that the Union be allowed to erect and maintain a public water fountain for the use of people alone, on Somerset street 12 feet from Front street in front of the property of J. A. Blatz. The fountain was proposed to be of iron, five feet and three inches high and one foot and seven inches in diameter at the base, and the water company promising to furnish water during the months of the year in which the pipes were not liable to be damaged by frost. Mr. Frazee moved that the permission of the Council be granted, Mr. Fisk asked to have it referred to the Street Committee with power when they could grant it after their meeting Tuesday, Mr. Ginna wanted to have the matter sent to the Fire and Buildings Committee. It was finally decided to have the fountain placed under the direction of the Street Committee.

Pastor J. W. Mitchell presented a petition which was received and referred. He called attention to the fact that the Emmanuel Baptist Church had permanently built on Fillmore avenue, and that it had been discovered that there was a light neither at the corner of Fillmore and North avenue, nor at the corner of Fillmore avenue and Third street. Lights were needed there for the protection of the churchgoers from assault from the tramps who might lurk in the darkness of the vicinity, and to enable the attendants to see their way to church.

The following petition was read and ordered filed:

To the Chief Magistrate and Board of Aldermen of the city:

GENTLEMEN:—I hereby to intend to petition your noble body, hoping you will attend to this complaint of old Peter Collins against Michael Walsh, who has frauded him out of $7.36. I hope ye will be good enough to curtail that amount from Walsh and give it to the city treasurer for me, who has to meet the demands of the old man. As you can see by the tax bills, I am deeply in debt, and other demands which I cannot meet if I cannot get the rent of the place. If Walsh is not satisfied to pay this debt, I am sure ye can dispense with his services on the corporation, and tell Mr. Walsh so and show him they are your subordinates.

Gentlemen, awaiting your favorable reply, I most respectfully remain yours,

MRS. JANE L. TOBIN, Agent.

I have paid six years taxes for him, mostly out of my own pocket, of which I will show you some of the bills.

Paid, July 17, 1894—$28.87; last year, $23.94; which Mr. Nash's books can show.

Mayor Gilbert's appointments as special policemen of Nathan Pollock and Pine Yetman were approved. The reports of the treasurer and the collector were referred to the Finance Committee. In anticipation of the collection of taxes, the Mayor and Clerk were authorized to borrow $2,500 for the general fund, $1,000 for the fire department, and $500 for the poor fund. The paying back of the Watchung avenue assessment to Edward Rushmore having been recommended by the Finance Committee, it was ordered done. On motion of Mr. Fisk, $3,000 addition was appropriated for the use of the Street Committee during the rest of the month.

On motion of Mr. Dumont, it was resolved that a committee be elected according to the sewerage law to take charge of the work. On his nominating, a vote by ballot resulted in the election of Councilmen Frost, Ginna and Erickson. The following resolution was then offered by Mr. Westphal, and its passage urged by the seconder, Mr. Frazee:

WHEREAS, The workingmen are looking forward to employment upon the sewerage system, and

WHEREAS, The work of constructing our system of sewerage will be entirely controlled by contract, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Committee on Sewerage be and are hereby authorized to insert in the specifications of the contract a clause providing for the non-employment of Italians, but instead providing for the employment of a certain number of Plainfield's unemployed population, that this specification should indicate about 200 men, able and willing to work and recommended as worthy by the Citizens' Organized Aid Association.

After Mr. Frazee had seconded the resolution, Mr. Dumont doubted if the matter had been considered from all sides. He had never heard of the binding of a contractor in such a way. Mr. Frazee said he thought Plainfield workmen should be guaranteed the first preference in employment on Plainfield sewers. Mr. Westphal said he would not insist on having 200 workmen mentioned in the resolution, but he wanted the matter arranged so that Plainfield workingmen would be benefited.

Mr. Frost remarked that the proposition was impracticable. It was ridiculous for it would make the cost of the system about 25 per cent. more. No contractor could be held to such a condition. It would increase the cost so much that Plainfield could not afford to put in sewers at all. The contractors who would compete for the work would not make a cent on pipe or cement, but would calculate for a profit on the labor. There were to be twice as many miles of house connections as of sewers proper. Plainfield's unemployed could find plenty of work on this; the contractor could hire Hungarians and Italians.

Mr. Westphal believed in home trade and did n't like to see the only profit on the work go to Hungary. It would be better for each property owner to pay a few dollars more and have Plainfield men employed. Mr. Frazee thought the contractor could be induced to stand by such an agreement.

Mr. Frost said Plainfield was not a fraternal town. The town did not believe in fraternalism. There would be more work than the local men could do. The city would have no business to get them employment. Mr. Dumont said that no contractor would accede. Mr. Fisk offered an amendment which requested the committee to ask the contractor to give Plainfield men the preference as far as possible.

Mr. Frost said a good contractor would oblige the committee. He would bring his traveling skilled labor with him but would buy another grade here if he could. Mr. Frazee compared the Plainfielder with the Hungarian and Mr. Westphal said no white man would work for 90 cents a day. A vote being taken on the amendment, all voted aye for the simple request to the contractor except Councilmen Frazee, Westphal and Millington.

The Alms Committee was authorized to spend not more than $50 in repairing the building at the corner of Plainfield avenue and Third street used as a city alms house. M. C. Bird's petition for permission to erect a kindlingwood chute over the sidewalk in front of his place on East Fourth street, was returned by the Fire and Buildings Committee, and referred to the Street Committee. The request of the water company for payment for damage done to their hydrant at the corner of Watchung avenue and Second street, was referred to the corporation counsel. Mr. Erickson returned the bill of the water company with the explanation that the city would not pay for water for the engine-house in advance.

The report of the Water Committee was presented and read. The dispute between the city and the company as to putting in four-way hydrants, particularly the one ordered at the corner of Pond place and South Second street, was rehearsed at length. The refusal of the company to comply with the orders of the Council was reported, together with the failure to extend the line to F. A. Barnaby's new house in spite of his guarantee that the amount of business mentioned in the contract would be secured. Mr. Erickson thought that no bills should be paid until the contract had been complied with, and so moved. He amended to refer the matter to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion, and this motion was carried.

A number of bills were ordered paid. Mr. Westphal asked concerning a light at the corner of Dunellen avenue and Randolph road, and a recess was then taken for ten minutes.

After a vacation of an hour the meeting was called to order again, and the report of the Sewerage Committee, elected under the law, was presented. They had elected Mr. Frost chairman, and had arranged to have the sewerage system built under the direction of F. W. Farquhar, consulting engineer at $10 a day; A. J. Gavett, engineer at $6 a day; F. J. Hubbard and H. C. VanEmburgh, division engineers at $4 a day each. On motion of Mr. Dumont, the recommendations made by the committee were accepted.

Mr. Frost offered the plans and specifications of the portion of the sewer which was to be built this Fall, and they were ordered filed in the office of the city clerk. The line of the sewers to be built at once was described as follows:

Third street—Grant avenue to Central avenue.

Central avenue—Third street to Front street.

Front street—Central avenue to Watchung avenue.

Grant avenue—Third street to Seventh street.

Seventh street—Grant avenue to Plainfield avenue.

Plainfield avenue—Fifth street to Eighth street.

Eighth street—Plainfield avenue to Central avenue.

Central avenue—Eighth street to Ninth street.

Ninth street—Central avenue to Watchung avenue.

Watchung avenue—Ninth street to Richmond street.

Richmond street—Watchung avenue to Putnam avenue.

Putnam avenue—Richmond street to Woodland avenue.

Woodland avenue—Putnam avenue to South avenue.

Fifth street—Plainfield avenue to Washington street.

Mr. Dumont moved and it was carried that the clerk be instructed to advertise for proposals to be opened August 21. Besides the official papers, the call for bids was ordered inserted once in the Engineering News and in the Engineering and Building Record. The Sewerage Committee were authorized to have printed 100 copies of the contract and specifications.

Mr. Frazee referred to one of the bills presented, that of John Meeker for $159 63 for carting and $58.13 for superintending on the streets, and said he thought it best to dispense with his services while the street commissioner was being paid $1,750 a year. His motion to do so was not seconded.

The Council was then adjourned, to meet again Tuesday evening, Aug. 21, at 8.

—A business meeting of the C. Y. M. L. will be held in the Lyceum this evening.

Henry Peters returned to his home in New York yesterday after a pleasant visit in Dunellen.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seine of Germantown, Pa., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Gallagher.

Miss Elma Runyon of Arlington avenue is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. L. Moffett, in the borough.

Mrs. W. H. Cole and granddaughter, Miss Edna Baldwin, are visiting the old homestead in Clinton.

Wm. Haynes of New Market left Saturday per steamer Umbria for England to be gone three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth of Somerville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joel Giddis, East Front street.

Mrs. C. Oehmann of New York returned home yesterday afternoon after a visit with Mrs. Karl, Jefferson avenue.

A special meeting of the Foresters was held last evening to make arrangements for the funeral of their late brother, Smith Laing.

Mrs. Fields and her son Clarence of Bayonne were in town Sunday visiting friends. Yesterday morning they left for an extended trip to California.

The Borough Commissioners met last evening and transacted routine business. Nothing of special importance came up for consideration. An early adjournment was made to attend the Foresters meeting.

Elmer Blackford, Fred Haynes of New Market and George Benwood of Stelton left town this morning on their wheels. They intend riding to Narragansett Pier, and be gone the rest of the week.

Those who attend the M. E. Church Thursday evening will be delighted with the entertainment by J. M. Cobb elocutionist and Mr. VanEppa, of Plainfield, zither soloist. There will also be a lawn festival.

A gang of men congregated near the railroad below Prospect avenue Sunday morning and disturbed those who wanted to sleep. They had been drinking and their language was very indecent. Something should be done to break up these midnight rows which are becoming a feature.

The Foresters held a meeting last evening and took action on the death of their late brother, Smith Laing. It was decided to meet at the home of Arthur Gaston this evening and immediately after the regular funeral service to march to the house and hold a special service, which will be conducted by Chief Ranger Arthur Gaston, Vice Chief Ranger Mr. Wyckoff, and Chaplain Lewis Titsworth.

In Justice Newcorn's Court.

A judgment was rendered by Justice Newcorn today in the case in tort of Karet against Ficke for $6 damage and $3 02 costs.

A dispossess warrant will be issued in the landlord and tenant case of Emily Emily Brown against Moore Coddington.

A summons has been issued in the landlord and tenant case of Edward Dorwood against David Rees, returnable August 15. Both men live in Fanwood Township.

Minutes Set to Music.

A machine musician anchored on Park avenue last evening and assisted in the opening of the Council meeting with the loud playing of "Two Little Girls in Blue". He continued while the minutes were being read, thereby increasing the interest of the members in the record of their past work.

Membership That Pays.

Ivanhoe Council, No. 1075, American Legion of Honor, sent a committee to the afflicted home of the late Smith Laing, yesterday, to condole with the family, and make out the papers necessary to secure the insurance, which will be paid in consequence of his membership.

Triplets.

Messrs. Fritts, Hinrichs and Titsworth will do a mile against time on the triplet at the matinee races tomorrow. This race will carry much interest with it. Their best previous record is 2:11.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is none yet equal to Ely's Cream Balm. In anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while the most inveterate cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

THE HONEYMANITES ABROAD.

Everybody Well, and Having a Perfect Time.

PARIS, France, July 26,

The Honeyman party of 61 are just about to leave for London, after a visit to Holland and Belgium. All are well, and all are having the best possible opportunities to see the treasures of royalty. The weather has been quite cool, and perfect for sight-seeing every day since landing. We are loth to leave Paris, with its Eiffel Tower and Louvre. We spend a week in London and then take a drive of one week. PLAINFIELD

A COMMON QUESTION.

WHERE MAY WOMEN GO FOR HELP?

How Many American Women Have Asked This Question of Themselves.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

You may call it dangerous modesty if you will. It is in woman's heart, and is part of woman's nature.

She shrinks from telling her physical troubles to men.

During the past 30 years thousands of women throughout the world have written in womanly confidence to Lydia E. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and laid bare the life of misery they endured.

They wrote freely, knowing that their letters went direct to the hands of a woman who not alone understood their sufferings but whose heart was full of sympathy with them. The experience of thousands has proved how carefully their letters were studied, and how true and sure came the answer and helpfulness.

You may be suffering daily when you need not. You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only a woman can give.

A young lady from Boston writes to a friend, saying:—"They said I was consumptive, sent me away, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, no tennis. Just think of it! One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Lydia E. Pinkham. In it I found out what ailed me, so I wrote to her; got a lovely reply. She told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health now."

The same assistance is waiting for you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved more female suffering than any other medicine in the world.

Trucks in Trouble.

A boy drove A. E. Hoagland's truck along Front street at noon today and turned into Somerset street. Frank Randolph's truck was just behind, and by a misunderstanding the second team was driven between the wagon in front and the sidewalk. The wagons caught, and Randolph's team had to be unhitched and led off by way of the sidewalk.

Proposals for Sewers

Sealed proposals for building sewers in the city of Plainfield, N. J., will be received by the Common Council of said city until 8 o'clock p. m. on the 21st day of August, 1894, at which time they will be opened. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $1,000, payable to the Treasurer of the city of Plainfield, and no proposal will be considered unless so accompanied.

The Engineer's estimate of the quantities of material required and the work to be done is approximately as follows:

3,780 feet 15 inch pipe sewer.
6,130 feet 15 inch pipe sewer.
6,570 feet 12 inch pipe sewer.
1,095 feet 10 inch pipe sewer.
9,930 feet 8 inch pipe sewer.
960 Y branches.
67 manholes.
25 lamp holes.
Two 150 gallon flush tanks.
One 1,000 gallon flush tank.
5,000 feet tile under drains.

Plans may be examined and forms of proposal, specifications, etc., may be obtained at the office of the Engineer, 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

All proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Sewers," and addressed to James T. MacMurray, City Clerk, 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Corporation Notice.

GAVETT'S

TO OUST ANARCHISTS

Hill's Bill Against the Reds Passed by the Senate.

Long Discussion Over the Resolution for an Inquiry Into Dominion Coal Company Affairs—The Fifty-third Congress Starts on Its Second Year of Active Work.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The Fifty-third congress began to-day the second year of active existence. There was nothing in the proceedings in either branch to indicate the fact, however.

There was a pretty long and interesting discussion in the senate yesterday over Mr. Chandler's resolution for an inquiry into the history of the Dominion Coal company of Nova Scotia, and over Mr. Mills' amendment to it, proposing to extend the inquiry to coal and transportation companies in the United States that might be affected by the Canadian competition, and as to whether members of congress or officers of the government held any pecuniary interest in those companies. At the close of the morning hour the matter went over without action. The remainder of the day's session was occupied in the discussion of the anti-anarchist bill, which was finally passed and sent to a conference committee. The conference report on the river and harbor appropriation bill was agreed to.

House of Representatives.

The Williams-Settle contested election case, from the Fifth North Carolina district, which was the order of business for the day, was postponed until next session, owing to the enforced absence of Representative Woodward, in charge of the case for Williams.

Nine private pension and relief bills were passed, clearing up the docket of the committee of the whole from Friday night sessions.

The conference report on the river and harbor appropriation bill was again agreed to in order to correct an error in the report as made last Friday, after a statement by Mr. Catchings (dem., Maine), chairman of the committee in charge of the bill, to show that the error had been made in the clerk's office and not by himself.

Most of the day was spent in discussing the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill. The conferees had come together upon every item except the one relating to the ratification of the treaties with the Siletz, Yankton, Sioux and Nez Perces Indians for the cession of portions of their respective reservations. The bill as it passed the house modified the terms of payment for the land as set forth in the treaty, and the senate restored them. Without conclusive action, however, the house adjourned.

DEMOCRATIC HOUSE CAUCUS.

Another Effort To Secure the Passage of the Tariff Bill.

Washington, Aug. 7.—A caucus of the house democrats will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon to consider what action shall be taken to secure the early passage of the tariff bill.

The reports from the conference committe, which have been received at the house end of the capitol, indicate that the conferees are still far apart, and it is for this reason that an effort will be made to hold the caucus this afternoon to determine what action shall be taken with reference to the matters in dispute between the two houses.

TO A RUSSIAN PRINCE.

News of the Engagement of a Boston Belle.

Boston, Aug. 7.—News of the engagement of Miss Susie Whittier, of Boston, and Prince Beltozelski, of Russia, has reached here.

Miss Whittier last summer was the belle of Newport.

The prince is the son of the czar's chamberlain, and is immensely rich.

Miss Whittier is a sister of General C. A. Whittier, president of the Meigs elevated railroad, and has no money to speak of. She, with her sister and another brother, are now in Europe.

PHILLIES WITHOUT A HOME.

Loss to the Ball Club and Adjacent Property About $100,000.

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—The loss by the fire yesterday, which broke out in the pavilion of the Philadelphia ball park and spread to adjacent property, is placed at $100,000, divided as follows: Philadelphia Ball club, $70,000; Omnibus company's stables, $20,000; adjoining property, $10,000.

The pavilion cannot be rebuilt before the baseball season closes, and the club will select temporary grounds.

There is no doubt that a small boy and a cigarette caused the fire.

Tariff More Mixed Than Ever.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The condition of the tariff bill appeared to be more mixed yesterday than at any time during the past week, and its ultimate fate more shrouded in doubt and gloom. Everything seemed to be at sixes and sevens, but it is probable that some conclusion will be reached before many hours, for the conferees on the part of the senate are determined that action of one kind or another shall be had quickly. The house caucus may have an important bearing upon the work of the conference, and it matters little which way the caucus decides.

Embryo Tars Begin Practice.

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—Philadelphia naval reserves, to the number of 130, began an annual course of practical instruction yesterday on board the receiving ship St. Louis at the League Island navy yard. Real work will commence to-day, when Governor Pattison and his staff will be on hand at the inspection. The Pittsburg contingent, numbering over 80, will arrive this morning.

Praises for Senator Smith.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 7.—Representatives of the thread workers of the Kearney mills, of Paterson, and cutlers of Newark, met yesterday and adopted resolutions commendatory of the attitude of United States Senator James Smith, jr., of New Jersey, on the tariff fight. A copy of the resolutions were forwarded to him.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

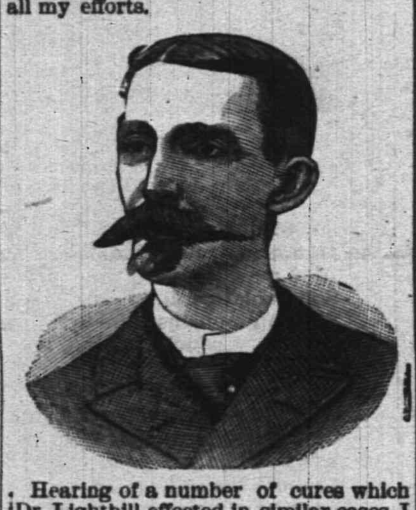
A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.



Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

Deafness, Catarrh and Diseases of the Head, Throat and Lungs successfully treated.

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

Mental and Nervous Derangements Epilepsy, Diseases of the Skin and Blood, Rheumatic, Neuralgic and Scrofulous Affections.

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

THE LITTLE ONES.

DR. GRINNELL RECOMMENDS LACTATED FOOD.

Cholera Infantum Is Reaping a Harvest—Lactated Food Is the Surest Preventive—It Has Saved Thousands of Infant Lives—Every Parent Should Now Be Supplied With It.

"After using lactated food for five years in cases of children suffering from cholera infantum, and in debilitating and wasting diseases, during which time it never failed me, I have pleasure in calling the attention of physicians to it, and in recommending its use."

So says A. P. Grinnel, M. D., dean of the medical faculty of the University of Vermont, and the statement is published in the Ladies' Home Journal.

The statement is of inestimable value to mothers.

More than a fifth of all the babies born in New Jersey die before they have lived a year. And two-thirds of these die in summer of cholera infantum and kindred diseases.

High temperature makes it difficult for baby's stomach to digest its usual food. It is then that unusual precautions must be taken or the weak, sickly babies fall victims to cholera infantum.

During hot weather strength must be kept up, and yet without burdening and overturning the delicate digestive organs It is just here that mothers and physicians find lactated food necessary: the explanation of the great success of this food in keeping babies strong through the summer is that in its composition nature's food for babies has been the model. It is pleasant to the taste, and is taken by babies with relish, and is easily digested and assimilated.

It is what physicians term a pre-digested food, and is especially valuable in all weak conditions of the digestive organs, not only for infants but for invalids and aged persons.

Mothers may stop worrying about their babies after they have once been put on a diet of lactated food.

Trained nurses keep lactated food on hand even when baby is fed on mother's milk. In cases of failure of the natural milk, or when weaning or during any possible illness of the mother, lactated food best takes the place of the natural food. Try it. It saves babies' lives.

ACCUSES HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Kohl, of Newark, Says He Killed Joseph Preinel.

Newark, Aug. 8.—The body of Joseph Preinel, who is supposed to have been murdered, will be exhumed by the prosecutor. The body was found in a meadow creek on June 16. It was supposed to have been a case of suicide, and as such was buried. Two weeks later Mrs. Henry Kohl went to the Fourth precinct station to make a charge of assault against her husband and incidentally informed the police that her husband had murdered Preinel, who was his cousin, and she feared he would kill her, too.

The woman declares that her husband confessed to her that he had killed Preinel. Kohl was arrested and is held pending an examination. The police have been investigating the case and hove found clues tending to confirm the murder story.

Preinel and Kohl left the city ostensibly to go fishing near the meadows and Preinel never returned alive.

The police have a theory that the motive for the murder was that Preinel was heir too property in Frankfort, Germany, and in event of his death Kohl would be benefitted.

DEATH OF DR. STRONG.

The Eminent Divine Passes Away at Round Lake.

Round Lake, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Dr. James Strong, S. T. D. and LL. D., professor emeritus of exegetical theology at Drew seminary, died here yesterday of heart failure, after a few days' illness. He was acknowledged to be the most thorough master of the Bible exegesis in the United States. He was one of the revisers of the English version of the Bible in 1881; he was joint editor of McClintock & Strong's Cyclopedia of Biblical, Theological and Ecclesiastical Literature; he published a "Harmony of the Gospels" in both English and Greek, and Greek and Hebrew grammars, and, within a few weeks past, he finished a concordance of the Bible, said to be the most exhaustive ever attempted—a work which took him thirty-six years to compile. Strangely enough, in his younger days, he projected and built the Flushing railroad. He was the first president of the road. He was born in 1822 in New York city.

Mysteriously Poisoned.

Chester Depot, Vt., Aug. 8.—The citizens of this place gave a reception to the teachers and instructors attending the summer school of methods for Windsor county. Some 400 persons were present, all of whom were made ill from some unknown cause, supposed to be poisoned ice cream. Most of those affected have recovered, but some are in a critical condition.

New Racing Association.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The Long Island pony racing association of New York City, has been incorporated with the secretary of state to investigate, ascertain, and keep a record of pedigrees of horses, and to publish a book of registery of horses in the United States and Canada and of promoting and holding exibitions of horses.

Bismarck and Wife Better.

London, Aug. 8.—The Berlin correspondent of the Central News says that Prince Bismarck is now almost free from the facial neuralgia with which he was suffering a while ago, and that he sleeps soundly and has an excellent appetite. The princess also is better, though she is still confined to bed.

Dixon-Marshall Fight.

Pittsburg, Aug. 8.—The outlook for a finish fight between George Dixon and Jerry Marshall seems very bright. It was learned last night from John Quinn, the backer of Marshall, that the Dixon people had about agreed to concede to Marshall weighing in at 120 pounds.

THE CAUCUS ADJOURNS

Decides Not To Embarrass the Conferrees.

No Instructions of Any Character Given Them—Action of the Caucus Disappointing To Its Promoters—Speaker Crisp Says an Agreement May Be Reached at an Early Date.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The house democratic caucus yesterday lasted an hour and a half, and adjourned after deciding that the house conferrees on the tariff bill should not be embarrassed by instructions of any character from their democratic associates.

This action of the caucus was disappointing to its promoters, who had hoped for a different result, whereby a speedy settlement of the matter in dispute between the two houses might be reached.

Another disappointment awaited those present, in that Mr. Wilson, the chairman of the ways and means committee, failed to inform the caucus what progress the conferrees had made; what propositions had been made and rejected by the representatives of the two houses and when, in his opinion, a report could be made.

Nor did Speaker Crisp, who spoke at length, throw any light upon the situation, for the most that he said was that an agreement might be reached at an early day, while he dampened the spirits of those who are pressing for an early adjournment by saying that congress would remain in session ninety days but that a tariff bill satisfactory to the country would be passed.

A feature of the proceedings was a statement made by Mr. Boatner, of Louisiana, on the authority of Senator Mills, of Tennessee, that the house must recede from its objections to the senate amendments and agree to them if the passage of a tariff bill is to be expected.

The characterization of this declaration by Mr. Cooper, of Indiana, as a "bluff" seemed likely for a moment to result in an acrimonious debate.

It did not, however, so result, and the entire proceedings were characterized by a spirit of harmony and good feeling.

Before the serious work of the caucus began a telegram was read from the clerk's desk announcing that Col. Oates had carried Alabama by a majority of 25,000. This was greeted with loud applause and put everybody in a good humor.

Mr. Holman, the chairman of the caucus committee, presided. The roll call disclosed the presence of 168 members, an unusually large number.

Mr. Bynum, of Indiana, who was the moving spirit in securing the caucus, said that as one of the democrats who had been instrumental in securing the call, he desired to explain that no reflection was intended on the house conferrees, all of whom were his friends, and in each of whom he had the utmost confidence. His purpose in asking for the caucus was to permit all the democrats in the house to meet and confer as to the best interests of the country and of the democratic party. He explained at some length the purpose of his resolution and stated that it was desirable that the democrats of the house should invite the Senate conferrees to appear before them at a subsequent caucus in order that all the official representives of the party in the city should take part in such deliberations and assist in reaching a conclusion that would meet the approval of both houses.

Mr. Bynum said that he knew that a part of the people, represented by a great clamor in the press, demanded the house bill. But he knew also that the people in his district favored the best bill they could get and a prompt settlement of the present uncertainty upon some bill. He was frank to say he much preferred the senate bill to no bill at all.

Representative W. L. Wilson, the chairman of the committee on ways and means, was the next speaker. He said he was glad of an opportunity to meet the democrats in council, but might not have selected this time for the purpose. He did not consider it fortunate, just at the time when the situation was most critical—last week and this week—that the call for a caucus should be held over the house conferrees. As far as Mr. Bynum's resolution was concerned, he said, it expressed exactly what the conferrees had been doing and were now doing.

Referring to the merits of the two measures, Mr. Wilson said that the house bill had proved to be acceptable to the people, while the senate bill apparently had not. He appreciated the necessity, he said, of the democrats passing some bill, but it was not desirable that the bill should be one which put the democrats on the defensive. He expressed the opinion that if necessary more than a month might well be spent in reaching an agreement upon a proper bill. If the house conferrees did their duty and the house did its duty, he believed that a bill would result, honorably alike to the house and to the senate. But this end, Mr. Wilson assured the caucus, would not, in his opinion, be hastened by any action that would seem to advise the senate conferrees that if they would hold out for some definite short period of time, that the house conferrees would agree with them.

In conclusion, Mr. Wilson said that this was the feeling of all the house conferrees, and that they desired to carry out the programme along the line indicated. But he intimated that if the present conferrees did not represent the wishes of a majority of the house they would willingly give way to others.

Mr. Wilson spoke with great earnestness and much feeling, and his remarks were greeted with applause.

Mr. Bland asked if it would not be a good thing for the committee on ways and means to report a bill putting sugar on the free list. The suggestion evoked a round of applause, which was followed with laughter when he continued: "While the senate is considering that proposition, we can take up a bill to increase the income tax to a hundred million dollars a year."

Mr. Livingston, of Georgia, offered the following resolution as a substitute for Mr. Bynum's resolution:

Resolved, That we have unlimited confidence in the house conferrees and request them to present a tariff bill that will meet the pledges and principles of the campaign and platform of 1892.

After considerable debate on Mr. Bynum's resolution and on Mr. Livingston's amendment they were withdrawn and the caucus adjourned sine die.

THE CAISSON DISASTER.

How the Soldiers at Chicago Were Blown To Pieces.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The following official statement is made regarding the cause of the caisson disaster at Chicago, in which several soldiers were blown to pieces:

The explosion at Chicago resulted from defective plungers in the base percussion fuses of the 3.82 shell. These plungers are cylinders of brass, filled with lead, through which a pointed pin is forced by pressure until the point is in the plane of the forward face of the cylinder, while the other end of the pin projects about a quarter of an inch beyond the rear plane of the cylinder. This plunger is placed in a cavity in the fuse plug, which plug is solid at the rear and contains a percussion capsule at the front. So long as the cylinder of the plunger does not move, the point cannot strike the percussion capsule. When the gun is fired the lead-filled brass cylinder strips down over the pin, leaving its point exposed. When after firing the shell strikes a resisting object, the cylinder and pin fly forward, the point of the pin strikes the percussion capsule and the bursting charge of the shell is ignited. Percussion shell having plungers of this pattern have been in service since 1887. Examination showed that jostling in the chests, coupled probably with corrosion of the lead, had caused some of the cylinders to jar down, leaving the points of the pin exposed. In this condition a sudden jolt could have caused an explosion.

SAVED BY A WOMAN.

An Insurance Man's Narrow Escape From Drowning.

Belmar, N. J., Aug. 8.—W. I. Miller, of the Mutual Life Insurance company, of New York, was yesterday rescued from drowning in the Shark river inlet by Miss Emma C. Lindsay, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Miller attempted to swim across the inlet and when about half way across was overcome and went to the bottom. Miss Lindsay, who was strolling along the shore, took in the perilous condition of Mr. Miller, and running to a near-by boat, jumped into it and rowed to the assistance of the drowning man. Miss Lindsay threw out a hawser which Mr. Miller grasped and held until other assistance arrived, when he was landed safely on shore.

SUSPICIOUS OF ENGLAND.

Russian Papers Declare She Is Supporting China.

London, Aug. 8.—The Russian newspapers are abandoning the idea of an amicable understanding between England and Russia with respect to Korea, and are publishing anti-English articles. Especially suspicious of England is the Novoe Vremya, which declares that England is secretly supporting China, and that Japan will soon find this out.

The London Daily News remarks that this language is noteworthy, inasmuch as the statements made would not be permitted to pass the censorship if the Russian government objected to them.

HIS FUNERAL POSTPONED.

A Young Boy Thought To Be Dead Revives.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 8.—There is a mild sensation here over the astonishing case of young August Vandevelde, who apparently died Monday after several days' illness with summer complaint. Arrangements for the funeral to take place to-day had been completed, but the sad event has been indefinitely postponed. While the undertaker was preparing the body for the coffin he noticed that the flesh was warm and soft. Efforts to revive the boy were made without delay, and to the great joy of the family, were successful. Doctors say the boy will live.

Major Kirk's Successor.

Washington, Aug. 8.—A vacancy in the quartermaster's department of the army will be created to-day by the retirement of Maj. E. B. Kirk. By the revision in the army appropriation bill, which has just become a law, the vacancy must be filled from the list of first lieutenants of the line. Heretofore it would have been possible for the president to fill the vacancy by an appointment from civil life.

MISSIONARIES MOBBED

Quebec Witnesses a Riotous Demonstration.

Mission Doors and Windows Smashed In With Stones—Inmates Rescued by the Police—Salvationists Driven From Their Barracks—A More Serious Outbreak Is Feared.

Quebec, Aug. 8.—This city was the scene of a disgraceful and riotous demonstration. The French Baptist mission has recently been established in this city, with its headquarters in a building on Bridge street and belonging to a Mr. Samson. A mob gathered around the building and an attack was begun upon it with stones. The missionary inmates of the place at the time of the attack were Rev. Mr. Burwash, of Grande Ligne, general evangelist; C. W. Grenier, also of Grande Linge, missionary, and Madame Grenier, Mrs. Desjardines and Mrs. Taylor, of this city. The attack was a fierce one, and the windows and doors yielded to the shower of stones poured upon them. The poor preachers, cooped up in there without any means whatever of defense, could not venture out and were held prisoners for some time, until a force of police came along and cleared away the mob, which numbered 5,000, composed mostly of French Catholics. Seeing this, the mob robbed of its prey, began to seek another, and away it went up to the building at the corner of George and Richelieu streets, occupied by the French Anglican mission. This place, too, was wrecked, the windows, etc., being destroyed. By the time the police got this far the rioters had moved on and were at the Salvation Army barracks, on Palais Hill. Here another fusilade of stones took place, and the property of the army sustained considerable damage. The girls who occupied the place were obliged to flee, and likewise the few men who were present. The police here also arrived too late to make any arrests, and hearing that the rioters had again made for the Grand Ligne Mission House, on Bridge street, they started in cabs for that place, where they arrived just in time to prevent a second riot. The streets were cleared and the missionaries were then escorted to their homes by the police to prevent any further violence being offered to them.

There is every reason to fear a recurrence of the trouble, and the fact that similar disturbances led to rather serious results a few years ago gives rise to the gravest apprehension on this score.

The city was very quiet yesterday, but an outbreak is feared should the Salvation Army attempt to parade the streets.

Fishermen Fired At by a Canadian Cruiser.

Buffalo, Aug. 8.—An afternoon paper says that three fishermen from this city were fired on by the Canadian cruiser Dolphin while fishing last Sunday inside of Roses Reef, in Canadian waters. It appears that the fishermen sighted the cruiser bearing down on them and tried to escape to the shore, but after several shots from a Winchester had been fired they stopped rowing. The cruiser came up to them and the captain searched their boat, but finding that they had no nets and were using only poles and lines, he permitted them to continue their fishing. The men say some of the bullets came dangerously close.

WILL NOT OFFICIATE.

Rev. Father Mahoney Refuses to Attend Foresters' Funerals.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Rev. C. V. Mahoney, rector of St. Mary's Catholic church at Wappinger's Falls, has given notice that he will not hereafter officiate at the funeral of any member of the Ancient Order of Foresters of America. His position is taken on the ground that the canons of the church forbid Catholics joining societies in which they would be thrown in contact with every sect, and infidels as well. Court Wappinger, which has lately been formed, is composed largely of Catholics, and this declaration of Rev. Father Mahoney will probably cause it to dissolve. There are a number of courts in this county and state.

SECRETARY HERBERT'S TRIP.

Will Cruise on the Dolphin and Inspect Navy Yards.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The dispatch boat Dolphin will fly the flag of the secretary of the navy for the next thirty days. She left New London Monday for Washington, where she will be provided with stores for a long cruise, and next Monday or Tuesday will leave for the New England naval stations, having on board Secretary Herbert, accompanied by his son and daughter.

It is the secretary's intention to make a tour of inspection in order to familiarize himself with the condition and needs of the various navy yards.

Slaughtering Whales.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 8.—Report has reached the government that the American fishermen are making wholesale slaughter of whales and furbearing animals in Canadian waters in Behring sea. It is understood the government has despatched an officer to look into the matter. On being interviewed last night regarding the matter, the government officials refused to either confirm or deny the report.

STRIKERS ARE RIOTING

Trouble Feared by the Chicago Authorities.

The Troops Have All Withdrawn From the City—Several Packing House Employes at Omaha Seriously Injured by Strikers—Police Force Inadequate To Suppress Them.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—The last of the military companies were ordered home yesterday, closing the strike service of the Illinois National guard. Three companies of the first regiment of Chicago, who had been left on duty at Pullman and its vicinity, and four companies of the second regiment, also of Chicago, who were on guard at the stock yards, broke camp in the morning. The places of the militiamen were taken by police officers, who patrolled the railroad crossings and stood guard outside the car shops and packing houses.

The withdrawal of the troops was followed by several vicious attacks on workingmen. Assistant Yardmaster Thomas, of the Michigan Central, was brutally beaten by unknown persons at Kensington. He was found unconscious on a street, suffering from scalp wounds.

Two attempts were made last night in the stock yards district to burn Chicago & Erie freight cars. The second time the cars were smeared with cotton waste and oil and were burning fiercely when discovered by a policeman. Arthur Hatton, of 4141 Halsted street, was killed at the stock yards while coupling cars.

Nine hundred men were at work in the repair shops of the Pullman company this morning. The force is composed of new men by a large majority. There was a feeling of unrest among the strikers when the last of the troops had disappeared. The police officers expect the strikers will make some kind of a demonstration at the shops now.

TROUBLE AT OMAHA.

Caused by the Packing Houses Employing New Men.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 8.—Rioting has begun in earnest at South Omaha, as the result of the packing houses putting new men to work. Two of the employees were caught outside the works by a crowd of strikers and seriously injured. The crowd pounced on to the workmen, but a force of stock yards men, who were near, succeeded in driving the strikers off. At this time a crowd of strikers came marching towards the scene, headed by a man who carried a red flag mounted on a long pole. These men were persuaded to halt, however, by cooler heads before they reached the place where the rioting was going on.

During yesterday afternoon several smaller riots occurred, but no one was seriously injured. The strikers are heavily armed with clubs and revolvers, and have said that no man outside the works would be allowed to return to work this morning. The force of police is inadequate to suppress the strikers, and the sheriff has not the forces to quell any of the disturbances. It is stated that the state militia will be brought into service.

While the dummy which carries the Omaha workers from their work was passing B street it was stoned and two men were injured. A few shots were fired during the riots, but no one was hurt.

MINING SITUATION.

Many Miners Threaten To Go on Strike Again.

Philipsburg, Pa., Aug. 8.—The mining situation in this section threatens new complications, notwithstanding the strike was declared at an end last Saturday. This morning it was understood that work would be resumed, but in the Clearfield region, owing to some misunderstanding, out of a score of mines only three were started. At Osceola there was trouble because of the discharge of forty former employees, and in the Beach Creek region local troubles prevented resumption at several of the mines. Many of the miners threaten to go on strike again.

No Conclusion Reached.

New York, Aug. 8.—Another of the series of conferences between the executive committee of the trunk lines and the managers of the lake lines took place yesterday at the offices of the trunk lines at the foot of Liberty street. Commissioner Goddard presided. The discussion was relative to but no conclusion was reached. The east-bound package freight rates meeeting was adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

To Clean Newark' Morals.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 8.—The moral wave has struck this city. The chief of police has issued peremptory orders for the breaking up of all disorderly houses. There are about 200 of them, and detectives were sent around to the different places to order the proprietors to get rid of all the women and retire from business. They have been given five days in which to leave.

Adjt.-Gen. Tarsney Fined.

Denver, Col., Aug 8.—Judge Campbell held Adjt.-Gen. Tarsney in contempt of court at Colorado Springs and fined him $50 for ignoring the summons to appear before the grand jury sitting to inquire into the tar and feather case.

Confessed His Guilt.

London, Aug. 8.—The Central News has received a dispatch from Rome saying that Enrico Lucchesi, the anarchist who was arrested in Corsica three weeks ago charged with having murdered Editor Giuseppe Bandi, in Leghorn, on July 1, has confessed his guilt.

Special Meeting of Football Clubs.

New York, Aug. 8.—Chairman Irwin, of the National League of Football clubs, has issued a call for a special meeting of the association, to be held at the Fifth Avenue hotel, this city, Tuesday, August 14.

Deaths from Cholera.

Amsterdam, Aug. 8.—Two deaths from cholera occured in Amsterdam to-day and one in Dordrecht. No fresh cases had been reported.

BOWLING, FAIR, AND FIELD DAY.

Lots of Enterprises Planned by the Young Men's Lyceum.

The C. Y. M. L. held a regular business meeting last evening with President William O'Connor in the chair. A bowling committee was appointed, to consist of J. Gallagher, J. Hibbitts, and James Wieringa. A bowling tournament will be started the first part of September, in in order to choose the team for playing in the Diocesan Union. Practice will soon begin on the alleys.

Tickets for the field day of the Union, next Saturday, were offered for sale, and entries in the events and the general attendance from Plainfield were taken as subjects for discussion.

It was decided to have a fair in the Lyceum the last week in September, lasting all the week. To arrange it were selected J. Hibbitts, John J. Kenney, Charles Lang, Dennis Galbraith, William O'Connor, John Kennan, Thomas J. Comerford and John J. Lynch. They met as a committee after the regular meeting with J. Hibbitts as chairman, and adjourned until Friday evening, when they will begin the real work of preparing for the fair.

For the purpose of giving receptions and entertainments once a month or once every three weeks during the Winter, a committee was appointed. Those named were J. Hibbitts, J. Moran, M. Higgins, D. J. Shea and Dennis Galbraith

Its Last Annual Cleansing.

Evan Jones last night did thorough work in cleansing the mammoth cesspool under the North Avenue pavement in front of the Jersey Central station. He rigged a derrick and used a horse to hoist the noxious substance by the barrelful from the vault. Seven men and seven horses worked from 8 p. m. to 6 a. m., and carted away 200 loads, leaving the cesspool empty. This cesspool will be abolished when sewers are built.

Lived Happily Ever After.

Next Sunday will take place the sixty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John Berry of Craig place. Mr. Berry's only apparent trouble is his deafness. Boice & Mercier have shut down their brick works on Maple avenue. The fires have been drawn and the last man was paid off yesterday. The pile now consists of 1,500,000 of hard, well-made brick, and further operations have been suspended because of the lack of demand for them.

The Cupola to Disappear.

Charles Hand has put in a claim for $75 to the insurance company for the damage done by lightning to his Crescent Rink cupola. He will spend $150 to tear the cupola to pieces and remove it altogether.

AT REST.

Smith Laing.

Funeral services over the body of Smith W. Laing were held at the residence in Dunellen last evening. Besides the immediate mourners and friends present, there was a large representation of Dunellen Court of the Independent Order of Foresters, of which decedent had been treasurer. They wore citizens clothes and mourning badges.

Scriptures were read and prayer was offered by Rev. W. C. Kinsey, and Rev. A. I. Martine spoke in comfort to the family and in admonition to all.

The Foresters performed the ritual of their order and deposited the insignia of the treasurer's office on his breast.

Rev. Mr. Martine offered a beautiful and comforting prayer, and the brethren and friends silently gazed for the last time on the features calm in death.

In beautiful testimony of esteem were the floral tributes, among them a pillow saying "At Rest", a large bunch of marechal neil and bride roses, and a maltese cross surmounted by "I. O. F." and bearing the words "Our Brother".

Today the body was brought to Plainfield, where services were held in the Friends meeting-house on Peace street. The attendance was very large. Rev. A. I. Martine spoke feelingly. A simple and pretty wreath of roses and ivy rested on the casket.

The pall-bearers were: William H. Carman, Firman Gise, William Brokaw, Pax Van Arsdale, Arthur Gaston, I. C. Davis, all of Dunellen.

The body was deposited in a vault in Hillside Cemetery, where a plot has been purchased, in which the body of both husband and wife will be laid. The wife's body now lies in the Friends burying ground.

HYMENEAL.

Swackhamer—Herr.

Samuel S. Swackhamer, a rising young lawyer of Plainfield, was married this afternoon at 2:30 in White House to Lizzie E. Herr, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Martin Herr. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. William Herr, assisted by Rev. Fletcher Apgar and Rev. Raymond Hayes. Mr. and Mrs. Swackhamer go on their wedding trip to Plymouth, Mass., by way of the Fall River boat Puritan. On their return they will live at 515 Park avenue.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The oat crop on the Crescent field will soon be harvested.

Loehrs of Elizabeth will ride Willis's track wheel in the Crescent Wheelmen's races August 18.

William Thiers, son of Dr. Thiers, has a new Columbia special which is finished in white enamel and weighs 19 pounds.

Pneumatic tires on wheels left in strong sunlight by careless cyclists are now suffering from sunstroke. The puncture is less to be feared.

J. Hibbitts of the C. Y. M. L. Cyclers will ride in the one and the two mile bicycle races in Waverly Park next Saturday, the Diocesan Union field day.

West Front street is not in the best of condition for bicycle riding, a fact which is thought by some cyclists to warrant their riding on the sidewalk between Giraud and Grant avenues.

The unnecessary soaking of the streets with an alleged sprinkling wagon brought Will Watters of Somerset street from his wheel at the corner of Fifth street and Park avenue at noon today. His hand was cut and a pedal crank was bent.

The plan of raking stones and rubbish from the gutter and piling them in the middle of the roadway for the benefit of cyclers is being adhered to by several residents of West Fifth street, as well as by the old offenders on East Front street.

Justice Mosher and David Weaver are considering offers of racing wheels from various firms while they are awaiting the arrival of the load of coke cinders with which the first layer of their North avenue cycle track is to be laid. Surveyor Gibson is away on vacation.

The last afternoon for practise before the matinee races of this afternoon was spent on the track yesterday by a number of the Crescent cyclers. Riding quarters against the tandem was the favorite amusement. The finishing touches had not yet been put on the surface of the track.

A prominent officer of the Crescent Wheelmen gave a demonstration of a practical use of the wheel yesterday afternoon, when he drew a water-barrel cart from the West Fifth street cycle shop to the track behind his bicycle. He went along very easily, there being no hills to climb. The tires on the cart were not exactly pneumatic, and they made a good deal of noise, but the trip was made in good time while everyone on the streets it passed through gazed in astonishment at the outfit. It is possible that the cycler will hereafter take the place of the laborer who waters the track with the cart, saving time and wages for the club.

Under Excellent Leadership.

The Odd Fellows excursion to Asbury Park Labor Day will be managed by the following committees:

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44—Wm. Boe, John Bodine, T. J. Young.

Queen City Lodge, No. 226—W. J. Ford, D. R. Hicks, J. Lance.

Plainfield's Score Surpassed.

George Worth's high score of 240 on the Coleman House alleys, Asbury Park, has been beaten by a visitor there who bowled 259. The high score among the women is 191.

For bilious headache and all other conditions resulting from constipation, go by the book on Beecham's pills. Book free, pills 25c. At drugstores; or write to B F Allen Co, 365 Canal st, New York.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE!

Attempt to Crowd President Reinhart into Doing Impossibilities.

Up to noon today J. W. Reinhart of Netherwood, President of the Atchison Company, had not received a copy of the expert accountant's report to which he is expected to reply, and he very justly pleads that it is a hardship to expect him to answer in a few hours allegations in a report which the expert has had six months to prepare.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

J. Hervey Doane suffered a return of the chills yesterday.

Pliny Fisk returned last evening on a short trip to his home.

Miss Tessie Teely of LaGrande avenue is visiting friends in Long Island.

J. B. Coward has returned from a few-days visit to his family in Belmar.

Miss Maude Agnes Bowers returned yesterday from the White Mountains.

Fred. Martin of Sandford avenue left today for Denver on a business trip.

Miss Catharine Webster of East Second street is home from her California trip.

Miss Phebe Mills of Duer street left today to spend the month in Morristown.

Counsellor Charles A. Reed and family will return tomorrow from Forked River.

Dupee Bros. of Plainfield registered yesterday in the Paris office of The Herald.

Caspar Waglow of Lederer's dry-goods store starts Monday on a two-weeks vacation.

Miss Adele Miln of New York is visiting her cousin Miss Stella Shotwell for a few days.

Miss Dey of Brooklyn is the guest of Mrs Edward Devine of East Fourth street.

Warren Rice, who has returned from a trip to Pennsylvania, will go tomorrow to Asbury Park.

Frank L. C. Martin went last night to Asbury Park, expecting to return to Plainfield this evening.

Sergeant Kiely's vacation will come next week, after the return of Policeman Cooney from Pennsylvania.

Frank Kesselring was made a member of Warren Engine Company at the meeting of the company last evening.

Carrie Pangborn of Linden avenue, daughter of the Chief Marshal, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Baker, in Rahway.

Miss Ferguson, formerly of Plainfield, now a resident of Jersey city, is visiting Mrs. L. M. French of Craig place.

Adam Haw of Linden avenue has given up housekeeping, and today moved his furniture to a storage warehouse.

Miss Carrie Duck of 89 Jackson avenue arrived home Monday night, after spending two weeks in Fallsburg, N. Y.

George McIntyre of the Wheelmen's Headquarters has gone to Asbury Park to remain for the balance of the week.

T. S. Armstrong takes a deserved vacation beginning tomorrow, and will spend the rest of August in the wilds of Quebec

Lambert Heyniger has returned from Corning, where he has been visiting his son, William Heyniger, the past two months.

Mrs. E. T. Dunn, wife of the letter carrier, who has recently been afflicted by the loss of a daughter and a son, is now in Clover Hill, Hunterdon County, where her brother, Garret Schenck, is dangerously ill.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. Charles Scudder will address the Reform Club in Reform Hall tomorrow evening at 8.

A devotional meeting will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Rev. Arthur Crane will probably conduct the prayer-meeting in the First Baptist Church this evening.

Rev. Herbert Randolph will conduct the meeting in the East Third Street Mission tomorrow evening.

Dr. Rodman tells The Press that he has been compelled to abandon all idea of going to Europe before next Summer.

The Sunday-schools in Mt. Pleasant and Marconnier joined in a picnic to Boynton Beach today. It is Grand Army Day at that popular resort.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell of the Emmanuel Baptist Church will preach in the Mt. Zion A. M. E. Camp tonight at 8. The Camp will continue until Monday.

The great excursion of Trinity Reformed Church takes place tomorrow, and the whole town is going along to enjoy the sociability and salt sea waves.

The officers of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church are preparing reports and arranging programmes for the general anniversary of the church and its societies which occupies the week beginning August 15.

After all, Trinity's tomorrow is not to be the last church excursion of the season, for here comes Warren Chapel with the announcement that it and its friends are going to Asbury Park Aug. 23. They always have a glorious time.

A Whole Shirt on Your Back?

Of course not—but a whole one on your body, and a fine one, too—and the cost is only 39 cents. Get it laundered, and it's worth a dollar. This chance comes through Hallock. Go now. The rush is on.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

IMPORTANT TO TRUSTS.

New York State Constitutional Amendments.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The constitutional convention committee on corporations decided by a vote of ten to five to report favorably the following amendments:

"Trusts, or corporations to prevent competition, limit production or regulate the prices of goods, wares, merchandise, or of light, heat, power or transportation, contrary to public policy are void. The legislature shall pass laws for the enforcement of this section by adequate means and penalties, which in case of domestic corporations and associations may include a forfeiture of their charter and of foreign corporations a revocation of their license to transact business within this state."

Conflict of Dates.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The date of the Democratic convention has been agreed upon for Saratoga village hall on September 27. But the Unitarian biennian conference has a previous engagement for the hall for September 26, 27 and 28. There is a conflict of dates, and endeavors are being made by Mayor Gilroy to have the date of the democratic convention postponed.

Broke His Arm While Pitching.

Johnstown, N. Y., Aug. 8.—While pitching in a game of ball here between Johnstown and Amsterdam clerks, N. Glynn, who was in the box for the Johnstown boys, broke his arm in a peculiar manner. He delivered a "strike" and his arm fell to his side, broken between the shoulder and elbow and at the wrist.

Called To Cincinnati.

Winchester, Mass., Aug. 8.—The Rev. C. H. Wheeler, recently pastor of the First Baptist church here, has accepted a call to the Immanuel Baptist church in Cincinnati, and will begin his pastorate there August 26.

Murderer Hunt Dead.

New York, Aug. 8.—Joseph B. Hunt, the painter who killed his wife Barbara at their home, 1490 Second avenue, on Sunday last, and then shot himself in the right ear, died in the Presbyterian hospital, where he was a prisoner. Hunt murdered his wife in a fit of drunken jealousy, drink had effected his brain and arrangements had been made to have him commited for examination as to his sanity.

Lake Couchiching Regatta.

Oriella, Ont., Aug. 8.—The regatta held here over the Lake Couchiching course was very successful. The professional single-scull race was won by Gaudaur by four lengths, Rogers second, with Durnan and Dark twenty lengths behind him. Gaudaur and Rice beat Durnan and Rogers in the double race by a quarter of a length.

—The sewerage system engineers finished moving today from the corner office in the Babcock Building to temporary quarters on the top floor of the Coward Building.

—Miss A. E Lincoln supplied handsome floral offerings for the funeral of Smith Laing.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY, Park and North avenues.

A WOMAN'S BICYCLE TOUR.

She is Riding 75 Miles a Day and Will Circle the World.

Mlle. Londonderry is in New York on her way round the world on a bicycle. She is the Boston woman who has undertaken this trip on a wager. Like Paul Jones, she started without a penny, and plans to complete her trip in 15 months, pay all her expenses and return with $5,000 in her pocket. If she accomplishes this $10,000 will be hers. So far she has been most successful. Already she has made $500, and her expenses have been but $100. Before she had left the State House steps in Boston, Mlle. Londonderry had made $230.01. The president of the W.C.T.U. of Brighton, Mass., paid a penny for pinning the white ribbon on Mlle. Londonderry's coat. She was paid $100 by the "Lend a Hand Magazine" to solicit advertisements and represent it on her trip, and another $100 for advertising a certain lithia water for one day in Boston. She also worked in a photographer's studio for two hours for $30. From New York, she will go to Albany and through New York State, then from Washington to Chicago and San Francisco. She will take the steamer there for the Sandwich Islands, then to China, around the world to Boston. About eight months of this time she plans to give to the United States. Mlle. Londonderry, when not engaged in a trip around the world on a bicycle, is known as Mrs. Annie Kapchowsky, of Boston. She is but 23 years old, and is the mother of three children. In no sense is she a professional bicyclist. She now rides at the rate of 75 miles a day.

ABOUT THE COMPLEXION.

If Your's is Perfect, This May Not Interest You. But it's Good Reading.

A new thought in regard to washing the face is suggested by a young girl whose face is liked the famed Annie Laurie's, "the fairest that e'er the sun shone on."

"I always wash my face in tepid water," she said, "into which I pour two or three drops of ammonia. This removes every particle of oil and dust from the pores, and when I have rinsed my face in cold water afterwards, it feels delightfully cool and clean. Then I take from my toilet table the bay rum bottle, and with my hand rub my face gently with that refreshing liquid. I don't think people begin to appreciate the value of bay rum as a toilet article. I use quantities of it. Just see what a gorgeous golden tint it gives my hair."

"Yes; but the odor. Who wants to go around smelling like a barber shop all the time?"

"Oh! that is all imagination. The odor disappears in five minutes when you get out in the air."

"And you think it doesn't turn the hair gray?"

"Well, I can't answer for anyone's but my own. You see that I am not very gray," said she surveying with satisfaction her beautiful amber locks in the mirror.

"Well, is that all you do for your complexion?"

"Yes, except to wash my nose occasionally with a flannel rag dipped in warm water and rubbed with fine toilet soap, after which I put on a little rice powder with my powder puff. My grandmother told me to do that when I was a little girl, and I have continued to do so ever since. It prevents the nose getting red, and as it keeps the pores open it is a safeguard against blackheads, which, you know are simply disgusting."

MISS GREGG CAN SWIM.

She Saved a Woman From Drowning by Her Skill and Coolness.

Miss Nellie Gregg, of Roxbury, who lately saved a woman from drowning, may fairly be called a sea nymph. She was one of the daughters of Oceanus, who last fall appeared in "Prince Pro Tem" at the Boston Museum, and under the leadership of Miss Olea Bull, engaged in foam like tossings of arms and wrists. Miss Gregg is tall and of athletic tendencies. Early in the summer, in speaking to the door-tender at the museum, she expressed delight at the prospect of going to Green Harbor, and said: "I am going to have such a gay time in the surf, splashing about." Two weeks ago one of the guests at the Winslow House, Duxbury Beach, was bathing in Cut river, a tidal stream, and got into the swift current. She cried for help, and Miss Gregg plunged from a raft and seized her under water. It was a plucky thing for a woman to do. People will be gratified to learn that Miss Gregg is appreciated by her friends, for on the celebration of her twentieth birth day anniversary, a few days ago, a gold watch was presented to her.

What Daudet Owes to His Wife.

Alphonse Daudet says: "I must say that in my literary work I owe nearly all to my wife. She re-reads all my books, and advises me on every point. She is all that is most charming, and has a wonderful mind, entirely opposed to mine, a synthetic spirit. I married at the age of 26, and strangely enough, I had always vowed that I never would marry a woman with literary tastes. The very first time that I met my wife was at a party at Ville d'Avray, where she recited a piece of poetry called 'Le Tremble.' She was dressed in white, and her appearance, as well as the way she declaimed those verses, produced an immense effect upon me. As we were leaving the house, my sister, who was with me, and who knew my aversion for women who dabble in literature, said to me, 'Well, Alphonse, that is not your style, is it?' I confessed, stammeringly, that I had no other hope than that girl should become my wife. I was fortunate enough to win her, and it was the greatest blessing that has been accorded to me in the course of a most happy and successful life. She is very different from me, practical and logical.—McClure's Magazine.

Repartee.

At the late election on the prohibitory amendment a Chelsea man, on going to the polls, was confronted by a lady, who said to him:

"Young man, are you married?"

"Yes, madam."

"Have you a family?"

"Yes madam."

"Then, take this 'Yes' ballot and cast it and you will find it all the better for your family and your home."

"Madam," said the young man, "are you married?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have you a family?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then, give those ballots to some man and go home and attend to your family, and it will be all the better for everybody."—Boston Courier.

FRIENDS OFF FOR CONFERENCE.

They Enjoy the Hospitality of Their Plainfield Brethren.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Adams of Orange street gave a farewell reception and social to their friends from Cold Spring, Canada, last evening. Time passed pleasantly in a social way, playing games, and enjoying other mild pleasures. The guest from Canada were: Mr. and Mrs. Zavitz, Miss Phœbe Zavitz, Mrs. Carrie Cutler, Miss Arlitta Cutler, Miss Anna Cutler. Those present from Plainfield were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vail, Mr. and Mrs. James Harned, Miss Maggie and Carrie Harned, Miss Isabella Vail, Miss Kate Randolph, Adelbert Vail, Harry Vail, Clarence Vail, Randolph Vail. The visitors left Plainfield this afternoon for Chappaqua, where they will attend the Friends Conference, which opens tomorrow in the Friends Mountain Institute, and continues till August 16, when they will return to Cold Spring. Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Powell, Col. and Mrs. Dietrich, Mrs. Henry G. Adams, Mrs. Phœbe Vail, Miss Chellie Vail, Miss Edith Vail, Clarence Vail and Ephraim Vail of this city also will attend the Conference.

SHE WILL SUE.

Miss Singer Engages Ex-Judge Codington to Prosecute.

W. R. Codington of this city has been retained by Miss Annie Singer to sue the railway company for the injuries she suffered by her fall from a Blue Line train. She is still confined to the bed.

Good School in a Good Country.

A child of either sex can be committed to the care of the East Greenwich Academy, East Greenwich, R. I., with the parents feeling that he or she is in the best of hands. The Academy has been advertised repeatedly in the columns of this paper, and the ad is in this issue. The Plainfielder mentioned as a reference assures The Press that the institution is in the management of men most capable and trustworthy, and he is so well satisfied with his experience with the Academy that he feels he is doing a favor to the people of Plainfield and vicinity in bringing to their notice this old established school. Its terms are within the reach of all, and for even those whose means are limited it affords every requisite for thorough education.

Dr. Carman Cures Cramps.

Chief Pangborn found a man on Park place suffering terribly from an attack of cramps yesterday morning at 11. He took him to the borough court-room and made him comfortable. Dr. Carman attended the sufferer three times, and he had entirely recovered this morning.

He said his name was Andrew Burger. He had been working as a hostler at Vincent J. Sisser's Hotel in Scotch Plains, and was on his way to the home of his uncle in Myersville when he was taken ill. This morning he was sent to Myersville in a wagon.

After a Cycle Thief.

The warrant sworn out in Justice Crosley's Court for the arrest of Edward Thomas of Sterling on a charge of stealing a Credenda pneumatic bicycle from N. C. Mague & Co. of Somerset street, was placed in the hands of Constable George Stewart for him to serve in the Morris county village. He went there and told his errand, but was not able to find the young man. His return is awaited by Sterling men who will communicate with Stewart.

Again the Proof.

Newton P. Drake lost a package last week, and gave up hoping to find it. His friends told him 't was no use to advertise, but he put a little "Want and Offer" in The Daily Press, and last night a reader of The Press who had found the package restored to the delighted Newton his property. Advertise in The Press what you want, and you will get it quicker than without such advertising, and the chances are that if you do n't advertise in The Press you won't get it at all.

Saline Aqueousness.

From time immemorial Salt-Water Days at Florida Grove have been a wonderful event in the annals of New Jersey, and the dates are annually awaited with great interest. This year they fall on Saturdays, August 4, 11, 18, and 25. The 18th will be the big day, but they all will be enjoyable. The day for the colored people will be August 30, when a clambake will be feasted on. A picnic will take place in the Grove Labor Day. This old-time resort has lost none of its attractiveness.

In Trinity There Is Joy.

The glorious time that awaits all who go on the Trinity excursion to Asbury Park tomorrow has been repeatedly told of in these columns, and if you miss the train it's your own fault and something you'll ever regret. So go along. Recollect that the train waits at the Park for you till 7 in the evening. The bathing is now superb, and Asbury Park has many new and all its old attractions.

In the Grove.

The attendance at the colored camp meeting in Vail's grove last night was not extraordinary. The "dollar, all but 97 cents", was the subject of much earnest pleading. The young people who attended did not show their disposition to be disorderly during the service as they did Monday night. The meetings continue all this week.

Seasonable Advice.

Sergeant Kiely has done his share towards making the weather more comfortable by posting about the city a number of the notices which call the attention of householders to the provisions and penalties of the ordinance relating to the removal of ice and snow from sidewalks and gutters.

Appreciated Appreciation.

An old and valued subscriber, renewing his Daily Press subscription in advance today, said earnestly "I thank you for the fulness and the excellence of the news you give us, and the early and regular delivery".

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen and New Market.

Frank Covey returned last evening from Boston.

Miss Sally Gray has returned from Glen Gardner.

C. Huff is painting James Craig's house on Church street.

Miss Ernestine Giles is the guest of friends in Stockton.

William Tier of Plainfield called on John Tingley today.

Miss Barbara Kratzel visited relatives in Westfield yesterday.

Mrs. W. H. Cole is visiting relatives in Sidney, Hunterdon County.

John Tingley made his Plainfield friends happy yesterday with a visit.

Miss Celia Staats left town yesterday to enjoy a four weeks vacation.

Miss Mary Stone and Mrs. John Kennedy have returned from Boston.

Alfred J. Norbury of Plainfield was in Dunellen on business yesterday.

Miss Lilia Cockran of Jersey City Heights is visiting Miss Lillian Slape.

Miss Zeigel of Canada is stopping at the home of Emmor Vail in Greenbrook.

Fred Wilcox, Jr., and Abner Corriel, Jr., rode to Westfield yesterday on their wheels.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Apgar of Westfield are visiting Mr. Apgar's mother in the borough.

John Neagle of Plainfield found much business to occupy his time yesterday afternoon.

Miss Anna Mulford who has been seriously ill was able to go out yesterday for a little while.

The condition of F. Lewis remains about the same. It was thought he was a little better yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Newton Spencer of North Plainfield were the guest of Dunellen friends yesterday.

Ernest Peters after a serious illness is very much better and was able to get around the house yesterday.

Samuel Johnson of New York was entertained by Miss Minnie VanName of Elm place yesterday afternoon.

The attention of all interested is renewed to the sale of fancy articles which takes place tomorrow afternoon on Dr. Brakeley's lawn. The proceeds go to the New York World sick baby fund.

Isaac Hillyard, a veteran of the late war, has a pipe which he values very highly. While in camp in Fredericksburg he dug a piece of laurel root from the ground out of which he made and designed this pipe. It has the word Fredericksburg carved on the bowl very handsomely.

H. Wendell, J. Herbert, Peter Scudder, Mrs. J. McFadden, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Keen, Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Parzell, of Dunellen and New Market, were taken before Justice Storms, New Market, Monday, charged by Railroad Officer Corss with dumping a car full of coal on the Central Railroad recently. After the case had been reviewed Justice Storms fined each culprit $4 50. The railroad company is determined to put a stop to this sort of thing if possible.

All the Big Ones, Newly Clad.

The elegant Louis XV reception hall, containing the "Crowned Heads of the World", has been opened at the Eden Musee this week. The rich ornamentation of the most extravagant period of the world's history is shown in this parlor. A mirror, reaching from the floor to the ceiling at the rear end of the hall, shows the double advantage of the elaborate relief work in gold and enamel, while the hangings of the parlor, salmon and seagreen—the colors of the period—are of the daintiest weave and pattern.

The sovereigns, who formerly occupied a royal theatre box in a limited space in the historic hall, will now have a show to expand themselves and display their courtly clothes and manners. Expensive changes have been made in these royal personages. New garments of their different national designs have been procured for all at great expense. Queen Victoria has a new court dress of royal purple velvet, ornamented with silver embroidery and Egyptian lace, a royal mantle of cardinal and ermine hangs from one shoulder. The Sultan of Turkey shows off his morocco-tinted complexion to advantage in green and gold, and Germany's handsome emperor in scarlet and a red covered with insignias, looks like the fair-haired Anglo-Saxons, who were once mistaken for angels. A Chinese frock embroidered with dragons is shown by the attendant sovereigns.

The Pope, robed in the traditional style, has a lofty seat.

President Cleveland, President Perrier of France, the Czar, and other rulers of the world, all have imposing and conspicuous positions.

To Give a Concert.

The business meeting of the Liederkranz held in Caspar's Hotel last evening was the occasion of further consideration of the proposition to give a concert in the Fall. The idea was thought a good one, and it was decided to go ahead with the project, although no date was fixed. The regular practice meeting comes tomorrow night, and the concert plan will be discussed then.

Useless Poles Removed.

The short poles of the old Westinghouse Electric Company of Plainfield are being removed from Somerset street. The poles formerly carried the wires that furnished the arc light, and afterwards were used in supplying a few customers with incandescent lighting. The wires were taken away yesterday. The residents of the street rejoice at the removal of the useless encumbrance.

PLAINFIELD PATRIARCH.

INSPIRED TO POETRY AMONG THE POMPTON PLAINS.

Seeking Fresh Woods and Pastures New, He Acquires Indian Lore 'Mid Revolutionary Relics—Discovers the Trade-Mark of the Local 400.

POMPTON, August 6.

So far as I know the poets have not yet discovered and sung of Pompton. In the matter of discovery, then, I am ahead, but I will have to drone out, in plain prose, the pleasures there are in her pathless woods and her rural streets.

Certainly it was no lack of appreciation of my whilom surroundings which led me to take my walk abroad, as it were, and seek for fresh woods and pastures new; but the demon of unrest will take possession of even the broad bosom of the Patriarch. I took my walk and found what I sought right here in this most delightsome and healthful spot.

Pompton was settled by the Dutch, and so long ago that it has become thoroughly settled by this time. Nothing disturbs the peaceful quiet of this placid place. No clanging trolley decapitates and decimates its infants; and no obstreperous hackman goes about, like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour from among its adults.

Do n't mistake me. There are hackmen (those necessary evils of civilization and magnificent but inconvenient distances), but here, under the shadows of the Preakness hills and the Ramapo range, and in the sleepy silence of these forests primeval, they are not obstreperous.

Their "hev a hack, sir", is as the gentle roaring of any sucking dove or any nightingale. Their "keb or kerriage, sir", is like a dulcet invitation to a feast of nectar and ambrosia. Doubtless this quiescent spirit is the effect of their surroundings.

"The hills, rock-ribbed and ancient as the sun,
The vales, stretching their pensive quietness between," the rippling Ramapo, the purling Pequannock and the winding Wanaque, which "hear no sounds save their own dashings" (and such gentle ones), are all soporific and sedative in their effects.

If even the wild spirit of that wildest of humans, the typical hackman, can be subdued by these surroundings, what must be the result upon the ordinary mortal! Surely he would be enervated beyond resuscitation were it not for the clear air and the glorious life-giving winds which career down these hill-sides and through these valleys.

"I feel", exclaimed an invalid who here sought for health and found it, "I feel, as I inhale this delicious air, as though I were taking a glass of wine." "I would prefer the wine", said his genial and merry hostess, to whom the air, rare as it was, was no rarity.

This same life-giving air renews the permanent dweller, and, balancing the sedative and soporific effects before named, keeps him in happy equilibrium and at peace with the world.

Here, in fact, is a spot where every prospect pleases and not even man is vile. Perhaps it is because there is not enough of him.

If he be not vile, though, he is a curio; at least, some of him. And, if you will follow in my footsteps and hunt for Summer board, you may find a specimen or two. "The Adventures of Coelebs in Search of a Wife", or of "A Gentleman in Search of a Horse", were not more varied and amusing than were mine in search of that oft-delusive phantom of "pleasant Summer board".

Let me give you a sample of an Innocent at Home in the Ramapo hills. At one of the places which were recommended to us we found an ex-soldier in command; that is, if his wife does not command him, which is a question we will leave open. I will not describe his personality more minutely, lest his neighbors should find him out. Looking from the rear of his premises we saw water sparkling through a dark growth within ten feet of his house, giving the impression of a demd, damp, moist unpleasantness.

"Is n't that rather swampy?"—gently queries Mrs. Patriarch of the scarred veteran.

"Oh, no! That is flowing water. We can get in a boat right here at our own door and row out into the lake." But he quickly sought to divert our minds into another channel, and began to dilate on the floral attractions, tame, wild and unclassified, of his place, naming "the purple violet, the sweet heliotrope, and the fragrant sozodont!

I looked to see if he were not quizzing the stranger within his gates; but no, he stood there with a righteous eye and with the mein of a man who was sure that he had said the right thing in the right place, and with the air of one who did not think it could be expressed better if said differently.

I expect he still wonders why, unlike the feline in the song, we never came back. We feared he might use the "fragrant sozodont" to give life to his consomme.

The seeker for pre-revolutionary legends, relics and houses, will find them here in abundance. The Indian name, Ramapo, signifies Big Rock, and the big rock, standing in the centre of the river, has been utilized by the pale-face as the keystone of the arch which forms the present dam and creates the lake, which will be described later. In the big rock may be seen what are seemingly "water holes", worn by the action of small stones whirled by the eddying current, but they are, in fact, mortar holes where the squaws used to grind the maize.

The euphonious pronunciation of another of these Indian names should not be lost. It is Wanaque; pronounced, Wau-nock-ee, with the accent on the second syllable.

We are ensconced in one of the pre-revolutionary houses alluded to. Many generations have issued herefrom, and the solid stone walls and the generous beams, eight by ten, will doubtless shelter many more ere they are consumed by "old Chrono's iron tooth".

In this house, as the family legend has it, the father of his country once dined. If he got such a dinner as is served up by the genial and merry hostess aforesaid, and who is a lineal descendant of the revolutionary dame who boiled the "pusseley" for George, it is passing strange that he did not dine here more than once.

But George the great was kept revolving in those days, and he may have had no time to linger over the flesh-pots of Pompton and the winecups of great-grand'ther Colfax.

As Philadelphia has her social dividing line, Arch street, which separates her old-time aristocratic sheep on the south from her latterday parvenu goats on the north, so Pompton has her society demarkation between the old and the new.

And by this sign shall ye know them; it is the old-fashioned buhr mill-stone laid in front of the doorsteps of the F. F. P's. This is a saving mark, like that on the lintels and the doorposts of the Israelites. If you have it not you are doomed to social slaughter. Without this ponderous evidence of the antiquity of your family you cannot enter the sacred purlieus of Pompton's ancient and honorable 400.

You may have money, but you will not be of the elect. You may be virtuous, but it avails you not. You may be brainy, but you will be turned down. You may be, in the words of the old song, "mighty good-lookin', but you can't come in!"

Nor riches, nor virtue, nor beauty, nor brains, will avail. "The crystal bar" of this social Eden

"——moves not. Holier far
Than e'en these boons the gift must be,
Which opes the gates of heaven to thee."

You won't have such a hard task as the poor Peri, though. All you need do is to buy an ancestral mill-stone and be happy.

Pompton has its several hotels, but its real old-time, way-side inn and comfortable hostelry, with its old-time cleanliness and new-time cuisine, is the Norton House. Mine host George is a typical Boniface, ever smiling, ever smoking; ever ready to do a generous deed, ever ready to hear a good story and to tell a better one; ever ready, as Eugene Field has sung, to serve "a large, cold bottle with a small, hot bird;" or, if you prefer, a dozen nightingales' tongues, a score of humming-birds hearts, or a brace of Heliogabulus sparrow-kites. Nothing ruffles him. Not even the arrival, as recently happened, of seventy-five hungry cyclers when only fifteen were expected. The larder holds out mysteriously and all are happy.

Of course, there is a newer and up-to-date Pompton; a Pompton on which the modern architect has set his seal; a Pompton of handsome houses, of substantial buildings and of the class of cottages which some one has wittily defined as being Queen Anne in front and Mary Ann in the rear. But all suburban towns within fifty miles of New York have an embarrassment of such riches, and they do not need description.

There are two churches, the Dutch Reformed and the Episcopal; the former is the older with the larger congregation; but the latter is growing and has an amateur choir which it is worth your while to come miles to hear.

All the attractions of Pompton, including the DeMille school, (her greatest crown of glory), cannot be covered in a single letter. Those which I have left untouched I will include in later communications.

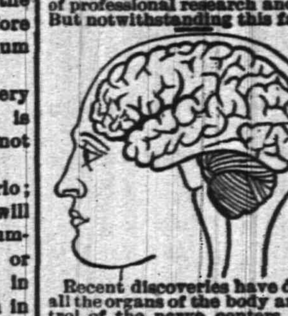
PATRIARCH.

P. S. The above reference to the amateur choir was rendered by the female type-writer, in her first copy, as "amatory choir". Score one for the innocent t-w.!

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.



Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

GAVETT'S

IN SENATE AND HOUSE

Mr. Chandler Hopes for a Speedy Adjournment.

Several Bills Passed by Both Houses—Senate Amendments Agreed To—The Bill for the Relief of Capt. Wells Vetoed by the President—He Was Put on the Retired List.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The senate was in session yesterday for only two hours and did not take up any question of general interest or importance. There were, however, some half dozen bills passed, of which one was to facilitate the collection of state, county and municipal taxes from corporations in the hands of receivers under orders of a United States court. The house bankruptcy bill was reported back from the judiciary committee with amendments; additional amendments were offered on behalf of the minority of the committee, and the bill was placed on the calendar.

A resolution which had been offered some weeks ago by Senator Call (dem., Fla.) and referred to the committee on foreign relations, was reported back and was, with some modifications, agreed to. It requests the president to take measures to secure the release of American citizens held as prisoners in Cuba on the charge of complicity with or aid to rebellion in that island, where such persons are held, without trial, on suspicion merely, or to procure for them a speedy trial where there is evidence against them. In connection with a motion to dispense with the reading of the journal at the opening of yesterday's session, Mr. Chandler (rep., N. H.) said: "It is a year ago to-day since we assembled in this chamber to do the business of the country, and I hope that we may be able to depart within a very few days."

The senate adjourned at 2 p. m.

House of Representatives.

The house completed its consideration of the Indian appropriation today by voting—133 to 103—to recede from its disagreement to the senate amendment to the bill relating to the ratification of the treaties with the Siletz, Yankton Sioux and Nez Perces Indians for the purchase of their respective reservations.

Senate amendments to the following bills were agreed to:

To subject national bank notes and greenbacks to state taxation; to amend sections 2401 and 2403, Revised Statutes, relating to the survey of public lands; to require contractors on public buildings to give bond for the payment of labor and materials furnished for the buildings.

Senate bill was agreed to relieving excursion boats plying between United States and Canadian ports from the operations of the law of February, 1893, granting additional quarantine powers to the marine hospital service.

A senate concurrent resolution was adopted directing the secretary of the interior to suspend opening to settlement the Amadonia Indian reservation in Florida until congress shall take some action in regard thereto.

President Cleveland sent a message to the house vetoing the bill for the relief of Eugene Wells, late captain in the Twelfth infantry, by appointing him second lieutenant on the retired list.

The following bills were passed:

Directing the attorney-general to bring suit to determine the rights of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians to certain lands in Oklahoma, which the Wichita and allied tribes have agreed to sell to the United States.

Authorizing the payment of $12,000 to the owner of the schooner Henry H. Tilton, which was sunk about two years ago, a shot deflected from the Sandy Hook proving-grounds having gone clear through her, at a distance of more than five miles from the hook.

Authorizing the secretary of the interior to grant rights of way over the public land for tram roads, canal and reservoir purposes.

CLEANED OUT THE TRAY.

For Doing It George Clark, of New Jersey, Is in Jail.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 8.—George Clark, the New Jersey young man who came here not long ago and was employed in a meat house on Canal street, was in court yesterday charged with the theft of eighteen watches.

Clark claimed that he bought the whole outfit for $5 from a stranger who met him on the street.

He is accused, however, of getting into the rear window of the shop of one Cohen, on North Main street, and of cleaning out a whole tray of watches in broad daylight. He also made away with Mrs. Cohen's diamonds and a gold necklace.

Phillies' New Ball Grounds.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—The management of the Philadelphia Ball club have secured the University of Pennsylvania grounds for two games here on Saturday with the Washington club. The work of rebuilding the stands at the Philadelphia ball park to replace those destroyed by fire will probably begin this week. It is not yet decided where the home games of the local club for the balance of the season will be played.

Boston Police Sergeant Acquitted.

Boston, Aug. 8.—The police commissioners last evening rendered their decision in the case of Sergeant W. J. Sheehan of the fourth division charged with accepting "protection" money from the keepers of a house of questionable character. The commissioners find that Sergt. Sheehan is not guilty and the complaint against him is dismissed.

Rewarded for Gallantry.

Washington, Aug. 8.—A medal of honor has been granted by the war department to Howell B. Treat, sergeant of company I, 52nd Ohio infantry, for distinguishing gallantry in risking his life to save a wounded comrade at Buzzard's Roost, Ga., May 11, 1864.

Killed By a Fall of Coal.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 8.—John Busco, a miner in the Luzerne region, was killed yesterday in the Raub mine by a fall of coal. A block weighing two tons fell upon him.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A FEEBLE WOMAN

—suffering from nervous prostration, excitability, or dizziness, the result of weakness, derangement, or displacement of the special organs — will find health regained after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In every case of "female complaint"

PIERCE Guarantees a CURE OR MONEY RETURNED.

About two years ago I was so sick with womb trouble that I could not cross the room without fainting away. The doctors could do me no good and told me I must die, but my mother got me "Favorite Prescription," and in one week I began to feel stronger. After taking a dozen bottles I am as well as I ever was; free from all pains and aches and all due to Dr. Pierce's Prescription.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT, 304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

No. 144 Crescent Avenue.

Deafness, Catarrh and Diseases of the Head, Throat and Lungs successfully treated.

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

Mental and Nervous Derangements Epilepsy, Diseases of the Skin and Blood, Rheumatic, Neuralgic and Scrofulous Affections.

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

END OF THE LONG FIGHT

Indication of Agreement on the Tariff To-Day.

Basis of the Sugar Settlement—Proposition To Put Iron Ore on the Free List and Reduce Coal Five Cents Per Annum Until It Gradually Reaches the Free List.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The "to-morrow" upon which the tariff conferrees have been for weeks promising an agreement at last gives promise of fulfillment. When the tariff conferrees adjourned at a few minutes before 6 last night it was with the understanding at the session to-day details should be arranged, and the republicans could meet later in the day and be informed of what their democratic colleagues had done. On the other hand most prominent managers on the part of the senate made the emphatic statement that to-day would see the end of the conference, and to-night there would be either an agreement or general break-up of the conference. But one thing, he said, would postpone the results any longer. Should the house conferrees agree to an agreement and the arrangement of the details consume such time as to run the work over into the next day, that would be permitted, but otherwise the close of to-day would witness the end of the labors of the conferrees on the tariff bill. So little is yet to be accomplished, however, that there is every likelihood that the republicans can be called in at an early hour, and there would be no surprise if the senate should have the report of the conferrees at a late hour this afternoon.

The hitch that still remains for settlement is iron ore and coal. So far as the principle is concerned these items seem to be disposed of finally; one of them is to be free and the other made dutiable. These matters were the subject of three distinct changes. First it was decided that iron ore should be made free absolutely, and that coal should retain the rate of 40 cents a ton fixed by the senate for a period of five years, at the end of which time it was to be free. Subsequently a proposition was made to fix a sliding scale that should reduce the duty a specific percentage each year. This was antagonized, but the house men, anxious to gain as much in the way of concessions as possible, persisted and the result was that this matter should be left for action later.

At the conclusion of the conference last night all the members of both sides of the capitol appeared to be in a very happy frame of mind, and there appeared to be very good reason for their statements that an agreement would soon be made.

One of the managers on the part of the senate said that if there was an agreement the sugar schedule would remain as it was published last week, to-wit: 40 per cent. on raw sugar, 40 per cent. on the raw sugar in the refined, and 1-5 of a cent differential on refined sugar. This senator also said that he had never heard of a proposition that gained some credence two or three days ago to the effect that the basis of the collection of duty on refined sugar was to be the duty collected on 105 pounds of raw sugar for every 100 pounds of refined sugar. As far, then, as sugar is concerned, it has cut no figure in the conference, and is looked upon by the conferrees as settled.

Lead ore, about which there has been a great deal of quiet talk, is said to be in the same way.

There are indications that the reason the conferrees did not finally settle coal and iron last night was that the senate members might have an opportunity of consulting with their colleagues to see how the proposition submitted in conference was received.

The latest proposition is to put iron ore on the free list and reduce the duty on coal five cents per annum until it gradually reaches the free list—a proposition that will not be nearly so acceptable as the other, which leaves it untouched for five years. A careful canvass of the senate showed the conferrees that they could not touch coal without imperilling the whole bill, while iron might be tampered without having that disastrous effect.

A prominent member of the conservatives was called upon by one of the conferrees this morning for advice as to how he and his colleagues should act in this matter, and was told that the day for giving advice had passed. The conferrees might now, this senator said, bring in any kind of a report they pleased and the senate would vote upon it. To-day will probably see this report, and it does not necessarily follow that the senate will accept it.

It may be, however, that the senate conferrees may have more trouble than they anticipate in removing the objections of their house colleagues to certain things that transpired in the committee room yesterday. There was ample ground for the many conflicting rumors that were flying about concerning coal and iron. At one stage of the proceedings the senate conferrees takes the bull by the horns and told the house conferrees they could have either coal or iron free and the house promptly accepted coal. Then began the canvass of the conservatives to see what would be the result of this compromise. It was seen at once that such a scheme doomed the bill to failure and made such men as Faulkner, Pugh, Camden and Gorman indignant. The senate conferrees went back and told their associates that they could not grant the concession, and despair once more reigned in the committee room. The house men finally accepted free iron ore as a solace for their injuries, but subsequently insisted that they should have that which was originally given them. This was the condition of affairs when the conferrees adjourned for the night.

That a report of some kind will be forthcoming to-day is almost a certainty. What its fate will be the next few hours will tell. What the policy of the republicans will be cannot now be foretold. This element of the senate, active and alert to embrace every opportunity to defeat the bill, has not been idle.

FIVE HUNDRED KILLED

Chinese Again Beaten by the Japanese.

Important Positions Above Yashan Now Held by the Japs—Black Flags Engaged by the Viceroy of China—The War Feeling in Tokio Is Now at Fever Heat.

London, Aug. 9.—A dispatch dated at Yokohama on August 6 says:

"The Japanese, after suffering a trifling loss, have routed the Chinese and taken Seikwan. The Chinese fled to Koshin. Their loss was 500 killed.

"The Japanese are now holding an important position above Yashan and have established complete connection with their troops there.

"The warlike feeling in Tokio is intense. It is rumored that the Japanese fleet has suffered a reverse, but no time or place is mentioned."

"The Times says that the viceroy of Kwang Tung has engaged 5,000 Black Flags to strengthen the fortifications and river defenses in the neighborhood of Canton. He has placed four gunboats at Tiger island, in the Canton river, to co-operate with the battery stationed there. Submarine mines have been laid at Foo-Chow and at Tamsui, on the northwest coast of Formosa. The lighthouses on the south Chinese coast have been ordered to quench their lights.

A dispatch from Shanghai to Lloyd's says that the lights at Amping and Takao have been extinguished.

It is said that the Anglo-Russian efforts to bring about peace between China and Japan have failed. China insists upon retaining her suzerain rights over Korea.

China is willing to negotiate with reference to the proposed reforms, but became incensed on hearing of the sinking of the Kow Shing, and a settlement is now considered improbable.

The officials of the Japanese legation in London think that yesterday's dispatch from Yokohama reporting the capture of Seikwan refers to the battle of July 29.

Washington, Aug. 9.—At the state and navy departments and the legations of China and Japan, the same dearth of news from the warring Oriental countries prevails, and from what is said at the Japanese legation it appears likely that naval warfare, at least, will not be resumed for some time. This is the season of monsoons and typhoons, gales and hurricanes.

Japanese and Chinese seamen know the danger of the Japan sea and the Chinese sea during the monsoon season, for while this character of storm is not in itself a great menace to vessels, it operates with the naturally choppy waters of those two seas to make navigation exceedingly risky. And then, of course, there is always the prospect of the swirling, death-dealing typhoon, which claims so many victims every year and is respected accordingly by those who know its possibilities.

The naval operations, judging from precedents, will extend merely to short runs, but in the hope of meeting a ship of the enemy. The Japanese, at least, will pursue this policy, which is as aggressive as circumstances will permit.

CALL FOR JAPANESE RESERVES.

The Mikado's Subjects on the Pacific Coast Requested To Return.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 9.—The following circular has been issued by the Japanese consul and addressed to the mikado's subjects on the Pacific coast:

"According to latest official intelligence the Chinese minister and consul have been withdrawn from Japan and the Japanese minister and consul have left China. War has been declared and now exists between the two countries. Therefore, you (Japanese) residing in this country, are requested to conduct yourselves in a way befitting the dignity of the subjects of Japan living in a neutral country. Those of you who belong to reserves and have been notified should at once return to Japan and report for duty. You are forbidden to organize military companies, purchase ammunition or act in any way contrary to the laws which are binding on neutral countries. You are requested to be very careful and upright in your daily intercourse with the Chinese residents of this country—thus upholding the laws of public peace and good order."

Died Under an Operation

Troy, N. Y., Aug. 9.—James McLoughlin, of Hoosick Falls, aged 28 years, died at the Troy hospital yesterday while undergoing an operation for the removal of his right thumb. He was placed under the influence of chloroform and quickly collapsed. He had been bitten on the thumb while engaged in a quarrel with another man, and blood poisoning set in.

Algeldt's Action Endorsed.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 9.—The International Stone Cutters' union passed resolutions indorsing the action of Governor Altgeld, of Illinois, in requesting the withdrawal of the federal troops from Chicago during the strike and discountenancing the effort to use the powers of the government in the interest of employers to the detriment of the masses.

Flour for Hong Kong.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 9.—A cablegram was received yesterday by Chin Quong Quie, a prominent flour contractor, odering the immediate shipment of 1,700 tons of flour to Hong Kong. Several other Chinese merchants have received orders for provisions and flour to be delivered immediately.

Appeal for "Bat" Shea.

Troy, N. Y., Aug. 9.—John T. Norton, counsel for "Bat" Shea, the condemned murderer of Robert Ross, has served notice of appeal to the court of appeals upon the district attorney, county clerk and Warden Thayer, of Clinton prison. The appeal will act as a stay of execution.

Died in Her 99th Year.

DOINGS IN THE HOUSE.

The Chicago Postoffice Bill Starts a Season of Filibustering.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The house has several matters of importance under consideration, one the appropriation of $4,000,000 for a new public building at Chicago, has developed a season of filibustering which may prevent any other work to-day. Favorable action was taken upon several bills authorizing the erection of public buildings, but they got no further in the progress than to passage. They provided for buildings at the following places, to cost not exceeding the sums named: Newport, Ky., $75,000; Brockton, Mass., $75,000; Paterson, N. J., $200,000; South Omaha, Neb., $200,000; Pottsville, Pa., $60,000; Cumberland, Md., $75,000.

In the morning hour the resolutions agreed upon by the committee on the judiciary, providing for an investigation of the charges made against Judge Ricks, of the United States court for the northern district of Ohio, by the Central Labor union of Cleveland, of the sequestration of fees as clerk of the court, were reported by Mr. Bailey (dem., Tex.), and after some criticism by Mr. Grosvenor (rep., O.), who said the committee had acted in a hasty, ex parte manner, they were agreed to.

The house voted to non-concur in the action of the senate, which substituted Mr. Hill's anti-anarchist immigration bill for Mr. Stone's bill providing for consular inspection of immigrants, and the matter was sent to conference.

Mr. McGann's joint resolution was passed directing the commissioner of labor to investigate into the effect of machinery upon labor and appropriating $10,000 therefor. Also a resolution authorizing the citizen's committee in connection with the Knights of Pythias conclave to illuminate the dome of the capitol at night during its continuance.

DIRTY BALL PLAYING.

Teabeau, of the Cleveland's Nearly Mobbed at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Aug. 9.—"Pat" Tebeau came near being mobbed after yesterday's ball game. He had to wait under the grand stand until the crowd left the park. In the ninth inning, with two men out, Tebeau commenced to abuse Hoagland for certain decisions and threatened to put on the gloves with the umpire and settle it according to prize ring rules. Hoagland was willing to accompany Tebeau to the club house and have it out, but the crowd was so mad at Tebeau that he had to be hustled out of their reach. O'Connor also had to exhibit his tough qualities by grabbing the ball out of Hartman's hand and throw it out of the grounds. Beckley was also guilty of dirty ball-playing. He interfered with Fatty Childs running to first, and as a result Childs turned two or three somersaults, fracturing his collar-bone. It may have been accidental, but surely it could have been avoided.

Tebeau was hit in the face by a boy on his way from the grounds to the hotel in the bus.

American Protection Association.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 9.—The Right Worthy Grand Lodge of the American Protestant association is in session here in Odd Fellows' hall. It is largely attended and is composed only of members who are American citizens, native and adopted. Among the past worthy grand masters who are in attendance are: John Gilkiln, Philadelphia; A. C. Smith, Boston; Jacob P. Diehl, Pittsburg; John Connell, William S. Stewart and James Cearns, Philadelphia. Over one hundred are present from Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

National Banks in New York State.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The returns of the condition of the 274 national banks in New York state, exclusive of the cities of Albany, Brooklyn and New York, show that they had on July 18 last $95,869,000 in loans and discounts, $12,257,000 in stocks and securities, $9,140,000 in legal reserve, of which $4,989,000 is in gold, $7,429,000 in undivided profits, $91,976,000 in individual deposits and $302,891 in bills payable. The average reserve is 29.4.

Women Naturalized Years Ago.

Pittsburg, Aug. 9.—In regard to a Cleveland telegram that a Swiss woman admitted to citizenship in that city was probably the first woman to be naturalized in this country, H. D. Gamble, clerk of the United States court here, says women were naturalized in this city twenty-five years ago and that there have been a number since then.

MRS. RICE ASSAULTED.

The Wife of the Cowboy Evangelist Seriously Injured.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 9.—Mrs. J. B. Rice, wife of the cowboy evangelist, was the central figure in another sensational affair last evening, and now lies in a precarious condition from the effects of an alleged brutal assault made upon her. Since their trouble with the authorities Rice and his wife have been living quietly at the castle on New York avenue. They got behind in their board, and on Monday they were notified to leave. They agreed to quit the hotel at the end of the week, and apparently this was satisfactory to the management. When Mrs. Rice came in yesterday evening she went to her room. To her surprise she found her possessions scattered about the hall and a big padlock on the door of the room. Mrs. Rice went to the office and demanded an explanation from Manager A. B. House. One word led to another, and, finally, it is said, House called Mrs. Rice a vile name. She had her prayer book in her hand, and when the epithet was applied to her she hurled it at House. This act enraged the man still more and, coming from behind the office, he is alleged to have knocked her down. Then while she lay on the floor he is charged with brutally kicking her in the stomach, and only desisting when pulled away by a male guest.

As the result of the alleged assault upon her Mrs. Rice was thrown into a high fever and her injuries may prove fatal.

ON AN ISLAND FOR SIX YEARS.

Sailor Brown Experiences a Rough Time in the South Seas.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 9.—James C. Brown, a Lynn man, shipped from Boston in 1887 on a bark for the South Sea Islands. Until yesterday no word was heard of him, but his brother, a local music dealer, has received a letter from Melbourne, Australia, from the missing man, setting forth a tale of hardship and privation.

His craft was wrecked in the South Seas and he made his way to Australia, and there shipped for England in the brig Elexa, but she was lost, and for nearly six years he existed on one of the Solomon islands until taken off by a whaler and conveyed to Australia, where he now is. The inhabitants of the Solomon islands are half cannibals, and his life there was continually in danger.

He has a wife and a fourteen-year-old son living in Lynn. The letter gives but the barest of details.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Baggageman Shoots Three Women and Kills Himself.

Des Moines, Aug. 9.—The little village of Chariton, near here, was the scene of a horrible tragedy yesterday. W. D. Jenkins, night baggageman of the Burlington road at that place, entered the home of his betrothed, Miss Julia Murphy, and, after a bitter quarrel, drew a revolver and shot her. He then turned on her sister, Mrs. Josie Towns, and fired a bullet into her, killing her almost immediately. Mrs. Murphy, mother of the girls, rushed into the room only to meet with a bullet from the revolver held by the apparently insane man. She will die. Jenkins then turned the weapon upon himself and fired a bullet into his brain. He died an hour later. This tragedy was the outcome of a quarrel between Jenkins and Miss Murphy over his intoxicated condition.

HAWAII RECOGNIZED.

Official Announcement of the Fact May Be Made This Afternoon.

Washington, Aug. 9.—While Representative McCreary, of Kentucky, was presiding over the committee of the whole in the house yesterday afternoon he was notified that Secretary Gresham desired to see him in the speaker's room. When Mr. McCreary returned to the chair after his interview with the secretary he declined to say what had occurred, but it has since been learned that the secretary had notified him that the republic of Hawaii had been officially recognized by this government.

The official announcement of the recognition will probably be made this afternoon.

OATES' MAJORITY ABOUT 26,000

Kolb, However, Carried a Majority of the Counties of the State.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 9.—Election returns are in from all counties except Baldwin and Covington and the unofficial count gives Oates in round numbers a majority of 26,000. Kolb has carried a majority of the sixty-six counties in the state, but the counties carried by Oates, being the larger, have a majority of the members of the legislature.

The democrats have the legislature by at least ten majority in the house and by probably an equal number in the senate.

REFUSED TO RETIRE.

So Secretary Carlisle Took Summary Means and Removed Dryden.

Baltimore, Aug. 9.—Secretary of the Treasury has just taken decisive action in a Baltimore case which has attracted considerable attention and has come to be regarded as rather a test of the secretary's authority over the shipping commissioners.

By his decision Albert C. Kerwin becomes shipping commissioner at the port of Baltimore, vice Littleton P. Dryden, removed.

Dryden's resignation was called for more than a year ago, but he refused to resign, taking the position that under the act creating the office of shipping commissioner the secretary has no power to remove him without specific cause, which, so far as known, was not alleged in this case. Yesterday he was removed.

DESTITUTION IN KOREA

Efforts Being Made To Relieve the Starving.

The Appeal of the Korean Minister Evokes Widespread Sympathy—Christian Herald Will Donate 1,000 Barrels of Flour Provided Transportation Is Secured.

New York, Aug. 9.—The movement to send relief to the famine-stricken Koreans has already taken shape, and is being vigorously pushed. In response to the effort of the Christian Herald, of New York, to contribute 1,000 barrels of flour to any cargo that may be sent to that country, the Korean minister, Ye Sung Soo, yesterday telegraphed the following from Washington:

"Your noble and generous contribution of one thousand barrels of flour substantially starts the movement to relieve my starving countrymen. My heart is full of gratitude for your prompt assistance, and I will notify my government of the relief that may be expected from this country. It fills my heart with pain and regret that my starving countrymen and prostrate government cannot find means to transport the contribution you have so generously started. In a day or two I hope I shall be able to advise you whether the shipping point shall be New York or San Francisco. The latter port would be better.

"I remain, with great respect,

"YE SUNG SOO,

"Minister of Korea.

Dr. Louis Klopsch has forwarded the following dispatch to Secretary of State Gresham, inviting the assistance of the government in forwarding the proposed cargo:

"The pathetic appeal made by the Korean minister in behalf of his starving people evokes widespread sympathy. If means of transportation can be secured, a large cargo of grain for the relief of these starving multitudes can be quickly provided. Will the United States government undertake the transportation from either New York or San Francisco?"

It is further proposed to secure the cooperation of the various boards of trade and exchanges throughout the country, and especially at San Francisco and Chicago. The cargo, when completed, will probably clear from the former port, and it is believed that a guarantee of immunity of seizure either from China or Japan will be granted.

DEMOCRATS AT SARATOGA.

The Meeting of the State Committee Draws Many Politicians Together.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 9.—The democratic politicians are numerous on the hotel piazzas to-day. Governor Flower, Mayor Gilroy and others of the advance guard were kept busy shaking hands with newly arrived members of the state committee and their friends, who are attracted here by the meeting of the committee this evening. The key-note of the talk among the big and little democrats here is harmony. If that can be secured, they assert, democratic victory is assured. Without it grave doubts are expressed. No definite plan by which harmony is to be obtained has yet been made public, though the democratic wiseacres have talked columns about the desirability of harmony. The state committee is expected to make some recommendation on this subject to-night. The state committeemen will also settle the question of the date for the state convention. Owing to the action of the town council in deciding to allow the Unitarians to use Convention hall September 26, 27 and 28 the democratic convention will probably be set for a week later.

MILLS WORKING DOUBLE TIME.

Encouraging Business Outlook Reported from Lebanon, Pa.

Lebanon, Pa., Aug. 9.—The West End rolling mill and chain works have commenced working extra time, owing to the increased number of orders on hand.

The 16-inch mill of the Pennsylvania bolt and nut works, which had been idle since last fall, is now running on double turn. The outlook for future business is encouraging.

Will Be Given Protection.

Quebec, Aug. 9.—The Baptist ministers who were so roughly handled by the populace of St. Roch on Monday night, have arranged to reopen their evangelistic meetings again shortly. The mayor has promised them full protection. All local newspapers, both English and French, condemn the outrage most severely, and the rioters' action will be denounced from the pulpits of the Catholic churches here on Sunday.

Pilgrims at Trenton.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 9.—The Pilgrims of the American Society for the extension of university Teaching, who have been making a tour of the revolutionary battle-fields, reached Trenton yesterday afternoon. At the state house Adjutant-General William Stryker read his own history of the battle of Trenton, which the pilgrims listened to with rapt attention. The pilgrims left for Philadelphia, their dispersing point, late in the evening.

Globe Trotter Jones Turns Up.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 9.—The Boston globe trotter, with the pseudonym of Paul Jones, who started last February without money or clothing to go around the world in a year for a wager of $5,000, has arrived here. He will remain in this city a few days and then go to Chicago. From Chicago he will return to New York and thence to England.

Murdered To Secure a Wife.

St. Louis, Aug. 9.—The dead body of Frederick Kahn, a comparatively well-to-do farmer at East Carondelet, Ill., opposite this city, was found yesterday. He was murdered by George Centre, who admits the deed. He says he killed Kahn in order that he might marry his widow.

Seven Persons Killed by a Bomb.

Athens, Aug. 9.—A bomb was exploded in the Jewish quarter of Corfu city yesterday, killing seven persons.

WOMEN IN HOT WEATHER.

HOW THEY CAN KEEP COOL, COMFORTABLE AND HAPPY.

"THE NICETIES OF LIFE."

A Prominent Lady Talks Upon the Subject and Gives Some Very Valuable Advice.

"Talk about suffering from the heat! Why, even children do not suffer so much in hot weather as children do."

She was a prominent member of the Executive Committee of a Woman's Association that meets annually in New York, and she spoke very earnestly.

"No one but a woman can understand this; but all women know it. Every atom of a woman's body is governed by a law of its own and hot weather seems to fight every one of these laws. A woman's sensitive nerves are outraged by the heat. Her blood gets warmed up when she wants to be cool. The hundreds of nice things which are necessary to her happiness get soiled, rumpled or unattractive in some way. All this frets, annoys and causes her unhappiness.

"I am willing to admit what you have said, but can you offer any suggestions?" asked one of the lady's companions.

"Yes, I can. I would have women avoid fretting and worrying; keep as cool as possible, and above all things be careful of what they eat and drink. The best food for any woman or man either for that matter during hot weather, is something that nourishes and strengthens, with little or no effort on the part of the stomach. The only thing that will do this in every case is an artificially digested food, one that is digested before being taken into the mouth; and I know of but one pre-digested food, and that is Paskola. I have used it carefully and find it all that is claimed for it. It is as palatable as lemonade; it refreshes instantly; it nourishes in every case, and being already digested requires no effort on the stomach in order to insure its assimilation. I know a great many ladies in the highest walks of life and who move in the best society who are using it every day and who never felt so well, looked so well, or were so well in their lives as they are now. I do not know anything about how it is artificially digested, although I understand it is because its nourishing starchy elements are mixed with vegetable digestive principles, but I do know that, judging by its effects, it does more for women, and especially in hot weather, than anything that was ever before known."

The above conversation is just as it occurred in the rooms of the Committee, and if it offers any suggestions to other ladies we shall be glad.

Any up-to-date druggist will furnish Paskola. If you want to know how it works, send for free pamphlet to the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade st., New York.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. John Thomas, nee Needham.

Word was received at an early hour this morning by Borough Mayor H. E. Needham of the death of his daughter, Mrs. John Thomas, nee Miss Edith Needham, which occurred at her home in New York City.

She was sick only 14 hours. Mayor Needham left at once for the home of bereavement.

Mrs. Thomas was well known in Plainfield and North Plainfield, and the news of her sudden death is a sad blow to her many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were married Tuesday evening, October 24, 1893, at the home of the bride, 24 Jackson avenue, North Plainfield.

The funeral services will be held at her late residence, 115 Washington place, New York City, Friday evening at 8.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Two Plainfield clerks may make their entrance into the cycle racing in the Association's 25-mile road race Arbor Day.

A cycler spilled a pail of milk at the corner of Front street and Park avenue at 12:30 today when he fell after colliding with a wagon.

Justice Mosher conducted business with his accustomed satisfaction to the public at his branch stand by the Crescent track yesterday afternoon.

I. N. Townley punctured his tire with a horseshoe nail on his way from Westfield yesterday, and was compelled to ride a strange wheel in the races.

The Crescent Board of Governors met last evening and decided that the success of yesterday warranted the holding of a matinee meet next Wednesday.

Lewis Peterson has retired from training racing cyclers, and has become the gate-keeper on the Crescent track. His first turn on duty was at the matinee races of yesterday.

C. S. Gotthell and Road Racer Trusx of the Spalding team rode this morning to Asbury Park on the wheels they will use in their trip to Chicago the last of the month. The two Hy-Lo advocates will remain in the Park until Monday.

G. W. Cole, of Cole & Co., Broadway, New York, visited Plainfield today with his "three in one" compound, a liquid which he claims prevents rust on and polishes an lubricates bicycles and typewriters. W. H. Rogers has ordered a supply of the newly-invented compound.

From Metuchen comes the news that the women riders of that town have adopted the new dress. At first considerable trepidation was felt by them in discarding the skirt, but the exigencies of riding and the example of Miss Josie Bartlett of Harlem, who first wore the suit in Metuchen, led to its adoption. Now the club is organized and the costume is worn by its members, who are Mrs. H. B. Johnson, Mrs. E. B. Daner, Miss Lilian Graves, Miss Marie Letson, and the Misses McDougal.

The detectives association engaged by Magee & Co. of Somerset street to recover the Credenda pneumatic bicycle stolen from them by Edward Thomas of Sterling last Thursday, report favorable progress. Thomas tried to sell the stolen wheel in Newark. He offered it to Alsdorf & Co. Saturday, being vouched for by a companion. This second young man will be arrested by the detectives, and may turn State's evidence when accused of being an accomplice.

The limiting of the racing on the Crescent track the 18th to Class A men alone was done in accordance with the policy of other eastern race boards, in the expectation that at that time all of the Class B men would be in the West. The spread of this custom calls forth the following from a New York cycler: "Discrimination is being made by race-meet promoters in not having races for class B men. When the rule was framed, the writer distinctly remembers Chairman Raymond of the Racing Board stating that class B men must be provided for. As it is, the principal ones are on the National Circuit, but there is still a goodly number who are in the East, and although race meets are at every hand, the distinction is made against them, and they are allowed to enjoy themselves on the sands or as it best pleases them. At present the following class B riders are in the East and anxious to compete: H. R. Steersod, Harry Tyler, Mulligan, Silvie, Brandt, Coleman, Barnett, Warren, Rhodes and several others, all of whom would make good fields and interesting events. The meet at Asbury Park tomorrow and Saturday will lose much of its interest from this fact. Cannot the Racing Board remedy this?"

THE SECRET ORDERS.

A handsome ballot box has been received by Minerva Temple of Pythian Sisters.

Paugh Cauch Naugh Cinque Tribe of Red Men worked the hunters degree on one member at their meeting last evening

The degree team of Iona Council, No. 14, D. of P., met at the home of Degree Captain Richter last evening. The various parts were assigned to the different chiefs, and it was arranged to have a full dress rehearsal in Red Men's Hall next Monday evening.

At the meeting of Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., tonight, the consideration of business will be followed by a programme of entertainment in which Deacon Magee is down for an oration on his 25 years of experience in the position he holds. S. C. Baker will relate several choice anecdotes of the war, and Charles H. Randolph will sing a solo. The closing chorus will be sung by the ex-eleven-ette, not a sexdecimette. Ice-cream soda will be served at the close of the evening

Capt. Martin Hurt.

Frank L. C. Martin returned from Asbury Park yesterday, his stay there having been cut short by the spraining of his ankle, the injury being even worse than the one which made the same foot useless a few weeks ago. He sprained the ankle in stepping from one piazza to another.

Who Knows of This Girl?

Publicity through The Press has been asked for in the search for a young English girl, who is believed to be working with some family in Plainfield.

A letter received from the wife of a clergyman in England inquires the whereabouts of Edith Florence Beaf-r, a girl of 12. Her father died recently in an English Hospital, and just before he died he said that he had left his daughter in Plainfield, New Jersey, three years ago. With what family, or in what part of the city or borough he did not state.

Great Excursion Day.

The excursion of Trinity Reformed Church to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove left the North Avenue Station this morning at 8 in 14 cars, 12 of them filled. Other excursionists who went in trains on the Central to the shore were from Somerville, Flemington, and St. George.

SIDE TALKS WITH GIRLS.

Aunt Polly Gives Advice to a Girl About to Leave School.

Winnie May has written to Aunt Polly to say she is 13 years old and expects to graduate from the grammar school this year. As she does not intend to go to the high school, she wishes Aunt Polly to tell her what would be best for a girl of her age to do. The question isn't an easy one to answer, so much depends on the girl and her tastes and opportunities. There is one thing she can do, though—she can make up her mind to be a first class and not an average worker, to do thoroughly whatever she undertakes.

Winnie May writes a plain, clear hand, the spelling is perfect, and the punctuation marks all in their proper places. These characteristics of her letter, which are by no means as common as they might be, have suggested typewriting and stenography. To obtain the best results Winnie May would better go to a business school and take up these studies, together with bookkeeping and Spanish and German. The stenographer's best friend next to thoroughness is general information. She will need to read one good newspaper every day, foreign correspondence, editorials and all, and it would be a good idea also to get a good monthly review of the world's events. General information is a friend worth cultivating not only by the stenographer, but by every business girl who wants to be a success.

Winnie May's clear, steady writing has also suggested drawing. Perhaps it would pay her to take a course at a technical school and learn to make designs for wall papers and carpets and laces. The large factories where these things are made employ a corps of such designers, many of them women.

But if technical and business courses are beyond the capacity of Winnie's purse there is nothing that will give more satisfaction than the sewing trades. If Aunt Polly's girl will learn dress-making thoroughly; if she will not only learn to cut and fit and sew, but will study up the history of costume so she will be able to predict the coming fashion, for even in dress history repeats itself; if she will go to the art galleries and note the artists' color schemes and the folds of the draperies on the sculptured masterpieces, she will probably make more at dressmaking than at anything else. Even if she only learns to sew thoroughly and is willing to go out as a seamstress she will receive from $1 to $3 a day, and this includes one or two good meals. Sewing stage canvas is said to pay well, and few women are expert at it. The field is limited in this case to the larger cities, of course. Shroud-making is another sewing trade which requires special skill, pays well and has no dull seasons. There are many other things no doubt which Aunt Polly hasn't mentioned. There is just one thing more she wants to say, however—that is, if she had her way, little girls of 13 or 14 should not go to school this year, and they should not go to work in offices or shops either. Thirteen is a critical time for most little women, and unless their mothers are very wise they are likely to develop more "nerves" than they will be rid of at 30. Aunt Polly's girl should study at home with mother this year. She should learn baking and cooking and sweeping and dusting, and the afternoons should be given up to long walks and books and receiving guests.

The business of life for most women is the making of homes, and very important business it is too. For this reason Aunt Polly believes every little girl should be taught the trades which underlie the home. This should be the foundation, and the knowledge of these home trades will not be in the way of any wage earning avocation she may learn afterward. AUNT POLLY.

Whether or not the coat makes the man, the shoe indicates the woman. Close observers claim they can tell where a woman belongs and size her up quicker by her shoes than in any other way. Though a girl or young woman may be unexceptionable in every other point of dress, her shoes are likely to "give her away." The well bred, carefully reared girl will always have a neatly clad foot. Who, for instance, ever saw a Quakeress whose shoes were not as neat as her bonnet? There are shoes who even claim that the shoe is a very good index to the character of the person.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MONTE SCOTT DOES QUICK WORK ON THE CRESCENT OVAL.

Successful Inauguration of Matinee Races on the Plainfield Track—Local Riders Acquit Themselves with Credit to Club and Town.

The Crescent Wheelmen inaugurated a series of Wednesday matinee races yesterday afternoon. The races were hotly contested, and the spectators were well entertained by all of the events. Plainfield merchants had a chance to see the track in use without having to leave their stores in the busy part of Saturday, and the local riders were given a chance to race for honor among themselves. The Victor Wheelmen secured an opportunity to race in a separate class. Monte Scott showed a fast mile.

Nearly 300 people were on the grandstand at 3:30 when the first race, the third mile scratch, began. Those who started were I. N. Townley, Charles N. Rydell, Olaf Sangstad, S. C. Crane, Monte Scott, and Henry Scott. Townley set the pace at first, Rydell spurted well on the back, and fell out on the finish. Crane did not try to finish with the rest after he had gone a sixth in good speed. The Scotts rode all the way around. The riders finished in :48½, as follows, Monte Scott, Henry Scott, Rydell, Townley, Sangstad, Crane.

The triplet was then ridden an exhibition mile by Andrew Fritts, A. T. Hinrichs, and Nate Titsworth. The mile was made in 2:15, and the thirds in :41½ and 1:27.

In the one-mile handicap the starters were Monte Scott, scratch; Henry Scott, 50 yards; Charles N. Rydell, 90 yards; S. C. Crane and I. N. Townley, 110 yards; Olaf Sangstad, 140 yards; and E. Leonard and J. C. Cose, 160 yards. Sangstad took the lead at first, then Crane went up. The riders then slowed up in a group, the limit men dropping back, of course. The finish was rather exciting, Monte Scott winning in 2:19½, with the others following in this order: Rydell, Townley, Henry Scott, Crane, Sangstad, Leonard, Cose.

The boys mile scratch brought out but three starters, J. C. Clark, Harry Cuming, and J. Keefe. They began to do the loafing act on the first lap, and when they crossed the tape in a bunch Clerk of the Course Teel announced a time limit of 3:30. The boys took heed, and finished the mile in just 3:29 2-5. Cuming led first on the sprint, and then Clark spurted. Keefe was a good rider who thought he could stay behind till the turn and then win, but he found out too late that he had made a miscalculation. Cuming won, with Clark a close second and Keefe a lengthy third.

An exhibition by A. H. Barnett, of Irvington-Millburn fame, on his Spalding special, followed. He rode two miles, the laps as follows: :45; 1:33½; 2:24½; 3:18; 4:10¼; 5:10⅗. He was unpaced. The racer received much applause as he left the track.

The Victor Wheelmen two-mile handicap was contested by five of the colored riders. Joseph Bolden started from scratch, Lewis Peterson had 25 yards; E. Springs, 75 yards; Alfred Peterson, 100 yards; and George Peterson, 150 yards. The racers showed that they were not sure what race they were in and when they went by the bell Charles Vanderveer, who had assumed the office of bellringer because of the nature of the race, rang the bell for a mile race.

The riders thought they had finished when the next lap was ended, but the grand-stand ordered them on, and the other mile was taken up with a fresh start. Lewis Peterson complained of the workings of his front wheel, George Peterson had a road wheel of heavy weight and old design, all were afraid to venture near Alfred Wilson, as it was thought his artificial arm might break and throw the group. Springs presented a grotesque appearance with his light wheel with upturned handle bars, a defect for racing which he tried to remedy by bending his arms as far out as his peculiar position would permit. The tape was finally reached by the scratch man, Bolden, in 5:53. Alfred Wilson was second, Lewis Peterson third, Springs fourth, and George Peterson fifth.

Charles Vanderveer exhibited a mile on a high Star wheel, the timers announcing that he had covered the three laps in 3:00½, and then deciding that he had done it in 3:10½ instead.

The last event was the record-breaking one. Monte Scott rode behind the triplet riders two laps, and was then paced to the finish by his brother, Henry Scott. The timers scored 2:09½. It was estimated that two seconds were lost in the changing of pacemaking from the triplet to the single rider. Another stop-watch gave the time as 2:08 4-5. The best previous track record was that of Charles Brown of Elizabeth, who rode from the scratch in 2:17 in the one-mile handicap July Fourth.

TRACK TALK.

Races between different classes of untrained cyclers are proposed for the next matinee races of the Crescents.

Triplet riding was a novelty to those of the crowd at the Crescent track yesterday who were not of the cycling fraternity. The steady pedaling of the three trained riders came in for much comment. Their pacemaking for Monte Scoot made his fast mile an easy performance for the Providence man.

Not an accident happened during the matinee races yesterday afternoon. To make the day complete, Ernest Hand of Netherwood went on the track after the meet was over, and fell as he was leaving the base of the bank on the short turn. He luckily escaped injury. The fall was caused by the pulling out of the handle bars from the fastening.

It has been suggested that a sign pointing the way to the track would be a desirable ornament for Park avenue at the corner of Randolph road. Some of the Crescents think that the foreign wheelmen who pass along the avenue daily on pleasure runs are not so familiar with the location of the oval but the sign would be helpful in showing them the road.

UNIQUE PLAINFIELD ARCHITECTURE

The Building World Interested in This Peculiar Sample.

Views are given in the current issue of the Builders and Architects Edition of The Scientific American of a Plainfield residence built by George H. Babcock, of which the American says:

The design is treated in a very odd and picturesque manner. The exterior walls, from foundation to peak, are built of selected burned brick, and accidents of terra cotta and Philadelphia pressed brick, laid up at random, without regard to uniformity and with noses protruding. The roof is covered with a combination of the Celadon Terra Cotta Company's Rhinoceros and Gothic tiling. Dimensions: Front, 35 feet; side, 55 feet, not including piazza. Height of ceilings: Cellar, 7 feet, 6 inches; first story, 9 feet, 6 inches; second, 9 feet; third, 8 feet, 6 inches. The interior arrangement is complete and most excellent. The reception hall and lobby are trimmed with oak. It contains an ornamental staircase, with carved newel posts, and a paneled seat on first landing. This staircase is lighted effectively by windows glazed with stained glass. The hall also contains an open fireplace, with a tiled hearth and facings, and a hardwood mantel, with mirror and columns. Parlor and den are trimmed with birch, the former having an open fireplace, while the latter contains a paneled divan and bookcases built in, with drawers and shelves inclosed by leaded glass doors. Dining-room is trimmed with oak. It has a buffet built in, and is connected with sliding doors. The floors are laid with maple in narrow widths. Kitchen, rear hall and pantries are trimmed and wainscoted with Georgia pine. The apartments are all furnished with the usual fixtures replete. The second floor is trimmed with white pine, and finished natural. This floor contains four bedrooms, six closets, nook, two dressing-rooms, and bathroom, the latter wainscoted and fitted up complete. The rear hall and stairway are private to third floor, which contains a studio extending across the front of the building, two bedrooms, and ample storage. Cemented cellar contains laundry, furnace, and other necessary apartments.

How Passions Are Studied.

George Thatcher's numerous comedienes are distinctively exemplifying the serious solidity of humor when the delineator thereof has to reproduce to a delightful audience a mode and manner entirely antagonistic to her own natural self. It is astonishing how these clever young women subdue self and blossom forth anew according to orders. For instance, the girl who is dreamy-eyed and imbued with the most refined poetical fancies, has to be continually laughing in "About Gotham"; whereas one of the sprightliest and liveliest of the soubrettes has to speak all her lines with the permeation of an everlasting sob.

The pretty girl who is a perfect angel in private life, has to present the disposition of a demon; the active tomboy must develop slow and stupid characteristics; the girl of pure Irish descent must deliver her lines with a Dutch dialect; the maiden who abhors tobacco smoke must learn to smoke a cigarette; and another (Miss Helen Byron) must forget her attractive womanliness for awhile, and wear the clothes and cultivate the manners of a man. By the way, Miss Byron says she knows now why men are so vain and arrogant. She declares that trousers have already given her a swagger that is deliciously dominating.

Now, consider all this, ye maidens who say "can't" when you mean "shan't". It is all a matter of will-power. You can be sweet or ugly just as you desire, if you only study the matter out as these charming artistes will be doing from now until the eventful opening night, Aug. 23.

Plainfield Prohibitionists Meet Great Guns.

Temperance Day at Boynton Beach yesterday was given up to pleasure alone, no programme or speechmaking having been provided for. From Plainfield went two large stage-loads, including a party in Jacob Kilner's long Fanwood stage, driven by S. G. Taynor. Almost all of the members of Howell Division, No. 197, went, and with them others in private conveyances.

The Grand Worthy Patriarch was there, and at 3 in the afternoon General Howard of New York arrived on the revenue cutter General Megs with his Sunday-school. He received such an ovation that he waited and went home by train. The Plainfielders joined heartily in the amusements of the day, and returned about 10 in the evening.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

After the entertainment an abundance of refreshments will be exposed for sale on the parsonage lawn, under a tent, where a good social time can be expected.

Sea Trips That Cost Little.

The inexpensive and extensive trips that the Old Dominion Steamship Company are running just now are immensely popular, and the ad in The Press should induce many Plainfielders to write for particulars. The variety of routes and cost limit is astonishing, and you will be pleased to have the company send you free a copy of The Pilot, their paper, giving full information. Fred Dunn of the Plainfield Electric Light Station has decided to spend his vacation on one of these delightful tours. You'll be happy if you do likewise.

John and James in Court.

In the City Court this morning were arraigned John Newman and James McCauley, who beat A. E. Hoagland when he tried to drive them from his orchard along the brook. The complainant was not in court, but the boys were ordered to come up for trial Saturday morning at 8. Each was released under a $100 bond, Michael Newman furnishing his son's security, and Alex. McGuiggin McCauley's.

Now the Wife Sues.

Justice Mosher has issued a summons returnable August 15 in the case on contract of Mrs. Israel TenEyck against John Galbraith. A suit brought in Mr. TenEyck's name was dismissed Tuesday because it was found then that the barn which brought about the attempt at litigation was held in the wife's name.

HOMESICK FOR PLAINFIELD NEWS.

Though One Consolation Is, Having So Many Plainfielders Summering About Him.

Samuel Milliken, writing from the Grand View House, Lake Placid to The Daily Press, says:

"Plainfield seems to have taken possession of Lake Placid. On the west side of the lake there are six or seven families alone, and more coming, while on Mirror Lake every leading hotel has one or more representatives. This has been rendered feasible by the greatly increased facilities for reaching this gem of the Adirondacks, with its matchless atmosphere. The thermometer Sunday night was 74. Send us The Press, as we are hungering and thirsting for news from Plainfield, and contemplate spending the month here."

SEWERAGE COMPENSATION.

This Citizen Urges Council to Be Not Too Liberal With the Taxpayers' Money.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In reading in The Press last evening the action of the Council on the sewerage question, it seemed to me that officers are a little more liberal in paying wages for the city than they usually were for themselves. Why should they pay higher wages to servants for the city than are usually paid to mechanics that work for jobbers? I observe that the consulting engineer is allowed per day $10, the second engineer $6, and the two division engineers $4 each, making a total of $24 per day.

Here we have twenty-four dollars a day for engineer work. This will count up pretty big. This sewerage business is to be a big job before it is completed, and opens the door to a big profit to these men. It is a very easy thing to call out the surveyors to resurvey or counsel together for two or three years. I have known a surveyor to come out able to build a fine residence after having charge of such a job. Should the boss have the right to charge a royalty on all the men under him? There will be many taps to the sewer, and unless there is economy, and watching of the taps, there will be many thousands of dollars made in profit before this sewer is completed.

My idea of public business is that men chosen to look after public work, etc., should be just as careful of public money expenditures as they would be with their own money; that they should not pay any higher wages for a corporation than for themselves. If they do, they would better be excused from doing such business. We are living in an age when every business needs watching, especially the public treasury. CBSERVER

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The State Convention Committee is already arranging things for the New Brunswick rally. Denominational rallies will be held Tuesday afternoon, October 11, at 5, in different churches. Rev. O. H. Patton of Westfield has consented to lead the congregational rally. The others have been invited, but have not yet replied. Miss Alice B. Spangenberg of Netherwood has selected her assistants on the platform in the missionary convention, and asks all societies to send to their nearest representative in the list any items or methods of missionary interest. The names are: Rev. A. DeWitt Mason of Boonton, Rev. W. D. Stultz of Bridgeton, Rev. W. S. Voorhees and Rev. F. B. Everitt of Trenton, E. M. VanNote of Long Branch, W. B. Hamilton of Elizabeth, Charles T. Bingham of Cranford, Miss Florence G. Hawkins of Plainfield, Miss E. Schoenheit of German Valley.

Union Workingmen to Meet.

The Sixth Annual Congress of the New New Jersey Federation of Trades and Labor Unions will be held in the City Council Chamber, Elizabeth, Monday, August 20. An address of welcome will be delivered by the President of the Council in the absence of Mayor Rankin, who, owing to a previous engagement cannot be present. The Cigarmakers Union of Elizabeth will entertain the delegates.

Corbett Knocked Out.

A young man named Corbett and another named Stevens, both somewhat intoxicated, fought at the corner of Fourth and Sycamore streets at 10 last night, with quite a crowd looking on. Stevens knocked Corbett completely out in the first round.

—William Kreitling and Frank Blatz of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps are again able to fife, and will practice with the others at the next meeting.

TO HELP WOMEN.

That Is Why This Woman Writes.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Few people have any idea of the suffering that oppresses some women.

Pains run rampant through their entire bodies. They suffer secretly as long as they can, and then go all to pieces and don't care what happens.

Yet this misery is easily relieved; thousands of American women proclaim the fact.

The portrait presented here is that of Mrs. J. M. Bender, who lives on the old York Road at Nicetown, Pa. She has been for many years in very poor health.

She had falling of the womb and other forms of female weakness, with headache, severe backache, pains all over her body, and serious kidney trouble.

Her blood was in such a bad state that physicians said she had dropsy. Nearly discouraged she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to her great surprise it made her a well woman.

She now wishes to tell women all over the world to take the Vegetable Compound and be well. Any druggist has it.

Nothing in all the world has cured so many cases of female weaknesses as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Why don't you try it?

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Pictorial "Crambo."

A very amusing pictorial modification of the old game of "crambo," in which the last word only of a line of verse is furnished by one player to his next neighbor, who thereupon has to write another line to rhyme with it, is described by an exchange. This new game is pictorial instead of poetical. In it three or more players sit around a table. Each has a pencil and a piece of paper folded twice—that is, into three sections. Then each player draws a picture of the head of some creature—man, beast, bird, fish or imaginary and monstrous object. He carries the lines of the neck of his picture just over the first fold to serve as a guide to the next player.

Then he folds the paper over so that the head shall not be seen and passes the paper along to the next left hand player, who draws a body for the head, also carrying the lines a little below the fold.

It is then passed on as before, and the next left hand player draws the legs to finish his body.

Of course when all three papers have been passed around each player has drawn a head, a body and legs, but each has drawn them on a different slip and to match other portions of a body which he has not seen. The papers are then unfolded and inspected, and the combinations are always found to be curious and laughable. The picture given above was produced in such a game.

It adds to the interest if each player has in his mind a particular sort of creature, so that the head, body and legs which he draws would, if they were all on the same paper, produce something like a coherent picture. The "mixing up" in such cases is likely to be funnier than if each player had taken a new tack with each paper.—Youth's Companion.

Riding on a Giraffe.

General Sir Evelyn Wood is likely to remember his ride on a giraffe back as long as he lives. Many years ago, while passing through Jowra, in India, with a party of friends, he was entertained by the nawab, who possessed a collection of the rarer animals, such as giraffes, cheetahs, etc. Brigade Major Wood, as he was then, offering to ride the giraffe, the animal was brought out barebacked, with no bridle save a rope around his neck. Wood vaulted from the baloony onto the back of the creature, which started off at a great pace, but when it settled down into a gallop the curious movement made the rider, although an old sailor, "seasick," if the term may be used of a land exercise.

Hitherto he had ridden well, the giraffe's queer movements and awkward bounds affording the onlookers much amusement. At last Wood fell off, receiving a blow on the head from the animal's knee and then in the face from its foot. The fun threatened to end fatally, but although he was carried away insensible he recovered after a few hours—to ride a giraffe never more forever.—Little Folks.

A Humming Bird's Nest.

While in California, says a writer, I was fortunate enough to discover a humming bird's nest. Such a tiny affair! It was placed on a twig not as large as a lead pencil on one of the lower limbs of an orange tree and was so covered with lichens the same color as the bark of the tree that it was difficult to find it again, even after I knew about where it was. The nest was nearly the size of the bur oak acorn cup, built almost entirely of the feathery plumes of the pampas grass, covered with green lichens, and all held together and to the limb with something greatly resembling spider web. Within this marvel of construction were two semitransparent eggs, almost too small to describe. I visited the nest several times and nearly always found the mother bird at home. She was a faithful guardian and never left the nest but for a few minutes at a time.

The Singing Lesson.

Out of doors the sun is shining.
Through the window, open wide,
Comes the chirp of mating robins,
Like a song of glad springtide.

And the music finds an echo
Where small Rena, beating time,
Makes believe the plaster cherubs
Can repeat her childish rhyme.
—Ralph Bergengren.

Much Easier.

"Oh, dear," sighed a little girl of this city, "I'm so tired of lessons! I know what I'll do when I grow up."

"What?"

"I'll be a teacher."

"But teachers have to study too."

"I know that. But it's so much easier to learn the questions than to learn the answers."—Washington Star.

The widow of the late President Carnot is the daughter of M. Dupont-White, a celebrated political economist. She brought her husband some fortune and proved of the greatest assistance to him in pushing his political interests. Mme. Carnot is a woman of refined tastes and captivating manners, clever, well informed, anxious to please and highly successful in society. She is an accomplished linguist, speaks English with fluency and has a wide acquaintance with English literature. Her father, M. Dupont-White, was a liberal Republican and a great admirer of the political institutions of England. Mme. THE CASHIER SKIPPED

Bank and Social Scandal at Altonoa, Pa.

Harry A. Gardner Takes a Large Sum of Money and a Woman Away With Him—Enjoyed the Implicit Confidence of the Community—His Downfall Causes Great Regret.

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 9.—Street rumors this afternoon pointed to a bank and social scandal in this city of no mean proportions, and investigation later on fully corroborated this and makes the matter the one topic of conversation here to-day.

The man in the case is Harry A. Gardner, cashier of the Second National bank, but the woman is not so well known, although she is said to be a well-known and highly connected resident of Bellafonte, who has been living at a hotel here for some time as the mistress of the defaulting cashier.

H. A. Gardner, as is now known, left the city on Monday night, and it is ascertained that the woman accompanied him. Bank Examiner Miller has been in the city since Monday and has been working on the books of the bank since Tuesday afternoon, discovering, it is said, that Gardner has taken with him in his flight at least $20,000. These figures are trebled, however, by some people, and the defalcation may be much larger than is given out.

The woman in the case went by the name of Mrs. Gordon. She also, it is said has a Philadelphia address, on Mervine street. Gardner has left an interesting family, and before going wrote his wife a letter, in which, among other things, he told her to kiss the baby for him.

Until to-day the missing cashier enjoyed the most implicit confidence of the business community. He is a member of the house furnishing firm of Harry Wayne & Co., and his sudden downfall has created general regret and consternation.

The bank officials say that the bank is all right, and the general impression here is that it will be able to stand any run that may be made on it.

THREE TOWNS DESTROYED.

Fifty People Killed by the Earthquake in Sicily.

London, Aug. 9.—The Rome correspondent of the Central News says that Sicily was shaken by a terrific earthquake yesterday.

The earthquake centered in the province of Catania. The towns of Fleri, Aci and Pisano were totally destroyed and great damage was done in Zerbati, Pennisi and Zaffarana.

Fifty persons were killed and scores were seriously injured. Hundreds of villagers fled from their homes into the open country, abandoning everything. Enormous damage was done to property.

The government officials are sending supplies and surgeons to the distressed districts.

DID NOT PAY POLL TAX.

Populist Candidate for Governor of Arkansas Ineligible.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 9.—It has been discovered that D. E. Barket, the populist candidate for governor, has not paid his poll tax. This makes him ineligible to hold office or to vote, the time for paying poll taxes having expired a month ago. If he were to receive a majority of the votes cast at the election, which occurs the first Monday in September, he would not be granted a certificate of election. The democrats in this city feel highly elated over this discovery.

The Bluefields Troubles.

London, Aug. 9.—It is reported that the English government has instructed the commander of the British cruiser Mohawk to act in accord with the United States authorities at Bluefields, and to refrain from interference except to protect British subjects and maintain treaty rights.

Tennis Tournament.

Long Branch, N. Y., Aug. 9.—M. F. Goodbody, the expert from Great Britain, still retains the first place in the invitation tennis tournament at Norwood Park and unless R. D. Wrenn or Malcolm Chace beat him he will take the handsome silver trophy away with him.

Will Not Deal With Old Men.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 9.—The American Railway union strike at this place has been declared off, and the men are trying to effect a compromise with the railroad officials. The companies refuse to deal with the old men, the places of all having been filled.

Vigilant and Britannia Entered.

Cowes, Aug. 9.—Both the Britannia and the Vigilant are entered for to-day's race for the prize of £100 offered by the town of Cowes.

BACK TO THE OLD FORM.

Railroads Will Not Require the Denial of Membership in the A. R. U.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 9.—The railroads have withdrawn their application blanks requiring the statement that the applicant is not a member of the American Railway union, and have gone back to the old form.

A good many of the men have gone back, and a good many of the men taken on last month will have to be weeded out. The railroad managers say they have all the men they need and more, as the business is still light.

To Expedite the Work.

Albany, Aug. 9.—The republican delegates to the constitutional convention caucussed for over two hours and discussed plans for expediting the work of the convention. It was finally decided to hold morning, afternoon and evening sessions after August 15, on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, and on Saturday one session will be held of about four hours' duration. The delegates agreed that all available time must be utilized if the convention is to conclude its work September 15, the fixed date in the law when the compensation shall cease.

Without a Process Server.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 9.—The state of Connecticut has now no federal officer authorized to serve processes of United States courts in the state. The term of United States Marshal Emory F. Strong and his deputies expired August 2, and his successor, Richard C. Morris, of New London, has not been confirmed by the senate. There are several writs at the United States courts here awaiting service.

Prohibitionist Nominations.

Baltimore, Aug. 9.—The tenth prohibition state convention met at Glyndon to-day and nominated the following congressional candidates: John N. Parker, Second district; J. C. Lee for the short term and W. H. Silk for the long term in the Fifth district and Albert E. Shoemaker, Sixth district.

7 P. M. IS WHEN WE CLOSE.

Why at 7 p. m.? For many reasons. Here are two of them. 1—We have some regard for our clerks. 2—We save our light bills and take it off the price of butter. There is where it benefits you. Of course you see the point and the price of butter too.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure with Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

WERE NOT INSTRUCTED

The President Did Not Interfere With the Conferrees.

Has Treated the Matter With Great Delicacy—He Is Warmly Defended by Mr. Wilson—Free Sugar Proposition Rejected—Senate Still Holding Out for Free Iron—The Whole Situation Still "In the Air."

Washington, Aug. 10.—"The report," said Mr. Wilson, "that the president had smashed the compromise agreed upon by the conferrees on coal, sugar and iron ore is an absurd invention.

"There is not a word of truth in it, and you may say I said so. The president has never interfered in our deliberations in the slightest manner. He has treated the matter with great delicacy."

"Have you talked with the president at various stages of the situation?"

"I have seen him occasionally during the past few weeks," Mr. Wilson replied, "but he has never manifested the slightest inclinations to instruct the conferrees as to their duty. As I say, he has shown unusual delicacy in his references to the matter in dispute. I have felt it only proper since the president is the head of the party to acquaint him with what we are doing, but beyond a general conversation nothing of special importance has passed between us."

This authoritative statement made by Mr. Wilson was called out by the stories that were circulated about both wings of the capitol.

How much there was in the story that the president had overturned the compromise agreed upon in a tentative manner Wednesday, so far as sugar, coal and iron ore were concerned, is shown by the frank and straightforward statement made by Mr. Wilson to a reporter for the United Press. How much truth there is in the subsequent report that the conferrees were yesterday farther apart than ever may be seen from the statement of another member of the conference regarding the situation as it stood at the hour of adjournment last evening. This member, who is a manager on the part of the house, said that Wednesday the proposition was made them that they might have their choice between free iron and coal, and that while this matter was being discussed Mr. Gorman made a proposition that the house should have free coal, and that iron ore should remain at 40 cents a ton. According to this conferree this proposition was accepted and Mr. Gorman then sent them another offer in the shape of free sugar. This conferree was frank enough to admit that this second offer fairly took away the breath of the house members, but said that after they had discussed it for a short time it was declined with thanks. He said the house conferrees had made up their minds that they did not want free sugar, but that they would stand by the sugar schedule they had previously suggested and which had been agreed to all around in the conference—to-wit: A duty of 40 per cent. on raw sugar, a duty of 40 per cent. on raw sugar in the refined, and 1-5 of a cent a pound differential for the refining interests. So far as the house was concerned, said this conferree, they stood just where they did last night for a duty on sugar, iron taxed at 40 cents a ton and free coal.

He said the senate insisted that the proposition should be free iron ore and coal dutiable at 40 cents a ton, and the house refused to accept it. After the conference yesterday afternoon one of the most prominent senators on the committee said that he would never be able to vote for an agreement that includes free coal, for the reason that such a bill could not pass the senate, and he did not propose to lend himself to any scheme that was intended as a trap to get the bill into the senate, where it was to be killed.

He believed that if a basis of compromise might be reached here a bill could be arranged that would pass through all the dangers that now surrounded it and yet become a law, but the proposition for free coal and for free sugar was one that was not, as he believed, intended to help the bill, to say the least. This senator made the emphatic statement that coal should not be free, and he declined to say whether there was an agreement in sight or to say that there was not. "We may agree in an hour," said he, "and we may be here for several days, and possibly forever."

The coal men in the senate are up in arms at the thought of free coal, and it looks as if all that had been done was about to be undone. One of the house conferrees offered as an explanation for the story that the president had set his foot down against the agreement made Wednesday night the statement that this story was circulated by the friends of the sugar trust for the reason that they were not satisfied with the sugar schedule proposed by the house conferrees. This is but one of the very many stories of a similar character that were floating around the capitol yesterday.

As a matter of fact, while coal and iron ore are playing an important part in this discussion, they by no means occupy all the attention of the conferrees. It was said by one of the senators that as fast as an agreement was reached on one thing something else that could not be granted by the senate was asked by the house and insisted upon, although to give it was imperilling the success of the bill. The whole conduct of the house conferrees appeared to be, this gentleman said, that of people who were seeking to consume time and cause delay.

The demand was made that the woollen, cotton and metal schedule be reduced, and this at once set the senate conferrees by the ears. They told their associates that they could not do it, and the specific assertion was made, with the authority of the gentleman referred to by the senate conferrees, that if the schedule in question were changed that neither Senator Smith nor Senator Murphy would vote for the bill, and that any effort to change the metal schedule would start Senator Quay again, and no man could tell what the result would be, but that even the most sanguine friends of the measure would feel that its defeat was near at hand.

Still, the house men insisted and the senate conferrees withdrew to consult with the conservatives. A long and important consultation was had, at which there were present Messrs. Gorman, Brice and Murphy. Mr. Smith was conspicuous by his absence. He was sent for, but either could not be found or refused to attend. It was said that Mr. Smith delivered his ultimatum as to the schedule in which he was interested, and declared that when the conferrees were ready to send to the senate a report of the right kind he would be there to support it. Any deviation from the schedules now in the bill affecting the industries of New Jersey and New York will be opposed by the two senators referred to, even to the extent of voting against the bill. All these things were told the conferrees, but they only laughed at it and professed to look upon it as what they called a great game of "bluff."

At all events, it is well known that when the conferrees adjourned last night shortly before 6 o'clock the house was still urging that these schedules be pared down, and the senate was still urging that to do that meant certain defeat.

What the outcome will be is uncertain. One of the senate conferrees said that he would not say that an agreement was in sight, nor would he predict that an agreement could not be speedily reached. The whole situation was, as he expressed it, "in the air," with the possibility that something might happen at any moment. Both sides are becoming desperate, and there is a vast amount of chaffing at this delay. There is a probability, and that is all, that the democrats may reach a conclusion to-day and be able to call in their republican colleagues, but there is nothing certain about it. If that is not done some one may make a motion that the senate conferrees be discharged.

This would bring affairs to a crisis so far as the senate is concerned. What the remainder of the week will bring forth depends entirely upon the turn of events in the conference room to-day and the temper of the senate. There is a deep undercurrent of resentment at the obstinacy of the house conferrees, as senators call it, and a prolongation of the terrible tension to which congress has been put may precipitate a sudden and unexpected ending of the whole business.

MR. BLAND'S PETITION.

Wants the Conferrees To Insist on Free Sugar.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Representative Bland, of Missouri, prepared the following petition, which is now being circulated for signatures on the floor of the house:

"We, the undersigned democratic members of the house, request our committee of conference on the tariff bill to insist upon the provisions of the house bill relating to free sugar and a permanent income tax and to secure the best compromise on the other schedules of the bill."

Among the first who signed it were Mr. McLaurin, of South Carolina; Mr. Bland, of Missouri; Mr. Fyan, of Missouri; Mr. Holman, of Indiana; Mr. Fithian, of Illinois; Mr. Talbert, of South Carolina, and Mr. Denison, of Alabama.

A number of the representatives to whom the petition was brought declined to sign it.

RUBBER PLANTS TO CLOSE.

They Will Give Their Employes a Vacation for Two Weeks.

Boston, Aug. 10.—All the rubber manufactories controlled by the rubber trust will shut down September 1 for two weeks or a month. These different plants employ somewhere in the neighborhood of 12,000 or 14,000 people.

It is stated in some quarters that this is through lack of orders, though Mr. Cutler, of the Woonsocket Rubber company, says it is to give the employes a vacation.

Mr. Cutler added: "The prices of goods will be advanced the first of September, and we think that during September orders will be light and it will be a good time to give our employes their annual vacation, as we are obliged to do."

Massachusetts I. O. O. F.

Boston, Aug. 10.—The Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, I. O. O. F., met in annual session yesterday. The reports showed that during the term ending June 30 five lodges were instituted, making the total number in the jurisdiction 229. Six Rebekah lodges have been instituted, making the total number 128. The net gain in membership was 898. There was received $252,093 and $124,440 was expended, of which $103,192 went for relief.

Fell Three Stories.

Jersey City, Aug. 10.—A section of one of the interior walls of the new city hall now being erected on Montgomery street gave way under the weight of a scaffold and eight men who were working on it fell from the third floor to the cellar. One man was fatally injured, one seriously hurt, and the other six escaped with slight contusions.

111 from Overwork.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Passed Assistant Engineer George D. Strickland, of the United States ship ranger, has been sent home from Sitka, Alaska, for treatment at the Mare Island naval hospital. His illness is said to be due to overwork, there being no other engineer on the ship.

Striking Packers Quit.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 10.—The striking packing house employees at South Omaha are rather quiet to-day, but the packers propose to close unless sufficient protection is given. The sheriff is trying to protect the non-union employes without calling out the militia.

Troops Withdrawn.

Denver, Col., Aug. 10.—General Cook has withdrawn all troops from service along the line of the Southern Pacific railroad in Arizona. In view of the recent firing upon soldiers at Newcastle it is not likely that the Colorado or New Mexico troops will be withdrawn soon.

Cholera Increasing.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that twenty-two fresh cases of cholera and fourteen deaths have been reported there.

THE COUNTRY'S CASH

Sub-Treasuries Not Overburdened With It.

Public Debt Has Increased $80,000,000—Expenditures of the Government Each Month Since Jan. 1, 1893, Have Exceeded the Receipts—Effect of Tariff Agitation.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The effect upon the treasury finances of the uncertainty caused by prolonged agitation of tariff changes has been very marked. During the period when the McKinley bill was under discussion the decline of treasury receipts was almost an noticeable as during the present tariff contest. The public debt of the United States less cash in the treasury on January 1, 1893, was $1,434,000,000; on August 1, 1894, it was $1,514,000,000; increase, $80,000,000.

During this same period the treasury cash balance (including the gold reserve) stood at the periods named: January 1, 1893, $129,000,000; March 1, 1893, $124,000,000; July 1, 1893, $124,000,000; November 1, 1893, $95,000,000; January 1, 1894, $90,000,000; August 1, 1894, $119,000,000.

On February 1, 1894, the proceeds of the new $50,000,000 bond issue, which with premium, aggregated $58,000,000, were put into the treasury. Without that addition the treasury balance to-day would stand $61,000,000. In no way has the tariff agitation shown more pointedly, perhaps, than in the monthly statement of receipts and expenditures. Since January 1, 1893, the expenditures of the government have each month exceeded the receipts, as shown below:

1893.—January, $3,000,000; February, $1,000,000; April, $5,000,000; July, $9,000,000; August, $10,000,000; September, $1,000,000; October, $5,000,000; November, $8,000,000; December, $8,000,000.

1894.—January, $7,000,000; February, $4,000,000; March, $6,000,000; April, $10,000,000; May, $8,000,000; July, $2,000,000.

During this period receipts exceeded expenditures in these months:

1893.—March, $3,000,000; May, $700,000; June, $2,000,000.

1894.—June, $1,000,000.

The present treasury balance is $118,000,000, of which $52,000,000 is the gold reserve, which is relied upon to hold up $600,000,000 of gold bearing government obligations. The other $66,000,000 is denominated "currency." Of this $12,000,000 is in government depositories and $18,000,000 in subsidiary coin. If the same method of treasury bookkeeping prevailed now as was adopted by Secretary Manning both these items would be eliminated from the assets and make the available treasury balance $36,000,000, exclusive of its $52,000,000 gold. This available cash spread over the several subtreasuries does not give each one a large surplus.

Because of this condition of affairs and the increased appropriations which have been made by congress, treasury officials look hopefully forward to the passage of a tariff bill which is expected, by removing the uncertainty to give an immediate impetus to a business revival.

The Indianapolis A. R. U. President Avoids Arrest.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 10.—President Clark, of the local A. R. U., has disappeared from this city and it has been developed that he skipped out to avoid arrest in connection with an alleged plot to blow up the Union station here. Clark recently went to Chicago, and while there indulged in some boastful talk that came to the ears of railway officials. His friends say that he meant nothing by such talk, but he feared the outcome and got out.

United Cook's Association,

HAWAII IN THE HOUSE

Mr. Boutelle Enlivens the Proceedings.

Denounces the Policy of the Administration—Says It Is a Halting, Grudging and Secretive Recognition of the Republic—Ordered by the Speaker To Take His Seat.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The Hawaiin question came to the front again in the house yesterday, forming the subject of the most spirited and interesting portion of the proceedings. Mr. Boutelle raised it as a question of privilege. He repudiated the reported imputation that in introducing the resolution recognizing the Hawaiian republic he had sought to obtain a partisan advantage for the republican party, but that he was desirous only of maintaining the honor and dignity of the government and of observing the unbroken traditions of the country and of congress. He criticised the failure of the committee on foreign affairs to act upon his resolutions, and denounced the Hawaiin policy of the administration, especially the last act, which he described as the grudging, halting, secretive recognition of the republic of Hawaii by the president. He was called to order by Mr. Outhwaite and Mr. Coombs (democrats) and required by the speaker to take his seat, after he had evoked rounds of applause from his republican associates. Before taking his seat Mr. Boutelle unsuccessfully endeavored to get unanimous consent to move that the committee on foreign affairs be discharged from further consideration of his resolutions, and that they be considered by the house.

The bill to increase the efficiency of the militia came up again and gave rise to a discussion in which the recent riots at Chicago were referred to. Mr. Fithian (dem., Ill.) criticised President Cleveland's order sending federal troops there, while Mr. Cannon (rep., Ill.) vigorously defended it.

Senate.

The senate seems to have reached that condition of apathy and weariness that unfits it for any serious legislative business which is not connected with the final disposition of the tariff bill and the winding up of the long session. Yesterday's sitting came to a close at 1:40, and a part of the time had been given to the consideration of executive business. Nothing of any public interest marked the brief legislative day.

COXEYITES BAGGED.

The Entire "Army" Captured Near Bladensburg, Md.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Forty special policemen from Baltimore swooped down on the Coxeyites encamped at Highlands, near Bladensburg, Md., about six miles from Washington early in the morning and captured the entire "army of the commonweal." The officers left five of the 108 men in charge of the place, with the warning that unless they vacated within three days they, too, would be arrested. The camp is a large one, covering about eight acres, and contains forty tents and improvised thatched roof shanties. The men now in camp say that every-body there had money in his pocket when arrested, and provisions were plentiful.

"General" Coxey's son Jesse stayed at the camp during the night, which he does not usually do, but when the raid was made he hid beneath his bed and so escaped arrest. The arrested men were taken to Hyattsville and put on board a special train for Bridewell, where they will for three months work at hard labor.

Jacob S. Coxey, who is campaigning for election to congress in Ohio, was telegraphed by Marshal Bullock, of the "army," and the "general" is expected to come on here in aday or two and look after the welfare of the men.

MRS. RICE ARRESTED.

She Is Charged With Breaking Into a Locked Room.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 10.—Mrs. Rice, the evangelist who had an altercation with Hotel Proprietor J. E. House during an effort to oust the woman and her husband because of non-payment of board, was arrested yesterday on the charge of breaking into a locked room. Her husband, Cowboy Evangelist Rice, was locked out of the hotel and spent the night on a piazza rocker, guarding his trunk, which had been placed there by the irate hotel man. Warrants were sworn out for his arrest for forcing the bedroom door from which he had been ejected.

Striking Cigarmakers Win.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 10.—The striking cigar makers who were called out of Cunningham & Co.'s factory July 16 last, because the firm refused to pay the scale, have won their point. Cunningham & Co. sent word to their men that they might go to work. A committee of the Cigarmakers union called at the firm's office and were informed that the union scale would be adopted and that the entire old force might come back. Work was at once resumed.

Plymouth Much Faster.

New York, Aug. 10.—Steamer Plymouth, of the Fall river line, arrived here this morning, for the first time since she ran ashore on Rose island. She has been thoroughly repaired and her engine frames have been materially strengthened. Her engineers and crew say she will be much faster for a continuous run than she was before the accident.

CHINA WANTS MONEY

Demands Tribute from Her Subjects.

Viceroys of the Provinces Ordered To Come to the Front—Japan Pouring Troops Into Korea—Watching the Chinese Fleet—Li Hung Chang Did Not Favor War.

London, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from Tien-Tsin to the Central News says: "The emperor of China has directed that a levy for war tribute be made upon the viceroys of the different provinces. A foreign war loan is mooted.

"Chinese troops with European officers are rapidly advancing through Manchuria toward the Korean frontier. The commissariat is experiencing great difficulty in obtaining supplies for the troops. China is wary in her preparations, but is unsparing in her efforts to succeed in the impending fighting."

The Shanghai correspondent of the Central News says:

"According to advices from Yokohama and Nagasaki, Japan is pouring reinforcements into Korea, using for the purpose all the fast steamers flying the Japanese flag.

"A fleet of Japanese transports recently started for Chemulpo. Another fleet started for the north coast of Korea, presumably for Gensan.

"Japanese newspapers are forbidden to refer to the war preparations or to publish any news except such as is supplied by the government.

"The Japanese aim to attack the Chinese before the arrival of the Manchurian corps.

"The Chinese fleet makes no effort to leave the coast. Fast Japanese cruisers are constantly on the watch.

"Chief Officer Tamplin, of the transport Kow Shing, said in an interview yesterday concerning his experiences at the time of the sinking of the transport: 'I was in the water some time before the Japanese picked me up. The Japanese were kind to me and gave me every attention. The Chinese aboard the Kow Shing fired at me while I was in the water. The Japanese fired at the Chinese in the Kow Shing's boats, but did not fire at the drowning Chinamen.'"

Information form an authoritative source received in Washington shows that Li Hung Chang did all that he could to prevent the Chinese-Japanese war. He was in complete accord with the efforts of forign powers, including the United States, to bring about a peaceable adjustment of the differences between China and her island neighbor, and appeared willing to accept moderate proposals of Japan for a settlement.

Japan has ordered a prominent firm in Dudley, Worcestshire, to ship to Japan immediately several hundred tons of the best iron. It is understood that the iron is for war purposes.

MISSION CHURCHES IN DANGER.

Feared Those at Tungkoon Will Be Destroyed.

New York, Aug. 10.—The news from China that the mission churches at Tungkoon City are in danger of attack and that the date has already been fixed for the onslaught caused uneasiness to day at the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church. The secretary said that he heard that Viceroy Li Hung Chang has requested the consuls at Canton to ask the missionaries at Tungkoon to abstain from preaching at the present. The board is anxiously waiting cable advices.

BIG MINE CAVE-IN.

Eight Acres and Twenty-eight Dwellings Collapse.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 10.—The greatest mine cave-in that Scranton has known in years occurred yesterday afternoon at the diamond vein of the Hampton mine. Eight acres and twenty-eight dwelling houses were affected, one or two of the dwellings being almost irreparably damaged. It is reported that the loss will reach over a quarter of a million of dollars. The cave-in occasioned a great panic in the neighborhood, and the residents rushed pell-mell into the street, but none of them were injured. There is a report that two Poles who were at work in the mine beneath were killed, but it cannot be verified. Heavy suits for damages are threatened by persons whose homes are now untenable.

OVERSTOCKED WITH COAL.

Collieries of the Reading Company To Close for a Week.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—All of the Reading Coal and Iron company's collieries shut down last night for the balance of the week. The immense production of anthracite during June and July have overstocked the market and a number of the collieries will remain closed during next week to enable the company to work off some of its surplus stock. General Manager Henderson said yesterday that the works of the Reading collieries during the present month had been very light and that during the first twelve days in August such of them as are working would not average more than four or five days.

Brutally Beaten.

Elizabeth, N. J., Aug. 10.—Joseph McDonald and a companion picked a quarrel last night with William Hickey, an aged one-legged resident of Linden, at his home and beat him so severely that he is not expected to live. Hickey's son James chased McDonald half a mile and captured him after a severe fight.

Death of Ex-Gov. Bulkeley's Mother.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 10.—Mrs. Lydia S. Bulkeley, widow of Judge Eliphalet Bulkeley, is dead here, aged eighty-eight years. She was the mother of ex-Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley, ex-Lieutenant William H. Bulkeley and of Mrs. Brainerd, the wife of Mayor Leverett Brainerd.

Plague in Hong Kong.

Hong Kong, Aug. 10.—An official report shows that 2,504 persons died of plague in Hong Kong during the recent epidemic.

Miss Mabel Schenck of Somerville is spending two weeks in Ocean Grove.

J. E. Erickson of West Eighth street has left town for a vacation of two weeks.

Miss Lettie Yaeger of Flemington is visiting Miss Mattie Cook of North avenue.

Daisy Elsberg and Mrs. Arthur Griffen are registered at Guy Mansion, Asbury Park.

Mrs. Christina Scott is very ill at the home of Walter Scott, brother of her late husband.

Ex-Councilman Fred Slater and Mrs. Slater of Jackson avenue have gone to Long Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Veit of Flemington are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester B. Dennis of LaGrande avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Garrigues of 111 East Sixth street are now stopping at Stevens Cottage, Seabright.

Miss Louise Anderson of New Brunswick has gone home from a visit at the home of Councilman Bird.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi C. Kline and family go tomorrow to visit Mrs. Kline's old home, Readington, Hunterdon County.

Miss Sadie W. Jones of this city starts today for Northport, L. I., where she expects to spend the remainder of her vacation.

Charles H. Ward of New Market returned to his work as clerk in V. L. Frezee's grocery today, having recovered from bruises received in a fall from a window.

A merry party of Plainfielders has been camping at Lake Hopatcong, consisting of Dal. Schoonmaker, Carl Brown, Ned Waring, Orville Waring, and Frank Thompson.

Mrs. Phoebe A. Beck of Baltimore, who has been visiting her niece Mrs. Evan Jones of Kensington avenue, the past two weeks, starts today for Troy, stopping on the way to visit friends in New York.

Gallant Charles Hall of Reynolds's Pharmacy forsook pestle and mortar this morning to show the beauties of Plainfield to a fleeting guest, one of Perth Amboy's fair daughters, who was in town for a short time.

Mrs. A. F. Hetfield of Madison avenue, wife of the popular conductor, returned last evening from Elizabeth by way of Glen Island. She had been visiting in Elizabeth and went yesterday on an excursion, returning to Plainfield at night.

Sincere is the sympathy, and heartfelt the sorrow, of the entire community, for Mayor Needham in his bereavement. Funeral services over the body of his late daughter, Mrs. John Thomas, will be held in New York this evening at 8. The mother and the infant son will be laid at rest together.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Victor Wheelmen contemplate a club run to Philadelphia in response to the demands of a number of the more ambitious members.

W. H. Rogers gives insurance against theft with every wheel he sells, and for $2 he insures any wheel against robbery. If a wheel thus insured is stolen, and not recovered in 30 days, he replaces it.

The detectives in Newark working on the case of the Credenda bicycle stolen from Mague & Co. of Somerset street report that they have found further traces of the thief, Edward Thomas of Sterling. The Newark man who tried unsuccessfully to vouch for him when he offered the wheel to Alsdorf & Co. Saturday, has tried his hand at the business. He went with Thomas and the Credenda wheel to the Liberty cycle agency and hired a bicycle which he took to a store and sold for $15. Thomas apparently was unsuccessful in selling the Credenda. It is not understood why he stole a wheel in Plainfield where his name was known.

Good Horses and Good Care.

A. C. Blair and Frank Day are both well known in Plainfield as experienced horsemen, and they are conducting the Metropolitan Stables, 147 North avenue, in a style that warrants full patronage. If you own a horse, you can leave it in no better hands than theirs. If you do n't own one, whenever you want a satisfactory rig go there.

His Slumbers Disturbed.

Policeman Schelmer chased a horse, which seemed to be running away with a milk wagon, at the corner of Park avenue and Seventh street at 4 this morning. He caught the animal and was turning the rig around when the driver woke up and crawled out from beneath a blanket in the bottom of the wagon.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

WELL-WATER DEFILED.

Vicious Revenge in the Negro Quarters.

A State-Prison offence was committed on Race street some time during the night. A well in the rear of the tenement house 23 Race street, owned by City Judge William A. Coddington and occupied by Cæsar Taylor, a colored gardener, was defiled by some person or persons with a spite against the family.

The colored people along the street have not been very neighborly since the appearance of a number of them in Justice Crosley's Court a short time ago on counter-complaints of using abusive language. Houses owned by A. J. Lutkins and by the City Judge adjoin.

The residents in each of the two houses do not like those in the other. The well on the Lutkins property has been unfit for use and the tenants who were expected to use the water from it have sought to obtain water elsewhere. They were forbidden to use the pump in the Coddington backyard, and this fact, which indirectly brought about the dispute which was aired in Court, is thought to have some connection with the filthy work of last night. The people suspected are held in contempt by white and colored neighbors alike.

AMONG THE FIREMEN.

Plainfield will probably have no representative at the firemen's convention in Montreal in September.

William Townley of Alert Hose Company will return to duty from his vacation Monday. He is the last to have a leave of absence this year.

An object lesson for Plainfield servants is the Friday cleaning of the fire department headquarters when every part, from chief's office to stables, is thoroughly scrubbed and rubbed.

With a limited number of tickets and an unknown destination the members of Engine Company No. 2 expect to keep their clam-bake exclusively to themselves and their invited friends.

The truck was taken for practice by the members of the company to the corner of Grant avenue and South Second street last evening. Ladders were raised against Michael Watson's corner building.

Bernard Rogers of Engine Company No. 2, Lorenzo Spicer of Gazelle Engine Company No. 1, and Harry Demarest of Alert Hose Company, will go to Atlantic City Wednesday, Sept. 19, 1894, as delegates from the local Firemen's Relief Association. Chief Doane and Auguste Saltzman, being life members, will also attend as representatives of the association.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. Dr. E. C. Sage will preach in the Park Avenue Baptist Church Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Stinson, formerly a pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian Church, will occupy the pulpit of Rev. C. E. Herring Sunday, August 26.

The entertainment given in the M. E. Church last evening was enjoyed by a large number of people in Dunellen and vicinity. The programme as given in these columns yesterday was rendered in an excellent manner, each selection being heartily received. Mr. VanEps of Plainfield delighted all with his playing on the zither, and Mr. Cobb as elocutionist was meritorious and deserving of the applause given. Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Kinsey pleased all with their vocal duets. The entire entertainment was a success, both financially and otherwise.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Horace J. Martin will talk about the Cleveland convention at a Christian Endeavor meeting in Bedminster next Tuesday evening.

Good Time at the Shore.

The excursion of Trinity Reformed Church yesterday was enjoyed by all who went. Councilman Bird and W. F. Oliver, of the Committee of Arrangements, were assisted by H. C. VanEmburgh, Edward Cooley, H. E. Gayle and Will Crawford. Conductor Bass made a quick run down, but on the return trip an open drawbridge and the several other extra extra excursion trains made the train a little late.

Socially the excursion was a great success, though a hot land breeze prevailed. All teachers and scholars of Trinity are taken free, but the patronage of the public was so liberal that expenses were about met.

The Body Recovered.

The body of little Mabel, daughter of E. B. Ryder, was found Wednesday night at Far Rockaway, four miles from the drowning. Mr. Ryder, who visited the beach again yesterday in his unwearying search, brought the news of the discovery to Plainfield last evening, and the body reached Plainfield on the 10:45 train this morning. The funeral will take place at the home of the afflicted parents, 110 Central avenue, Monday afternoon at 3.

Feminine Opportunity.

Mrs. L. Adams, whose millinery establishment under the First National Bank is a favorite with Plainfield women, will conduct a closing-out sale of bargains tomorrow. She will sell untrimmed hats at your own price, and trimmed hats from $1 50 to 75 cents. She will sacrifice her India silks at 35 cents a yard.

The nature of special features at the September fair of the C. Y. M. L. will be decided upon by the committee at their meeting in the club-house tonight.

To Cure

BURNED IN A WRECK.

[Special to The Press.]

LINCOLN, Neb., August 10.—The railroad wreck which occurred just after 10 last night near here was one of the worst that has happened in this part of the country in years.

The north-bound Rock Island passenger train went off a high bridge between four and five miles south of the city. Eight persons are known to have been killed and several others were injured. The wreck caught fire and some of the persons were burned to death.

KILLED BY TROLLEY CURRENT.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 10.—Lineman Carl H. Maxwell and a horse were killed this morning by a live trolley wire. Maxwell was 32 years old.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A quorum was not present at the meeting of the Board of Trade last night.

—Neighbors of the North Plainfield dog pound complain of the canine howls at night.

—Ground was broken yesterday for a new house on Fairview avenue, Watchung Park.

—Justice Nash will try the landlord and tenant case of Mulford against Hall next Thursday.

—A wreck of 35 coal cars near Lebanon delayed early trains on the Jersey Central this morning.

—The wife is a good counselor, and in directing the householder to her advice Marsh, Ayres & Co. in their ad today pay deserved tribute to the sex.

—The case on contract of Manning against Hulett was to have been tried by Justice Mosher today. The suit was withdrawn because of an error in the service of the summons. The matter will be brought up again.

—Besides the match race for $100 a side between V. J. Sisser's horse from Scotch Plains and another from Bayonne at the driving park tomorrow afternoon races between horses owned by club members will be trotted.

—James McCormick was arrested on Somerset street at 7 last evening by Chief Marshal Pangborn for drunken disorderliness. Borough Magistrate Crosley sentenced him to 30 days of imprisonment and the chief took him to Somerville this afternoon.

THE SECRET ORDERS.

The hunters degree will be worked on several candidates by Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men tonight.

In Central Lodge last night the programme published in The Press was rendered, together with speeches by Financier Newcorn and visitors present. Those who attended, besides the members of Central Lodge were Deputy Grand Master Workman Ettinger, Grand Overseer Morris and Past Master Workman Williams of Elizabeth and Past Master Workman Liefke of Columbia Lodge.

At the regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., held in their hall last night, there was a large attendance, including visiting brethren fro mout of town. They decided to wear white Belmar caps, and white gloves and carry canes, at Asbury Park, American Day, and have engaged the Independent Fife and Drum Corps for their parade. After the regular business had been finished, Brother Stratton presented to Lewis M. Dunavan the first shirt he wore, which created great laughter. One member was elected by card, and one proposed by card. The following members were shown into the mysteries of the orient degree: F. E. Tilton of Wiliam G. Holton Council, Dunellen; C. O. Pearson, George Newmiller, Frank E. Splane, and J. L. Burnett of Franklin.

Gone on a Bat.

The U. S. Expressmen in Jersey City will be astonished tonight on opening a cigar box consigned to them, to find within it a dead bat placidly holding a cigar in its mouth and saucily saying by placard "Have a cigar, you bat!" The creature was caught by the employes of Superintendent Mills in the Plainfield office last night, and was boxed as a joke.

Positively No Credit.

FISHING REGULATIONS.

Americans Want To Angle in Canadian Waters.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 10.—The Dominion government has decided to take some action in regard to the protests entered by Americans who are now summering at Alexandria Bay and other points on the St. Lawrence against the obnoxious fishery regulations which prevent Americans fishing in Canadian waters.

Hayter Reed, assistant superintendent general of Indian affairs, is at Alexandria Bay investigating the whole matter. It is generally believed here that the result will be a change in the regulations in the directions asked for.

JOHN AND MARION RETALIATE.

They Sue Isaac H. Wernberg, of New York, for $20,000.

Boston, Aug. 10.—John and Marion Manola-Mason, the actors, have brought suit against Isaac H. Weinberg, of New York city. The writs are returnable in September in the superior court. The plaintiffs claim that Wernberg falsely, maliciously and without probable cause instituted and prosecuted a criminal charge, at the same time knowing that he had no cause justifying a criminal complaint, and that he secured the issuing of a warrant for their arrest by false statements made by him to Judge Burke.

Broke the Record.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 10.—George C. Smith, representing the New York Athletic club, who is here training for the races to take place here to-day and to-morrow, broke the half-mile record yesterday of Champion Zimmerman from 1.07 to 1.03. Smith made this good time without the aid of a pacemaker.

—Wait for Thatcher.

AFRAID OF CONSUMPTION.

People who lose flesh are in danger of consumption. Light weight is too often a sign of some "wasting disease," which gets its start from indigestion. Cure the indigestion and health is rapidly regained.

Paskola, the pre-digested food, prevents indigestion by its wonderful invigorating and nutritive properties. For loss of vigor, dull feelings, headaches, constipation, sour risings and other symptoms of dyspepsia it is a sovereign cure.

Paskola rapidly increases the weight. Under its nourishing power the hectic flush soon leaves the consumptive's cheek the skin assumes the hue of health, the night sweats cease, the cough dies away, and the emaciation is lost under a coating of solid, warm and normal flesh.

Paskola is not medicine but a food, pleasant to the taste and agreeable to the weakest stomach. Being pre-digested it is absorbed by the system the instant it is swallowed.

A pamphlet giving full particulars about Paskola will be sent on application to the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade st., New York.

ENGLAND'S GRADUATE HEROINE.

Miss Ada Maria Jane Elizabeth Johnson and What She Accomplished.

A nut brown maid, with cheeks as red as roses and a mass of dark hair almost too heavy for the shapely head—that is Miss Ada Maria Jane Elizabeth Johnson, the heroine of the day, the young lady who stands alone in the first division of the first class in the second part of the Cambridge mathematical tripos. Truly she is a "sweet girl graduate" (without the degree), this youthful mathematician who has "beaten all the men," as she sits high up in her little room in Old hall reading her letters and still aglow from an exciting game of her favorite pastime, tennis. From the tree tops, deep below in the lovely grounds of Newnham, comes the warble of a blackbird. The air is sweet with the scent of many roses on the small table in the center of the room at which Miss Johnson sits, fingering her congratulatory letters and telegrams. A bow of magnificent oriental poppies blooms in the corner, a striking contrast to their airy, fairy cousins—a vase full of Iceland poppies, dainty and delicate, of deep orange and pale lemon tints and of silvery white. Perhaps all these decorations are tributes, too, to the successful girl student, as are the letters and the telegrams.

She bears the burden of her splendid success cheerfully, and as she sits there blushing, and blushing again, there is absolutely nothing about Miss Johnson that suggests the grave and ponderous and formidable scholar, a vision of whom may appear to the inward eye of the "outsider," reading about the studious Newnham girl who has "beaten all the men" and demonstrated once again the fact, which needs a good deal of demonstrating in certain quarters, that a woman, too, may "stand and work" as well as a man and yet remain untainted by the particular taint of the "shrieking sisterhood."

She is eager enough to talk about her hall, her college and about the generous way in which her fellow students have shared with her the joy at her success. Indeed they had a dance on the Tuesday evening in honor of the girl who "beat all the men." But when it comes to talking about herself then Miss Johnson has only smilingly, and with the prettiest, because unconscious, bashfulness, to confess that "there is nothing at all to say."

But there is, after all, and what there is to say is well worth knowing were it only for the sake of encouraging other struggling girls who have no special educational advantages to go on undaunted, for this fair wrangler has had none of the "special advantages" by means of which ambitious parents have sometimes succeeded in bringing about a certain amount of success to their sons and daughters. There has been no cramming, no private coaching, "no nothing," except a good, sound elementary education. There are no board schools at Cambridge, but their equivalents, the so called higher grade schools, are there, and at one of these in Park street, Cambridge, Miss Johnson laid the foundation of her present success. Even as a child she was fond of mathematics, and after she left school she continued her favorite study, mostly alone, but not without some desultory teaching. For the last two years she has been at Newnham, and last year she took the first part of the mathematical tripos, standing in rank between the fifth and sixth wranglers.

Thus mathematics have never had any terror for Miss Johnson—in fact, she has handled her "problems" with much the same ease as that with which, as a member of the Newnham Tennis club, she handles her racket. But this year a slight doubt disturbed her serenity with regard to the result of the examinations, for when the great day arrived it happened that Miss Johnson, though there is absolutely nothing of the pale and haggard student about her, was not in her usual good health, but "run down," and therefore not quite at her best.

Hence she awaited the "list" with nothing but the most modest expectations. And then on the Tuesday it came out, to the joy of all Newnham, and in the evening the girls danced—the fair mathematician and all the rest—danced for joy that one of them, and one of the most girlish ones to boot, had fought so successfully. Now playtime has come. Today all the big boxes and trunks that lined the long corridors of the halls yesterday afternoon have gone off in all directions. Newnham is holidaying, and Miss Johnson, among the rest, is thinking of pleasures only, for the present. Tennis and walking are the forms of play in which she delights, and now she has actually come to think of cycling. Such is the latter day lady wrangler, reveling in games, young, spirited, glowing with strong health, and not afraid of problems, be they connected with Euclid or with what the French call cyclisme.—Westminster Budget.

Bank of England Women Clerks.

A new employment for women has been opened by the Bank of England, which has for the first time this year found work for six lady clerks—work that their quick fingers and thorough accuracy enables them to perform with great skill. Their duties are to count and compare the banknotes which, having been in ciculation, return to the bank never to be reissued. Lady clerks were employed in Messrs. Barings' office four or five years ago, where they were required to count over the dividend warrants and compare them with the counterfoils issued for interest warrants of foreign loans paid by the house.

A pretty and ingenious "toy" has been provided for his majesty Alfonso XIII of Spain, the youngest monarch in Europe, and the little king has been initiated into military life by taking the command of a battalion of troops varying in age from 5 to 8 years. There are 700 of these baby soldiers, and they wear the blue uniform and red cap of the "miquelet" Spanish regulars. The weapons have all been specially made to suit the infant requirement. All the different classes are represented in this battalion, from the small son of General Tolaviega down to the sons of laborers and artisans. The drummers are perhaps the most amusing and picturesque members of the party. Their enthusiasm for their work is boundless, but the organization is strictly according to rule, and an officer of the San Sabastian garrison has been drilling the recruits and their officers for a month past.—Westminster Gazette.

LEGGETT'S PHARMACY.

TENTING LAST NIGHT.

This Lawn Party Had Novel Features and Was a Delight.

A charming lawn party with novel features was given by Thomas Hovell at his home on Raymond avenue near Front street last evening. About 60 from Plainfield and the borough, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Brooklyn and New Brunswick attended. The night was cool, and nothing interfered with the general enjoyment.

Singing and music began the evening. The grounds were lighted with many Chinese lanterns, and the effect presented as the guests sat about under the trees listening to the music from the piazza was very pretty.

A tent, lighted within and with one side of thin muslin for a curtain, was a prominent object station in front of the house. Its use was soon shown to the guests when a series of elaborately arranged shadow pantomimes and tableaux were exhibited.

The programme, presented with careful posing and excellent effect, was as follows:

SHADOW PANTOMIMES.

Daughter of the Regiment—
Miss Minnie Hovell

A Game of Cards—
Elliott Collins, Isaac Enyard of New Brunswick

William Tell.....Wm. and Walter Tallman

The Three Graces—
Misses Grace Meeker, Minnie Hovell, Eva Falls.

The Three Disgraces—
Elliott Collins, Isaac Enyard, William Tallman.

The Dentist.....Walter Miner, Elliott Collins

Flirtation.....Miss Millie Hovell, Wm. Tallman

Boxing.....Elliott Collins, Isaac Enyard

The Human Windmill—
Walter Miner, Isaac Enyard

Liberty.....Eva Falls

The Water Cure—
Thomas Hovell, Elliott Collins

The Grand March.

TABLEAUX.

The Gambler.....Elliott Collins, Isaac Enyard

Moral—The Prodigal Son's Return—
Miss Grace Meeker, Wm. Tallman

Mercy.....Miss Meeker, Isaac Enyard

The Rescue—
Miss Enyard, Walter Miner,
Isaac Enyard, Miss Mae Carpenter,
Wm. Tallman, Elliott Collins.

Justice.....Miss Grace Meeker

Gypsy Maid.....Miss Mae Carpenter.

Charity.....Miss Miner

Moral.....William Tallman, Isaac Enyard

Clinging to the Cross.....Miss Carpenter

After the programme a collation was served. Then dancing in the parlors began to music by Mr. World of Brooklyn and assistants from Scotch Plains and New Brunswick.

BISHOP VINCENT'S BROADMINDEDNESS.

The Ex-Plainfield Preacher Sends Hearty Greeting to His Roman Catholic Brethren.

There is a good deal of "Christian charity" in the world, after all. The Catholic Summer School, an institution modeled after that of Chautauqua, is in session at Platteburg, and at the same time Bishop Vincent's School is in session at Chautauqua. During the session of the Catholic School Wednesday, Rev. Thomas J. Conaty, its President, received the following telegram:

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., August 7.

By vote of 5,000 Chautauquans tonight, Chautauqua sends greeting and best wishes to the Catholic Summer School.

JOHN H. VINCENT.

The telegram was received just before Father Pardow's lecture on "The Papal Encyclical and the Bible", and was read to a crowded audience which received it with enthusiasm and loudly applauded it", and then sent the following reply:

The scholars of the Catholic Summer School of America are deeply grateful for Chautauqua's cordial greeting, and send best wishes to Chautauqua in return.

THOMAS J. CONATY, President.

Certainly that was very much better than hurling anathemas at each other, and seeking for points of disagreement by which to show the world that they were filled with all uncharitableness towards each other. Evidently "the world moves", notwithstanding the efforts of the A. P. A. to prevent it.

Then They'll Come Home to Hunt for Jersey Office.

Senator Foster M. Voorhees, Assembly Charles N. Codding and Judge J. B. Greeh of Westfield will start for the woods next Saturday. They will do their best—says The Elizabeth Journal—to get where no papers can reach them, where no telephones can call them up, where no constituents can call them down, and where they will have a chance to take a well-earned rest for about three weeks.

They will go first to Portland, Me., thence to Farmington, thence to the Rangeley Lakes, and thence to a place called Tim Pond, fifty miles away from any railroad and about eighteen miles from the Canada line. They will lodge in log huts, catch trout and eat them, hunt deer and kill them, if they can.

Must Get the Permit First.

The officers of the Salvation Army are preparing to hold weekly outdoor meetings. If a permit can be obtained from the Mayor the first will be held tomorrow night. The place has not been definitely decided upon.

Social Gazettes.

N. H. Guttman's band will go to Cranford tomorrow night, as the concert at the Arlington Hotel will be given tonight. Another social dance has been arranged for next Thursday evening.

ON A NEW CAMPAIGN.

Local Republicans Already Up and Doing.

Having settled up the $150 deficiency in the treasury of the last campaign, by subscriptions which were quickly paid when the quiet call was issued, the local Republican machine has started in on its work of another year.

At the meeting of the County Republican Committee today, the local Executive Committee presented for sanction the names of the following Plainfielders in nomination for election inspectors at the Fall election:

First Ward, First District—Geo. W. Moore, E. R. Coriell; Second District—G. Thorn, Samuel Wakefield.

Second Ward, First District—John Doane, John M. Messersmith; Second District—David Hand, Edward Willis, Jr.

Third Ward—B. Frank Coriell, M. Marvin Dunham.

Fourth Ward, First District—A. Angleman, Wood Titsworth; Second District—J. B. Higgins, John Dixon.

The committee will begin to hold weekly meetings for the preliminary campaign work early next month.

HER EXPERIENCE.

One of George Thatcher's Actresses Meets With an Experience About Gotham, Not Down in the Play.

It was during the slack hours of trade and travel about that busy centre of Gotham marked by the intersection of Liberty street and Broadway, when, one day last week, up from the Jersey Central ferry there tripped a bright young creature with dancing eyes, laughing lips and beautiful auburn hair, dressed in the daintiest of gingham gowns, but her shoes that now and then peeped from beneath her skirts were covered with dust; that red variety that suggests at a glance the thought that Plainfield or vicinity was in all probability her place of abode.

She encountered on the corner the bootblacking chair of a little old Italian, tattered and torn, who has long been a familiar feature of that part of Broadway. He differed nothing from his accustomed appearance as he monotonously solicited business from the passersby, yet it was destined to be a glorious day for him, and to grant him that meed of fame that rarely comes to the "lower five" of sunny Italy who are sojourners of New York, save by the use of stiletto or knife.

Beauty looked at the chair, rested her orbs on the face and figure of the Italian, mentally calculated he was to be trusted with her tiny feet, gazed up and down the street rapidly, but comprehensively, and then mounted the chair.

The ancient-boot-black lifted his eyes, saw sitting in his chair the fairest vision that had ever rested on his soiled and polished cushion and then looked down to the feet so confidently placed on the foot rests.

The old man knew his business. He was not to look at faces, but at feet, and forthwith he drew out his brushes, clothe and dressing. All this took but a moment, then the trouble began for Miss Jersey.

A messenger boy toddling along with the usual hot weather gait, and ready for any excuse to stop, caught sight of the girl in the chair. "Gee Whiz"! was his ejaculation, and he stopped.

Somehow or other the street began to fill up. Men sprang from every doorway, and all looked at the girl. There she sat, her eyes riveted on the Italian, as he washed the clinging, tell-tale dust of New Jersey from her No. 2's.

One shoe was almost polished. She looked up, and gave a startled glance at the crowd, now numbering nearly one hundred. "Goodness gracious"—she said, and with a bound was on the sidewalk, pushing her way through the crowd, and in less time than it takes to tell had boarded a moving uptown cable car.

The Italian was dismayed, the crowd laughed, and an old gentleman came up and paid the five cents, muttering: "John, my office is near here; next time she comes I'll shine 'em myself."

It would n't be fair to tell the name of the young lady, but a hint to those who contemplate witnessing the first performance of "About Gotham" in Music Hall Thursday evening, Aug. 23—the Mrs. Trolley of the play might know more about the above occurrence than you could get her to admit.

Half Rates to Washington, D. C., and Return, via Pennsylvania Railroad.

For the Biennial Encampment of the Supreme Lodge and Grand Encampment of the Knights of Pythias of the world, to be held at Washington, D. C., August 27 to September 5, inclusive, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell, from August 23 to 28, inclusive, round-trip tickets to Washington and return at rate of a single fare for the round trip. These tickets will be valid for return passage until September 6, with a further extension of time until September 15, obtainable by depositing tickets with joint agent at Washington on or before September 6. This arrangement will afford a rare opportunity to all to visit the National Capital.

Stop-off at Philadelphia and Baltimore will be allowed on tickets through those points.

Round-trip tickets from Washington to Baltimore and return, limited to two days, including day of sale, can be purchased during this Encampment at rate of $1.25 each.

Racing for $100.

Good sport will be afforded to lovers of horseflesh at the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Association, Park avenue, tomorrow. The races will begin at 2, and admission is free. Besides the general racing there will be a trotting match for $100 a side.

For pimples and all other conditions resulting from constipation, go by the book on Beecham's pills.

Book free, pills 25c. At drugstores; or write to B F Allen Co., 365 Canal st, New York.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

Mrs. Nancy Wilcox of Front street is quite ill.

Arthur W. Humes of Scotch Plains died early this morning.

Dr. Coles is repairing the lookout tower on his place on the mountaintop.

The hastily constructed backstop fencing on the ball ground is to be extended.

Thomas Walsh of the mountainside has purchased another new trotter and road wagon.

Miss Jennie Frentz of Westfield avenue has gone to New York to spend a week with friends there.

A son a few days old makes happy the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walsh on the mountainside.

Business is dull with the quarrymen, and the carters from the stone-crushers have nothing to do.

Mrs. John Marsh and Mrs. John Johnson went Wednesday to Asbury Park to remain there three weeks.

John Tice has given up his position as coachman for John R. Marsh, Jr., and is now working for John L. Force.

James McNair, formerly of the Plains, now a resident of Brooklyn, is spending his vacation with Richard Robison.

The Misses Sheridan of Brooklyn, who visit the Plains each Summer, are spending a week at the Hessinger house.

Charles Stout is grading and tree-planting and making other improvements about his place on Mountain avenue.

Town Clerk Edward L. Hand has issued a call for a meeting of the Township Committee to be held next Monday evening at 8.

The church yard of the Baptist Church has been much improved by work in weed-pulling and general cleaning up of the walks.

John Bornman has about completed the new house which the Misses Hayes of Fanwood are erecting for their occupancy.

John L. Force, the new manager of the West Side House, has purchased a new ice-box from John Rafferty of Park avenue, Plainfield.

Policeman John Flynn of Plainfield was welcomed by friends and visitors about the Plains Wednesday, after an absence of about a year.

Augustus Frentz of Westfield avenue commenced work again with his force of carpenters and builders, after an idle spell of a week.

There was a sad and weary look upon the face of the cycler who punctured his rear tire in the Plains yesterday afternoon and walked to Plainfield.

Rev. J. S. Braker will return from Ocean Grove, where he has been spending the week, to conduct the services in the Baptist Church Sunday.

Peter Nagle anxiously awaits the return of the black and tan hound which ran away from him several days ago and has not been seen since by any of the neighbors.

Blackberries are plentiful. Two women anxious to have the season's canning done with, picked forty quarts on a lot on the Coles property on the Westfield road Wednesday afternoon.

Constable W. R. Mattox of Plainfield yesterday afternoon served a dispossess warrant procured in Justice Newcorn's Court by Mrs. Brown of Newark against David Ross of Westfield avenue.

The Epworth League connected with the Methodist Church have three girls from Springfield avenue, Newark, enjoying a week of country pleasure at the home of William Day on Mountain avenue.

In spite of the interest taken in the sport by neighboring towns, Scotch Plains seems to have decided to have nothing to do with cycling. Those of the boys who ride think it is impossible to start a club, or arouse enthusiasm about the wheel in any way.

Vincent J. Sisser, the new hotel proprietor, will race his black trotting mare against a stranger's pacer next Saturday afternoon. The event will be decided on the driving park south of Plainfield in the rear of Ellis Campbell's club-house. The stakes amount to $200.

The Young Stars are playing well for a junior team. Their latest victory was over the Eagles of Plainfield, Wednesday afternoon near the Scott Press Works, when they defeated their opponents 19 to 11. A game with a North Plainfield team is scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Dr. Coles of the mountaintop has not yet recovered the valuable Italian greyhound which he lost the first of the week. He offers a reward and will be very grateful for the return of the animal. It is said that the dog was last seen Tuesday morning at 9:30, running along Mountain avenue in the direction of Springfield.

George Johnson is doing good work on the Scotch Plains team, keeping in practice by daily pitching with a few of the players on the new grounds. He came to the Plains fresh from a successful series of games as pitcher and outfielder on the Kingston team, from which he received a good salary.

Gathering potatoes is the work of the farmers at present. "Doctor" Charles Layton contemplates a profitable crop from the seed he planted on shares on Mrs. Buckley's land on Elm street. Jacob Messler has purchased a new digging machine, and is working on the field grown by Fred Clark and John Flannery.

Nearly 60 people of the Plains and Fanwood have applied for membership in the choral society which Rev. J. S. Braker of the Baptist Church has started to organize. It is expected that about 75 will join at the organization meeting in the latter part of September, the date of which has not yet been fixed. Miss Hannah Hayes and William R. Buckley are securing names.

The Plains ball-players are still discussing what they term the mean treatment of the "Crescent" team of Plainfield, a body of men who promised to play them last Saturday afternoon and then failed to show up or report a reason. They expect no hitch tomorrow afternoon, when they will go to Rahway to play with a Y. M. C. A. team. It is claimed that the Plainfielders will not dare come to the Plains while Pitcher Johnson remains with the club.

The stereopticon lectures in connection with the Sunday evening outdoor services of the Baptists are proving very popular. The congregation last Sunday night was the largest that Pastor Braker has preached to since he came to the charge. The next lecture, Sunday evening, will also be on the life of Christ, following up the thoughts of last time.

Dunellen and New Market.

Miss May Gise spent yesterday in Sewaren.

Jacob Snell rode his wheel to Somerville yesterday afternoon.

Miss McKnight of Jersey City is the guest of Miss Mary Hague.

Mrs. H. Whitney of New York is stopping at The Pines, New Market.

Miss Linde Beever of New York is visiting Mr and Mrs. W. R. Hetfield.

The sale given by the Outdoor Industrial Club on Dr. Brakeley's lawn yesterday afternoon was a great success. A large number attended during the afternoon and evening, and most everyone made a purchase to encourage the young folks and also to assist the Sick-Baby Fund. The members of the club deserve much credit for their efforts in such a worthy cause. The profits are about $12

Wm. Biker, coachman for Frank Covey, was awakened Wednesday night about 12 by the barking of a dog which is kept at the barn. He got out of bed, and, looking toward the barn, saw that someone was striking matches. Mr. Biker dressed, and, taking a revolver, went forth. When he reached the barn and entered it he heard voices, and one person said "Here he comes". Just then he stumbled over a saddle which lay on the floor. When he regained his feet he turned and saw two burly Negroes. The strangers ran and escaped in the darkness. Four shots were fired from the coachman's revolver, but without effect. Several attempts have been made to break into the barn recently, but Wednesday night's experience will probably keep intruders away in the future.

The Girl Found, Through The Press.

Edith Florence Besfer, for whom inquiry was made through the columns of The Press last night, has been found as a direct result of the publicity thus given. The girl was put in the Children's Home about three years ago by Ed Murphy, coachman for Constantine P. Ralli, who after she was left an orphan secured that disposition of her through motives of humanity. Mrs. Kimball of the Home states that the girl is in the best of hands and will be restored to her grandmother as now requested.

Ice-Water for the Hoss.

A farmer drove up to 147 North avenue yesterday afternoon and began to draw a pail of ice-water from the glass case in front of the Hygiene Ice Co. The ice melted slowly, and as he waited a group gathered and watched him.

He was finally asked if he intended to water his horse and when he replied in the affirmative the effect of ice-water on a horse and the location of a warmer fountain were explained to him.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy." Mrs. Morgan, 93 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

Astonishing

Are the prices that we are selling goods for at the present time and our competitors wonder why we can sell at such low prices. It is not a secret. We buy for cash and sell for cash. For this week we offer the following specialties:

50 dozen ladies Japanese silk handkerchiefs at 10c worth 19c; 25 ladies serge suits from $3.25 to $6.25. These prices are for one week only. Ladies Tuxedo suits in blue flannel at $2.98 worth $3.50; 500 Brussels carpet mats 27 inches long at 25c each, cannot be bought elsewhere for less than 50c. We have 10 pieces of that damaged calico left which we are closing out at 5c per yard.

We are always studying your interest and it pays you to buy from us. If you purchase 50c worth or over you are entitled to an elegant sheet of music.

GAVETT'S

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

FACTS AND FANCIFUL SKETCHES FOR THE FAIR SEX.

Margery Daw Speaks Plainly to Young Ladies in Society.—Fashions and Various Matters of Interest and Importance to the Feminine Mind.

"One of the things that helped my recovery," said a woman, recently, who has just regained her health after a serious illness, "was a pretty bed jacket which my sister brought me one day in lieu of jellies and fruit. It was becoming, and I enjoyed it. The doctor, when he first saw me in it, said I looked 20 per cent. better than the day before; man like, he didn't appreciate the reason, and my spirits, and, consequently, my condition, bettered in proportion. Too often invalids are wrapped in any old thing that is handy. I remember laughing once when a friend in robust health showed me a dainty lace-trimmed sick gown, 'for me,' she explained, 'if I ever need it.' The notion struck me as absurd when she was never ill, but after my experience with that bed jacket, I appreciate better the value of attractive environment under depressing circumstances."

The Pretty Dotted Muslin.

This dainty Summer dress from Harper's Bazar is of dotted Swiss muslin, white with green dots. The skirt is slashed into tabs which are edged with flat lace. The foundation skirt of plain muslin beneath is covered on the spaces between the tabs with pyramids of puffed dotted muslin. The front of the waist is mounted in puffs with horizontal rows of insertion. The back is plain; two rows of insertion define a belt, below which are slender lace-edged tabs forming a basque.

COMMERCIAL TOLERANCE.

How Far Should a Girl Be Influenced by Good Times?

Margery Daw replies to the question of a fair correspondent in this wise:

It is a pity that the relations between men and women are so often commercially regarded, whether consciously or not. Many men seek to buy the favor of women with theatre tickets, American beauty roses, or, it may be, gum drops. To their credit it should be said that they do not often realize that they are buying, or seeking to buy, tolerance, not respect. A man, for example, is fascinated with a woman. He is distasteful to her. Unless he sent goodies she would never spend an evening with him. The lady reasons that he bores her, that she likes candy and does not care for him, and that he ought to pay for her society in what she likes. This seems to be your own position. I do not believe that any woman can trade her apparent friendship, for such association implies her confidence in a man, for any small wares, without lessening her self respect. Your letter shows me that you are somewhat irritated with yourself. Analyze your motives, and you will see that you are selling your society for petty treasures. You can afford to go to the theatre alone and sit in the top gallery better than to lessen your pride as you have done.

As long as you accept the gifts of the man he has, according to usage, a claim on your favor. Refuse his invitations and he will not annoy you with his attentions. It is, no doubt, a temptation to a girl to accept theatre invitations if they are not otherwise frequent with her, but her reasoning with herself is based upon the unwomanly idea that her friendship may be gained by something short of manly worth. These are not idle words culled from a family story paper. There is a power which comes to a woman who does not compromise with the dictates of her heart. I once knew a girl who said she should keep herself and her thoughts true to her ideal, whom she had then never met. She did do this. Her associates were chosen wisely, and she had no more flirtations than if she were actually betrothed to the best man on earth. Finally she met one whom she loved. He was a great man, honorable, rich and as nearly the one of her fancy as flesh can be to imagination. She married him, is very happy, and her advice to those who are fortunate enough to know her is "Do not waste yourself on men whom you do not respect. Keep in mind the sort of man you want to marry, and he will one day come."

Wine at Dinners.

Among the novelties in connection with dining that would astonish the grandfathers could they revisit the glimpses of the moon is the comparative absence of wine at so many large banquets and home dinners. The number of men who prefer mineral waters or non-alcoholic drinks is constantly increasing. Even hot water is brought on at dinners for dyspeptic guests, but not as was formerly the case with plenty of lemon, sugar and something else to keep it company. Even where wine is used it is now very exceptional to have half a dozen kinds of wine served at a single banquet or dinner.

KITE TIME.

Now for the kite!
Hold the string tight,
Madly the wind is a-blowing.
See how she flies!
Swift through the skies,
Straight to the sun she is going.

A courtesy so odd,
To play with his lordship she's trying.
No use, little kite,
You've finished your flight,
Already the wind is a-dying.

SOME TIMELY FASHIONS.

A Stylish Silk Blouse for Women and a Useful Dress for Misses.

The stylish silk blouse pictured here is taken from Harper's Bazar, which gives this description of it:

This white silk blouse is shirred full on the shoulders and at the waist. The neck is cut across in a shallow square, barred with a band of embroidery, from which three inserted points descend. The belt is of similar embroidery with the points ascending, and the wrists are bordered to match. A double ruffle edges the back of the neck and the armholes, and three ruffles—three, five, and six inches deep—form a basque.

Misses' Dress.

This dress, with full skirt and straight lower edge, is for girls from eight to sixteen years of age. It is from the Delineator, which says that pretty effects are achieved with thin materials, and then gives this particular description:

The dress here represented is, made of white dotted Swiss and magenta velvet. It may be with a high or a low neck and with elbow or long sleeves, as illustrated. The skirt is full and deeply hemmed at the lower edge, where it measures about two yards and a half round in the middle sizes; it is gathered at the top and falls in soft, graceful folds from the full, round waist to which it is joined. The waist has a full front and full back shaped in low, round outline at the top and joined in under-arm and shoulder seams; it is provided with a high-necked lining fitted by single bust darts and under-arm and side-back gores and is closed invisibly at the centre of the back. The fullness is prettily disposed at the top of the full front in four rows of shirring, the upper one being at a sufficient distance from the upper edge to form a frill finish; and the fullness at the lower edge is drawn toward the centre by a short row of gathers; gathers are also made at each side of the closing in the back to draw the fullness toward the centre. The lining revealed above the waist with round yoke effect is faced with the Swiss, and at the neck is a close-fitting standing collar. Very full, drooping puffs that extend to the elbow, are adjusted over the smooth, coat-shaped sleeves; they are gathered at the top and bottom and are tastefully topped by ripple caps of magenta velvet. The caps taper narrowly toward the end and are deepest at the centre, where they droop over the sleeves in a point; they fall in pretty, soft folds, but are perfectly smooth at the top. The waist is encircled by a girdle of velvet, which presents pointed upper outline at the centre of the front and is of belt depth at the sides and back, the ends being closed at the centre of the back.

A BAD TEMPER

—generally accompanies a torpid liver and indigestion. An in-door life often brings on this condition; there follows anæmia, or lack of blood, frequently another worse effect—that of Dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the restorative tonic and liver invigorator which will positively cure just such cases.

Mrs. F. A. Orr.

Mrs. F. A. Orr, of Corbett, Baltimore Co., Md., writes: "Physicians pronounced my case acute Indigestion. If it had not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets I firmly believe I would have been in my grave, for nothing did me any good until I began taking them. The 'Discovery' also cured my child of night-sweats and a weak stomach, which followed an attack of Pneumonia. We cannot praise your medicines too highly." Sold by all medicine dealers.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say, he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify, with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD

Cessation of Strikes Tends To Improve Trade.

Rhode Island and Massachusetts Woollen Mills Receive Numerous Orders—Business in Various Cities Exceeds Anticipations—Failures Show a Decrease from Last Week.

New York, Aug. 11.—Evidence continues to accumulate that the earlier portion of July witnessed the lowest point in the ebb of the commercial tide, in the reaction after the moderate revival in the spring. As reported exclusively in Bradstreet's last week, July bank clearings this year furnished a list of twenty-nine cities with larger aggregates than last year, while the June report furnished only eighteen cities with totals larger than in June a year ago. The clearings total for six days ending with Thursday is $774,000,000, or 1.2 per cent. larger than in the week previous, but 2.6 per cent. smaller than in the second week of August last year, when bank clearings totals became very small.

The practical cessation of various severe industrial disturbances of the year has emphasized the tendency to improvement reported by telegraph from leading manufacturing and commercial centres this week. A further indication of the tendency to improvement is seen in the week's advance of 50c. per ton for steel billets, and in the fact that domestic wool markets today are more in favor of the seller than they have been for a year, and that wool is firm at the 2c. advance scored in the last few weeks. Refined sugar is ⅛c. higher, possibly, for reasons not directly connected with questions of demand and supply, but prices of pig iron at St. Louis are higher, and for cotton are 1-16c. upon reports of damage to the crop and the improved feeling in commercial circles south. Leaf tobacco and leather are both firm, with an active demand, the tendency of prices being upward, and the recent destruction of lumber by fire at Chicago has steadied quotations. Panic and unreasoning speculative interest in Indian corn has put up the price nearly 8c. a bushel this week, about 25c. above low water mark for the year.

Rhode Island woollen mills have received numerous orders on account of smaller importations due to the expected adjustment of the tariff, and cotton manufacturers in that state have thus far taken no action looking to the reduction of wages, as at Fall River, Mass.

American and European total available supplies of wheat decreased 4,100,000 bushels net during July, against a decrease of only 1,200,000 bushels in July a year ago, and 674,000 bushels in July, 1892. Last month's sharp falling off in the world's stocks is due to an unusually heavy July decrease in European supplies and those afloat therefor, because stocks at home increased exceptionally last month. Exports of wheat, United States and Canada, both coasts, this week aggregate 3,417,000 bushels, against 2,077,000 bushels last week, 5,018,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 4,148,000 bushels in the week two years ago, 5,147,000 bushels in the week three years ago, and 1,993,000 in the week four years ago.

The total number of business failures in the United States reported this week is 197, against 220 last week, 474 in the second week of August, 1893, 138 in the like week of 1892, and 213 in the corresponding week of 1891.

Boston reports Massachusetts cotton manufacturers find business unsatisfactory, but manufacturers of men's wear woollens report products moving freely, Both Buffalo and Pittsburg report an improvement in the general trade extending to several important lines, building, demand for money, staple groceries and iron and steel. The feature at Baltimore is that the month's trade thus far exceeds anticipations.

Relatively the most favorable report thus far this year regarding the demand for and the movement of staples is received from western and northwestern cities this week. The comparatively unfavorable reports are from Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha. At the first, while trade is fair, damage to the crops from drought west and southwest has prevented buyers from making as large purchases as expected. But dry goods and lumber are moving actively, and demand for funds is increasing.

ZIMMERMAN'S SPEED.

Partly Ascribed to an Abnormally Large Heart.

London, Aug. 11.—Zimmerman's manager said in an interview that Zimmerman is earning at the rate of 2,000 a year. He netted more than 2,000 in Paris, much of which he sent to America to be invested. The manager partly ascribed Zimmerman's speed to his abnormally large heart. He said that doctors had expressed the opinion that Zimmerman's heart was two inches longer than the average, and consequently had greater working capacity.

Vote To Continue the Strike.

Fall River, Mass., Aug 11.—By a vote of 111 to 6 the King Philip mill weavers voted to continue the strike that has now been going on about nineteen weeks. Out of 2,800 looms in the mill 1,400 are in operation.

JAPS LEAVING CHINA

Hundreds Have Closed Out Business at Shanghai.

Will Be Protected Against Hostile Demonstrations of the Natives—News of the War Brought by the Steamer Peking—Why Li Hung Chang Was Divested of the Jacket.

London, Aug. 11.—The Central News correspondent in Shanghai telegraphs that the final exodus of Japanese residents has begun. Some 600 Japanese, who have closed their business here indefinitely, will leave Shanghai to-day for home. The Japanese postoffice has been shut. Every precaution has been taken to prevent any hostile demonstration of the natives against the emigrants.

Sir Edward Gray, under secretary of the foreign office, in answering Sir Ellis-Ashmead-Bartlett in the house of commons yesterday said that Great Britain would hold Japan responsible for the loss of British life and property resulting from the sinking of the Kow Shing.

San Francisco, Aug. 11.—The steamer Peking, just arrived here, brings the following advices about the Japan-China war. Most of the news comes from Japanese sources:

In a telegram from Seoul under date of July 27 it is made to appear that the Japanese minister brought great pressure to bear on the Korean government for the withdrawal of its Chinese troops from Asan, asserting that as Korea had been declared a free state the Chinese troops should be sent out of the country, otherwise Japan could not rely on the good faith of the Korean government. The Japanese minister urged in addition to the withdrawal of the Chinese troops from Asan that Korea decline to send annually an ambassador to China, as has been the custom.

The Japanese government received the following communication from its minister at Seoul, under date of July 22:

"The Korean government has refused to accept proposals of the Japanese government, and as it does not appear likely that it will reconsider the matter, it is unavoidably necessary to make fresh resolutions and thorough preparations have now been made. The Koreans request the Japanese minister to withdraw the Japanese troops from the country, and also the proposals made by the Japanese government to the Korean government on the ground that if Korea adopts Japan's proposals, other powers will dispatch forces to the kingdom and make similar demands, thereby embarrassing, as well as forcing the Korean government to do their biding. Korea will make the various internal reforms only after the departure of the Japanese troops from Korea. Korea is undoubtedly instigated by China in this course."

The story of the encounter between the Japanese and Korean troops before the palace at Seoul is related as follows in the Japanese Gazette of July 24:

"Yesterday morning there was a skirmish between Japanese and Korean troops outside the royal palace at 8 o'clock, and the Korean troops offering resistance, there was a fight for twenty minutes, after which the Koreans were dispersed and fifty of their arms fell to the Japanese hands."

Another account of the skirmish brought by the City of Pekin is as follows:

"The Korean government, having given a most insolent reply to the minister's second demand, the minister saw the futility of any longer negotiating with the Korean officials and intended to go this morning to the palace to communicate directly with the king. Before this the king resolved to call to his aid his father, Tai In Kun, and seek his counsel on the present condition of the country. On this being communicated to the king's father he hesitated, as he feared the Bin family would, on hearing of this, prevent him by violence from going to the palace. The king was at length obliged to ask the Japanese minister for an escort of Japanese troops for Tai In Kun. Mr. Otori sent an escort to Tai In Kun, and at 8 o'clock the Korean troops, under the Bin family's instructions, fired at the Japanese troops, who fired back. The fight ceased in about twenty minutes. Tai In Kun went to the castle in safety with Mr. Otori. They had an audience with the king, who backed the minister in connection with his demands, and assured him he had no intention of rejecting them. Tai In Kun was appointed at the head of the government. He will remain at present in the palace. The Bin family, which is at the bottom of the present trouble, through its selfish ambition, will lose its power, as Tai In Kun is known to be its enemy."

Another account says: "To Mr. Otori's second demand the Korean government returned an insolent reply, and the castle shows signs of great disturbance. The minister placed himself under escort of Japanese troops and was going to the royal palace when the Korean troops fired at him. The Japanese troops responded and the fight was over in twenty minutes, when the minister went to the palace."

The announcement is made in a dispatch from Seoul that the flag of the Czar is flying from the island of Getsubito. The Russian minister has acceded to the request of the queen of Korea and her relatives, the Bin family, to give her protection in case of emergency.

A prominent Japanese newspaper, in the course of an argument in favor of making war on China at the present time, says the surplus in the treasury amounts to almost nine million yens, to which should be added five million yens accruing in the twenty-seventh fiscal year from the surplus for various expenditures. This money can be used as a war fund, because there is no pressing need for its use locally. The government has the power by a word of command to divert this fourteen million yens to war purposes. This amount would pay for the war only for a short time, and the same newspaper advocates, as a means of raising the necessary sinews of war, the increase of the note issuing power of the bank of Japan. It may be increased from 85,000,000 to 120,000,000 yens without affecting the national credit or currency in the least.

The Kokumin correspondent says in regard to the sentiment of Koreans:

"The majority of Koreans are satisfied with being dependent on China. They believe China and Japan cannot act in conjunction, but deny that Japan is friendly to them. They prefer being partly or altogether dependent on another nation to being independent. The Takakuito are powerful enough to crush the central government some day unless the latter is assisted by foreign troops.

Word comes from Shanghai that the powder mills at Kiang Lan are in operation day and night, turning out over 10,000 pounds of explosives each day. Orders sent to Japan for coal cannot be filled, and the Chinese government has reserved the whole supply from the Kelung mines.

Intelligence comes from Vadivostock that three regiments of infantry, a corps of engineers, seven war ships and other forces are being prepared for transportation to Korea, but the object is not known.

The proposal to make the port of Jinsen neutral in case of war has been rejected by the foreign ministers. The Chinese minister was excluded from the meeting because he had not the proper credentials in the opinion of the ministers from other powers.

The Tekio daily papers have been suspended frequently by the government for publishing war news and alleged secrets of the Japanese government of a terroist character, but the publishers have been compelled to arrange for interchange of subscription lists during their retirement.

A Portuguese who has been stopping at Koba has been proven to be a spy for the Chinese government, also negotiating for the purchase of coal.

THE YELLOW JACKET.

Taken from Li Hung Chang To Make Him Brace Up.

London, Aug. 11.—The Standard's correspondent in Berlin confirms the United Press dispatch of August 3 announcing that Li Hung Chang had been divested of the yellow jacket in consequence of his remissness in prosecuting the war. The correspondent says that his information comes from a high diplomatic source and is unquestionably authentic.

The emperor's object in treating the viceroy as he did was not to disgrace him in the eyes of the world, but simply to reprove him for dilatoriness. The rebuke merely signifies that the war is to be prosecuted in earnest, and that the viceroy will be held primarily answerable for the issue.

The correspondent learned from the same diplomatic source that it is China's intention to continue the war until Japan's strength is exhausted and she is compelled, perhaps by the powers, to sue for mercy and for pardon for the Kow Shing affair, which greatly irritated the nation.

FOUGHT OVER BRECKINRIDGE.

Tom Pepper and Judge Kinkead Have a Lively Tussle.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 11.—Judge Kinkead, one of Hon. W. Owens' supporters here, and Colonel Tom Pepper, of Tom Pepper whiskey fame and a Breckinridge man, had a lively fight in the wine room of the Phoenix hotel last night. J. Hull Davidson, Tom Pepper and Judge Kinkead were drinking when Pepper became offended at a remark of Kinkead's about Breckinridge, and used some insulting language to the judge, who struck him with his walking stick and then landed several times with his fist. They clinched, but were separated by Davidson and Hotel-Clerk Morgan.

THE POPE REJOICES.

Receives Converted Clergymen from the Church of England.

London, Aug. 11.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says the pope has received several clergymen who were recently converted from the Church of England. The pope said he rejoiced at their conversion. He and his successors would be prepared to sacrifice all except the custody of the sacred deposit of truth to welcoming back those separated from the fold by schism and historical events.

Hartford's Population.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 11.—According to the city directory, just published, the population of Hartford is 65,042, estimated on a basis which was verified by the last government census. This is a gain of nearly 12,000 since 1890.

THE ROCK ISLAND WRECK.

Eleven Persons Were Killed and Four Injured.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 11.—The wreck which occurred on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad involved the loss of eleven lives, one engine and two cars. The accident occurred where it crosses on a high trestle the tracks of the Union Pacific and the Burlington and Missouri River railroads. The dead are:

C. D. Stannard, conductor, Council Bluffs; perished in the flames; leaves a family.

William Craig, fireman; buried under engine; leaves a family.

Ike Depew, Council Bluffs; buried under engine.

Grain dealer of Fairbury, name unknown; burned to death in the wreck.

Five travelling men, names unknown; buried under car and burned to death.

Two farmers from Jansen, Neb., en route for South Dakota; burned to death.

The injured are:

C. H. Cherry, postal clerk; terribly cut about the face and head.

Fort Scott, express messenger, back injured and cut on the head.

O. S. Bell, Lincoln, traveling man; injured internally.

MINERS RESCUED.

They Had a Miraculous Escape From Death.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 11.—The two Polanders, John Maronski and Frank Regelsky, were found alive by the rescuing party in the Bellevue mine yesterday and were brought to the surface, very weak from hunger and thirst, but unhurt.

As soon as it was learned that the men were imprisoned a large force was put at work in the old mine workings, and by tapping on the coal the imprisoned men were quickly communicated. They had been almost miraculously preserved from being crushed to death by falling masses of rock and coal, and when reached stated that when they found themselves cut off they never expected to escape with their lives. They said that when they were warned by the miners to flee they became bewildered and ran toward instad of away from the danger.

MAY WORK OVERTIME.

Builder Cook Claims that Union Men Have that Privilege.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 11.—Charles C. Cook, a builder of this city, employs about one hundred joiners and has several important contracts on hand. He pays union wages, and the men work union hours—nine hours per day. He also has non-union men in his employ. Being anxious to complete a contract for a large house at Simsbury, the men on the job agreed to work ten or eleven hours per day, with extra pay. The union objected to the men working overtime and they were ordered out. Mr. Cook promptly discharged all the union men. The local union held a meeting and all the men went back to work. Mr. Cook claims to have established the principle that union men may work overtime for pay when necessity requires.

THE NEWARK AT CAPE TOWN.

She May Be Despatched on a Voyage of 8,000 Miles To Korea.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Commodore Kirkland, commanding the South Atlantic station, on board the Newark, has announced his arrival at Cape Town by a cablegram to the department. All were well on the vessel.

The Newark will spend two weeks or more in dock at Cape Town, and it is likely that Commodore Kirkland will leave her there and join the Chicago in European waters, where he is to hoist his flag as Admiral Erben's successor. There is some talk of sending the Newark from Cape Town to Korea, a distance of 8,000 miles

MAY SETTLE IT TO-DAY

The Tariff Fight Nearing the End.

A Report Says the Senate Intends To Kill the Bill Outright—The Air Full of Rumors of Plots and Counterplots—Conferences Held by Enemies and Friends of the Measure.

Washington, Aug. 11.—To-day is looked upon as the time set for the battle royal in the protracted struggle over the tariff. Last night there were numerous conferences on the part of both the friends and the enemies of the bill, and the air was full of rumors of plots and counterplots that had for their purpose the safety or the destruction of the tariff measure over which, for well nigh a year, congress has been wrangling. One of these conferences is said to have been held at the white house, while another on the part of those interested in the preservation of the house bill was held at the Arlington hotel, at which Chairman Wilson and Mr. Isadore Strauss, who is a close friend of the president, were present. In an upper room of the hotel another conference was engaging the attention of certain republican senators, aided by ex-speaker Reed, and it is needless to say that this talk boded no good for the success of the tariff bill, which is, if the present programme is to be carried out, to be put to the supreme test to-day.

One of the most startling rumors of a week that has been prolific of rumors is that which was vouched for by a prominent senator and told a reporter of the United Press was a plot in process of incubation that meant nothing more or less than the laying of violent hands on the tariff bill and its presentation to the house for the purpose of having that body accept the senate amendments and pass the bill. It is said that the house conferrees have become possessed of information that leaves them no room to doubt that it is the intention of the senate to defeat any report that its conferrees may make, and then kill the tariff bill outright. The house conferrees are determined, according to this story, to defeat this alleged scheme at all hazards, and with that end in view have decided that they must take the bill back to the house and present it to that body for action regardless of its parliamentary standing or any of the precedents of the senate or of congress.

There is a diversity of opinion among senators as to the status of the bill. The majority, however, hold that the bill and the report must come back to the house granting the conference and not to the body asking it. In this case the senate granted the conference. It is held, and all the precedents, not only of congress, but of the house of parliament show that under all forms of parliamentary laws the original bill that went to the conference belongs to the house granting the request for the conference.

On the other hand most of the house people claim that they have authority for their position in the Reed manual, which those who have examined into the question closely say gives the right to the bill to the body originally asking for the conference. In this case the situation would not be changed, for the senate is the body that first asked for the conference. A careful canvass of the authorities on parliamentary law would appear to uphold the contention of the senate that it alone is entitled to be when it comes from conference, and that the senate must act upon the measure before it can possibly reach the house. If the senate has really made up its mind to defeat the bill, nothing but a resort to the most desperate measure can get the bill into the house, where it might be saved from an untimely death by the acceptance of the senate amendments. Should this be done its accomplishment would only be secured by a violation of all former practices. The senators who were informed of this alleged plot in discussing the matter last night said that if the house attempted to pass the bill in this way they doubted very much if the act would be constitutional, and declared that a remedy would be found by the senate. The bill would, under the conditions here outlined, be signed first by the speaker of the house after enrollment and would then come to the senate for the signature of its presiding officer.

It was asserted that under such circumstances, the senate, taking umbrage at the insult to its dignity, would pass a resolution directing its presiding officer to refrain from attaching his signature to the enrolled bill, and thereby defeat the final official act that would send the bill to the president.

This story, dealing as it does with a situation entirely without parallel in the history of the American congress, can scarcely be credited, but it was believed by a number of leading senators, and the initial steps have already been taken to prevent action of this kind should it be contemplated on the part of the conferrees for the house.

AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

Counterfeiter Murphy Has Been Wanted for Years.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The secret service of the treasury find in the capture of J. W. Murphy in Connecticut this week a man for whom they have been looking for for a number of years. His true name is said to be Charles W. Hill, and he it is who engraved the first counterfeit plate of the treasury $10 note with the head of Webster upon it at Dayton, O., in 1888. He also engraved the $20 counterfeit Garfield note. Murphy is reported as having confessed.

New Masonic Temple.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 11.—The corner-stone of the new Masonic temple in this city will be laid Monday, September 3, with appropriate ceremonies, in which the grand commandery and visiting bodies of Masons will take part. There will be a parade and banquet in the evening.

STATUS OF THE TARIFF

Mr. Hill Starts Another Discussion on It.

Wants the Senate Conferrees To Report Whether They Are Likely To Agree—The New York Senator Issues a Statement and Says Further Delay Is Inexcusable.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Senator Hill started a two hours' discussion on the status of the tariff bill by a resolution which he offered directing the senate conferrees to report to the senate whether they were likely to come to an agreement, and if not, to report to the senate a disagreement, and also to report the principle items of disagreement, so that the senate might take action thereon. The resolution was offered just after the senate had refused, on a yea and nay vote, to go into executive session for the purpose of considering the treaty with China. The vote was 21 to 32—all the republicans voting "no," backed by the two populist senators, Allen and Peffer, and by five democratic senators—Gibson, Blanchard, Hill, Murphy and Pugh. The significance of the vote, however, applied to the tariff bill rather than to the treaty. The Hill resolution was then offered and Mr. Harris, of Tennessee, one of the democratic conferrees on the part of the senate, stated that they had encountered serious difficulties and had reached no agreement. The three principal items in controversy, he said, were sugar, coal and iron ore; and he expressed the hope that if the three were arranged, an agreement would be reached on all other matters. He was asked by Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, one of the republican conferrees, whether the bill was in possession of the senate, and he replied, most positively, that it was not. On that statement Mr. Sherman said that he would object to the present consideration of Mr. Hill's resolution; but he was warned not to do so by a chorus of "no, no," from republican senators, and he withheld the objection.

It was renewed, however, by Mr. Gray (dem., Del.) and after a long desultory argument on points of order the vice-president sustained the objection, and the resolution went over, under the rule, until to-day, when some interesting remarks on it may be heard from Mr. Vest (dem., Mo.), another of the conferrees—Mr. Vest having expressed himself in favor of the resolution, so that he may have an opportunity of telling all that he knows on the subject and contradicting the "false issues" raised by the newspapers.

Mr. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, one of the republican conferrees, made an adroit movement to keep the matter before the senate by offering as a substitute for Senator Allen's resolution—presented a week ago—to discharge the finance committee from the consideration of his bill for the relief of the several states of the Union (which came up regularly under the rules) a resolution instructing the tariff conferrees to report a disagreement, but this failed by lapse of time. What was left of the morning hour was dissipated in the argument of points of order on the substitute; and then the senate went into executive session, and at 4:30 adjourned.

House of Representatives.

The session of the house was almost wholly taken up with the consideration of the first conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill. The principal subject of discussion was the appropriation to enable the government to make an exhibit at the Atlanta exposition, which afforded an opportunity for several "bridge the bloody chasm" speeches, that were applauded warmly. The vote on the amendment showed that the house, three to one, favored making the appropriation, but wanted it to be in the form of the house bill on that subject.

DELAY INEXCUSABLE.

Senator Hill Gives the Tariff Conferrees a Dig.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Senator Hill last night gave out the following statement in regard to his action in reference to the tariff bill:

"My object in offering the resolution was to expedite the disposition of the tariff measure. Every day's delay is injurious to the business interests of the country, and the bill should be disposed of one way or another. It has now been under consideration in conference committee for over a month, and further delay is absolutely inexcusable. The conferrees ought to know each other's minds by this time, and if they cannot agree the fact of such disagreement should be reported to the two houses when, if no understanding can be reached upon a bill, Congress should promptly adjourn and give the country a rest. We have now been in session for nearly a whole year, and have had ample opportunity to legislate. A senator or member who does not know exactly what he wants to do on the tariff question after all this time spent in useless deliberation is unfit to represent any constituency.

"We have deliberated enough. We want action. Let the two houses take the bill out of the hands of their conference committees and proceed to vote at once upon the disagreeing provisions, and if no agreement can be reached let the whole matter go over until the next session and let congress adjourn to give the business interests of the country a chance to recuperate from the present depression.

"Congress must arouse from its lethargy and should act in accordance with public sentiment and not in defiance of it. These are my sentiments, and I believe they are the sentiments of nine-tenths of the people of both parties."

Confirmed by the Senate.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The senate has confirmed the following postmaster nominations:

Maine—Thomas J. Goodwin, South Berwick; Charles E. Bliss, Bangor.

New Hampshire—Edward E. Carlton, Farmington.

A NEW MAN OF HIM.

What Paine's Celery Compound Did for Sheriff Sinnott.

While the sun shines the farmer makes hay.

Men and women whose store of strength and nervous energy has fallen so low that it barely keeps them through the day should fill their veins now with fresh blood full of red corpuscles, and store the million tiny nerve cells with energy by means of Paine's celery compound, while it is summer and the sun shines.

There are now few drafts upon the strength of the body; no winter colds to resist, nor spring languor to drag one back. It is amazing how rapidly it is now possible to lay up nerve force and vigor, over and above the daily expenditure. Those who suffer from kidney trouble, liver or stomach weaknesses and rheumatism find no time so suited as the present to overcoming these diseases by giving these overworked, poorly fed organs blood that is rich and pure in quality and sure to invigorate.

This is what Paine's celery compound is doing all over the country while it is summer and while every one feels that now is the time to get well.

That most remarkable blood and nerve remedy of this country—Paine's celery compound—makes new, vigorous, red blood; removes disease from vital organs by richly feeding worn out nerve tissues all over the body and building up the strength of the body—that is why it makes people so quickly well.

Prof. Edward E. Phelps, E. D. LL.D., of Dartmouth College, first prepared the compound. It has met the hearty approval of physicians and scientific men all over the world.

It makes people well.

Says Deputy Sheriff John Sinnott of Whitehall, N. Y., whose portrait is given above:

"In my opinion Paine's celery compound is the best remedy in the world; I have been troubled with inflammatory rheumatism some 12 years, some times crippled for 3 months at a time. A friend told me to try celery compound, and I am now on my 12th bottle, and it has made a new man of me. I heartily recommend it to every one troubled with rheumatism.

It makes people well."

He was in Pottsville, Pa., on a business trip, when the news of his bereavement reached him, and had barely time to come to Plainfield for his wife and hurry away again to be present at the obsequies today.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman received a letter from her husband last night stating that Mr. Green of Cranford joined the party in Oxford and went on the coaching trip. All are well, and enjoying every moment. The excursionists will rest and attend service in Edinborogh tomorrow. They sail on the Umbria next Saturday. Mr. Honeyman will conduct a White Mountain excursion August 27.

The 5 o'clock train from New York, Conductor Joe Ross, was hand-braked yesterday afternoon, the air brakes not working. This made it five minutes late in Plainfield.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

REINHART IS SUED.

MAKES FORMAL RESIGNATION TO ATCHISON DIRECTORS.

Says He Does Not Wish to Retard the Reorganization—Mr. Male Resigns from the Protective Committee—Chances of Prosecution for Violation of the Provisions of the Inter-State Commerce Law.

Late yesterday afternoon it was officially announced that J. W. Reinhart of Netherwood had tendered his resignation as President and director and as receiver of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company.

This announcement was made by Mr. Reinhart himself in the following statement:

On Aug. 8, Mr. Reinhart, before receiving or being officially informed of the contents of Mr. Little's report, sent the following letter to the Board of Directors of the Atchison Company and a similar letter was also placed in the hands of W. H. Peckham of Westfield, counsel of the Union Trust Company, to be presented to the Court:

To the Board of Directors of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company.

GENTLEMEN:—I hereby tender my resignation as President and Director of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company, and I request that you will forward a copy of this resignation to each of the auxiliary companies composing the system, and that the directors of such companies will please consider such copy as my resignation as President and Director of each of said companies.

The recent examination of the accounts of the company, undertaken with my hearty approval, has called attention to certain methods of statement which have been the subject of much adverse criticism. So far as I have seen, no imputation has been made upon my personal integrity, or any suggestion that I have profited to the slightest degree by reason of the matters criticised.

Certain features of my administration have, however, been so generally criticised that I feel, whether rightly or wrongly, I am no longer in full harmony with those interested in the property.

I am satisfied that my further continuance in the Presidency of the company might be an obstacle in the way of a speedy and successful reorganization of the property. I have no desire to impair in any way the efforts now being made, or which may be made hereafter, to put the property on a sound basis for successful operation.

Under these circumstances it seems hardly fair that I should continue to operate the property, even though confident, as I am, that ultimately my course will be found to have been to the interest of all.

I wish to add, in justice to myself, that I am also impelled to take this course by the fact that my health has for some time been seriously impaired and I do not feel that, even under the most favorable conditions, I ought longer to continue the strain and responsibility of the position.

Thanking the Board for the confidence reposed in me, I remain very respectfully,

J. W. REINHART.

It has been well understood for some time that Mr. Reinhart had determined upon this step, and the formal announcement occasioned no surprise. In the face of the disclosures made by Expert Little of extraordinary methods of accounting under his management there was no alternative left him.

A meeting of the Atchison directors has been called for 10 o'clock this morning, and if a quorum is obtained his resignation will be accepted. There was a rumor that D. B. Robinson, now First Vice-President, will be elected in his stead, but this could not be confirmed. It is not known yet whom Judge Caldwell will appoint in Mr. Reinhart's stead, or whether the vacancy will be filled at all. None of the lawyers interested was willing yesterday to express an opinion on this point.

Mr. Reinhart was appointed a receiver with John J. McCook and Joseph O. Wilson of Topeka, Kan., on Dec. 23, 1893, by Judge Henry C. Caldwell of the United States Circuit Court, sitting in Chambers at Little Rock. The application was made by the Mercantile and Union Trust Companies of New York. He was elected President of the company in March, 1893, after the death of his predecessor, Allen Manvel. His first connection with the company was in 1888 when he became its general auditor of the auxiliary lines, and was the chief promoter of the reorganization plan of 1889. From 1890 until his election as President he was First Vice-President and General Auditor of the Atchison system. He is only 43 years old.

The sub-committee, consisting of R. Somers Hayes, Robert Fleming, and John Luden of Hope & Co. of Amsterdam, to whom Mr. Reinhart's answer to Mr. Little's charges was referred, met yesterday morning, but took no action upon the subject.

William H. Male, President of the Atlantic Trust Company, sent in his resignation yesterday as a member of the Atchison Protective Committee.

It is said that steps have already been taken to bring the matter of the rebates to shippers shown by Mr. Little to have been paid by the Atchison Company to the notice of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and that suits for violation of the Inter-State Commerce law will surely follow.

Summonses were received on Mr. Reinhart yesterday in two suits brought against him by Matilda Wallace, one for $50,000 damages, and the other for $5,300. The plaintiff alleges that she bought Atchison stock on the representations of the financial condition of the company made at various times by President Reinhart, and that the sums for which she sues represent the losses on her investment.

INVESTIGATING ACCOUNTS.

Latest Phase of the Christ Church Agitation.

At the officers meeting of the First Church of Christ at B. W. Hand's house last night, all attended except Elder Lunger. Financial matters were further considered, the aim being to investigate the claims of people who said they had subscribed money which had not been accounted for. The work was not finished. The seal was reported to be under way in the maker's hands. The meeting was adjourned until Monday evening.

A CORNER IN LAW.

LOCAL LEADING LEGAL LIGHTS FORM A POWERFUL PARTNERSHIP.

Learning That It Is No Better for Lawyers Than for Laymen to Live Alone, Judge Coddington and Counselor Reed Agree to Mate in the Babcock Building.

Finding that more clients are anxious to tie to them than either can manage alone, City Judge Wm. A. Coddington and Counselor Charles A. Reed have agreed to tie together.

Until Sept. 1 they will continue their separate identities, and after that they will illuminate the legal world as Reed & Coddington, and those in difficulty or distress, or those who want documentary knots tied so they can't be cut, will find them mighty good counselors.

Both Mr. Reed and Mr. Coddington have been busy workers in the law in Plainfield about eight years. Mr. Coddington came here from Bound Brook, and Mr Reed from Somerville. Plainfield has found them model men of family, eminently honorable and upright in business, supremely zealous and faithful to every interest entrusted to them.

The people have rewarded their genius and diligence with a large and steadily growing patronage. Reposing special trust and confidence in them both, they made the one official counsel for North Plainfield, the other judge of Plainfield city.

They are young men, with energies strong and resolute, their intellect as vigorous as their physical powers are stalwart.

Up on the top floor of the First National Bank Building Counselor Reed has been cramped for room to handle all the business that came his way. Further down Front street Judge Coddington has been taxed to his utmost powers.

It is now a year ago since the idea of consolidation came simultaneously to these shining leaders of an honored profession. They agreed that a partnership between them would be a conservation of interests greatly to be desired. The next thing to be found was a place of business suitable for such a large clientage. This they found in the Babcock Building, and a month ago they made final decision to join issues, and secured the offices they wanted.

Their new headquarters will be at the corner of the palatial block, on the floor immediately overhead the busy bargain hive of Van Emburgh & Son. The suite consists of three apartments, so big that similar space on the floor above is cut into six large rooms. Here they will be quartered as sumptuously as any legal firm in the land.

The full conveniences and elegancies of the building are theirs. Huge windows flood the place with daylight, and electric fixtures turn night into day. Steam heat makes Winter Floridan. A passenger elevator conveys clients from street to offices and back again. The toilet arrangements are perfect, and hot and cold water are in constant supply. The offices will be furnished with the elegance and good taste to be expected from such cultured gentlemen, and the equipment will be perfect in every way. The library will afford everything of legal knowledge, and the brainy partners will be perpared to give their friends the fullest benefit of it all.

An important feature of the partnership will be that one of the partners will be always on duty ready to serve clients speedily. At present when either of them is out of town on business other business accumulates in the office, and the partnership will enable one of them always to stay in town to give home matters personal and immediate attention.

The Daily Press and the legion of other friends of both partners will unite in wishing for Reed & Coddington a continuation of the successful achievements that have been Coddington's and Reed's; and that continuous success is sure.

The Daily Press a Selected Medium.

[From The National Advertiser.]

A small amount of advertising of the Home Tablet Co., of 259 West 34th street, New York, is being placed in selected mediums by F. W. Nostrand, of the Tribune Building, New York. The Home Tablet Co. manufactures a number of standard remedies in tablet form.

No Defendant Appeared.

Justice Sperry decided the case on contract of John Steiner against Nicholas VanWinkle yesterday afternoon by rendering a judgment of $65 in favor of the plaintiff. As his counsel, Attorney Geo. DeMarest kept the defendant out of court and the case went by default.

MR. POND RESIGNS.

NO LONGER PRESIDENT OF THE MACHINE TOOL WORKS.

He Has Transferred All His Stock to His Successor, Eugene Maxwell—The Company Continues to Bear Its Founder's Name.

David W. Pond of West Seventh street is enjoying a vacation of more than usual freedom from business cares, having resigned the presidency of the Pond Machine Tool Company and as yet having entered into no other business connection.

Mr. Pond, whose father founded the company in 1847, was given recently an opportunity to sell his stock and has accepted the offer, transferring all his interest in the business to Eugene Maxwell, of the firm of Manning, Maxwell & Moore, the representatives of the company on Liberty street, New York.

The sale of his stock of course brought with it his retirement as president, and in this office Mr. Maxwell succeeds him. The name of the company will not be changed, and the business methods and connections which have made that firm prosperous under the excellent management of Mr. Pond will be continued.

Says 'Tis'n't So.

The rumor that Charles Kaeding was married last week to Miss Carrie Drake of Arlington avenue was denied by Mr. Kaeding this morning.

—David Barry is prospering. He is going to be married in a month, and will run a horse and wagon as master mason. It will be a white horse.

—For assaulting A. E. Hoagland, John Newman was sent to jail for 30 days, and James McCauley fined $10. Newman got 10 extra for drunkenness.

Mrs. Cleveland's Courteous Tact.

Every now and then, writes a Buzzard's Bay correspondent of the New Bedford Journal, I hear from private sources instances of the great tact and courtesy of Mrs. Cleveland toward her neighbors of the Cape, which is the secret of her popularity with them. The Cape is Republican, but Mrs. Cleveland is above par with nearly everybody. I heard an old bronzed sea captain, very polite to ladies, as most of his craft are, tell how he sent Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth several sea ornaments, among them, as I remember, a whale's tooth, and what letters of acknowledgment he received in reply! I made out from his story that if Mrs. Cleveland had been writing to an emperor she would not have been more punctual and deferential than she was to this simple hearted, chivalrous man of the sea, and his face as he was telling us the story was lighted up as a knight errant's might have been when descanting on the virtues of his lady. "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

The Girl That Blooms In Summer.

This is sweltering summer. It brings many bodily discomforts. Collars wilt, brows drip, tempers sizz, and the whole system sags and becomes soggy. But summer more than atones for these torrid tortures. It gives us the joy diffusing summer girl. You need not go to the seashore or the mountains to feast your eyes on this living picture of loveliness. You can see her in the early morning and toward the close of the afternoon on the city streets. She's as gorgeous as a French water color. Her clothes are made up of the happiest of hues. She is a charming sublimation of the rainbow. And no matter what she wears, whether it be as red as a lumber yard on fire in the nighttime or as white as a flake of snow, she always appears to be as cool as a cucumber and as comfortable as an icicle on an arctic whaling boat's yard-arm. She defies the heat, and her serenity sometimes lowers the temperature for us. May her cheerful charms of person and "togs" never wane!—New York World.

Boston Said Oh! and Ah!

People saw something on the streets yesterday that caused them to "oh!" and "ah!" a great deal, and modest folks doubtless received an awful shock.

A remarkably pretty woman astride a bicycle was got up in the most mannish costume I have yet seen in these days of dress reform. She wore trousers which fitted her—beg pardon—legs not much more loosely than a man's, and there was no sign of skirt of any sort. She wore knickerbockers, pure and simple, made apparently of corduroy, of a bright brown color, and white leggings. The jacket was made to match and was very natty. The girl had a very trim figure, but the way every one turned and stared showed that but few people have ever seen those things in real life before. The effect was not particularly immodest, and the girl was apparently oblivious to the sensation she was creating—a great deal more so, I think, than her escort, for she was not braving the world alone.—Boston Record.

An Astor Who Lectures.

The world of thinking women now counts Miss Margaret Livingstone Chanler among its lecturing enthusiasts coming out boldly for female suffrage.

She is the second sister of William Astor Chanler, the returned explorer of Africa, who is now with his sisters at the family country seat, Ardmore, at Barrytown-on-Hudson. How would their gracious grandmother, Margaret Armstrong Astor, marvel at their strange departures! Fortune gave them opportunity to be idlers, but they show the energy of good stock well developed. On the 22d of June the youngest sister of the family became of age. The event was duly celebrated at "Rokeby." The formalities of the legal settlements incidental to the coming of age of the youngest of the Chanler family will be adjusted on the other side. Miss Margaret acquired her fearlessness of public speaking through association with her aunt, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 12. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Whole hearted service.—Eph. vi, 5-18.

As Christians and as Endeavorers we have pledged ourselves to serve God. One of the leading characteristics of the service that God requires of us is that it should be a whole hearted service. Let us notice:

1. Whole hearted service is demanded of us. God requires us and demands us in His word to serve Him. Nor is this service to be grudgingly given, with no interest in it. We are to serve God in singleness of heart and with a perfect heart. This applies to all classes of Christians. Paul applies it in our reference to servants and also to masters. God's laws are the same for all classes. No one will be justified or excused for serving God half heartedly. God may take the will for the deed when the heart is in it, but He will never take the deed for the will when the heart is not in it. Our whole hearts must be in our service of God, or it counts for naught.

2. Whole hearted service is reasonable. When our Christian duty calls upon us to do something for others, and they do not appreciate our labors, it may seem to us as if we were excused from having our hearts in the work, but not so. The true Christian looks beyond those who are the immediate beneficiaries of his labors to Christ. He works for Christ no matter for whom he labors. Man may fail to appreciate and reward us, but our Master never does. We are not working to please men, but to please Him who died for us. Let us remember that His eye is always upon us, and let us therefore put our entire beings in our service for Him.

3. Whole hearted service requires us to have on the whole armor of God. Satan will constantly tempt us to evil. He will try to draw away our minds and our thoughts from our work. He will try to discourage us by recalling our imperfections and weaknesses, and also try to lead us to doubt even God. With the mind filled with doubts, we cannot serve God whole heartedly. To defend ourselves we need God's armor, the girdle of truth, the breastplate of righteousness, the sandals of the peace of the gospel, the shield of faith, the helmet of salvation and the sword of the spirit and prayer and watchfulness. Let us love and serve God with our heart, soul, mind and strength.

English Christian Endeavor Convention.

One hundred new Christian Endeavor societies were organized in England recently in one week. This makes over 1,500 Christian Endeavor societies in the British section. The national convention which was recently held in the Metropolitan tabernacle in London crowded that immense structure. One of the leading papers of London says, "It was a phenomenal and epoch making gathering, and in itself an object lesson as to the immense force and vigor underlying the movement. As the gatherings showed no perceptible fluctuations, for at each meeting the Spurgeon tabernacle was crowded, it is evident that the Endeavorers stuck conscientiously to their convention, leaving the attractions and sights of London unseen." Among the speakers were Rev. Thomas Spurgeon and Rev. F. B. Meyer. On the platform at one time were representatives not only from prominent English towns, but also members from America, New Zealand, India, Tangier, Australia and even Madagascar. One of the sessions was presided over by a member of parliament, Mr. A. E. Hutton, who is also a prominent Endeavorer. The movement in the United States was officially represented by Hon. John Wanamaker, representing, as he did, the United Society of Christian Endeavor in his capacity as trustee. Mr. Wanamaker received an ovation and was a great help to the convention.

So it is to be seen that the movement promises the same great future that has become history in the United States. Indeed the Christian Endeavor society is becoming more and more a worldwide organization.

Christian Endeavor's Varied Work.

For all its myriad forms Christian Endeavor has its well marked characteristics visible in all its undertakings. As Rev. F. B. Everett well says, "Floating Endeavor among the sailors, life saving Endeavor among the life savers of our coast, police Endeavor among our city policemen, reform Endeavor in our penal institutions, traveling Endeavor among commercial travelers, missionary Endeavor for the unconverted heathen, senior Endeavor for the old people and junior Endeavor for the children are all phases of one and the same work."—Golden Rule.

Australian Endeavorers.

The latest mail from Australia brings enthusiastic accounts of immense conventions held in the island continent. Australia has even more Christian Endeavor societies now than England, and the growth in this country under the southern cross rivals that in this land.

The Phebe Bird In Spring.

The water drips from the mossy eaves
In jewel drops on last year's leaves;
The earth is wrapped in a vale of mist,
And through this gauze of amethyst
Comes the phebe's note, so clear, so sweet,
The call of the phebe bird:
"Phebel Phebel Phebe!"

The sun is shedding its rosy glow
On tufts of crocuses, white as snow,
That bloom by the old stone wall,
And from the woods by the waterfall
We faintly hear, so clear, so sweet,
The call of the phebe bird:
"Phebel Phebel Phebe!"

The breath of violets most rare
Is wafted on the gentle air,
While from each mead and ferny dell
Comes a plaintive note like a silver bell,
So piercing fine, so clear, so sweet,
The call of the phebe bird:
"Phebel Phebel Phebe!"

A NATION'S WEALTH.

A THOUSAND AND THIRTY-NINE DOLLARS FOR EVERY ONE.

Riches Shift. The South, which had Most in 1880, and the West, which had Least, Change Places According to the Last Census.

The steady progress of our country and our people in wealth, notwithstanding periods of comparative depression and of general discontent, is brought out clearly in a series of reports derived from the researches of the Eleventh Census, lately published by the government.

One report presents the true value of all real and personal property in the United States, exclusive of Alaska. From this it appears that the total value in 1890 was sixty-five thousand milliondollars, against forty-three billions in 1880, an increase of nearly one-half in ten years.

Were all the property evenly divided among all the people, there would have been one thousand and thirty-nine dollars' worth for each one in 1890, against eight hundred and seventy dollars' worth in 1880. This is an increase of a little less than one-fifth.

Put in another form, the average addition to the value of each person's property in ten years was one hundred and sixty-nine dollars, or nearly seventeen dollars a year. Of course we all understand that the property is not distributed evenly, nor have all the people made an increase of wealth during the period of ten years. The census takes note only of aggregates and averages.

We must remember this again when we come to examine the figures which show the average and total wealth of each geographical division of the country. The census can tell us how much all the property in Michigan is worth; but it cannot tell what part of its copper mines are owned in New England, or how much of its railroad property is owned in New York.

The geographical division which possesses the greatest body of wealth, real and personal, is that officially called the North Central, which begins with Ohio and extends westward to the foot of the Rocky Mountains. This section possesses more than twenty-five billions of total wealth, against twenty-one billions for the North Atlantic division, usually called "the East."

In wealth per capita these two geographical divisions are nearly equal. The average in 1890 was for each not far from twelve hundred dollars.

But the richest section—supposing all the property to be owned by the people residing within it—is the Western division, stretching from Wyoming to the Pacific Ocean. It possesses an average wealth of more than two thousand dollars to each person. The wealth of Nevada, equally divided among all its people, would give them about four thousand dollars each.

On the other hand, the two Southern divisions are the poorest of all, having property to the value of less than six hundred dollars to a person; and a division of all the property of South Carolina among its people would not yield three hundred and fifty dollars to each.

This represents a great change since 1860, when the Southern states averaged greater wealth per capita than those of the North and West. Then the Western states, too, averaged poorer than the East, whereas now the reverse is the case.

Another tendency with regard to property is shown in the statistics of the leading manufacturing industries just made public. As a rule, the industries show a great advance in capital employed, wages paid and value of product from 1880 to 1890; a smaller proportion of increase in the number of employees, and in a great many cases a marked decline in the number of establishments engaged.

This seems to show that, while the industries have been growing greater and richer, they have been concentrating in fewer hands.

By far the greatest item in our national wealth is still, as it has always been real estate—land and the improvements upon it. This item comprises nearly two-thirds of the whole. Of the real estate valuation, just about one-third was for farm lands, including fences and buildings, but not including live stock, farm implements and machinery.

All these items showed an increase of from one-fifth to nearly one-half in ten years; though in that time the value of farm products increased but little more than one-tenth. The farming business has expanded in a much larger measure than its profits have increased.

THERE WAS NO QUORUM.

The Congressman's Daughter Applied One of Her Father's Rules.

The Congressman's daughter was receiving a young man whom her father had no earthly use for, and he was kicking on it as hard as he could, but the girl was serene.

"Daughter," he said the other morning, "wasn't that young squirt here again last night?"

"No, sir," she responded, promptly.

"I know better. I saw him as I came in."

"Where did you see him?" she asked as cool as may be.

"I saw him in the parlor talking to you."

"But he was not there, I tell you," she insisted.

The father was greatly shocked.

"My dear child," he said, "I can hardly say it, but I must, and I say you are deliberately lying to me."

The girl not even so much as changed color.

"It does look that way, doesn't it?" she smiled, "and I used to think that sort of thing was lying myself, but I've been up to the House of Representatives a great deal in the last month or two, and I've seen you a lot of times sitting there while they were trying to get a quorum and particularly heard you say you were not there, though I saw you there, and so did everybody else, and it went. Now, Charlie and I are running our business on the same principles, and so, while you may see him here, he is constructively absent, and we'd like to know what you are going to do about it. See?"

The interview ended at that point, and that evening Charlie was promptly not present, just as he had been for many consecutive nights.—Detroit Free Press.

"That Wardwell woman needn't put on so many airs with her diamonds," said one Chicago lady to another one. "They ain't hers to keep."

"Whose are they, then?"

"Her husband's; and he put it in the marriage contract that she was only to have the right to wear them as long as she was his wife. He always fixes it that way."—Indianapolis Journal.

SPEAKER REED'S FAIR FOES.

Two of the Maine Statesman For His Wife and Daughter.

Few who know him would pretend to doubt the courage of "Tom" Reed under any circumstances. The man who calmly faces the wrath of the whole Democratic party and who smiles at the picture of Kilgore kicking down the doors of the House must needs be possessed of a few grains of "sand."

Incredible as it seems, however, there are times when the big man from Maine is a coward and confesses there are two persons on earth of whom he is absolutely afraid—his wife and his only child. Yet Mrs. Reed is a little woman, pretty and amiable, and Miss Reed, who adores her father, is a sweet-faced, brown-eyed slender girl, still in her teens. It is not in private life that Mr. Reed quails before his nearest and dearest ones, but in public, when making a speech, that he hates, above all things, to see his wife and daughter looking down upon him from the galleries.

The seats may be packed with all sorts of people, as they always are when he speaks, and if there were bombs in all their pockets, "Tom" Reed would go on serenely, without fear or favor. But when Mrs. and Miss Reed meekly declare their intention of being two of the spectators, he gets weak in the knees. The "Czar," the "Autocrat," the "Usurper," the "Tyrant" backs down ingloriously, and begs his wife and daughter to spare him and stay at home. He does not care a copper for the public, but he fears those gentle foes of his own household, and it is a great relief when he can persuade or bribe them to stay at home.

A FAMILY'S FORTUNE.

How Lost, How Restored.—A Story of the Kentucky Mountains.

"I had a glimpse of life in the Kentucky mountains the other day that I will not soon forget," said the capitalist. "I made a trip into that section as the representative of a syndicate to look at some coal lands. I went as far as I could, by rail, and then took a horse and rode into the wilderness. Toward night I brought up at a little cabin, of which I had been previously informed, and made arrangements to spend the night there.

"In this establishment were living a man and his wife and eight children, the oldest being 12 years. They lived on corn meal and milk, with occasionally some pork. Both the man and the woman were barefooted. The elder children had clothes enough to cover their nakedness, and the younger were not so fortunate.

After supper the man went out to feed the hogs and the cow and do other chores.

"I talked to the woman for about an hour, and succeeded with great difficulty in getting her story.

"We weren't always this way," she said.

"We were well off once. We saved enough, him and me, so that we were rich. We had $27 laid away once."

That was her idea of wealth. Twenty-seven dollars! She went on to say that the children had come fast, that a cow had to be bought, and that she cost $18. The children had fallen sick, and a doctor had to be brought in from civilization and he cost five dollars, and so it went till their fortune had gone, and they had nothing left of that magnificent $27.

The next morning I paid them my lodging. I had slept in the loft and the family had slept in the room below. I had brought with me a huge lot of roast-beef sandwiches, and ate those for my supper and breakfast, for I had been warned that I probably could not get anything to eat there. Before leaving I took $27, and, wrapping it up in a newspaper, left it on the table in the middle of the room. Then I rode away, feeling vastly pleased with myself, and knowing that there was one mountaineer's family in Kentucky that had recovered its lost fortune."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

TO FIND A STAR'S DISTANCE.

It Takes a Measure 186,000,000 Miles Long and Six Months' Time.

The measurement of the distance of a star is a very beautiful problem, and the fundamental principle is perfectly simple. It depends on the revolution of the earth around the sun. On the first of January the earth is about 186,000,000 miles from the place it will occupy on the first of July, because on those two dates it is at opposite points in its orbit, and the distance across the orbit is 186,000,000 miles. The diameter of the earth's orbit thus serves the purpose of a surveyor's base line. It is plain that the direction in which a star is seen cannot be exactly the same from both ends of that line unless the star's distance is so immense that the diameter of the earth's orbit bears no measurable ratio to it. Most of the stars are so distant that that ratio cannot be ascertained, but there are a few whose apparent places are appreciably different when viewed from the extremities of our 186,000,000 mile base line. According to Dr. Elkin, the position of Arcturus is thus shifted to the amount of .018 of a second of arc, and this is called its parallax. How exceedingly delicate the methods employed in measuring such a quantity must be can, perhaps, be understood when it is stated that .018 of a second of arc is equal to the apparent distance between the heads of two pins placed one inch apart and viewed from a distance of 170 miles!

Having ascertained the parallax of a star the next step is an easy one. Multiply the earth's distance from the sun, 93,000,000 miles, by the number 206,265, which is a mathematical constant that I shall not here undertake to explain, and divide the result by the parallax of the star. The quotient will be the star's distance in miles. If we apply this rule in the case of Arcturus we have 1,065,790,250,000,000 miles. In round numbers, one thousand millions of millions of miles, or about 11,400,000 times the distance of the sun from the earth. The reader may jot down in his note book the number 19,000,000,000,000, leaving off the less significant figures we have used above, and it will enable him to ascertain the approximate distance in miles of a star whose parallax is given, this number being used as a dividend, and the parallax, expressed in the form of a decimal fraction, as a divisor.—Garrett P. Serviss in N. Y. Sun.

GREELEY'S MEMORY.

THE PRINTER'S MONUMENT TO THE SAGE OF CHAPPAQUA.

Incidents of the Life of the Founder of the Tribune Recalled. The Bailing of Jeff. Davis and the Arraignment of the Union League.

The bronze statue erected to the memory of Horace Greeley, founder of the Tribune, by the contributions of the printers of the country, was recently unveiled. It is located at the corner of Broadway and Thirty-third street, New York. In the course of his dedicatory address, Congressman Cummings of the Sun, said:

The names of those who saved the republic are forever linked with names of those who created it. Lincoln and Grant recall Washington and Jefferson. Adams and Franklin were prototypes of Seward and Greeley.

Gladstone once said that "from the people of the thirteen colonies, at the close of the American Revolution, there came a group of statesmen that might defy the whole history of the world to beat them in any one State, and at any one time. Such were the consequences of a well-regulated and a masculine freedom."

He could have said more, for after this group of statesmen came a group of thinkers, authors, divines, orators, editors, inventors, artists, actors, and soldiers that has challenged the admiration of the world. Both groups have passed into history. In the second no figure stands more distinctive than the quaint personality of Horace Greeley. None filled the eye of the nation more completely and persistently; none excited more sympathetic interest, and none met a fate more sad. For thirty years his broad brimmed hat and white overcoat were as familiar objects in America as were the cocked hat and brown surtout of Napoleon in Europe.

Like Lincoln, Mr. Greeley was born in poverty and cradled in obscurity. Like Lincoln, he was a thorough American. He is frequently termed the second Franklin, but there were marked differences in the men. Franklin had wonderful intellectual energy tempered by the best of judgment; Greeley had equal mental energy, but swayed by the emotions of his heart.

All told, he attended a district school exactly forty-five months. The remainder of his education was gleaned in a country printing office. It sufficed him for the work of his life. He neither had nor did he believe in a collegiate course as a preliminary to the editorial profession. "Of all horned cattle," he once said, "a college graduate in a newspaper office is the worst."

He mixed with mankind, sympathizing with the poor and struggling, cheering workingmen with the cooperative and other suggestions, and often lending a helping hand to those least deserving of it. What wonder that he was idolized by speculative minds!

When the flag of Sumter fell, his preeminent patriotism put him to the front, and he struck direct at the vitals of the confederacy.

The ratification of the Thirteenth Amendment marked the zenith of his glory, and was the legitimate result of his aspirations and endeavors. It raised him into the foremost niche of the temple of fame. It made him a colossal figure in popular estimation. No man loved his country and his countrymen more than he. When the war closed, his was the first hand outstretched to his vanquished brethren. His appeal for universal amnesty rang throughout the land on the morning after Lee's surrender. His sympathies were freely extended to the ruined Confederates. But his appeals for generous treatment awakened bitter resentment in the North. How vigorously he defended his course the Tribune shows. Hear his vivid English:

"At once a concerted howl of denunciation and rage was sent up from every side against me by the little creatures whom God for some inscrutable purpose permits to edit a majority of our minor journals, echoed by a yell of 'Stop my paper' from the thousands of imperfectly instructed readers of the Tribune. One impudent puppy wrote me to answer categorically whether I was or was not in favor of hanging Jefferson Davis, adding that I must stop his paper if I were not. Scores volunteered assurances that I was defying public opinion, that most of my readers were against me—as if I could be induced to write what they wished said, rather than what they needed to be told. I never before realized so vividly the baseness of the editorial vocation according to the vulgar conception."

The bailing of Jefferson Davis, then the most condemned and unpopular act of Mr. Greeley's life, is to-day the most magnanimous and disinterested. It furnishes the keynote to his character and career. It reveals his Puritan independence, his intense passion for justice to every man, and his tenderness of his heart. This, and his earnest efforts to reconcile the sections, undoubtedly led to his nomination for the Presidency in after years, when the nobility and wisdom of his conduct began to be appreciated. He looked for political preferment. He wanted to become President of the United States. It was the only office that could fill the sum of his ambition. It was because he fancied that in such a station he could elevate honest labor and purge the public service of corruption. From the day that he went on the bond of Jefferson Davis to the day of his death he sought to save the country from the evils that trained in the wake of the great conflict.

ONE WORKINGMAN'S POLICY.

It Brought Him Prosperity and Honors, Both.

In the fall of 1857, after the failure of the Ohio Life and Trust Company, business came to a standstill. In New Haven, Conn., a few carriage shops kept a part of their force busy, but with these exceptions all the great industries of that county were practically closed.

Among the thousands thrown of employment was Hobart B. Bigelow, a journeyman machinist, who, after serving an old-fashioned apprenticeship, had been for two years working at his trade in one of the large shops of the city. Some six months before the panic began he had married, and the couple were housekeeping in a three-room apartment in a modest way. Bigelow had in the savings bank a deposit of somewhat less than $200, which he did not wish to draw upon if he could avoid it. He had been engaged in building engine lathes of a kind for which there was a steady demand when business was normal. When his employers dismissed all their men except two or three, who were kept to do any odd jobs that might come in and to keep the machinery of the plant in good condition, he went to them and told them he did not wish to be idle, that he understood the situation and knew that months must pass before a resumption of business activity could be expected. He asked them to let him come and work daily the usual number of hours, and continue lathe building, they to charge up against the finished goods the cost of castings, use of machinery, &c., and his time at his regular wages, the latter to be credited to him, and then, when lathes were again in demand, as fast as any were sold he should be paid for his work upon them and a specific percentage of the profit.

The firm consented. He then went to the tradesmen who supplied his family, told them of his engagement, showed them his bank book, and arranged with them that on the first of every month he would pay for one half of what he purchased during that time, and they would trust him for the remainder until the lathes were sold. Six mornings every week he went to the shop, carrying his frugal lunch in his dinner pail, and worked his ten hours as briskly as though times were good. The following spring there was a resumption of activity, the lathes went off rapidly, and before midsummer, Bigelow owed no man a penny and had more than $1,000 to his credit in the savings bank.

Nor was this all. A shrewd business man, one of those capitalists that labor leaders denounce had seen the young man going daily to his work, and had his curiosity roused sufficiently to make some inquiries about him. He was so favorably impressed that he sought an interview with Bigelow and offered to set him up in business. The offer was accepted, and the young journeyman within eighteen months from the time of the shut-down was at the head of a considerable establishment, and before many years had passed he was himself a capitalist and a large employer of labor. Nor was that all. He was so highly appreciated by his fellow-citizens that, although a Republican, he was elected Mayor of the Democratic city of New Haven by a handsome majority, and a few years later, in 1880, he was elected Governor of Connecticut. Ex-Gov. Bigelow died a few years since, mourned by all his fellow townsmen, and those who knew him during his entire career like to refer to it, as the writer has done, as an example for other American workmen to emulate when times are hard and the outlook not encouraging.—B.S.B.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S FAMILY NAME.

If the British Queen Used a Surname She Would be Mrs. Wettin.

To a correspondent who asks about the name of Queen Victoria if ordinary rules were observed, the New York Sun says:

If Queen Victoria had occasion to use a family name we believe it would be Wettin, so far as it would be anything. She was a Guelph or Welf by birth, and married Albert von Wettin; so she would be now Mrs. Albert von Wettin, or Wettin if she followed the ordinary rule. But Continental royal families seldom if ever have any surnames; the British and Scotch royal families—the old ones—are exceptions. Thus the old royal house of France was "Bourbon," "of Orleans;" the kings of Prussia belongs to the family "of Hohenzollern;" not one of these princes is called Louis Bourbon, Louis Orleans, William Hohenzollern. The British royal house is British only because it lives and rules in Great Britain; it is wholly German in ancestry for nearly 300 years, and follows Continental customs. All the British royal houses had surnames.

The Mechanism of Thought.

A person shuts his eyes of his own free will. We take his hand, we cross the forefinger and the middle finger one over the other and between them we slip a little ivory ball. A singular illusion immediately arises. The person believes he feels two distinct balls. And why? No doubt because under ordinary conditions, when the fingers are not crossed, one ball would not simultaneously touch the right edge of the forefinger and the left edge of the middle finger—two balls being necessary to produce the double sensation. Such is the experimental fact which we all possess in our memory without being conscious of it.

By an artificial arrangement of the fingers, one ball may produce these two impressions, and the mind, not taking into account this artificial disposition of the fingers and interpreting the impressions by the ordinary rules, arrives at the illusion of touch which has just been described. Nothing is simpler to bring about than this illusion, because the sensory impression from which it is derived may be modified at will, without any necessity of speaking to the subject under experiment. Is it the same with an idea? Evidently not. For in order to communicate an idea one must speak to a person, and make one's self understood; so that as he becomes informed about the object of one's inquiry, illusion is impossible.—The Fortnightly Review.

Bingo: No, thank you, dear, I don't believe I care for any mince pie.

Mrs. Bingo: But, Henry, I have put in a lot of that brandy you brought home the other night.

Bingo (aghast): What! Not that brandy that I paid $8 a quart for?

Mrs. Bingo: Yes, dear.

Bingo: Great guns, give me the whole pie!—Truth.

DR. TALMAGE'S SECOND INTERESTING LETTER FROM HONOLULU.

A Pleasant Chat With the Deposed Queen. The Guest of President Dole and His Amiable and Talented Wife—Both Sides of the Hawaiian Case.

[Copyright, Louis Klopsch, 1894.]

HONOLULU, June 18.—The chamberlain, come to invite us to the residence of the ex-queen, had suggested 11 o'clock that morning as the best hour for our visit. We approached the wide open doors through a yard of palm trees and bananas and cocoanut, and amid flowers that dyed the yard with all the colors that a tropical sun can paint. We were ushered into the royal ladys reception room, where, surrounded by a group of distinguished persons, she arose to greet us with a cordial grasp of the hand. The pictures of her hardly convey an accurate idea of her dignity of bearing. She has all the ease of one born to high position. Her political misfortunes seem in nowise to have saddened her. She spoke freely of the brightness of life to anyone disposed to meet all obligations, and at my suggestion that we found in life chiefly what we look for, and if we look for flowers we find flowers, and if we look for thorns we find thorns, she remarked: 'I have found in the path of life chiefly flowers. I do not see how any one surrounded by as many blessings as many of us possess could be so ungrateful as to complain.'" She said it was something to be remembered thankfully that for 50 years there was no revolution in the islands. She has full faith that the provisional government is only a temporary affair, and that she will again occupy the throne.

She asked her servant to show me, as something I had not seen before, a royal adornment made up from the small bird with a large name, the Mellithreptes pacifica. This bird, I had read, had under its wing a single feather of very exquisite color. The queen corrected my information by saying that it was not a single feather, but a tuft of feathers from under the wing of the bird from which the adornment was fashioned into a chain of beauty for the neck. She spoke of her visit to New York, but said that prolonged illness hindered her from seeing much of the city. She talked freely and intelligently on many subjects pertaining to the present and the future.

I was delighted with her appearance and manner and do not believe one word of the wretched stuff that has been written concerning her immoralities. Defamation is so easy, and there is so much cynicism abroad which would rather believe evil than good, that it is not to be thought strange that this queen, like all the other rulers of the earth, has been beaten with storms of obloquy and misrepresentation. George Washington was called by Tom Paine a lying imposter. Thomas Jefferson was styled an infidel, and since those times we are said to have had in the United States presidency a bloodthirsty man, a drunkard and at least two libertines, and if anybody in prominent place and effective work has escaped let him speak, for him have I offended." After an exchange of autographs on that day in Honolulu we parted.

President Dole Greets His Guest.

At 1 o'clock Chief Justice Judd came to the hotel with his carriage to take us to the mansion of President Dole. It was only a minute after our entrance when the president and his accomplished and brilliant lady appeared, with a cordiality of welcome that made us feel much at home. The president is a pronounced Christian man, deeply interested in all religious affairs as well as secular, his private life beyond criticism, honored by both political parties, talented, urbane, attractive, strong and fit for any position where conscientiousness and culture and downright earnestness are requisites.

It was to me a matter of surprise that at a time when politics are redhot in the Hawaiian Islands, and President Dole is very positive in his opinions on all subjects, I heard not one word of bitterness spoken against him. Hawaiians and foreigners are alike his eulogists. When I referred to the tremendous questions he and his associates had on hand, he said it was remarkable how many of the busy men of these islands were willing to give so much of their time, free of all charge, to the business of the new government and from what he believed to be patriotic and Christian motives. The president is a graduate of Williams college, Massachusetts, and when I asked him if his opinion of President Hopkins of that college was as elevated as that of President Garfield he replied, "Yes; I think, as Garfield did, that to sit on one end of a log, with President Hopkins on the other, and talk with him on literary matters would be something like a liberal education."

The president's wife is a charm of loveliness and is an artist withal. Her walls are partly decorated with her pencil. And though under her protest, as though the room was unworthy of a visit, Chief Justice Judd took me to her studio, where she passes much of her time in sketching and painting. The ride I took afterward with the president and Chief Justice Judd allowed me still other opportunity of forming an elevated opinion of the present head of the Hawaiian government. The cordiality with which we had been received by the present ruler and the former queen interested us more and more in the present condition and the future happiness of the Sandwich Islands.

Hearing Both Sides on Hawaiian Affairs.

Aware of the different ways of looking at things and of putting things, I resolved to get the story of Hawaiian affairs from opposite sides. We have always taken it for granted that 2 and 2 make 4, and yet 2 and 2 may be so placed as to make 22. The figure 9 is only the figure 6 turned upside down. There are not many things like the figure 8—the same which ever side is up. The different accounts I here present are reports from different standpoints.

I had an opportunity of earnest and prolonged conversation with a royalist, educated, truthful, of high moral character, born in these islands and of great observation and experience. The following conversation took place between us:

Question—Do you think the ex-queen a good woman?

Answer—I have seen the queen very often. I have been one of her advisers, and my wife has been with her much of the time from childhood and has seen her morning, noon and night and under all circumstances, and neither of us has ever witnessed anything compromising in her character. She has made mistakes, as all make them, but she is fully up to the moral standard of the world's rulers. She is the impersonation of kindness, and neither my wife nor myself nor any one else has ever heard her say a word against any one. In that excellence she is pre-eminent. In proof of her good character I have to state the fact that there is not a household in Honolulu that did not feel honored by her presence. If she had been such a corrupt character as some correspondents have represented her, I do not think that the best men and women of the Hawaiian Islands would have sought her for guest and associate.

Q.—Do you think she has been unjustly treated?

A.—I do. She has been most infamously treated. While our island was at peace and with no excuse for interference the United States troops were landed. A group of men, backed up by the United States minister and troops, formed a cabinet and chose a president and sent a committee to the palace and told the queen to leave the place. It was another case of Naboth's vineyard. The simple fact is that there were men who wanted the palace, and the offices, and the salaries. From affluent position she was reduced in position until she had to mortgage the little left to her to pay commissioners to go to Washington and present her side of the case. As I said, she made mistakes, but she was willing to correct them, and in a public manifesto declared she was willing to retrace her steps in the matter of the "new constitution." She had as much right to her throne as any ruler on earth has a right to a throne, but by sharp practice, when she was unsuspecting, the United States troops drove her from the palace, took possession of the armament and inaugurated a new government.

The Royalist View.

Q.—If the choice of royalty or annexation were put to the vote of the people, what do you think would be the decision?

A.—The queen's restoration by a majority of at least 10 to 1. We who are royalists are, without exception, in favor of leaving these matters to the ballot box. In the United States the majority governs, and the majority of the people of the Hawaiian Islands ought to have the same privilege of government.

Q.—Are the Hawaiians property holders or nomads?

A.—They are property holders. They have their homes. They have a practical interest in public affairs. Moreover, they are for the most part intelligent. You can hardly find a Hawaiian born since 1840 who cannot read and write.

Q.—What do you think is the most provoking item in the condition of your country?

A.—It is that a professed friendly power has robbed us of our government. All the nations of the earth consider that your nation has done us a wrong.

Q.—Taking conditions as they now are, what do you think had better be done, or is that a hemispheric conundrum?

A.—It is a hemispheric conundrum. Our queen is dethroned, and her palace and her military forces are in the possession of her enemies. While I cannot see any way in which the wrong can be righted, she has such faith in the final triumph of justice that she expects to resume her throne. Her estate as well as her crown taken from her, she deserves the sympathy of the whole world. I believe in republics for some lands and monarchies for others. One style of government will not do for all styles of people. A republic is best for the United States, a monarchy for the Hawaiian Islands.

Thus ended my conversation with the royalist.

The Republican Side of the Case.

But I also had the opportunity of learning the other side of this question from a spirited, patriotic and honest annexationist, and I asked much the same questions that I had asked the royalist.

The following conversation between the annexationist and myself took place:

Q.—Do you think the queen is fit to reign?

A.—No! By her signing the opium license and the bill for the Louisiana lottery and by other acts she proved herself unfit to govern.

Q.—Do you think that the present controversy would be relieved if the question in dispute were left to the votes of all the people on the island?

A.—No! The Chinese, the Japanese and the Portuguese would join with the natives and vote down the best interest of the Hawaiian Islands.

Q.—What do you think of the present attitude of the United States government with respect to the Sandwich Islands?

A.—Most unfortunate. We are waiting for change of administration at Washington. Mr. Cleveland has unwisely handled our affairs. We want an administration at Washington which will favor an annexation, and your next presidential election may settle our island affairs and settle them in the right way.

EX-QUEEN LILIUOKALANI.

Q.—What is the present feeling between royalists and those in favor of the provisional government?

A.—Very bitter and becoming more and more dangerous, and great prudence and wisdom will have to be employed, or there will be bloodshed.

Thus ended my conversation with the annexationist.

As I said in previous letter, without taking the side either of royalist or annexationist, the Hawaiian Islands will yet be a republic in itself. What an amazing thing that after all the trouble the United States government has had with the Chinese population now within our borders, trying this and that legislation to suit their case, any American statesman should propose by the annexation of the Sandwich Islands to add to our population the 22,000 Chinese and the 12,000 Japanese now living in those islands. If we want this addition of 34,000 Chinese and Japanese, had we not better import them fresh from China and Japan?

From what I have seen and heard in this my journey I have come to the conclusion that it will be a dire day when the American government hopelessly mixes itself up with Hawaiian affairs. It would be disaster to them, and perplexity and useless expense to ourselves. "Hands off" and "Mind your own business" are in this case sentiments that had better be observed by English, German and American governments.

T. DE WITT TALMAGE.

What Is Malaria?

The London Lancet recently instituted a commission of inquiry for the purpose of determining the nature of the so called malarial fever in tropical Africa. The conclusion arrived at was that malarial feven is the result of an animal parasite invading the body and developing in the blood. Eminent physicians in France, Italy, India and America have arrived at a similar conclusion respecting the malarial diseases which prevail in the countries mentioned. Nevertheless there are medical authorities of equal eminence who still maintain that in any intermittent fever, as in various forms of malarial disease, there is no parasitic infection of any sort, but that the disease is simply the result of errors in personal hygiene or the effects of chill.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

What Is the Right Bicycle Costume For a Woman?

The bicycle craze for women has struck New York—struck it hard. Women of all ages are learning to ride the wheel. No athletic exercise is at once so fascinating and so exhilarating. At the school where I have been taking lessons there are often more women pupils than men. I am only provoked at myself to think of all I have lost during so many years in not learning sooner. I believe it to be, except swimming, the best physical exercise ever devised for women. But there are difficulties for women bicyclers that men do not have to encounter, just as there are everywhere else, for that matter. Woman's dress is terribly in her way. I have been delayed several lessons in learning to mount because my heels would persist in catching in the long skirt. It was so exasperating that I have taken a vow to wear the newly devised bloomer bicycle costume. So many ladies wear it now that a woman bicyler in a long skirt is becoming a rarity on some of the roads about New York. Our sex is indebted to a New York man, Mr. H. Strugnell, a Broadway manufacturer, for the best bicycle suit I have seen. The bloomer trousers are confined just below the knee by an elastic band. Long gaiters of the same material as the suit cover the leg from instep to knee. With a shirt waist a jacket is worn, or not, according to the weather, and a close fitting cap completes the outer costume. It is simple, of light weight and convenient. When once the bicycle costume is settled, another question equally serious confronts women. It is unquestioned that a woman's bicycle as at present manufactured is heavy, clumsy and weak. It must weigh half a dozen pounds more than a man's, although woman is physically weaker. It is constructed in defiance of all the principles for combining strength and lightness in machinery. This is because of the notion that it is immodest for women to ride as men do. But that notion, too, is vanishing. The New York Sun, a good friend to women, came out recently in an editorial recommending women to ride men's wheels. With the present bicycle costume for women there is no longer anything in the way of this. Women would ride with less fatigue. In fact, many women in the vicinity of New York are already riding men's wheels. "And the men all like it and admire it, too," the bicycle teacher tells me. I may say he is a good looking young man.

Many of the cruel, wicked and preposterous notions of the orient concerning women yet linger about New York. My western readers will be surprised to learn that some old mummies of restaurant keepers here have a rule that women unattended by men shall not be served in their cookshops in the evening. There is no reason for it except the innate impulse to tryannize over what is weak and helpless. Lately at one of these mummy places a lady accompanied by a woman friend went into the restaurant where she had been in the habit of taking meals for a year. She was known and respected, but it was after dark, and she was refused her dinner because it was the heathen custom at that restaurant to turn ladies out in the street hungry when they had nothing in trousers along with them. The lady might have gone out into the park and invited one of the tramps that snooze on the benches to dine with her and paid for his dinner, and it would have been all right, but refined, delicate ladies alone, no! The New York World, in commenting on the outrage, reminds women of the law requiring restaurant keepers to serve all orderly, well behaved persons who apply for food. It advises women wherever they are turned out as the lady mentioned was to sue the restaurant keeper for heavy damages. There is no shadow of doubt that it could be collected. I hope the matter will be brought to the test.

Mrs. Agnes K. Murphy Mulligan is a member of the New York Real Estate Exchange. In spite of her name she is of long American lineage, being descended on one side from a Knickerbocker family. She was educated in the New York city public schools. Her father was in the real estate business, and his health failed. The plucky and trained girl took his place. She was married a year ago, but still occupies her desk in the office. Before her marriage, when a very young girl, Mrs. Mulligan negotiated a real estate sale to the amount of $90,000. It was this sale that won her election to membership in the Real Estate Exchange. She is proving very successful in her chosen occupation.

The Globe-Democrat remarks editorially how it is not pleasant to read that so many of the active women politicians of Kansas are suffering from nervous prostration. Yes, but this is nothing to the nervous prostration from which many of the active men politicians in Washington and New York are suffering just now.

The women of New Jersey have been voting on school questions for some years, but recently the supreme court of the state advanced backward and promulgated the opinion that women there have no right to vote on school matter or anything else. If it is unconstitutional, however, somehow a long time was required to find it out. Never mind, girls. Just wait a little.

Miss Julia Hutchins Farwell is principal of the St. Mary's school for girls at Garden City, N. Y. She is making of it the place the girl of the period needs, being thoroughly in harmony with the spirit of the age which calls for the highest development of young women mentally, morally and physically. In order to be a successful teacher one must be thoroughly youthful in spirit herself and remain so always. Miss Farwell, who is yet young in years—so much the better—will always be young in spirit, and so can sympathize with the girls who flock about her.

Mrs. Livermore.

Mrs. Livermore delivered the address to the graduating class at Wheaton seminary, Norton, Mass., on June 27—the first time in the 59 years' history of this institution that this office was performed by a woman. The week previous she delivered the address before the literary societies of New Hampton seminary, N. H., one of the oldest educational institutions of the state.

MEN AND WOMEN.

Judie Chollet Shows That They Are About the Same, After All.

It everybody reads as he runs in these rapid times, the general public must derive a great deal of quiet amusement out of the propensity of a number of newspaper writers—they probably call themselves journalists—to regard men and women as entire opposites in all respects. Not satisfied with refusing to admit that the two sexes have any ideas, ambitions or tastes in common, such a writer delights to contrast them in the very minutiæ of daily life and prove them so far asunder by nature that one wonders that they are classed as belonging to the same species. One seeker after truth has discovered that in washing the face a man always rubs up, while a woman rubs down; a second announces that a woman shakes a lighted match in order to extinguish it, while a man blows it out; a keen analyst has ascertained that a woman is proud to appear in a new hat, while a man is ashamed to wear one, and another person assures us that a woman always walks over a muddy crossing on her heels, while a man goes on his toes, and so on ad infinitum. This is mildly funny, or was before it became monotonous. The matter is too trifling to merit the notice of a contradiction. If it were worth the observer's attention, he might, by looking about him, see a man crossing a muddy spot on his heels and a woman blowing out a match. If he hid behind the door, he might even see her scratch one on her shoe sole, and if he learned mind reading he might find that when she tries to hammer a nail and strikes her thumb instead she thinks just about the same thing that a man says in similar circumstances. Men and women are, on the whole, very much alike, and the comparison of them as utterly opposite types is mere superficiality.

The tea jacket shown in the sketch is of light tan colored muslin with white embroidered dots. It is trimmed with coffee colored lace and insertion, mingled with pink ribbon. The garment is also lined throughout with pink. The front, which has an immense square collar, opens to the waist, showing a vest trimmed with horizontal bands of insertion. The waist is encircled by a ribbon belt fastened with a bow, while the sleeves are very full and loose.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

JUDIC CHOLLET ON FOOD.

She Speaks a Good Word For the Robust Onion.

Mr. Walter Besant, who has a great deal to say upon all subjects in these days, is particularly prompt in giving his opinions and advice where women are concerned. Not wearied in the well doing of finally settling the question as to the boundaries of their social, intellectual and political spheres, he is considerate enough to take thought for them in hygienic and toilet matters, which is certainly very kind of him when his attention is demanded by so many affairs of national and even worldwide importance. During his visit to America he was particularly struck by our fondness for the onion. It may be inferred that he was equally struck by our beauty, since on his return he hastened to advise, through the medium of the public print, every plain English girl to eat onions, alleging that to them are owing the health and beauty of the American women. Mr. Besant must have gone to some curious and little known parts of America, since in the places he visited "some of the best people, particularly in literary and academic circles, are not at home to their most intimate friends on Sunday. They devote that day to the consumption of the leek."

WHITE SERGE GOWN.

It is to be hoped that every well bred American woman is cosmopolitan enough to be able to eat any kind of food that is respectably cooked and that does not constitutionally disagree with her, whether it be onions, caviare, cabbage, pumpernickel, frogs, olive oil or garlic. There is no surer indication of the provincial mind than baseless prejudice in the matter of eating. It is rather surprising, however, to see the onion elevated to the position of our national dish, for it has always seemed to belong more especially to Spain. However, it is an excellent vegetable, whether cooked or raw, and eminently wholesome.

A sketch is given of a Bedfern gown of white serge. The revers and sash are of pale blue silk, and blue anchors are embroidered in silk on the yoke and sash ends.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The woman who aspires to be dainty pays especial attention to her dress shields. New ones should be put in after every three or four times wearing at the most, or the old ones should be removed and washed before being used again. Unless this is done they will prove very disagreeable if the wearer perspires freely.

An American woman, Mme. de Hegerman-Lindencrone, has received from the king of Sweden the decoration of "Literis et Artibus" for her skill in conducting an operetta which she gave at her home in Sweden. This lady is the third woman to receive this honor, Jenny Lind and Nilsson being the ones previously decorated.

GREEN HAY RED HOT.

IT STARTS ANOTHER FIRE IN PLAINFIELD OUTSKIRTS.

This Time the Barn and Other Buildings Occupied by Conrad Cramer—Jacob Jonas Singed in Efforts to Save Live Stock—Sheep Run About with Their Wool Ablaze.

The storing of green hay was probably the cause of a fire in Greenbrook yesterday afternoon which destroyed a barn and outbuildings, gathered crops and live-stock, all insured. The building was on the farm of Conrad Cramer, a farmer and butcher, on the Greenbrook road.

The fire was discovered by one of the children who were playing about the place at ten minutes before 2. Mr. Cramer was not at home. His wife ran from the house when the children called and saw the flames bursting from the roof of the main building.

She ran to the stable and went in to where the horse was and tried to get the animal out, but was driven back by the smoke and heat. The fire was eating through the floor of the haymow then. Mrs. Cramer threw open the door to the part of the barn where the flock of sheep was, but the frightened animals would not leave the building then.

The neighbors came quickly. Among the first to arrive was Jacob Jonas, who lives in the next house above them. He attempted to untie a calf which was fastened by the barn, but the heat was so intense that his hair caught fire and his hands were scorched. All of the neighbors worked to save the house, which stood but a few feet from the sheds. Water was thrown upon the sides and wet carpet was laid on the roof. Their efforts alone kept the house from burning.

The building was almost a mass of flames when the sheep ran out from the barn. Their coats of wool were blazing. Two which were tied to the barn were burned to death. Five fell on the way to safety. The 25 remaining were terribly burned, and all may die. Besides the horse and the calf, two pigs and a dog were killed. The hay consumed amounted to 19 loads. All of the harvest of the farm and the tools were destroyed.

The fire burned very rapidly. Nothing was left of the buildings this morning and what the contents were consists of the iron work of the implements and fixtures.

The damage done does not amount so much in money, as it does in its effect on the fortunes of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Cramer have lived on the farm for 15 years. It consists of 55 acres, 24 in cultivation. The two have three girls and three boys, the oldest 14 years old, to support, and the place is heavily mortgaged. Mr. Cramer once went to see an agent about insuring the property, but finally failed to take out a policy. He knew nothing of the fire until he reached Dunellen on the way home from his regular weekly trip to Plainfield, when he was told of his loss. He feels much discouraged.

CREDITORS TO APPEAR.

C. Schepflin & Co. Likely to Have Their Compromise Speedily Confirmed.

Creditors of the old firm of C. Schepflin and Co. are being notified to appear in the Court-House in New Brunswick Aug. 21 at 10 a. m., to show causes, if they have any, why they shall not agree to the compromise proposed by E. K. Pope, assignee. The compromise will undoubtedly then be confirmed.

Plainfield's Favorite Day Resort.

Plainfield sends many excursions to Asbury Park, but some days her big trainloads are only drops in the bucket. For instance, Friday, when Trinity Reformed Church filled twelve cars, there were nine other special trains, making a total of 116 cars with over 7,000 day visitors. The day before there were 12 excursions, including one from Albany that left at 3:30 a. m. in order to give its people a full day at the shore.

Misplaced Confidence.

Victims of misplaced confidence are daily on the increase. Confidence in patent medicines, for instance, that promise to cure headache, dizziness, neuralgia, etc., leads to the loss of many dollars and increase of trouble which could be spared you by treatment of the eyes, from which source most of such troubles arise. Call at Collier's, 103 Park avenue, and have your eyes opened to the truth of this statement.

White's Big Bargains.

Edward White of Front street has made another big purchase of dry goods from a large New York concern which recently failed. He says he bought the entire lot at about 50 cents on the dollar, and will sell them the same way. The goods consist of towels, table linen, white goods, hosiery, notions, etc. The sale commences Monday morning.

Ties.

It's already settled that everybody wants to go on the great and glorious American Day excursion of the J. O. U. A. M. to Asbury Park next week Thursday—but you're going to get left if you don't remember that the train leaves Plainfield at 7:45 sharp. You stay at the shore till 9.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Moses Haven and Milford Giles rode from Metuchen to Plainfield last night on their wheels in 20 minutes.

Barrett rides in Asbury Park in the two-mile class B handicap with 140 yards. Tyler is scratch man and the limit man has 200 yards.

Monte Scott's riding Wednesday afternoon was the feature of the matinee. His mile was fast, but he has made better time before elsewhere, and when he tries at a meet again the Crescent record will drop—if there's no unlucky hitch in the pace-making.

The Lyceum Cyclers are considering the holding of a race meet some Saturday afternoon, probably on the Crescent track. The feature of the affair is to be a ten-mile handicap in which every member will ride. Capt. Lynch will be the scratch man, of course.

Following is the list of races for next Wednesday, Aug. 15: ½-mile scratch, 2-mile handicap, 1-mile (boys under 16), exhibition, 2-mile handicap (open to Victor Wheelmen only), 1 mile 2:59 class, 2 3-mile scratch (open only to members that have never before entered a race), exhibition.

At the meet of the Asbury Park Athletic Association yesterday afternoon, Monte Scott of the Crescents in the one mile Class A race for New Jersey riders won his heat in 2:37 4-5. In the final he finished third behind Royce Blauvelt in a heat three-fifths of a second faster. Henry Scott won the first heat in the one mile handicap from the 130 yards mark in 2:17, but did not show up in the finals.

Lady Henry Somerset regards the bicycle as second only to temperance in its improving effect on society. She speaks of the bicycle in connection with the working classes with positive warmth. "A revolution", she says "is being slowly wrought that will entirely change the aspect of life for working girls. The country, with all its recreative charms, is by the cycle at their very doors."

Riverside Drive has become the paradise of bicyclists who live in or visit New York. The roads are good and hard, and the view from one end of the park to the other is one of the most beautiful to be obtained in the city. Every day hundreds of riders, men and women, may be seen pedaling along the broad and smooth driveways, chatting with one another, and enjoying every bit of the fun they are getting out of their exercise. At night there are usually more riders to be seen than in the daytime, for the men who have been in their offices all day take their wheels up to Riverside after supper, and trundle along with one another or with their sweethearts for an hour or so before seeking rest.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—May I not appeal to you to correct the occasional use of the word "bloomer" for "knickerbocker". No one knows better than you that the latter is a well established name, used generally among athletes here and abroad. It has the dignity of a respectable and serious acceptation, while "bloomers" was never so considered, and has generally been used in ridicule of a few enthusiastic women who, without influence and without any special cause, vainly attempted to introduce a very ugly costume. The bloomer dress by no means corresponds with the neat and becoming rational dress of women cyclists. It has no knickerbockers as now made, no such gaiters and no such jacket or hat. The rational dress is much needed and is specially adapted to its purpose. The "bloomer" costume was hideous and uncalled for. The name "bloomer" was used in derision and tends directly to discourage women from wearing the rational dress. While good and refined women do wear the latter, they are sensitive to every word of discouragement or ridicule, and "bloomer" is one of the popular vulgarisms which we would do well to drop in favor of the legitimate words—knickerbockers—meaning loose, short breeches, and knee breeches meaning tight fitting, short breeches. FEM.

The New York Sun recently contained an article which stated that many of the society women of New York were learning to ride the wheel in earnest, and that a school had been opened in a large uptown hall where every woman of known social standing could gain admittance. This is in point of fact one of the oldest and best conducted schools in New York, and has always had a large patronage. Under the instruction of "Ike" Johnson, one of the most skillful and careful instructors, a great many women have been initiated into the art of wheeling. A few years ago "Ike" gave a few lessons in our own rink to the brave (at that time) women who owned the first wheels for women in Plainfield. Many prefer this private instruction when the teacher alone witnesses their first attempts in the subjugation of the "silent steed". The belt used by an instructor with the leather strap prevents a pupil from falling and five lessons, perhaps less, are usually sufficient for the most backward pupils. There seems to be a division of opinion among physicians as regards the healthfulness of the wheel for women. Some who recommend horseback riding are averse to wheeling. In many instances women and men too delicate to ride horseback have found the wheel the better exercise, as it is not so violent. And after the fear of falling is overcome the pleasure of riding is unadulterated, as the rider does not have to give a thought to his steed; they are always of one mind. The rider becomes almost a "part of the landscape", as he wheels along as easily as birds fly; his powers of observation are stimulated and he becomes familiar with many landscapes and outlooks unheard of before. Of course the same rules of practice must be observed in cycling as in other forms of exercise. Excess is as objectionable in riding a wheel as in dancing, playing tennis, or horseback riding.

AN EPITAPH.

I gladly lay me down to sleep
Within the grave so quiet,
For if 'tis calmer than my life
I would be fain to try it.
The earthly goal I sought for—rest—
I found ('tis not surprising),
For I engaged in business and
Eschewed all advertising.

ANOTHER CHURCH.

UNIVERSALISTS WORKING ZEALOUSLY FOR A PLAINFIELD TEMPLE.

The Movement an Outgrowth of the Liberal Unitarianism—Music Hall Meetings at First, and Sunday-School From the Start.

A strong movement is being quietly made to establish a Universalist Church in Plainfield. Encouraged, no doubt, by the liberal Unitarian All Souls Church, a number of Universalists have began to work with the aim of having a branch of their denomination here.

Correspondence is being carried on with a minister of the sect at present residing in Jersey City, which will prosbly lead to his coming here to preach. The engaging of Music Hall for Sunday evening services is being considered. The new church will have a Sunday-school connected with it from the start. There are many Universalists in Plainfield, and the plan of gathering them together is meeting with much favor.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Out in Minneapolis, where Chas. B. Brown is doing Christian work, the matter of advertising the Sunday evening services has been taken up by the pastors of several of the prominent churches in the city, and every Saturday and Sunday large bulletins are placed in front of their churches, announcing in flaming letters, that may be read two blocks away, the subject for their evening discourse, time of service and pastor's name. Occasionally they also use the Saturday dailies and run a two-inch display ad in the amusement columns. They also send out cards with the announcement of the services to hotels and boarding houses. The pastors in these churches claim that this method of advertising makes a decided increase in attendance.

VARIOUS NOTES.

Wherein Parisian Women Are Far In Advance of the Americans.

A French household writer recommends dipping net or guipure curtains that have been washed into a mixture of gum arabic and water in the proportion of 30 grams of gum arabic to a quart of water. A yellow tinge may be obtained by adding a little saffron previously dissolved in water. Tea may be used in place of saffron. A still deeper tint is secured by using coffee.

Lemon juice, although it gives transparency to the nails, should not be used on them oftener than twice a week unless the hands are discolored by fruit or ink stains, since it has the property of drying the skin about the edge of the nail, thereby encouraging hang nails, which are painful as well as unsightly.

Ornamental hairpins are very favorably regarded at the present time. Gold and jeweled ornaments are said to look well in all shades of hair, although diamond pins are scarcely favorable to the brilliancy of blond tresses. Aqua marina or turquoise is better for golden locks, while coral is as becoming to black hair as the more precious diamond. Plain gold pins are particularly effective in red and chestnut hair, while silver harmonizes well with flaxen or gray hair.

It is a pity that topazes still remain out of fashion. They were highly prized 30 years ago, and the pure white variety, when it is a true topaz, still commands the respectful attention of the jeweler in spite of public neglect. The pink topaz, being rare, is also valued, but no variety is more beautiful than the pure yellow.

In one respect at least—and this is said with no thought of decrying American womanhood on general principles—Parisian women are far in advance of us. They esteem ornament for its beauty and becomingness rather than for its pecuniary value. This must arise from the fact that their perceptions have been rendered more accurate by being developed amid the results of ages of artistic culture, whereas we as a people are artistically crude. It is more honest to admit this truth, especially as, like love and cough, it cannot be concealed. Besides we have a preponderance of advantages in other respects, and seeing that we are crude is a long way toward remedying it. JUDIC CHOLLET.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen and New Market.

Mrs. Eugene Runyon is very ill at her home.

Mrs. Ella Abbott has returned from a visit to White House.

Lowrie Mead of New York is stopping at The Pines, New Market.

Miss Laura Cramer of Jersey City is visiting Mrs. J. H. Cramer.

Charles E. Apgar is enjoying life in Ocean Grove for a few days.

Miss Ernestine Giles returned last evening from her visit to Stockton.

N. B. and J. Snell will start Monday morning to paint Joel Giddis's house.

Mrs. Berry returned to Elizabeth yesterday after a visit with Mrs. Edwin Lewis.

Mrs. Thomas Brantingham of South Plainfield was the guest of Mrs. Fred Nelson yesterday.

Wm. VanSyckle and Eli Odam found Dunellen roads in excellent condition for wheeling yesterday.

Miss Celia Staats of Dunellen leaves Clinton the first of next week to go to Landstown for a few days.

A night-blooming cereus at the Van-Middlesworth homestead was very much admired for its beauty Thursday night.

Walter Slaty and William Manning went out yesterday looking for game, and succeeded in shooting eleven upland plovers.

Services will be held tomorrow as usual in the M. E. Church. The pastor, Rev W. C. Kinsey, will preach both morning and evening.

Mrs. E E. Marshall and Miss Addie Weaver of Plainfield enjoyed the beauties of Dunellen and New Market on a wheeling trip yesterday.

In the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow services will be held morning and evening. In the evening the Christian Endeavor Society will take charge.

A woman cycler from Plainfield attracted considerable attention while riding through Dunellen yesterday as she was attired in the reform dress.

The borough citizens are now agitating the feasibility of having the water main in Plainfield extended to Dunellen, and it now looks as though the plan would assume definite shape.

The Outdoor Industrial Club made $18 23 as a result of their sale on Dr. Brakeley's lawn Thursday afternoon. A check has been made out and will be sent at once to New York for the Sick-Baby Fund.

The Dunellen Gun Club has about disbanded Its members, with a few exceptions, lack interest sufficient to maintain it. In all probability the money remaining in the treasury will be divided equally and the members will give up the idea of a club entirely.

The Misses Maier gave a musical last evening at the Park Hotel. It was a most enjoyable affair, and the large number of friends from Plainfield, Jersey City and Dunellen were highly pleased with the generous hospitality bestowed. The selections on the piano were finely rendered and much appreciated. A bountiful collation was served during the evening.

Detective Corse came from Plainfield to the Dunellen station early this morning with the determination to arrest the boy employed by Dr. Brakeley to sell papers. He did not make the arrest as he intended. The boy had warning, and promptly went out to the street and caught most of his customers on the highway. Dr. Brakeley calmly contemplates the expenditure of the news company in hiring a detective daily to insure a profit of 20 cents on papers. He says he will hire another boy beginning Monday, and will then be able to sell at both entrances to the station park.

WEST END NOTES.

Walsh's Hall is to be remodeled into a store and residence.

A. Muir of West Fourth street has conquered the bicycle, and now rides with ease and grace.

An electric light is needed under the Grant avenue bridge. Several persons have been stopped there.

John Martin of New York has made many friends as the guest of Jacob Schlick of West Third street.

Miss Emma Petrie of Somerville has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Reid of West Third street.

In the champion checker contest between A. Muir of this city and Mr. Larkins of Dunellen, A. Muir is the victor.

Pennhurst on Pocono.

Miss M. S. Wilson of East Front street has had a very successful season thus far at Pennhurst Cottage, Mt. Pocono, Pa. The house is out of the valley on a high elevation and is a delightful resort for late Summer and the Fall.

SAVED TWO WOMEN,

THOUGH MANY MILES APART.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Many curious and interesting experiences are found in the correspondence of a woman like Mrs. Pinkham, who for many years ministered to the sufferings of her sex all over the land. Here are two notable cases, one from the Pacific and the other from the Atlantic coast.

MRS. LILLIE MEYER.

The Brooklyn woman is Mrs. Lillie Meyer. Five years ago she began to feel sharp pains in her abdomen, with the bearing-down feeling and pains in her back. She tried doctors and got no relief. A friend told her of Mrs. Pinkham's Compound, and after using it the pain left her, and menstruation now comes without suffering.

The Riverside, Cal., woman is Mrs. J. E. Dewey, who says, "I have used three bottles of your Vegetable Compound for painful menstruations.

"Every month my suffering was terrible, and I was obliged to go to bed.

"After using the first bottle, my general health was much improved, and now, after using three bottles, all pain has left me, and I am a well woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is as unfailing as the sun." Get it from your druggist.

LEARN TO SAY "YES."

Moral Obligation and Personal Care For the Little Ones.

No doubt we can each of us remember occasions in our childhood when we were denied a pleasure that, in the light of mature years, we see was innocent and might easily have been granted. Childhood is or should be the golden age, the period when humanity is irresponsible without being blameworthy, simple in its requirements and easily pleased. While a foolishly indulged child is one of the most detestable beings on the face of the earth, there is no need of denying a child, or a grown person either, for that matter, any innocent pleasure that it is possible for him to enjoy, innocent pleasure being taken to mean a pleasure which does not hurt himself nor inconvenience anybody else. When a child asks to be allowed to do a certain thing, the parent often says "No" automatically without stopping to consider whether there is any real reason why the request should be denied. It is worth while to weigh the pros and cons of this matter, trifling as it may seem, for early associations have a strong influence in the feeling with which grown children regard the father and mother. A little child soon learns the difference between loving sympathy with his small interests and indifference or opposition to them, and once learned the effect of the lesson is lifelong. The state of mind induced by the needless thwarting of pet wishes is not a favorable one for the growth or even maintenance of family affection.

To provide the necessaries of life, food, shelter, decent clothing and the average amount of education for the child whom we have called into the world without consulting him is not enough to merit his lifelong devotion and self denial. Such provision is a moral obligation in simple justice. To rightfully possess our children's devoted affection we must deserve it by giving something beyond the necessary care that an animal gives its helpless young. We must enter into their interests with sympathy, advise them without personal prejudice and recognize the fact that they are not merely our satellites, but that they have a distinct personality and inalienable individual rights as strong as our own.

But this is wandering outside the bounds of a fashion article, and fashion must here be considered. The larger figure in the sketch shows a gown of blue serge trimmed with white braid. It is sleeveless, and the bodice opens in front to show a frilled shirt of red cambric with white dots. The smaller child wears a lawn gown which has a triple cape to match, both being trimmed with valenciennes lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Not Scared a Mite.

War stories are mostly overripe, but here is one that is fresh, and it illustrates brave demoralization admirably. A well known New Englander was south soon after the close of the war and visited Murfreesboro, Tenn. While looking about he met an old colored man who looked as though he was indigenous to the soil. The following conversation resulted:

"Well, uncle, were you raised about here?"

"Yes, massa. I'se allus lived right here."

"Then you must have seen the big battle here. Do you remember much about it?"

"Oh, yes, massa. I 'members all about the big battle. I was right here."

"Well, then, tell me something about it. How did you feel? Weren't you scared?"

"Oh, no, massa. I warn't scared a mite. I was where I could see the sojers all about marchin and shootin, an I jess clumb up on top of a rail fence an sot there an seen the fight go on. Jess then along come a big boom, an it knocked about 40 rods o' that fence out o' sight, an next I knowed was three weeks after, when I was 100 miles up the country workin for my boa'd, but I wasn't skart. No, sah!"—Boston Herald.

Artificial Diamonds.

To make jewels and gold has been the hope of the chemist from the remotest records of time, and that the interest is as keen as ever is demonstrated by the attention the electric furnace of French scientist has attracted. This furnace is made of limestone, with an inside crucible composed of carbon and magnesia. A curiosity in its construction and one that is suggestive for other uses is a feeding tube and one for discharge. By means of this the material to be heated may be poured in and taken out without disturbing the interior. The temperature produced is about 33,500 degrees C. For reducing the metals, a current of about 600 amperes and 60 volts is required. The specially interesting result is the production of crystals of carbon. These are formed by fusing iron with an excess of carbon, then plunging the vessel containing the carbon solution in cold water. The production of larger diamonds is reckoned upon as only a question of time.—New York Ledger.

Adversity.

I sleep most sweetly when I have traveled in the cold. Frost and snow are friends to the seed, though they are enemies to the flower. Adversity is indeed contrary to glory, but it befriendeth grace. —Richard Baxter.

Political Economy.

She—Does it make anything cheaper to put it on the free list?

He—Certainly, my dear.

She—Then why don't they put house rent on?—Detroit Free Press.

Dorothy Instructs Mrs. Gladstone.

Here is an instance of Dorothy's baby talk. She was singing one of her beloved hymns the other day when Mrs. Gladstone came into the room and began to talk to Mrs. Drew. Her little ladyship turned round immediately, ceased her fervent devotions and observed, "Gran-nan, you should not talk." "Yes, darling," her mother said, "grandmamma must talk to me." "But it was a service," the little one replied, no doubt remembering that her own communications had occasionally been stopped during the singing of hymns at church or domestic prayers.—Westminster Budget.

GAVETT'S

A FAIR GIRL ORATOR.

SHE WON THE WOODFORD PRIZE AT CORNELL EASILY.

Miss Harriet Chedie Connor of Burlington Iowa, showed the Masculine Orators at Ithaca How to Speak. She Charmed the Judges.

Twenty-five years ago, Gen. Woodford of Brooklyn, founded a gold prize for the best oration at Cornell, and for twenty four years some young man won the coveted trophy. This year the winner was a girl, Miss Harriet Chedie Connor, of Burlington, Iowa.

When only a freshman, Miss Connor proved her ability as a speaker, and her record since had been such that when she was selected as one of the six seniors to contest for the Woodford prize no one was surprised.

In drawing for places Miss Connors secured fourth place as speaker, generally considered the best. The usual critical audience assembled in the armory. The young men came and went. They spoke well and received the usual applause. All, however, were self-conscious. They were watching their gestures, their attire, their collars, cuffs, ties and handkerchiefs. They showed their nervousness, as they always do. They were not experienced speakers, although most of them were polished. But the polish was plainly artificial and studied.

MISS CHEDIE CONNOR.

Miss Connor's name was called. She was dressed entirely in white—probably her ball gown—and as she stepped upon the platform, and the audience saw her ease and the almost wonderfully pretty picture she made, a tremendous outburst of applause was heard. She had half won the battle before she spoke a word. When she started to speak her voice was somewhat unsteady. She was tired from her social pleasures and she showed it. She pulled herself together quickly, and then all traces of self-consciousness disappeared. She had views to present, and she seemed more desirous of convincing the audience of the seriousness and truth of what she was saying than of winning the prize. The prize was a secondary matter, apparently. She was earnest and not artificial. Her few gestures seemed spontaneous, and she had quite forgotten her gown and whether she stood on her right foot while she delivered this paragraph, or on her left foot while she spoke the other paragraph. The audience was absolutely still. There was no turning, no whispering.

Mrs. Lease and Mrs. Forster never had more attentive listeners. Every syllable was heard by every person in the audience of nearly 2,000 persons. Her voice filled the place and her inflection and emphasis seemed perfect. When she finished, a storm of applause shook the building. The audience declared her the winner without waiting for the two following competitors, and the judges tried to hold themselves impartial to the end.

When the decision was announced finally, the applause was tumultuous. Then Miss Connor became self-conscious. She was in a whirl of congratulations, the people were excited, and she became the most marked girl that ever entered or graduated from Cornell.

MRS. BEECHER IN THE KITCHEN.

She Believes a Literary Woman Should be the Best Housekeeper.

Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher is a woman who, while using her pen almost constantly, is a noted housekeeper and an authority on cooking.

Mrs. Beecher was taught to cook almost before she could remember, and says she first made bread at her mother's side when she had to stand upon a stool at the table to knead it. "I always was fond of cooking," she said, "and my two sisters were not, so to my lot fell naturally the task of helping mother prepare the meals for the large family. Besides father and mother and the ten childen, there were always the men who worked on the farm and who ate at our table, as was the custom then and there.

"I have not only personally superintended my work, but during much of my life have done my own cooking. When my husband was living and my family was about me I always tried to have a new bill of fare each day, and it taxed my ingenuity a great deal. Now I am quite alone, but my girl knows very little about cooking, so I have personally to direct a great deal of it. I always rise at six in the morning and breakfast at half-past seven. If I have guests they suit their own pleasure about their hours, but my own I never vary.

"As to a woman's literary work unfitting her for housework, I believe it is quite the opposite. I think a woman who has brains enough to write acceptably and well makes the better housekeeper because of her broader knowledge.

An Excellent Wash for the Skin.

A very excellent wash for the skin, which will soften it to the smoothness of velvet, is made after the following rule: Take two-thirds of a pint of distilled water, two ounces pine glycerine, one ounce simple tincture of benzoin, mix, shake well and it is ready for use.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Vice-President Wickes, of the Pullman company, said to-day that quarters must be found for new men at work, and the only way he saw to do it was to evict all the strikers using the company's houses and flats who were in arrears for rent. He did not know when the process would be put in operation, or at least said he had taken no active steps in the direction of wholesale evictions, but it would begin very soon, as the new men desired also to live conveniently to their work. There are 3,000 strikers and their families living in the dwellings.

ONE KITCHEN FOR MANY.

Chicago Is About To Try Co-operative Housekeeping on a Large Scale.

Chicago, an exchange says, is about to try an experiment in having a common kitchen for a group of houses. It is proposed to buy an entire block of land in one of the handsomest residence portions of the city.

When selected, there will be built on the plat forty-four residences of different sizes and cost, taking up nearly the entire circumference of the block, and leaving a large courtyard in the center of it. At the center of one of the sides of the block will be a large building extending some distance into the courtyard. In this will be the co-operative plant, including the kitchen, the laundry, the cold storage, the vegetable cellars, the steam boilers and the electric light plant.

Close to the rear of the dwellings will be a light electric railway for the transportation and delivery of cooked meals. The arrangements are such that each house can be served with each separate course of the dinner with clockwork regularity.

The current expenses are divided into two classes, one of them turning on the size of the house and the other on the number in the family. Under the head of living expenses is placed heat, light, insurances, taxes, water and service, and for all of these, for one of the smaller houses, the cost will be only $15 a month.

With reference to the other class of expenses, board will cost $2 per capita a week, and laundry 25 cents a dozen. Every family will order every day such articles as it desires for each meal, and they will be cooked in any style and served at any hour.

Some of Man's Advantages.

Man has a great many advantages that a woman has not. For instance:

He can run after a departing train and hurl himself on the back platform instead of sighing and then sitting down demurely and waiting twenty minutes for the next one.

He can call on the girls he likes and let severely alone those he doesn't care for, while a girl must entertain one caller as courteously as another. This is one of man's greatest privileges.

He isn't frowned upon if he casually remarks that he's in love. A girl is expected to conceal such a secret as carefully as she does the fact that she still owes $1.17 to her dressmaker.

He can purchase a dress suit and the usual accessories that go with it and be all fitted out for the next year or two. If a girl always wore the same evening dress every one would look sorry for her and whisper "Poor thing, I suppose it's the only one she has."

Thin Skating for Bachelor Flirts.

The declaration of marriage in Siam is simpler even than it used to be in Scotland. You ask a lady to marry you by merely offering her a flower, or taking a light from a cigarette if it happens to be in her mouth; and your family and the bride's family have to put up at least $200 apiece for a dowry. The principal impediment in the way of marriage is that each year is named after an animal, and only certain animals are allowed to intermarry; for instance, a person born in the year of the cat cannot marry with a person born in the year of the dog, or a person born in the year of the cow with a person born in the year of the tiger; and there are similar embargos about months and days, akin, perhaps, to the old superstition in this country that a marriage will be unlucky if the birth months of the bride and groom are far apart. April should not wed with November, nor January with June.

The Reigning Collet Cape.

Collet capes seem more in vogue than ever, and a great variety is achieved by the intermixture of materials and flounces of rich guipure. They are made very short, showing the waist; some even do not come much below the shoulders, about elbow length; they are full, and sometimes open in front to show the light chemisette that covers the front of the bodice.

They are handsome, made of black moire antique lined with white satin, with an upper cape of deep point de Venise and a thick band of feather trimming round the neck, the yoke, if there is one, covered with either steel sequins or jet embroidery as bright and sparkling a possible.

The Beautiful Magyar Woman.

A writer in an English magazine says: "The Magyar woman of Hungary is a beautiful creature, with coral lips and large, speaking eyes. Her step is quick, her eyes obstinate and her smile alluring. She is fond of dress and luxury, is vain, but her coquetry is harmless and unconscious. She is tender and true, with a passionate love or a passionate hatred for her husband; she is a good mother and a trustworthy friend. She will not have any one in love with her but her husband."

What She Hopes.

"I do hope," writes the accomplished wife of a Western missionary to some Eastern relatives, "that my heavenly mansion will have a bath-room and a bay-window," and the seeming irreverence of the wish is overshadowed in the eloquent tale it tells of privations and hardships bravely borne and gayly ignored. It is this capacity of woman to make a mot of her hardships that often renders the hardships endurable.

Rudyard Kipling on America.

Mr. R. Kipling, Englishman, does not think highly of America. In his opinion it is raw and uneasy, and wholly devoid of that British composure which he so much admires, but which Yankees call dullness. Mr. K. says:

"There is a dyspepsia epidemic in America. They don't understand our comfort. Everything is too temporary for that. They are are in a railway station waiting-room stage of civilization, and it is hardly worth while yet for any one to settle down and be solidly comfortable. America feels like one vast camp."

She (doubtfully)—"Have you really told me all the sins you ever committed?"

He (stoutly)—"Yes. All."

She (sorrowfully—"Then I am not worthy of you. Farewell for—for ever—New York Weekly.

SINCERITY.

Her eyes upon him resting,
Her quivering lips apart,
The words that she was speaking
Came straight from her throbbing heart.
She stands in commanding posture,
Stands in the sight of all,
And yells from her place in the grand stand
To the man in the box: "Play ball."
—Detroit Tribune.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 11.—John Donnelly, Samuel Donnelly and James Bundy are locked up in the Delhi jail for breaking into the farm house of Mason Hill, in Kortright. There was a desperate fight between the burglars and Mr. Hill and his sister, the latter using a hatchet and Mr. Hill the butt of his revolver, which otherwise was of no service because the cartridges would not explode. Miss Hill hacked John Donnelly badly over the head with the hatchet and the other men were badly injured, but they escaped arrest then. Yesterday Bundy confessed being connected with the burglary, and implicated the Donnellys.

TAMMANY'S POWER.

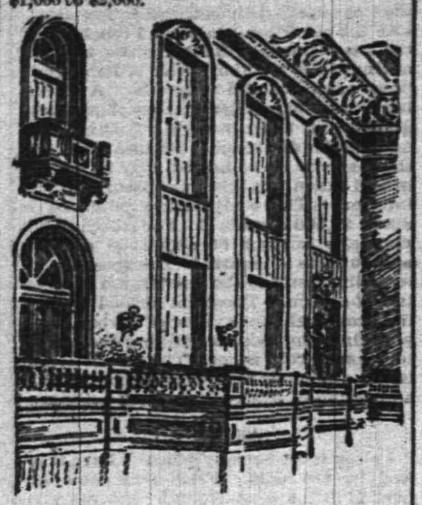
IT DISBURSES EIGHTY-EIGHT MILLIONS IN A SINGLE YEAR.

Payments Greater than Are Made by Twenty-two States Combined. An Army of Fifteen Thousand Employes. Salaries Greater than Governors Get.

People wonder at Tammany's gigantic influence in New York City; but it isn't so wonderful when its immense patronage is considered. In one year the city has disbursed, according to the comptroller's last statement, $88,924,000. There are, in round numbers, 15,000 persons on its payroll, many of whom are centers of political influence.

Of these 15,000 employes, more than 7,000 get salaries ranging from $1,000 to $25,000 a year, the following table showing the payments in detail:

One salary of $25,000; fifteen salaries of $15,000; eight of $12,000; seven of $11,500; ten of $10,000; sixteen of $8,000; eight of $7,500; four of $7,000; twenty-three of $6,000; forty-seven of $5,000; thirteen of $4,500; thirty-five of $4,000; one hundred and thirty-five from $3,000 to 4,000; six hundred and ninety from $2,000 to $3,000; six thousand, three hundred and fifty from $1,000 to $2,000.



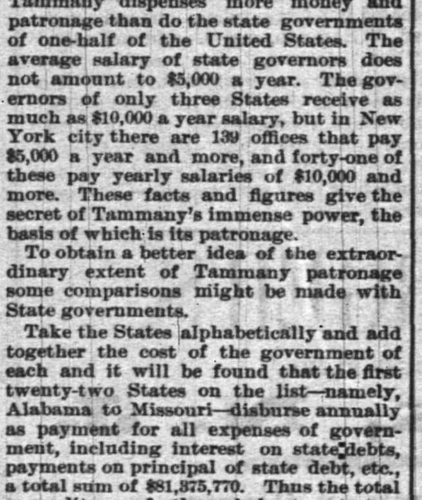
TAMMANY HALL ASSEMBLY ROOM.

There are, however, many more than fifteen thousand persons whose labor is paid for by the New York city taxpayer's money. Employes of the contractors, who obtain contracts from the city for a variety of jobs and men who work on city improvements that are done by contract are indirectly paid by the city, and as their masters are faithful to those who give them the contract, so are the employes faithful and vote as their masters dictate. This swells the number of the Tammany Hall army far beyond the fifteen thousand whose names are on the city payrolls.

The New York city government means the Tammany society, and therefore Tammany dispenses more money and patronage than do the state governments of one-half of the United States. The average salary of state governors does not amount to $5,000 a year. The governors of only three States receive as much as $10,000 a year salary, but in New York city there are 139 offices that pay $5,000 a year and more, and forty-one of these pay yearly salaries of $10,000 and more. These facts and figures give the secret of Tammany's immense power, the basis of which is its patronage.

To obtain a better idea of the extraordinary extent of Tammany patronage some comparisons might be made with State governments.

Take the States alphabetically and add together the cost of the government of each and it will be found that the first twenty-two States on the list—namely, Alabama to Missouri—disburse annually as payment for all expenses of government, including interest on state debts, payments on principal of state debt, etc., a total sum of $81,375,770. Thus the total expenditure of the whole twenty-two state governments named does not equal the amount expended annually by the government of this city.



CROCKER'S CHAIR.

The other twenty-two States spend less, their total being $61,806,456. So it is demonstrated that the New York City government spends more than half as much money annually as it costs to pay the expenses of government, reduction of state debts and interest on the public debt of all the States in the Union.

She Spoiled Her Husband's Joke.

A man in Watertown, N. Y., thought it would be to his advantage to frighten his wife, so he tied a rope round his neck and suspended himself from a convenient hook. Then he awaited developments. His wife took the matter calmly and made no attempt to cut him down. Before very long the practical joker was surprised to find himself dead. His wife is said to look very attractive in heavy mourning. It was shabby of her to spoil her husband's joke, but she may not have had a fine sense of humor.—Chicago News.

A Great Man Vindicates Himself.

"You will not take it as an insult, I presume," said the confidential agent of the Consolidated Franchise Grabbers, "if I offer you this?"

"Yes, sir!" replied the incorruptible alderman from the seventh ward, a flush of honest indignation rising to his face as he counted it hastily and thrust it into his pocket. "I take it, sir—as an insult! It isn't—hum—quite what I expected, sir!"—Chicago Tribune.

Is Secretary Herbert Engaged?

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 11.—Secretary Herbert went to his home in Alabama to vote on Monday last. The secretary, on his return to Washington, stopped over at Lookout Inn, a famous resort near Chattanooga. Miss Brown, the daughter of Ex-Senator Joseph E. Brown, of Georgia, is stopping at the same place. The secretary's visit revives the story that he is engaged to Miss Brown, who is one of the handsomest and wealthiest young ladies in the south.

ON TOP OF BEN. NEVIS.

Saint Elmo's Fire and Various Freaks of Electricity are Met With.

Thunderstorms are most frequent in winter, taking place during the passage of deep cyclonic systems, and are not only unpleasant but sometimes dangerous phenomena. In a severe storm, the rattling of torrents of hail, mingled with the incessant rolling of the thunder and the blinding flashes of lightning are enough to make the stoutest heart quail; while the close proximity of a well-know Mephistophelian celebrity is suggested by the sulphurous odor emanating from the lightning arrester on the telegraph connections.

On one occasion a so-called bolt of lightning came down the office chimney, emerging from the stove with a report as of a rifle, a ball of fire leaping across the room, giving a severe shock to one of the inmates, who was sitting writing at an adjoining table. Sometimes the accumulated electrical energy is dissipated in the form of St. Elmo's fire, this making its appearance as little coruscations in the shape of inverted cones of violet-colored flame about the thickness of a lead pencil. A peculiar "singing noise," not unlike the humming of bees, accompanies it, by which characteristic sound it has been recognized in the daytime, when the light was too strong for the meteor itself to be visible. In brilliant displays, the anemometer cups, revolving rapidly, appear as a solid ring of fire; while the wind vane resembles a flaming arrow.

The appearance of the observer is equally striking; his coat, gloves and hat are aglow with the "fire," while his mustache becomes electrified, so as to make a veritable lantern of his face. A smart, stinging sensation on the temples and scalp is frequently experienced, so that it is no matter for surprise that the apparition usually beats a hasty, although "brilliant" retreat into the tower, there to enjoy without personal discomfort, a scene highly suggestive of the realms of Pluto or the Stygian creek. The phenomenon is simply a slow ejection of electricity, analogous to the "brush" discharge of an ordinary electrical machine.

A RIGHT ROYAL DUCHESS.

The Duke of Bedford's Wife Devotes Time and Energy to Noble Work.

The Duchess of Bedford, like her sister, Lady Henry Somerset, although possessing exceptional beauty, rank and good health, has devoted herself to the cause of the poor and suffering of her own sex.

She attaches the greatest importance to the drink question, and may be said to have converted Lady Henry Somerset to her views, though the latter has now become a more ardent reformer than herself.

Even when Marchioness of Tavistock, and in the first flush of her youth and beauty, the Duchess spent every moment of her spare time in trying to practically alleviate some of the misery which she saw around her; and it was after she joined a rescue society in Pimlico that she became aware what a terrible part the love of strong drink played in the lives of many poverty stricken and hard working women. As an energetic member of the Ladies' Association for the care of friendless girls, she tried to persuade those young people with whom she came in contact to take the pledge, and, in order that there might be no sham in what she did, herself became a total abstainer.

This was twelve years ago, and since then by public speaking whenever she had the chance, such as at church congresses or at meetings where women's welfare was in question, she has incessantly labored to promote the cause of temperance. Two years ago the Duchess started the Happy Home Thank Offering Band, whose aim is explained by its name. The society has gone on increasing, and its members form a true link between the contented mothers of families and those with whom life has not dealt so gently. When not busy in London, the Duchess spends most of her spare time at Woburne Abbey, the Duke of Bedford's beautiful country seat, and even when there she always makes it a practice to have parties of children down to spend a happy day or week as the case may be.

Greeley's Reply to The Union League.

When the war closed Horace Greeley was the first to extend to the vanquished confederacy the hand of fellowship. His appeal for general amnesty made through the Tribune on the morning after Lee's surrender, awakened bitter resentment in every part of the North.

The attack nerved him to a greater display of moral courage. Heedless of his own personal interests, he was the first to go upon the bond of the imprisoned President of the confederacy. Maddened by the assassination of Lincoln, the attention of his political friends was diverted from the intent of the act to the untimeliness and incongruity of it. He was looked upon by the Republicans as a Judas Iscariot, and cursed by them from one end of the country to the other. How he flamed into honest indignation! Listen to him in response to an invitation to appear before the Union League Club and defend his course:

"Gentlemen, I shall not attend your meeting this evening. I have an engagement out of town, and I shall keep it. I do not recognize you as capable of judging or even fully apprehending me. You evidently regard me as a weak sentiment talist, misled by a maudlin philosophy. I arraign you as narrow-minded blockheads, who would like to be useful to a great and good cause, but don't know how.

So long as any man was seeking to overthrow our Government, he was my enemy; from the hour in which he laid down his arms, he was my formerly erring countryman. So long as any is at heart opposed to the national unity, the Federal authority, or to that assertion of the equal rights of all men, which has become practically identified with loyalty and nationality, I shall do my best to deprive him of power; but whenever he ceases to be thus, I demand his restoration to all the privileges of American citizenship."

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

Why a Fast Ship Gets a Bonus.

At first thought the bonus of $402,500 won by the builders of the cruiser Minneapolis may seem an enormous sum for a knot or two of additional speed in a warship, but when we remember how many of our cruisers have been saved from capture in our former wars by sailing a fraction of a knot faster than the pursuing ships, the clause in the contract which gives fifty thousand dollars for every quarter of a knot above the contract speed will seem eminently proper; especially if it results in saving a ship that cost one or two million dollars. It was by being able to sail a trifle faster than several British frigates on the coast of North America, that the Providence, Lieut. John Paul Jones, escaped capture in the first year of the war for American independence. Had the Providence been captured in that cruise the memorable battle between the Bonhomme Richard and the Serapis might never have been fought.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

THE TARIFF STRUGGLE

Democrats Believe It Will Cease To-Day.

The Caucus Leaders Claim To Have a Satisfactory Solution of the Problem Before Them—What Action Will the President Take If the Senate Bill Is Sent To Him?

Washington, Aug. 13.—The week just ended left the tariff bill hanging in mid air. What its conditions will be by the time the present week is ended the most sanguine politician will not predict. There is a strong hope, however, that the time for action has arrived and that the long and exceedingly tiresome struggle is about to cease. The situation has become clear to a certain extent, for it is no longer a question of choice between the senate bill and the Wilson bill, but between the senate bill and the McKinley law. The action of the senate on Saturday in going into executive session to shut off debate was accomplished only on a tie vote, and that was reached by the votes of the two Louisiana senators who the day before voted on a similar question in an opposite direction. Mr. Stewart, on the republican side of the chamber, despite the entreaties of his colleagues, refused to remain, and as the clerk began to call the roll left the chamber without a pair being provided.

At the conference of the conservatives and the steering committee of the democrats on Saturday the opinion was general that the Hill resolution would pass by a good majority if a vote is taken, and it was believed then that a vote would be reached this afternoon. A member of the conferees on the part of the senate said that if the senate passed that resolution the conferrees would certainly bring in a disagreeing report, and the senate would hold that it had the bill before it subject to its action. What that action will be there is no contrariety of views, as democrats and republicans alike now admit that if the bill gets before the senate again it will be defeated.

Democrats who want to see some sort of a tariff bill passed by this congress look to the house for their political salvation, and the situation now appears to be a race for time. The house, in caucus, will be urged to take up the senate bill and accept it as it came to that body and thus end the struggle, some of the democratic authorities on parliamentary law in both branches maintaining that this can be done legally, although the bill is now in conference; that at least its show of legality would be as good as that contemplated by senators in demanding a disagreeing report on the bill so that they may kill it. The action of the house caucus is therefore fraught with much importance to the future of the tariff bill.

No business of any kind can be done in the senate until this tangle is unraveled, for there appears to be votes enough to keep the matter before the senate a certain number of hours each day. It is said that to-day it will be proved to the Louisiana senators that they cannot get the bounty which, it is asserted, the house conferrees have promised them, and that as soon as they know this they will again vote as they did before on all motions intended to defeat the bill. The debate in the senate began promptly after some routine morning business to-day, but when it will end cannot be foretold.

Leading democrats who are leagued with the administration in this issue say that there will not be any effort at filibustering against it. The only item of business arranged for the house this week is not, strictly speaking, house business at all, but is of general importance and value because of its possible effect upon the business of the house.

A caucus of democratic members was called for this morning to determine upon a policy to be pursued with respect to the tariff bill. Upon the issue of that caucus may, and probably will, largely depend the subsequent proceedings of the house.

If it shall be determined that business is to be continued, it will undoubtedly be proceeded with along the lines that have been followed during the past few weeks. A few committees remain on the list of applicants which have not been awarded a day for the consideration of business reported from them, and the committee on rules feel inclined, if the opportunity and time remain, to grant the same privileges that other committees have enjoyed. Friends of the proposed new public buildings in New York and Chicago are pressing for a day in which those projects may be considered and a vote reached on the question of authorizing their construction.

Under the rules the committee on the District of Columbia may ask for to-day's session to consider its business, and Chairman Heard says he will endeavor to secure the passage of some bills of pressing local interest.

THE HOUSE CAUCUS.

Confident of a Solution of the Tariff Problem.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The night before the house caucus which will settle the fate of the pending tariff legislation found the democratic leaders in that body, who have charge of the measure, calm in spirit and confident of a satisfactory solution of the problem before them.

The house conferrees were not in session yesterday, but Messrs. Wilson and Breckinridge spent the most of the afternoon together, talking over the situation. They were joined later in the evening by several gentlemen, and the understanding last night was that no opposition would be made at the caucus to the motions to concur in the senate's amendment to the tariff bill.

There has been some question as to the president's wishes regarding the caucus. It was thought in some quarters that he might use his influence with the house leaders to prevent the caucus, and thus continue the contest between the two houses. There is no good reason to believe that the president will attempt to interfere. On the contrary, one of the most distinguished democrats in public life—a gentleman who is deeply interested in the [illegible] president wishes day and explained to him at considerable length the situation as viewed from the house standpoint.

Incidental mention was made of to-day's caucus, but the president had nothing to say with reference to it. He did not approve, nor did he condemn it, and was apparently as indifferent as to its result as though it were a mere matter of routine action.

Another subject of speculation was what action the president will take if the senate bill be sent to him. Will he veto it, or sign it, or permit it to become a law without his signature? It is said by those who are "closest" to the president, both in a personal and a political sense, that he will approve any bill which comes to him with the sanction of the house conferrees. His approval might take the form of permitting it to become a law without his signature, but it is not believed that he will veto it under the foregoing circumstances. The members of the senate "steering" committee were not in session yesterday. One of the number predicted that the house caucus would agree to accept the senate bill and that all the democrats in the senate, with the exception of two or three, would facilitate their efforts to secure the bill and pass it. This gentleman believes that the bill is in the possession of the house, and in that opinion the leading house democrats agree with him. It is openly stated by certain democratic senators that if the bill be retained in the senate it is dead. It is for this reason that the senate friends of the measure will use their efforts to get it before the house, feeling that if this cannot be accomplished, there is no possibility of a tariff legislation by this congress.

TO LOOK AFTER SUGAR.

Louisiana Planters Will Visit the Capitol.

New Orleans, Aug. 13.—A committee representing the sugar planters of the state and consisting of John Dymond, president of the Sugar Planters' association; State Senator Henry McCall and ex-Governor Warmoth, have left for Washington.

Ex-Governor Warmoth, for the committee, declared that he did not know what it would advise, and would not know until it reached Washington and took a survey of the situation.

"The situation is so complicated," he said, "and the fate of sugar is so precarious, that I find it impossible to settle permanently upon any conclusion as to results. What we shall advise our representatives to do depends in a great measure on what we learn after reaching the capitol."

TROOPS STILL ON GUARD.

Omaha Strikers To Be Kept in Order Several Days Longer.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 13.—It looks as if the South Omaha strikers would be kept in order by the troops for several days longer. The military officers are discussing the proposition to hold the state encampment of the Nebraska National guards in South Omaha instead of Lincoln. The time set for the encampment is to-morrow. Attorney General Gage said that no definite agreement had been reached, but one thing was certain, and that was that the state encampment would go on and that this strike would not interfere with it. It is pretty certain that the encampment will be held at South Omaha, as there is no likelihood that the militiamen now stationed there will be released by to-morrow.

AMBUSHED BY INDIANS.

Fifteen Soldiers Killed and Many Wounded in Mexico.

Hermosillo, Mex., Aug. 13.—The forces of government soldiers sent against the Yaqui Indians have met with defeat in all attacks so far made and the Indians, emboldened by their successes are committing depredations upon the unprotected ranchmen. A courier has arrived here, bringing news of an encounter between soldiers and Indians near the village of Chiltepines, which resulted in fifteen soldiers being killed and a large number wounded. The Indians lost about ten. The Indians ambushed the soldiers, and after firing one volley into their ranks, fled into the mountains. The government will be asked to send reinforcements against the Yaquis.

SPANISH SAILORS DISCHARGED.

Seized for Violations of the Revenue Laws.

New York, Aug. 13.—A Times special from Tampa, Fla., says: "The crews of twelve Spanish fishing schooners, which were seized and brought to this port last month by the revenue cutter McLane for violations of the revenue laws and quarantine regulations, have been have been discharged from the vessels by an agent who came from Havana in the interest of the owners. There has been no provision made by the owners for the men to get home, and the crews, eighty-six men, are without means. It is said that the Spanish consul has asked that a Spanish war vessel be sent to take the men home to Matanzas and Havana.

St. Mary's at New London.

New London, Conn., Aug. 13.—The New York state schoolship St. Mary's arrived in this harbor yesterday, 29 days from Maderia, making the run 7 days quicker than she made it one year ago when on a foreign cruise. She left here May 25 last, making her first stop at Fayal, thence proceeding to Gibraltar and Maderia, returning direct from Maderia. The voyage was pleasant, the ship experiencing light weather.

Gaudaur Challenges Sullivan.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 13.—J. W. Gaudaur has deposited $500 as a forfeit for a sculling match with Thomas Sullivan, late of Australia and now a resident of England, for $10,000 or more a side. Gaudaur will row either on the Thames or the Tyne two months from date of acceptance if allowed $250 for expenses, or he will allow Sullivan $500 if he will come to America.

Steerage Rates Not Changed.

London, Aug. 13.—The Hamburg correspondent of the Central News says: "The conference between the German North Atlantic Steamship companies and the British steamship lines was abortive. The German steerage rates remain at $10. A new conference has been proposed."

Died at Asbury Park.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 13.—Miss Lillian Phillips, of Chicago, who was spending the summer at this place, died yesterday of pneumonia. The remains will be taken to Chicago to-day.

LUTHER C. CHALLIS DEAD.

The Once Daring Speculator Died Almost in Want.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 13.—Luther C. Challis, who has been a prominent figure in this city and Atchison during the past twenty years, and who was at one time a most daring speculator in New York, lies dead at his home in Atchison. He was once among the leaders of Wall street. Several times in his life Challis was worth $1,000,000, but he died almost in want. In the west he was known as a heavy speculator and railroad builder, but for several years before his death he was not engaged in any business.

After the death of ex-Gov. John A. Martin, of Kansas, Challis became editor of the Atchison Champion. He swung it against John J. Ingalls for re-election to the United States senate. Ingalls was once editor of the Champion.

TAKING BACK OLD HANDS.

Seven Lake Shore Switchmen Return To Work.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—The Lake Shore railroad took back seven of its old switchmen to-day. These were the first of the men to return to work on this road since the strike was declared off. The company is acting slowly, and shows a disposition to let their employes who left them remain idle for a time. None of the men hired during the strike are being discharged, and the officials of the road say that until their places are vacant very few of the old men will have a chance. Nevertheless, quite a number of the switching-engines are in the roundhouse doing nothing on account of dull business, and it is anticipated that as soon as business picks up the strikers will be asked to return to work.

OKLAHOMA BANDITS.

An Organized Band Robbing Merchants and Farmers.

El Reno, O. T., Aug. 13.—A gang of bandits is still plying its vocation in this section of Western Oklahoma. Five of them entered a store at Northville, an inland village 15 miles west of here, and compelled the merchant to turn over to them all his cash, amounting to several hundred dollars. The bandits then ransacked the store for provisions, and taking a good supply, they rode rapidly away. A few miles from the village they stopped a farmer by drawing revolvers and forced him to select from his herd five head of horses, which they took. They are thought to have been members of a well organized band located west of here in the Kiowa and Comanche Indian country.

PARIS ANARCHISTS.

All of the Defendants Except Three Acquitted.

Paris, Aug. 13.—The great anarchist trial ended in the acquittal of all the thirty defendants on the charge of anarchy. Three of the prisoners, however, were found guilty on other charges.

The presiding judge submitted sixty questions to the jury. After two hours' deliberation the jury acquitted all the prisoners of anarchy, but convicted Ortis of burglary and Chericotti and Bertani of receiving stolen property. Ortiz was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment, Chericotti to eight years at hard labor, and Bertani to six months' imprisonment. In the case of Bertani the sentence is tantamount to release, as he has already undergone six months' detention.

A Woonsocket Hotel Raided.

Woonsocket, R. I., Aug. 13.—The police raided the City hotel, on South Main street and secured a raft of beer and liquor in the dining room, restaurant and cellar. Only the barroom is licensed to sell liquor, and the license commissioners may take the case in hand.

An Old Jockey Club Assigns.

Louisville, Aug. 13.—The old Louisville Jockey Club, which has been at the head of racing in the south for twenty years, has practically passed out of existence. Assignee Osborne accepted the only bid made, that of $9,000, by the new Louisville Jockey club.

Ambassador Bayard's Trip.

London, Aug. 13.—Thomas F. Bayard, United States ambassador to Great Britain, accompanied by Viscount Wolseley, the Earl of Portsmouth, Baron Kelvin, Sir J. P. Mowbray, M. P., and General Sir Evelyn Wood, has gone to Genoa to meet Sir John Pender on the steamer Electra. The party, as guests of Sir John, will visit several Mediterranean ports and will then proceed to Constantinople and Sebastopol.

Harness Makers' Convention.

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—The eighth annual convention of the Harness-Makers' association of the United States convened in Pittsburg to-day and will continue in session until Wednesday. Every state in the union will have delegates present, and in all about 150 representatives are expected. An elaborate programme of entertainment has been prepared, ending with a banquet Wednesday evening.

EVICTION AT PULLMAN

Starving Strikers' Families Must Leave.

Their Homes Needed for New Workmen—Not Less Than 5,000 Men, Women and Children Will Be Turned Into the Streets—Serious Trouble Likely To Occur.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Mr. Pullman has decided to turn his striking tenants into the streets. He has made up his mind to evict them from their dismal houses early this week. The legal papers, which must be served on the starving strikers as a preliminary to setting their goods into the street were understood to be in course of preparation in Attorney Runnell's office under positive orders of Mr. Pullman.

When seen at his office Mr. Runnells refused to be interviewed.

Second Vice-President Wickes, who talks straight to the point and does not dodge reporters, confirmed the report that tenants would be put out of Mr. Pullman's houses as soon as the company could get rid of them.

Mr. Wickes did not say that this course was being taken under orders of Mr. Pullman, but to those who have followed the situation such a statement was not necessary.

Mr. Wickes admitted that something of the kind would have to be done if the strikers who are living in company houses did not return to work soon. On Saturday Mr. Pullman visited the shops. He evidently determined then to get rid of his unprofitable tenants and settle the question himself. The excuse given for turning strikers out of their homes is that the houses are needed by new workmen who have taken the places of strikers. There are nearly 400 vacant houses of various kinds in Pullman, as many, perhaps, as will be needed by the new men for some weeks. It would seem that the Pullman company might allow its late employes to remain in the houses until they were actually needed, but it will do nothing of the kind.

Should the company carry out its programme in this regard, and there is little doubt that every striker who does not go to work will be put out, the town of Pullman would be almost wholly depopulated. It would be, say those who have watched the course of this whole trouble was the most cruel tion this country has ever seen, if not one of the most heartless recorded in history.

It seems inevitable that no less than 5,000 men, women and children will be turned into the streets. About 1,500 are tenants of the Pullman company, most of them with large families. Few, if any of them, have paid a dollar of rent since the strike was declared. Most of them are on the point of starvation and so poor they could not pay an expressman for hauling their goods out of town.

The strikers have steadily avoided discussing the possibilities of eviction, although they were warned that it would surely come. They have been hoping the trouble would be settled in some way that would not drive them from the town.

"God pity the officials of the company if they attempt to evict us," said Robert Coombes, a member of the strike committe. "I don't like to think of what would happen, I want to get away before anything of that kind begins."

The situation at Pullman is getting worse for the strikers who held out. Nearly 1,000 new men were employed from downtown, and 180 additional ones engaged to report to-day. The company will then have nearly 1,700, or within 300 of the number, it expects to work this winter. The large proportion of them are new-comers.

AFFAIRS AT HAWAII.

Everybody Confident of the Stability of the Republic.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 13.—Advices from Honolulu say:

All continues quiet. Complete confidence prevails in the stability of the republic. Registration in the coming election is actively going on throughout the country. The natives are being registered in moderate numbers. The royalist leaders are doing their utmost to hold them back. The queen and her party still cling to a hope that her commissioners to Washington will accomplish much for her reinstatement by the United States.

On account of the defection of the Holomua (a newspaper), which advises the royalists to register, Bush's newspaper, the Ka-leo, has been persuaded to issue an English edition, neatly gotten up, which denounces the Holomua.

The World's Championship.

Cincinnati, Aug. 13.—At Woodsdale Island Charles Witmer, heavyweight wrestler, knocked out ten men in ninety minutes, and thus became the world's champion for such feats. The men were to have gotten $1 per minute for each minute over nine, but no money was won by any of them. Heretofore Muldoon has held the world's record for such.

Freight Cars Wrecked.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 13.—A broken axle caused the wrecking of ten freight cars near White House, on the Pennsylvania road, yesterday. Michael McGrath, one of the three tramps who were stealing a ride, fell between the cars and was so badly hurt that both arms were amputated at the city hospital. McGrath's home is at Brooklyn, N. Y.

CHANG STILL VICEROY

Censured by the Emperor for Remissness.

He Retains Office and Has Entire Charge of the Chinese Naval and Military Forces—Pluck of the Japs Praised—Attack on Wei-Hai-Wei Regarded as Rashness.

London, Aug. 13.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Central News has been enabled to obtain from an official Chinese source a full confirmation of the report that Li Hung Chang had been reproved and degraded by the emperor for dilatoriness in prosecuting the war. The correspondent says:

"The emperor expressed his displeasure at the backward condition of the forces, censured Li Hung Chang for remissness, and in a secret degree deprived him of the yellow coat and the peacock feather and reduced him in rank three degrees.

"Nevertheless Li Hung Chang retains office and, inasmuch as he has been given entire charge of the naval and military forces, enjoys all the privileges of viceroy."

The correspondent says that the incident is entirely comprehensible to anybody conversant with Chinese customs.

In British naval circles the attacks upon Wei-Hai-Wei and Port Arthur are regarded as daring to rashness, and the pluck of the Japanese is praised unstintedly.

The attacks are compared to a suppositive attack upon Toulon.

Wei-Hai-Wei and Port Arthur have exceedingly strong defences. Moreover, according to the testimony of Captain Lang and others conversant with the facts, the Chinese are expert torpedoists and gunners. It is assumed that the Japanese attack is part of a scheme to keep the Chinese fleet in the gulf of Pe-chi-li while Japan pours troops into Korea.

Another dispatch from Shanghai says:

"It was reported that twenty-six ships were engaged in the attack on Wei-Hai-Wei. Whether or not all were warships is not known. The forts and vessels exchanged about fifty shots. The forts fired badly; their shells fell short or wide. The attacks, it is thought, were a ruse to draw fire in order to ascertain the strength and position of the Chinese guns. No damage is reported to have been done at either Wei-Hai-Wei or Port Arthur.

"Two Chinese gunboats were sighted on August 9, speeding towards Tien-Tsin."

London, Aug. 13.—The Daily News recommends concerted action by the European powers to stop the war between China and Japan. It says:

"China and Japan, respectively, embody conservative and innovating forces. It is therefore natural that western nations should sympathize with Japan. If her ultimate victory probable, or even within the range of practical possibilities, there might be plausible arguments against intervention. But the permanent defeat of China is almost impossible, and the result, unless the powers interpose, will probably be the extinction of the Japanese autonomy, and jealous exclusion of "foreign devils" from Japan as well as China. If mutual jealousy prevents the European powers from acting, there remains the alternative of possible action by the United States. That may be contrary to one aspect of the Monroe doctrine and opposed to American ideas, but the situation is exceptional enough to justify a departure from precedent and usage. The fighting cannot continue without seriously injuring the trade of the world."

INTENDED TO KILL BOTH.

A Lancaster, Pa., School Teacher Shot by a Jealous Husband.

Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 13.—Frank B. Shibley, a well-known school teacher, was shot and probably fatally injured yesterday by George Simmons, his next-door neighbor. Simmons was drunk and imagined that Shibley was too intimate with his wife. The ball lodged in Shibley's head and the physicians have thus far been unable to find it.

Simmons, who is sixty-three years old and a prominent engineer, was arrested and held to await the result of Shibley's injuries. After his arrest he said he intended to kill his wife as well as Shibley.

SPRING VALLEY MINERS.

Some Return to Work, Others Still Out.

Spring Valley, Ill., Aug. 13.—The miners of Spring Valley held another meeting here and again voted unanimously not to resume work. The company would not recognize their union. The committee went to Manager Dalzell and asked if his proposition was the company's ultimatum. They were informed that it was. The Ladd, Lasalle and Seatonville operators have recognized the union and the men are now all at work. Manager Dalzell remains firm in his determination not to recognize the union, and the fight promises to last for some time yet.

Vigilant and Britannia Matched.

Cowes, Aug. 13.—The match arranged between the Britannia and the Vigilant for a race of fifteen miles to windward and return, for a prize of £100, offered by Lord Wolverton, will be decided on Wednesday. The weather mark will be placed on the morning of the race according to the wind. The sailing committee of the Royal Yacht squadron will manage the contest. Her majesty's yacht Osborne will accompany the racers.

Secretary Herbert at the Capital.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Secretary Herbert returned last evening to Washington. He has been in Alabama, whither he went to cast his vote for Colonel Oates for governor. En route to Washington Secretary Herbert visited some friends in Kentucky.

Increased Working Force.

Alexandria, Ind., Aug. 13.—Two hundred employes of the Lippincott chimney works have arrived from the east. The factory will open August 15 with 100 more employes that ever before, making 700 in all.

GOSSIP FROM GERMANY

Boycotters and Ring Brewers Still Struggling.

Parson Waechter Out in the Cold—Manifesto by the New Clerical Party—Fraulien von Moltke's Wedding—Queen Wilhelmina Stops a Train—Kainz Appears as a Super.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—The struggle between the socialist boycotters and the ring brewers does not grow less. Although both parties have suffered enough to welcome the end, neither one thinks of yielding a point. The Vorwaerts, which leads the fight for the socialists with daily columns of exhortation of friends and denunciation of enemies, says that the list of boycotted houses carries now some 2,000 names. Many of these houses, however, are the smallest backyard saloons, whose business interests are hardly worth considering.

The social democrats commemorated during the week the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of their party. In commenting on the central committee's claim of 2,000,000 social democratic voters in Germany, the Vorwaerts says: "The rapidity of the social democray's growth is unexampled in the history of parties. The social democracy's development forms the chief factor of this century's civilization."

Theodore Waechter, the parson who forsook his calling to devote his energies to spreading socialism, has got into trouble with the social democratic leaders and has been set out in the cold by them. He wished to combine socialism and christianity in his teachings, and the mixture excited the disgust of the infidels who control the party organization. He has gone to Dortmund to found a party of his own. He will call his followers christian socialists. He hopes that the regular leaders will repent and let him elaborate his social theories at the Frankfort national congress, but he is likely to be disappointed.

The new clerical party in Wurtemberg have published a manifesto which has caused a political stir throughout the empire. Their chief demands are: "The preservation of the empire, the safeguarding of Wurtemberg's individual rights, direct responsibility of the imperial chancellor to the federal council, the promotion of christian social reform, the improvement of the workingman's lot, and last, but far from least, priestly supervision of all the public elementary schools."

Berlin society looks forward with keen expectation to the wedding of Fraulein Lena von Moltke, eldest grandniece of the old field marshal and daughter of Count Wilhelm von Moltke. She is eighteen years old, tall and handsome. There will be fifteen bridesmaids from the oldest Silesian families and any number of princely guests.

Prof. Koch is taking Pastor Kneipp's water in Woerrishofen.

An amusing story is told here of young Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. She and the queen regent were on a special train between Munich and Wuerzberg. Suddenly the signal for the emergency break was pulled and the train halted abruptly. The guard and chief engineer hurried in alarm from carriage to carriage, asking members of the suite what the trouble was. Nobody could say. The chief engineer then approached the royal salon. The young queen leaned out of the window, and, with the blush of guilt all over her face, exclaimed: "Don't you come here. I didn't do it."

The young woman had pulled the signal merely to see what would happen.

Berlin newspapers printed yesterday in their theatrical columns a neat story of Joseph Kainz's last eccentric performance on the stage. Kainz had gone to Fuerth to play a star engagement. His engagement was not to begin until the following day, so, in a fit of humor, he decided to appear as a super on the preceding evening. He came out among a crowd of students in the second act of the comedy. While he was singing his loudest in a drinking chorus, some of the audience recognized him and gave him an enthusiastic call. The performance was stopped, and, to silence his admirers, Kainz sang a few lines of a student song and gave an impromptu recitation

The will of a Bavarian woman, just probated, provides that 50,000 marks be set apart from her estates to help the cause of universal peace. The interest of 25,000 marks is to be given to the German peace society in Berlin and the interest of the rest is to be sent to the international peace bureau in Berne.

EXPLORERS RETURN.

An American Party Landed at St. Johns, N. F.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 13.—The steamer Grandlake arrived from Labrador yesterday and brought the American hunting and exploring party, consisting of Messrs. Lineweavers, Tenny, Titus and Root, who were landed from the steamer Miranda carrying the Cook Arctic expedition. They report that other exploring parties were north of them. The steamer reports quantities of ice along the coast. The captain still thinks that the whole northern sea is covered with icebergs, rendering Arctic navigation very dangerous. It reported that the schooner Princess Alice, with three of the crew, has been lost.

Brakes Failed To Work.

London, Aug. 13.—While the Edinburg express was entering the St. Pancras station, London, last evening, the brakes failed and the train dashed against the buffers. The guards' van and one car were wrecked. Twenty-one persons were injured, six of them seriously. No one was killed. The guard saved himself by jumping.

Strikers Running Hacks.

Youngstown, O., Aug. 13.—The striking street car employes have turned the tables on the company by securing hacks, which are being run on all the streets covered by the street car lines, and carrying passengers at the same fare. The employes are now engaged in inducing the public to patronize the hacks and boycott the street cars.

There's nothing so GOOD AS Cottolene

The new vegetable shortening. Wherever introduced, it drives lard from the kitchen, and indigestion from the household. It has been tried by every test, and has met every requirement. It is as much superior to lard as the electric light is to the tallow-dip. The only question now is, will you give your family the benefits which its use bestows?

There's nothing LIKE Cottolene

In composition, in healthfulness, in flavor, or in economy. Its success has called out a lot of imitations and counterfeits made for the sole purpose of selling in the place and on the merits of Cottolene. Avoid them all. They are made to sell and they are a sell. Get the genuine COTTOLENE.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Excitement in the Borough Over a Borrowed Horse.

Samuel Moore, teamster, of Race street, missed one of his horses last night, and at 12 went to Chief Marshal Pangborn on Somerset street and reported his loss. The marshal told him not to do anything hastily, but to wait and see if one of of his friends had not borrowed the animal. Moore could not be quieted, however, and went about the borough investigating the matter.

He finally found that his horse had been taken by his son Fred, hitched to Peter Seader's two-seated carriage, and driven over the mountain. Fred had taken Chris Wise and Firman Godown with him to Pedefiou's hotel.

Teamster Moore hitched up another horse to a buggy and drove towards the hotel. It was then nearly 2. He found the rig in the road about 200 yards from the place, headed for the borough. He left the buggy, and in spite of the remarks of those in the carriage, unhitched his "stolen" horse, tied it behind the buggy, and drove home.

Wise deserted the others in their predicament when he saw what had been done, and Godown and Moore had to haul Seader's wagon down to the yard back of the borough lockup. Godown pulled from between the shafts while Moore pushed in the rear. They promised to pay Seader for the use of his part of the rig, and Fred attended to the settling of the matter with his father.

GRATIFYING GROWTH.

Another Important Commercial Improvement in Plainfield.

Ignatz Boehm, the progressive and popular dry-goods merchant of 113 West Front street, is compelled by the press of business which he has built up through earnest effort and honest dealing to enlarge his store to more than double its present capacity.

For 15 years he has lived over the store, but today he moved his family to 106 Manning avenue, North Plainfield, and will take away the present front stairway and add that space to the store. He will put up a stairway inside of the store at the rear, and take out the partitions on the second floor, using all of the acquired space to display goods and accommodate customers.

Scotch Plains Won.

Three races entertained a Scotch Plains and Woodbridge crowd at the driving park Saturday afternoon. The black trotting mare owned by Vincent W. Sisser of Scotch Plains, beat a Bayonne pacer in three straight heats for $100 a side. The time was 2:33, 2:34, 2:32½. General Benham, owned by Mr. Annis of Woodbridge, trotted against J. Wesley Johnson's Richard Wilkes, and won in three straight heats in 2:34, 2:31, 2:33. The second heat was very exciting. In two of three heats, Wm. Annis's pacer beat Mr. Hayes's, the best time being 2:39½.

George J. Tobin, S. P.

George J. Tobin, one of the brightest young men in the local business world, is henceforth to go it alone, his partner having withdrawn. Mr. Tobin has an established reputation as a sanitary plumber, and is doing an immense amount of high-grade work. He personally supervises the fulfillment of every order entrusted to him, and is just the man to consult when you want repairs or improvements made. He carries a full stock of all the modern appliances in his line, and gives prompt and perfect service.

A Mother's Love.

John Newman, the West Third street youth who achieved notoriety by his attack of "hydrophobia", and more recently by his attack on Apple-grower Hoagland, spent just one day in Elizabeth. His mother paid $15 in fines Saturday, and Chief Grant brought the boy back from jail, where he was to have spent 40 days.

Completing the Work.

F. M. Bacon having consummated for the new owner, Edward E. Wright of Montclair, settlement with the creditors on the McNabb Building, a new force of men has been put on to complete the work. Enander is doing the plumbing, Edward Marshall the outside painting, and W. G. Gray the inside painting and oiling.

TARIFF LEGISLATION.

The Senate Bill Accepted by the House.

(Special to The Press.)

WASHINGTON, August 13.—In the House today Speaker Crisp offered a resolution that the House recede and accept the Senate bill. Mr. Crisp spoke of the critical condition and of the apparent necessity of accepting the Senate bill, and then, if need be, of introducing separate bills for free sugar, free iron, and free coal.

The resolution was adopted.

CYCLING COMMENT.

In Class B now, Barnett rides as a resident of Cranford.

Monte Scott has had a run this year of the racing which results in winning third prize.

Members of the Crescent Wheelmen are considering a run to Clinton to be held this month.

Isaac Line has sold his wheel and has given up track riding for the season. He will ride in the 25-mile road race Labor Day.

The matinee races given by the Crescent Wheelmen last Wednesday proved so successful that they have decided to give these races every Wednesday during the Summer. They will offer eight exciting events for the 15th.

J. J. Hibbitts of the Lyceum Cyclers did not start in the bicycles races at the field day races of the Diocesan Union in Caledonian Park Saturday. The track was a narrow path, the first man to get the lead being sure that no one could turn out from behind and pass him.

A. H. Barnett left today for Lynn, Mass., where he will ride in a series of road races from Tuesday till Friday. He had intended to go to Allentown this week, but decided to ride in Lynn instead, as he would get a chance at the prizes in a greater number of races there.

No doubt the most interesting race on the card for the matinee Wednesday will be the seventh event. This is open only to members that have never before entered a race. In this race you will see novices from 18 to 60 years of age. Admission is 10 cents, including grandstand.

A. H. Barnett was third in the one-mile handicap, Class B, in Asbury Park Saturday, riding from the 100 yard mark. I. A. Silvie won from 120 yards in 2:22 2-5. Monte Scott rode third in the mile handicap from 30 yards. The winner, Ray Dawson, finished from the 75 yard mark in 2:19 1-5. In the two-third mile scratch Scott was third behind Geo. C. Smith, 1:37, and W. F. Sims second.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

William Addis has gone on a business trip to Massachusetts.

Patrick Dillon of Newark visited his brother-in-law, James Conroy, Sunday.

Miss Grace Rowland of East Second street goes tomorrow to Delaware Water Gap for a week.

Charles Smith today took his wife and children to East New York, where they will remain a week with relatives.

Robert Wyckoff of the Wheelmen's Headquarters is today moving from North Plainfield to Arlington avenue near Ninth street.

Charles F. Williams, an insurance hustler from Mt. Holly, today succeeded J. Brit Martin in the local branch of the Metropolitan Life.

Amos Moffett, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs John G. Stryker and her daughter Lulu, goes tomorrow for two weeks at Ocean Grove.

Madame Knight has temporarily closed her millinery store on West Front street and will remain in Asbury Park until her opening September 20.

Mrs. A. C. Vail has returned from Brooklyn to the home of her son, E. E. Vail, on Elmwood place, bringing with her for a visit her daughter, Mrs. Archibald of Atlantic avenue and her two grandchildren.

The Season's Festival.

A large delegation, it is expected, will go from Plainfield to the harvest home on the grounds of Israel Conn, South Sterling, Tuesday afternoon and evening, August 21. The women of the Union Village Church have the affair in charge, and are working hard to make it a success. It will be held in the real old-fashioned style, with the addition of music by N. H. Guttman's orchestra. Supper will be served at 5. Stages will run from Plainfield between 2 and 8, with a round trip fare of 40 cents. If it rains, the festival will be postponed until the next fair evening.

Among the orators will be Judge W. A. Coddington, Counselor C. A. Reed, F. A. Pope, Rev. M. L. Rhodes, Rev. W. F. Randolph and Rev. W. C. Kinsey.

For sour stomach and all other conditions resulting from constipation, go by the book on Beecham's pills. Book free, pills 25c. At drugstores; or write to B F Allen Co, 365 Canal st, New York.

AN EPITAPH.

I gladly lay me down to sleep
Within the grave so quiet,
For if 'tis calmer than my life
I would be fain to try it.
The earthly goal I sought for—rest—
I found ('tis not surprising),
For I engaged in business and
Eschewed all advertising.

The merchant who grumbles and sighs,
And turns up the whites of his eighs
In sorrow and pique
Because trade's very wique,
Is the fellow who won't advertighs!

EDISON'S ANIMATE PHOTOGRAPHS.

The Movements of Men Depicted as Such by Pictures.

The latest of Wizard Edison's inventions, the kinetoscope, is on exhibition. Although the apparatus is to a considerable extent a resemblance to a toy that has long been a favorite with children; it has new features, and illustrates principles in photography, optical illusions, and electricity that render it of interest. Mr. Edison has succeeded in constructing a machine which brings a series of photographs before the eye with such great rapidity that the eye cannot detect the change from one photograph to the next. This produces the effect of lifelike action in the series of views. Ten views are now on exhibition. The first shows Sandow, the strong man, performing his feats. Then there is a scene in a barber shop, in which a customer takes his place in a chair and the barber shaves him in regular style. Bertoldi, the contortionist, whose photograph is not more than an inch in length, gives one of her difficult exhibitions. There are a wrestling contest, a rooster fight, a Highland dance, an organ grinder with monkey, three blacksmiths at a forge, and a gymnast in a flying ring exercise. It may be said that the rooster fight is the most exciting of the views, but it is more edifying to the men and boys than to the women and girls who visit the kinetoscope. Three blacksmiths at the forge are very lively in their movements, it being evident that they are impressed with the importance of striking while the iron is hot. They are thirsty after the iron is shaped, and each in turn takes a drink from a bottle in a manner amusing to the spectator. Although the kinetoscope is far from being a perfect machine, it combines principles which Mr. Edison may greatly improve in the near future. The name of the machine is not an invention of the "Wizard." It is in the dictionary.

HOW THE RUSSIANS EAT.

They Have a Meal About Every Two Hours and Drink Plenty of Vodki.

The Russians eat on an average once every two hours. The climate and custom require such frequent meals, the digestion of which is aided by frequent draughts of vodki and tea. Vodki is the Russian whiskey, and made from potatoes and rye. It is fiery and colorless, and flavored with some extract like vanilla or orange. It is drunk from small cups that hold, perhaps, half a gill. Vodki and tea are the inseparable accompaniments of friendly, as well as of business intercourse in the country of the Czar. Drunken men are rare. Russia and Sweden are the only countries in which the double dinner is the rule. When you go to the house of a Russian, be he a friend or a stranger, you are at once invited to a side table, where salted meats, pickled eel, salted cucumbers, and many other spicy and appetizing viands are urged upon you with an impressiveness that knows no refusal. This repast is washed down with frequent cups of vodki. That over, and when the visitor feels as if he had eaten enough for twenty-four hours, the host says: "And now for dinner."

ORANGES AS A WHISKEY CURE.

A Kentucky Authority on Inebriety Gives Some Valuable Information.

It is now universally acknowledged by competent authorities that inebriety is a disease, physical as well as mental and moral, and to give the pledge of total abstinence to the inveterate drunkard without specific instructions what to do next, and expect him to keep it, is to look for a stupendous effort which only the man of sound mental energy and bodily vigor can perform. An expert, writing on this subject, says that the first step in the progress of true temperance reform must be the recognition of the fact that the irresistible craving for strong drink is the effect of causes which must be got rid of before the drunkard can be regarded as safe from temptation. The various patent remedies can in no sense be regarded as a cure, for the only cure in the real sense of the word is to get the whole man into better condition, his body purified and his will strengthened. Diet is of extreme importance, and if skillfully directed will wean away the craving naturally and without danger to the individual. All salted and heavy food stuffs should be avoided. To cultivate a distaste for alcohol, oranges are more effective than almost anything else known. They should be taken, one at a time, before breakfast, at 11 a. m., at 1 p. m., 3 p. m., at 6 p. m., and the last thing on retiring. Apples and lemon juice are also excellent.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Experiments with Great Cold.

In these hot days it is specially interesting to read in a despatch from London that a frozen soap bubble broken in two and floating like an iridescent transparent egg shell on the surface of a vessel of liquid air was one of the most marvellous sights shown by Prof. Dewar in a recent lecture at the Royal Institution on the effects of intense cold. In the experiment the professor poured a few spoonfuls of liquid air into a glass vessel. The intense cold caused by evaporation produced a miniature snow-storm in the atmosphere above the liquid. The bubble became darker. The movements of the rainbow-colored film grew slower. It contracted somewhat in size, and a moment later froze. A slight movement broke it from the rod in two pieces, which floated for an hour, gradually accumulating a tiny snowdrift within, precipitated from the freezing air above.

A Man who Has a Record.

Governor R. M. Price, who died in New New York not long ago, was in his history and his personality a pecular and interesting character. He was the man who raised the American flag on California soil and who read to the people the proclamation of occupation. As prefect, appointed by Com Sloat, he was the first American to hold a judicial office in California. It was there that he became involved in financial troubles, which, almost forgotten for the space of two generations, rose up to embitter the last years of his life.

The Queer Fruitarians.

The "Fruitarians" is the name of a new society, led by a man named Wathe, a former Lieutenant in the German Army, whose belief is that modern civilization is full of vanities and strange notions, and greatly needs reforming. The members eat nothing but ripe fruit, eschew cooked food of every kind, and drink only water. They are only to live in huts, bare of the comforts of civilization, and go naked. Ex-Lieutenant Wathe intends to buy a large tract of land in the Sandwich Islands, or, perhaps, a small island outright, for the purpose of founding a colony.

A WAIL FROM SAXONY.

Says This Country Is Prying Into Their Business Secrets.

Berlin, Aug. 12.—The dyed-goods manufacturers and exporters of Saxony have petitioned the German imperial government to support by diplomatic means their protest against the United States' demand that invoices of imported goods disclose the date of the dyeing and the name of the dyer. The petitioners characterize the demand as an outrageous attempt to pry into business secrets, and say that it is impossible for them to comply with the requirement. The Chemnitzer Nachrichten declares that the only object is to bolster the infant industry in the United States and exclude Saxon goods.

JEALOUS OF THE COOK.

A Mulatto Killed by Her White Lover.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 13.—The guests at Winslow Inn, a suburban hotel some distance from this city, were thrown into a state of terror and excitement yesterday by the murder of a woman by a man who was in love with and jealous of her. Only meagre particulars of the tragedy have been received, but the facts are as follows:

Among the servants of the hotel was a handsome mulatto cook. An Irishman named Brennan, or Brannigan, was in love with her. He resented her receiving attentions from other men, and, after remonstrating with her about it, shot her dead. Brennan has been arrested.

Murdered His Wife.

New York, Aug. 13.—Thomas Holt, sexton of the Episcopal Church of the Atonement, Brooklyn, murdered his wife last night at their home on Seventeenth street. Holt has had nothing to do of late, the church being closed, and for a fortnight he had acted very strangely. He shot his wife twice and then cut her throat. She died soon after.

Local Weather Forecast.

Fair; warmer; south winds.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail

THE BERRYS' PERENNIAL JOY.

Sixty-Five Years of Wedded Bliss the Portion of This Fine Old Couple.

Sixty-five years ago yesterday Mr. and Mrs. John C. Berry of 27 Craig place were married in New York city. She was 19, and he was 21, and they have proved that at least one early marriage was an excellent choice, for all these many years peace and happiness have been enjoyed by them. And though today age has enfeebled them somewhat they are still able to be about and enjoy the celebration with their children and their children's children.

No attempt was made to celebrate yesterday, and Mr. and Mrs. Berry spent the day in thanksgiving for the years their lives have been spared, and for the many spiritual and temporal blessings bestowed.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Berry are receiving the congratulations of their friends, and this evening they will meet for a social time at their home, where old times will again be gone over in memory.

Those who will gather are: Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Sutton and son of Dunellen; Mrs. Cox and sons of Netherwood; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Spengenberg of Netherwood; Mrs. Sutton of Riverton, their great-granddaughter, Edith Teeple of Riverton; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Berry, Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey of Plainfield.

Altogether there are five grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren, but a large number are prevented from attending while joining in wishing Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] years of happiness.

Next season she will join a concert company and go on the road as a pianist. Their Summer home is in a delightful, quiet spot on the New England coast

Six Sent to Jail.

Harrison Randolph, George Potter, Aaron Dunham, Ida Lewis, Belle Brown and Alice Cuff, all colored, were arrested on East Fourth street, early Sunday morning, by Policeman Frederickson and Special Officer Flynn. In the City Court this morning they were found guilty of disorderly conduct and all were sent to Elizabeth for 30 days except Dunham, who was given his choice between paying a $5 fine and going to jail for 15 days. He went down with the rest.

The Mutual in Elizabeth.

J. E. Pucci, who has been trying to promote a mutual telephone scheme among the locoal Board of Trade members, has resigned his position as manager of the Postal Telegraph Company in Elizabeth and is to devote his time in pushing the mutual telephone scheme in that city. He claims to have two-thirds of the necessary stock subscribed.

Collected By the Chief.

Linden avenue from Somerset street to Sycamore avenue will probably be the first of the borough streets to be macadamized under the recent resolutions of the Council. Chief Marshal Pangborn has collected all of the subscriptions, taking up the work as a resident of that dusty street.

Colored Carnival and Concert.

The women of Emmanuel Baptist Church have in progress of preparation a flag and flower carnival and promenade concert to be held in Central Hall the evening of Labor Day. Fifty children will participate in a fancy drill, and the New Brooklyn Band will play. Ice-cream and other refreshments will be served.

Handsome Is as Handsome Does.

The Commercial Advertiser, the most beautiful daily paper in New York, needs a man who knows New Jersey. It is bad enough to say that the river carnival took place at Cranfield, but to locate the Crescents' great track at Clifton is an unpardonable sin.

Starts at 7:45.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. excursion American Day, next Thursday, to Asbury Park, includes among its pleasures an evening on the beach in the light of the full moon. It starts early, at 7:45, from the North Avenue station, and returns late, leaving the beach at 9.

Stanch Kitty Pilot.

C. C. Brower brought out another good one, Saturday, from the Avon Park stud, in Kitty Pilot. He started her at South River on the Middlesex Driving Park track, and won in three straight heats.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

Capt. George F. Hamlin and family are in Dover.

Mrs. George Kyte is rapidly recovering her health.

Baron Ewing of Brooklyn visited E. L. Kieb of Fanwood last week.

Mrs. L. J. Briggs and children are in Belmar. Mr. Briggs is now travelling in the West.

Mrs. Fisher, wife of station agent, and baby, are paying a visit to Mr. Fisher's parents in Hopewell.

Eddie Hand, notwithstanding his financial reverse at the Rahway ball game, caught "Ida" at Perth Amboy.

Ex-Postmaster Hezekiah Hand has gone to Norwalk, Conn., on business, and will take in Niagara Falls afterwards.

The telephone line between the residences of W. E. Pentz and Judge Moore is kept in constant use by little Louise and Jimmy.

Fanwood was almost depopulated Saturday evening, the Cranford Carnival and the "official" fishing trip being the attractions.

The little daughter of Clarence W. Smith, who has been seriously ill, is rapidly convalescing under the treatment of Dr. F. W. Westcott.

Danby Darke is taking his vacation by remaining at home. A pretty sight is the manner in which he handles the ribbons over his trotter each pleasant day.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam and Frank Putnam, Jr., of Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mrs. Putnam's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Frentz, in Scotch Plains.

Col. Moore and County Engineer Quien testified Friday evening before a special committee of the Bayonne Common Council as experts on macadam road building.

Charles Kyte, accompanied by his daughter Sarah, is on the Atlantic, having sailed for Europe Aug. 4 on the Wilson Line steamer, Buffalo, captained by Mr. Kyte's nephew, James Millet.

Mr. Kieb is becoming so proficient as a bicyclist that Sunday last week he rode to James Martine's place and back; results—two tears in trousers and one cuff button gone. He declares that he has lost eleven pounds in weight since adopting the wheel and begning to practice on Jimmy Moore's gymnasium.

The gypsies encamped just over the township line on North avenue are a well behaved set of people and the pretty little queen is rapidly filling the coffers of the band by fortune telling from palms. You may hold her hand at the rate of fifty cents per half hour. Some of the Scotch Plains boys spend $2 at once.

The five vestrymen of all Saints Episcopal Church have resigned. It is said that some trifling personalities originated the final action. Dr. True, it is hoped, will continue the good work which has been so successful, as if for any cause he should give up his pastorate the blow to the interests of the parish would be one which would take years to recover from.

The township officials, together with Sheriff Kyte, sailed out of Perth Amboy Saturday afternoon in James Growney's sloop "Ida". In the party were Mayor Abner P. Downer, Committeemen L. W. Miller and Wm. Terry, Township Clerk Edward H. Hand, Collector Dan Terry and Assessor John Robison. A great catch of fish is reported and rumors of several little mishaps are floating in the air.

Superintendent Peddle visited Fanwood Saturday morning to inspect the two posts erected in front of the passenger station which are designed for "train orders". These poles, being set in the slope of the terrace, detract from what scant landscape effect was before observable about the station. After refitting the interior of the station it seems a shame that such an eyesore should be erected. Before the posts were raised they were artistically crowned with golden rod, Frank Allen being the artist in chief.

Dunellen and New Market.

W. H. Cole spent Sunday in Sidney.

John Donohue is confined to his home by illness.

Dolph Runyon has returned from a visit to Stockton.

Rev. and Mrs. Skillinger returned to Albany Saturday.

Miss M. Abbott of White House is visiting Miss Ella Abbott.

John Mackey of New York spent Saturday with friends in town.

Adam Dealaman spent Sunday with his family in Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seiner returned to Germantown, Pa., Saturday.

Paul Herlich of New York is visiting his cousin, William Herlich.

Miss Mary Hague and Miss McKnight spent Saturday in Boynton Beach.

A party of Plainfielders had a delightful time on Washington Rock Saturday.

Miss Karl, Mrs. Spinner and Mrs. Witworth spent Saturday with Plainfield friends.

The Misses Mamie and Lizzie Hunt have returned from a visit in Bound Brook.

Dr. Brakeley and Charles Boice tried their luck fishing Saturday. A good catch is reported.

Mrs. John Tingley and family spent Saturday with Mrs. Wm. Clawson in South Plainfield.

Miss Minnie VanMiddlesworth gave up her position in Chas. Johnson's real-estate office Saturday.

Mrs. Walter Apgar of Dunellen is visiting her father, Willam Hellams, at his home in Junction.

William G. Holton Council, No. 55, J. O. U. A. M., will initiate one candidate tomorrow evening.

Joel Giddis will take the Orient degree in Plainfield next week. Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., will work it on him.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Staats, Miss Lillie Staats, and Harry Staats spent yesterday in Boynton Beach.

Ernest Peters had a relapse Saturday and Dr. Brakeley was called. The patient is much better today.

Mrs. Gulick, mother of Daniel Gulick of Plainfield, has been very ill. She is now improving slowly.

C. Anderson, B. Williams and Miss Florence Banger of Hopatcong visited Mr. and Mrs. Staats Saturday.

Alfred Thomas of Lafayette, an employe of the Central Railroad, spent Saturday with his old friends in Dunellen.

Elmer Blackford, George Benwood and Fred Haynes have returned from Narragansett Pier. They made the trip on their wheels.

CAPT. ROBT. COOK, Camden, N. J., says:

"I had been seriously troubled for some time with indigestion, constipation, and a weak stomach, my system becoming all run down, and losing fifty pounds in weight. I had about given up hopes of again being a well man, when I came across which soon restored me to health, I gaining twenty-five pounds in three weeks. Give them a trial and see what they will do for you."

Dr. Deane's

Dyspepsia Pills,

At all druggists', 25 cents. Send to us for a free sample if you have indigestion.

OBITUARY.

Stephen D. Hatch.

Stephen D. Hatch died at the home of Abner E. Wilcox, 414 West Eighth street, Saturday. He was 60 years of age and leaves a wife and a young daughter.

Mr. Hatch was one of the best known architects in New York city. He made a specialty of designing large office buildings, and had large interests in real-estate throughout New York, being a careful investor and a man of great business ability. He was said to have been a millionaire.

Decedent had been living in Plainfield for several years, coming out from New York for the benefit of his failing health. He at first lived at the Albion, but moved to the home of Mr. Wilcox where he died. He married several years before he came to this city, having met his wife on a western business trip. His entire fortune goes to the widow and the child.

ROBBED OF GAME AND PROPERTY.

Scotch Plains Players Fall into the Hands of Rahway Philistines.

The ball team of Scotch Plains had tough luck in Rahway Saturday. They went to play a friendly game, and after being cordially received were shown into the club-house, where they changed their uniform, being told that everything was safe.

They played a great game, but with the able assistance of the umpire the Rahways won, 11 to 10. Then the Scotch Plains boys dressed for home.

Much to their indignation they found that their pockets had been rifled of cigars, keys, penknives, and cash. The money loss was $25. Eddie Hand lost about thirteen dollars by the deal, and the first-baseman lost everything but his commutation ticket.

They'll never go there any more.

Salt as a Barn Preservative.

In referring to the number of barn burnings which the farmers claim are caused by spontaneous combustion starting in green hay stored in mows, Chief Doane says that a simple and practical preventive of such fires is at hand. The sprinkling of a layer of coarse, cheap salt over each load as it is put away will, it has been proved by experience, keep the hay from heating. As a further inducement for its adoption by farmers, the salt scheme has the advantage of making the hay all the more desirable for cattle and horses. The advice comes rather late for this season, but farmers who raise a second crop will have the opportunity of following it.

Features of the Fair.

The special fair committee of the C. Y. M. L., who are arranging for a time of profit and fun the last week in September, will meet again in the club-house Friday evening to discuss various details of the proposed affair. Already offers of donations of different kinds of goods have been made.

The contest plan will be used with quite a number of the articles. A silk banner and a bicycle are among the prizes which will be offered as an inducement to friendly rivalry. A valuable revolver will be offered in a contest in such a way that it will be sure to get into safe hands no matter which of the contestants wins.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The union services will be continued in the M. E. Church next Sunday, and also the last Sunday in the month.

Rev. Arthur Crane will occupy the pulpit of Trinity Reformed Church next Sunday morning and evening.

The First Methodist excursion netted the church a total profit of 35 cents. Trinity Reformed Church's financial gain was 25 cents.

Rev. A. H. Todd of Dunellen preached in Trinity Reformed Church yesterday morning and evening. "Rewards of Obedience" was his theme at the morning service. It was a well written sermon.

BASE-BALL.

The Arlingtons of Plainfield went to Dunellen and beat the Juniors Saturday 5 to 6. The visitors put up a strong game.

The Young Senators of this city had arranged a game with the Junior team of Scotch Plains for Saturday afternoon. The players waited on the grounds corner of Berckman street and South avenue from 1 till 4, and then decided that the Scotch Plains boys had lost the game by default.

To Sell Home-Made Ice.

John H. Morton, of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, informs The Press that he and other officers of the company will go this week to inspect different ice-manufacturing plants with a view to select one to be begun this Fall and placed in operation next Spring. Other ice supplies will then be abandoned.

—For a good old-fashioned family picnic with excellent music and arrangement, go to Boynton Beach.

THE SHRINE AT BUTLER.

Centennial Celebration Lasting a Whole Year Long.

On August 15, 1894, begins the 700th year since the birth of the great thaumaturg of the Franciscan Order, St. Anthony of Padua. The event will be celebrated with great pomp and solemnity by the Franciscans in charge of the celebrated shrine at Butler, Morris County, a mountain town on the N. Y., Susquehanna and Western Railroad, about 30 miles from New York. The programme laid out for the occasion, with the approval of the Ordinary of Newark, to whose jurisdiction Butler belongs, is as follows:

On August 14 the jubilee year will be opened with pontifical vespers at 8 p. m. After the service the advent of the seventh centenary will be hailed by the pealing of all the church bells and a salute of seven cannons will make the surrounding mountains re-echo. The church at the same time will be illuminated by 700 lights, and a huge bonfire will cause it to be seen from the tops of the mountains at a distance of ten miles. The grandeur of this spectacle will be enhanced by the Butler Silver Cornet Music Corps playing from the lofty church tower the celebrated "Responsorium" and other appropriate airs.

On August 15, the day proper, His Excellency, the Most Rev. Francis Satolli, Delegate Apostolic of Washington, D. C., will officiate at the Pontifical High Mass at 10:30 a. m.; a Redemptorist Father of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., will preach the sermon.

In the afternoon there will be a grand procession through "Grace Valley", a lovely woodland with shady trees along the foot of the hill on which the church is erected

The jubilee celebration will be continued for the entire year from August 15, 1894, till August 15, 1895, special services being held on every Sunday and Tuesday afternoon. His Holiness, Pope Leo XII., most graciously endowed the shrine with rare privileges in favor of both the clergy and the layity.

The work of the interior of the church, when completed, will not find its equal in this country. Altars and side walls are an imitation of rough rock. The high altar represents Mount Calvary. The stations of the cross along the side walls, each consisting of a group of four statues, stand on a projection of rock; under each station an altar is erected, where Mass may be celebrated. Above the main arch of the Sanctuary is to be seen a fine oil painting by the celebrated artist, L. Meyer, of Frankfurt, Germany, representing St. Anthony, after Murillo.

The General Superintendent of the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad, Chas. D. McKelvey, has most kindly complied with the request of the Franciscans to have a private car at their disposal to convey His Excellency, Monsignor Satolli, from Jersey City to Butler.

Parties desirous of participating in the festivities will obtain any information about all particulars by applying to "The Centennial Committee" of St. Anthony's Shrine, Butler, N. J.

AFTER TWO GIRLS.

They Ran Away from Home, and the Police Are Active.

Two Plainfield girls who ran away have been heard from in Newark, and it is probable that they will be brought back to this city without much delay.

Clara Conger is the 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Charles Perrine of East Third street. She has been employed by Mrs. Rogers of North avenue every day, going to the home of her stepfather at night. She did not work at all last week, but as she came home regularly to sleep during the first part of the week her mother did n't know she had left her place.

Thursday night, however, the girl did not go home, and Mrs. Perrine then discovered that she had not been at work, but had been enjoying a vacation with 17-year-old Kate Parkinson, daughter of Mrs. Martha Parkinson of Race street. Neither went home after Thursday, and the missing girls were reported to the police of the city and borough.

Word came from Newark Saturday that the girls were in that city, having walked all the way from Plainfield. Mr. Perrine, who is a Lehigh Valley Railroad detective, went there today to look up the whereabouts of his stepdaughter.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 105 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, and attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could induce us to part with the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. E. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

GAVETT'S

EVERY LITTLE HELPS.

Suppose a little twinkling star
Away in yonder sky,
Should say, "What light can reach so far
From such a star as I?
Not many rays of mine so far
As yonder earth can fall:
The others so much brighter are,
I will not shine at all."

Suppose a bright green leaf that grows
Upon a rosebush near,
Should say, "Because I'm not a rose,
I will not linger here!"
Or that a dew-drop fresh and bright
Upon that fragrant flower,
Should say, "I'll vanish out of sight,
Because I'm not a shower!"

Suppose a little child should say,
"Because I'm not a man,
I will not try in work or play
To do what good I can."
Dear child, each star some light can give,
Though faintly gleaming there;
Each rose-leaf helps the plant to live,
Each dew-drop keeps it fair.

LONDON'S TOWER BRIDGE.

The Name, Features and Purpose of the New Structure Described.

In describing the latest of London's great bridges, the New York Herald says:

The magnificent bridge, which was opened by the Prince of Wales with so much ceremonial, derives its name from the fact that it crosses the river Thames near the celebrated Tower of London. The general scheme of the bridge is readily described. Two huge piers have been constructed in the river, each surmounted by a great tower, erected over the pier, with story on story of windows, relieved here by a balcony, there by a couple of those empty niches for saints, destined to remain forever empty, which the modern architect continues to reproduce from Gothic and Renaissance models.

LONDON'S LATEST BRIDGE.

Regarded as a piece of masonry, these towers are frauds. All the business part is metal, which is hidden. The real fabric consists of four steel barrels of hexagonal section, laced together by a network of lattice girders. The masonry is therefore simply a shell of brick within and stone without, completing these four upright barrels and their lattice work into a semblance of four walls. From these huge towers a suspension bride stretches right and left to either bank. Between the towers the roadway consists of what in architectural language are called two "bascules." These are two enormous trap doors, which are lifted when it is necessary to allow large vessels to pass. These bascules are the great feature of the new bride. Each bascule is 100 feet long from the edge of the pier, and revolves upon a pin which is a 21 inch steel bar that can bear a thousand tons without, so to speak, turning a hair. When the bascules are standing up on end all horse and wagon traffic across the bridge is, of course, interrupted. Foot passengers, however, have a high level footway provided for them, which may be reached either by elevators —also worked by the hydraulic machinery in the towers—or by climbing up 140 feet of stone steps.

The Tower bridge has been built to relieve the heavy traffic continually flowing across London bridge. A daily counting was made for some time of the number of people and vehicles traveling across London bridge, and it was found that the average for 24 hours was 22,242 vehicles and 110,525 pedestrians. It is hoped that much of this will now pass across the Tower bridge.

THIS MOTHER CAN JUMP.

How the Kangaroo Loves and Brings Up Her Children.

This mother is as fond of jumping as the grasshopper is, and nature has given her the power to take long leaps and to get over the ground faster that way than most animals do in running. She takes sometimes thirty feet at a jump, which is pretty rapid locomotion, you see.

The kangaroo, for I suppose you know what animal is referred to, can walk, but it is an awkward walk at best. Apparently it would be better to hop when hopping is so much easier, and no doubt the kangaroo thinks so. The tail of the kangaroo is almost as good as a fifth leg to her. She rests upon it in walking or jumping and uses it as a weapon to strike animals that attack her.

The kangaroo is said to be a sociable animal. It lives in the woods, in herds. But the strangest thing about the mother kangaroo is the way she arranges her nursery. She does not construct a house in a cave or a hollow tree or in the ground. Nature has provided her with a soft, furry bag on the under side of her body. So she carries her babies around with her everywhere she goes. In this bag the babies stay until, at 8 or 6 months, they have grown strong enough to hop out a little and eat some nice, fresh grass while the mother is getting her own dinner.

But even when it gets to be a pretty big child the baby kangaroo likes to creep back again sometimes to its cozy, warm nursery and take a nap. And while the babies are hopping about the mother is very watchful. At the slightest suspicion of danger she picks up her children, pops them into the bag and off she hops with them to a safer place.

In Australia the giant kangaroos are hunted for food. They are very good to eat, and they often have occasion to hop as fast as they can to get out of the way of hunters who are determined to have a good dinner of kangaroo meat. Sometimes they are caught in nets. Indeed, there are all sorts of ways of catching them.—Recorder.

She Didn't Scare.

Young Saphead—Do you know, Miss Vassar, I've a great mind to fwighten you by wocking the boat!

Miss Vassar (an athletic young woman) —A young man like you tried that with me once and the boat upset.

"Did it weally? What did you do?"

"I swam ashore and notified the coroner."—Puck.

IT'S A MILLSTONE

About a young man's neck to be a sufferer from nervous exhaustion, nervous debility, impaired memory, low spirits, irritable temper, and the thousand and one derangements of mind and body that result from, unnatural, pernicious habits, contracted through ignorance. Such habits result in loss of manly power, wreck the constitution and sometimes produce softening of the brain, epilepsy, paralysis, and even dread insanity.

To reach, re-claim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of the publishers of a book written in plain but chaste language, on the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. This book will be sent sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of ten cents in stamps, for postage. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

CAME NEAR TO BLOWS

Corbett and Jackson Meet and Wrangle.

Little Prospect of the Pugilists Coming Together in a Ring—Jackson Says His Life Would Not Be Safe in the South—Corbett Distrustful of Englishmen.

New York, Aug. 14.—After two years of long distance fighting through the public prints James J. Corbett and Peter Jackson came together last evening and nearly settled their respective claims to superiority on the spot. While an actual encounter was averted the champion and the negro had a wordy battle of the fiercest kind, during which the "lie" was practically passed, and when the smoke of the battle cleared away the principals had settled one thing—that there is extra improbability of a match being pulled off in the future. They met at the Grand Union hotel, where Jackson is stopping.

The meeting between the two men was as if each other was sparring for an opening. They did not shake hands, but eyed each other suspiciously. Jackson was seated upon a wooden settee, while Corbett seized a chair and drew it up to Jackson so that they faced each other about two feet apart. When Corbett became excited he drew the chair up until his face was brought within less than a foot of Jackson.

He plunged at once into business and said bluntly: "I want this thing settled." Jackson sneered contemptuously and said: "You're in a great hurry now. What's been the trouble since I first challenged you?" Then Corbett got angry and in a moment epithets were flying, to be followed by recriminations.

Corbett pulled out of his pocket a newspaper clipping, in which Jackson is quoted as saying that Corbett was afraid to fight him.

Corbett thundered for an explanation. Jackson laughed insolently and said:

"You know you are a big bluff."

Corbett clenched his hand and fairly hissed back: "You're another big bluffer, and I'm dying to fight you."

"Of course, as a gentleman, I won't call you a liar when you say I am a big bluff," said the Australian. Corbett retorted in kind. Each accused the other of keeping out of each others' way.

"Where will you fight?" finally asked Corbett.

"Not south of Mason and Dixon's line," answered Jackson.

"Well, you know we can't pull it off in the north."

"Well, then, we will fight in the London National Sporting club."

"I know positively that they will only permit twenty rounds, and I will only fight you to a finish. I can't whip you in twenty rounds, but believe in a finish fight my youth will tell," Corbett shouted, shaking his hand in Jackson's face.

"We can have all the fighting we want in twenty rounds," answered Jackson.

"Not enough for me. Besides, I have no faith in the treatment which would be accorded an American at the hands of those Englishmen. Now, won't you fight in the south?" almost begged the champion.

"Get your brains together. That's the third time you've asked me that," answered Jackson. "Why, I would probably get shot if I whipped you in the south," continued the Australian.

Then the fighters indulged in disparaging each other in high tones.

"Well," finally said Jackson, "the only way I see is for us to wait for some club in the north to offer an acceptable purse."

Corbett was induced to shake hands with Jackson, and then went home. Each principal lays the blame on the other for a failure to come to an agreement.

COUNTY FUNDS IN DANGER.

Held as Part Assetts of the Suspended Altoona Bank.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Aug. 14.—The uncertainty over the closing of the Second National bank of Altoona has been increased by the discovery that $63,000 of Blair county's funds are deposited in the Western Nntional bank, of Philadelphia, to the credit of the closed bank.

The county commissioners had employed the Altoona bank to negotiate the sale of county bonds for this amount. Bank Examiner Miller refuses to release the credit, holding that the funds form part of the assets of the closed bank.

The county is embarrassed in the payment of its current expenses in consequence.

BELIEVE TRADE IS IMPROVING.

Rhode Island Mill Men, Therefore, Do Not Favor a Wage Reduction.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 14.—The reduction of wages in the mills at Fall River and New Bedford is not expected to be followed by immediate action by the Rhode Island manufacturers, many of whom are inclined to believe that the worst has been reached and that business shows indications of improvement.

Rhode Island mill men are in favor of curtailing production rather than reducing wages, and would willingly join a movement to run short time generally for a month or two or until such time as business should warrant a complete resumption.

Cut His Sister's Fingers Off.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 14.—The seven-year-old son of a man named Cosgrove, who lives on Rimmon hill, Seymour, was playing with a hatchet and his three-year old sister yesterday. He told his sister he would cut her fingers off. She did not object, and he brought the weapon down on the third and fourth fingers, taking one off and partly severing the other.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

MATTERS IN THE SENATE.

Several Subjects of Importance Under Consideration.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The principal matter before the senate is the conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill. The conferrees had agreed upon all the subjects in dispute between the two houses, except as to about a dozen, on which further conference was asked. Chief of these was the question of a site for a new government printing office. The senate, when the bill was before it, had adopted an amendment for the purchase of what is known as the Mahone lot; and the house had substituted for that a provision looking to the retention of the present building and the acquisition of adjoining property on which to erect additional buildings. As it was understood that the house was unyieldingly opposed to the Mahone site, Mr. Sherman, in order to defeat the house proposition, and to prevent any decision of the subject at the present session, moved to recede from the senate amendment; and, although that motion was ruled out on a point of order, its purpose was attained by the senate refusing, on a yea and nay vote (22 to 28), to agree to the house substitute. That action cleared away the parliamentary objection to Mr. Sherman's motion to recede from the senate amendment, which motion was renewed by Mr. Aldrich (rep., R. I.) and was carried by a vote of 26 to 19.

The effect of this is to take out of the bill all provision for the printing office site and to let the matter go over until next session.

Among the matters on which further conference is to be had are the amendments as to the Atlanta exposition and as to the Ford theatre disaster.

The house joint resolution extending till the 24th of August the appropriations for the expenses of the government was laid before the senate, and, objection to its second reading having been made by Mr. Aldrich, it was laid over till to-morrow.

There was a short executive session between 12 and 1, at which the Chinese treaty was ratified.

OUTHWAITE HURRIED BACK.

Illness in His Family Caused His Absence from Washington.

Washington, Aug. 14.—It is but simple justice to Mr. Outhwaite, of Ohio, one of the democratic members of the house committee on rules, to state that his absence from the city was due to illness in his family. When he learned on Sunday morning that the caucus had been called he arranged immediately to leave Cresson Springs, where he was staying, for Washington.

There was no train until midnight Sunday. He would have reached Washington at 7 o'clock yesterday morning but for a wreck on the road, which delayed his arrival until past the hour of noon. He reached the capitol in ample time, however, to attend the meeting of the committee held for the purpose of reporting the special order on the senate amendments to the tariff bill.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION LAW.

Investigating Charges of Alleged Laxity in Its Enforcement.

Boston, Aug. 14.—Special Employe T. A. Byrne, of the United States treasury department, is conducting an investigation at the federal building into the alleged laxity by the proper officials in enforcing the Chinese immigration laws.

It is stated that the investigation, so far as it has been carried, has developed the fact that there has been considerable looseness in the administration of the laws and that Mr. Byrnes' report to the federal authorities will contain a statement to this effect.

VIEWS OF THE PRESS

Opinions of the Newspapers on the Tariff.

New York Editors Generally Denounce the Democrats in the House for Their Surrender to the Senate—The Bill Better Than the McKinley Law, Say London Newspapers.

New York, Aug. 14.—The Recorder says editorially regarding the tariff bill: "As was anticipated the tariff deadlock has been ended by a complete surrender of the house to the senate. The president and his followers have been outgeneralled at every point by their opponents. Mr. Cleveland's discomfiture would not have been so complete if he had restrained himself from writing his famous letter to Mr. Wilson. It is clear that he irreparably damaged his position by that ill-timed epistle."

The Sun says: "It will be just four weeks to-morrow since Mr. Wilson read in the house of representatives Mr. Cleveland's letter declaring to the house democrats that they could not accept the senate tariff bill without the abandonment of democratic principles and the betrayal of democratic pledges; without 'party perfidy and party dishonor.' Yesterday the house democrats, with Mr. Wilson's consent and the implied approval of the president, voted in caucus by the overwhelming majority of 130 to 21 to abandon democratic principles, as defined by Mr. Cleveland, to betray democratic pledges, as interpreted by Mr. Cleveland, to commit what he described as party perfidy and to incur the party dishonor against which he warned them."

The Herald, under the caption "Gorman Triumphs, But the Battle Goes On," says: "Under compulsion of the darkest and foulest conspiracy in the annals of any nation the house of representatives has passed the tariff bill. The Catiline of the senate, unabashed by his betrayal of fair famed state and party, unmoved by the sufferings and distress he had brought upon his countrymen, promptly received from republican senators all due congratulations and plaudits for his victory over the American people. Temporarily the sun of democracy is eclipsed, its administration is put in the pillory of universal contempt, and, what is far worse, the honor and all the material interests of the whole nation are sacrificed and slaughtered at the dictation of its long recognized masters, the 'protected' barons and money kings."

The Tribune says: "The last extreme of disgrace has been accepted by the decision of a full democratic caucus, and by the action of the democratic house. The caucus was distinctly notified by Mr. Wilson that 'the Sugar trust has the people by the throat,' and that it had bought abroad $112,000,000 worth of sugar, on which the senate schedule would give it a profit of $40,000,000. Yet he proposed, Speaker Crisp moved and the caucus voted, 130 to 21, to give the trust its enormous bribe."

Boston, Aug. 14.—The Post (dem.) says: "By the agreement of the house to the senate amendments to the Wilson bill, the long struggle is ended. It is not a gratifying or satisfactory outcome; but something is beter than nothing, and the senate bill which now will go to the president, is something."

The Journal (rep.) will say that "bolting it whole" seemes to describe the singular feat of deglutition achieved by the house democrats. We have good democratic authority for the statement that this bill is full of abominations; that it was drawn in the interests of the trusts; that it contains outrageous discriminations, and that it involves a complete surrender of democratic principles."

The Advertiser says: "For some time to come all other emotions awakened my contemplation of the Washington comedy will be swallowed up in astonishment at the fiasco made by the leaders of the democratic party in the house of representatives. A panic so silly, a failure so grotesque, a surrender so humiliating, abasement so groveling, descent so precipitous from the sublime to the ridiculous have seldom, if ever, been witnessed anywhere, in history or fiction, in real life or in farce-comedy."

FOREIGN PRESS COMMENT.

What the London Papers Have To Say About the Tariff Bill.

London, Aug. 14.—The Daily News, in commenting on the tariff bill, says: "In yielding to the senate's obstruction the house only stoops to conquer. The decision was a sudden, but wise one. The prolonged suspense is removed and a measure of certainty is secured. Free wool will be the test by which Americans will judge free-trade. In the meantime business will doubtless revive."

The Morning Post says: "Surrender to the senate was better than prolonging a hopeless struggle. Whether the sentiment will do much to avert the discontent of the public with the present majority is more than doubtful."

The Daily Chronicle says: "There can be little doubt that the measure, partial as it is, will give impetus to many of our industries. The effects upon the political and industrial situation in the United States cannot yet be profitably discussed, but it is likely that there will be trying times when the period of readjustment comes."

FOR APPROVAL OR VETO

The Tariff Bill Will Probably Go to the President To-Day.

Believed That the Measure Will Encounter No Delay at the White House, as the President is Familiar With the Bill and is Anxious to Join His Family at Gray Gables—Exciting Scenes During the Close of the Fight in the House—The Senate Bill Adopted Without Change, With Thirteen Democratic Votes Recorded Against It.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The senate tariff bill as passed by the house last evening will probably reach the president some time this afternoon. He has ten days within which to sign it, but it is almost certain that he will not delay his approval. It is well known that the president is anxious to join his family at Gray Gables for a few weeks' rest and recreation and as he is perfectly familiar with every detail of the bill as passed there is really no occasion for delay.

All talk of the possibility of the measure being vetoed is virtually set at rest by the active efforts of the administrative leaders to have the radicals accept the senate bill when it was made clear that no other bill could possibly be put through at this session of congress.

It was exactly at 6:30 o'clock last night when the senate bill, unchanged, unamended, untouched, was passed by the house. It was passed according to the programme arranged Sunday and ratified at the caucus of democrats yesterday morning. The caucus met at 10 o'clock and adjourned at noon with the understanding that the senate bill and separate measures placing coal, sugar, iron ore and barbed wire on the free list should be put through the house before adjournment yesterday; but an unexpected obstacle was encountered in the absence from Washington of Mr. Outhwaite, a democratic member of the committee on rules, whose presence was necessary to enable the committee to bring in a special order for carrying out the caucus arrangements. Mr. Outhwaite, who was absent on account of illness in his family, appeared, however, at 3 o'clock, and a few minutes later the committee on rules reported the special order and the house entered into one of the greatest days in its history.

The special rule was agreed to after a short debate. Then the senate bill was debated for two hours, and after counter-accusations by the republicans and democrats and severe arraignments of the majority by several of its own members, the bill was passed by a vote of 181 to 105. A number of democrats voted against the bill, while the populists supported the majority.

There was much applause when the troublesome measure was finally out of the way.

Then the separate bills placing coal, iron ore, barbed wire and sugar on the free list were taken up in the order named and passed, after debate of half an hour on each, and what was probably the biggest day in the history of the house, from the standpoint of work accomplished, came to an end.

Ex-Speaker Reed, in antagonizing the bill, told the democrats that their feelings were perfectly natural. The job they had to do was such that the sooner they got over it the better they would feel. (Laughter and cries of "vote"). They were going to trample upon the carriers which preserved the rights of the people, in order to perform an act which would be tasteful to gentlemen differently situated from themselves. (Laughter.) "You are going to do it in defiance of all your protestations, in defiance of all your declarations," he said. "You are going to die not only in the last ditch, but in the lowest part of the ditch. (Laugter.) You are going to enact a bill which you believe not to be an honest bill, and you are going to accompany it with a parade which you also know is not honest. You are going to desert the 'roll of honor' (laughter) in order to trick yourselves out with the gew-gaws that are contained in this proposition. You are going to give us free sugar—yes, in your minds. (Laughter.) You are going to give us free coal—Oh, my friends! And then you are going to give us free iron, and you are going to do it in a bold and manly way, like the back-down you are making here. (Laughter and applause.) You are going to have no committee of this house, not even your own pliant committee, to stand between you and the noble purpose that thrills your souls." (Laughter.)

Mr McMillin (dem., Tenn.) one of the conferrees, defended the senate bill and showed that while the average duty in the McKinley act was 98.58 per cent. and that of the house bill 35.51, that of the senate bill was 33.68. He was asked by Mr. Boutelle (rep., Maine) sneeringly, how it happened that he was so long in finding out that the senate bill was such a splendid measure; and replied that the gentleman from Maine and his sympathizers had prevented a better bill being got.

Mr. Burrows (rep., Mich.) said that the chairman of the committeee on ways and means stood this afternoon deserted by his party. He called to mind the words of that gentleman in the beginning of this great controversy and which seemed prophetic now. Those words were, "Not all who march bravely in the front are found in line when the musketry begins to rattle." That was (Mr. Burrows said) when the gentleman from West Virginia was lashing the cowardly laggards into line.

He stood up to-day bravely and declined to lead the retreat. But his friends had deserted him and he stood substantially alone in his fight for tariff reform. "Where," Mr. Burrows asked, "are the men who rallied around him at the beginning?" (Many democrats, "Here we are.")

In conclusion, Mr. Burrows predicted that the president would return the bill with scorn and would say when asked to sign it: "Is thy servant a dog that he should do this thing?" (Applause from the republicans.)

Mr. Cockran (dem., N. Y.) said that the practical question had been overlooked, if not actually misstated. The gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. McMillin) had declared that the question now for the house to consider was whether the senate bill was an improvement on the McKinley act, from a democratic point of view. He did not agree with that gentleman. There was a higher and more vital point at issue. That was whether some unknown moving force was to block the wheels of legislation and make the representatives of the people cower in the dust, surrendering the power confided to them. (Republican applause and democratic murmurs of dissent.)

The house had passed a bill under the leadership of the gentleman from West Virginia, a bill for tariff reform, which meant the ultimate industrial emancipation of this country, and the ultimate industrial conquest of the world by American labor and American genius. That bill had passed the house amid such a scene of triumph as never had been witnessed in the history of a legislative body. The gentleman from West Virginia had been borne from the hall on affectionate and loyal shoulders. To-day no more pathetic figure was represented than that same leader shorn of his support, confessing that he had been deserted by those on whose support he had every reason to rely.

"I desire to say here that in my humble judgment the measure which we are now asked to pass through this house and to make the permanent law of this country is a more obnoxious protection measure than the McKinley act." (Continued republican applause.)

At this point Mr. McMillin tried to interpose some remark, but he was informed by Mr. Cockran that he was addressing himself to the intelligence of the house, not to the ignorance of the gentleman from Tennessee. (Laughter and applause.)

"I repeat," said Mr. Cockran, "that the senate bill is a more obnoxious protection measure than the McKinley act and I hope to prove it. (Encouragement from the republican side.) Before I surrender my sword I must know who asks it. I swallowed this bill as it first passed the house, although everybody knows that I am bitterly opposed to the income tax feature of it. I submitted because I wanted tariff reform. And I find that bill now returned to the house with tariff reform stricken out and nothing but the income tax left. True, you have the promise of a few popgun bills. I will not vote for this proposition unless some reason be given me for it."

When the period for debate on the passage of the resolutions expired, a vote was taken, resulting ayes, 185; noes, 2. The republicans did not vote, and the three negative votes were cast by democrats. The yeas and nays were then ordered, and just as the clerks began to call the roll Mr. Wilson (rep., Wash.) rose to a parliamentary inquiry. "I want to know," he said, "if it will be in order, before this vote is taken, to have the president's letter read again for the information of the house?" (Laughter.)

The vote resulted: Yeas, 176; nays, 97; with eighteen present and not voting. Democratic cheers greeted this announcement; and then Mr. Wilson (dem., W. Va.) offered a motion providing that the order heretofore adopted asking for a further conference with the senate on the tariff bill be rescinded; that the conferrees appointed under that order be discharged, and that the house recede from its disagreement to the senate amendments to the tariff bill.

After a somewhat heated discussion, which was indulged in by several members, the vote was taken on the report of the committee on rules to concur in the senate amendments to the tariff bill; and it was agreed to, yeas, 181; nays, 105; present and not voting or paired, 1—Mr. Black (dem., Ill.)

Populists voting yea were Baker (Kan.), Bell (Col.), Boen, Davis (Kan.), Harris, Hudson, Pence—7.

The democrats voting nay were Messrs. Bartlett, Cockran, Covert, Savey, Dunphy, Everett, Gorman, Hendrix, Johnson (Ohio), Meyer, Price, Tarsney, Warner—13.

The announcement of the vote was received with clapping of hands and imitative cock-crowing.

A motion to reconsider the vote and to lay that motion on the table was made by Mr. Wilson and agreed to—Mr. Springer. Replying to this, Mr. Wilson spiritedly asserted that so far as he knew, he and his associates did not propose to give up the fight for tariff reform so long as the foot of protected monopoly was upon the neck of a single citizen of the country.

The bill was further discussed by Messrs. Hopkins (rep., Ill.), Coombs (dem., N. C.), Bryan (dem., Neb.), Gear (rep., Ia.) and Pence (pop., Col.), and was passed—yeas, 187; nays, 84.

Mr. Wilson then stated that, as directed by the caucus of his democratic associates, he introduced a bill to place all sugars on the free list. The bill was passed—yeas, 276; nays, 11.

The negative vote in detail was as follows:

Democrats—Messrs. Boatner, Davey, Everett, Meyer, Ogden, Price, Robertson, Sperry and Stevens.

Republicans—Messrs. Harmer and Reyburn.

And then, at 10:25 o'clock, the house adjourned until Wednesday at 12 o'clock.

thus making the action of the house on concurring in the senate amendments final.

Then Mr. Wilson reported a bill to place on the free list bituminous coal, shale, slack and coke, from and after the passage of the act; and after remarks by Mr. Grosvenor (rep., Ohio), Mr. Turner (dem., Ga.) and Mr. Payne rep., N. Y.) the bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time—yeas, 160; nays, 104; present and not voting, 1.

The bill was then passed without a division.

Then Mr. Wilson reported a bill to place on the free list all ores of iron from and after the passage of the act. It was passed—163 to 102.

The next bill provided for placing barbed wire and iron rods from which it is made on the free list.

Mr. Reed asked Mr. Wilson what was the duty on barbed wire in the late lamented Wilson bill.

Mr. Wilson—Thirty or 35 per cent. ad valorem.

Mr. Reed—Will the gentleman give us the reason for his change of heart?

Mr. Wilson—Oh, our views are always progressing on the subject of tariff reform. (Laughter.)

Mr. Reed and Mr. Wilson engaged in an animated passage at arms over what the former denominated as the unseating of the latter as the leader of the house and the enthronement of

HAWAII AND THE TARIFF.

How the New Law Will Effect the Little Republic.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The newly recognized republic of Hawaii has a strong personal interest in the adoption of the senate tariff bill. The prosperity of the islands is to a large extent dependent upon the continuance of the reciprocity treaty of 1875, by which Hawaiin sugar is admitted to the United States free of duty, and in return for which Pearl harbor was ceded to this government as a naval station.

The original Wilson bill abrogated this among other treaties, but when Secretary Carlisle was consulted about the sugar clause of the senate bill he inserted a provision that the Hawaiian treaty should be excepted. This treaty practically admits everything free from the United States into the Hawaiian Islands and the United States customs duty is collected on "muscavado, brown or other unrefined sugar," meaning thereby the grades of sugar heretofore commonly imported from the Hawaiian islands and now known in the markets of San Francisco and Portland as Sandwich island sugar, syrups of sugar cane, melado and molasses, rice, castor oil, fruits, nuts, vegetables and a number of raw materials.

Governor Flower Pleased.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 14.—When Governor Flower heard of the action of the democratic caucus on the tariff bill he expressed himself as greatly pleased, saying: "The whole country will rejoice over a settlement of this question, which has hung fire so long. I do not know what effect it will have on the party, but I do know that when either party formulate their opinions in platform at their national convention they fall short of the mark in carrying them out."

WOUNDED AND CAPTURED.

A Burglar Comes To Grief in a Cannonsville Store.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 13.—During Sunday night William Henderson, a clerk who sleeps over M. W. Henderson's store, at Cannonsville, Delaware county, heard two men in the store below. He took his revolver, sneaked down stairs and fired in the direction from whence the noise came.

The ball passed through the left leg, above the knee, of one of the burglars, and the other one ran away.

Henderson grabbed the man whom he had wounded and handed him over to neighbors. The burglar gave his name as Frank Russell, aged twenty-seven years, and says he hails from Pennsylvania.

Over one hundred burglaries have been committed in that section of Delaware county in less than two months.

Skipped With the Bridegroom's Cash

Albany, Aug. 14.—A United States soldier named Wyckes is missing from the Watervleit arsenal and he has taken $275 belonging to a comrade, known as "Bones," which was entrusted to him. The latter recently got married and, with his bride, was to have started Saturday on his vacation, but when he looked for Wyckes and his money, both were gone. If Wyckes does not return within ten days he will be classed as a deserter, and the United States authorities will look him up.

Symptoms of Hydrophobia.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 14.—Paul Hagens, a young German, was taken to a hospital yesterday suffering with what physicians term pseudo-hydrophobia. About three months ago Hagens was badly bitten by a big dog. The wounds healed, but he has been worrying about dog bites and rabies until he has got himself into a hysterical condition that causes some of the symptoms of actual hydrophobia and, although he has not been violent, it was judged best to bring him to the hospital for treatment and rest.

Major Worth's Court Martial.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 14.—The court martial of Major William Worth, of the Second infantry, began and finished in a few hours yesterday. Worth was charged with ordering Private Cederquist to shoot at a target on Sunday. Importance was lent to the case by the fact that Baptists all over the country are backing up Cederquist. Owing to army regulations the decision cannot be known until it is officially announced.

FRAUDULENT USE OF MAILS.

Mrs. Eugenia Winans, of Bridgeport, Under Arrest at Boston.

Boston, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Eugenia Winans, sometimes Miss Eugenia Hall, an attractive appearing woman from Bridgeport, Conn., was before the United States commissioner yesterday charged with using the mails for unlawful purposes, and her case was continued until Monday next under $1,000 bail.

It is alleged that the prisoner advertised for a stenographer's position and would plead poverty and trouble to a prospective employer for the purpose of securing an advance of money for which, it is alleged, she furnished no equivalent.

A GREAT ADVANCE.

How Food and Nourishment Have Been Reduced to an Exact Science So That Dyspepsia is a Thing of the Past.

When one takes a piece of bread into the mouth this is what occurs. The motion of the jaws in chewing forces from little glands the liquid which we know as saliva. This contains a peculiar principle which at once attacks the food, dissolving or digesting it, with the production of certain sugar-like compounds, in which form it is absorbed.

Other foods are similarly acted upon in the stomach, and still others are not digested until they reach the duodenum. If for any reason the digestive organs have become deranged, food is worse than useless, for instead of being absorbed, it ferments and decomposes with the production of poisonous elements that set up all sorts of disorders.

Here is how the ingenuity of man has arranged to assist nature. Scientists have discovered that plants as well as animals digest their food and in much the same way. Digestive principles have been separated from certain fruits and grains and are now used for preparing an artificially digested food known as Paskola, so that it is absorbed immediately upon entering the system.

Paskola long since passed the experimental stage, and is being used with success and satisfaction by thousands of suffering dyspeptics.

Here is the testimony of a prominent insurance agent at Fenton, Mich.:

Gentlemen:—For several years I had gradually been growing weaker and paler with much loss of flesh.

I had no energy, moved about with difficulty, could not sleep and of course had a very poor appetite. Last March a friend of mine, living in New York, and knowing of my condition, sent me two small bottles of Paskola.

I took them according to directions and could see a marked change. In fact, my friends and acquaintances noted the improvement in my appearance and spoke of it.

Today I weigh 150 pounds, or as much as I ever did. My face bears a healthy color and I get about as quickly as ever; my sleep refreshes me, my appetite is good and I do not see but that I am well as ever.

I very willingly make these statements deeming it due to those who are suffering as I suffered, and are perhaps wasting their time and money by employing incompetent physicians who do not understand their case, but who do know how to make big bills. Paskola is a wonderful food. Very truly yours,

C. H. TURNER.

Thus is an original method of combating dyspepsia sustained by testimony.

Paskola can be had of any reputable druggist. An interesting pamphlet descriptive of the product will be sent free on application to The Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade st., New York.

Found at His Sister's Home.

Charles Perrine of East Third street brought back his fourteen-year-old stepdaughter, Clara Conger, from Newark yesterday. She had run away from home with Kate Parkinson last week.

Mr. Perrine found the girl at the home of his sister, 201 Boston street. He wished to send her to the Reform School, but she pleaded so to be allowed to come home that he finally decided to let her do so. Kate is still in Newark.

LITTLE MABEL AT REST.

Sorrowful Hearts Sob Out Their Grief Over a Little White Casket.

Sad indeed were the hearts of the mourners who gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ryder on Central avenue yesterday afternoon at 3, when the funeral services of their little daughter Mabel Anna were held.

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope Chapel, conducted the obsequies, and spoke with much tender feeling of the bereavement which had overshadowed the happiness of this home. Each heart responded in sympathy as the pastor recalled incidents of the beautiful little life so rudely severed.

Emblematic of purity was the white casket containing the body of the little one, and upon it were lovely blossoms bunched with snow-white ribbon, laid there by loving hands. Standing at the head was a broken column of flowers, on top of which rested an exquisite wreath of roses, and at the base was encircled a bank of flowers with the words "Our Niece" inscribed. This last was given by the decedent's uncles, D. R. Ryder, J. T. Ryder, and W. A. Ryder.

Interment was private, in the Presbyterian Cemetery, North Plainfield.

GREAT AD FOR PLAINFIELD.

And a Mighty Interesting Part of Mr. Ragan's New Lecture.

Through the thoughtful courtesy of H. H. Ragan, the traveler and lecturer who has delighted such large audiences in Plainfield and throughout the country, The Daily Press is in receipt of excellent photographs of Washington Rock and of the Harberger house, Plainfield's Washington's Headquarters. These were taken by Mr. Ragan during a recent visit to Plainfield, and will be used in his forthcoming lecture "Footprints of Washington". The Rock photograph shows the boulder itself commanding a splendid view beyond of Plainfield and the country. These photographs and Mr. Ragan's accompanying description will add materially to the new lecture, and be of material benefit to Plainfield in the way of advertising.

THE SECRET ORDERS.

Gilbert S. Martin has acquired sole ownership of The American Eagle. It is a paper worthy the fullest support of the J. O. U. A. M.

A. J. Stiglitz, William Newcorn and R. E. Seaman have prepared a set of resolutions deploring the death of Frederick P. Westphal.

The degree team of Iona Council rehearsed in full dress the adoption ceremony which is expected will be worked on four candidates tomorrow night.

Committeemen Hartpence, Seaman, Stiglitz, Houseman and Holstein are arranging for the celebration of the fifth anniversary of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men, October 9.

The caps, canes and gloves to be worn by Franklin Council, No 41, J. O. U. A. M., on the day of their excursion, Thursday the 16th, have been purchased of Crane the hatter, West Front street.

A delegation of Miantonomoh Tribe will go to Rahway Thursday night to assist in instituting a new council, Degree of Pocohontas, and presenting a Past Sachem's regalia, bought by the tribes of the district, to District Deputy Westlake of Elizabeth.

CHURCH CHIMES.

C. E. Hungerford will conduct the 8 o'clock Wednesday evening prayer meeting services in Trinity Church.

Charles Kellogg, choirmaster of Holy Cross Church, is spending three days of his vacation with relatives on Westervelt avenue.

For the first time in fourteen years no service will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist Church this week. Rev. Dr. Lewis has gone to the Conference in Brookfield, N. Y., and many of the congregation are out of town.

Three lawn festivals are arranged for, as follows: Greenbrook Sunday-school, on the grounds of F. G. Dunn, tomorrow afternoon and evening; Washingtonville Sunday-school, Thursday afternoon and evening; Willow Grove Sunday-school, on lawn near Lambert's Mills, Thursday afternoon and evening.

The spirit of churchly harmony was charmingly shown yesterday by the visit of Rev. E. Klonka to Rev. and Mrs. Hauser. The Lutheran pastor spent the afternoon and evening at the home of the German Reformed clergyman, and they all took tea together. Mrs. Hauser and Mr. Klonka wrought excellent music from the piano, and good fellowship and sociability were marked.

Rev. Dr. Yerkes of the First Baptist Church is taking his usual Summer vacation and Aug. 19, Rev. M. Ashley Jones of Richmond, Ky., preaches for him both morning and evening. Mr. Jones is a younger brother of Rev. Carter Helm Jones of Louisville, formerly a popular preacher and pastor at Elizabeth, and is a very attractive speaker. Aug. 26 and Sept. 2, Rev. Arthur Crane of Carleton avenue will preach. Mr. Crane will conduct the weekly prayer meetings, and make any necessary pastoral calls during Dr. Yerkes's absence.

Grist of the City Court.

John Marks of Liverpool was arrested by Policeman Flanagan on East Front street yesterday afternoon. He was drunk and tired and wanted to sleep on the sidewalk. City Judge Coddington sent him to jail for ten days this morning.

John Conley, arrested by Policeman Saunders for being disorderly on the Central Railroad, was sentenced to 20 days imprisonment.

Thomas Brown was brought to court by Officer McCue. Brown is married and does n't live with his wife. Mrs. Brown's home is at 827 West Fourth street, and it is her husband's habit to go there every Saturday and use the worst kind of language in addressing her from a distance. He gave $100 bail today to appear for trial Friday morning at 9.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Victor Wheelmen run to Florida Grove, August 30.

The Crescents have received 200 entries for Saturday's races.

Monte Scott will probably ride in the Associated's 25-mile road race Labor Day.

E. L. Blauvelt of Elizabeth is training on the Crescent track. He will ride an exhibition half tomorrow afternoon.

The prizes for next Saturday's contests were placed on exhibition in the windows of J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store today.

The Crescent Wheelmen will have a club run to Elizabeth Thursday evening, Aug. 16, leaving the club-house at 7:30 sharp.

Monte Scott and Secretary Teel went this morning to Allentown where Scott rides in an eighteen-mile road race this afternoon.

A slight illness prevented A. H. Barnett from going to Lynn, Mass., yesterday as he had intended. He leaves tomorrow instead.

Harrison of Asbury Park, who took the novice in 2:25 and the mile handicap in 2:13 in the Park races Saturday will ride on the Crescent track next Saturday.

James Connelly, Plainfield's one-legged rider, will contest for the one-legged championship of New Jersey at the matinee races on the Crescent Oval tomorrow.

The proposed trip to Philadelphia will probably not be made by the Victor Wheelmen. The members seem to prefer to talk about marvelous runs they made when no one else was about rather than to really show their face on a club run.

At the Crescent Wheelmen's matinee races tomorrow the seventh event on the card is a race open only to members that have never before entered a race. Some of the entries for the race are as follows: Captain Haynes, T. J. Carey, J. French, Dr. Pocock, Wm. VanSyckle, Geo. Stevens, James Buckle. These and others will be at the tape when the gun goes off.

The Hunterdon Democrat says: "There are a good many women in Flemington, and elsewhere in the country, who fully appreciate the benefits to be derived from bicycling, and nearly all of them can give points to the men in the matter of correctly sitting the machine. The women sit erect, in easy posture, the majority of men go along humped up as if they were desirous of acquiring that graceful dorsal contour most correctly demonstrated by a cat when making a speech on the top of a back-yard fence. It is thrown out as a suggestion to the women that they adopt a sensible bicycle costume. For a woman to breast a breeze clad in an envelope of cloth that would make a sail for a good-sized boat, puts her to an exertion that must be very tiresome, and it necessarily retards her speed; besides there is nothing especially attractive in the sight of a woman mounted on a bicycle with her skirts flapping in the wind as she goes along, as if she were entirely at loose ends. There are neat, convenient and very becoming bicycle costumes to be had; it only requires a little determination, backed up by common sense, to make their adoption general. Outdoor life in clothing of sensible cut is what women needs today in all modern civilization."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

A lawn party and peach festival under the auspices of the Harris Lane Christian Endeavor Society will be held tomorrow evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Johnson, Harris Lane. A large number of out-of-town guests will be present, and a most enjoyable evening is expected. If the weather proves stormy the festival will be postponed until the next fine evening.

Populists Released.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Editor Rappaport, Leroy Templeton, "General" Jennings and C. L. Gilligan, who were arrested here Sunday for holding a populist meeting, have been released. The case would not hold.

Lasters on Strike.

Boston, Aug. 14.—Eighteen lasters employed in the shoe manufactory of C. W. Varney & Co., of Lynn, are out on strike against a 20 per cent. reduction in wages.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cure of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

SUMMER WARDROBES.

Fashion at a Standstill, but It Is Time to Wear and Enjoy.

It is now the season when fashion is nearly at a standstill. Summer wardrobes are all arranged, and it is too early to think of fall ones. Women want to wear and enjoy the pretty things they already have rather than go through the fiery ordeal of shopping and being fitted. The odors of town, although quite as characteristic in their way, are less appreciated at present than the fragrance of sea and country places. The smell of pines or fresh seaweed in the sun is better than all the manufactured essences in the market. If some one would only invent a method of bottling it up for winter use, the stock of potpourri jars would drop hopelessly.

SILK MUSLIN COLLAR.

The woman who is enjoying these scents at first hand is undoubtedly already provided with her outing suit of black, blue or brown serge, made with an unlined skirt and blazer or Eton jacket. Such a costume may be worn with a thick or thin bodice, as the weather demands, and will endure any amount of rough usage, rain, spray and dust. She also has her dotted or flowered muslin gown much frilled and furbelowed, which she puts on after her return from boating or fishing excursions in the aforesaid rough and ready garments. A bath and a fresh dress are wonderful revivifiers after fatiguing exercise, so it is worth while, merely from a hygienic point of view, to have several nainsook gowns as prettily trimmed as one can afford. Of course she has a broad brimmed flower laden hat to correspond and long wash leather or silk gloves, as well as a white, scarlet or dark blue sun umbrella to keep the flowers on the hat from fading. She has not forgotten the light silk gown trimmed with lace for formal occasions nor the two or three evening gowns, one probably of black net or grenadine. In fact, it is doubtful if her wardrobe is not well stocked with most of the things in vogue just now, except possibly the newest inventions in gauzy arrangements to be worn around the neck and shoulders. Something fresh in that line is continually appearing, and the latest is shown in the cut. It is of black mousseline de sole puffed over the shoulders and falling in two points in front. It is draped across the upper part of the chest and is collarless.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SUMMER BOOKS.

Judic Chollet Discusses Them With Her Usual Good Sense.

In these days, when "novel" is merely an alluring name for an essay on social or medical problems flimsily covered by a transparent veil of narrative, like the gelatin coating of a quinine capsule, it is hard to find a book that may be read for the sheer pleasure of it, with no necessity for diving into the dark depths of science and ethics. Even the ordinary society love story, that once most popular of tales, has been thrust into the background by the crowd of dissertations on brain wearying themes that beguile us into reading them by their specious claims to the title of light literature. There would be danger of a revolt in favor of dime novels if it were not possible to once in awhile get hold of such a story as Stevenson's "Treasure Island," full of delightfully unabstruse mutineers, buried gold and bloodshed, and so well written that the reader, like the recipient of Sam Weller's valentine, will "vish there vos more."

Without wishing to add another new theory to the innumerable host now buzzing like bees in different bonnets, it may be suggested that possibly some women have a lurking fancy for personal experience of moving accidents by flood and field, not as strong as the adventurous instincts in men, but still strong enough to give a charm, in addition to its own charming style, to such a book as "The Admirable Lady Biddy Fane," for instance.

If we could all live in caves for the next month or two, the interest in dainty summer gowns might relax a little. As we cannot do that, we must be content to read "Lady Biddy" on the veranda in the prettiest costume that the heat permits. A sketch is given of a gown of old rose foulard. The round skirt, trimmed with four bands of white lace insertion, has a plain princess tablier in front, the left side of which is trimmed with black satin bows. The back and right side of the bodice are trimmed with three bands of insertion, while the left side is draped with white lace to match. The corsage opens in a V over a full plastron of white silk muslin. The elbow sleeves consist of two puffs finished by a lace flounce.

WATER GAP HOUSE,
DELAWARE WATER GAP, PA.
The location of this house, on a spur of the Kittatinny Mountain, is the Finest in the Whole Range
of the Blue Ridge. From its elevation are compassed views of great extent and beauty, embracing the gorge through which the river winds, the Upper Delaware Valley to the north, and Cherry Valley westward. From the Pioneer Walks, through hundreds of acres of forest, charming vistas are opened, affording frequent surprises for the alert pedestrian. The quiet and lake-like repose of the Delaware is very attractive to oarsmen and from the boat fine views of the great pass are obtained. The drives in every direction throughout the neighborhood are diversified and interesting. The hotel is large and complete in every detail, with broad verandas, a well-lighted billiard room, bath room, electric bells and mountain spring water in bed rooms. Superior table.

HANDICAP TENNIS.

Exciting Games on the Courts of the Hillside Club.

A tournament handicap was held yesterday under the supervision of members of the Hillside Tennis Club.

This tournament was thought by many to have better tennis in it than any previous tournament held by the Hillsides this year.

The most interesting match of the day was that between L. Fish and C. F. Walz. The play was very exciting. Carl Walz excelled on the side-line strokes. After the score had reached 5-2 and 40-15 in favor of Fish, Walz braced and won the set, 9-7. The next set went to him more easily, 6-4.

The rest of the tournament was very exciting also, H. V. Ryder winning his matches with ease, except the last set with T. Smith, which was closer than the score shows. H. V. Ryder is a Sophomore at Yale, getting second place in the Freshman tournament at Yale last year. He is thought to have a good show for the University tournament at Yale, if he keeps on improving at his present rate.

Finals will be played tomorrow afternoon. Following is the schedule:

First round—H. V. Ryder beat Burke, handicap, (15), 6-3, 6 0. T. Smith beat L. Glenny, (15), 6-3, 2.

Preliminary—Walz beat the Rensaeler Schuyler, 6 3, 6-2. B. Platt beat F. W. Goddard, (15), 6-2, 2-6, 6-3; James Middiedith beat A. Finch, (15, 6-2, 6-1. L. Fish beat M. Dumont, (15), 6-0, 6-0.

First round, continued—C. Walz beat B. Platt, 6-2, 6-3; L. Fish beat J. Middiedith, 6-2, 6-3.

Semi-Finals—H. V. Ryder beat T. Smith, 6-0, 6-3; Carl Walz beat L. Fish, 9-7, 6-4.

Finals tomorrow afternoon. Prizes will be given to first, and runner-up.

STAYS ON THE AVENUE.

Plumber Addis Not to Leave the Place That Has Known His Skill This Score of Years.

Addis the veteran plumber will not leave North avenue. He established his business in 1878 on the spot where The Daily Press is now situated, and will still remain on that thoroughfare. He will occupy the store formerly held by Grocer Fred W. Dunn, where he will associate with him his son Wm. H. Addis, and will open with an entirely new line of sanitary specialties, prepared to attend to the wants of his many friends old and new, and of those who have kindly patronized him for the past 20 years.

Improvements are first to be made in the property by the owner, A. D. Thompson, and until he is ready to open the store Mr. Addis's services may be obtained by means of a postal card addressed to him at 316 Orange place.

From The Daily Mail, the bright local newspaper which enlightens the people of Catskill, The Press learns that T. H. Keller's boys are astonishing the natives up that way.

The family are enjoying life up at Fred Becker's great Summit Hill House, and the young chips of the old block have organized a ball team that has already beaten everything in the vicinity. The players, with their ages and positions, are as follows: Russell Patterson 13 p., Courtney Keller 10 c., Theodore Pell 15 1b., Gus Jacobs 12 2b., Homer Carol 14 ss., Hazelwood Keller 12 3b., Fred Childs 13 rf., Arthur Clem 11 cf., Homer Sturtevant 14 lf.

Home from Camp.

Clarence Thorn, Harry Denckiau, Walter Hetfield, jr., Percy McVoy, and Wyatt E. Barnes, came home from camp last night. They had been tenting on Cedar Pond, above Newfoundland, and as provisions became exhausted they pulled up stakes. They drove all the way, leaving camp at 5 yesterday morning. Among the views taken by Clarence Thorn, camp photographer, is a fine photograph of Uncle John Coles, the typical North Jersey woodsman who was so kind to them during their period of roughing it.

Tree on the Trolley Track.

The elm tree which Captain Hand cut down on the place of A. G. Hooley of Central avenue yesterday interfered with the Somerset street line of street cars for an hour yesterday afternoon. Shortly before 4 the immense log slipped from the truck when it was at the corner of Somerset and Pearl streets. It was with difficulty that it was fastened in place again so that it could be drawn away.

Death of Katie Thompson.

In the hope of restoring health to the little one, Katie, the 11-months-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Thompson, was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barry, Dunellen. The effort was unavailing, for death came Sunday morning at half-past three. The body was brought to Plainfield, and funeral services were held at 2 this afternoon in St. Mary's Church, followed by interment in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS.

Fanwood Township Committee.

Routine business was the rule at the meeting of the Fanwood Township Committee held last evening in Excelsior Hall, Scotch Plains. A step was made towards beautifying the twin villages by trimming the trees along the highways. All the members were present.

After Clerk Hand had read the minutes, Treasurer Miller reported township finances as follows:

Balance, July 19	$287.59
Paid out	529.57
Received from delinquent taxes	186.66
Received for registration of dogs	3.00
Received from Dr. Coles and Charles B. Stout, subscriptions on Mountain avenue sidewalks	50.00
Balance on hand	$287.68

Committeeman Downer reported minor street improvements and called attention to the unequal lighting on North and South avenues. The Plainfield lighting company had promised to move one of the five North avenue lamps to South avenue where but three were stationed. On motion of Mr. Downer, the clerk was instructed to write to the company and ask them to make the change which would remedy the difficulty.

In the broad tire matter Mr. Miller said he had asked Lawyer Frank Bergen of Elizabeth to draft an ordinance according to law, but that he not yet received a copy. Mr. Miller thought there was no need of hurrying. Mr. Downer thought it would be well to have the law passed before the muddy season began.

Mr. Miller presented an ordinance prepared in accordance with the State law on townships. It ordered that all shade trees on the inner or outer lines of the sidewalks in the township which have grown so that they shade the electric light or hinder pedestrians or the approach of vehicles, be trimmed sufficiently to remove any such obstructions. Owners of adjoining property or persons having control thereof, ordered the proposed ordinance, should have 20 days in which to comply with the instinctions. If anyone failed to do so he would be liable to a fine of not less than $10 or more than $100.

Mr. Miller said that the ordinance was offered in response to many requests. On motion of Mr. Downer the ordinance was passed and ordered up for final consideration at the next meeting. Mr. Miller referred to a prominent citizen of the Plains who had run the branch of a tree above a sidewalk through his high hat.

Clerk Hand was authorized to write to Mrs. Ackerman, telling her that the lines on Midway avenue had been surveyed, and calling attention to the fact that the posts in front of her property on that avenue were not back far enough. If the obstructions were not removed, the work would be done and charged to her.

Mr. Downer referred to the purchase of a new road machine, and it was decided to purchase, through Blacksmith Trainor, a set of shoes for the old machine. The matter of sheltering the apparatus was discussed, but no action was taken. President Terry referred to one machine which had been sheltered from the weather only to be destroyed by fire.

A number of bills were ordered paid. Mr. Miller said he would attend to the replacing of the rotten post near the liberty pole which formerly supported the signboard. The committee then adjourned.

The next meeting will be held next Tuesday night, August 21, when the assessor's duplicate will be approved.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company will meet next Monday night.

The local council of the Royal Arcanum will hold a meeting this evening.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks has returned from his annual vacation in New England.

John Kane of Westfield made his annual visit to Scotch Plains last night.

David Roes moved yesterday from Westfield avenue to the old Osborne homestead on Front street.

Mrs. John Marsh, who is spending August in Asbury Park, returned home yesterday for a stay of a day.

Foreman William B. Noble of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Co is enjoying a vacation from his business in New York.

John Johnson and family returned yesterday from Asbury Park. They intended to stay on the shore during the whole month.

Jacob Mesler and F. J. Clark had a race between the Plains and Fanwood yesterday afternoon, the former driving the fastest.

The Hollingsworth fur mills are still shut down. It was thought that work would be resumed as soon as the repairs were finished.

Rev. J. S. Braker returned to Ocean Grove yesterday after coming from the coast to conduct services in the Baptist Church Sunday.

V. J. Sisser, the new proprietor of the old Illsley hotel, has received several offers for his fast black trotter since the racing south of Plainfield Saturday.

Rain prevented the outdoor meeting by the Baptist Church Sunday evening, but the stereoptican lecture was given in the church as usual. Both a grove meeting and a lecture are announced for next Sunday night.

The funeral services over the remains of young Arthur W. Humes in the Methodist Church Sunday afternoon. Pastor Martatt officiated with the assistance of Rev. Dr. A. H. Parks. The interment was made in the Baptist churchyard.

The unjust umpire in Rahway Saturday was struck several times by swift balls thrown by Pitcher Johnson. The Rahway team under whose auspices the Scotch Plains players were defeated and robbed Saturday afternoon have written to the local club asking for a list of the articles stolen with values annexed and a statement of the amount of money stolen. From this the boys suppose they are to be paid for their losses. One of the ball-players who went to Rahway Saturday had $50 with him. He prudently gave it to a friend to keep it for him during the game.

Rev. and Mrs. F. Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rogers, of New Market, are attending the Brookfield, N. Y., Conference today.

Miss Maggie Williams of the Newark Institution for the Blind, returned home Sunday after spending a pleasant week at the Park Hotel.

At a recent meeting of the School Commissioners the following teachers were appointed for one year: Miss Ellen Palmborg, Miss Maude Titsworth, New Market; Miss Minnie Carpenter, Maple Grove; Miss Nora Henderson, Raritan Landing. The Commissioners meet again this afternoon in the New Market public school, to discuss the subject of raising money to provide text books.

The Protection Society of New Market will celebrate its fifty anniversary next Monday in the school-house. There will be several good speakers, and Friendship Cornet Band will furnish the music. Everyone attending will find an abundance of refreshments, which will be liberally served. Those in charge are William Randolph, William Drake and John Bliss. A very large attendance is expected.

WEST END NOTES.

Where is the West End hose carriage movement?

Druggist Freeman rejoices over the tariff legislation.

The fourth press for the Washington Star has just been completed in the Potter Press Works.

Mrs. Fred Haberle and Mrs. Albert Marsh of West Front street are making great progress in cycle riding.

The Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company have received several cars of ice out on the Kennebec River, Maine.

The West End now has an early service of Sunday papers, the package arriving at a local barber's shop at 7:30.

Mrs. Haberle of Brooklyn, accompanied by her daughter, is visiting her son at his home on West Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Dent of Brooklyn are spending a few days with Mrs. Dent's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Compton of West Front street.

With the colored camp meeting closed the street car company suffers a loss in travel, and the quiet of the End is not disturbed by so many outsiders.

Superintendent Brooks of the Potter Press Works is still in the capital, looking after the new presses recently erected in the room of the Washington Star.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

THE MAINSPRING OF HER LIFE.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Few people realize this.

What can she do, where can she go, so long as that dreadful backache saps both strength and ambition?

She cannot walk or stand, her duties are heavy burdens, and she is utterly miserable.

The cause is some derangement of the uterus or womb. Backache is the sure symptom.

For years Sarah Holstein, who lives at 7 Perry Street, in Lowell, Mass., suffered with falling of the womb. The best doctors failed to relieve her, and as a last resort she purchased six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now she is a well woman.

The dreadful pain in her back stopped after taking the second bottle. She wishes she had taken it sooner, and saved both money and years of suffering.

This Vegetable Compound is the one unfailing remedy for such troubles. A woman discovered it and gave it to woman.

AN OLD AND HISTORIC WATCH.

It Belonged to George III., to Sir William Johnson and Chief Joseph Brant.

"I repaired a watch when I was working in Pamelia, N. Y.," said a watchmaker, "which, although it was more than 250 years old, had been previously repaired but three times—once in 1825, again in 1831, and then in 1842.

"The watch has an interesting history. It is now the property of David Minthorn, who has an authentic record of it. It was made by Thomas Linford, of London, in 1626, and in time came into the possession of George III., who presented it to Sir William Johnson, when he left England to take charge of affairs in the colony of New York. Sir William presented it to the famous Indian chief, Joseph Brant, whose sister was Sir William's mistress.

"In giving the watch to Brant, Sir William remarked that it 'it was surely worth forty rebel scalps.' When Grant had his headquarters in the Schoharie Valley, the watch was taken from him with other booty by Evart Van Epps of Fultonville, who was a paymaster in the American army. Van Epps was afterward taken prisoner by Brant, who recovered the watch.

"The grandfather of the present owner of the watch became a warm friend of Brant's in Canada after the war, and Brant made him a present of the ancient timepiece. It has been in the family ever since, and has always kept good time."

Lincoln a Faithful Clerk.

As a clerk in a country store in Illinois, Abraham Lincoln quickly became known for his honesty. He was truthful in what he said about the goods, he gave good weight, and in particular, he lost no time and spared no pains in correcting mistakes.

He was closing the store one evening when a woman called for a half pound of tea. In the morning he saw from the weight in the scale that he had given her only a quarter of a pound. Leaving everything else he weighed out the other quarter and carried it to her.

Another customer paid him six and one-quarter cents more than was his due, and when the store was closed at night he hastened to correct the mistake, although she lived two miles away.

THE ROMANCE OF ERIC OHREVALL.

A Swede Who Gets His Sweetheart After Thirty Years.

Eric Ohrevall, who died not long ago in Brooklyn, at the age of seventy-two years, was the hero of a genuine romance. He was born in Stockholm, Sweden, and in his youth fell in love with the daughter of a merchant. Meeting with opposition from her parents, Eric came to this country to make a home for her. He found work in New York City as a longshoreman, and wrote to the girl to come to him. He received a letter stating that the girl was dead.

Then he shipped as a sailor and mourned his loss for twenty years as he roamed the sea. He joined the German army at the commencement of the Franco-Prussian war, and after the siege of Paris he returned to this city.

Then he learned that the woman he had believed to be dead was alive and still waiting to hear from him. He lost no time in writing to her, and then when he was fifty years old the sweetheart of his youth came to him. They were married in New York in 1873, and took up their residence in Williamsburg. She died five years ago.

HENRY M. STANLEY.

An American Whose First Exploring Was Done in New York City.

It has been so long since anything has been heard from Henry M. Stanley that people are half forgetting where the great explorer is or what he is doing. He seems to have been living very quietly since his unfortunate candidacy for a seat in Parliament as an anti-Gladstone member, and whether he is contemplating any further work in the Dark Continent is something no one appears to have information about.

Mr. Stanley seems to have fully expatriated himself, and many have, perhaps, forgotten that he is American born and that he began his explorations in New York City as a common, every-day reporter. It was for an American newspaper, the New York Herald, that he first began the work as an explorer which made him famous, and it is therefore to America and American enterprise that the world is indebted for his important discoveries.

There has been a great deal of discussion as to the justice of his treatment of the lieutenants who served under him in that famous last exploration in which so many lives were lost and such thrilling adventures encountered, but in these the public at large has little interest. It is chiefly concerned in what he actually accomplished, and it does not care to go too closely into all the details or explore the means by which the famous work was accomplished. He is a great explorer, and the fact that he has degraded himself from an American citizen to an English Tory, and the suggestion that he was not absolutely just and kind to all of his men and lieutenants, will not shadow the lustre of his name or detract from the fame of his discoveries.

The Russian Emperor's habit of hunting by moonlight or at daybreak is said to have a very simple cause, which is well known in Russia. The Czar suffers from insomnia, and invites sleep by excercise in the chase.

James Whitcomb Riley is reported as saying that the more money he makes the more he wants to write poetry. Possibly this may be explained by the fact that the more poetry he writes the more money he makes.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling is by no means dependent upon the fruits of his pen for an income. He has estates in Vancouver which bring him in a handsome amount yearly.

Mark Twain declares that there are only thirty-five jokes in existence, the rest being merely variations.

GAVETT'S

MAXIMILIAN'S STORY.

A GRAPHIC ACCOUNT OF THE MEXICAN EMPEROR'S SAD END.

The Monument Where He Died as Befitted a Soldier, and Bravely Marked His Heart for His Executioners—His Loving Message to Poor Charlotta.

At Queretaro, in Mexico, three stones mark the spot where Maximilian met his fate. He died as a soldier, and a son of the house of Hapsburg should. His last words were worthy of him and his race:

"Mexicans! Men of my condition and race and animated by my sentiment are destined either to make the happiness of a people or to be martyrs to it.

"It was no illegitimate thought that brought me into your midst. It was you who called me hither. Before dying let me say to you that I have employed all my energies with your good in view. Mexicans! May my blood be the last that you shall shed, and may Mexico, the unhappy country of my adoption, be happy. Vive Mexico!"

After these words he parted his long, blond beard, the better to uncover his breast. Indicating with a finger his heart and saying: "There," he stood like a statue to receive the fatal bullet. "Charlotte! Charlotte" were his last words.

In the dilemma in which Maximilian found himself in Mexico, he despatched Charlotte to France to recall to Napoleon III. his promises. She was received coldly, even cruelly, at the Tuileries. From there she went to Rome. It was here that she showed the first symptoms of madness. The idea that some one was seeking to poison her pursued her, and she would taste nothing but fruit. One day, being introduced to Pope Pius IX, while he was breakfasting, she seized his cup of chocolate. "I am sure that this is not poisoned," she said as she drank it. She insisted upon dining with the Pope and sleeping at the Vatican.

Finally they brought her to Miramar, where she became more tranquil. She again took up her music, painting and her books. But she was so pathetically sad that the people believed her to be a saint and kneeled whenever she passed them.

Maximilian learned of the condition of his wife and had no further desire to remain in Mexico. He sought only to return to Europe as an Emperor and not as a fugitive. But this was prevented by a conspiracy against him. In the story of his arrest, imprisonment and death we find him the brave soldier, the tender man, the loving husband.

It was on October 3, 1865—one year after his arrival in Mexico—that he was arrested by Bazaine. On the 19th, he was shot.

On the night preceding his death he asked for scissors. They were refused. He then begged the jailer to cut a lock from his hair. This was done. He then wrote the letter the words of which come into the mind—thirty years later—as we journey to Miramar:

"My dearly loved Charlotte: If God grants that one day you may be cured and may read these lines you will know what cruelty of fate has pursued me since your departure for Europe. You took away with you my happiness and my heart. Why did I not listen to you? So many events and so many unexpected and undeserved catastrophes have been heaped upon me that I have no longer any hope in my heart, and I await death as an angel of deliverance.

"I die without pain. I shall fall with glory like a soldier and as a conquered king. * * * If you have not strength to endure long such great sufferings—if God shall soon reunite us—I shall bless His paternal and divine hand which has dealt us this cruel blow. Adieu, adieu.

"Thy poor MAX."

Maximilian kissed this letter, inclosed the blond curl and sealed it. Poor Charlotte! She has never read these loving words. For thirty years the poor little head that dreamed of the crown of an Empress has suffered what madness brings in its horrible train, and the world will gladly hear that the suffering life has ended.—N. Y. World.

AMERICAN CRUISERS THE BEST.

Some Points of Difference Between Yankee and British.

The cruiser Minneapolis has surpassed the record of the Columbia, which showed that vessel to be the fastest of her inches then afloat. The Minneapolis, with her record of 23.05 knots, now carries the broom. The measure of superiority shown by these two ships was insisted on at the time of the Columbia's trial, but will bear repeating here. The speeds of foreign cruisers, with which these records are compared, are not ascertained by a measured run; but by patent log, and at speeds of twenty knots the log records between two and three knots too much. The only measured distance used in the foreign trials is a single mile known as "the measured mile," and over this bit of water alone is the trial strictly accurate. Thus had the recent trial been made abroad, the Minneapolis's speed would have gone on record as between twenty-five and twenty-six knots.

In the American trials, not only is the whole course measured, but the direction and force of the currents are measured from the stake boats with no less accuracy during the trial itself. This is not done in the foreign trials; the possible influence of these is left to happy-go-lucky guessing, and in the returns it is, as a fact, neglected altogether. So little notion have they over there of the scientific precision of an American trial that when they got the returns of the Columbia's run the professional papers fell to sneering with all their might, and indulged in sagacious surmise as to the unknown effect of the currents that must have helped the Yankees in their amateur efforts at speed timing. It is a literal fact that at this moment the British press does not believe that any such speed as that obtained with the Columbia has been accomplished. It is "impossible," in honest John's mind, that he himself can have been so effectually trounced.—Evening Sun.

Mary (Anderson) de Navarro has been writing her memoirs. The book begins with the earliest recollections of her childhood, and ends with a frank statement of the distaste which, before she left the stage, she began to feel for the practice of the dramatic art. Mrs. de Navarro's delight is singing. It is reported that she has developed a splendid contralto voice, which is undergoing careful training. She cares nothing whatever for the theatre nowadays—has, indeed, seen but one dramatic performance in four years.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

INTENDED AS AN INSULT

The President's Bicycle Letter to Gov. Waite.

So the Colorado Executive Looks Upon It, and Although the President Should Forget That He Was a Gentleman the Governor Will Not Imitate So Bad an Example.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Aug. 15.—An answer has just been received by the Ganymede Wheel club, of this city, to the letter sent by its president to Gov. Waite, of Colorado, with the message from President Cleveland carried by the relay riders. It reads in part as follows:

Gentlemen:—Your communication of the tenth instant was received yesterday in the same dispatch pouch with the letter of the private secretary of the president of the United States. I regret very much that any "unfriendly feeling between President Cleveland and myself" should have influenced him to cast any discourtesy upon your league. The letter sent by the private secretary of the president is typewritten, commences "sir" and winds up "to the governor, Denver, Col.," and whether or not designed to reflect upon the League of American Wheelmen, it was no doubt intended as a personal insult to myself. But it was respectfully answered, because it was an official communication and related to a matter in which I had no personal concern, and for the further reason that because the president of the United States should forget in his official correspondence that he was a gentleman is no excuse for me to imitate so bad an example.

There is no just reason why the president of the United States should entertain any unkindly feeling towards myself. United States troops were sent into Colorado without the request of, or notice to, the governor of the state and without any domestic disturbance which had even been called to the attention of the civil authorities, county or state.

I wired to President Cleveland protesting against his unconstitutional invasion of the state with United States troops and respectfully inquired by what authority the United States marshal and his deputies had suspended the writ of habeas corpus in Colorado. To this telegram President Cleveland made no response, and if there is any "unfriendly feeling" between President Cleveland and myself it is doubtless in consequence of this telegram. But however "unfriendly" President Cleveland may feel toward me that fact has nothing to do with the duty I owe to the people of Colorado to protect them as far as is in my power from any invasion of their constitutional rights.

With thanks for your letter, I am, gentlemen, very truly yours,

DAVID H. WAITE.

PARDRIDGE IN A HOME.

The Chicago Plunger Under Treatment for Inebriety.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Ed Pardridge, the board of trade plunger, who was forcibly ejected from the floor of the exchange Monday for raising a disturbance, is now confined in the Washingtonian home, an institution for the reformation of inebriates.

He was violent when locked in a room with barred windows, it requiring four men to get him inside. He managed to free his hands from handcuffs, and made a great outcry, declaring that an effort was being made to kill him.

He was resting easy this morning.

TWELFTH CONSECUTIVE TIME.

Bland Renominated for Congress from His Missouri District.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 15.—The democrats of this (the eight) congressional district have renominated Richard P. Bland for congress. This is the twelfth consecutive time that Mr. Bland has been nominated for congress.

Nominated for Congress.

Streator, Ill., Aug. 15.—The prohibitionists of the Eleventh district in convention here nominated Marion Gallup, of Livingston county, for congress.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Aug. 15.—The republicans of the Third Congressional district nominated Judge Gordon, of Meyer county, by acclamation. The resolutions favored free coinage of silver and free sugar.

Satolli at Butler, N. J.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 15.—Archbishop Satolli participated at the jubilee services in honor of the seven hundredth anniversary of St. Anthony at the shrine at Butler yesterday. The train carrying the ablegate from Jersey City to the shrine was decorated with the stars and stripes and the papal colors. Mgr. Satolli will officiate at the pontificial high mass today.

For a New Party.

Pittsburg, Aug. 15.—Prominent men of Pittsburg and the surrounding country have joined in a call for a convention to be held in Braddock for the organization of a party for reform, in which the word reform is not to be used; of economy, in which the word economy is eschewed; and the slogan of which is "A reduction of public expenses.

Tight-Rope Walker Fatally Injured.

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—William H. Davison, of Ripley, Ohio, was performing on a tight rope yesterday afternoon at a riverside garden when he fell thirty-five feet and struck on several chairs, breaking three ribs, injuring his spine and sustaining other hurts from which he will die.

Smash-Up on the Jersey Central.

Easton, Pa., Aug. 15.—A freight train on the Central railroad of New Jersey parted while descending a grade near here and the two sections came together with a crash. Twenty-five cars were wrecked and the tracks were blocked for several hours. Brakeman John St. John, Phillipsburg, N. J., was badly injured.

Exciting Scenes at a Meeting of Illinois Foresters.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—The charter of the high court of Illinois independent order of Foresters has been declared revoked and annulled by Supreme Vice Chief Ranger Aitken, acting for the supreme chief ranger, Dr. Oronhyatekha.

The revocation took place at the meeting of regularly elected delegates to the annual high court convention for the state of Illinois, which was being held in Madison hall.

Mr. Aitken and two-thirds of the delegates left the interdicted delegates, bringing the gathering to a sudden termination amid great excitement. A physical encounter almost followed the war of words.

The most sensational scene was created by the deposed high secretary, Col. W. H. Wharry, who rushed through a throng of jeering Foresters in his regalia of office. He seized a bundle, tore from it an American flag, and standing on a chair in the middle of the room, waved the emblem over his head. Cheers and hisses came from the crowd of excited Foresters who stood around him.

The janitor of the building entered at this juncture and shouted:

"Don't hiss the American flag."

The disrupted delegates shouted that the hisses were for the "rebel," Col. Wharry, and the loyal ones voiced their love for the flag by giving three cheers loud enough to be heard on the street. The expelled faction hissed the loyalists and the extraordinary demonstration came to a close by the withdrawal of Acting Chief Ranger Aitken and his adherents from the hall to Gore's hotel, where the election of officers of the high court of Illinois for the ensuing year took place.

JIM MAY FIGHT BOB.

Corbett Willing if Fitzsimmons Puts Up the Cash.

New York, Aug. 15.—It now seems that "Bob" Fitzsimmons will have a chance of meeting "Jim" Corbett by putting up a reasonable forfeit and issuing a challenge to the world.

Police-Captain Glori, of Newark, who is Fitzsimmon's backer, received the following telegram from William A. Scholl, of the Olympic club of New Orleans:

"Have wired Corbett at Asbury Park, offering him a purse of $25,000 to meet Fitzsimmons, the winner to take all."

Fitzsimmons at once accepted the Olympic club's offer and Captain Glori set about arranging for an interview with Corbett.

The news that Fitzsimmons had accepted the offer to fight at New Orleans was telegraphed to Corbett, and the following answer came back:

"I have never seen the color of Fitzsimmon's money. Why does he not come out like a man and issue a challenge to the world, backed by the cash. If no one accepts it, then it is my duty to do so."

Sporting men, in discussing the subject, generally express the belief that Corbett would rather act than fight—not that he is afraid, but because he believes there is more money for him in acting.

WHAT THEY THINK OF IT

Views of Prominent Men on the Tariff Bill.

A Compromise Measure, Says Senator Walsh, but the Best that Could Be Attained During the Present Session—Chairman Harrity Is Satisfied, Although He Hoped for More.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Senator Walsh, of Georgia, when asked for his estimate of the tariff bill as it passed the house, said:

"The senate bill is essentially a compromise measure. It represents the best that could be attained during the present session, and the attainable should always be accepted by conservative men in matters of legislation.

"The senate bill is a long step in the revival of the protective duties. It is the beginning of the end of the fight for tariff reform. It is a compliance with the spirit of the pledges of the democratic party, and the contest will go on until the letter is also fulfilled.

"With the parties so evenly divided in the senate, democrats should rejoice that even that such substantial progress should have been made in the reduction of the duties and the revival of commercial restriction.

"Had the democrats been united, it was possible that the republicans could have filibustered indefinitely and the house have prevented tariff legislation during the present session.

"In place of damning the senate bill with faint praise and bringing it into ridicule and contempt, the democratic press should use its influence to create a just public opinion as to the real merits of the senate bill. When properly presented as the best measure of tariff reform attainable, the conservative sentiment of the country will settle down to the conviction that very substantial progress has been made in the direction of real tariff reform and freer trade among the nations.

"Those who have been denouncing the senate bill as McKinleyism in a modified form should bear in mind that it was impossible for the democratic majority to do otherwise than adopt a compromise measure. Great reforms are not accomplished in a day. Protection has been in existence for thirty-eight years, and it will take time to remove it."

HARRITY IS PLEASED

Although the Tariff Bill as Passed Is Not All That Could be Desired.

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—Chairman William F. Harrity, of the democratic national committee, when asked his views as to the passage of the tariff bill, said:

"Under all the circumstances I regard the action taken by the house of representatives as wise and patriotic, although I do not share in the belief that the senate would have refused or otherwise failed to have passed a tariff bill.

"What the country needs, especially after a protracted business depression, is to have the tariff question settled. Its settlement will mean a certain and steady improvement in business. I do not look for a business boom, but I do expect generally improved business conditions. Quite naturally, I expect that the democratic party will be helped by the action taken.

"Whatever helps the country almost of necessity benefits the party in power. You can put me down as very well satisfied with the outcome, even though the tariff bill as passed, and which is almost certain to become a law, is not all that could be desired from the democratic standpoint."

McKinley Refuses To Talk.

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—Gov. McKinley is overwhelmed with requests for his views on the new tariff law for publication, but he has refused to talk. He said to-day that he had no doubt but that President Cleveland would promptly sign the bill. "It would be quite unlike him to veto it," said the governor.

Woonsocket Mill Owners Satisfied.

Woonsocket, R. I., Aug. 15.—Cotton and woolen manufacturers here express satisfaction with the settlement of the tariff, on the theory that anything is better than uncertainty. Cotton and woollen men expect they will have a marked increase of orders for goods soon as a result of the settlement. The superintendent of the largest plant here does not expect a reduction of wages now.

Canadian Merchants Jubilant.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Canadian merchants are jubilant over the decision of congress to admit wool and lumber free. They anticipate a big revival in these lines.

Orders to Life-Savers.

Highland Light, Mass., Aug. 15.—Captains of the life-saving stations along the coast have received orders from Washington to be prepared to go on duty at any moment with their crews.

Close of Friends' Conference.

Chappaqua, N. Y., Aug. 15.—To-day will conclude this year's conference of the Friends and this place will again assume its usual aspect of tranquility by Thursday night.

Another Coal Strike Threatened.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15.—Another coal strike is imminent in this district. The Springfield operators have announced that they cannot pay the scale recently agreed upon and compete with the Pana operators who only pay 39 cents per gross ton, while they are compelled to pay 45 cents.

IRELAND'S OLD ENEMY

House of Lords Working for Renewal of Coercion.

Significance of the Rejection of the Evicted Tenants' Bill—Communication With Korea Totally Interrupted—France and the Congo State—Other Foreign News.

London, Aug. 15.—The Daily News, in commenting upon the rejection of the evicted tenants' bill by the house of lords, says:

"The majority in the house of peers are concerting with the minority in the house of commons with the aim of making the government of Ireland impossible. They calculate that if disturbances can be excited in Ireland during the winter, a renewal of the coercion act will be demanded and Chief Secretary Morley must, by yielding, quarrel with the Irish members or fail to maintain order and so lower the reputation of the ministry. The responsibility for the consequences of last night's vote rests upon the lords, who have been the enemy of Ireland from the beginning and will remain the enemy till the end."

NO NEWS FROM SEAT OF WAR

Telegraphic Communication With Korea Totally Interrupted.

Shanghai, Aug. 15.—"Chinese land lines to Korea totally interrupted. No prospect of restoration. The cable route via Nagasaki, beyond Fusan, is interrupted. With the single exception of Fusan, Korea is completely cut off from all telegraphic communication."

The Direct Cable company makes the following announcement:

"Shanghai advices: 'Chinese lines to Korea totally interrupted. No prospect restoration; via Nagasaki, beyond Fusan, also interrupted.'"

The Anglo-American Telegraph company announces that telegraphic communication with all places in Korea, except Fusan, is interrupted.

An Invention To Battle After-Damp.

London, Aug. 15.—Dr. J. S. Haldane, brother of Richard B. Haldane, M. P., described before the British association yesterday an invention which, it is claimed, will enable miners to live from one to three hours in after-damp. The invention consists of a steel case holding compressed oxygen and a respirator, the whole no larger than a safety lamp.

France and the Congo State.

Paris, Aug. 15.—A treaty between France and the Congo state, just signed, provides that the French Congo colony's territory shall extend to the Congo and Nile basins, and modifies the treaty between the Congo state and England, the Congo state renouncing the lease Great Britain granted, which led to the recent dispute with England.

Gallipolis, O., Aug. 15.—John Morgan, a colored desperado, was shot and killed by whitecaps at Little Africa, in Mason county, W. Va., Monday. He had threatened to murder several white citizens.

Crops in Ohio Perishing.

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—The state crop bulletin just issued shows that except in a few central districts there has been no relief from the terrible drouth and the effect upon growing crops is disastrous. Corn is shriveling up and on the uplands is a total failure.

Herbert's Cruise on the Dolphin.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Secretary Herbert has decided to leave Washington on the Dolphin to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock. He will be accompanied by his daughter and son and his naval aide, Lieutenant Ramey.

OH, THE BABIES!

175 DIED IN BOSTON IN A WEEK.

Cholera Infantum Is Raging Now—Lactated Food Should Be Fed to Little Ones—August a Critical Time for Thousands—Every Mistake in Diet Must Be Avoided.

The death rate goes up with a jump.

There were almost a hundred cases of mortality due to cholera infantum alone in Boston during the last week, says the Herald of that city.

One hundred and seventy-five babies died from this and similar causes.

The fearful jump in the infant death rate that comes in August is due to improper feeding during hot weather.

In thousands of homes where love and watchfulness seem to have surrounded baby with every safeguard, these conditions that lead to cholera infantum often exist—improper diet and possibility of contagion in food.

These causes are preventable and every death from an intestinal disorder shows either neglect or ignorance on the part of parents.

There is no reason today why baby should not receive proper nourishment, and be kept absolutely free from any possibility of contagion.

Lactated food is always obtainable. Physicians and mothers who have brough up a family of children know how nutritious, how easily digested and how absolutely pure lactated food is, and how eagerly it is taken by children that cannot take other nourishment. Lactated food saves babies' lives.

The diet of a child from six months to three years old should be a carefully regulated as in the first weeks of its life. And during hot weather, especially, the first symptom of diarrhea should cause redoubled watchfulness. Children who are evidently not thriving, who show a lack of energy, who are becoming listless, fretful, thin and pale, must quickly gain strength, or the slight attack of diarrhea that a strong child readily overcomes will prove fatal.

There is always a chance of slight mistakes in feeding baby, and in hot weather such errors often result in cholera infantum, in case baby is not strong and abundantly nourished.

Babies properly fed on lactated food never succumb to cholera infantum!

The experience hundreds of physicians, public institutions and thousands of mothers prove that lactated food is the safest article that can be used as the diet of young children during hot months.

Mothers who have never used lactated food should remember that it is so inexpensive as to be within the reach of the humblest home. Enough meals can be made from a dollar package to last nearly four weeks. The food thus prepared from plain directions on each package costs less than five cents a quart, and lactated food saves babies' lives.

INVESTIGATING THE STRIKE.

National Labor Commissioners Begin Their Work at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—The Board of National Labor commissioners met in the Federal building this morning at 10 o'clock and began the work of considering the causes of the recent strike and the best way to prevent a recurrence of the labor troubles which were recently instituted by the American Railway union.

All of the members of the commission are present. They are Judge N. E. Worthington, of Peroria; J. D. Kernan, of New York, and Carrol D. Wright, labor commissioner.

The result will be reported directly to President Cleveland, who will report in turn to congress.

It is not necessary that congress be in session when the report is made. The first witnesses examined will be voluntary ones, the board having already received notice that a large number of witnesses will come before it without being subpoenaed. The single taxers are largely represented.

NEW CAR WORKS.

Scheme on Foot To Build a Big Plant in Delaware.

Boston, Aug. 15.—John F. Donahue, of this city, who represents several Boston men interested in the scheme for establishing a parlor and sleeping car building plant on the banks of the Delaware river, near Wilmington, said to-day:

"I am not prepared at present to give the names of the gentlemen interested without their authority. Undoubtedly I will be able later on. The company is organized under the laws of the state of Delaware, and is capitalized for $2,500,000. Our principal business will be to construct sleeping cars. We will also build street cars and regulation passenger coaches, and also small, light draught vessels. The Pullman trouble did not lead us to undertake the enterprise, for it has been proposed for a year or more, but it has helped us in securing capital."

GREAT COLLECTION OF BOOKS.

Boston Library Soon To Gain Valuable Musical Literature.

Boston, Aug. 15.—The public library will soon come into possession of a collection of books that is perhaps the finest in its line in the United States—the music and musical literature, in all schools and languages, of Allan A. Brown. Years have been spent in the accumulation of this library with the view of making it comprehensive and complete in its several departments. Besides operas, oratorios, masses and such works, it contains symphonies and other large orchestral compositions of the masters, old and new, with treatises, dictionaries, histories, biographies and other form of literature relating to the art and its exponents, either composers or performers.

Altogether there are about twelve thousand titles in the catalogue.

CHINESE GAMBLERS SUSPECTED

A Chicago Alderman's Narrow Escape with an Infernal Machine.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—An attempt was made yesterday to exterminate Alderman John Coughlin by sending him an infernal machine. The alderman's life was saved by his opening the machine in such a manner that it did not explode. It is supposed that the attempt on the alderman's life was made by some Chinese, whose opium dens he has been instrumental in closing.

WHAT WILL BE DONE?

Danger Ahead for the Four Tariff Bills.

Republicans in a Position To Cause Trouble Over Free Sugar—Populists and Southern Senators Will Assist Them—The President May Be Asked To Keep Congress in Session.

Washington, Aug. 15.—There have been numerous conferences during the past few hours on both sides of the senate chamber, all of which have as their object the ascertainment of what steps shall be taken in regard to the four tariff bills sent over by the house. What the result will be is problematical.

The republican "steering" committee was in session during the morning for a time and discussed the situation from every point of view. One of the prominent leaders of the republicans expressed the belief that none of the bills would receive the affirmative action of the senate, and said that they would be either postponed or sent to the finance committee, where they would remain until the next session of congress, at least.

Prominent democrats admit the impossibility of action, although there are many who insist that the votes shall be taken.

Republicans will have the Louisiana senators and the populists on their side if they begin a fight against the free sugar bill, and Mr. Manderson is authority for the statement that if the democrats attempt to force that bill to the front they will precipitate a debate that will result in the wearing out of a puorum.

MATTERS IN THE SENATE.

The Four Tariff Bills the Most Important Work Now in Hand.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The senate had early official notification of the passage by the house of four bills placing on the free list sugar, bituminous coal, iron ore and barbed wire. As soon as the reading of the journal was finished a message announcing the passage of those bills, and making no reference to the tariff bill, was delivered by the chief clerk of the house. Subsequently the bills were laid before the senate, one after another; were read a first time and went over for a day on an objection by Mr. Manderson (rep., Neb.) to their second reading. Mr. Vest (dem., Mo) indicated a desire to have them taken up at once for consideration, but that was prevented by Mr. Manderson's objection.

In connection with these bills, notice was given by Mr. Hill (dem., N. Y.) that he would offer an amendment to each of them repealing all provisions of law in regard to an income tax.

An objection to the third reading of the house joint resolution extending the general appropriations to the 24th of August was made by Mr. Aldrich (rep., R. I.) and that measure also went over for a day.

Mr. Vest (dem., Mo.) manifested much indignation to a resolution offered by Mr. Hale (rep., Maine) to print 5,000 copies of the tariff bill as passed, and in which resolution the bill was described as "the sugar trust tariff bill." He declared that the senator from Maine had no right to give the bill such an appellation, and that his doing so was an outrage on the senate. The resolution went over without action.

Mr. Chandler's (rep., N. H.) resolution for an investigation into the recent elections in Alabama went over for a day and the senate at 2:10 p. m. adjourned.

ORDERED TO CHINA.

Cruiser Charleston To Leave for the Scene of Hostilities.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The fact that the situation of the China-Japanese affair is considered sufficiently grave to require the augmentation of our naval force in the China sea is made evident by Secretary Herbert's order, just issued, requiring the Charleston to prepare to start for the scene of hostilities as soon as possible. The Charleston is now at San Francisco, having just undergone a cleaning of her bottom at the Mare Island navy yard. She will touch at Honolulu on her way.

Cyclists at Denver.

Denver, Aug. 15.—Among the latest arrivals at the L. A. W. headquarters are Sanger, the fast rider; W. W. Taxis, of Philadelphia; J. P. Watters and A. D. Kennedy, of Chicago. Eddie Bald and Ray McDonald are expected to-day. Miss Lillie Munson, of New York city, and Mr. Charles G. Percival, sporting editor of the Boston Herald, are here. The visitors with their wheels assembled on the capitol steps and grounds at 11 o'clock and were photographed.

Bynum Renominated.

Indianapolis, Aug. 15.—The congressional convention of the seventh district was held yesterday afternoon and William D. Bynum was given his sixth consecutive nomination.

Placed on the Retired List.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Colonel Matthew Blunt, Sixteenth infantry, and First Lieutenant William A. Kimball, Fourteenth Infantry, have been placed on the retired list of the army.

The WREN in Business

It is characteristic of the Wren that it will sneak in and occupy the nest made by another bird, in preference to building one of its own. This same trait is often seen in business. It is shown by the imitators of

COTTOLENE

No sooner has the wonderful merit of this new vegetable shortening, so much better than lard, created for it a remarkable sale and popularity, than the business wrens are ready to move upon the market with many worthless counterfeits. Any housekeeper can be easily and cheaply convinced of the value of COTTOLENE by simply giving it a trial. They will then be unwilling to go back to lard, or go down to fraudulent imitations.

Like the paper whose name it blazons, that new signboard of The Daily Press is of fine appearance, splendid form and color, and read all over.

Put your finger on this for a fact: The unsuccessful Plainfield business man has no ad in The Daily Press. Now prove it by every example you can think of. You can't prove otherwise.

When the Souvenir Edition of The Daily Press was issued on the occasion of the national editorial excursion to this city, all the townspeople agreed that it was the best work for Plainfield that any newspaper had ever achieved. And it was. One result of that enterprise is the wholesale quoting, in papers all over the country, of The Press story of Plainfield's glories, which will not fail to induce many newcomers to settle.

"I want you to find my coat." That was the commission entrusted by Merchant VanEmburgh to The Daily Press. He got the coat, and quickly. "I want you to bring me business." That's the commission entrusted to The Press by every wide-awake local merchant who puts an ad in these columns. And when the ad goes in, the business comes. A Daily Press ad is the best business bringer there is in town. And that's so!

Early closing has always found earnest championship in The Daily Press, which is proud today to record the plea of a scholarly Plainfield divine in favor of the cause. Dr. Barnes speaks of the people's part in the matter, and The Press would merely repeat its suggestion of the past—that if the people would only make after-dark patronage so small as to be unprofitable, they would quickly secure early closing for the clerks who now have little or no time to themselves.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Crescent oat crop will be cut before Saturday's races are run.

F. L. C. Martin's sprained ankle prevents him from accepting the clerkship at the Saturday races.

Crescent riders say that the track will never be sufficiently watered until the city line is extended to the grounds.

Fast quarters were the rage on the Crescent track yesterday afternoon, with Johnson and Mooney of Rahway and E. L. Blauvelt as visiting racers.

C. H. Callahan and Nat Butler may ride in the 25-mile road race Labor Day. Barnett, who will ride as a Crescent, is a favorite with many. Appley of Elizabeth has great hopes. Willis says he will not ride. The winner will have to finish in less than 1:09.

Monte Scott in Allentown yesterday afternoon won the time prize in an 18½-mile road race, riding from scratch and finishing eighth. In spite of the rocky road and the trolley tracks he made this distance in 55 minutes. The prize is a $50 gold medal set with a diamond and two rubies.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Horace J. Martin's address on the Cleveland Convention to the Christian Endeavorers in Bedminster will be made next Tuesday.

The meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church will be of special interest Friday evening. It is the night for the regular consecration meeting, but that will be postponed to allow Miss Emily Coriell, delegate to the Cleveland Convention, to tell what she saw and heard there. Clifford Braider, who attended, also will make a few remarks. Good singing will be a feature, and all are invited.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. B. W. Hand will address the Reform Club in Reform Hall tomorrow evening at 8.

Miss Hellene Lorenzen, a mission worker in Chicago, will conduct the East Third Street Mission meeting tomorrow evening.

A Faithful Conductor.

In Phil Backer the Central Railroad Company has a most faithful conductor. He runs the 11:30 night train from New York, on which the passengers are disposed to be weary and to want to stretch out on the seats. Phil is alert, however, to the interests of the company, and with all due courtesy he requests offending passengers not to put their feet on the upholstery but to spread a newspaper to keep the plush from soiling.

To Lead a Good Engineer.

Fred S. Dunn has tendered his resignation as one of the engineers at the Plainfield electric light station, and though the company has sought to induce him to change his mind the resignation will take effect Sept. 15. He feels that he cannot stand the long Winter night hours, and he will therefore seek less arduous employment.

The Change in Music Hall.

Manager Varian of Music Hall has booked a large list of first-class attractions for the season. He will open Sept. 1 with Charles Dickson in "Incog". He intends playing two shows a week. He will have the sale of tickets entirely from the box office, which will be always open.

Black River Falls Park.

A party of colored excursionists on their way from Elizabeth to Somerville passed through Plainfield by train this morning. A few more joined at the North Avenue station. One car, comfortably filled, contained the crowd.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Plucky Coachman Kiely Holds Fast to the Reins.

The family of Col. Mason W. Tyler went away yesterday, telling their coachman, Michael Kiely, that he might take the maid servants out for a drive in the evening, and then turn the horses out to pasture till they returned.

He took them for the drive last evening, and halted at the home of their sister, Mrs. Ryan, Muhlenberg place. Here the two maidservants got out, but before Mrs. Ryan could dismount the horses started and plunged upon the sidewalk, upsetting the carriag and throwing Mrs. Ryan out unhurt.

Coachman Kiely pluckily clung to the reins, and was dragged. The horses ran across the vacant lot between Third and Fourth streets, and were caught by Policeman McCue at Plainfield avenue.

Mr. Kiely was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where his many painful bruises were dressed. He is about today.

The top of the carriage was wrecked, and one wheel damaged.

PARTICULAR MENTION

E. N. Erickson is home from his Summer trip.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Lowry went today to Asbury Park.

Newport society has given a hearty welcome to Mrs. Alex. Fisk.

James T. Scott and family are expected home Saturday from Avon.

Dudley S. Miller of Orchard place rode to Paterson today on his wheel.

John V. Beekman yesterday secured a patent for a hoisting apparatus.

Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., has joined the McCutchen campers at Lake Placid.

Miss Belle Carkhuff of East Third street is visiting relatives in Flemington.

A. E. Bushnell and family have gone from Lexington, N. Y., to Ocean Grove.

H. P. Mason goes to Princeton, Mass., tomorrow, to spend a few days with his wife.

Charles Foster of the Central Railroad is visiting at the home of his mother in North Plainfield.

Councilman and Mrs. George H. Frost of 745 Watchung avenue have gone to Quebec, Canada.

Policeman Cooney returned from his vacation yesterday morning and went on duty again last night.

Miss Carrie Beekman has returned to her place in the Commercial Palace after a two-weeks vacation.

Mrs. B. A. Starr of North Plainfield is enjoying the shore delights of the Tremont House, Seabright.

Henry G. Runyon of West Seventh street is visiting his uncle, Governor Werts, in Spring Lake Beach.

Charles C. Brower, the horse trainer, is entertaining friends from Poughkeepsie at his home on Park avenue.

Mrs. J. G. Taylor of Somerville is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Holder, of West Fourth street.

Dr. W. H. Murray left town this morning to join his family in the mountains and remain with them a few days.

George Evans is home from his visit to J. W. Jackson in the Thousand Islands. Mrs. Evans is spending August there.

Rev. Edward Love of West Ninth street is at present in Paris. He will sail from Liverpool August 22, reaching home Sept. 1.

Mrs. J. C. VanDyke and daughter Maude of East Front street spent yesterday with Mrs. Maxson Dunham in New Market.

Marshal Wilson of North Plainfield began his vacation today. Constable VanHorn takes his place, as he has that of Marshal Lines the past week.

Mrs. Watson and family of Crescent avenue left this morning on a carriage trip to Lake Hopatcong. They will spend several days by the lake. Frank Hedden of Fourth street drove.

THE SECRET ORDERS.

The degree team of Ions Council will work the adoption degree tonight. The team is about to issue a challenge to all others in the reservation on the exemplification of the ceremonies.

One candidate was initiated at the meeting of Somerset Council last night. Dr. Bedford was chosen marshal for tomorrow's excursion. The members of the council are to meet him at the North Avenue station with white yachting caps, tan gloves, dark suits and canes as marks of membership.

Heeding and Not Heeding.

Because of sickness in his family, Lewis B. Mulford of West Second street asked both the Independent Fife and Drum Corps and the Salvation Army drummers to cease their music while in the vicinity.

The Corps boys boarded a street car and went to the home of Frank Manchester on Lafayette place for practice. The Army marched out by the house with the bass drumming going on in the usual manner.

Rain Needed.

John Naegle, the Plainfield observer, writes to the official State Weather and Crop Bulletin for last week: "The average temperature is 72 degrees, with only 0.01 inch of rain; the drought is seriously affecting potatoes, beans, cabbage, celery and corn; potatoes will be small; truckmen are carrying water, which is the only means of saving truck."

—A force of workmen have commenced to make repairs about the residence of A. G. Hooley of Central avenue.

For sour stomach and all other conditions resulting from constipation, go by the book on Beecham's pills.

Book free, pills 25c. At drugstores; or write to B F Allen Co, 365 Canal st, New York.

A NEGRO, AND TALKED GERMAN.

And as He Threw Stones He Was Arrested for Insanity.

A colored man was noticed at noon today wandering about in the vicinity of Demler's Hotel, throwing stones across the road and muttering in German. The attention of Constable Jacob Reinmann of Warren Township was called to his actions.

The constable at once concluded the man was insane and brought him to the North Plainfield lockup. To Constable Van Horn the Negro gave his name as Charles Lewis. He said his wife lived at 566 West Second street. He had been in the Newark City Hospital, suffering from stomach trouble. VanHorn locked him up and decided to have him examined by Dr. Carman.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A lad named Barber caught a 5-lb carp in Tier's Lake last night.

—Chief Grant's Jersey Central pass was received by ex-Councilman Spangenberg today.

—Charles Arnold, formerly of Liberty street, is about to start a meat market in Albany.

—The water power is so low that French's Mills started up the engines this afternoon.

—Edward Hoover is painting a smokestack 90 feet high for the Smith estate in South Plainfield.

—In Justice Nodyne's Court this morning the case of Embury against Lyman was settled without trial.

—Peter V. Weaver and Daniel Gulick are enjoying Buffalo Bill's Wild West performance this afternoon.

—A change in the by-laws will be considered at the meeting of Gazelle Engine Company No. 1 this evening.

—Cloudy weather in Plainfield often means a fine day at the shore. Bear this in mind and don't let Plainfield clouds deter you from joining the Juniors excursion.

—If you are in search of straw goods, don't go to Crane, the hatter, as he has sold them out, but if you are looking for Fall styles in headwear give him a call, as he has just put in a full line.

—A woman found a bill of considerable denomination on a desk in one of the local banks this morning. She gave it to the cashier, who will restore it to the owner when he satisfies him of his claim.

—Isaac Giles, who has been employed by French Brothers, has started a grist mill with a retail flour and feed business attached, in the building on East Fourth street formerly occupied by C. Frank French.

—D. W. Rogers, Plainfield leading seafood merchant, is adding improvements to his store. He is wainscoting the walls, putting up a wooden ceiling, and placing a window in the north side to give light to his oyster counter.

—White of Plainfield will put on sale tomorrow morning another lot of fine toilet towels at 12c. each. He sold one lot of 1,500 Monday in four hours, and Mr. White says that this lot will sell in half that time, as they are much better value.

Illuminates North Avenue.

A handsome new sign was set at the front of The Daily Press office today. Dory Vroom was the artist, and as usual the work is greatly admired.

Don't Get Left.

The Great American Day excursion tomorrow leaves Plainfield at 7:45. Be on the train then; it will be waiting some minutes before, and start sharp on the minute.

A Good Suggestion.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—John Davies of this city took a severe cold and suffered pain through the back and kidneys. His physician pronounced his case gravel, and failed to help him. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was recommended and after taking two bottles he considered himself cured. It cures rheumatism and also neuralgia too.

Lives In a Darkened Room.

It is quite possible to live the life of the cloister without going into a convent, for in the very heart of Paris, on the sunny Boulevard Montmartre, lives a woman who has not crossed her threshold for 12 years. The front door of her flat is bolted and outer doors of felt put up, so that no sound from the landing could penetrate. On this door is a placard saying not to ring the bell, as no one was home. But, to make precaution doubly sure, the bell has been taken away. She has taken the apartments opposite her own, so that no prying eyes could gaze in on her, and when she first secluded herself the concierge used to bring up cards of inquiring friends, but she forbade him to receive them or to answer any inquiries respecting her. She writes her orders to her servants, who come and go as they like, and twice a year her income of $20,000 is paid over to her by a bank messenger, to whom she gives a receipt. Her servants report that she sits always in a darkened room, but they are very reticent about her, fearing dismissal. She is now a woman of about 50, and it is reported this odd life is the result of a disappointment in love.

Lady Huntington.

Lady Huntington, the illustrious patron of the Methodists, was a widow for 45 years. She lived to be 90 years old and retained the vigor of middle life almost to the end. Her benevolences were innumerable, and she founded a number of chapels and schools for the Methodists. Not long before her death it was estimated that from a moderate income she had expended £100,000 in public and private charity.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of those complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good". Price 50c. Sold by Horsley Barker, Front and Grove streets, Plainfield, N. J.

Shiloh's Cure, the great cough and croup cure, is in great demand. Pocket size contains 25 doses, only 25c. Children love it. Sold by Horsley Barker, Front and Grove streets, Plainfield, N. J.

WOULDN'T YOU?

I'd like to stray through forest aisles
Where nature wears her sweetest smiles,
Where gentle zephyrs all the woodland blow
soms softly woo:
There where the wild birds trill their lays
And brooklets loiter on their ways
I'd like to pluck a little sprig of heartsease,
Wouldn't you?

I'd like to roam through meadows fair
Where clover blossoms scent the air,
And wander hidden, grass-grown paths and brush away the dew;
I'd like to hide in tangled dells
And listen to the fairy bells,
And bathe my tired spirit in the music,
Wouldn't you?

O, I would quit the flurry,
The unending haste and hurry
Of prisoned, wall-bound cities; I would go where skies are blue.
I'd quite forget the grinding mart
And lying close to nature's heart
I'd steal her sweetest, peace-begetting secrets,
Wouldn't you?

DUCK OUTING SUITS.

An Infinite Variety at Prices Within the Reach of All.

It is safe to say that every woman can have an outing suit this summer regardless of the state of her bank account. Duck is an admirable material for the outing gown, and in price is most accomodating. A ready made skirt and jacket of cotton duck may be purchased for $1.79.

The suits are much better looking than their price would imply. They come in white, speckled with dark blue or red dots, or they are dark in color, crossed with a fine hair stripe.

Duck outing suits not much better looking, but warranted to fit to perfection, can be bought for $3.50. Then come the linen duck suits at higher prices; those with the silk finish are more expensive still.

MRS. MILLER ON MODESTY.

A Sharp Rebuke to Members of Her Audience Who Criticized Her Dress.

In a recent lecture at Asbury Park, Mrs. Jenness Miller cuttingly and somewhat angrily rebuked the few women in her audience who objected to one of her many costumes.

During the course of the lecture she changed her clothing several times, and in describing the attire advocated for a rainy day she appeared in a dress which displayed the top of her shoes and about three inches of heavy cloth legging.

The disapproval of several ladies sitting close to the platform was extremely manifest. Mrs. Miller, looking straight at them, told them she hoped the day was near at hand when every lady in the land would throw aside her acquired modesty and enjoy comfort and good health by discarding corsets and wearing their gowns short. She continued:

"You go to the beach to bathe in your bathing suits and you have no hesitancy in exposing your legs to the multitude on the board walk, yet you are shocked when a lady exposes an inch or two of her legs when she appears on the street dressed in a gown that is better than what you are wearing.

LITERATURE'S NEW STAR.

A Famous Artist Has Now Become a Noted Writer of Fiction.

"Who is Du Maurier?"

His given name is humorous in its longevity, and no doubt he thinks his parents had a rich vein of humor in them when they solemnly christened him as George Louis Palmella Busson du Maurier. He was born in Paris in 1834, and was educated in the French capital, in London, Belgium and the Netherlands. He was educated as an artist, studied in the Latin quarter when it was a picturesque, Bohemian sort of a place, far different from what it now is, and finally went to England to live and become famous. He is the nearest type of an Anglo-Frenchman that can be produced. He is French by temperament, English by selection and environment, and cosmopolitan by education. Although in his sixtieth year, he is well preserved, and his mental faculties seem to be more active and inventive than when he was a young man. All of his associations in the Latin quarter, the army of artists who have gone forth and made names, and some who have not, are remembered by him and deliciously described in his novel of Trilby. Whistler was one of them, and he claims he is not truthfully described, but caricatured, lampooned and traduced. Those who know the grotesque Whistler will, however, recognize the vraisemblance in DuMaurier's pen picture.

George Louis Palmello Busson du Maurier has managed to engraft Gallic humor on English absurdity and has succeeded admirably. For many years he has been a regular contributor to Punch, and in that paper some of his most famous caricatures have appeared. The Postlewaite character he made familiar to a London public helped to add to his fame. He seized on the absurdities, the snobbishness that prevailed in England and gave free vent to his genius in Punch.

The friends of Mlle. Calve will rejoice with her in her great triumph as the girl from Navarre in Massenet's opera over which London has "gone wild." It is the success of Calve's life, so far.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ON BOARD STEAMSHIP, LAKE SUPERIOR, Aug. 10, 1894.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—When one experiences the delights of the "Trip of the Lakes" he cannot but wonder that it is not brought more prominently to the attention of the East. Eliminating all the extravagances of an enthusiastic Westerner, there remains a residuum of solid material truly astonishing.

Take, for instance, Duluth, Minn., and West Superior, Wis., sister cities situated on the St. Louis Bay, at the extreme end of Lake Superior.

Duluth is along the shore and upon a high bluff. It has a population of about 40,000 inhabitants, and in good times is a very busy city. Asking a gentlemen on the street how old the city was, he replied with emphasis, "Oh, away back in 1870." Ten years ago there were only two brick buildings in the city, and now block after block of fine structures line the sides of Superior street. The city has not much width, but you can take a trolley car at West Duluth and ride fourteen miles before you reach Lakeside, the extreme western limit.

West Superior, across the St. Louis River, is built upon an extensive plateau, and numbers, I should judge, about 20,000 inhabitants. These cities have a harbor affording very extensive dockage, and furnish freightage for a large number of vessels. Some idea of the importance of this port may be formed from the fact that more wheat is shipped from it than from Chicago. I counted eight large grain elevators on the Duluth side ready to fill vessels at their side, drawing from 15 to 20 feet. The flouring mills of the two cities produced during the week closing Aug. 4, 98,000 barrels of flour. Owing to the panic of 1873 Duluth suffered greatly, so that the two cities are practically the product of the last ten years.

Being so far north, latitude 46:50, the days are very long in Summer, with a corresponding brevity in Winter. At 9 last evening the twilight was as bright as with us at 7:30. Many of these western towns have the sensible habit of early closing of business, affording an opportunity of promenade, cycling, and carriage-driving, before dark, which is extensively improved. Why do storekeepers burn out their gas, and still further exhaust their weary employes by long hours of needless confinement? Let the people know that stores close at a reasonable hour, and they will adapt themselves to the arrangement.

We have experienced a great change of temperature since we reached Lake Superior. The water is deep, and keeps at about 40 degrees, so that a lake wind means cool weather. The thermometer yesterday afternoon at Hancock, Mich., was 65 degrees, and that was considerably higher than for several days past. The people have learned to accommodate themselves to the sudden changes, and provide against them. I saw a lady in the horse-car at Duluth, whose Summer dress was supplemented by a fur cape. We are now enjoying steam heat in the ship's saloon. Trusting that the mercury is not so low with you, nor as high as when I left beautiful Plainfield, I am

Yours sincerely,

C. R. BARNES.

The Farmers Picnic.

The Somerset County Farmers Picnic will be held in Lowe's Riverside Park near North Branch, Wednesday, Aug. 22. All political parties are invited to furnish one speaker. The following have promised to be present and make addresses: Mrs. Imogene C. Fales of Brooklyn, Hon. Augustus W. Cutler of Morristown, E. E. Potter of Port Oram, J. D. Davis of Newark, Wm. C. Barrick of Flemington, John R. Foster of Three Bridges. Music will be furnished by Rockafeller's Band, and J. D. Davis will sing songs of his own composition. Reduced rates on the railroad will be given. Refreshments will be for sale on the grounds. If stormy it will be held next day.

Well Housed for Awhile.

Six tramps were caught sleeping in a freight car by Policeman Saunders and Special Officer Flynn. In the City Court this morning five were sent to Elizabeth for 20 days and one was released under suspended sentence.

The lucky man gave a good account of himself which induced the Judge to let him go. He said he was an Illinois railroad man who was enjoying the hospitality of the Central Railroad on his way to work in Jersey City.

He Waited This Time.

The contract case of Mrs. Israel Ten-Eyck against John Galbraith was set down for trial in Justice Mosher's Court at 10 this morning. At that time Justice Mosher called the case, and no defendant appearing, waited 32 minutes, when he gave the plaintiff a judgment for $15 and costs.

No Danger from This Bite.

A five-year-old girl who had been bitten on the right cheek by a dog was brought by her mother to H. P. Reynolds's pharmacy yesterday afternoon at 5. Dr. George W. Endicott cauterized the wound. The flesh was not deeply gashed.

WHAT THEY SAY OF OUR TOWN.

Newspapers Everywhere Praising Plainfield for Her Cleanliness and Beauty.

Plainfield continues to reap great advertising as a result of the national editorial excursion. During the past few days The Press has received many more marked copies of newspapers giving great praise to Plainfield. The benefit secured to the town by these outbursts of admiration is bound to be large.

The National Printer-Journalist, of Chicago, read by every newspaper man in the country, is hearty in its appreciation of the Plainfield visit, and concludes:

"The time passed all too rapidly, and at noon all were aboard for the run to New York city, heartily and honestly voting the Scott press as the most complete and best made in the market, and Plainfield the most delightful city of beautiful homes, handsome streets, and lawns, on the continent."

Most of the papers quote freely from the description of Plainfield prepared expressly with that end in view for the Souvenir Edition of The Daily Press. The Revere, Mass., Journal says:

"Plainfield is one of the wealthiest towns in New Jersey, and many New York business men reside there. It is a city of beautiful homes, fine shaded streets, and splendid drives."

The Twin City Daily Sentinel enlightens both Winston and Salem, N. C., and after giving due praise to the Scott presses and to Plainfield's beautiful streets, says:

"There are so many trees and lawns, and the houses are so comfortable and the streets so clean, that we all got a very good impression of the city."

The Fourth Estate, New York's best newspaper man's newspaper, tells of Plainfield's charms and says that each editorial visitor vowed that the next press he got would be a Scott.

Besides reproducing much of The Daily Press story, the Lancaster, Ohio, Eagle adds words of appreciation of Plainfield's beauty and enterprise.

The Council Grove Republican thinks Plainfield "is one of the most beautiful places we ever saw".

The Wilkes-Barre Telephone dwells on Plainfield's loveliness, and enumerates her advantages in detail.

The Pawtucket Valley Gleaner gets personal in its admiration, and chronicles Mr. Scott as "a splendid specimen of manhood over 5 feet in height and built in proportion with a flowing beard reaching down to his vest pockets". It tells how Mr. Scott came to America, made his mark, chased over the world to find his first love again, found her in Australia, and met and married her. The Gleaner was "very favorably impressed with the fine residences and beautiful lawns and macadamized streets".

The Jackson, Miss., Clarion Ledger is interesting. After telling of the attractions of Plainfield, he describes his "splendid drive through that charming place":

"The driver of my carriage was a genuine son of the Emerald Isle. He was very communicative. Passing a specially fine residence, he said 'Mr. Babcock lives there—he's dead now'. Pointing out another, he said 'A big dimikrat lives there', whereupon I expressed my satisfaction that a Democrat could be so well fixed. 'Yes', he said, 'but they'll be dead next year'. Passing a church and a club-house side by side, he said 'People go to Heaven from one, and to the other place from the other'. I was specially pleased to have pointed out the home of Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry, author of 'In the Sweet By and By'."

Other papers giving high compliment to Plainfield, to Walter Scott, and to The Daily Press for its Souvenir Edition, were The New England Stationer and Printer, the Elizabethtown, Pa., Chronicle, the Albany Times-Union, the Farmington, Me., Chronicle, the Henderson, N. C., Gold Leaf, and the Fort Smith Elevator.

Last Personally-Conducted Tour to the North via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

On Tuesday, August the 21st, the last of the personally-conducted tours to the North, via the Pennsylvania Railroad, will be run. The party will leave Philadelphia in special Pullman cars, and the tour includes Watkins Glen, Niagara Falls, the Thousand Islands, the Rapids of the St. Lawrence, Montreal, Au Sable Chasm, Lakes Champlain and George, Saratoga, and down the Hudson River.

The round-trip rate, including all necessary expenses, from New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Trenton, Baltimore and Washington, is $90. Tickets will also be sold from other stations at proportionate rates. Tourist agent and chaperone will conduct the party.

For tickets, descriptive itineraries, and reservation of seats on the train, address Tourist Agent, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

Boehm's Big Bargains.

The public is going to profit right away as a result of the great improvement to be made at Boehm's. In order to make room for the alterations, all the present stock is to be sacrificed. The prices are astonishingly low. Boehm is determined to be at the top of the local trade, and he will make his enlarged store as fine a shopping-centre as any in town. Sad End of a Popular Player.

AND THE COAT CAME BACK.

The Always-Potent Daily Press Ad Does the Business.

George L. VanEmburgh, head of the always busy store in the Babcock Building corner, called on The Daily Press yesterday and said:

"I've been reading a good deal about the power of the Daily Press ad, and now I want The Press to find my overcoat" He had lost the garment from a wagon.

The Press inserted a little 20-cent "Want and Offer" ad, telling of the loss, and stating where the owner could be found. The other daily papers published a similar ad.

At 5:30 last night D. F. Godown of 29 Vine street walked into VanEmburgh & Son's store and up to the senior partner's desk. He had the lost overcoat on his arm. Mr. Godown had found the coat in the morning, and had had opportunities to sell it for considerable money, but in the uprightness of his character was determined to find the owner.

Mr. VanEmburgh was surprised and delighted to recover his property; and besides insisting on the honest man's taking a substantial reward, complimented him highly on his integrity.

"In what paper did you see the ad?"—he asked.

"The Daily Press"—was the answer.

That's always the way.

When you want to reach the people, use The Daily Press.

It is faithfully read by all good citizens.

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS.

Big Loss of Gold During the Seven Months Ending July 31.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The chief of the bureau of statistics reports that the total values of the exports of merchandise from the United States during the month of July, 1894, and during the seven months ended July 31, 1894, as compared with similar exports during the corresponding periods of the preceding year were as follows:

For July, 1894, $52,713,133; for July, 1893, $69,113,857.

For seven months ended July 31, 1894, $457,142,411; for seven months ended July 31, 1893, $$457,511,344.

In July last the imports exceeded the exports by $12,537,914. In July, 1893, the excess of exports over imports was $5,927,790. During the seven months ended July 31, 1894, the excess of exports over imports was $55,948,158, and the excess of imports for the corresponding period of the preceding year was $62,872,231.

In July, 1894, the exports of gold exceeded the imports by $12,801,030, and during the seven months ended July 31, 1894, the excess of exports over imports was $72,275,436

MEDALS OF HONOR.

Acts of Gallantry in the Late War Rewarded by the Government.

Washington, Aug. 15.—A war department medal of honor has been awarded to Loron F. Packard, late saddler sergeant, Company E, Fifth New York Volunteer cavalry (now of Bolivar, N. Y.) for distinguished gallantry in a reconnoisance at Raccoon Ford, Va., Nov. 27, 1863.

This non-commissioned officer imperiled his life and liberty in rescuing a comrade from certain death or capture, by voluntarily going to his rescue, and being exposed all the way to a hot fire from both the confederate and union troops.

A similar medal has been awarded to Joel H. Lyman, late quartermaster sergeant, Company B, Ninth New York Volunteer cavalry, now a citizen of Randolph, N. Y., for distinguished gallantry in action at Winchester, Va., Sept. 19, 1864, this non-commisioned officer having in an attempt to capture a confederate flag performed the gallant act of making one of the confederate officers a prisoner and bringing him within the union lines.

BRECKINRIDGE'S HARD LOT.

Expects To Be Rotten-Egged When He Speaks at Georgetown.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 15.—At the request of the officers of the Christian church here yesterday, the ropes supporting the Breckinridge banner were unfastened from the church steeple.

The banner was then secured to a telephone pole near by.

Col. Breckinridge spoke to a large audience in Centerville, in Bourbon county, and returned last night to Washington. Monday he speaks at Georgetown, where, according to his statements in his speech here Monday, he expects to be rotten-egged.

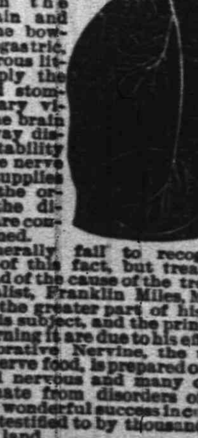
Salvation Army's New Building.

New York, Aug. 15.—With appropriate ceremonies and the firing of many "volleys," the Salvation army last evening laid the corner stone of its new structure, the Mrs. Gen. Booth Memorial building, on Fourteenth street near Sixth avenue.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.



Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

SWEET AND LOW.

Sweet and low, sweet and low,
Wind of the western sea;
Low, low, breathe and blow,
Wind of the western sea!
Over the rolling waters go,
Come from the dying moon and blow,
Blow him again to me,
While my little one, while my pretty one sleeps.

Sleep and rest, sleep and rest,
Father will come to thee soon;
Rest, rest on mother's breast,
Father will come to thee soon;
Father will come to his babe in the nest,
Silver sails all out of the west
Under the silver moon;
Sleep, my little one, sleep, my pretty one, sleep.
—Tennyson.

A YOUNG HERO.

He Thought and Acted When Men Hesitated and Were Afraid.

A terrible railroad accident happened in Hoboken, New Jersey, a little while ago. An accomodation train, running too fast in the fog, crashed into a standing express. There was a schoolboy on the express who had been sitting in the rear car studying his lesson. As the express train slowed up a feeling of oppression took hold of him. He suddenly remembered hearing his grandfather once say that the rear car was the most dangerous one in the train, and acting on the impulse of the moment, he got up and went through one car into the third from the rear. He was scarcely seated when he felt the car crumbling beneath him, and found himself entangled in a mass of men and wreckage.

Wounded and bloody, the boy extricated himself. Above the rush of escaping steam rose the agonized cries of the unfortunates pinned beneath the broken timbers. Men were dazed and aghast.

"An ax! an ax!" shouted a shrill voice. The schoolboy was the first to gather his wits and start the work of rescue. With an ax he saved three or four men before the older bystanders had begun to think.

Then a cry of horror from another point called an excited group of men together. Beneath the wrecked engine, amid the dropping coals and escaping steam, was seen the figure of a man. The sight was more sickening because the dead locomotive was liable to topple over any instant and crush whatever lay beneath it. There was a cry for volunteers.

The conductor called; the engineer called; but all held back. Not all; out of the crowd came a slight figure whose clothes were torn, whose face was almost unrecognizable from blood and soot, and whose hands were black from merciful toil.

"I'll go! Let me go, quick!" cried the schoolboy.

The crowd stood back, while a few made an effort to stop him; but the boy flung himself underneath the locomotive, risking death as unhesitatingly as he had skated at recess. Steam hid his movements; the huge engine actually shivered above him, as if deciding whether to roll upon the young hero or not.

Then there was a shout, and men felt a rising to their throats. From under the iron monster the boy reappeared, dragging after him the man he had gone to save. Now there were willing hands and plenty of volunteers, after the deed was done. It was said by those present that no person so distinguished himself as that schoolboy. When he appeared at his father's door, hours afterward, he sank exhausted upon the threshold, with clothes torn, with face and hands grimy and bleeding, and so changed that his mother's servants did not recognize him.

One of the distinguishing qualities of our American boyhood is its readiness to accept responsibility. Unselfish and heroic conduct is not a product of age, but of instinctive nobility, which it is pleasant to know that the pupil at school may possess equally with the man of maturer years.

Tad Lincoln's Patriotism.

Everybody has heard of Tad Lincoln, the pet of the Martyr President. He carried sunshine through the White House in hours when the nation's chief, bowed down with the cares of state and sorrowing for the soldiers who had fallen, sadly needed it. Many are the stories told of this boy, who died before his boyhood was over, and they are stories which show that Tad was at once quick of wit and kind of heart.

A story that illustrates the boy's quality is told of an army review, at which President Lincoln and Tad were present. The army was in line, and just ahead of the President as he rode between the ranks of blue, was little Tad on a pony. He was in uniform in honor of the men who were to be reviewed, and as he rode along looking as soldier-like as possible in his blue suit and brass buttons, all the soldiers shouted: "Hurrah for little Tad! Hurrah for Mr. Lincoln!" To this the boy answered with: "Hurrah for our soldiers! Hurrah for my father!" And no man could have returned an answer more fit and patriotic.

The Lotus Eaters of Homer.

According to Homer, the lotus eaters were a people who lived on the northern coast of Africa, visited by Ulysses in his wanderings, and who endeavored to detain his companions by giving them the lotus to eat—whoever ate of this fruit wished never to depart. The Arabs called the fruit of the lotus the "fruit of destiny," which they believe is to be eaten in Paradise. The lotus is a shrub two or three feet high, and its fruit, which is produced in great abundance, is a dwarf of the size of a wild plum, which had a pleasant, sweet taste. The name lotus has been given to several beautiful specimens of water lily, especially to the blue water lily and the Egyptian water lily.

The Strength of Youth.

Most really great men are boys at heart all their lives. It is by being young and keeping young that they become and remain great.

A person who is aged sixty in his heart will neither lead a forlorn hope, nor write a noble poem, nor make a considerable discovery, nor even enjoy himself much. To do any of these things, or anything else worth doing, needs freshness, spring, quick and eager life.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and our swill be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

Independent Tariff Bills Causing Trouble.

The Advocates of a Duty on Coal and Iron Warned by the Sugar Men—Senator Vest Turns the Calcium Light on the History of the Bill in the Finance Committee.

Washington, Aug. 16.—It was stated by those in charge of affairs in the senate that the motion to refer the free sugar bill to the committee on finance would prevail to-day or to-morrow when it came to a vote. Those democrats who have been insisting upon the duty on coal and iron ore were given to understand that all the independent tariff bills would be treated alike, and that if sugar was made free, coal and iron ore would meet the same fate. It is said that upon the motion to refer, six republicans and two populists, Peffer and Stewart, will vote against it, and that thirteen democrats and two populists, Allen and Kyle, will vote in favor. A majority of five to seven is figured out in favor of reference to the committee.

The house bill to place sugar on the free list was taken up early in the day's proceedings and promises to occupy the attention of the senate for several days. In connection with it, a communication was read to the senate from Secretary Carlisle to Senator Harris (dem., Tenn.), acting chairman of the finance committee, giving figures to show that with sugar on the free list there would be a treasury deficit of from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. Despite that communication, a motion was made by Mr. Berry (dem., Ark.) that the senate proceed to the consideration of the bill; and that motion was antagonized by one offered by Mr. Harris that the bill be referred to the committee on finance.

Mr. Harris made an argument in support of his motion.

Speeches against the reference and in favor of the passage of the house bill were made by Senators Berry, Vest and Mills.

Mr. Vest's speech was made in the execution of his promise to turn the calcium light on the history of the bill in the finance committee. There was no lack of plain speaking in his remarks.

He said in part:

"It is with very great reluctance I find myself compelled to differ with the acting chairman of the committee on finance, of which I am a member. I have not the slightest doubt if this motion to refer the bills which have come to us from the house of representatives prevailed it would be the end of the consideration of those measures.

"As I said the other day the calcium light should be turned on this chamber, and every senator should now assume the responsibility before the American people of taking this position upon the questions which have been fruitful of scandal and the gross and miserable scandal that has gone out against the personal character of many of us, most unjustly. The senator from Nebraska (Mr. Manderson) asked the present occupant of the chair (Mr. Berry) if he could support free sugar after having voted for a one-eighth differential in the pending bill. Let me answer that question. I voted for that one-eighth differential. I am willing to stand by that vote and by the bill as it is to-day rather than leave the party to which I belong convicted before the American people of incompetency and incapacity and of utter obliquity as to the pledges which they made to the people in the canvass of 1892.

"There is no inconsistency in the position of those who voted for the pending bill and who now favor a free sugar or a duty upon sugar which will produce the revenue which the secretary of the treasury says is necessary to carry on the government.

"Mr. President, I am most unfortunate in that I am compelled again to say something in the nature of criticism against the present administration. It has not been many days since the president of the United States—the head of our party, under whose flag to-day and now I am ready to fight to the death for political reform and democratic policy—declared, in a letter to the chairman of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives, that the senate bill now accepted constituted perfidy to the democratic party and dishonor to democratic principles.

"The Wilson bill came to us with no duty at all upon sugar, raw or refined. Every word in the letter the secretary of the treasury sent to us to-day and which was read from that desk, is the most terrible arraignment of that bill, because it shows that, if passed, there would have been a deficiency of more than $30,000,000, and it would have been necessary to again issue interest-bearing bonds in order to carry on the operations of the government. It must be remembered that we have increased duties by the amendments adopted by the senate to the house bill, and it must be remembered that we have produced more revenue ——"

Mr. Cockrell (dem., Mo.): "We had to do it."

Mr. Vest: "And were compelled to do it. But if what the secretary of the treasury now says be true, and I do not gainsay it, what would have been the condition of this country with the Wilson bill enacted? A deficiency of from forty to fifty million dollars staring us immediately in the face. The letter of the secretary of the treasury is a vindication of the bill as passed by the senate, much as has been said against it. I propose before I get through to show that the self-constituted critics of the newspaper press and the miserable demagogues who want to pull down men in high places in order that they may climb there themselves, have perverted the truth and have assailed the bill as passed by the senate in such fashion as now convicts them before the American people of gross slander and wilful ignorance.

"For some years after becoming a member of this body, attracted by the idea of its great dignity and its conservative character, I favored the absence from our rules the previous question as it stands.

"After my experiences in the last five months I have not an enemy in this world whom I would place in the position that I have occupied as a member of the finance committee, under the rules of the senate. I would put no man where I have been, blackmailed and driven, in order to pass a bill that I believe is necessary to the welfare of the country by senators who desired to force amendments upon me against my better judgment and compel me to decide the question whether I will take any bill at all or a bill which had been distorted by their views and their objects. Sir, the senate lags superfluous on the stage to-day with the American people, because, in the age of progress, advance, and aggressive reform, we sit here, day after day and week after week, while copies of the census reports, almanacs, and even novels, are read to us; and, under our rules, there is no help for the majority except to listen. Is it to be wondered at that in an age like this the people should at last turn upon a body which seems to be made for obstruction, and not progress? I do not wonder that to-day the senate has become a by-word and a reproach with the loose tongues and pens, bought and acting through every sort of mercenary interest throughout the land.

"It has been said that we are the creatures of the Sugar trust. The liars and slanderers and libellers—the miserable creatures who live upon the garbage and filth of public life, and whose bread has been breathed upon by infected lungs—dared to make this statement about men who have gone through those five months of labor and anxiety and humiliation in order to do their duty to their party.

"Here is the bill to be proposed (exhibiting it), printed and brought to the full committee of finance. Here is the sugar schedule as we made it and agreed upon. It commences with 80 degrees under the polarizecope test and imposes one hundreth of a cent for each additional degree up to 100, without any differential at all in favor of the Sugar trust. It gave a revenue duty upon the sugars of Louisiana; it gave nothing to this trust which is said now to dominate that committee and the senate. That bill, upon the morning that we proposed it to the finance committee, was taken out of our hands and put before a caucus of democratic senators, without our knowledge or consent; and for three days we wrangled and disputed in regard to the terms of the tariff measure to be proposed to congress. The end of that discussion was—and if any senator here denies it, let him rise in his seat and say so—that this bill was rejected, though we had made it a better bill than the Wilson bill in the way of tariff reform, lowering duties upon woolen goods, lowering duties in the metal schedule and the glass schedule.

"At the end of these three days of miserable wrangling and recrimination we were turned out of the caucus with the intelligent and definite instruction to make a bill that would secure forty-three democratic votes and could be passed by the senate. To that task we addressed ourselves. The result is seen in the pending bill. I desire now in passing to say that much of it —a very large portion of it—was agreed to by me simply in order to escape the humiliation of going back to the democrats of the United States with no bill at all.

"It has been said that we have made a fight here for the senator from Maryland (Mr. Gorman) against the president. In 1892 I wrote the first letter that came from a member of this body in favor of Mr. Cleveland's nomination for the presidency. It was written to the Greystone club, of Denver, Col.; and in it I said that while my personal relations with the senator from Maryland were as pleasant as they could possibly be, I would not support him for the nomination, because he did not represent my views in regard to tariff reform; that, while I differed with Mr. Cleveland in regard to the silver question, I was prepared to support him for the nomination—and, of course, for the election—because he stood forward, the foremost representative of what I believed right in regard to the tariff question. So I have fought for no man, and never shall. I am ready now to follow the president. I do not follow him when I know that he is committing an injustice upon members of his party and doing violence to the results that ought to be achieved by the democratic party in the coming canvass."

The president found a defender in Mr. Vilas (dem., Wis.), and the action of the democratic party in congress in passing the bill was supported and justified by Mr. Palmer (dem., Ill.).

The day's proceedings were closed with a highly amusing scene between Mr. Chandler (rep., N. H.) and Mr. Harris (dem., Tenn.), in which Mr. Chandler borrowed the words, tone and manner of Mr. Harris on several occasions during the debate on the tariff bill—to the effect that the day had been wasted in useless discussion and that the country was weary of such debate and was demanding immediate action.

Notice of an amendment to the free sugar bill was given by Mr. Jones (dem., Ark.), imposing a duty of 20 per cent. ad valorem on all sugars.

Peter Dale Perchment Dead.

Pittsburg, Aug. 16.—Colonel Peter Dale Perchment, of the fourteenth regiment, Second brigade, national guard of Pennsylvania, died at his home in this city yesterday afternoon. Colonel Perchment, until a year ago, was a practicing physician of more than ordinary skill. He served in the late war as a member of the Fourteenth regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry. He was a member of a number of secret orders and held many important positions of honor and trust.

Insists on Prosecuting Gillice.

Albany, Aug. 16.—Ex-Assemblyman Michael C. Gillice, of West Albany, was taken into custody yesterday under a warrant brought here by a Syracuse officer. He is charged by C. F. Smith, of Syracuse, with sending the latter a $25 check, when his bank balance was only $6. Gillice gave bail for appearance in Syracuse Monday. Smith refused to withdraw the charge on Gillice's statement that he did not know his bank account was so small and on his offer to pay the amount.

Spread of Cholera in Holland.

Amsterdam, Aug. 16.—Two new cases of cholera and one death were reported in Maastricht yesterday. Isolated cases of cholera continue to be reported in different parts of Holland.

Delinquent Poll Tax Prevents Barker from Running for Governor.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 16.—Quite a sensation was caused in political circles of this state a few days ago by the announcement of the democratic state central committee that D. E. Barker, the populist candidate for governor, had failed to pay his poll tax for 1894.

Under the constitution this act of negligence deprives a man of his franchise and, of course, disqualifies him from holding office. Barker has, upon various occasions, denied the charge and publicly asserted that he had paid the tax.

Yesterday he went to Pine Bluff and made an effort to pay the collector of Jefferson county the necessary $1, but the collector denied him a certificate, claiming that the time for paying poll tax expired July 1. This settles the candidacy of Mr. Barker.

Denounce the President's Action.

Boston, Aug. 16.—Radical resolutions were adopted at the convention of the Carriage and Wagon workers International union, among them one charging the president and attorney-general with co-operating with the Railroad Managers' association of Chicago to defeat the strike in calling out the militia, unrequested by the local authorities, and in encouraging federal judges to prosecute men for going out on strike to maintain a principle.

More Mine Troubles.

Massillon, O., Aug. 16.—The Massillon district miners have refused to accept the 60 cent rate and resume work by August 25, when a proposition to that effect was tendered by the operators, with a threat attached to put in new men. The miners say that if non-union men appear, another general strike will result, as they have been pledged protection by the United Mine workers.

Prof. William H. Cusack Dead.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Prof. William H. Cusack, the architect, and one of the six competitors whose plans for the new city hall in New York city are under consideration, died at his home in this city yesterday, aged 68. He had been sick about two weeks.

Another Bicycle Record.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 16.—At the Driving park, this city, yesterday, John Van Benschoten lowered the quarter-mile unpaced flying start bicycle record, doing the distance in 29 2-5 seconds. The best previous record was 29 3-5 seconds, made by W. A. Rhodes at Waltham, Mass.

No Final Chess Handicap Tourney.

Buffalo, Aug. 16.—The meeingt of the New York State Chess Association was continued at "The Hermitage" in this city very successfully yesterday. The committee decided not to have a final handicap tourney, but to award the prizes to the winners of each class. They further accepted a few additional entries.

Death of an Old Jersey Judge.

Haddonfield, N. J., Aug. 16.—Ex-Judge John Clement died at his residence yesterday after a long illness, aged 75 years. Judge Clement was widely known throughout the state from his thirty years' service on the bench of the court of errors and appeals.

Bishop O'Hara Improving.

Cape May, N. J., Aug. 16.—Bishop O'Hara, who is at his brother's cottage here ill with paralysis, is reported as improved to-day. He sat up for a time, and it is hoped that he will be sufficiently recovered to be removed to his home at Scranton, Pa.

Spinners Vote to Strike.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 16.—At a meeting of the Spinners' union last night to take action on the notice of a proposed reduction in wages recently posted by the mills in this city it was unanimously voted to go out on strike Monday next.

Can't Agree on a Platform.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 16.—The democratic state convention has been in session here two days, but has not yet adopted a platform. The committee after, being in session until after midnight resumed its labors early this morning.

HONOR TO ST. ANTHONY

Great Pilgrimage to His Shrine at Butler, N. J.

The Devout from All Parts of the Surrounding Country Participate in the Celebration of the Saint's Seventh Centenary and Present an Impressive Scene.

Butler, N. J., Aug. 16.—Butler was the Mecca of devout Catholics yesterday. Crowds came from all parts of the surrounding country to participate in the celebration of the seventh centenary of St. Anthony of Padua, at the shrine erected in his honor here. Mgr. Satolli, the apostolic delegate, who is a member of the third order of St. Francis, had accepted the invitation of the rector of the shrine to participate in the services of the day, and early in the day he celebrated pontifical mass.

A special train brought crowds that could not otherwise be accommodated. After leaving the station the throng surged up the dusty hill before them, a half-mile tramp bringing them to the church standing on the summit. The toilsome approach of these pilgrims to the shrine of the saint presented a most impressive scene. The children among the worshippers were gayly dressed in holiday attire. Old age, vigorous manhood and youth, toiled up the hill together, all eager to kneel at the shrine.

At the appointed hour the apostolic delegate, with the attendant clergy, marched from the rectory to the crowded church. Two-thirds of the pilgrims could not gain admission to the church, so great was the throng.

Many pilgrims remained all night in the town, and the church basement was given over to such of them as could not procure any other lodging place. Many spent the night in prayer in the church.

It was about 11 o'clock when Mgr. Satolli, amid a burst of music and song, ascended the steps leading to the altar, to begin the celebration of the mass.

At the close of the mass a sermon was preached by Father Klauder, on the life and miracles of the great thaumaturgist of the Franciscan order of St. Anthony of Padua.

"Sanctity," said Father Klauder, "is received by doing the will of God. We lose sight of the fact that saints were the same as we are—of flesh and blood."

He then spoke of the life of St. Anthony; how at the age of fifteen he left the world; of the nine years he spent in solitude and misery, during which time, he said, Anthony must have had severe struggles with the temptations to which flesh is heir. This, he said, showed that St. Anthony did not have an easy time of it becoming a saint; and yet, he said, St. Anthony has become so celebrated that after 700 years his birth is commemorated. Father Klauder closed by exhorting his hearers to do each day the will of God.

At the close of the morning service Mgr. Satolli, together with the other officiating priests and clergy, returned to the parochial house for refreshments. The pilgrims, most of whom had brought their luncheons, spread their repasts in the grove beneath the trees and in the basement of the church. Many who could not gain entrance to the church during the services, had knelt in the basement, and without the church close to the walls under the open windows, telling their beads and listening eagerly for the tones of the apostolic delegate.

At 2 p. m. a sermon was preached in German by Father Francis. Following this came the procession through Grace valley, a piece of woodland of about ten acres, which is dedicated to "Our Lady of Sorrows." The procession paused at each of the seven "dolors," which are at present marked by seven trees, but which in the future will be seven chapels. The procession was headed by the cross bearer, following whom came the acolytes, and then the various societies, the priests and Mgr. Satolli. The congregation sang hymns as they passed through the wood.

The celebration came to a close by special services at the shrine for the performing of miracles.

The church is much nearer completion than it was a year ago, when the first pilgrimage was held. These decorations were very unique, being somewhat in imitation of the famous church in Arenberg on the Rhine, in Germany, differing, however, that whilst there the interior walls are artistically decorated with small stones and oyster shells, laid in cement; here the altar, a reproduction of Mount Calvary, stations and side walls are more rustic in appearance, being composed of plaster of paris and cinders. The church, in its present dimensions, is only half the size of the original plan. When fully completed it will have the shape of a cross.

SEAMAN HILL'S DEATH.

Funeral Services Read by Captain Mahan on Board the Chicago.

Southampton, Aug. 16.—Captain Mahan, of the United States cruiser Chicago, read the funeral services over the body of Seaman Hill, who died yesterday from the effects of the injuries he received last Saturday during the visit of the Prince of Wales.

The body will be sent to New York on the North German Lloyd steamer Aller, which leaves Southampton today. The crew of the Chicago subscribed $1,500 for Hill's mother and for the funeral expenses. The Prince of Wales sent a message of condolence to Captain Mahan.

SANTO'S HEAD CUT OFF

Carnot's Assassin Guillotined This Morning.

The Miserable Wretch Struggled Fiercely With His Executioners, and Just Before the Knife Fell Shouted: "Courage, Comrades," and "Long Live Anarchy."

Lyons, Aug. 16.—Santo Caserio, the murderer of President Carnot, was guillotined at 5 o'clock this morning.

The scene of the execution is about fifty metres from the prison. Three hours before the time set for the execution a detachment of troops, comprising the Ninety-eighth battalion of infantry and two squadrons of the Seventh cuirassiers, took possession of the ground. They were reinforced later by gendarmes and policemen.

Deibler, the executioner, arrived at 3 o'clock, bringing with him the well-known guillotine. The van conveying the guillotine was escorted by gendarmes on horseback.

The operation of erecting the machine occupied about an hour.

There was a heavy shower during the night, which had the effect of driving away nearly all the curiosity seekers who gathered only to witness the execution.

At 3 o'clock there were hardly a hundred persons waiting. Some time before daylight the weather improved and the curious began to gather again.

A few minutes before 5 o'clock the condemned man was led from his cell to the guillotine. His arms were firmly bound behind him.

When the attendants seized him to lay him under the knife he struggled fiercely to free himself.

At 4:55 o'clock all was ready. Caserio shouted: "Courage, comrades," "Long live anarchy."

The knife fell at 5 o'clock precisely and the head dropped into the basket.

Sketch of Caserio's Career.

Santo Caserio was born of poor, but honest parents in the little town of Motta-Visconti, Lombardy, on September 8, 1873. He was the youngest of six children. In early life he was remarkable for his beauty, and was much in request for religious processions. When he was fourteen years of age he was apprenticed to a baker at Milan. At this period of his life he is said to have been exceedingly docile, with a distinct religious tendency. Two years ago, however, he fell under the influence of the anarchists. He attracted the attention of the authorities and spent some time in prison for his inflammatory conduct.

SAFE UNDER THE JAPANESE.

Foreigners Not in Danger at Seoul, Korea.

New York, Aug. 16.—J. F. Underwood, of No. 30 Vesey street, has received a letter from Seoul, Korea, which gives some interesting news concerning the affairs of that country. It is from the Rev. H. G. Underwood, of the Presbyterian Mission board, and is dated July 12. Rev. Dr. Underwood writes:

"There is no immediate danger for us. The Japanese troops have invested the city, and just as long as the Japanese are here there will be no trouble for foreigners. Japan insists on Korea's independence and some radical changes for Korea in her internal government. These suggestions are for Korea's advantage if she can only see it. Japan says that she will force Korea to make these changes at the muzzle of guns if necessary. The American troops are here and we all feel safe."

FIRED ON CHINESE FORTS.

Japanese Vessels Left Korean Waters in Search of a Naval Battle.

Washington, Aug. 16.—A telegram has been received at the Japanese legation to the effect that on the 7th instant nineteen Japanese men-of-war left Korean waters for Wei-Hai-Wei, which they approached at midnight on the 9th instant. A torpedo flotilla was sent out, and on the following morning shots were exchanged with the Chinese forts. But as they did not find any of the Chinese fleet the Japanese men-of-war returned to Korean waters.

This dispatch was sent by dispatch boat from Korea to some Japanese port and telegraphed to Tokio, whence it was cabled to the legation here. This accounts for the delay.

NO BATTLE ON THE 11TH.

Report of Naval Engagement Between China and Japan Denied.

London, Aug. 16.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Central News says that the Yokohama report that there was an engagement between the Chinese and Japanese fleets on August 11, and that the Japanese were victorious, is denied officially.

The Japanese fleet is still cruising at the mouth of the gulf of Pe-chi-li, and the Chinese fleet has not been sighted. Chinese reinforcements are equipping and advancing through Manchuria.

New York Red Men Elect Officers.

Rochester, Aug. 16.—The great council of the Improved order of Red-Men, of the state of New York, elected the following officers last evening: Great sachem, S. J. O'Hart, of Depew; great senior sagamore, Howard Evans, of Schenectady; great junior sagamore, William H. Higbie, of New York; great prophet, John W. Bisslkummer, of Oxford; great chief of records, Mark A. Dunham, of Binghamton; great keeper of wampum, John Toles, of Cameron Mills; representatives to the great council of the United States, Howard Putnam, of Amsterdam; Eugene O. Middlebrook, of New York; George E. Green, of Binghamton; Henry C. Kelly, of Buffalo.

Great Chess Exhibition.

New York, Aug. 16.—According to a dispatch received in this city, Carl August Walbrodt played on Tuesday evening at the Nuremberg Chess club fifty-one games simultaneously. He won forty-two games, lost five and drew four. This is the greatest exhibition of its kind ever given.

Local Weather Forecast.

NOT FROM AUGUST 1

The Tariff Bill Will Go Into Effect After Approval.

Operative at Midnight of the Day It Receives the President's Signature or Goes Into Force by Limitation—A Law Cannot Take Effect Upon a Date Prior to Its Enactment.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The new tariff bill will go into effect at midnight of the day it receives the approval of the president or becomes law by operation of the ten days limitation, and not from August 1, as provided in the measure. An examination of the authorities made at the treasury department shows that a law cannot take effect upon a date prior to its enactment, and the federal supreme court has sustained this law under the ex post facto provision of the constitution.

Many telegrams of inquiry regarding the new law have been received at the treasury department, and it appears from these that importers are somewhat confused as to the date the measure will take effect.

One man advised the department that the bill was already a law, dating from August 1, and did not need the signature of the president. This assertion was made because the date of effect stated in the bill is prior to the passage of the measure.

FROM A BUSINESS POINT.

Views of New England Manufacturers on the New Tariff Bill.

Boston, Aug. 16.—Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Haile, who is at the head of the Haile & Frost Woolen mill at Hinsdale, N. H., speaking of the new tariff bill, said:

"The present tariff schedule on imported woolen goods has been badly cut by the senate bill, and I regret its passage. What effect the bill will have on the future of our woolen industries is entirely problematical."

William Whiting, paper manufacturer, says the paper trade is little affected by the change in the tariff bill. He does not believe that the changed rate will allow any large importations of paper.

James Wilson, one of the most prominent woollen manufacturers in Hampden county, says that woollen manufacturers must wait for a practical demonstration of the workings of the new bill. If the mills are able to run under it they will; if not, they wont.

D. N. Russell, head of the Russell Woollen Manufacturing company, which is, perhaps, the leader in western Massachusetts, said that he thinks the tendency of the new tariff bill will be to reduce the price of labor, but it will yet operate to improve the business condition of the country.

Agent Comnock, of the Dwight Manufacturing company, of Chicopee, thinks the tendency of the measure is to sag everything.

William Skinner, democrat, the well-known silk manufacturer, of Holyoke, remarked that he had threatened to get out of the party if the president approved the bill. He thought that we should be in the slough of despond for some time, perhaps three years.

Mayor Sargent, of New Haven, proprietor of the largest manufactory in Connecticut, a local hardware factory, employing over 2,000 hands, said: "Our export trade will be helped by the provisions of the bill, while our imports remain about the same in cost as before. Trade now is reduced to a firm basis, and I apprehend more vigorous fall orders."

Max Adler, of New Haven, a leading director of the Mayer, Stone Corset company, the largest plant of its kind in New England, said: "I anticipate an immediate revival of business in our line of goods. I am not in favor of the bill, which has many objectionable features, but the uncertainty which has enveloped business all summer, will now be removed."

The officials of the Candee Rubber company, the largest manufacturers of that kind of goods in Connecticut, employing 2,000 hands, said: "Our own business will not be directly affected by the provisions of the bill. Still we are confident that the rubber goods market will be much firmer within the next fortnight."

The River Spinning company, at Woonsocket, R. I., employing 150 hands, whose factory has been closed for the past seven weeks, will start up next Monday. The passage of the tariff bill has brought a number of orders to manufacturers of woollen yarns.

Claim for Salvage.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 16.—The Piscataqua Navigation company has made a claim on schooner Emily C. Dennison for salvage. The schooner was picked up off York Nubble some time ago in a disabled condition and towed into this port by tug Piscataqua, where she has undergone repairs.

Death of Architect Rotch.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 16.—Arthur Rotch, the eminent architect, is dead at his summer home, on Bay View avenue. Mr. Rotch designed many beautiful houses in Boston, Bar Harbor, New York, Washington, and all over the country.

NOW USE LACTATED FOOD

Healthy Babies Ought to Gain Steadily in Weight in August—Four Things Needed to Make Baby Thrive.

August for some babies is a fearful struggle for existence.

An infant needs pure air, proper food, cleanliness and careful attention.

A healthy baby should gain steadily in weight in August as well as in other months.

When an infant has cut its first tooth and does not thrive as a healthy child should; when it grows pale and fretful, throws up its food in undigested masses, the first thing the practiced doctor will advise is lactated food.

Experience has shown that babies gain most steadily in weight and size when put on a diet of lactated food.

The use of lactated food has made cholera infantum and summer diarrhea troubles no longer a matter of fear in the thousands of homes.

Lactated food agrees with babies when every other nutriment is refused. After a day or two the puny child put on a diet of lactated food shows a decided gain in vigor and liveliness and there soon follows a rapid increase in weight and size.

Lactated food is so absolutely free from any possibility of contamination and is so rich in everything that bone, body and muscle need to grow on that babies regularly fed on lactated food develop in every limb and part in a way that delights the heart and eyes of mothers.

Keep lactated food steadily at hand. It will remove the anxiety of summer diarrhea and dangerous weakness.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

CITY EDITION, 3 O'CLOCK.

PARTICULAR MENTION

Josiah Browne of 1225 Watchung avenue has gone to Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McCarthy are preparing for a European tour.

Dr. L. S. Pocock left this morning on his ten-days trip to Atlantic City.

The Misses Sallie and Fanny Rafferty of Park avenue have gone to Asbury Park to spend two weeks.

Miss Cora Shepherd of West Fifth street and Miss Lizzie W. Stafford of Somerset place have returned from Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall of East Front street are spending a pleasant week in Asbury Park at the Metropolitan Hotel.

Mrs. H. C. Compton of this city has joined her sister, Mrs. M. A. Phillips, at the Water Gap House, Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

Mrs. K. M. Bullard starts Saturday for Denver to visit her uncle, W. W. Borst, President of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad.

H. E. Rider, manager for A. D. Thompson, has returned home with his wife from his two-weeks visit to Utica, his former home.

The wife of Deputy County Clerk Elmore D. Moffett of Orchard place left today for Trenton, to spend a week with her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Tams.

Thomas W. Morrison, owner and editor of The Evening News, is so painfully and seriously ill that an operation in a New York hospital will be attempted.

Jacob Maurer of Raritan, father-in-law of Jacob Hipp of the Manhattan Hotel, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at his residence in Raritan. He was nearly 60 years of age.

David S. Pangborn of Jersey City, for three years of the war a comrade of Chief Marshal Pangborn, accompanied by his wife, is visiting Jacob Kettering of Harmony street.

L. B. Woolston of Duer street returned home Tuesday evening, bringing with him two of his children, Ada and Mary, who have been visiting Mr. Woolston's brother in Riverton.

Hotel Netherland will open under the management of Peter B. Wright, Wednesday evening, August 29, with a reception from 8 to 10. The new owners are Stafford & Whitaker.

Chief T. O. Doane has received a very pleasant letter from Dr. O. L. Jenkins, telling of the fine time he is having in Montreal, and regretting that Plainfield's Chief is not present at the great firemen's convention.

R. M. Hooker, compiler of The Daily Press Souvenir Book, which is to be issued this Fall, is among the new arrivals at Hotel Netherwood, and is doubly welcome because his charming wife accompanies him.

A. G. Vogeler of West Front street will give a farewell reception to the members of the Saengerbund this evening. He will go Monday to Newark and will sail for Germany the next morning to remain abroad six weeks.

Fred S. Dunn, one of the engineers of the Plainfield Electric Light Works, will leave Plainfield sooner than he anticipated, on account of his health. He will quit the service of the company Sept. 1 and join his father in Pasadena, Cal.

Peter Flannelly, Charles Haley and Jas. Boland of Carbondale, Pa., spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moore of Fourth street and Madison avenue. This morning Mrs. Moore and her three children went to Carbondale to remain a month.

An excursion train composed of Philadelphia and Reading, and Boston, Poughkeepsie and Pennsylvania, cars, ran over the Jersey Central this morning, bringing Friends from Chappaqua Conference. Col. and Mrs. Dietrich were Plainfielders aboard.

Chris Bock Moves In.

Chris Bock moved his furniture last evening into one of the flats above the store on Somerset street near the bridge, which he purchased from A. B. Thorn through Otto Brandt of Newark. He will probably apply for a saloon license to the Somerset County authorities September 18, when the excise matters are arranged.

The Clock to Turn 'Em Loose.

Chief Doane is arranging the gong-striking clock work in Gazelle's house so that it will release the hose wagon's horse. At present this is accomplished by pressing a button after the alarm. Gazelle's house is the only one now without the improved apparatus.

For the Crippled Babies.

The fair to be held at 315 East Second street tomorrow for the benefit of the Crippled Babies Fresh Air Fund will have for sale many useful as well as fancy articles, also a good supply of cake, candy, ice-cream, and similar good things.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Crescent Board of Governors had no meeting last evening, the members not assembling.

Frank E. Doup of the Liberty Wheelmen, Brooklyn, is practising on the Crescent track for Saturday's races.

The stores of J. J. Kenney, H. P. Reynolds and W. H. Rogers are supplied with reserved seat tickets for sale for the Crescent races Saturday.

The older riders of the untrained Crescents who raced yesterday afternoon claim that hereafter the men should be divided into two classes, according to age.

Buffinger, of the Park Avenue Club of Philadelphia, who carried off the honors of the Riverton races Saturday, will be one of speedy men on the Crescent track Saturday.

The Crescent track holds a world's record now. E. L. Blauvelt's half mile in 1.00⅕ with flying start and pacemakers, made a Class A record. The best time before was 1:02.

The Lyceum Cyclers will apply this week for permission to have a meet on the Crescent track Saturday afternoon, September 8, 15, or 22. The 30 lap handicap in which all are to enter will be the principal event.

Officers who will manage Saturday's races are: Referee—F. P. Prial, official handicapper, New York. Judges—H. L. Saltonstall, Business Manager American Wheelman, New York; Carl Von Lengerke, Chairman Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey, Newark. Scorers—C. W. Oakley, Elizabeth Wheelmen, Elizabeth; R. A. Meeker, Crescent Wheelmen, Plainfield; Charles H. Weeks, Secretary Racing Board, Riverside Wheelmen, New York. Timers—C. E. Vail, Crescent Wheelmen, Plainfield; Charles Brown, Elizabeth Athletic Club, Elizabeth; Dr. D. C. Adams, Crescent Wheelmen, Plainfield. Starter—A. H. Chamberlain, Secretary and Treasurer, Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey, Rahway. Clerk of Course—C. E. Teel, Crescent Wheelmen, Plainfield. Assistants—Lon Titsworth, and A. T. Hinrichs, Crescent Wheelmen, J. C. Kirkner, Plainfield. Announcer—George D. White, Union County Roadsters, Netherwood. Umpires—J. C. Trainor, and William P. Connors, Plainfield Lyceum Cyclers.

BASE-BALL.

The Eagles beat the Over-the-Brooks yesterday by the score of 18 to 16

The Ridgewoods of this city, Captain A. R Johnson, will play the Scotch Plains nine in Boynton Beach, Labor Day.

A Valuable Worker Going to a New Field.

E. W. Pepper, local superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company, will finish his work here next week, and then leave at once for Lawrence, Mass., where he will open up an agency for the company. He will take with him several insurance hustlers from Plainfield and other parts of his territory.

Mr. Pepper has been in Plainfield nearly four years and has made his company one of the most popular in the district. His territory begins at Roselle and extends nearly to Lake Hopatcong. It reaches Asbury, Pattenburgh and Lambertville It is principally a farming country with few inhabitants. In the vicinity of Lawrence are 100,000, and the field is new and offers greater prospects than the position which Mr. Pepper now occupies.

Badly Bitten by a Dog.

Ira, the seven-year-old son of Chief Marshal Pangborn, was quite badly bitten by James Coddington's dog yesterday afternoon at 4. He was rolling a hoop in front of Mr. Coddington's house on Linden avenue, when the dog ran out and bit him in the left leg.

Mr. Mattison cauterized the wound. He found two cuts in the calf of the boy's leg. One was half an inch deep. The dog is the one that bit another boy two weeks ago. The Chief will attend to him.

Not Insane to Be a Negro, Talk German, and Throw Stones.

Charles Lewis, the colored man who was locked up by Constable Van Horn yesterday afternoon because residents of upper Somerset street said he was insane, was released last evening.

Dr. Carman examined him and said he suffered only from stomach trouble so he had complained. His wife was summoned by Chief Marshal Pangborn. She took him to their home on West Second street.

Good Fishing in Tier's.

William Pangborn of Linden avenue caught two fair-sized carp in Tier's lake yesterday afternoon. Fireman Patrick Callahan of the electric light station caught two more this morning. Bert MacDonald got a strike early today and jumped in and sat down on the fish to be sure of securing him.

Race Street in Court.

The continual quarreling among the colored residents of Race street will be investigated again this evening. Mrs Morris and Mrs. Thomas, neighbors on that street, spent yesterday talking to each other, and in consequence Chief Pangborn will have the two and all their friends before Mayor Needham at 7:30 tonight.

Heeded Promptly by the Army.

The request that drumming be ceased during the illness of Lewis B. Mulford was not made to the Salvation Army until last evening, and was promptly granted by the Army.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps escorted a transparency bearer about town last evening and were rewarded with a trip to the shore with the Juniors this morning.

—Three trains of Philadelphia excursionists passed through Plainfield shortly before 10 this morning on their way to Jersey City, with the pleasures of New York and Coney Island as day resorts before them.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. John Encell of New York will give a free lecture in the First Church of Christ next Sunday evening entitled "Lessons from Life of Garfield". While all are welcome, an invitation is especially given to young men. Mr. Encell is now preaching at the Fifty-sixth Street Church of the Disciples, in the absence of Rev. B. B. Tyler. He has long been before the public as a lecturer, and this being one of his best will no doubt be a blessing to all who hear.

Black Eye from Black Fist.

A neighborly quarrel on Plainfield avenue last evening will result in a trial on a charge of assault and battery. Edward Wolf and Thomas Martin, rival ice-cream dealers, were concerned in the affair.

Wolff went to Justice Newcorn's Court today with a black eye and swore out a warrant against Thomas and his wife. He says the man used his fists effectively while the woman used a club at intervals.

Banished from Plainfield.

John Dunn, Edward S. Jones, John Williams, Michael Colman, and William Daily, tramps, were found guilty of disorderly conduct on the Central Railroad by City Judge Coddington this morning. They were arrested last night by Policeman Saunders and Special Officer Flynn. Sentence was suspended after the men had promised to leave town at once.

No Damage.

Milkman Beakman's horse started to run away on Somerset street near Chatham at 9:30 this morning. George Lewis left his fish market and gave chase. He caught the reins and stopped the rig at Pearl street.

Plainfield's Veteran Waltonite.

H. C. Compton of West Front street made a great catch of weakfish off Seawaren yesterday.

NOTES OF WELL-KNOWN PEOPLE.

Interesting Facts and Fancies Concerning Notables of Two Continents.

It is related as an instance of royal thrift that the queen of Denmark still mends her kingly husband's clothes.

The Sultan of Turkey, the most extravagant housekeeper in the world, spends $34,000,000 a year on his household.

James Armstrong Chanler, the husband of the authoress, Amelia Rives Chanler, is not large, but medium sized and of a nervous temperament. He is wealthy, and when in the city leads a hotel life.

Mrs. J. Pierrepont Morgan, it is said, is to erect a monument over the unmarked grave of brave Molly Pitcher of Revolutionary celebrity. The grave is near West Point, adjacent to the Morgan country seat at Highland Falls on the Hudson.

An Object Lesson.

The teacher of a large class in one of the New York schools said to the pupils who were leaving for the summer:

"I want each of you to search for a perfect leaf and bring it to me when school re-opens. Remember it must be perfect, every tooth right, not to speak of mold or blight or discoloration, not a vein broken."

They searched faithfully, but none found a perfect leaf, though they learned a great deal about leaves while they examined them thus carefully.

THE HOKEY-POKEY MAN.

Hokey-pokey! Hokey-pokey
Here's the hokey-pokey man,
With his little cart and can,
Painted green and seeming neat
As the hokey-pokey's sweet.
Where's your money. Have you any?
You can purchase for a penny
Hokey-pokey, sweet and cold,—
For a penny, new or old.

Nice old hokey-pokey man,
Hair so dark and skin so tan,
With a smile as bland and free
As his own dear Italy!
With a coaxing voice as well,
Alternating with the bell
Which he rings to make them hear
Hokey-pokey man is near.
—St. Nicholas.

THE WISE ELEPHANT.

He Could Not be Coaxed Near Quick Sand Where a Camel was Mired.

One elephant, which the officer commanding 6-11 Battery of the Royal Artillery lent to assist in extricating some camels which were being engulfed in the quicksand, showed an amount of sagacity which was positively marvelous. It was with the utmost difficulty that we could get him to go near enough to attach a drag rope to one camel I wanted to rescue. In spite of our being about fifty yards from the bank of the river, he evinced the greatest anxiety, while his movements were made with extreme caution.

Despite coaxing, persuasive remonstrance, and at last a shower of heavy blows dealt upon his head by the exasperated mahout, this elephant stubbornly refused to go where he was wanted, but, with his trunk shoved out in front of him, kept feeling his way with his ponderous feet, placing them before him slowly, deliberately, and methodically, treading all the while with the velvety softness of a cat and taking only one step at a time. Then suddenly he would break out into a suppressed kind of shriek and retreat backward in great haste.

When the animal had nearly completed a circuit of the ground with the same caution and deliberation, he advanced to within ten yards of the poor camel, but not another inch would he move, though several men were walking between him and the camel without any signs of the ground giving way.—The Camel. Major A. G. Leonard.

LOOK AROUND HOME.

Children Should Learn the History of Their Locality.

The New York Times gives the following suggestive counsel, which will apply to almost every town of any importance in the whole country:

"In London, during the last few years, the boys and girls of certain neighborhoods have formed excursion clubs for visiting places of historic interest within easy distance of their homes. Why should not our readers do the same? Many of you know the old fort in the park, but how many have ever seen the tablet in memory of Peter Stuyvesant? How many have sat in Washington's pew in old St. Paul's, or read the inscription on the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument in Trinity, or paused to think of brave Lawrence, or wandered down Wall street to see the spot where Washington delivered his inaugural?" The moral of all the Times says is, study your home section.

The Bank of France.

The Bank of France is guarded by soldiers, who do sentry duty outside the bank, a watch being likewise kept within its precincts. A former practice of protecting this bank was to get masons to wall up the doors of the vaults in the cellar with hydraulic mortar so soon as the money was deposited each day in these receptacles. The water was then turned on, and kept running until the cellar was flooded. A burglar would thus be obliged to work in a diving suit and break down a cement wall before he could even begin to plunder the vaults. When the bank officers arrived each morning the water was drawn off, the masonry torn down, and the vaults opened.

The Bank of Gery, like most other German public buildings, has a military guard to protect it. In a very strongly-fortified military fortress at Spandau is kept the great war treasure of the Imperial Government, part of the French indemnity, amounting to several million pounds.—Chamber's Journal.

Too Ambitious.

Many people who talk with simplicity and correctness become at once unnatural and awkward when they take up the pen. So it was with Johnny Bates.

In the reading lesson there was a reference to some one who had "contracted a cold," and the teacher called attention to the word "contracted." To contract a cold," he explained, "meant nothing more than to catch a cold."

That afternoon Johnny had to write a composition, and like a sensible boy chose for his subject an account of a fishing excursion. On the whole it was a pretty creditable performance for a boy of Johnny's age, but the teacher was obliged to laugh when he came to this sentence;

"I fished half an hour, and contracted five perches and one horn pout."—

HATS AND VEILS.

Piquant Accessories Which Conceal Defects and Magnify Beauty.

A certain marquise who is not above turning an honest penny, or rather sou, by giving good counsel to her countrywomen on various subjects connected with the toilet has decided opinions as to the veil, which may interest American as well as Parisian women. After descanting on its rise, development and uses in the past she goes on to speak of it in its modern capacity as "a piquant accessory which conceals imperfections and displays beauty." Her advice is characterized by good taste and is worth remembering:

"The veil par excellence is the white one, with black dots. It gives a look of freshness to the complexion and adds to the effect of the eyes. The all white veil is only suitable for a brunette with a clear skin. A plain black veil is not becoming to any one, but a black one, with black dots, is becoming to everybody. Never wear a red, violet or blue veil, as it gives a sickly and unnatural tint to the most beautiful complexion in the world."

The pretty alpine and crush crowned straw hats with wide curled brims are coming into great popularity. They are a relief from the ubiquitous rigidity of the sailor hat and thereby fill a long felt want. The sailor hat is really only suitable for children and young girls, but it has been the only sort of outing headwear, short of caps, provided for women for years past. These new shapes are more dignified and more generally becoming, and it is to be hoped that they have come to stay. They may be trimmed with the severe band and dunlap bow or may be softened in effect by the addition of a chou of ribbon, a bunch of violets or a tuft of black or white cock's feathers.

An illustration is given of a hat having a berretta crown of green straw and a brim of plaited black lace. It is trimmed with black gauze ribbon having moire stripes, which surrounds the crown and forms a knot at the left side of the front, held in place by a jet ornament.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Binding Flywheels With Paper.

Since the recent tests of cannon wound with wire machinists have been trying to apply the same principle to winding big flywheels with paper. It was found to be almost impossible to create a fracture in the wire bound cannon with the heaviest of explosives. The reason that the same plan is being applied to flywheels is undoubtedly because so many wheels have burst during the past few years. Instead of winding with wire, however, the idea is to use paper. The wooden skeleton of the big wheel is put in a revolving frame and the sheets of manilla paper wound around it, with applications of glue between. Nearly 100 layers are wound on. The work is not costly. A cheap wheel results. An accident is liable to happen by which the load is suddenly taken off the engine, when the speed runs up with great velocity, and unless the engineer is at hand to stop the engine quickly the wheel is likely to burst by centrifugal force. But if a wheel is wound with something the possibility of its bursting is exceedingly small.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

WEDNESDAY RACES.

Plenty of Sport Afforded by Local Cyclers on the Crescent Track.

The attendance at yesterday's series of Crescent races was not so large as that at the first, but the races were just as exciting and the interest in the riding was intense.

The opening race, the one-quarter mile scratch, was run in 35 seconds by Darling, who took the lead and held it all the way. Townley dropped out on the turn to the finish. The order of the riding was L. S. Darling, Henry B. Scott, I. N. Lines, Olaf Sangstad, Isaac Townley.

In the one-mile handicap the starters were: I. N. Lines and Henry B. Scott, scratch; L. S. Darling, 20 yards; Isaac Townley, 40 yards; N. R. Titsworth and S. C. Crane, 50 yards; William J. Dodd and Olaf Sangstad, 70 yards.

The pace was set by Sangstad, who shot away from all the rest. Crane and Darling started after him as the second lap began, but he led away again. The field was bunched as the tape was passed the next time. Darling passed Lines on the back. The finish, in 2:25, was I. N. Lines, L. S. Darling, N. R. Titsworth, Olaf Sangstad, S. C. Crane, Wm. J. Dodd, Isaac Townley, Henry B. Scott.

The Victor Wheelmen's two-mile handicap brought out four colored riders. John Scott was on scratch, S. R. Springs, 75 yards; Alfred Wilson, 125 yards; John Venable, 130 yards. The scratch man passed his field easily. Wilson, the one-armed rider, had borrowed Capt. Israel Jones's mount. On the second lap he dropped out, saying the wheel did not fit him. On the same lap Springs's saddle turned and he fell as he struck the first of the big turn. He scraped one elbow. Scott finally finished in 5:35 3-5. Venable was a tired second.

The starters in the mile scratch, 2:50 class, were N. R. Titsworth, S. C. Crane, Wm. J. Dodd, Olaf Sangstad and Fred P. Taylor. Crane set the pace, and the first third was made in 70 seconds. The second lap ended in 2:15 with Titsworth ahead. He finished first in 3:08 with Sangstad a distant second, Crane third just back of Sangstad, and Taylor and Dodd in the rear.

An exhibition half-mile was ridden by E. L. Blauvelt of Newark, who rides under the Tourist Cycle Club of Paterson. I. N. Line paced him the first quarter and Monte Scott the last. To try to avoid the wind, the start was made at the 130 yard mark with the finish at the beginning of the home stretch. Blauvelt rode in the wind in 1:00.

Harry Lister, Harry Fulper and John C. Clark were the boys under 16 who showed up for the one-third mile scratch. Fulper set the pace and won in 52 seconds, with Clark second and Lister third.

The first race was one between Crescents who had never ridden in a race before. It was run in two heats, three men in each qualifying, and furnished more sport than any other race of the day.

For the first heat were brought out Tunis J. Carey, J. W. Van Sickle, Richard Williams, C. L. Titsworth and George Stevens. Titsworth set the pace and the first lap was made in 58 2-5 seconds, Williams and Stevens fighting for second place, Carey a working fourth and Van-Sickle dropping back. Titsworth lost the lead on the back, and Stevens won in 1:55 with Williams behind him. Carey and Titsworth turned on the stretch, bound not to qualify in the final. Van-Sickle, who was of the same inclination, could not stop himself and rode into third place and final qualification.

Those who began the second heat were Charles Lister, James F. Buckle, John Petrie, W. H. Rogers, C. E. Teel and William J. Stephenson. The last named took the bank and got a start on his road wheel. Buckle led for an eighth with Rogers on a Spalding special and Teel on Monte Scott's racing wheel. Stephenson coasted on the bank next time. Rogers crawled up on the outside as the finish was reached. Buckle spurted hard. Teel held his lead and won in 2:10 1-5. Behind him were Rogers, Buckle, Lister, Petrie and Stephenson.

In the final it was found that the racing spirit survived only in Teel, Rogers, Buckle and Stevens. Rogers tired of the losing that was commenced and set the pace. He dropped back in front of Teel on the pole. On the back Stevens went ahead on the outside and won in 2:17. Rogers fought hard with Teel but the secretary captured second place. Buckle was fourth, just behind the president. The work of "Class C" ended the matinee.

Narrow Escape from a Falling Tree.

The storm of last evening blew down a large willow tree in the rear of Henry Hoffman's house, 688 West Front street. It fell shortly before 7.

Mr. Hoffman's son Sylvanus was in the yard at the time chasing the chickens which the wind had released by opening the gate of the run. The tree crashed down scarcely a foot away from him. He was in the corner formed by the coop and the fence when the tree fell and could not have escaped if it had dropped a few inches further in his direction.

John Donohue's illness has developed into typhoid fever. He is, however, getting along very nicely under Dr. Brakeley's treatment.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Harris Lane gave a peach festival at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Bound Brook. It was largely attended and very successful.

Mr. Ace, formerly associated with Adam Dealaman in the grocery business, and now living in East Stroudsburg, was greeted by his many friends yesterday when he stopped at Dunellen.

Charles F. Debele of Rockview avenue, owner of Pine Brook Farm, is making extensive repairs on his place. He is also giving his barns and outbuildings a coat of paint. It is one of the most attractive farms in the vicinity.

A boy about twelve years of age called at Dr. Brakeley's drug store yesterday morning to have the little toe of his left foot treated. He had been out shooting with a rifle and the weapon was accidentally discharged. The bullet went through the toe, and in taking off his stocking the bullet dropped out on the floor. He was sent home rejoicing.

Marshal Wilson has been busy the past two days with cyclers. Tuesday afternoon a young man from Plainfield rode his wheel on the sidewalk, was arrested and taken before Dr. Brakeley. He did n't have the necessary $2 for his fine and he sent word home to get security. He was released. Yesterday morning a Plainfield physician violated the same law. Dr. Brakeley was called on again, and in consequence $3 was added to the borough funds.

BIRTHDAY PLEASURES.

One of the Family Cause a Sensation, But That Only Helped the Fun.

The thirty-sixth birthday of Louis Riegal of Netherwood avenue, last night, was the occasion of a very pleasant social gathering. The threatening aspect of the weather kept many at home, but by 8:30 a goodly number were present. Mrs. Riegal's large double parlors were decorated and illuminated. Vocal and instrumental music, games and conversations kept the guests busy until 11, when a repast was served. Miss Elizabeth Riegal let a quantity of salt fall into the ice-cream, and caused a sensation.

After supper the fun was renewed until a late hour. Miss Jennie McCann, Elizabeth Riegal, and Jacob King, were the musicians of the evening.

Among those present were Mrs. John McCann, Mrs. Knowles, Mrs. King, Miss Catharine Riegal, Miss Cora Scull and Messrs. Jacob King, Arthur McCann, Walter and Harry Williams.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else in possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

THE WORKINGMAN'S PLEA.

He Justly Demands First Consideration in Local Enterprises.

To the Editor of The Press:—Having read a few nights ago in your valuable paper of the proceedings taken by our most august body called the Plainfield Common Council in regard to public improvements, namely the sewerage contract, I beg the privilege of saying something on the action and on the unfraternal resolutions of said body against Plainfield's law-abiding and hard-working, but now long idle citizens. A resolution was brought up by Mr. Westphal, a member of the Council, that owing to the dreadful depression of labor at present in our country the contract of the city sewerage should be worded as to bind the lowest approved bidder to employ no continental European pauper labor on said work to the exclusion of Plainfield's own poor taxpayers and working citizens. The resolution was upheld by Messrs. Frazee and Millington. The latter gentleman, who spoke chiefly in its defence, saying that no decent American could or should work for ninety cents a day. But notwithstanding the justice of the proposal it was most bitterly opposed and criticized by Mr. Dumont and others. The Mayor on that occasion appeared to be neutral. Now I take the liberty of making a few explanatory remarks of what I know to be true in reference to the condition of the working classes of this city. For a year or more a good ninety per cent. of them have been undergoing a series of deprivations and hardships, owing entirely to the scarcity of work, and were too American to throw themselves and their poor destitute families on the city's finances, which must of necessity occur if certain home provisions be not inserted in our sewer contract. But alas, where are the boasted privileges guaranteed to us as a priceless heritage of American freedom and independence, if those men we place in power to rule us diabolically strive to starve us, and sink us below the condition of the meanest serfs of Asiatic Russia? There is yet time to amend or to befriend and give the poor inhabitants of Plainfield a chance to earn their bread as they have always done for themselves and for those whom God has placed under their care, without the stigma of charity being attached thereto. It is not too late to compel the contractor to give Plainfield workingmen first chance.

A word, furthermore, in praise of the good Christian women of our city, who last Winter spared no pains in going to the rescue of the city's oppressed toilers and cheered them to a good extent in driving the wolf from the door. But now there is no necessity for such intervention on their part except to see that justice must be meted out to those at home within our gates. Our sister Elizabeth has done the same. Let not foreigners be imported to carry away that which the merchants of our city should handle in return for flour and other common articles necessary for human existence. Michael J. Adams.

ROW IN A SHOE SHOP.

Broken Glass and Broken Heads Bring Two Offenders to Court.

Fighting on West Front street brought two Irishmen to the City Court this morning. The row started about 9:30 last night after the growler had been rushed during the early evening.

Policeman Mattox heard the crashing of glass and the noise of conflict while he was at the corner of Park avenue and Somerset streets. He ran up West Front street to the shoemaker's shop of John Grace, a one-story building four feet wide between the Sherman Outfitting Company's establishment and Love Bros. grocery.

The proprietor had singled out Patrick Buckley, a coachman, as an antagonist, although there was no special reason for fighting. There was n't room inside for an active row, so Grace threw Buckley out, breaking a large pane of glass from one of the doors.

When Mattox arrived Grace wanted to have Buckley arrested, and he and his wife were much astonished when both the shoe man and the coachman were taken to the lockup. Grace had n't been hurt very much, but Buckley had a blackened eye and a cut face.

In court this morning, City Judge Coddington fined each of the fighters $5 with a choice of taking 20 days in jail. Both paid their fines. It will cost Grace about the same to buy another pane of glass.

STOLE GARDEN SASS.

Hungry Hungarians Find the Royal Road to Free Board by the County.

Five Hungarians who stole vegetables from a South Plainfield farmer went to jail in New Brunswick yesterday afternoon.

John Geary owns a farm in the village and sells truck in Plainfield. He has noticed the disappearance of potatoes and onions from his garden. Those who stole the vegetables pulled them from the stalks and then replaced the foliage so that their work was not discovered until Mr. Geary began to harvest his crop.

He found that more had been stolen during Tuesday night and so yesterday he obtained a search warrant and telegraphed to New Brunswick for aid. A constable came to his place and together with several others Mr. Geary marched on the Hungarian boardinghouse next to his farm.

The potatoes were found in the cellar. The wife of the proprietor of the house said she knew not how they came there, but supposed that some of her boarders had stolen them. The boarders were found at the coal dumps, and five of them who admitted their guilt were taken to the Middlesex County Jail.

Another crowd of gleaners invaded the Geary farm last night. They were tramps from Jersey City, who had been landed in the village by coal trains.

May Twinkle Labor Day Night.

The officers of the Twilight Club will decide definitely this evening whether an entertainment will be held by the club the evening of Labor Day.

ATLANTIS, SECOND.

A NOVEL SCHEME FOR A NATION ON THE ATLANTIC OCEAN.

Eleven Miles From the Long Island Shore, a Syndicate Proposes to Have a Steel-Pillared Home Which Will Serve as the Nucleus of an Island.

The old story of a vast island off the pillars of Hercules in the Atlantic, is one of the most familiar of the classic fables; and books have been written about the ill-fated Atlantis that some convulsion buried beneath the sea, provided of course, the island was there to bury. The old Atlantis, spoken of by Plats, was founded on very shaky tradition; but a new Atlantis, projected a few weeks ago, will rest on substantial steel pillars, and it will be nearer the shifting Jersey sands than the rock-ribbed Gibraltar.

The complete purpose of the new enterprise has not been made clear; but a summer home is contemplated, where one can be on the sea, far away from land, and not on a ship. It will be beyond the jurisdiction of the United States and will be partially beyond law, except such as exists on the high seas. A Monte Carlo, or anything in that line, could be started there without danger of interference. The proprietors claim, however, that nothing of the kind is contemplated in their scheme.

Many articles on the subject of the proposed Atlantis have been written recently, among them being the following from the Recorder:

"Seventeen miles from the Navesink Highlands and eleven miles south of the Long Island shore, the green waves roll over the shoals known to all fishermen as the Cholera Banks, toss up and down an anchored buoy, upon which floats the flag of Atlantis. This spot, or rather the sand beneath this buoy, and the water which surrounds it, is the site of the very newest nation on the face of the earth, for Atlantis will be a nation just as much as Hawaii or any other island which is outside of the three-mile limit of the nearest continent's jurisdiction, and owes no allegiance to any power.

"That there is no land on the spot selected for the new country is of small matter in these days of nineteenth century science, and the company of shrewd speculators which intends to found the new Atlantis has already given out a contract for the construction of an island. That there will be a legitimate island on this spot some day, clever engineers feel quite confident. The intention is to have the early settlers in the new colony live on huge iron spiles for a generation or two, but the action of the waters in piling up sand around any obstruction, and the dumping of ashes and other refuse from the original buildings on stilts, will not take many decades to form around Atlantis an island of as solid a formation as Long Island, for it was through a similar process that the largest part of the shores of old Coney and its suburbs were created.

"Seriously enough, a number of daring speculators have undertaken to build a huge iron structure on great steel cylinders out on the Cholera Banks, and, furthermore, they hope to have the place open for the reception of guests with very little more than a year. The undertaking would have been laughed at not very many years ago, but to-day some of the most expert engineers in the country say that the plan is perfectly feasible, and the promoters have already contracted to spend several millions of dollars in the erection of Atlantis, so they, too, must feel confident of success."

THE SNAKE BITE WAS FATAL.

And the Red-nosed Man Went on to Tell How the Venom Got in Its Work.

"It's all humbug, this talk about rattlesnakes being so deadly poison!" said a red-faced man in the smoking car. "I've lived among 'em. They used to be so thick out where I live that you had to be mighty careful where you put your feet down if you didn't want to hurt a rattler or two every time you stepped. My bed was never any more than big enough for me and the easy conscience I always slept with, but I've woke up more times than I've got fingers and toes and found that two or three rattlesnakes had managed to find room with us. They were plenty, I tell you, out where I live. But deadly? Pooh! Why, I've known scores and scores of people to be socked, and socked deep, by rattlers, and I never knew of but one instance where a rattler's bite was fatal. Never but once, out of more cases than there's pimples on a goose.

"Bill Bulger was the man that was bit that time—a great, big, rough scuff of a log chopper that did not look as if a whole den of rattlers could raise as much as a flea bite on him. But he went to teasing a big buck rattlesnake that had come down to camp to look around one day, and the snake just threw his upper teeth against Bill a couple of times, and every drop of poison he had he emptied into Bill's wrist. Holler? Great Jeeswax, how Bill did holler! We grabbed him and hustled him over to the Pig's Ear shebang on t'other side of the camp, and began to decant rum into him, and it wasn't long before Bill looked as if he was glad he was bit. Everybody said he'd died, though, sure pop, because that buck-rattler must have unloaded into Bill close on to three fingers of the best poison he had. Consequently folks were surprised more than you can think when they got around next morning and found Bill on deck as chipper as a red squirrel and sound as a white oak knot."

"What!" exclaimed the man in the next seat. "I thought you said that bite was fatal!"

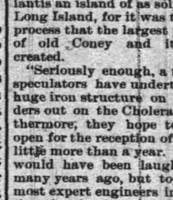
"It was, sir!" replied the red-faced man. "Bill got blind, crazy drunk on the strength of that snake bite and killed the bartender.—N. Y. Sun.

MRS. IDA CASLER.

Her Advice to Over-Ambitious Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Mrs. Ida Casler, of 126 Olive Street, Syracuse, N.Y., believes that there is no amount of money large enough to equal a good, sound, healthy constitution.



Here is a history of her case:—

She was so ill with falling of the womb and leucorrhœa that she could not stand. She was attended by several doctors without benefit, and was completely discouraged.

One evening she heard what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women, and decided to try it, together with Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and it is well she did, for she says:—

"I am now well and strong. I am not troubled with either trouble, and all owing to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"If more women would use the Compound there would be less suffering in the world. Many women bring on their troubles by over-work. Remember good health will outbid riches every time."

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, LL. D.

An Orator and Wit Who Might Have Been Secretary of State.

There is no man in the United States whose name is more widely known or that excites pleasanter suggestions than that of Chauncey Mitchell Depew. Mr. Depew is President of the New York Central Railroad, and is a director in several other great corporations, but he is best known as a speaker, and wherever he speaks he is greeted with smiles because the people expect something bright and humorous. And they usually get it, but at the same time they get something much better, for Mr. Depew is a thoughtful humorist, and beneath his stories will be found sound sense and clear logic.

HON. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.

In the discussion of candidates for the Presidency he has often been named, and he has been recognized as a man, who, if not available as a candidate because of his affiliations with railroads, had, nevertheless, much to recommend him. A man so genial, with a personality so attractive, would secure many votes for his own sake as well as his party's, and it is far from impossible that the objection to him as a corporation man may be overcome or outgrown, and that he will yet be the standard bearer of his party.

Mr. Depew is one of the few men who has had the chance to refuse the offered appointment of the office of Secretary of State, something that was tendered him by President Harrison after the resignation of Mr. Blaine. He was one of the most active supporters of Mr. Harrison in New York, and was greatly pleased when a majority of the votes of the State were cast for him in the convention.

In an interview not long ago, the question of Mr. Depew's possible candidacy for the office of President was discussed, and while Mr. Depew would not speak on what might happen so far ahead as the next campaign, he seemed to repudiate the idea that his railroad connection was a disqualification. His opinion appeared to be that the theory that a man affiliated with corporations must necessarily be weak with the people was not justified by facts. If the people should come to agree with him in this, his chance for a nomination would be greatly improved, but whether he ever gets this or not he will be remembered chiefly for what he is personally—for his brilliant wit, his forceful oratory and his genial ways.

OLD TIMES IN INDIANA.

When They Baited with Wild Turkey for Coons, and Traded Cows for Coon Dogs.

"I can remember when wild turkeys were so plentiful that you could buy them for a shilling apiece, and the most profitable use they could be put to was using their flesh for trapping coons," said John Bemis, an early settler in Indiana. "That sounds rather queer in these days, when there isn't anything in the animal line much more worthless that coons, and when wild turkey is worth almost its weight in silver. I have trapped coons and shot wild turkey within gunshot of what is now the home of ex-President Harrison, in Indianapolis, and my favorite hunting ground is now covered by a large portion of that city. The bottom lands of both White River and Fale Creek were famous wild turkey haunts, and the game was as common as chickens. I have killed gobblers weighing thirty pounds in the present city limits of Indianapolis, and some of my best coon-trapping localities are now the handsome grounds of some of the city's most fashionable residences.

"It is hard to believe that there ever was a time when the sweet and juicy meat of the wild tukrey was used to bait traps for rank and greasy coons that few people would eat, but in those days the turkey wasn't marketable, while coon skins were worth anywhere from a dollar to two dollars a piece, and there was no other bait but wild turkey meat that would overcome a coon's instinctive dread of a trap. Coons are the smartest and keenest animals that live, not barring the fox. It is no trick to trap a fox, but the man who can catch a coon in a trap can do it only two ways—using wild turkey meat for bait or setting the trap on the bottom of creeks where coons are in the habit of fishing for crawfish.

"I had been hunting and trapping a good while around Indianapolis before I could trap a coon. I had no trouble in getting foxes and minks, and occasionally an otter, but the coon was too smart for me. The only person who had any success in trapping coons was a young chap named George Pitts. He was a professional hunter and trapper, and used to come in every day with more coons, foxes, otter, and other animals whose skins were worth taking than all the trappers on White River and Fale Creek put together. I could get quite a nice showing of coons by hunting them among the sycamores of the river bottoms at night, but set my traps for them any way I might, I never succeeded in fastening one of the wily little beasts until I accidently discovered one of Pitt's traps, and found that he baited with wild turkey meat. I tried the same bait and never had any trouble after that in trapping coons.—New York Sun.

Contemporary Philosophy.

Social anatomists have noticed that the head, the family is not always on the same shoulders as its mouth.—Life.

No useful man has time to go back and rub out his unfortunate footprints.—Galveston News.

It is almost an even question whether one feels better with a full stomach or a new suit of clothes. To have both is supreme happiness.—Boston Transcript.

They say that money does not bring happiness. This is an experiment, however, which every one wishes to try for himself.—Tid-Bits.

The nearest thing to a vacuum is a letter written merely for the purpose of keeping up a correspondence.—Glasgow Citizen.

A man cannot always be the same everywhere. So perhaps it is excusable after a man has delivered an eloquent plea for a more beautiful life, to go home and kick his dog and find fault with the supper his wife has prepared for him.—Boston Transcript.

MISS MARSDEN'S WORK CLOSED.

Convicted on Her Own Confession by the St. Petersburg Committee.

London, Aug. 16.—Pastor Francis, of the British-American church in St. Petersburg, writes to the Times as follows:

"The committee of Kate Marsden's friends, formed in St. Petersburg in December last to inquire into the serious charges made against her in England, America and New Zealand, have concluded their labors and the result has been communicated to Miss Marsden's London committee, who will recognize that Miss Marsden's work must be closed and that the committee must immediately dissolve.

"When, in December, the committee was formed Miss Marsden agreed that if the decision should be adverse she would surrender all the decorations, letters, etc., bestowed upon her by imperial and royal well-wishers. It is now my painful duty to call upon her to fulfill her promise. A written acknowledgement of the gravest charge has been made by Miss Marsden. You will thus know that no possible injustice will be done her."

M. Pobedonostzeff, procurator of the Holy Synod, has udertaken to forward to Siberia any funds now in the hands of the London committtee for the relief of the lepers.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 Arlington Place, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

John Dietrich.

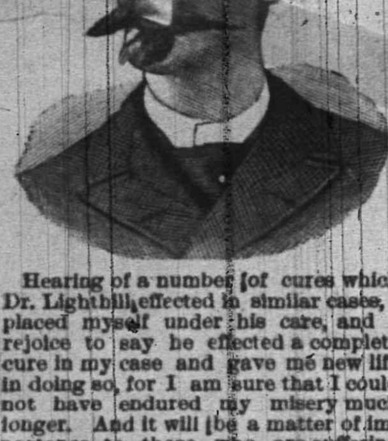
A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

Roselle, N. J., July 1, 1894.

To My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.



Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VarZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

Piles of the most aggravated nature radically and permanently cured in a few weeks, without pain or detention from business, and all other rectal diseases are treated with equal success.

Mental and Nervous Derangements Epilepsy, Diseases of the Skin and Blood, Rheumatic, Neuralgic and Scrofulous Affections.

Diseases of the Heart, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Bladder are successfully treated, even when other medical skill has failed.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Senators Discuss the Sale of Whisky.

Mr. Kyle Wants It Kept Out of the Reach of Senators During Recess of Congress, and Mr. Gorman and Mr. Cockrell Satirize the Men Who Pose as Models of Purity.

Washington, Aug. 17.—As soon as the reading of the journal was finished, the senate bill for the exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists was, on motion of Mr. Hill, taken from the calendar for consideration. After a brief discussion the bill passed without a division.

The resolution for the printing of the report of the civil service commission was reported from the committee on printing and agreed to. In connection with it Mr. Gorman, chairman of that committee, explained the delay in providing for the printing, and complained of the "malicious and scandalous statements made about such delay, for the purpose of creating a false impression on the country."

Mr. Dolph (rep., Ore.) gave notice of an amendment to the free sugar bill for the restoration of the McKinley duties on wool.

A resolution offered by Mr. Kyle (rep., S. D.) prohibiting the use and sale of intoxicating liquors in the senate wing of the capitol during the recess of congress was taken up.

"Why only during the recess of congress?" was asked by Mr. Platt (rep., Conn.).

"I would be most willing to have the rule enforced 365 days in the year," Mr. Kyle answered.

"That has been tried, however, and has been an absolute flat failure. Liquors are sold openly at the bar, or, rather, at the counter, of the senate restaurant, not to members of this body alone, but to visitors at the capitol and to the young men employed as clerks to senators. You have all seen it."

"I beg pardon, I have never seen it," Mr. Cockrell (dem., Mo.) interposed, angrily.

Mr. Gorman moved to refer the resolution to the committee on rules and satirized the men who "pose in public and make a display of their own personal virtues, or, rather, who offer resolutions to prevent gentlemen from enjoying life as they see proper." He happened to be one of those senators who could deal with the whiskey question as one who did not understand the taste of whiskey. But he had never yet, in public or in private (particularly in public) tried to impose his task upon others, or tried to pose before the country as a special reformer, and then, as reformers frequently did, slip behind the door and take two or three private drinks. The rules of the senate prohibited the sale of liquors in the senate wing of the capitol; and it was only a question of the enforcement of the rules.

"That is all," Mr. Kyle admitted.

"Yes," said Mr. Gorman, "but the senator from South Dakota wants the sale of liquors to be winked at during the session of the senate, and prohibited during recess."

"Will the senator vote to prohibit it during the whole year?" Mr. Kyle asked.

"There is nothing in the case," Mr. Gorman replied, "except an opportunity to pose before the public. If the rule is not enforced, it is the fault of those who are charged with its enforcement."

Mr. Platt doubted whether there was any occasion for the resolution He understood that the senate restaurant was closed during the recess. The stories about a bar in the senate restaurant were very much exaggerated, if not untrue. He had never seen liquors sold in the restaurant. But he had never stood about to watch whether liquors were sold or not.

Mr. Kyle declared that it was the farthest thing from his thoughts to pose as a reformer. But he did think that if people wished to drink they could at least go to the nearest saloon, "only a few hundred feet away."

The intimate knowledge conveyed in the last few words caused general laughter at Mr. Kyle's expense.

There were questions in an undertone from senators such as "In what direction?" and "How do you know?"

"The senator from Delaware," (Mr. Gray) Mr. Kyle continued, "wants to know how I know. If the senator will walk down Pennsylvania avenue, as I do very frequently, he will find that he cannot walk three or four blocks without staggering against a drunken man—at 6 or 7 o'clock at night."

"You mean," Mr. Gray said, amid more laughter, "that drunken men stagger against you, not you against the drunken men?"

Finally Mr. Gorman's motion to refer the resolution to the committee on rules was agreed to—yeas, 31; nays, 14.

Short Work on Tariff Bills.

At the close of the morning hour, 2 p. m., the unfinished business, being the free sugar bill, was laid before the senate, the pending question being on Mr. Harriss' motion to refer the bill to the committee of finance.

Notices of amendments were given.

By Mr. Aldrich (rep., R. I.)—Adding a new section to the repeal of the tariff bill just passed.

By Mr. Manderson (rep., Neb.)—To continue the sugar bounty until June 1, 1905.

Mr. Berry (dem., Ark.) called for the yeas and nays on the action to refer and the vote resulted—yeas, 32; nays, 17. So the free sugar bill, together with the proposed amendment to it, was referred to the finance committee.

The free coal bill was then taken up, and Mr. Harris moved to refer it to the finance committee. Agreed to—yeas, 35; nays, 17.

The next bill was for free iron ore, and the like motion to refer it to the finance committee was made and agreed to—yeas, 37; nays, 17.

The senate then, by unanimous consent, took up the pension bills on the calendar and passed all of them—eighteen in number—as well as the house bill empowering fourth-class postmasters to administer oaths to pensioners for the United States circuit and district courts.

House of Representatives.

The house manifested some relaxation from the strain under which its business has been conducted ever since its sessions began last summer, and at the close of the proceedings an adjournment until Monday next was agreed to.

Most of the day was spent in discussing the item in the general deficiency appropriation bill, added by the senate, providing for the payment of a judgment in favor of the Southern Pacific Railroad company for the transportation of troops, mails and merchandise for the United States. The payment of the money was bitterly opposed by numerous representatives and strongly urged by others, and by a vote of 90 to 41 the house refused to concur in the amendment. A few minutes later, however, on the recommendation of the conference, it agreed to pass the bill with a reduction of the amount to $1,275,000.

An effort was made to secure immediate consideration of the bill to prohibit the immigration of anarchists into the United States, passed by the senate; but objection was made by Messrs. Tracy, Warner and Olds, and the measure was referred to the committee on the judiciary.

The McMillan bill to amend the new tariff bill so as to take alcohol for the arts off the free list was reported from the committee on ways and means and after a brief debate passed—145 to 3.

A KENTUCKY SENSATION.

Breckinridge's Rival Candidate Mixed Up in a Law Suit.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 17.—A tremendous sensation was caused here yesterday when it became known that suit had been filed here by the widow of the late Col. James W. Crawford against Col. Jack Chinn, the well-known starter of thoroughbreds, for $4,250, and that Hon. W. C. Owens, candidate for congress in the Ashland district against Col. Breckinridge, had been connected with the suit by the petition. It seems from the petition of Mrs. Crawford that several years ago Mr. Owens lost much money at the gambling house at No. 14 Quincy street, Chicago, conducted by Chinn and Crawford, and gave a note for $200, which he could not then pay. Since Owens announced himself for congress Chinn went to him and demanded that he pay up or he would be exposed. Mrs. Crawford claims that her husband's share in the business amounting to the above mentioned sum was never paid.

Mr. Owens' friends claim that the bringing of his name into the matter was done by the Breckinridge people.

FATHER MURPHY'S CASE.

Will Leave the Diocese Without Censure on Receipt of Proper Papers.

Orange, N. J., Aug. 17.—The case of Father Henry Murphy, of Paterson, who is charged with contumacy, came up before the diocesan court at Seton hall, in South Orange, yesterday. The court consisted of the Very Rev. John J. O'Connor, Rev. T. A. Wallace, and Rev. S. B. Smith. The session lasted nearly two hours, during which time the whole history of the case was reviewed and the accused priest given an ample opportunity to purge himself of the charge.

The following statement in regard to the case has been given to the press:

"In view of Father Murphy's promise, given to Mgr. Satolli last month, that he would leave the diocese of Newark on receipt of the proper papers, and he having also promised this court that he will keep this promise, the court has suspended proceedings and Father Murphy leaves the diocese without any censure."

Further Time Reduction.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—A special from Easton, Pa., says: "Another order was posted at the Lehigh Valley shops yesterday reducing the time to one-half. The shops have been running but four days a week. There is considerable work to be done in the shops, and the men are unable to understand the orders."

His Attack of Malaria Not Regarded Serious.

The Executive Will Recuperate from the Recent Tariff Excitement with His Family at Gray Gables—Secretary Thurber's Statement.

Washington, Aug. 17.—President Cleveland, accompanied by Secretary of War Lamont and Dr. O'Reilly, left here for New York, en route to Buzzard's Bay, by the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday.

Private Secretary Thurber makes the following authorized statement:

"The president left this afternoon for a few days' absence, under the advice of his physician, in the hope of shaking off an attack of malaria, from which he has been suffering for several days. The attack culminated in fever, which is now under control."

Dr. O'Reilly, his physician, expressed no doubt that a few days of salt air and rest will recuperate the president sufficiently to renew his official duties, and he will return to Washington by the middle of next week. He has gone to Gray Gables, and is accompanied by Dr. O'Reilly.

The president has not fully recovered from the attacks of malaria which caused him to make two trips in the lighthouse tender Violet, down Chesapeake bay and outside capes Henry and Charles.

Anxiety over the tariff question is supposed to have aggravated the indisposition, and when the matter was settled by the action of the house in passing the tariff bill the relaxation came and made a change of air necessary.

The president, before leaving the city, took no action on the tariff bill before sending it over to the secretary of the treasury for a report, as is customary with revenue bills.

It will be necessary for the president to be back in Washington by Tuesday next. The resolution continuing appropriations carried by it for last year will cease on Monday unless the president returns and gives the bill for the current year his approval. The river and harbor bill also awaits the action of the president, and there is much speculation as to whether he will approve it or not. Many of the appropriations carried by it will cease if it is not approved by Tuesday.

Gen. Ezeta Still on the Bennington.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—Up to last evening the gunboat Bennington has remained outside the harbor and no action had been taken by federal officials as to the disposition of Gen. Ezeta and his three companions. When the warrants for their extradition arrive, either to-night or to-morrow morning, the tug Sea King will take Lieut. Stoney to Mare Island, where he will receive his orders from Commandant Howison and either Gen. Ezeta and his companions will be transferred to the steamer City of Sydney on Saturday morning, or they will be landed here and tried in the United States.

Burton C. Cook Dying.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Burton C. Cook, who was a national character in his day, is dying at his home in Evanston. He is not expected to live through the night. He has been ill for a month or more with brain trouble. At the Chicago convention of the republican party in 1860 he placed his intimate friend, Abraham Lincoln, in nomination for the presidency, and at Baltimore in 1864. He was the father of the public school system in Illinois and one of the pioneers in the anti-slavery movement. In other ways he has rendered great service to his country.

China Offers a Reward for the Top Parts of the Japanese.

London, Aug. 17.—The Central News correspondent in Shanghai says that the governor of Formosa has published a schedule of rewards for Chinese who capture or destroy Japanese ships, or kill or capture Japanese soldiers or sailors. The soldiers or sailors may be taken dead or alive.

The governor offers 6,000 taels, or almost £2,000, for the destruction of a big Japanese warship. For the destruction or capture of a small warship he promises 4,000 taels, or about £1,200. Two hundred taels will be paid for the head of a Japanese officer and 100 taels for the head of a Japanese private.

It is reported here that France and Russia have an understanding favorable to Japan, and England and Germany one favorable to China.

The Japs Want a Change.

London, Aug. 17.—A dispatch from Yokohama says: "The Japanese government has announced its desire for an early revision of the treaties with European powers giving foreigners land-holding and taxation privileges and granting the right of trial in their own consular courts. The announcement has caused agitation among the foreigners. The government declares that it only seeks to fix an approximate date when the privileges shall cease."

The Fall Broke His Neck.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug 17.—J. S. Bobo, aged sixty years, had his neck broken at Tullahoma yesterday by being thrown from a bicycle. He had a little girl on the seat with him when, from some cause, he lost control of the wheel and ran into a fence. In falling he saved the child from injury, but his neck struck the brick pavement, killing him almost instantly.

NEW RECORDS MADE

'Cyclists Do Some Great Riding at Denver.

Five New World's Records Made by the League of American Wheelmen—A Great Assemblage Witnesses the Wonderful Feats—The Track Very Fast.

Denver, Aug. 17.—Five world's records knocked out of existence in two short hours was the tune the band played at the national meet of the league of American wheelmen yesterday on the Denver Wheel club's new one-third mile track. Titus, Brown and Turnbull were the heroes whom an immense crowd cheered until the welkin was weary of ringing. It was promised that the track would prove fast and the two men who trained upon it agreed that it was, but no one counted upon any such wholesale slaughter of old favorites as that suffered by the record book

The ball began rolling at the very start when Clyde Turnbull, of Denver, obliterated the novice record of 2:29 and put up 2:23 3-5 in its place. Then Art Brown, of Cleveland, shaved Sanger's mile competition record of 2:12 3-5 to 2:10 3-5, being given the race through disqualification of Fred Titus, who unintentionally fouled Sanger and got ahead of everybody at the tape. But Titus wanted something to show for his day's work and took the five-mile national championship in 12:19 1-5, lowering his own record of 12:28, and riding one of the prettiest races of the season. Harry Maddox, who dropped out on the fourth mile, rode again on the fifth and cut out a terrific pace for his colleagues. Titus was riding next to last when the hot work began, but he shot up on the final turn and came down the stretch like a young whirlwind, crossing the line but half a wheel in front of "Brother Charles" Murphy, who led the California wonder, Zeigler, by only a few inches.

The half-mile national championship went to Eddie Bald, of Buffalo, in 1:05 1-5, just four and four-fifths seconds under the best previous competition half mile. This, too, was a tremendously warm heat, and Bald beat his team man, Ray McDonald, by only six inches.

Little Lee Richardson, of Chicago, who wears a gold medal for the fastest half-mile ever ridden backwards, 2:37 3-5, went for his previous mark and brought the figures down to 2:35 without much trouble.

Only one spill marred the afternoon's riding, and that was in no way chargeable to the track. Four men went down in a heap on the lap of the two-mile handicap, but none were more than scratched except H. S. Dodson, of Chicago, who was underneath the pile and pretty badly shaken up. John S. Johnson appeared, after many avowals to the contrary, and started in one of the trial heats, but his wheel got a kink of some kind and "Johnny" did not get up again. It is expected that he will try to make a showing today.

MR. GLADSTONE'S REPLY.

Excuses His Delay on the Ground of Weak Eyesight.

London, Aug. 17.—Mr. Gladstone has written a reply to the address presented to him by the liberal federation on the occasion of his retirementt from office. He excuses himself for his delay in answering on the ground of the weakness of his eyesight. In referring to the summary of the achievements of his political lifetime contained in the address, Mr. Gladstone says:

"While the picture is just as regards the action of the nation and the liberal party, only a small and insignificant fraction of the accomplished results can be ascribed seriously to myself. Concurrence to the best of my limited ability is all that I can claim. Subject to this observation, I conceive that the facts of my parliamentary history are such as will obtain conspicuous notice on the page of history. It is not for me to enter upon the deeply interesting prospects of the future, but I will express my earnest hope that the future will be marked by the same practical tone, the same union of firmness and moderation, the same regard for individual freedom, the same desire to harmonize the old and the new, and the same sound principles and policy of administration which have given the work of the past year so much promise of stability."

A Youth Lodged in Jail.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 17.—An eleven-year-old boy named Nice was brought from Girardsville and lodged in jail to await the result of injuries inflicted by him on another boy named McDonald. The boys quarreled while playing, and Nice drew a pocket-knife and stabbed McDonald in the stomach and between the ribs. McDonald is lying in a critical condition, and it is not thought possible for him to live.

War Flags Wanted.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Representative Cogswell wants to help Governor Greenhagle get back the flags of the Fifteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-third and Fifty-eighth regiments of Massachusets volunteers, for which he has made a request of the war department, and introduced a bill directing the secretary of war to return the flags to the state.

School Inspectors Arrested.

Detroit, Aug. 17.—School Inspectors Walsh, Lichtenberg, Davis and Liphardt, arrested at Wednesday night's meeting of the board of education charged with receiving bribes, were arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. Bail was fixed at $5,000 in each case, which was furnished, and the accused were released.

UP TO CONCERT PITCH.

A Business Man Gives His Experience and Tells How He Gets Along Nicely Without Going Away.

"No vacation for me this year."

Mr. J. Z. Clinton a prominent business man seemed quite cheerful as he made this remark.

"No," he said, "hard times and business cares prevent my usual holiday; but let me tell you I am not so disappointed as I would have been in former years."

How is that?

"Because I am enjoying sound health. I never felt better in my life. In spite of overwork and anxiety, I manage to keep strong and vigorous and instead of suffering from tired feelinges, dyspepsia and nervousness as I did in years gone by. I feel like a new man. Even now I shudder as I think of the miserable symptoms I once experienced. What were they? Well, generally a headache in the morning; dull heaviness or aching at the base of the brain; wakefulness; loss of appetite and disgust with food; loss of mental energy and interest in ordinary duties and business; restlessness and anxiety without any assignable reason; bad breath; giddiness; palpitation of the heart; sallowness of the skin; coated tongue and gradual failure of strength and ambition. I consulted doctor after doctor and with but one exception I received the same advice, namely: to take a three months vacation. This I could not do. At last, I consulted another physician and the result of our conversation was that he advised me to take pre-digested food about which I had heard a great deal. But I had had some experience with cod-liver oil and feared that this food might be something like it and equally sickening. I said 'no,' I preferred to try something else. The doctor, however, persisted. 'This food,' he said, 'is not a drug or a medicine nor a greasy mixture like cod-liver oil. It is a pure starch food, totally different from anything that has ever been introduced before. Its flavor is delicious, it is most refreshing, and it is stimulating to the weakest stomach. Take my word for it, and you will find Paskola is just what you need.' So upon this recommendation I commenced taking Paskola."

And what has been the result?

"A decided victory for Paskola. Before many days had passed, I felt much better. All the miserable symptoms I had formerly endured passed away, and I found that by taking Paskola I could eat well and digest well. I also gained a healthy appetite and a feeling of fresh vigor that was simply wonderful. I took Paskola with great relish, for I found that as the doctor had said, it has a very pleasant taste. Unlike all other health foods it causes no bloating sensations. Being pre-digested, it is absorbed by the system the instant it is swallowed thus imparting nourishment immediately; the result is, I no longer suffer from indigestion, while under the nourishing influence of Paskola my weight has increased from 120 to 155 pounds in the past two months. I find it a splendid thing to take at noon, after a morning's hard work and at night when business is ended. It seems to take away that feeling of weariness and nervous strain from which most business men suffer. As I say, it has done so much for me and made me so strong and well, that I have no need for a vacation even if I had the time and opportunity to take one."

Such statements as this are being continually made by people of all classes and such unsolicited praise is the best evidence that Paskola owes its wonderful popularity to merit alone.

You can obtain Paskola of any good druggist and a free pamphlet will be mailed by the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade st., New York.

A PECULIAR DEATH.

A Long Island Coachman Had Wood in His Lungs.

Babylon, L. I., Aug. 17.—C. H. Arthur, a coachman employed by Mrs. L. A. Carroll, of Islip, died yesterday from a peculiar cause. Three days ago he had a violent paroxysm of coughing and expectorated a small piece of wood. An examination showed that an abscess had formed in one of his lungs which had contained and preserved the piece of wood.

Six years ago Arthur, while employed in a carpenter shop in England, swallowed a piece of wood, which pased through the larnyx into the trachea and into the right lung. It caused him much pain, but the doctors at the time would not believe that the wood had lodged in the lung, and diagnosed the case as consumption. The doctor in attendance upon the case has reported the case to the Medical Record and the piece of wood has been preserved as a curiosity. It is the first case of the kind known.

WELLMAN'S VOYAGE

Encountered Many Hardships Near the Pole.

Determined, However, to Pursue His Investigations in the Polar Regions in 1896—Advantage of an Aluminum Boat Among Dangerous Ice Floes.

Tromsoe, Norway, Aug. 17.—Walter Wellman and his companions, with the crew of the wrecked steamer Ragnvald Jarl, arrived here Tuesday, as mentioned in these dispatches, from Spitzbergen, aboard the fishing yacht Berntine.

Wellman says that the expedition had almost reached the 81st parallel of latitude when forced to turn back, on May 12. The weather had suddenly become intensely severe, and northward from the Seven Isles broken ice made progress impossible. The expedition then traversed the coast of Northeast Land, most of which was explored.

Professor O. B. French explored much of the coast, adding to the map capes Gresham, Whitney, Armour and Scott and Walsh island.

Wellman and seven others started, on July 1, with an aluminum boat to force a way northward over the ice-pack. After a severe struggle they were compelled to return.

They started on July 4 to return to Walden island, "In crossing Dove bay they often had to wade through water up to their waists. Many other hardships were suffered.

The aluminum boat rendered excellent service, resisting pressure which certainly would have destroyed ordinary boats.

One of the party, Almy, broke his leg and had to be carried to Walden island, where they arrived on July 23.

The Walden and Seven islands are still hemmed with ice. After waiting two weeks it was decided, on August 4, to push southward. It was risky work, but all succeeded in reaching Low island safely

On August 6 the Berntine was sighted. They sailed on August 7, calling at Dane's isle for Oyen and Heyerdahl and the provisions.

Wellman declares that he will make another attempt in 1896 to reach the pole by the Spitzbergen route.

BURNS SCORES A POINT.

Mrs. Sanford, a Lexow Witness, Fails To Identify Him.

New York, Aug. 17.—The trials of Capt. Devery, Capt. Cross and Officers Smith, Burns and Glennon were continued yesterday before the board of police commissioners.

Mrs. Rhoda Sanford, a widow, who formerly kept a disorderly house at No. 24 Bayard street, and who was one of the chief witnesses examined by the Lexow committee, was on the stand nearly all day testifying against the accused policemen. She testified positively that she had paid all the accused men protection money. She said she paid $500 to each of the captains to open and $50 per month thereafter. The money was paid through the accused wardmen.

The defendant, Burns, scored a point when the witness failed to pick him out of the crowd in the room. She walked around the court-room three times and finally pointed to a man whom she said resembled Burns. The man proved not to be Burns, but a man named Conlin, who is not a policeman. Officer Burns was then called up and the two men stood together. There was a slight resemblance between the two men, but when together the differences were apparent.

SATISFACTORY RESULTS.

Successful Test of One of the New Fifteen-Inch Guns.

Sandy Hook, N. J., Aug. 17.—At the dynamite gun battery tests have been made of one of the 15-inch guns, which has a length of 50 feet. Three dummies were fired first and afterwards two shells, which were loaded with 200 pounds of high explosives, were fired so as to drop in the middle of the main ship channel. A light sound, like the whistle of a small launch, was heard, caused by the air escaping, when the projectile left the muzzle of the gun, and in a very short time a splash of spray in the channel designated the spot where it had struck, and a moment afterward a loud noise proclaimed that the shell had exploded, throwing up volumes of water mingled with sand to a height of over 400 feet.

The concussion of the explosion could be felt on shore and on board the vessels in the vicinity. Passing vessels prevented the guns from being fired quickly, as it was intended to strike a certain point in the channel and small vessels were often in the way, great care being taken to avoid accidents. Results to-day were satisfactory.

Another Strike Ordered.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 17.—At a meeting of the Card and Packer Room operatives' association last night it was voted to strike rather than accept the reduction in wages. It was voted not to touch the money in the treasury under two weeks, and to act in concert with the other local labor unions in conducting the strike.

COUGHED DAY AND NIGHT.

Mrs. L. F. Coates.

Three years ago I was so sick I could not eat, sleep or walk. I coughed all day and night, my weight was reduced from 150 to 127 pounds. The first night that I slept four hours at one time, was after I had taken three doses of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The offensive matter expectorated grew less every day and when I had taken the whole of one bottle I could sleep all night without coughing, and have been well ever since and weigh 175 pounds.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Social Committee of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Warren Chapel conducted a successful cake sale and lawn festival last evening. The grounds about 17 Chatham street, the home of Miss Lilian Zisler, the chairman of the committee, were used for the purpose. The sale began at 2 in the afternoon and continued through the evening. The place was gay with flags and flowers and Chinese lanterns. Miss Zisler was in charge at the ice-cream table, Miss Lilian Haberle at the lemonade stand and Miss Ruth Deike at the cake counter. The receipts will be distributed among the poor by Mrs. Taylor, the superintendent of the Junior Society.

THE SECRET ORDERS.

The Juniors had a delightful excursion, and a glorious American Day.

Of the 30 members of Crescent Division, No. 13, Uniformed Rank, K. of P., it is expected that 20 will go to Washington to attend the conclave there the last of the month.

Red Men Magus, Stiglitz and Newcorn went last night to Rahway and witnessed the institution of Alfreneta Council, No. 27, Degree of Pocohantas. The great chiefs of the reservation and representatives from councils in Elizabeth, Jersey City, Newark and Long Branch were present. Nehemosha Council of Elizabeth did the work.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

APPROPRIATIONS FIXED.

$5,000 for Lighting, and $2,000 to Put Out Fires—Dog-Catcher Removed.

The North Plainfield Common Council met in executive session last evening. Mayor Needham, Clerk Arnold and Councilmen Lounsbury, Peck and Howell were present.

A small stationery bill which had been left over from a previous meeting was ordered paid. Chairman Lounsbury of the License Committee was authorized to remove from office Dog-Catcher Jacob Bergen, and to appoint another in his place.

The annual appropriation for electric lighting was fixed at $5,000 and the fire department appropriation at $3,000. The individual calculations of the assessor were examined and approved.

The meeting was adjourned shortly after 10.

TAX RATE GROWS SLIGHTLY.

School Improvements and County Expenses the Cause of This.

The tax rate in the borough of North Plainfield will be higher this year than last. The county has raised about $5,000 more than usual, and the North Plainfield school money amounts to $5,000.

The rate in the borough within the limits of School District No 38 was $1.86 per $100; in the borough outside of the district, $1 60; and the township alone, $1 35. A few cents will cover the increase this year.

BEST OF ALL IS NETHERWOOD.

New York's 400 Will Keep the Hotel Open Till Winter.

The following letter is being circulated among New York's society people with the result of booking a large number of late-season guests for Hotel Netherwood, which in consequence of thus being made the official hostelry of the 400 is to be kept open much longer than usual, till real cold weather.

This is the letter:

OLIVER SUMNER TEALL,
MUTUAL RESERVE BUILDING,
309 BROADWAY, N. Y.

NEW YORK, August 9, 1894.

DEAR SIR:—During the latter part of July, I was sitting with a party of men at Averne, discussing the question as to where we could spend the months of September and October in the country, and within an hour of Wall street. None of the party (all New Yorkers) wanted to return to the city before the first of November and while each was anxious to find some place to take his family, none of us knew of a hotel that would fill the requirements, and remained open after September 15.

It was finally agreed that if a satisfactory place could be found, we would all go there and induce as many of our friends as possible to go with us, so as to make up a party sufficiently large to warrant a hotel proprietor in keeping open for our accommodation.

The investigation of the subject and the choice of the place were left to me and since then I have gone into the subject thoroughly and have examined the relative merits of all the hotels on Long Island, in Westchester County and in New Jersey, and have come to the conclusion that the Netherwood Hotel, at Netherwood, N. J., offers more advantages than any other hotel in the suburbs within the prescribed limits of an hour from Wall street. The hotel is well built, the rooms are large and commodious, it is run as well as any city hotel, it is only forty-five minutes out on the New Jersey Central, and offers more attractions than any place I am able to find.

The Netherwood is one of the most successful of all the suburban hotels and has been filled all Summer.

I have chosen an inland hotel because in the Autumn the country is much more attractive than the sea shore, and the roads about Netherwood are the best in the United States for driving and bicycling.

The following letter contains the inducements that are offered to us by Mr. Miller, the proprietor of the Netherwood, and it is now only necessary to find out if enough people can be gotten together to justify Mr. Miller in furnishing us with the desired accommodations.

You are invited to become one of the party, with the understanding, of course, that you incur no liabilities and assume no responsibilities whatever, excepting such as are usual in securing accommodations at hotels. There will be no club arrangements, and while the plan, if carried out, contemplates the pleasures of a house party, it will also have the freedom that is obtained in ordinary hotel life.

If you desire any further information or wish me to extend invitations to your immediate friends, please communicate with me at 309 Broadway.

Very respectfully yours,
OLIVER SUMNER TEALL

Death of John B. Moore.

John B. Moore of 310 Carleton avenue died Tuesday, aged about 45, leaving a wife and family. Decedent had come to Plainfield from Astoria, L. I., about a year ago. He was for many years a trustee and vice-president of the National Machine Company, and was known as a progressive and upright business man. The funeral was held this afternoon in the Church of the Redeemer, Astoria. The bereaved wife is a cousin of Frank Neal.

At the Eve of Her Voyage.

A farewell reception was given to Miss Susan Dolan in Welsh's Hall, Lee place, last evening. The event was in honor of her departure to Ireland next Wednesday. Singing and dancing were enjoyed. Sam Frazee was the musician, and John Simpson had the affair in charge. Quite a large number of friends were present, and the friends dispersed about 4 this morning.

Waiting for Better Times.

The prospects for a new freighthouse for Plainfield are not promising at present. The Central Railroad is putting down a new platform about the old house. The lumber has arrived at the North Avenue station.

UNJUST TO HOME LABOR.

Their Foreign Competitors Spend Only $4 a Month for Living.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Under date of August 9, 1894, The American Machinist publishes some notes on contractors from which I take the following:

"The foreman for this contractor, a veteran in the business, informed us that the laborers employed were all Italians, obtained from a padrone, to whom he paid one dollar and a half per day, the padrone paying them considerably less. Irish labor, he said, would have been cheaper at a dollar more per day. The price paid by the laborers for board, the foreman said, was four dollars a month. It seems almost incredible that hard working men could be kept alive for this sum, and probably the quality of their food had something to do with their inferiority as compared with men better fed. * * * They have no interest whatsoever in the country except as it is a place where they can earn better wages than in their own countries, to which they expect eventually to return and spend their accumulations. American labor should not be forced to compete with men who live on four dollars a month."

I feel safe in assuming that no one can be found in Plainfield who will publicly give expression to a sentiment contrary to the above.

Mr. Frost said: "Besides the contractors would never agree to it, for their only profit is made on the labor".

Business methods have certainly changed. We are to be congratulated on having manufacturers and dealers ready and willing to supply all the materials needed in the construction of the sewer without any allowance for profit. It is really too bad that he has been unable to find a padrone of equal liberality.

As matters now stand, the padrones or their agents, if they enter into a contract with the city for the sewer work, will have power to lower the wages of Plainfield laborers to the level of those of men who can exist on $4 a month, unless other and more remunerative employment appears, which does not at present seem likely.

Organized charities should not be called on to assist the city, or those who contract to do work for the city, to pay the wages of the workmen.

I hope the citizens of Plainfield will remonstrate with the Council and cause that body to order the engineers to proceed without a labor contractor, or, by some other means, make provision for the employment, at living wages, of all Plainfield citizens who wish to be employed and are willing to earn what they receive.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Victor Wheelmen will not meet again until Sept. 6.

L. G. Timpson purchased a Columbia 37 from F. L. C. Martin today.

Mallinson's Pharmacy has been added to the list of sale places for Crescent reserved seats.

Forty colored riders have promised to go to Florida Beach on the run of the Victor Wheelmen Aug. 30. It is expected that 75 will be included in the party.

After closing time last night Charles Hall of Reynolds's Pharmacy went out for a moonlight spin over the Metuchen macadam. He easily passed everything on the road. John Powers was his rear guard.

From the way repairs are progressing, it is expected that the Crescent track will again be in excellent shape for tomorrow's races, although parts of the course were much damaged by Wednesday's shower.

C. S. Gotthell, the Hy-Lo cycler, and H. A. Truax, the Spalding road rider, have decided to leave on their wheels for Chicago next Monday instead of the 27th, as they think they will find the weather better then. From Chicago Gotthell will return by way of Milwaukee, Pittsburg and Washington on a tour for the Hy-Lo people. He will probably use the railroad on the trip back.

The Crescents run last night took 15 cyclers out from Plainfield. The start was made at 7:30. In Elizabeth supper was eaten. Just before Springfield was reached at 11 Tunis J. Carey stopped riding. One tire had fallen flat. After remarks about the walk to Plainfield it was found that the valve was to blame. The tire was pumped up and the party reached home just before midnight. The moonlight made the ride the most enjoyable of the season.

CHURCH CHIMES.

PROBABLY FATAL FALL.

The Ladder Broke While Mrs. Jas. Burdick Was Picking Apples.

Mrs. James Burdick of East Third street had a bad fall this afternoon. She was gathering crab apples in her yard when the ladder on which she was standing broke.

She struck on her spine and was unconscious and black in the face when picked up and carried into the house. Dr. Adams was summoned. No bones were broken, but the internal injuries are such that it is feared she cannot recover. Her age is 62.

EXPENSES GO UP.

Somerset County Board Finds It Necessary to Raise More Money.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, Tuesday, $75,000 was appropriated for county expenses for the next fiscal year. This amount is $5,000 in excess of former appropriations for the yearly expenses of the county. The Board deemed it wise to make this increase, in view of the growing expenses of the county. The court and lunacy expenses, alone, amount to more than $24,000 each year.

The appropriations asked for by the members of the Board to build bridges, etc., in each of their respective townships, are as follows: Bedminster, $2,000; Bernards, $3,500; Branchburg, $2,000; Bridgewater, $6,500; Franklin, $2,000; Hillsborough, $2,200; Montgomery, $2,000; North Plainfield, $3,000; Warren, $2,100.

On motion of George Ballantine the County Collector was authorized to borrow $10,000, in anticipation of taxes.

Mr. Logan, of Bridgewater township, reported that the contract for building the iron bridge at Bound Brook, on the line of Middlesex County, had been awarded to the New Jersey Steel and Iron Bridge Company of Trenton. The bid of this company was $3,595.

A petition to the Board, signed by several hundred citizens and taxpayers, requesting that the fence around the county lot in Somerville, facing High street, be removed and the grounds planted with trees and laid out in a public park, was not looked on with much favor by the majority of the Board. It was explained that the proposed improvements would be done at the expense of the town or citizens, but still some of the members were imbued with an idea that inasmuch as it was county property, the petition should bear the signatures of the taxpayers of every township in the county, instead of the citizens of Bridgewater township.

Mr. Logan was heartily in favor of the proposed improvements. Another member from away back in the neighborhood of Meadowville, thought it "a bad plan to tear the fence down, as the cows might get in". And still another member wanted a string attached to the property, in the shape of a contract, so that the county could pull it back again, in case the citizens attempted to steal it, after they had been granted the privilege to improve it. After much fruitless discussion, the matter was laid over until the next regular meeting.

GRANT'S LAST SALUTE.

Gen. Horace Porter Tell a Fine Story Of His Old Commander.

In a short address in Philadelphia not long ago, General Horace Porter told this beautiful story of General Grant's last salute:

"An incident happened which will ever be memorable and which never can be effaced from the memory of those who witnessed it. I can scarcely trust my own feelings to recall it. It was on Decoration Day in the city of New York, the last one he ever saw on earth.

"That morning the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the veterans in that vicinity, arose earlier than was their wont. They seemed to spend more time that morning in unfurling the old battle flags, in burnishing the medals of honor which decorated their breasts, for on that day they had determined to march by the house of their dying commander to give him a last marching salute. In the streets the columns were forming; inside the house on that bed from which he was never to rise again, lay the stricken chief. The hand which had seized the surrended swords of countless thousands, could scarcely return the pressure of the friendly grasp. The voice which had cheered on to triumphant victory the legions of American manhood could no longer call for the cooling draught that slaked the thirst of a fevered tongue, and prostrate on that bed of anguish lay the form which in the New World had ridden at the head of the conquering column, which in the Old World had been deemed worthy to stand with head covered and feet sandaled in the presence of princes, kings and emperors.

"Now his ear caught the sound of martial music. Bands were playing the same strains which had mingled with the echoes of his guns at Vicksburg, the same quick steps to which his men had sped in hot haste in pursuit of Lee through Virginia. And then came the heavy, measured step of moving columns, a step which can be acquired only by years of service in the field. He recognized it all now. It was the tread of his old veterans. With his little remaining strength he arose and dragged himself to the window. As he gazed upon those battle flags dipping to him in salute, those precious standards bullet-riddled, battle-stained, but remnants of their former service, with scarcely enough left of them on which to print the names of the battles they had seen, his eyes once more kindled with the flames which had lighted them at Shiloh, on the heights of Chattanooga, amid the glories of Appomattox, and as those war-scarred veterans looked with uncovered heads and upturned faces for the last time upon the pallid features of their old chief, cheeks which had been bronzed by southern suns and begrimed with powder, were bathed in the tears of a manly grief.

"Soon they saw rising the hand which had so often pointed out to them the path of victory. He raised it slowly and painfully to his head in recognition of their salutations. The column had passed, the hand fell heavily by his side. It was his last military salute."

OHIO DEMOCRATS ANGRY.

Resolutions Adopted Asking Congressman Richards To Resign.

New Philadelphia, O., Aug. 17.—A sensation was created here yesterday by the publication of resolutions adopted at a meeting of Mill township democrats, requesting Congressman Richards, of the Seventeenth district, to resign, claiming he was not in harmony with democratic principles, that he did not possess a realizing sense of the duties of his position, and that he ignored the wishes of his constituents in the matter of appointments, and for diverse reasons.

Receiver Appointed.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Aldace F. Walker was appointed receiver of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad yesterday to succeed President J. W. Reinhart, resigned. Mr. Walker's appointment is entirely agreeable to the two other receivers, and it is believed that there will be entire harmony in the future conduct of the affairs of the Atchison system.

Miscreants at Work.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 17.—Some miscreants early this morning place a keg of rock powder in an engine the quarry operated by the town and blew the boiler to pieces. The building then caught fire and was totally destroyed, entailing a big loss to the city. No insurance.

DOG CATCHER JAILED.

The Colored Race of Race Street Come Up Before Mayor Needham.

A public official of the Borough of North Plainfield was sent to the Somerset County Jail last night for five days. The charge was brought by Chief Marshal Pangborn. Mayor Needham acted as judge in the absence of Borough Magistrate Crosley.

Jacob Bergen, the colored dog catcher, was the man to be dishonored. He had been drinking more than usual recently, and Wednesday afternoon he went to his home in A. J. Lutkins's half of the notorious row on Race street, and began to talk to his wife. Then he drove her outdoors and began to break the dishes.

Before Mayor Needham last night in the North Plainfield court-room he could do nothing but plead guilty. The Mayor did not allow him to talk at length, but sentenced him to pay $10 fine or go to Somerville for five day. Bergen chose to go to jail.

Bergen's record as dog catcher under the new law is not a brilliant one. When Chief Marshal Pangborn went away on vacation Bergen's score of dead dogs had reached seven. When the chief came back Bergen was engaged in swearing to a report of 45 and presenting it to the Council for payment. Chief Pangborn started at once to investigate, and found that Bergen could only show him 12 individual graves. His bill to the borough will be revised before being paid.

The other case of colored misbehavior was one in which the women of the same building were concerned. Mrs. Harriet Marsh, who lives at 25 Race street in the part of the dwelling owned by City Judge Wm. A. Coddington, talked to Mrs. Thomas, who lives in A. J. Lutkins's half of the house.

Their conversation was the source of much annoyance to the neighbors, as their wicked words could be heard on Manning avenue. The row appeared to have started from quarreling among the children. Mrs. Bergen told of what she knew of the affair.

Mayor Needham adjudged both of the women guilty, and sentenced Mrs. Marsh to pay a fine of $5. Sentence was suspended in the case of Mrs. Thomas, as the Mayor said that she had not been in court before and decided that there had been no trouble in the row until Mrs. Marsh's arrival.

Mrs. Marsh was mad when she left the court-room after paying her fine. She said she would get lawyers who would "fix" the Mayor and Mrs. Thomas. Her landlord has ordered her out of the house.

Sly Sports and Sunbeams.

A favored few who have snatched glimpses at the rehearsals of George Thatcher's new minstrel farce comedy "About Gotham", bring us glowing reports of the avalanche of melody and fun that will delight our theatre-goers on Thursday night next, Aug. 23. With such an unusually strong company of versatile artists, it is small wonder that the play has progressed already towards perfection, and the first production will be absolutely complete in every detail. The plot—and there is actually a remarkably funny story to the play—reveals George Thatcher and Carroll Johnson as comedians [illegible] excellence, and with unlimited [illegible]ities for proving the possession [illegible] even more humorous than [illegible]e ever before gladdened us [illegible]

[illegible]mbined beauty and talent of the [illegible]l be headed by Helen Byron, who [illegible] revelation of sweet vivacity in a [illegible] up-to-date bicycle costume, a [illegible] cute cajolery in lingerie and [illegible] and the personification of dashing [illegible]dedom in the swellest of male costumes. Henrietta Byron and Florence McKinley are two more bewitching damsels whose charms, both mental and physical, add greatly to the general joy. Alice Beauvet will astound the audience with her marvelous vocal gifts, and her song "Do not forget to love me", ought to prove the hit of the season.

The play is crowded with incidents too numerous to mention here, but the wild hilarity of the Sly Sports Club, the dreamy sensuousness of the sunbeam dancers, the mad pranks of the grotesque comedians, Dave Joy, John Daly, and Marks and Griffin, the mass of orchestral, operatic, and ensemble music, and, above all, the great minstrel first part in the Seventh Regiment Armory, with Thatcher, Johnson, and four other end men, our old friend Ed Marble as the genial interlocutor, and a splendid array of ballad singers, are but a few of the many features that should tempt every Plainfielder to hurry up and get seats early and avoid the rush that this gigantic aggregation merits.

Harry W. Emmet has written and produced the piece, and will also play a part necessitating half a dozen quaint character changes, and Theodore Inetz may be relied upon to lead a rattling good orchestra.

Perhaps He Isn't Right.

John Benford of West Fourth street was sent to Elizabeth for 30 days by City Judge Coddington this morning. Detective Corsa made the complaint. Benford is the 17-year-old son of Mrs. Maggie Benford. He spends most of his time wandering about on the railroad. He may be examined in regard to his sanity before he is released from the County Jail.

Homeward Bound.

The Honeyman party that has been traveling in Europe leave Liverpool tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 by steamship Umbria for home. They are due in New York Saturday, August 25, in the evening.

Tramps Lodged.

Two tramps who trespassed on the railroad were sent to jail for 10 days by City Judge Coddington this morning.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

GROWTH OF THE POTTER PRESS.

Important Changes Announced, Due to Increase of Business.

Because of the increasing demands of their business, the Potter Printing Press Company have removed their New York offices from 12 and 14 Spruce street, where they have been situated so many years, to the Potter Building, corner of Park Row, Beekman and Nassau streets.

Since August 1 their Western Agency has been at 88 and 92 West Jackson street, Chicago, in charge of J. W. Ostrander. Mr. Ostrander's long and favorable connection with the printing and allied trades is a sufficient warrant that any business intrusted to him will receive prompt and efficient attention.

The Potter Company are in a position to meet any demands for web, lithographic and cylinder presses, and pledge themselves to do everything in their power to maintain the high standard of excellence which has always characterized "The Potter".

E. A. Blake, who has had charge of their Western office at 362 Dearborn street, Chicago, will be connected with the New York office, where he will be glad to serve his many friends in the trade in any way in his power.

Blowing Off the Gong.

The North Plainfield fire-gong was slightly fast when it sounded the three time blows last evening. The single blow just before the three was signaled by a member of the company who pulled a pin at the switch in the engine-house. The recall of two blows at 8:05 was the work of another member who used the pin to show how the other had made the sound.

Astonished the Natives.

A rig that attracted much attention about Plainfield this morning was that of H. H. Thiers of Westfield. The horse was a bay colt which he is training, and the vehicle was his peculiar four-wheeled light racing rig. Almost all of it is made of steel. The wheels are small, and are entirely of steel. The axles are ball-bearing. It weighs 130 pounds.

Severe Surf Bathing.

Fred Slater of Rahway was taken with cramps while bathing with other J. O. U. A. M. excursionists in Asbury Park yesterday. He was pulled out by the surfmen. Miss Maggie Voorhees of Evona was struck by a wave and bewildered. She fainted as she was being taken to the shore, but recovered fully afterwards.

One Who Appreciates.

To THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I feel very grateful to both the Drum Corps and the Salvation Army for abandoning music a few evenings past, and if they will only do so a few evenings more I will be very thankful. A very sick child is the cause of my asking it.

Michigan Ship Canal.

New York, Aug. 17.—William H. Morrell, of this city, and others have revived the scheme to construct a ship canal from the little Bay Enoc, at the northern extremity of Lake Michigan, to the nearest point on the south side of Lake Superior, a distance of thirty-six miles. This improvement would shorten the distance between Chicago and Duluth 542 miles in the round trip and save the difficult navigation in the straits of Mackinaw and around the islands of Lake Huron in the route leading to the Sault Ste Marie canal.

To Protect Americans.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Speaking of the departure of the Charleston for Yokohama, Japan, Secretary Herbert said: "The Charleston has been ordered to Asia solely for the purpose of strengthening the American squadron in those waters for the protection of citizens of the United States who are numerous in the ports of Japan, Korea and China. The fleet is for the protection of American interests and for nothing else. The ships will take no part in any demonstration or interfere in the war between China and Japan."

Farmers' Alliance Disbanded.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 17.—The Georgia Farmers' Alliance has gone to pieces. After a stormy meeting held at Dublin, with only seventy-five delegates in attendance, this course was determined on. The leaders endeavored to effect an amalgamation with the populist party, but it was determined to close out the business of the alliance exchange, discontinue the publication of the Living Issue and disband the order.

Charged With Arson.

Nyack, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Maria Andrews, a colored cook, employed by C. O. Tiffany, a prominent citizen here, was yesterday arrested and held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of arson. Fire broke out in Mr. Tiffany's house and suspicion rested on the cook. The woman said that she was cook in the white house during the first term of President Cleveland.

Thrust at the Trust.

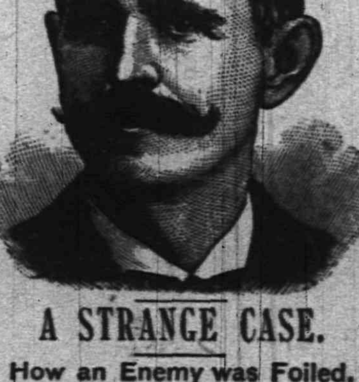
Washington, Aug. 17.—Mr. Harter, of Ohio, offered a bill of ten lines, which he says answers Secretary Carlisle's objections to free sugar, inasmuch as it supplies the treasury with revenue while it gives no protection whatever to the trust. The bill is a part of one previously introduced by Mr. Harter, and makes the duty 1 cent a pound on all sugars and molasses imported into the United States containing 100 per cent. of saccharine strength, with a reduction of 1-1000 of a cent per pound for each degree of saccharine strength below 100.

A Murderer Jumps Bail.

St. Louis, Aug. 17.—At 8:30 o'clock last night William Blagdin, aged 20, shot two brothers' John and Patrick Brennan, at Market street and the levee. John was shot in the forehead and is mortally wounded. Patrick was shot in the groin and in the forehead and is dangerously hurt. The row was over a can of beer. Last April young Blagdin brutally kicked Kate Davis, aged seventeen, whom he had betrayed. She suffered premature maternity and died in consequence. The murderer was at liberty under heavy bail. He made his esape last night.

Sixty Guests Poisoned.

Barboo, Wis., Aug. 17.—Word has been received from North Freedom, a village a few miles from this city that sixty guests at the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. John Silee last evening were taken violently ill after partaking of supper. It is thought the poison was introduced in seasoning and cooking. No one is suspected of any attempt to poison the party.



A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

A WIDOW'S DILEMMA.

To and fro, back and across the rose bestrewn carpet of the drawing room in a Victoria street flat, swept and rustled the laces and silks of Mrs. Venning's newest Paris tea gown.

"What shall I do? What shall I do?" cried Mrs. Venning, as for the hundredth time the writing table barred her progress and turned her footsteps back to where the carved mantlepiece positively groaned under its load of Dresden china, old ivories, fresh roses and bibelots of every description.

She crossed the white fur rug, and, pausing, gazed with a self-pitying smile at the pretty profusion that met her eyes.

"Roses at Christmas!" she said aloud. "That's the text of the old sermon. For the three years of my widowhood I've had roses at Christmas—and everything else to match, and now I am sued for the bill.

"It seems to be about $30,000 the horrid people want from me. I can't make it any less, and I've added everything together a dozen times. Of course, I know I have been extravagant—but then I'm young—and—not bad looking" (which was Mrs. Venning's way of considering her undoubted beauty), "and a widow into the bargain. And widows are expected to be so very smart nowadays."

"These things"—she looked about her luxurious surroundings with appreciative eyes—"I wonder what they would fetch if it came to a sale? I paid—at least, I owe—an awful lot for some of them. But it mustn't, it shan't come to a sale. A rich marriage—now let me think who will do."

"I'd throw the handkerchief to Raphael Gluckstein in a moment and I know he'd positively jump at me, for the sake of my visiting list and the country houses I stay at, but that he would want to pry too much and would find out at once that when my late husband, Robert Venning, died, he only left $50,000 behind him, and not the $50,000 a year with which society and the tradespeople have chosen to credit me.

The Earl of Wessex she had openly snubbed a month ago, and only a week back his engagement to a Chicago pork packer's daughter had been announced.

The Bishop of Barchester was rich and a well preserved man, but oh, so prosy and so dreadfully intolerant of the ways of the world.

And so on through endless strings of moths who had fluttered round and burnt their silly wings at the flame of Mrs. Venning's bright eyes.

She opened the blotter, drew some dainty monogrammed paper toward her, and taking a pen began hastily to scribble a few names across the sheet.

"Lord Fordwell, of course. The Duke—I can't help it if his mother doesn't like it; the boy must marry some day. The Bishop of Barchester, Gluckstein—I'll risk him, Colonel Dingwall is a nice looking fellow with a comfortable income, and Lord Arthur St. John I will certainly write to. Sir Roderick McPherson and Bertie Shorthouse. Eight of them!

"Fancy a woman writing to eight men to express her perfect willingness to marry any one of them! The only circumstance that prevents me expiring with horror at my own temerity is the fact that all of them have proposed to me, and in their different ways expressed a perfect readiness to fall in with my views if ever I could persuade myself to reconsider my decision."

Yet all the time a curious hesitancy mingled with her air of determination. Twice she laid her pen on the paper as though to add a ninth name to those already written. The third time her fingers traced the letter R, but she scratched it through hastily.

"I think I must be mad. The idea of my offering to marry Reginald Beresford. Reggie, with whom I quarreled, Reggie, with whom I played in my baby days, Reggie, to whom I was engaged when I was still in short frocks before he was first sent to India.

"I was married to Mr. Venning when he came back, and then, then poor Reggie began to racket and spend his money and ruin his health. Heaven forgive me! I laughed at him—he was so poor—for, though my heart ached for him, my head was too light to remember anything but that I was young and pretty. It serves me right that after all I am obliged to marry some man that I hate, anyway. Now for it!"

In her slender writing she penned eight letters to the men who within the last few months had wooed and tried to win the prettiest widow in London. She playfully claimed the prerogative peculiar to her own sex of changing her mind, and wrote plaintively of the lonesome life and her longing for a guiding hand.

"Now, I wonder how many men I shall find myself engaged to by the time I have read all these?" she said, when the replies came.

She broke the seal of the first:

"Sir Roderick: So glad to hear I'm well—fears Scotland would scarcely suit me—kind regards—how Scotch!"

"The Bishop rejoices to see I am taking a more serious view of life. Has changed his mind about marrying and thinks the clergy should be celibate."

"Gluckstein has looked up my husband's will and considers that my readiness to become his wife is actuated solely by a desire to possess his millions. Gracious! what else could he think!"

"Colonel Dingwall is engaged."

"Lord Arthur St. John's valet writes for him. Says his master has got softening of the brain."

"Bertie Shorthouse informs me that he's stone broke and has got to marry an American heiress.

"Now for Lord Fordwell—he always was a dear old thing. What! He would be delighted, but his daughters won't hear of his marrying again!"

"And to think that I should be refused by eight men—by men who vowed they loved me for myself, would defy the Fates to win me, would wait years for me. Oh, this humiliation is awful! I shall——"

"Lulu!" said a voice behind her.

"Reggie? You! Where have you been, poor boy, and what have you been doing?"

"I have been at the Cape, and I have been making my fortune. And you?"

"Oh, I——"

"I hear you are free?"

"Yes!"

"Going to marry again?"

"Perhaps! Is that what you came back from the Cape to say?"

"Yes! Any chance for me, Lulu?"

"What will you do if I say no?"

"Go back to the Cape!"

"I could not send you back there again, Reggie."

He caught her perfect form in his strong arms, her beautiful head rested on his shoulder. He kissed her many times. He called her by her name, but she only sobbed, for she was very happy.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

"My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

NEWS FROM THE ORIENT

Chinese and Japanese Forces in Korea.

Prospects of an Engagement Near Seoul—European Powers Will Protect Their Consulates—Great Wall of China Strengthened—Preparing to Bombard the Woo Lung Forts.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 18.—When the steamship Empress of Japan, which has just arrived here, left Yokohama, news of war and rumors of blockade filled the air. All along the Chinese coast beacons and buoys were being removed and numerous merchantmen, the Empress of China included, had in consequence, come to grief. Railway and telegraph lines were being hastily constructed both in China and Japan to facilitate speedy transportation of troops.

Torpedoes had been laid at the entrance of all the rivers, and more ships and further supplies of arms and ammunition were being ordered. Exceptionally stringent press regulations had been adopted to prevent any but officially corrected news being published. Hence it is that the advices by the Empress of Japan are strongly Japanese in tenor. The chief items of interest in connection with the movement of the navy chronicle the capture of the old Chinese dispatch boat Tsan Yang, Li Hung Chang's favorite, the shelling of the Chinese cruiser Tsi Yuen, with a loss of sixteen lives, and the sinking of a Japanese cruiser of the first class by Tsi Yuen, sister ship of the Chen Yuen, commanded by Admiral Lui Pathng.

The Japanese newspapers leave the name of the lost cruiser in blank, and only refer to her destruction in the most casual way in obscure corners of their issues. Strong efforts are being made by the Japanese to throw all blame for the Kow Shing affair upon piratical Chinese troops on board, who forced Captain Galworthy to cast himself into the sea to escape being murdered at their hands, and assert that England has the strongest possible claim for damages against China in connection with Kow Shing's loss. In Korea, China still appears to have the advantage of numbers in her land force, although Japan is credited with having 20,000 men in th field, and more troops are being constantly landed by both beligerents.

There is every prospect of a severe engagement in the neighborhood of Seoul before many days. Each of the European powers has landed a small force to protect its consulate at the Korean capital. The Korean king on the 27th of July released from jail five important prisoners of state, the sister-in-law and niece of Boku Yai Ko, the mother of Jo Sai Hitou, and the mother and daughter of Jo Ko Han, who were imprisoned in connection with the rebellion of 1884.

It is generally believed that Boku Yai Ko will be recalled by the king and appointed to some important position. It is reported that the Korean government has officially intimated to Japan that they will promptly sever all connection with China.

Preparations are rapidly advancing for the bombarding of the Woo Sung forts, and among the rumors prevailing Shanghai, when the last sail left, was one to the effect that the defences of the approach to Shan Kai Kaung, where the great wall of China meets the sea, had been greatly strengthened in order to make the railway more secure against possible raids by the Japanese.

Two of the Armstrong alphabetical boats and two other gunboats are now lying in the vicinity.

In obedience to instructions from Viceroy Li Whilo, 2,500 men are being added to the land garrison. This force is strong enough to prevent Shan Kai Kaung being crushed by any small Japanese naval force that may escape the vigilance of the Chinese cruiser in the gulf of Pechili.

The sale of coal at Kelung, Formosa, has been forbidden to any outsider, the Chinese government requiring the whole supply. The Sai Hing colliery is turning out 2,000 tons of coal per day, and the coal dust at the mines is now being made into bricks.

The Pei Yang fleet has been divided into two squadrons, one under Admiral Ting In Ting Yuen, cruising in the gulf of Pechili, and another under Admiral Li Yai Paitseng, in Chen Yuen, which conveyed the transports which left about the 25th of last month for Korea. The third division is believed to be at Taliwen ready to escort to Korea the Second army corps, under General Shung, of 20,000 men. Most of the troops appear to have been landed at the Yalu river.

The Foo Chow fleet, while ostensibly making a demonstration against Loo Choos, is to cruise between Formosa and the main land.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S VIEWS.

Has Been Naval Adviser to Japan for Six Years.

London, Aug. 18.—Captain Ingles, who has just concluded a six years service as a naval adviser to Japan, said in an interview to-day:

"The ships, officers and the men of the Japanese navy are distinctly comparable to those of any European navy. The officers are energetic and studious. The engineers are especially good and the engines are admirably worked. I have seen the Naniwa worked 100 revolutions a minute, which was her natural draught trial speed in England The Japanese are very smart with the hand-worked guns, but do not take so readily to the hydraulic guns. The seamen are entirely unoriental, always alert, patient and cheerful. The Japanese officers are faithful students of Capt. Mahan, the American naval historian.

"The Japanese army, with which I am intimately acquainted, is admirably equipped. The troops exhibit great dash and steadiness in sham fights and under fire and their discipline is extremely good. The artillery is remarkably well served; the drivers are fearless and the gunners are smart. Physically the Japanese are ideal soldiers, with strongly developed legs and light bodies and they are untiring marchers.

"I do not believe that the Japanese seriously mean to attack the Chinese forts. They are too wise and value their ships too highly to do that. I am of the opinion that the recent affair at Wei-Hai-Wei was a reconnaisance. I believe the Japanese will clear the sea before the winter and that the campaign will be mainly on land. The usual commonplace remarks about the certainty of the ultimate success of the Chinese, owing to their numbers and resources may be true; but it is not easy to foresee the result. Japan's modernity being a new factor in the far east."

THE CHINESE LOAN.

It Will Send the Price of Silver Upwards.

London, Aug. 18.—The financiers of this city, Berlin and other capitols of Europe are eagerly discussing the proposed Chinese loan.

There is no doubt that a £1,100,000 ($7,500,000) loan will be issued here early in September. The loan will probably consist of 5 per cent. thirty-year bonds, and at least two-thirds of this loan will be payable to China in silver. For this loan there is no special security, like the customs receipts, but only general faith in China.

It is not believed that Berlin will have any controlling hand in the issue of the new loan, although probably Berlin will be allowed to take a portion of the loan on "ground floor" terms.

There is a great scramble among financiers, including the London brokers of all ranks, to get on the inside of the operation, and there is no doubt that the loan is coverable in London twenty times over.

The negotiations for the loan have already affected the price of silver, and there is no question that the white metal will go higher. Some financiers are predicting that it will go as high as 22d. per ounce. The hardness of the silver market is most pronounced, and it has, sympathetically, hardened the price of copper.

THE CAMPANIA A WONDER.

Beats All Previous Records of Ocean Greyhounds.

New York, Aug. 18.—The big Cunarder greyhound Campania broke all previous records by three hours and eighteen minutes, arriving at the Sandy Hook lightship at 5:45 p. m. yesterday, making the run in five days, nine hours and twenty-nine minutes. The best previous record was that of the Lucania, made in October, 1893, which was five days, twelve hours and forty-seven minutes. The day's runs of the Campania were as follows: From Daunt's rock— 516, 528, 543, 525, 545, and 120 to Sandy Hook lightship.

The record-breaker experienced light to fresh easterly winds, except on last Wednesday, when a fresh easterly breeze sprang up.

The Campania now holds the record both ways, having established the eastward in October, 1893—five days twelve hours and seven minutes.

DR. NIXON DISCHARGED.

Not Guilty of Murdering an Illegitimate Child.

Flemington N. J., Aug. 18.—Dr. Warford Nixon, who was accused of killing his illegitmate child was discharged yesterday after a three days' hearing. The defendant admitted that it was his child. He said that it was born dead and that he buried it late at night in a plain box. When the body was found there was a hole in its head. The prosecutor tried to prove that the doctor nesses to substantiate this theory. The killed the child. There were no witnurse testified that the child was was born dead and that there was no hole in its head when she prepared the body for burial.

SOLDIERS' REUNION.

Many Old Veterans Meet at Caldwell, O.

Caldwell, O., Aug. 18.—Everything is in readiness, and the indications now are that the seventeenth annual soldiers' reunion will be the most successful one ever held. The weather is fine and large delegations are coming from all parts of the surrounding country. American flags are flying and bands are awakening the echoes of '61. Hundreds of old soldiers are here meeting and greeting each other.

Boston, Aug. 18.—William A. Johnson the colored student of Harvard pleaded guilty to an indictment of forgery in the superior criminal court and was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory for an indefinite time. Johnson, who was arrested last month at his father's home in Newport, was brought prominently before the public during his college career at Cambrige because he played on the Harvard football nine.

Agricultural Expenditures.

Washington, Aug. 18.—A statement has been made by the disbursing officer of the agricultural department, showing that there was a reduction in the expenditures of that department during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, of more than 14 per cent., and that there will be conveyed back into the treasury nearly $500,000.

Fitzsimmons Thrashed.

Jersey City, Aug. 18.—Bob Fitzsimmons, the pugilist, was badly thrashed Thursday night, but not in the prize ring. A conductor on the Pennsylvania railroad did the job, and did it well. Lanky Bob's face will bear the marks of the encounter for some time.

THE PRESIDENT RESTS

Enjoys Being Back at Gray Gables.

The Trip from the Capitol Was Beneficial—Suffering from Malaria, Aggravated by Overwork—Will Remain but a Few Days at Buzzard's Bay.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Aug. 18.—The president passed his first day at Buzzard's Bay entirely at Gray Gables. He is here for rest and recuperation, so that he may be able to return to Washington next week. Mrs. Cleveland drove over to the village last night with Dr. O'Reilly and Captain Evans, so that they might obtain some idea of the country hereabouts. Mr. Cleveland will probably return to Washington Tuesday, if not sooner. In fact, he said last night that he would only remain a few days. The lighthouse tender John D. Rogers is still at anchor off Gray Gables, and undoubtedly will remain until the president returns. Mr. Cleveland enjoys being back here once more, even if for a short time.

A representative of the United Press called at Gray Gables to ascertain the physical condition of the president.

Mr. Cleveland was unable to be seen, but after a moment's wait Mrs. Cleveland came out on the veranda. To the query Mrs. Cleveland replied: "The president is suffering from an attack of malaria, aggravated to a considerable extent by overwork and by close attention to his duties at Washington, just as was stated by Private Secretary Thurber in the despatches from Washington.

"Since leaving Washington the president has greatly improved, and it is evident the trip has already done him much good physically. The president has laid down for a short rest."

As to the president's return to Washington, Mrs. Cleveland was unable to say, because she has had very little time to converse with him since he arrived, but she is under the impression that he will remain but a few days.

The flag at Gray Gables was hoisted yesterday, and the same was done on many of the villas on both shores of Buzzard's Bay in honor of the president's arrival.

CARLISLE MAY RESIGN.

Mr. Wilson Will Probably Take His Place in the Cabinet.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The rumor was freely passed round at the capitol today that Secretary Carlisle would retire from the cabinet and that in his place would be Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia.

Of course no verification or contradiction of this remark could be had from the personages chiefly interested, but in discussing the probability of the rumor, proving well founded, one eminent southern congressman stated that Mr. Carlisle had expressed his opinion that the senate tariff bill was one of the best measures ever framed, and that holding these views Mr. Carlisle must naturally find himself at variance with the expressed opinions of the president.

HAD NO FURTHER USE FOR HIM

Mrs. Messler Thought Her Husband Dead, but He Turns Up Again.

Dunellen, Aug. 18.—Six years ago George Messler disappeared from home leaving his wife and children to shift for themselves. Later Mrs. Messler heard that he had died in Virginia.

Wednesday night Mrs. Messler was aroused from sleep by a loud knocking at the front door. Looking through the blinds she recognized her long missing George awaiting admission. She said nothing and went back to bed. When Messler got tired of hammering on the door he wandered away, saying to some of the neighbors who met him that he feared his wife had no further use for him. This, Mrs. Messler says, states her feelings exactly.

FLEECED BY BUNCO MEN.

Farmer Weldon Draws $4,800 Out of the Bank and Loses Them.

Fort Plains, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Jesse Weldon, aged 70 years, a wealthy farmer living near here, was fleeced out of $4,800 by two bunco men. One of them met Weldon on the road, gained his confidence and soon after met the other man, with whom they played cards, Weldon easily winning $200. The stranger then proposed to play for $5,000. Weldon came to the village, drew the money from the bank, rejoined the men, played again, and won as before. The stakes had all been put together in a box which the winner was to receive. The farmer took the box and started triumphantly for home. On opening it, however, he found that it contained only two newspapers, a cobblestone, and a letter giving advice in regard to gambling. Weldon reported his experience to Chief of Police Mereness, but no trace of the swindlers could be found.

GREEN GLASS WAGE SCALE.

Manufactnrers and Blowers Fail To Settle the Matter.

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—The committee of green glass manufacturers and blowers from all over the country, who have been holding conferences here, endeavoring to agree on a wage scale, have dispersed, finding it impossible to come to an amicable conclusion.

The manufacturers wanted the blowers to accept a reduction of 25 per cent., because the duty is decreased that amount in the tariff bill just passed, but the blowers declined to accede to this because the manufacturers had not increased their wages when the duty was increased.

Another conference will be held, and pending an agreement the men will go to work. They will be paid the old scale, but certain percentages of their earnings will be retained by the manufacturers, and when the new scale is adopted a settlement will be made.

TO BECOME MILITARY POSTS.

Former Recruiting Depots Will Be Garrisoned by Troops.

Washington, Aug. 18.—General orders have been issued from the headquarters of the army announcing that Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Columbus Barracks, O., and David's Island, N. Y., would be garrisoned by troops of the line by October 1, or as soon thereafter as practicable. The posts which have heretofore been used exclusively as recruiting depots will become military posts of the department in which they are located and will, with the addition of one to be established at Fort Sheridan, Ill., become the four recruiting rendezvous of the army, the former recruiting rendezvous in the principal cities in the United States being hereafter designated as recruiting stations.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS SUED.

Rowe's Father and Widow Both Claim the Death Benefit.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 18.—Thomas Rowe, of New London, has brought suit against the Knights of Columbus to recover $1,000, amount of death benefits due on account of the death of his son, David J. Rowe. Attorney P. J. Markley, of New Britain, the advocate general of the order, will apply for an injunction to restrain the continuance of this suit against the order.

David J. Rowe named his father as his beneficiary when he joined the order. He afterwards married, but did not transfer the death benefits and now the father and widow both claim the money.

FORFEITED PROTECTION.

Americans Who Sided With Chief Clarence at Bluefields.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Reports transmitted to the state department from Capt. O'Neil of the Marblehead, now at Bluefields, fully confirm the press reports to the effect that the captain refused to protect such American residents there as had taken up arms in behalf of Chief Clarence against the Nicaraguan Government.

The captain gave these men ample warning that they must not violate the laws of Nicaragua if they expected protection, and in so doing he acted, it is said, in strict accord with national laws.

Overcrowded Insane Asylums.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 18.—The placing in a private insane asylum at Stampford to-day of Austin Case of East Hartford by his friends, has brought to light the condition of asylums in the state. His friends were unable to get him in any Hartford institution on account of lack of room and the asylum at Middletown is very much overcrowded. Mr. Case came near shooting some woman some time ago while insane.

An Oil Gusher.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Intense excitement prevails here on account of a report that the oil well which is being drillied on the Scott farm, six miles south of this city, has turned out a gusher of 100 barrels capacity per day. The town is wild with enthusiasm. The finding of oil at this point opens up what is believed to be valuable oil territory.

Ball Makes an Unofficial Record.

Denver, Col., Aug. 18.—E. C. Ball broke the one-quarter mile record in the trial heats of the second day's racing in the national meet of the L. A. W. He rode from scratch in 60 2-5 seconds, against a good field. This time does not go, as it is not official.

FALL RIVER EXCITED

Over the Proposed Cut-Down in Wages.

The Weavers' Union Decides To Take a Vacation, but the Spinners' Union Votes To Accept a Reduction Under Protest—Cheers for Vacation; Hisses for Cut-Down.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 18.—This city is in a whirl of excitement on account of the meetings of the two strongest labor unions to determine what action should be taken Monday morning when the cut in wages goes into effect. By a vote of 794 to 184 the Weavers' union decided to take a vacation of four weeks. By a vote of 400 to 300 the Spinners' union voted to accept the reduction under protest, and to lend every possible assistance to their brethren in New Bedford, who recently voted to strike.

The weavers' meeting was held at the academy of music and drew the greatest crowd of organized weavers ever seen here in one meeting. Spinners' hall was too small to accommodate the members, and it was found necessary to hire larger quarters. The meeting at the academy of music was extraordinary, even in this red-hot labor union town. Most of those present were under thirty years of age, a number being young women. There was nothing in their appearance to indicate that they were operatives working at small wages, for many of the women were attired in white lawn suits and jaunty white sailor hats. The officers of the union sat on the stage. One of the most notable characters there was Thomas Evans, who is over 70 years old and a veteran labor agitator.

Secretary Whitehead and other officers of the union made addresses, and the discussion was participated in by several men sitting in the audience. Secretary Whitehead's talk was mainly devoted to describing the situation. He introduced figures showing the weekly pay-roll of the mills here carried $175,000, the weavers receiving 35 per cent. of that amount. A reduction of 10 per cent. would mean the cutting off of $40 annual income to each weaver in the city.

The amalgamated association has voted to accept the reduction under protest, but their action should have nothing but a moral influence of the individual unions. He argued strongly against a strike, and the whole tenor of his remarks favored the idea of a voluntary vacation. He acknowledged that there was no guarantee that the manufacturers would run the mills after the four weeks expired, but added that neither was there any guarantee that they would run the mills after the reduction was accepted. During the secretary's talk a motion was made to accept the reduction under protest, and an amendment was promptly made that the weavers take a vacation. Several made addresses counselling moderation, but they had little or no effect.

Thomas Evans made an inflammatory speech of a character now seldom tolerated by the local unions. It added to the growing excitement of the audience.

When the final vote was demanded ballots were passed around—one set reading "cut down" and another "vacation." These ballots were collected and counted, and James Arthem read the result to the meeting. "Nine hundred and sixty-eight ballots have been cast," he said, "of which 784 are for a vacation."

Immediately there were loud yells, applause and every possible sign of approval, which finally broke into three demonical cheers. It was some minutes before quiet was restored.

When the cut-down acceptance vote was announced, there was a voluminous chorus of hoots, hisses and catcalls. Before adjourning it was agreed that the striking weavers in the King Philip mills, who have now been idle two weeks, would be etitled to benefits during the shut-down, but all other persons of the union, including officers, will receive no benefits whatever during the vacation.

FAVOR A STRIKE.

New Bedford Weavers Will Not Accept a Reduction.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 18.—Over 1,400 weavers poured into Armory hall last night to attend the mass meeting of weavers where the question of whether or not to strike against the reduction of wages was argued for two hours and finally settled by a vote that had but a single opponent out of the hall full of people.

It was the greatest sight in the history of a labor meeting in this city, and the weavers have shown an equal determination with the other labor organizations, to resist the cut-down. At the start of the meeting several second hands were forced to retire from the hall, as were a groceryman and another person, who was almost mobbed by the excited crowd of weavers. All the arguments save one were in favor of striking, and when this opponent of a strike tried to talk a second time on the argument he advances, that all the weavers would be starved out before winter, he was hissed and not allowed to proceed.

Succeeded the Third Time.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 18.—John Welch, aged 33 years and unmarried, made a third and successful attempt at suicide last night by taking two-thirds of the contents of a six-ounce bottle of laudanum in a bagnio. He had made two previous suicidal attempts within two years, once by cutting his throat and another time by taking laudanum. He was a native of this village.

Soldiers Attacked With Cholera.

Vienna, Aug. 18.—While the troops belonging to the Cracow garrison were marching through Silesia and Galicia to take part in the military manoeuvres, eight soldiers were attacked with cholera at Bielitz and two at Oswoicin. The populace is greatly excited, fearing that the troops will spread the disease.

Canadian Pacific's Earnings.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—The Canadian Pacific railway earnings for the week ending Aug. 14 were $262,000; same period last year, $417,000; decrease, $55,000.

TIME TO CALL A HALT

Senators Want to Give the Country a Rest.

Do Not Desire Much More Tariff Legislation This Session—Wrangle Over Filling the Late Senator Vance's Place on the Finance Committee.

Washington, Aug. 18.—To-day will probably witness such action in the senate as will indicate the beginning of the end of the second session of the Fifty-third congress. The republicans held a conference in Mr. Sherman's room yesterday afternoon after the adjournment of the senate, and the whole situation was carefully canvassed. It was the unanimous opinion of the republicans that the time had come to call a halt and permit the country to rest a bit before the tariff question should again be brought to the front. At the end of the conference the republican "whip" was directed to notify every republican senator to be in his seat at noon to-day, ready for any action the steering committee might inaugurate. It was agreed that after Mr. Murphy's resolution declaring it undesirable to have any more tariff legislation at this session was modified, that the rpublicans would support it and press it to a vote. This modification Mr. Murphy subsequently agreed to make. He will eliminate all reference to Mr. Carlisle's letter and base it upon the general grounds that all further tariff legislation at this session is impracticable. As so modified it is said that it will receive the votes of all republicans and enough democrats and populists to put it through, with votes to spare.

Senate Proceedings.

Washington, Aug. 18.—A motion, or resolution, for the appointment of Senator White (dem., Cala.) to fill the vacancy on the finance committee occasioned by the death of the late Senator Vance, of North Carolina, occupied the attention of the senate during most of the brief period that it was in session yesterday. In the first place, objection was made to its present consideration by Mr. Chandler (rep., N. H.) under the rule which requires resolutions to lie over for one day if there is a single objection. On the other side, it was contended by Mr. Harris (dem., Tenn.), who made the motion that it was a question of privilege affecting the organization of the senate, and did not therefore come under the rule. That claim gave Mr. Chandler the opportunity for launching one of his shafts of ridicule at his political opponents for the tardy organization of the senate just as it was about to adjourn. Several senators took part in the discussion, especially Mr. Hill, of New York, who claimed that there had been no consultation among democratic senators as in other like cases, in regard to filling the vacancy on such an important committee. He thought that senators from the great state of New York should have been consulted, and he intimated that it was a case of "packing" the committee for a certain purpose. He favored letting the resolution go over until to-day, and advised his democratic associates that in the meantime they should have a caucus or conference on the subject. He also took occasion to restate his opposition to the income tax and his adherence to the principle of free sugar, free coal and free iron ore. And he reminded his democratic associates of "the blunder after blunder" which had been made throughout the whole tariff discussion, ending with Secretary Carlisle's "protest against placing sugar on the free list as a suicidal policy" just after the declaration of the chairman on ways and means in the house of representatives that there should be free sugar. He thought that there should be more consultation in order that these things might be avoided. The resolution went over until to-day.

The conference report on the last of the appropriation bills—the deficiency bill—was presented and agreed to. This and the sundry civil appropriation bill will now be sent to the president, who has still under consideration the river and harbor bill.

The house bill for the repeal of the clause in the new tariff law allowing a rebate in the tax on alcohol used in the arts went over until to-day, as did also a resolution offered by Mr. Murphy (dem., N. Y.) declaring that there should be no further tariff legislation at this session.

RIOTOUS WEALERS.

Angry Over Their Commander's Arrest at Dunkirk, N. Y.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Last evening a warrant was issued for the arrest of Count Rybakowski, commander of the United States Industrial army now in camp here, on a charge of breaking down fences and committing other depredations in the vicinity of his camping grounds. When an officer went to arrest him the count soldiers interfered and threatened violence if their leader was taken to the station house. They flourished clubs and theatened to use guns unless the count was released. The officer was determined, and finally the commander succeeded in quieting the threatening mobs. He was taken in a carriage and brought to the station house. It is feared that trouble will arise among the angry soldiers and a close watch is being kept on them.

Oates' Majority 26,000.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 17.—Official returns from all but three small counties give the total vote for Oates and the Democratic ticket as 106,292 and for Kolb and the Populists as 60,368. The three remaining counties will add about 3,000 to the vote, and give the Democrats a majority of about 26,000.

BABIES NEVER REFUSE IT

LACTATED FOOD RELISHED IN HOTTEST WEATHER.

Growth Steadily Continues and Strength Is Kept Up in Summer—Without Taxing the Weakened Stomach or Bringing on Diarrhea.

"It is truly a triumph in infant feeding when babies take a food with evident relish, even when the weather is the hottest and when the tone of their little stomachs is so reduced by the heat," says a writer in the Globe.

And this is why physicians and trained nurses everywhere, as well as countless mothers who have reared large families successfully, so earnestly urge a diet of lactated food whenever the infant digestion is feeble.

This ideal baby food is made up of simple ingredients that every mother knows to be wholesome and rich in nourishing qualities. It is a well nigh perfect substitute for healthy, vigorous mother's milk, and the one infant food which possesses a scientific combination of all the elements necessary to the complete nutrition of the growing child.

There is no secret about its composition.

In its manufacture in Burlington, Vt., under the personal supervision of no less a man than Prof. Boynton of the Vermont medical school, every process is most scrupulously guarded against any source of impurity. It is, as has been said, "as pure as the air among the Vermont hills where it is prepared."

There can be no equal to lactated food for nursing mothers. It contains the very elements of rich breast milk. The conversion of lactated food into baby's natural food is easily accomplished with little outlay of nerve force.

For many years the best medical authorities have recommended the use of sugar of milk in food for infants with the happiest results. It is recommended because, as Prof. Kuss says, "the principal element in woman's milk is the milk sugar." And not only does it give a pleasant taste, but it has been found to allay extreme irritability of the stomach and check diarrhea, and thus proves of inestimable value to the large class of infants that are predisposed to irritability of the stomach and bowels and in constant danger of cholera infantum. The basis of lactated food is sugar of milk.

The one safety for pale, weak sickly babies is to keep up their strength without irritating their intestines. This great problem of feeding delicate babies in hot weather has been solved to the complete satisfaction of hosts of mothers by lactated food. It has saved thousands of infant lives.

Mothers worry less about their children when they see them daily eating well and with evident relish. Children that cannot eat milk or can only bear a little, not enough to nourish them, should use lactated food. This generous diet soon shows itself in brighter eyes, firm flesh, clear skin and the lively movements that betoken health.

Sound constitutions, sturdy growth of bone and flesh, deep, uninterrupted sleep all come from a diet of lactated food.

The healthy child whose picture is shown above, eats neither but lactated food. Her mother, Mrs. C. H. Sisson of Potsdam, N. Y., writes:

"The original of this picture consumes two cupfuls of lactated food every three hours daily, beginning at six in the morning and ending at six at night. It was prescribed by Dr. H. D. Brown of this place, and she eats nothing else. As she is a teething baby we 'let well enough alone,' tampering with no other food, as she thrives on this."

FIRST CALL FROM THE BOXES.

North Plainfield's Fire Alarm Does Excellent Work in Summoning the Apparatus to Nathan Lee's Burning Home.

The North Plainfield fire alarm system did its work well at the first fire since its completion last night. There was delay in getting to the box, the horse had a mistaken idea of where it should stand to be harnessed, the hose burst twice at critical moments, and the lack of ladders was apparent, but the Gamewell alarm blew Box 141 in great shape, telling all the borough where the fire was and waking Chief Fairchild with his bedroom bell.

Box 141 was pulled at 9 by Edward Conshea. Fire had been discovered in Nathan Lee's house, 47 Pearl street, by William Scribner and John Mowry. No one was in the house at the time. Mr. Lee had gone out with his wife and infant child at 7:30.

To those at the fire it seemed a long time before the hosecart arrived, but it was really but a few minutes. The fire appeared to have started in the rear room on the first floor, used as a diningroom. The house was filled with smoke. At the back the flames went out by the door, consumed the porch and climbed up the side of the house to the attic shutters, where the fire which had gone up inside the sheathing joined it.

Mowry, Scribner and others, including a reporter of the Daily Press, started to take what they could from the house. They opened the front door and smashed the windows beside it. Smoke prevented entrance to any of the rooms except the kitchen in the front basement. The cooking stove, with a slow fire burning in it, was carefully carried out along with the glass ware and crockery which were in the closets. A few chairs were also snatched from the smoky parlor.

When the firemen arrived, the crowd had gone to the rear. The flames were visible only in the back of the house, and the firemen made the natural mistake of following the men who were going in by way of the yard back of Richard Corieli's house, corner of Pearl and Warren streets. The hose had to be taken through two fences, an arbor and a garden.

One line was taken through and water was turned on from the hydrant on the corner. Ladders were finally obtained from the place of Thomas M. MacDonald, a painter who lives two doors away. Then when the saving of Corieli's house seemed to depend on the quick work of the fireman a length of rubber hose burst. The flames shot up again and the large crowd which had gathered and then started to move away concluded that more excitement was coming and stayed.

Another line was quickly stretched and the flames went down. Again the hose burst. The third line was stronger, and with it the house was filled with water and the flames were extinguished.

Mr. Lee was summoned after the firemen arrived, and secured his papers from an upper room. A group of firemen who were on the roof of Corieli's house were drenched by a stream from across the burning house. Their ladder had slipped and they had to stay and be soaked until word was sent to the men at the nozzle. The recall was sounded five minutes before 10.

The cause of the fire will probably never be known. Mrs. Lee says no light was left in the house when she went away. The fire in the cooking stove in the basement could not possibly have caused it. The flames seemed to have started in the diningroom by a rear window. All of the furniture was destroyed except articles which were in a single bedroom. The contents of the house were insured for $500. They were worth about $1,200. The house, valued at nearly $2,000, is owned by Mrs. Wm. Boe. It was insured.

When the hose was taken back to the house and the reel unrolled it was found that the lengths underneath were mildewed, having been put away without being thoroughly dry. All except two lengths were taken off and replaced by the new hose. The firemen cleaned up and discussed matters. The driver had forgotten to look at the patent indicator when he left the house. One man had prophesied that Box 141 would be the first to be used. It was the first one tested by the councilmen.

Sustaining the Ackerman Boom.

(From The Railway Advocate.)

We heartily endorse the claim made by Plainfield Republicans that they should receive recognition this Fall at the hands of the party, in making nominations for the offices to be filled. Plainfield Republicans are always faithful and true. They ask for little and generally get it. Now, however, they want the party throughout the county to unite and secure for them the Congressional nomination, and by all means they should have that support. They have a candidate, Mr. Ackerman, who is pre-eminently fitted for the position and who if nominated will make, we believe, a winning fight. Rahway Republicans are ready to stand solid for this simple justice to our Plainfield friends, who through good report and ill, sunshine or shadow are always true to the interests of the Republican party.

—Fred Murphy, a colored waiter, was in Justice Nash's Court yesterday afternoon, charged with stealing a coat and vest from John Taylor, a fellow-workmen. The evidence was not sufficient, and the justice dismissed the case.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE MEANING OF NIRVANA.

A Parisian Savan Tells What This Much-Used Word Represents.

The word "Nirvana" has been much misunderstood. To get a clear comprehension of it, you must bear in mind the doctrine of Buddha. According to him, in order to attain the supreme end, you must understand exactly the four truths, which are: The nature of pain, its causes, its termination, the way which conducts to this termination. Pain is birth, love, fortune, old age, death—in a word, everything which constitutes the personality. The cause of pain is the sensation which produces wants, the thirst for action and for living. The termination of the pain comes when this irresistible thirst, this individual activity, is completely exhausted. The way of salvation is the means of extinguishing this thirst, of putting an end to this activity. You attain salvation by passing through four states.

The first state is that of conversion, of the knowledge of truth. The second is the last but one preceding the new birth, in which the individuality is in some sort reduced to its minimum. In the third state, which is the last of corporeal life, the being is no longer capable of desire or hatred: he has become "venerable," and has got rid of all aspirations, of all ideas of permanence, of all feeling of his own wisdom, of all trace of ignorance. When he has reached that point, he dies physically and enters into the fourth state, Nirvana. This word is generally thought to mean absolute material extinction. Such an interpretation is not exact.

Nirvana is the extinction of activity, and, consequently, of personality, and nothing more, since life is but an illusion, an appearance, a partial manifestation of the substance, of which existence is a palpable fact. But whether the substance exists or not, after the vanishing of our personality, is of no importance. We shall no longer be subject to pain, to evil, to good, to the frightful yoke of life. The elements which compose our individuality, detached at last from each other, will enter into the absolute repose from which they will go one by one to form other beings.—Julien Vinsoll in Paris Revue.

DR. OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

The Genial Poet, Philosopher, Physician and Wit of Boston.

The year 1809 is famous in the calendar as one which dates the birth of an unusual number of great men. Gladstone, Lincoln, Darwin and Agassiz, were born in this year—enough to make it remembered by every intelligent man and woman.

In the same year was born Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, the genial Autocrat who is no unworthy companion for the famous quartette already named. Among the poets and writers of this country there are some greater than he, but there is none whose works are more cheerful and more useful to the ordinary reader. The bright humor, the cheerful philosophy and graceful thought which mark his writings make them among the most helpful which one can read; and especailly, in times when the pessimists are doing too much talking and exerting too much influence.

Dr. Holmes, although best known as a writer, is also a physician, and has contributed much that is of permanent value in this department of work also. His "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" is perhaps the best known of his books, and the humor, optimism and careful thought which pervade this make it one of the most charming books that have ever been written. Perhaps humor is the leading feature in the book as read by many; but for those who look deeper a very serious purpose is found beneath the wit and fancy that sparkle in its pages. And the same may be said of his other works. He himself has fancied that his reputation as a humorist has hurt his fame for something better, and he has referred to this many times, on one occasion saying—

We suspect the azureblossom that unfolds upon a shoot:
As if wisdom's old potato could not flourish at its root.

But, however he is taken, whether as philosopher, poet or wit, he is exceedingly pleasant to take, and none of his books ever leaves a bad taste on the intellectual palate.

HONORING QUEEN OLGA.

The Name Day of the Grecian Queen Commemorated in New York.

The orthodox Greek church, of New York city, celebrated with appropriate ceremonies the name day of Queen Olga of Greece not long ago. Father Ferentinos, pastor of the church, spoke of Queen Olga in warm terms. He said that the Greek people adored her, and that few women in America lived more simply than she did. Her home life was beautiful, and might well be a pattern to all women. She practiced the most rigid self-denial, and those comforts which other queens considered necessities she deprived herself of that she might help the poor. After the terrible earthquakes which had caused such dreadful suffering in Greece she left the palace, and for days at a time lived in a tent among the sufferers, ministering to the sick and distributing clothes and supplies among those whose homes had been destroyed and who had been made destitute by the terrible calamity. With her own hands, he said, she prepared food for the patients in the hospital tents, and dressed the wounds of those whom it was impossible for nurses to attend to.

How She Has Grown.

Many Plainfielders remember Laura, daughter of the late John Roselle, who kept a livery stable where Packer's store now stands, and many were pleased to greet her in Plainfield again today. She is now Mrs. James E. Halligan of Brooklyn. When she was married she weighed 90 pounds; now she tips the beam at 275, and is as good-natured and full of life as of old. She and her husband are at the bicycle races this afternoon, and she will remain a week visiting friends and relatives.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 19. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—How to bring others to Christ.—I Cor. ix, 19-27.

When Andrew found Christ, the first thing that he did was to go and find Simon Peter, his brother, and to say to him, "We have found the Messias," and then he led him to Jesus. Andrew should be a model to all Christians. If we have found Christ, our greatest ambition should be to bring others to Him. In this work Christian Endeavorers should have a peculiar interest. In the associate members of our societies we have those who, while not Christians, profess that they have an interest in Jesus Christ. Every active Endeavorer should have a burning desire to bring them to Christ. No better one than Paul could be taken as a model for this work. Our lesson takes him as our example. To bring others to Christ—we are taught that

1. We should use all the means at hand. Paul labored that "by all means" he might lead some to Christ. He used all means. He held up "Christ and Him crucified." We must do this. Sometimes we hesitate to speak to others upon religious matters because we know we are not perfect ourselves. To avoid this timidity we should put self in the background and simply hold up Christ. Paul also prayed. He prayed earnestly and constantly for the salvation of souls. We cannot convert a human soul. God alone can do that, and He delights to do it in answer to prayer. God may not answer prayers for temporal blessings, but earnest, persistent prayers for the salvation of souls will not be unheard. Paul also used letters. What burning epistles he wrote that he might bring men to Christ! Letter writing can be used to good advantage in this work. Paul also lived a consistent Christian life. This is the best means we can use to bring others to Christ.

2. We should use tact and skill. It takes much skill to lead men to Christ. Christ recognized this, for He said, "I will make you fishers of men." The successful fisherman must have shrewdness and tact. Paul was tactful. To the Jew he became a Jew and to the gentile a gentile, not at the sacrifice of principle, but of what was not essential. He recognized the differences in people and did not try to apply a set of rules to all classes and sects. We must have the same tact. What will draw one to Christ may repel another. We must know our people. We must use tact and skill in handling them.

3. We should be willing to sacrifice self. This was the secret of Paul's success. He kept himself in subjection. He lost sight of self in his eagerness to save souls. In all these things "Go and do thou likewise."

Power of the Spirit.

True Christians, who live up to their privileges and are worthy of their calling, are filled with the Spirit. Their bodies are His temples, they abound in hope through His power, they are strengthened with power through the Spirit in the inward man, and through the Holy Ghost the love of God is shed abroad in their hearts. They receive the gifts of the Spirit, walk in the comforts of the Spirit and bring forth the fruits of the Spirit. They find the mind of the Spirit life and peace. They are not in the flesh, but in the spirit, for the Spirit of God dwelleth in them. Led by the Spirit of God, it is their unspeakable privilege to be sons of God. The Spirit helps their infirmities and aids them in prayer. But if any man hath not the Spirit of Christ he is none of His.—Thomas Chase, LL. D.

The Fruit of Faith.

A spirit of contentment is absolutely essential to happiness. Without this temper no amount of temporal good can satisfy. With it a small measure meets all the demands of our nature. But the contentment that brings abiding peace and joy is the fruit of faith. It comes of an abiding trust in God, our Father, and in Jesus Christ, our gracious and all sufficient Saviour.—National Presbyterian.

Good Words For Christian Endeavor.

President Thwing of the Western Reserve university says: "The Christian Endeavor society stands not only by the side of the college, but also stands before the college. It is first to lead men to Christ, who, coming to the college and going forth from the college, are themselves to lead men to Christ as their Saviour."

Endeavor Convention Echoes.

A choir of 100 girls, all in spotless white, graced Pilgrim Congregational church. This church entertained Maryland and was decorated in the oriole colors of that state—black and orange.

Miss Antoinette P. Jones, when she spoke for Christian Endeavor work among the sailors—the cause she so nobly champions—had before her for inspiration two entire floating societies, one with a boat and one with a banner, besides uniformed delegates from other floating societies.

Nearly 100 press representatives at Cleveland, and that means a convention multiplied a hundredfold.

The usual marching in of the state delegations bearing state banners and singing state songs had to be omitted at Cleveland. Too great crowds.

"It has been said that Christian Endeavor is made up of children and women," said the leader of the opening praise service in the tent. "I want the women and children to keep quiet and the men to sing the next verse." Then "Like a Mighty Army" was given with a great volume of sound. "You would not have known that there was a woman or child here, would you?"

FOR THE PRESIDENT TO SIGN.

Sundry Civil Appropriations Bill Goes to Gray Gables.

Washington, Aug. 18.—An official of th White House is now hurrying to Gray Gables with the sundry civil appropriation bill, which was signed by the speaker of the house and the vice-president. It is necessary that it receives the approval of the president by next Monday, as the joint resolution of congress extending current appropriations will terminate then and all work depending on this bill would then have to cease. It is expected that the president will sign the bill, and that the messenger will return with it by Monday morning.

A. R. U. Men Kidnapped.

Ironwood, Mich., Aug. 18.—Two men, John Manning and Andy Lyons, are alleged to have been kidnapped at Steven's Point, Wis. They are A. R. U. men and were arrested Wednesday evening on the charge of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm, and were forcibly brought back to this state without any requisition papers being obtained. United States Deputy Marshal Chone and Sheriff Eddy, of this county, will be arrested for abduction.

Run Over and Killed.

Ambler, Pa., Aug. 18.—John Grund, and a man by the name of Mapes were run over by a freight train on the Trenton cut off railroad, near Langhorn, and killed. It is supposed that the men were sitting beside the tracks when they were struck by the train. Both were residents of that vicinity.

Hotel Clerk Commits Suicide.

Athol, Mass., Aug. 18.—Edgar P. Fay, thirty-one years of age, a popular and well-known hotel clerk, committed suicide this afternoon by taking morphine. A woman is the cause of the act.

Crispi's Would-Be Assassins.

Rome, Aug. 18.—Clari, one of the anarchists arrested in the suburbs a few days ago charged with plotting to assassinate Premier Crispi, has confessed that the leader of the conspirators was a man of the name of Cerquetti. Three more anarchists connected with the plot have been arrested. All the prisoners are educated men.

Liliuokalini's Ambassadors Leave.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—H. A. Wideman, Samuel Parker, and J. A. Cummings, the embassadors of ex-Queen Liliuokalani, who went to Washington to prevent if possible the recognition of the new Hawaiin Republic by congress and who were not successful in their mission, left the city yesterday for the West, bound for home

Fatally Hurt While Wrestling.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 18.—William Partington may die of injuries received while wrestling with Thomas McCann on Grant avenue, Kearny. He was thrown on his back and injured his spine.

Hand in hand with these subjects should go instructions in cooking, nursing, ambulance work and manual skill in tailoring and bootmaking, a knowledge, however rude, of these two last named accomplishments being at times most serviceable and useful.

"I am totally opposed," continues the paper, "to the formation of a volunteer corps for women either merely as a medical one, a fighting one or an ambulance one. My idea of a volunteer corps of women is one whose members in time of national need could volunteer for all and every kind of service and perform the same efficiently whether it be fighting, medical work, ambulance work, nursing or anything else, and the unity of this volunteer corps should be firm and strong knitted by the indissoluble tie of esprit de corps, which would build it into a powerful organization.

"It should be the great national school for working class girls and women who could depend upon receiving a technical education if desired therein. It should be the national club for women of all classes; it should be able to furnish in case of need skilled workwomen in every grade; it should have its branches in every town or outside every town, and it should have its great central institution, its hall of liberty, in London.

"The corps might be known as the United Corps of Women Volunteers, and it could be classified in companies under different names, certain duties being apportioned to each. These companies could furnish whatever the national need required, trained and disciplined bodies of women being forthcoming in any emergency to supply the service sought."

Before Lady Dixie announces her uniform she paves the way with an anathema against modern dress, and then introduces her "neat Norfolk shaped tunic, reaching to just above the knees; knickerbockers and gaiters to match, the gaiters to be substituted for brown tanned top boots, lacing up the entire front to the knee, where much riding is necessary.

"For head dress I would recommend a colored cap, Tam o' Shanter or Carlist in shape, a plain round straw hat in hot weather or helmet if deemed more suitable. And to harmonize with such a costume woman's appalling headgear must be abandoned. No head can be truly comfortable or neat which is doomed to wear the present day erections and combinations of false and real hair, frizzes and fads, all pinned together in bewildering confusion."

Having thus annihilated the present coiffures, a woman is urged "either to cut her hair short, or wear it in the King Charles fashion adopted by the cavaliers, or if she prefers to keep it very long wind it in a neat coil behind her head."

Lady Dixie admits that the movement is radical, and that "there are difficulties to be encountered, sneers and jeers to be lived down, satires to be refuted, converts to be made," but she is sanguine of ultimate success and connects the arrival of the women volunteers with great national reforms and all the rest of it.

Serving Blackberries.

A pretty way to serve blackberries with cream is to pick fresh, ripe berries over carefully. Heap them in a glass bowl and set on ice, serve on saucers, with little bowls of sugar and pitchers of cream, allowing each person at the table to sugar the fruit to suit taste.

Blackberries may be served with meringue as follows: Place a quart of ripe blackberries in a bowl, sprinkle with powdered sugar, beat the whites of 3 eggs with half a cup of sugar and spread over the berries. Set on ice until very cold.

Blackberry flummery is made by placing a pint of ripe blackberries in a saucepan with a pint of water; let boil slowly without stirring for 10 minutes, moisten 2 tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with cold water, stir into the berries, let thicken, take from the fire and add half a teacup of sugar. When cool, serve with sugar and cream.

MORAL HUMBUGS.

Cheap and Showy Goodness Worn to Give a False Impression.

Fortunately moral humbug is going out of style—that is, it is not so universal as it once was. By moral humbug is meant not saintly airs assumed to cover some grave delinquency, but the cheap, showy goodness that is put on to give the impression of unusual general virtue, such virtue as was the pride of Mr. Anstey's "Good Little Girl." We can every one of us, no doubt, by reflecting, recall on the one hand a person of this description as full of excellent sentiments as the brother of Charles Surface, who loses no opportunity of making goody-goody observations, pointing a moral or adorning a tale, while in practical matters calling for the exercise of common honor and unselfish friendship she is not to be counted on for a moment. On the other hand, we can remember equally well somebody who makes no loud or persistent professions, but who leads a truly conscientious life without blazoning it to the world, to whom moral obligations are so much a part of her being that she thinks of speaking of them no oftener than she speaks of breathing, and who in time of trouble is a city of refuge and a rock of defence.

This seems and is outside of the depth of fashion, which is a pretty ripple that plays on the surface of life, but as this part of the paper is for women a little ranging beyond the immediate subject may be allowed now and then, especially if it is made up for by the appearance of an attractive picture. In the sketch given the lower skirt and the vest are of rose colored moire and the rest of the gown of hazel brown taffeta. The bolero and collar are embroidered with steel and gold beads.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PARASOLS.

They Are All Colors and Styles and Are Very Pretty.

It is such weather as this that causes the luxuriant blossoming forth of parasols. They spread themselves in the sun like tropical flowers and display as brilliant an assortment of tints, besides being much larger. The evolution seems complete from the big green leaf, which was doubtless the first parasol, and which always shelters the ill fated Paul and Virginia in pictures.

There is a great variety shown in black alone. Besides the usual plain silk and satin ones, now left mainly to old ladies, there are innumerable puffed and ruffled arrangements in black chiffon and mousseline de soie. Figured silk grenadine is also used, stretched smoothly and thinly lined, so that the light shining through indicates the figures. Other black parasols have bands of lace insertion, either black or white, set in at intervals.

All white parasols, covered with china silk or taffeta and having white enameled sticks with a china knob, are much liked for general use with muslin and other thin costumes. There are more elaborate ones of white silk muslin and lace, flounced and furbelowed to match the fluffy gowns and highly trimmed hats now in vogue.

Entering the domain of color, the scarlet poppy, purple clematis and blush rose have all their prototypes, very beautiful and also expensive, elaborately trimmed and fitted with valuable porcelain handles. There are likewise plain scarlet and dark blue sun umbrellas, well made and much more serviceable, although less costly, which are useful adjuncts of a modest summer outfit where economy as well as beauty has to be considered. In low priced goods plain natural wood handles are seen bearing a frame covered with Japanese figured cotton stuffs, mainly in blue and white.

It is reasonably safe to predict that the popularity of china knobs and handles will soon wane, and that natural wood will again come into favor for expensive umbrellas and parasols. The latest French designs show bamboo sticks, the irregular swelling where the stem of the plant joins the root forming the handle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Tea and Pie Complexion—What Tea Wrinkles Are.

A complexion specialist was lately praising his preparation. "It will take out tea wrinkles," he said. "What are tea wrinkles, pray?" asked the young lady to whom he said this. "Did you ever notice the lines and corrugations that cross the faces up and down and in every direction of women who are great tea topers?" he asked in return. "Strong tea has a ruinous effect on the skin, especially the tea that the old soakers take, a decoction which is boiled and allowed to stand hour after hour and be warmed over. The tannin in it oozes out and spreads like a pigment under the skin, tanning it literally like leather. The astringent quality of the tannin also draws the skin into furrows. I know one of these inveterate tea drinking women the moment I set eyes on her sallow, shriveled face." The specialist ought to have added pie eating to tea drinking as a means of ruining the skin. Wherever you see a woman whose face is almost greenish in its sallowness, clouded over with dark patches and pinched into puckers like a joint of corrugated stovepipe, you may set her down as a case of tea and pie complexion. A lady whom I know entered a shop not long since and was waited on by a woman with just such a complexion. She said to herself, "I will wager anything that woman eats loads of pie." Sure enough, while she was still there, the baker delivered to the woman a huge pie, one of your regular grindstone sort, with hog's lard and poor white flour crust. A civilized person would not have eaten the thing for $10, yet doubtless the woman and her unfortunate family made a good share of their next meal off it and washed it down with boiled or warmed over tea. If it were the complexion only that suffered from tea drinking, it would not be so bad. But tea makes others than those who are addicted to it suffer too. The tea drinking habit is responsible for much of woman's irritable temper, tempestuous gushiness of emotion and lack of control of her nerves.

The young men students at Cornell university are inclined to sneer at the young women students there, it is said, and look on the girls as beneath them socially. This need not surprise anybody. The average young man in the gosling age, from 18 to 25, has only distorted and unjust ideas of women. There is a particular reason why the youths at Cornell should feel a little ugly toward the girl students just now. One of these strong, fine girls, Miss Harriet Chedie Connor, has won from the whole lot of them the $100 Woodford gold medal for oratory. This is given annually to the best speaker among the Cornell students. When the Cornell boys become men, they will realize the injustice and cruelty of their conduct.

The middle aged man, who knows woman best, is the one who is most just and kindly to them generally.

I hope several fine, intellectual women students will take advantage of the opening to our sex of the new school of biology connected with the University of Pennsylvania.

According to an interview in the New York Evening Sun, the ladies the summer hotel proprietor wants at his establishment are the silly women who burn gas all night, wear loads of clothes and order up quantities of drinks. These are liked because the hotel proprietor makes money out of them. The money is made out of "extras" that are charged. Do people go to summer hotels for the benefit of the hotel proprietor?

"Civilization is the power of good women," says Emerson. Women are nearly all good; therefore women should take part in all the affairs of civilized life, politics particularly.

The New York World has a column devoted to instructing women in current politics. The great questions of the day—silver, the tariff, the Sugar trust, the income tax and other matters—are taken up and explained in a manner so simple that all may understand them. The papers are eminently readable, too, showing that the driest subjects may be made interesting. Women will be glad to know that the author of these papers is a woman, a young woman at that—Lida Rose McCabe.

Women ought to learn landscape gardening.

Nothing has been more pleasant reading lately than an editorial in The Household Realm. Alice Webster is editor and manager, owner as well, it seems, of the paper. She narrates its history in the editorial. She established it herself in 1886 with money she had earned as a printer. She bought out a small printing plant and started The Realm. For the first year she did all the work on it—typesetting, editing and bookkeeping. At the end of three months she had 1,300 paid subscribers, and from that day to this the paper has prospered steadily. Within five years she moved her office three times through need of larger quarters. The paper has been enlarged and a neat cover put on. It is owned by women, edited by women, and the mechanical work on it is done by women. The success of the publication shows, in fact, that there is a great amount of business talent among women, needing only development.

Can anybody tell the reason why a principal of a girl's public high school must always be a man?

One of the best indications of what women will do in politics is shown in the "campaign for good government" which the ladies of Colorado are making. It is wholly nonpartisan and was organized by the Colorado Equal Suffrage association. Its object is to awaken the women of the state to see that only able and devotedly patriotic candidates are put in nomination for the offices, state and municipal, in Colorado this fall. Another object will be to bring out the strength of the newly enfranchised women voters at the primaries as well as at the polls.

LITTLE WHALERS.

Children Who Are With the Fleet Away Up In the Arctic Circle.

The budget of letters that came from the far north last Sunday brought news of an interesting character from the steam whaling fleet now lying at Cape Naverin. The interesting fact is that there are in the party thus cut off from the world for months and years a number of women and children, the families of captains. The masters of this steam whalers had to pay well for the privilege, which is a new one in the history of the whaling fleet. A thousand dollars each is the price of their pleasant company, but it's cheap at that when one considers that for perhaps eight months out of the year the whalers lie idle. The cruise may be two years and it may be three, and so the long wait is not joyful in the contemplation of a man who has wife and babies and a cozy home somewhere down in the world. And so the captains who had wives and babies physically fit to go gladly paid for the privilege.

Several of the families that will spend this and other summers and winters in the arctics are well known in San Francisco. Captain Green of the Alexander has with him his wife, who is the woman of the party with an arctic experience. On the Jessie H. Freeman are Mrs. Sophie Porter and her small daughter Dorothy. Mrs. Sherman is with her husband on the Beluga, and Captain Weeks of the Thrasher has for passengers his wife and baby son Bert.

Captain Porter's little girl will have the best time ever a little girl had. She will be plunged up to her soft curly bangs in the delights of things to play with. She is a maid of 4 years, and she is going along to accumulate more winters. She will learn geography without ever knowing that she is learning it. There won't be any rulers, and there won't be any maps, and she will be spared the telling how many capes and points there are up there. She will have as a magical object lesson the phenomena of that strange land, where they have toboggan slides all the year round. She will wear the smallest of sealskin sacks and altogether will have a real Alice in Wonderland time of it. Captain Weeks' little boy Bert will have an experience like the little boy in "Water Babies," only it is to be hoped that the seals won't call him an "eft," like that little boy, because he isn't an "eft," only the plumpest of baby boys and the youngest white person to enter the Arctic ocean. He will see the "whale that is big of bone and large of tail" and be able to tell the biggest fish story that ever was.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Care of a Sickroom.

A sickroom that needs cleaning can be made fresh and sweet without sweeping and without dusting by wiping everything in it with a cloth wrung out of warm water in which there are a few drops of ammonia. The rugs and draperies, though there should not be any in the room, the doctors tell us, may be put upon the line for a thorough airing and wiped in the same way. The feather duster, which should be banished because it does no real good anywhere except to stir up and redistribute the dust, is especially out of place in the sickroom, where there may be, and doubtless often are, germs of disease in the innocent looking dust. If the patient is in a nervous state, a screen may be placed in front of the bed while the freshening goes on. If the room can only be heated by a stove, the noise of putting in coal can be deadened by wrapping the coal in paper before putting on the fire and putting on the paper as well as the coal.

A Convenient Button Bag.

Every woman knows the convenience of a button bag. There is no need to urge the advantage of having one always at hand. But this charming little one designed especially for keeping glove buttons and others of smaller size can safely be recommended as thoroughly well worth the trouble of making.

The material is chamois skin. The ordinary natural color will answer quite well and will keep the buttons intact, but if you want to make an attractive object as well as a useful one select the rich red or the more unusual sage green.

Cut two slips each 5¼ by 6 inches. Then across the edge of each paint a narrow band of gold bronze and a little above it another of green or red, according to the color of the skin. When the bands are dry, paint the disks in bronze of different but harmonizing tints and the letters in gold.

Seam the two pieces together at the sides and stitch them across 1¼ inches above the loose edge. Then cross the stitching with a row of ornamental stitches in silk. Face the opening with thin silk for a distance of fully two inches, run in a casing and through it pass narrow ribbons of some appropriate shade.

Lastly, with good sharp scissors slash the banded ends of the skin exactly to the stitched line in strips of about one-eighth of an inch in width. The bag will prove very pretty and charming and the easily made fringe a most suitable finish.

Ruth and Her Balloon.

One day, shortly before her mother took her to Gray Gables, little Ruth Cleveland was on the grounds back of the White House. It was nearly dusk, and the president was with her. She held the end of a string in her hand. The other end held captive a toy balloon. While playing she fell and let go of the string, and the balloon sprang upward so quickly that even the president, who jumped for it, couldn't catch it. Ruth picked herself up and saw the balloon sailing over the big trees. The president stood by and waited to console her when she should give way to grief. But she didn't cry. She simply eyed the toy till it melted into a speck and disappeared, and then, with a sigh, said, half to herself:

"Oh, well, let Jesus have it."

Judas sold his Master for thirty pieces of silver; that is, thirty Roman pennies, about $4.12 1-2. One Roman penny was a good days wages for an agricultural laborer.

Governor Osborne estimates Wyoming's wool shipment of this year at 5,000,000 pounds, or about half of what it was last year, the shipment of 1893 reaching over 10,000,000 pounds.

Only seven of the seventeen transatlantic cables are in use—ten having given out from various causes. Estimating the cost of each cable at $3,000,000, here is an irreclaimable investment of $30,000,000 buried beneath the ocean.

WOMAN'S WAYS AND DOINGS.

Rosa Bonheur was a dressmaker's apprentice when she was a girl of 15 years.

Queen Victoria is said to be a very bad speller, and addicted to the habit of writing illegibly to hide errors in orthography.

For the first time in the history of Cornell University the Stewart L. Woodford prize in oratory has been won by a woman. The fortunate winner is Miss Harriet C. Connor, of Burlington, Iowa.

What would that doughty old monarch, Henry VIII, say to this era of women's clubs? In 1547 he issued an edict commanding that "women should not meet together to babble and talk, and that all men should keep their wives in their houses."

The wife of a Scotch minister, who was a cipher in his own house, once remonstrated with a tinker, who had a craze for collecting buttons. "Weel, mem," was the reply, "ilka ane has their craze, an' mine's for buttons an' yours for breeks!"

Cleopatra was a widow, having poisoned her husband. She was the cause of not a little discord in the families of both Caesar and Antony. The former took her to Rome with him, but the people sympathized so strongly with the dictator's wife that he was obliged to send the Egyptian queen back to her own country. Antony gladly ruined himself for her sake. Cleopatra was a blond, with a complexion like ivory, yellow hair and blue eyes.

The Comtesse de Montebello, wife of the French ambassador at St. Petersburg, has sent to Mme. Carnot, as the representative of French women, a book containing portraits in water colors of twenty-four groups of Russian women, 5,000 autograph signatures and a draft for 18,000f. to found a scholarship in a French college for girls. The volume is sumptuously bound, and its corners of gold are ornamented with rare gems.—New York Times.

"The funniest chuch wedding I ever saw," said a confirmed victim to the wedding habit, "was one in a Protestant Episcopal church in this city the other day. The bride's father was rector of the church; her brother was also a clergyman. The bride wanted her father to marry her. When the bridal party started up the aisle two flower girls came first; then the bride, walking alone; a few feet back of her the maid of honor, next two bridesmaids, then the mother of the bride, unattended, and lastly two more bridesmaids and the ushers. The mother gave her daughter away, the father married them, the bride's brother assisted in the ceremony. Altogether it was entirely different from any wedding I had seen before, though very decorous for all."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

The mission of the English Church Society in Ceylon has 2,797 Singhalese and Tamil communicants, and 8,005 adherents.

The Year Book of the Y. M. C. A. for 1894, recently published, shows that there are 1,439 associations in existence, with an aggregate membership of 232,653.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church, South, has 2,058 auxiliaries, with 39,141 members and 1,185 young people's and juvenile societies, with 28,996 members, a total of 68,297.

The Christian Endeavor convention to be held at Cleveland bids fair to outrival the great New York convention. Places of entertainment have been provided for 30,000 delegates. The opening meetings are to be held in fifteen churches, with thirty speakers. A great hall and a tent are provided for the regular meetings.

One after another the theological seminaries of this country are opening their doors for the admission of women, and especially for such as would fit themselves for labor in the mission field. The Cumberland Presbyterian Seminary at Lebanon, Tenn., is one of the last to fall into line in this great matter.—Missionary Review.

What a lucky escape it was for John Calvin, as well as for Martin Luther, that he got out of the world when he did and that he is now safely dead and buried; for if Luther rejected the Epistle of James as part of the Bible, Calvin did the same with the second Epistle of Peter, so that neither of them would have come up to the modern requirements of preachers of the Gospel.—New York Evangelist.

The hymnology of foreign missions is a subject which is beginning to receive considerable attention. While native writers have not been able to contribute many edifying hymns, the best of German and English lyrics have been translated so well as to be very helpful in Christian worship, and also efficient in evangelization. The power of Christian song is manifesting itself on every mission field.—Lutheran World.

Mohammedanism is to-day, as in the past, a great missionary and proselyting religion. In the last thirty years it has made numerically more proselytes than Christianity. The Moslem missionaries whom the Sultan of Turkey is said in Constantinople to be sending through Africa are probably a part of the preachers of Islam always supported by the Sultan in his capacity as Caliph and represent no new policy.—Philadelphia Press.

Probably the oldest clergyman in the world was a Greek priest who lately died in Thessaly, Greece, after completing his 120th year. He never left the place in which he was born and where he died. He was accustomed to begin his priestly offices before sunrise, and to retire promptly at 9. His sight and hearing were in excellent condition to the day of his death, and he never made use of glasses. He was in the active ministry for ninety-nine years.—New York Tribune.

A Divinity House is announced as a new accession to the University of Chicago. It is to be furnished and manned by the "Disciples," and is to be called "The Disciples' Divinity House of the University of Chicago." It is to be not simply an attachment, but is to be "an organic part of the university, with the right of self-government and the privilege of receiving instruction from the regular faculties of the university, or from a special faculty approved by the trustees of the university."—Journal and Messenger.

The board of education of the Presbyterian church has determined that it must limit the probable number of students under its care in colleges and seminaries during the coming season to 900, and cannot promise to give a larger sum than $80 for the year. It hopes, however, and expects, to be able before the close of the year to increase that amount, and presses very earnestly that the sum of $150,000, recommended by the General Assembly, be raised, in order that none may be unprovided for.—New York Independent.

WATER GAP HOUSE,
DELAWARE WATER GAP, PA.
The location of this house, on a spur of the Kittatinny Mountain, is the Finest in the Whole Range
of the Blue Ridge. From its elevation are compassed views of great extent and beauty, embracing the gorge through which the river winds, the Upper Delaware Valley to the north, and Cherry Valley westward. From the Pioneer Walks, through hundreds of acres of forest, charming vistas are opened, affording frequent surprises for the alert pedestrian. The quiet and lake-like repose of the Delaware is very attractive to oarsmen and from the boat fine views of the great pass are obtained. The drives in every direction throughout the neighborhood are diversified and interesting. The hotel is large and complete in every detail, with broad verandas, a well-lighted billiard rooms, bath room, electric bells and mountain spring water in bed rooms. Superior table.
Good bass fishing in season on the Delaware, and trout fishing in the adjacent tributaries.
For the accommodation of business men a daily train leaves the Water Gap at 7:02 a. m., and arrives in New York at 9:30 a. m. Weather, cool. Breezes, delightful.

The Latest Novelty!
BABY SHOES COATED WITH COPPER
And plated in Silver, Copper oxidized, or Antique Brass.
We do not paint them, but ACTUALLY cover them, by a galvanic process, with a heavy coating of copper; thereby preserving them for an indefinite period.
All mothers will want their babies' first shoes preserved by this method.
If the little toe is worn through, and a button off, or a seam ripped, they will look all the more natural.
No matter what condition the shoe may be in, we cover them, and retain all the natural detail.
As a useful and ornamental souvenir it has no equal.

FAIR WOMAN'S WORLD.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE HOME-MAKER.

A Perfectly-Dressed Woman.

The attire of a perfectly-dressed woman, says an authority, is original without eccentricity, personal to herself yet conforming to the latest fashions, attractive yet undemonstrative, developing to the utmost her own peculiar charms. Further, the warning is given that the economical dresser may permit light-colored fabrics to pass through the hands of an inferior dressmaker, but dark gowns, whether intended for day or evening wear, should bear the stamp of first-class manufacture. Which is merely carrying out the well-understood principle that it is the rich who can profit by certain economies, not the less fortunate, who really need them. There is such a thing as being too poor to wear any but real lace.

Playing Golf.

This game is now the most popular with the upper crust of society. The players number one or more on each side, and each is provided with a separate rubber ball and "golf," or driving stick. The most skillful player is the one who can land the ball in a given series of holes with the fewest strokes. The materials, with books of directions, can be readily obtained. Golf is a very ancient Scottish game. A statute was adopted in 1457 prohibiting it, because it led to the desire of archery.

Men Admire Muslins.

Men are fond of the sweet simplicity of white muslin frocks. Gratify your father or brother occasionally by learing these dainty gowns. It will do you no harm and it will please them. You can also make it an instructive incident by showing them your laundry bills.

Cinnamon and Cholera.

A decoction of cinnamon is recommended as a drink to be taken freely in localities where there is typhoid fever or cholera, for cinnamon has the power to destroy all infectious microbes. Even its scent kills them, while it is perfectly harmless to human beings. It is said that the essence of cinnamon, when exposed to the sick room, will kill typhoid bacilli in twelve hours and prevent fresh cases.

Inexpensive Window Decoration.

It is an easy matter to decorate rooms that are full of corners, with cunning little nooks and the like, but to make artistic a room that is square or oblong is sometimes a problem. It is astonishing how much the monotony of such a room can be broken by the introduction of color in the proper place. A late suggestion relates to the use of colored glass. The glass is introduced at the lower portion of the window instead of the top. The effect is pretty and the occupant of the window seat may enjoy her book and the benefits of a sun bath without being observed by outsiders, and at the same time easily command a view of the outside. It is a pretty arrangement for a simple home, where the window has no depth for an inclosed seat.

An Exhibition Bed.

A young woman in town has her bed trimmed up with lace and ribbons in a very showy way. Visitors wonder how she has patience to take it apart every night, and wonder if her husband scolds at so much foolishness; but there is a secret. The couple sleep in a trundle bed that is kept under the show bed in the daytime. The husband doesn't like it, but that makes no difference.—Atlanta Globe.

A Cheap Disinfectant.

A disinfectant that costs very little and is perfectly odorless is made by dissolving a heaped teaspoonful of nitrate of lead in a quart of boiling water, stirring it with a stick, and then adding to it a pail of cold water. This is odorless, and will not stain; it costs about three cents, and, if it is thrown down the bath tub, closet and stationary wash bowl, it will be money well spent.

Cauliflower used in pickles should be prepared by first boiling the vegetable.

FOR THE SEASIDE.

The Correct Style for the Bathing Suit and Its Accessories.

The fashion in bathing suits inclines to simplicity the present season. The favorite material is flannel of light weight and dark blue color. Suits of gaudy color or trimming are seen, but are objectionable and at most resorts considered vulgar. This year the correct bathing suits are made with short skirts, barely reaching the knee. Knickerbockers are worn beneath the skirt, gathered at the knee, with black stockings. As a rule short sleeves are worn, although many suits have no sleeves, and some have sleeves extending to the wrists.

With the shorter bathing skirts comes an attempt to introduce the foreign custom of wearing bath circulars to and from the water. These are made of flannel, Turkish towelling, or even of silk. They envelop the entire figure and are designed to be worn to the water's edge. There they are handed over to the care of maid or friends until after the dip, when they are redonned.

The bath circular is very convenient where there is some distance between the dressing room and the water. They are much used by cottagers.

On the authority of Art de la Mode, the Paris fashion paper, women will bathe bare-legged this year, protecting their feet by canvas sandals. This, however, is a daring innovation, and, while it may apply to French women, it is safe to say that American women will bathe in stockings. Black is the favorite color for stockings, although there are always women who will tempt criticism by wearing red and other bright colors.

On the head the most stylish women will wear silk rubber caps of bright hues, red trimmed with a band of blue or vice versa, being the favorites. The rubber hats known by the name of the buttercup hat, will, no doubt, be the refuge of women of uncertain age. The straw hat tied under the chin is but little seen this summer.

There is a bathing corset worn by women inclined towards embonpoint. It is called a girdle, and is merely a band with shoulder straps. Under the arms are rubber bands which yield with every movement of the body. It preserves the outline of the figure without confining it.

With swimmers tights are taking the place of pantalettes, because they afford the wearer unrestricted liberty of limb.

The Oil Rub or Bath.

Do you know that the ancient Greeks owed much of their physical beauty, suppleness of limb and strength of constitution to the use of oil as a lotion? Of late years the great value of the oil rub has been recognized by the medical fraternity and is used by them in the treatment of many diseases, with the most satisfactory results. By its use infants, if delicate, are strengthened and norished; if they have bowel trouble, oil rubbed on the abdomen assists in remedying the disorder, relieves pain and soothes the child.

If oil is rubbed on the skin of persons in fever it prevents the surface becoming parched, also strengthens and nourishes the patient, as it is absorbed, so acts as food.

If a person has cold in the head oil rubbed on the nose and forehead loosens the cold, and freer breathing is the result. If the cold is on the lungs oil rubbed on the chest soon relieves the suffocating feeling, and the cough is less harsh. Oil rubbed on the sides, back and chest is one of the most helpful things that can be done for a consumptive. It loosens the cough and helps build up the tissues. Physicians say a consumptive's case is hopeful as long as he retains his flesh. This the oil aids in doing. Nothing equals in its efficacy an oil bath for a new-born babe, the oil being well rubbed over the flesh, then rubbed off with a soft cashmere cloth.

And, finally, the woman that wishes to keep her complexion fresh and skin free from wrinkles patiently rubs oil on her face. Almond oil is considered best for the face; cocoanut or olive oil for all other purposes. If these are not available, lard will answer. For the oil rub take a small portion and rub it thoroughly into the flesh.—Womankind.

The Reversible Pommel.

If you are about to invest in a side saddle by all means take one with a reversible pommel. There is a danger of becoming one-sided if a woman rides a good deal. The remedy, or rather the prevention, lies in the saddle which you can use either on the left or on the right side.

It was the Princess of Wales who first set the example in this direction; other English ladies followed the fashion. In New York Miss Anna Brackett was the first woman to use a reversible pommel; now nearly all the children in well-regulated families who ride are taught to ride in this way. Doctors advocate the idea, and fashion seconds it.—New York Sun.

Tomato Soup.

Tomato soup is a much relished American dish, and is prepared as follows: Steam, or rather, stew slowly a mess of turnips, carrots and onions, also a stalk of celery, with half a pound of lean ham and a little bit of fresh butter over a slow fire for an hour or so. Then add two quarts of diluted stock or of other liquor in which meat has been boiled, and also eight or ten ripe tomatoes. Stew the whole for an hour and a half, then pass through the sieve into the pan again; add a little pepper and salt, boil for ten minutes, and serve hot.

WOMAN'S WAYS AND DOINGS.

No one seems to have as hard a time in earning money as the woman who marries for it.

Mrs. Grant, wife of ex-President Grant, recently visited Mrs. Jefferson Davis, at Narragansett Pier.

There is no special objection to a woman being sharp, if, like most other sharp articles, she has a good temper, observes the Philadelphia Times.

A Memphis belle challenged a man to marry. He valiantly accepted, and in twenty minutes there was a wedding. In twenty days there was a divorce.

Mrs. Catherine Salisbury, a sister of the Mormon prophet, Joseph Smith, who was killed by a mob at Carthage, Ill., June 27, 1844, is still living near Fountain Green, Ill.

"Rest and change are good for people," said the wife, as she rose in the night to rifle her husband's pockets. "I've had a rest, and now I think I'll have a little change."

The young woman who chloroformed her family so that she could elope with the man of her heart, showed a determination which should make her husband reasonably docile.

The Princess Louise is said to be very superstitious, and sometimes will not attend public functions as agreed upon, on the plea that she knows it will be one of her "bad days."

Mrs. Rebecca T. Robinson, of West Newton, Mass., is to defray the expense of the erection of a new scientific building at Tufts college, Massachusetts.—New York Mail and Express.

Stagg, Yale's famous pitcher, has turned catcher. Her name is Miss Stella Robertson, a pretty and brilliant scholar in the University of Chicago, and the marriage is to take place after her school days are over.

The most heavily insured woman in the United States is the widow of Senator Hearst, of California. The policies on her life aggregate $300,000. Mrs. E. B. Crocker, of Elmira, N. Y., probably comes next with $150,000.

By the will of the late William Walter Phelps, his daughter, the Baroness von Rottenberg, receives over $2,000,000, which, added to the wealth of her husband, will make them one of the wealthiest families of Germany.

Marguerite McDonald, a 19-year old girl who was given the position of station agent at Warrior Run, on the Lehigh Valley road, when her brother vacated it a year ago, finds herself a heroine in the Wilkesbarre district. By her quick-witted action she prevented a serious collision between passenger trains.

A French statistician says that the number of men and women in France is more nearly equal than in any other country in the world, there being 1,007 women to 1,000 men. The conditions in Hong Kong, China, are appalling for the matrimonial chances of the sterner sex, there being only 336 women to 1,000 men.

FINANCE NOTES.

The coal sales agents have advanced the price on all sizes of anthracite 15 cents per ton to the East and West for July delivery. The output for July was placed at 3,500,000 tons.

The liquidators of the Panama Canal Company have signed an agreement with the new company, which is said to have a capital of 60,000,000 francs with which to complete the canal.

Gov. Greenhalge, of Massachusetts, has signed the restricted Bell telephone bill, which enables the corporation to increase its capital stock to $50,000,000. The new stock is to be sold at auction.

The Denver, Sioux City, Lake Superior and Chicago Railroad Company has filed articles to build a railroad from Denver through to Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Winnipeg and Galena and Chicago in Illinois.

It is the opinion of the New York Journal of Commerce, after a careful investigation, that coal gas in the larger Eastern cities can be made at a profit with a price to consumers fixed as low as seventy-five cents a thousand feet.

The Tehuantepec railway, Mexico, will be opened soon. The line crosses the Isthmus almost north and south through the States of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca, is about 170 miles long and the first transcontinental line built in Mexico.

The Boston Journal of Commerce says it is "justified in reporting an improvement of the business situation, although not to a large extent, yet there is an undercurrent of feeling in business circles that trade is better in most all lines."

The coal output of Missouri has increased 40 per cent. in the last five years. In 1893 it amounted to 3,190,442 tons, an increase of 173,157 tons over 1892, although the number of mines in operation in 1892 was fifty-one less than in the preceding year.

Consular reports show that the consumption of Egyptian cotton by the New England mills has grown from nothing ten years ago to more than 40,000 large bales, corresponding in weight to 60,000 American bales, and approximately valued at $3,000,000.

Total exports of British iron and steel to the United States in May last amounted to only 26,539 tons, against 38,465 tons in May last year, and 33,885 tons in May, 1892. The heavier declines were of pig iron, tinplates, sheets, plates, and unwrought steel.—Bradstreet's.

Certainly nobody has been looking for the present year to make much of a record as a year for railroad building, and probably many will be surprised to learn that there has been more than a normal amount of new road built. Yet the returns of track laid in 1894 up to July 1 show an aggregate of 495 miles. This is the lowest half year's record that has been reported for years. The total is 530 miles below the new mileage built in the first half of 1893, over 705 miles less than in the corresponding period of 1892, and only a third of the track built in the first half of 1891, when 1,610 miles were reported.—Railroad Gazette.

HOME-MADE SCREENS.

With Some Trouble You can Evolve a Dainty Work of Art.

Some of the most beautiful screens now in use are of home manufacture and comparatively simple construction. Many fashionable ladies pride themselves on their skill in the mechanics of art. A mirror screen, in a London drawing room, was made by its charming owner, who is a duchess, and possesses as much genius for decoration as if she did not wear a coronet.

The frame is of plain, inexpensive deal, gilded with liquid gilding or bronzing. The panels were set with clear window glass, decorated with masses of roses arranged in a graceful manner at the bottom and spraying out toward the top. The effect is marvelous, for the painted roses seem to be real, and suspended in the air mysteriously. The settling of glass in screens in various shapes is a popular fancy just now.

In a beautiful Fifth avenue drawing room is a gem of a screen, that was made by a lady of French nobility. It is a work of art, a creation of rare loveliness. It is of the fascinating, irregular French style, with scroll tops to the panels. There are five panels. The frames are of deal, enameled in white and touched up with gilt. The panels are of white satin, stretched smoothly on the frames and painted exquisitely in delicate watteau tints after Louis XVI. designs, with fine ladies in wonderful toilets, sedan chairs and pages, with roses and cupids and love knots galore. This description and the picture give but a vague idea of the screen's rare beauty, for it is one of the loveliest things I have ever seen—and yet it was a simple thing to make after all.

FASHION NOTES.

Dust cloaks are made of glace surah in red-brown or violet shades.

The newest linen shirts are embroidered all over in rsprays of white or color.

Among the numerous accessories of dress are the "Falstaff" and "Cromwell" collars of point de Venise lace.

Sashes of various widths of ribbon and those of soft silk and chiffon are an especial feature for summer gowns.

Very little jewelry is worn with outdoor dress, but the shirt waists and neckties afford an excuse for pretty scarfpins and sleeve buttons.

Black gloves are coming into fashion again, and the latest novelty, which if not all pretty, has wreaths of tiny flowers embroidered on the back.

When duck gowns are made by the dressmakers and trimmed with embroidered mull, they assume an air of elegance quite foreign to the tailor-made coat and skirt.

Mohair is gaining in favor, especially in light colors, and the new ones are soft and glossy as silk. A rival of the popular block-and-white check comes in a new woollen armure in diamond points of black and white.

Dressy parasols of white, blue and pink silk are trimmed with guipure insertion, and have onyx handles. Still more elegant ones of chiffon and lace have tortoise shell sticks, and another fancy is for black handles tipped with a gold ball.

A pretty idea for a grey crepon gown is a black cape of primrose moire cut sbuare across the back, elongated in front, and turned wown on the shoulders after the fashion of Marie Stuart, and trimmed on the edge with lace.

Should Women Propose?

Here is a little proposing incident which happened in South Carolina a few days ago, and which possesses the paramount advantage of agreeing with those who favor woman proposing and those who don't.

At a wedding reception held in the above-named locality, a young lawyer who was one of the party begged leave to offer a new scheme of matrimony which he believed would be beneficial.

He proposed "that one man in the company should be elected as president; that this president should be duly sworn to keep entirely secret all communications that should be forwarded to him in his official department that night, and that each unmarried genleman and lady should write his or her name on a piece of paper, and under it the name of the person they wished to marry, then hand it to the president for inspection, and if any gentleman and lady had reciprocally chosen each other, the president was to inform each of the result, and those who had not been reciprocal in their choice kept entirely secret."

This scheme was there and then adopted, and after the appointment of the president, communications were accordingly handed up to the chair, and it was found that twelve young ladies and gentlemen had made reciprocal choices; but whom they had chosen remained a secret to all but themselves and the president. Ten of the twelve matches were afterward solemnized.

FASHION NOTES.

Red, blue, green and brown are staple colors for umbrellas.

Dust cloaks are made of glace surah, in red, brown, or violet shades.

Checked materials in every color are a perfect rage just now for walking dresses.

Snowflake crepon has a very attractive sound for a midsummer fabric, as it is.

The newest linen shirts are embroidered all over in sprays of white or color.

It is rumored that quite large bonnets are to be worn, but they have not yet put in an appearance.

Sateen nightgowns are among the lingerie novelties. They are serviceable, sensible and almost everlasting.

Sashes of varying widths of ribbon, and those of soft silk and chiffon, are an especial feature of summer gowns.

It is hard to say which is used most this summer, lace or ribbon. Both add very much to the finish of thin dress materials.

Very little jewelry is worn with outdoor dress, but the shirt waists and neckties afford an excuse for pretty scarfpins and sleeve buttons.

There is a return to the old-fashioned bridal wreath of orange blossoms. Several fashionable brides across the water and in New York have lately worn them.

Cotton costumes can hardly be too handsome, for they are now worn to church, receptions and weddings, and are always appropriate if tastefully designed and carefully made.

It is said that low-necked garments are to be worn again this year. They are not cut to an evening lowness, of course, but are in the collarless style of five years ago, and of thirty years previous to that.

The fashions in children's clothes have changed but little in the past six months. It is a pity that they should ever change, for they are certainly extraordinarily pretty and becoming at present.

Ham Croquettes.

One cupful of finely-chopped cooked ham, one of bread-crumbs, two of hot mashed potatoes, one large tablespoonful of butter, three eggs, a speck of cayenne. Beat the ham, cayenne, butter and two of the eggs into the potato. Let the mixture cool slightly and shape it like croquettes. Roll in the bread crumbs, dip in beaten egg and again in crumbs, put in the frying basket and plunge into boiling fat. Cook two minutes. Drain and serve.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.
My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called for refreshing sleep during the night. And what marvelous beds! Here is a description of one of them: Bed-cord, mattress, softer mattress, two feather ticks, two linen sheets, heavy double blankets, spread, canopy. Oh, what luxury!

The sixth and last day of the trip leads to Nottingham. The afternoon of this last day was a delightful one and fittingly closed this very enjoyable excursion. When we arrived at Nottingham our souls were thrilled by the sight of the American flag, floating in the air above the hotel at which we were to tarry for the night. It was The George, and the manager could not have done anything which would have pleased his new arrivals better.

Such was the coaching trip of the Honeyman party. Of course our manager, Mr. Honeyman, managed all things with excellent success. Many beautiful scenes, and many delightful episodes, must be passed by unnoticed. If ever opportunity affords, we advise our readers to enjoy a similar trip. In no better way can both the rural and city life of England be seen at the same time.

A Long-Felt Want.

"Man wants but little here below", so old John Adams wrote, and as to worthless jewelry, with him all wise men vote, but man and womankind alike a long-felt want do own for novelties of purest gold 'mong Collier's treasures shown.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

PROGRESS OF SEWERS.

Contractors Given Two Weeks Longer to Prepare Their Bids.

At the special meeting of the Common Council Monday evening drawings of details of the lamphole and manhole covers and other small parts of the sewer plant will be formally adopted.

The receiving of bids will be postponed two weeks from August 21, to September 5. The action was requested by Corporation Counsel Marsh on his return from vacation. He finds no fault with the work which has been done, but as he will be the responsible party he advises the adoption of the contract at the time the call for bids is ordered avertised. No contract has yet been adopted, the Council proposing to pass upon it at their next meeting.

Under the new arrangement, the shape of the pamphlet to be shown to contractors will be altered by the placing of the form of proposal before the specifications and conditions. No change in the specifications is to be made, and there is no contract to correct.

FOR THE CRIPPLED BABIES.

Plainfield Young People Busy in a Noble Work.

The grounds about the home of U. B. Crane, 315 East Second street, were the centre of attraction yesterday afternoon and evening. They were nicely decorated with flowers, bunting, and Japanese lanterns, as his little daughter Clara Louise, age 11 years, gave a fair for the benefit of the Crippled Babies Fresh Air Fund, her little brother and sister assisting. About $20 was realized. Those in charge of tables were:

Lemonade booth—Clara L. Crane.

Fancy table—Nettie Chandler, and Lois Smith of Philadelphia.

Cake and candy—Virginia Costales and Grace A. Crane.

Fruit table—Bert Hetfield and Willie Whiting.

Peanuts and candy—Robert N. Crane.

Ice-cream was served in abundance. The waitresses were Mattie and Lulu Klein, age six and eight years.

Reason on This.

You will call a man a fool to try to run an engine with a crooked piston-rod. Yet you are attempting that when you live with your system in a disordered condition. Whatever you may be mentally, you are physically a machine. Nothing interests you more than keeping it in order. If your digestion is out of condition, or your kidneys are disordered, use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, a medicine prepared by a famous physician and tested for years by thousands of persons, who all endorse it.

Nipped in Its Incipiency.

A small fire started in a shed in the rear of Joseph Morrison's house, corner of Watchung avenue and Fourth street yesterday afternoon at 2.

The building stands 12 feet from the house. The flames originated in a barrel and spread to a box and the floor. Men at work in Rheaume's mill noticed the smoke and ran across the street and threw out the blazing rags. Charles Johnson extinguished the fire in the flooring.

Free Education.

The educational work of the Y. M. C. A. for the coming season is being carefully planned, and will open Oct. 1. For information, those interested are cordially invited to call at the Association rooms.

—Work on the Warren Ackerman mausoleum is progressing rapidly in the yard of Smith & Co. on Pearl street. The name has been carved on the stone which is to go above the entrance.

THE SUMMER GIRL.

Balmy June and new-mown hay,
Golden noon of summer's day;
Now at last in hand with thee,
Bondage past and fancy free.

At the fountain, on the lake,
In the mountain, o'er the brake;
Through the dell, across the lea,
By the swell that rocks the sea.

To the river, where the rips
Gleam and dance in silver drips;
To the farm house, seeking health—
Beauty's charm and nature's wealth.

Ubiquitous and everywhere,
Laughing, mocking, free from care;
Pouting lips and teeth of pearl—
Swarms the radiant Summer Girl!

—Evening Sun.

A GIRL'S MISTAKE.

Written for New York Press Association.

I am a lumber dealer; name, Edward Rogers; age, 28 years; residence, New York City. I am a practical man, and my energies have mainly been devoted to building up a trade. Society, and especially woman's society, has been somewhat wearisome to me, and small talk has given me smaller pleasure. Not that a pretty woman was ever seen with absolute indifference, when I realised that I saw her and that she was a pretty woman, but I had never been particularly impressed by any one as an individual. Pretty women affected me as a class. They pleased me by the thousand, as I sold panel pine and hemlock rafters.

That was my condition, fully and accurately described, on the fourth of June, in the year, eighteen hundred and ninety-four; and I think I was a little proud of it. "Look you now, what follows," as the Melancholy Dane remarked on a more tragic, and possibly more dramatic occasion.

The fourth aforesaid came on Monday, and that being a favorite day for my out-of-town trips, I took the afternoon train for Williamsport, where I had a lumber contract to look after. The trip was as dull as a British joke, so dull that I almost laughed at the sorry witticism of a man who said to his neighbor just as we were going into the town: "Poor Williamsport! it had a great boom for years, but it is gone now, yes, quite gone—and a hundred million feet of good pine and hemlock logs went with it." The man laughed heartily, so heartily, that I knew he did not live in the flood-swept town whose watery desolation furnished a basis for what he seemed to think was a very dry joke.

It was a little after eight o'clock when the train stopped at the station, and I stepped down and started along the platform in the direction of my hotel. There were, as is usual, a number of people waiting for friends, and I especially noted a daintily gowned girl who was standing with her face turned away from me, evidently watching the other exit of the car.

As I came opposite to her she half turned, and on seeing me, gave a little cry of recognition, which was followed by a dash at me, a swift encircling of my neck with her arms, and three or four of the most genuine kisses I had ever encountered. To say I was dumfounded with surprise but feebly hints at my condition. I was simply overwhelmed with delicious astonishment. And so was she—the active, however, omitted.

It is probable that her caress was not reciprocated with the expected fervor, for she suddenly stepped back, and after a quick look at me, turned away with a confused, "Oh; I thought it was Fred!" and fled to a carriage. What instructions she gave the driver I did not know, but he must have made as he dashed away from the station would not have discredited the best team that commands admiration in Central Park. She was evidently in a hurry, and if "Fred" was on that train he would go home alone and unkissed—a fact that, somehow, gave me deep but entirely illogical pleasure. I was not jealous of the unknown, that is, not exactly jealous, but what I felt could be suitably expressed by a milder word that means pretty much the same thing. It seemed to me that "Fred" was a highly favored individual, and with this idea came a dash of wonder as to whether he deserved his good fortune. This wonder was not definitely settled, but the tendency toward a negative decision was strong.

In the hotel that night my thoughts turned with perplexing frequency toward the platform episode. The big brown eyes, frank and brave even when their owner was confused, the fair face with fine white brow and delicate chin, the soft, brown hair, and, above all, the impulsive and unaffected tenderness of her caress made an impression that I could not get over—and didn't wish to.

* * * * * *

I stayed in Williamsport a week, and transacted four hours' business. For three days I had a new vocation (that word, if you please, is used advisedly and correctly). I was an explorer, a discoverer, and I discovered. By attending every meeting in behalf of the flood sufferers, and by driving around among the people who most needed help, my search, which was at once complimentary to her character and to my sagacity, was successful. She was found. She was unmarried; and Fred was only a brother. An introduction was secured through a friend who was one of the most frequent visitors at her home, and then,—well, then trouble began. Those three or four kisses—I hope it was four, but am not sure—were a big handicap. Esther, (perhaps Miss Grayson would be better at this time) greeted me with perfect frankness, no blush, to start, absolutely nothing to show that he recognized in me the fortunate recipient of Fred's kisses. But she did, and that made it hard for me.

There was only one way for me to go, and that one way was to show her that I was everlastingly and irrecoverably in love with her. If there was any failure in this showing it was not apparent to those who saw me make the effort.

In the work among the destitute poor, where Esther was tireless, I found a fine field for altruistic love-making, in the course of which I made a reputation for generosity and capacity that was utterly unearned. She wanted it done, and that was enough. I could carry clothing and help fix up houses twenty-five hours a day if she looked on approvingly, and she generally did, although none of my other efforts seemed to meet her approval except, perhaps, my good-by when I took the train for New York.

* * * * * *

Esther and I will be married before the year is out. She doesn't know it, for I haven't, in words, told her that I love her, and nothing would now induce her to own that she looks even with favor on me. But she does, and I don't believe she regrets those kisses of mistake any more than she forgets them.

Mrs. Mary A. Tupper has been released, at Wilton, Me., from the custody of extreme Female Weakness, which kept her a prisoner in bed unable to walk. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made the change. She advises all sick women to take this valuable medicine, and be thankful for their lives, as she is for hers. It costs only a dollar at any druggists, and the result is worth millions.

"WHAT A COUNTRY!"

How Comedian Hoey's British Friend Was Enlightened.

Comedian William F. Hoey recently encountered a distinctively ingenuous Britisher. The comedian formed his acquaintance during the Lucania's last incoming voyage, and the two breakfasted together.

"I guess I'll run out to see Harry after breakfast, said the guest.

"Harry," queried the comedian, softly.

"Yes, my brother," explained the Englishman. "I've two here. Harry lives in San Francisco and Charlie in Chicago."

"But, you'll be back for dinner?" facetiously quizzed Hoey.

The Britisher took him seriously. "Sure for dinner, if not for lunch," he answered. And, accompanied by the actor, now thoroughly alive to the humor of the incident, he found himself a few minutes later in the line of ticket buyers in the Grand Central Station.

"An excursion ticket to San Francisco, stopping at Chicago station on return," he ordered.

The ticket agent put about a quarter of a mile of pasteboard under his stamp, pounded it for a minute or more, thrust it before the explorer, and expectantly awaited payment.

"When does the train go?" asked the Englishman.

"In ten minutes," was the answer.

"How much is it?"

"One hundred and thirty-eight dollars and fifty cents."

"What!" the Englishman gasped. "How far is it?"

"Three thousand miles."

"Old Hoss" was right behind to catch the falling form, and, as he guided the half-fainting Englishman back to the cab, where he snuggled helplessly in a corner, the single exclamation escaped: "What a country!"

WHY THEY PARTED.

One of the Hundred Stories to Account For Lillian Russell's Latest.

"I can tell you the true story of how Russell and Perugini came to part company, said a singer in the Russell Opera Company the other day. "That old Wall street banker did arouse Perugini's jealousy, but he was not in any way concerned in their final row. It was one night in Philadelphia, toward the end of our engagement. Several members of the company were having supper with Mr. and Mrs. Russell in a restaurant. Lillian made some remark in which she compared Mme. Eames and one or two of the other grand opera singers quite favorably to herself. She praised them all and then remarked on her own high standing as an artist. Perugini burst out laughing in a patronizing sort of way. Perugini, you know, was once a grand opera singer himself.

"What are you laughing at, Jack," cried Lillian, sharply.

"My dear girl," said Perugini, "you are a very pretty woman. Your face is really beautiful, but as a singer—well, we grand opera artists would put you in the same class with Chauncey Olcott."

That settled it. Lillian rose from the table in a fury and immediately announced that she was going to bring an action for divorce.

EUGENE V. DEBS.

President of the American Railway Union And a Well-known Man.

Before the Pullman strike, the name of Eugene V. Debs was known to very few people in this country. Now his name is almost as familiar as that of President Cleveland himself. Mr. Debs is the president of the American Railway Union, a labor organization whose membership is principally in the West. When it became apparent that the Pullman employes would lose their strike unless they had some assistance, President Debs ordered a strike on all of the great railroads that center at Chicago. The result of this order was one of the most serious situations that has ever confronted railroad managers. For a time traffic was suspended and the great carrying trade of the country was almost paralyzed. During this situation it was asserted in some of the newspapers that Mr. Debs had more power than the Czar of Russia, and the assertion had much to justify it, for by a simple order he had thrown thousands of men out of employment, and practically blocked the wheels of a score of railroads.

At this juncture, the United States court interfered by injunction, and a few days later President Cleveland sent federal troops to Chicago to protect the mail trains. Not long afterwards President Debs and three of his associates were arrested for violation of law in connection with the strike, and were imprisoned in the Chicago jail because they declined to give the bail which they might have furnished had they not preferred imprisonment.

President Debs is undoubtedly a man of many taking qualities, and while the general opinion has been strongly against him on the question of the strike, he has received the personal indorsement of James Whitcomb Riley, the famous Hoosier poet, and has been strongly recommended by others. His portrait indicates that he is a fine looking man who possesses strong characteristics.

"Great Scott! What are they applauding that fellow for? He's got a voice like a saw mill and he sings out of the side of his mouth." "Sh! They're trying to keep him on the platform till the boy they've sent after the cabbages and tin horns comes back."—Chicago Tribune.

BULLET PROOF COAT.

A GERMAN INVENTION WHICH SHATTERS A RIFLE BALL.

Tailor Dowe Stands Up to be Shot at, Without Fear of Results. English Officers Puzzled. The Armor is to be Exhibited in America.

The first experiment with the bullet-proof cuirass invented by the German tailor, Dowe, of Mannheim, took place at Berlin, in the presence of many high officers of the German army and navy and diplomatic representatives of the great European powers. The experiments were made by firing at a cuirass placed on the body of a horse, which remained calmly eating as before, not noticing the concussion at all. Then infantry soldiers fired at the cuirass with the regular army model rifle, the cuirass being placed on a plaster of paris bust. In neither case did the balls pass through the armor, but they were found afterward in the material, altered in shape as if cut by a thousand knives. At the conclusion the inventor himself placed the armor upon his own person and stood the ordeal of being fired at at only a few yards' distance. He assured the spectators that he had only felt the slightest concussion. The material from which the armor is made is as yet a secret. It is very stiff, however, and cannot be made into uniforms. The weight is sixteen pounds, its thickness two centimetres, but the inventor hopes to reduce its weight fully a half. Experiments made in London were equally successful. A practical test was given in the presence of the Duke of Cambridge and several hundred officers belonging to the army and navy. Lee Mitford German army rifles were employed, the loading being cordite regulation cartridges. A committee of of officers first fired at a target made of elm logs thirty inches thick and pierced it through and through. Shots were then fired at the cuirass without producing upon it any effect beyond a slight trace left by the impact of the bullet.

DOWE AND THE BRITISH OFFICERS.

LURED BY BABIES.

How British Sportsmen, According to One of Them, Hunt Crocodiles in India.

"We used to have great sport in India going out after crocodiles with Hindu babies for bait," said an ex-officer of the British army. "The baby wasn't baited on a hook like a minnow or a fish worm, but simply secured on the river bank so that it couldn't creep or tumble into the river. Some babies don't like their being made crocodile bait of, but that fact increased their value to the sportsman, for then they yelled and made a great noise, which was just what the crocodiles were waiting to hear, and they'd come hurrying from all directions to have a chance at the babies.

"Where did we get these babies for bait? From their mothers. All the fellow who wanted to go crocodiling had to do was to noise abroad his intention, and it wasn't long before native women would flock in with their babies to be rented out for bait. The ruling price per head for the young heathen was about six cents for the day. Some mothers required a guarantee that their offspring should be returned safe and sound, but the most of them exacted no such agreement. The babies were brought back all right as a rule, but once in a while some sportsman was a trifle slow with his rifle, or made a bad shot, and the crocodile got away with the bait, but that didn't happen often.

The Boy and the Boss.

The boy came briskly into the office, doffed his hat, and bowed to the boss.

"I understand you want a boy, sir," he said.

"Yes, we have a vacancy."

"Can I fill it?"

"Can you? What sort of a place do you want?"

"Where there's as little work and as much pay as the house can stand."

"Um, most boys when they come are willing to take all work and no pay."

"I'm not most boys."

"Oh, you're not? You are pretty fresh, aren't you?"

"Yes, sir; but I know it, and I'm getting cured."

"Do you expect to get the kind of a job you want?"

"No, sir; nobody gets what he wants, exactly, but it doesn't hurt him to expect a good deal."

"What pay do you think you should have?"

"Three dollars per week."

"The other boys we have had only got two."

"How many have you had in the last year?"

"Eight or ten."

"I thought so. That's the kind of a boy a two dollar boy is."

"And are you not that kind?"

"No, sir; if I come, I hang up my hat and stay."

"Suppose you don't like it?"

"I'll stay just the same."

"Suppose we bounce you?"

"I'll be glad of it, sir."

"Glad of it?"

"Yes, sir; if the house isn't satisfied with the right kind of a boy, it isn't the right kind of a house for the right kind of a boy to be in."

The employer took a second look at the boy.

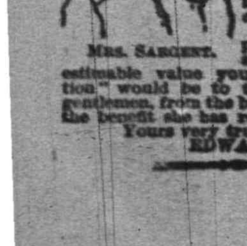
"Um," he said, "will you say that again?"

"No, sir; it's time I was going to work if I'm going to work, and if I'm not, it's time I left. Do I go in or out?" and the boss with much doubt in his mind said "In," and the boy went in with a will.

CALLED BACK

to health, every tired, ailing, nervous woman. The medicine to bring her back is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If she's weak, run-down, and overworked, that builds her up; if she suffers from any of the distressing derangements and diseases that afflict her sex, it corrects and cures.

Department of Photographs, U. S. Artillery School, Fortress Monroe, Va.



MRS. SARGENT.

DR. PIERCE: Dear Sir—My wife cannot speak too highly of your "Favorite Prescription," it having completely cured her of a serious womb trouble of long standing. She took five bottles altogether, and she has borne a large, healthy child since. There has been no return of the complaint.

She only wishes every poor, suffering woman should know of the inestimable value your "Favorite Prescription" would be to them, and thanks you, gentlemen, from the bottom of her heart, for the benefit she has received.

Yours very truly,
EDWARD F. F. SARGENT.

WOMEN WITH WONDERFUL HAIR.

They Live in San Francisco and Attribute the Great Growth to the Climate.

The supposition that the climate of California is conducive to the growth of hair becomes a self-evident truth in the hands of an enthusiastic writer for a San Francisco paper, who declares that ten per cent. of the San Francisco women are blessed with a tremendous abundance of hair, resembling that of the seven Sutherland sisters in quantity. There is nothing that bountiful nature can bestow on a woman which can give her more complete satisfaction than a beautiful head of hair, and California women seem to be highly favored in this direction. The old saying that where flowers grew in great abundance and perfection the women have beautiful hair seems to apply to California. Yet it is frankly stated it is the younger generation which has the most abundant supply. So, with all the virtues of the wonderful climate of our Pacific coast, it does not give eternal youth to its women or preserve their beauty beyond the allotted time.

The finest head of hair in San Francisco is said to be the possession of Mrs. Switzer. It is dark, glossy, and fine, and reaches almost to the bottom of her dress, while a few years ago it trailed a yard on the floor. She wears it high on her head, and no one suspects her of such an overabundance until she lets it fall around her. She is obliged to have it thinned very often, and there is enough cut away to make a plentiful amount for another woman, but she never misses it.

A young lady student in Palo Alto has most remarkable hair. Light in color, fine in texture, and naturally curly, like the hair of poetical fancy, it falls in great undulating waves below the waist like a veritable mantle of golden silk.

One woman of German extraction has quantities of yellow-brown hair which reaches below her knees, and yet she can coil it high on her head and fasten it with one pin.

Three other women are on record as having long dark hair, which is a marvel of beauty and length, and they attribute its growth to climatic effects rather than any special care, as soap and water are the only tonics they use. The color of the hair seems to make no difference in the quantity, the dark hair being quite as abundant as the fluffy blond locks. Like all other women who have plenty of hair, they do not value it very highly, and the one great problem yet unsolved is how to dispose of it in accordance with the rules of fashionable and artistic hairdressing.

San Francisco boasts of seven maidens, called the "Beritoni sisters," whose hair is the envy of all the ladies on the block.

The Female British "Drummer."

The "lady commercial" is fast becoming an institution in England as elsewhere. She is, generally speaking, quite as smart and resourceful as her male competitor, and her sex gives her an additional advantage. Apart altogether from the difficulty of saying "No" to a woman especially if young and handsome, the more drastic methods of getting rid of unwelcome importunities are obviously out of the question when the "traveler" is of the gentler sex. And then, of course, the lady is bound to have the last word.

An enterprising member of the fraternity or should I rather say sisterhood?—called upon a local firm the other morning. She was assured that the stock in her special line was full up. "But I should like to show you my samples. I'm sure you'd like them." "Not to-day, thank you. Besides, we have no account with your firm." "I know you havn't, but you'll allow me to open one, won't you? Only a small line for a beginning?" "No, we positively don't require anything in that way just now." "Really! Well, good morning. I'll call again in the afternoon. Gentlemen are more open to reason when they have dined."—Birmingham Mail.

Her Point of View.

A pretty story drifts out of one of the King's Daughters' Circles of New York A young girl member had two friends, both fine youths, just entering manhood. It was a grief to her to discover that one of them, A, was fast yielding to a natural appetite for stimulants. Later she found, too, that, all unconsciously, his friend, B, was helping him on the downward road, for at the B home, where A was made welcome continually, wine was always served, and moderately drank. Finally the young King's Daughter decided that she would state the case as she saw it to B, and urge him to assist by his example in keeping his friend from temptation.

B was surprised and rather piqued. "Why," he asked, not without a little scorn, "do you want me never to sip a glass of claret because A drinks too much?" And she confessed that was just what she did want. The appeal brought no apparent result, however, and the wearer of the silver cross almost regretted that she had made it.

Time wore on, and in due season Easter dawned. A packet reached the house on that morning addressed to her. When opened, she found a double leather frame, heart shaped, such as photographs are put in; there were no pictures in this, but in the two niches were two pledges, one signed by A and the other B, and then the happy girl knew that her words had borne fruit, and B had sacrificed himself to save his weaker friend.

Remedy for Wrinkles Suggested.

When a lady finds on consulting the mirror that she is worn, wrinkled, and haggard looking, let her first take hot water and pure soap and thoroughly wash her face and neck, then rub the skin hard with a Turkish towel until it is all aglow, then rub cold cream carefully into all the pores, holding the skin smooth and rubbing out the wrinkles. After this thorough rubbing, take a heavy Turkish towel, dip it in the water as hot as can possibly be bourne to wring the towel out. Unfold quickly and hold close to the face, touching, if not too hot. Repeat this eight or nine times, until the face and neck are thoroughly steamed. Then lie down and go to sleep for the night, and I guarantee that one night's work like this will make a vast improvement, and five nights of the same treatment will make one look ten years younger.—Detroit Free Press.

A Burning Mountain.

At Winger, in New South Wales, there is a burning mountain. It is 1,820 feet in height and is supposed to be a large coal seam which has in some unaccountable way become ignited and has been burning for many years, certainly long before the advent of the white man in this portion of the colony. The course of the fire can be traced a considerable distance by the numerous depressions or chasms occasioned by the falling in of the ground from beneath which the coal has been consumed. Smoke is continually issuing from the sides of the mountain, and in the vicinity of these openings the surface is hot and has a dry, parched appearance, while sticks thrust into these openings are rapidly ignited.

ARCHERY.

It was at an archery meeting:
And a bold young archer said,
As he gave a fair girl greeting,
"Will you have a bow, dear maid?"
She turned her head and then she
And with a murmured "Yes" re
With pleasure his eyes were smil
As again he spoke to her,
"Yes, archery is beguiling.
Now, what bow do you prefer?"
One word again she found would do,
And bashfully she murmured, "You!"

FASHIONS AND OTHER AFFAIRS TO INTEREST FAIR READERS.

A Misses' Basque Illustrated, and Other Topics Treated that are of Importance in the Feminine World. The Bicycle Costume Considered.

The misses' basque shown in the accompanying cut, taken from the Delineator, is for misses from ten to sixteen years of age, and may accompany any style of skirt in vogue, and may be made of cloth, camel's hair, cheviot, taffeta, plain or figured silk challis, crepon, nainsook, chambray or percale, with lace, insertion, fancy edging, braid, embroidered bands, galloon, gimp or ribbon for garniture, which may be arranged in any preferred way. When the neck is shaped in low outline for evening wear, it may be adorned with a Bertha of lace or chiffon, or ruching of chiffon with the shirring threads concealed by narrow ribbon or ribbon threaded beading. It is here shown made of reseda vicuna, with trimmings of white lace, and is closed invisibly along the left shoulder and under-arm seam. The close adjustment is performed by single bust darts, under-arm and side-back gores and a well curved center seams, and the garment is provided with lining fronts fitted by single bust darts and closed at the center. The mutton-leg sleeves are shaped by inside seams and are mounted on smooth linings; they are smooth-fitting below the elbow and fall in pretty, broken folds above, the fullness being collected at the top in closely drawn gathers. Each wrist is daintily trimmed with an upturning row of lace, and at the neck is a standing collar of moderate height covered with lace. Three overlapping rows of lace are disposed on the basque to simulate a square yoke.

A DIFFICULT POINT TO ANSWER.

Authorities Disagree as to the Woman Bicyclist's Costume.

The Vanderbilts, Twomblys, Riveses, Cuttings, and other distinguished society women at Newport who have taken up the bicycling craze may be interested in the information that such leaders of fashion and of bicycling as Mrs. Langtry, the Princess de Sagan, and Pauline Hall believe in the long skirt and gaiters for a bicycling costume, and will have nothing to do with bloomers. Pauline Hall, who took up bicycling some years ago before it became a fashionable pastime, and who is an enthusiastic bicyclist at present, says there is no reason why a woman should dress like a guy, either on or off a wheel, and that any woman who wears bloomers and a short skirt looks like a guy. Mrs. Langtry's opposition to the French style of bicycle suit, which consists of slippers, tight leggins, and snug knee breeches, is also pronounced. She has declared the costume immodest, which has caused a broad smile to pass over Great Britain. All of these women wear a skirt which reaches to their ankles, and beneath that they wear long gaiters. In other respects their gowns are modish and in the general line of fashion.

One reason why the Princess de Sagan's adoption of skirts has been commented upon is that she has for many years enjoyed considerable vogue in Paris as being the most masculine woman in attire in that city. She has often gone to the extent of driving in the park holding a single glass in her right eye, after the fashion of genuine male swells and when she took up bicycling enthusiastically the middle-aged club men of Paris, who take an interest in bicycling costumes, went out in the park early and waited for the Princess to come along. But she has disappointed them all, and the bloomers have had a setback.

In this country the bloomers are endorsed by the Tailors' Association, and they include women dressed in bloomers on their fashion plates, standing and looking pleasantly at the statuesque gentleman who come out every season in these plates with voluminous check trousers and cutaway coats. The big dry goods shops on Sixth avenue and Broadway now advertise the bloomers for sale, but according to reports there is not much demand for them.

A Pretty Finish for Girls' Dresses.

A pretty finish for little girls' dresses is the narrow serpentine braid of rick-rack memory. It is cheaper than needlework, and wears much better. It may used to edge narrow flounces and sleeve pieces. A model seen in one of the best shops had the skirt gauged on the waist by a narrow beading. Before this was done it was edged with the braid, and the full white-tipped ruffle was very pretty.

DUDLEY BUCK.

America's Most Successful Teacher, Organist and Composer.

The Apollo Club, of Brooklyn, is conducted by Dudley Buck, the well-known organist, leader and composer, whose church music has made him famous in this country, and whose secular music, especially his cantatas, has given him not only an American but a European reputation. The club is now in its fifteenth season and can boast a longer life than any other choral association. It is an evidence of its remarkable success that during this period no director or member ever has been called upon for an assessment to cover a deficiency. Mr. Buck has been its conductor from the beginning, and it need hardly be said that it has risen to a high position among similar clubs in this country, both by its excellent singing and by the high character of its programmes. Mr. Buck has not been content with limiting the club to pretty and easy part songs, which are always tempting by their jingle and catching quality, but has given special consideration to male voice English compositions of large proportions as well as to some of his choice works, which are now to be found in the repertory of every male voice club in the country making any pretensions to more than ordinary programmes and performances. Mr. Buck, indeed, has made a deep and strong impression upon the musical art of this country, not only by his enrichment of its church music, which he was largely instrumental in rescuing from its "penny-royal" conditions, but by his own dramatic compositions.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

TRIED TO KILL THEM ALL

Almost a Human Butchery In a New Jersey Town.

Mother and Babes Cut—Then the Delirious Father Throws Himself from a Window and Is Killed—All Wounded, but Will Recover—He Dies Instantly.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 20.—Thomas Hewitt, an iron moulder employed in the Watts-Campbell company foundry, in this city, made an attempt at an early hour yesterday morning to kill his entire family, consisting of four children and a wife.

Failing in this, although he wounded all of them, he sprang from a window and ended his own life.

Hewitt was an Englishman about thirty-eight years of age. He lived on Davis avenue in one of the less thickly settled portions of Kearney. He was a good workman and earned good wages at the foundry. His home was a neat two-and-a-half story cottage. It was one of the neatest on the street and the family lived in comfortable circumstances.

For some weeks Hewitt has been suffering from typhoid malaria. Yesterday afternoon he was much worse than at any time during his sickness. In the evening at frequent intervals his mind wandered, but it was not a violent wandering, so little attention was paid to this as it was expected in the course of the trouble.

About 2 o'clock yesterday morning Hewitt was supposed to be asleep in a room on the second floor at the rear of the house. His wife and four children were sleeping in a room fronting on the street and connecting with the one in which he slept.

Mrs. Hewitt had been up much of the time for several nights past attending her husband and her youngest child, a baby of eleven months, which was troubled with a trifling complaint.

About 2:50 o'clock Hewitt must have arisen from his bed and divested himself of all his clothing. In his nude state he went down stairs and procured a sharp bread knife from the kitchen.

With this he cut a gash across his throat from under the left ear, across and downward toward his right breast. The cut was several inches in length, but not very deep, and was not dangerous.

With the blood streaming from the cut Hewitt entered the room where his wife and children were. Mrs. Hewitt had been awakened by a noise, which she thinks was a cry of pain uttered when her husband drew the knife across his throat. She was just out of bed when he entered the room.

She screamed at the sight he presented and sprang toward him. Hewitt raised the knife and exclaimed: "Julia, our time has come."

With these words he pushed his wife aside and sprang on to the bed. He made a vicious lunge at the eldest child, a boy of seven years, with the knife. He appears to have been so excited he could not see, for the knife buried itself in the bedding between the child and another, two years younger.

He drew it out and struck again and again at the children, but they had been awakened by a scream from the mother, and he inflicted no serious injury, although all of the four were more or less cut by the point or edge of the knife.

Mrs. Hewitt threw herself between her insane husband and the children. In endeavoring to catch his arm she received a bad stab wound in the arm. The point of the knife entered the flesh near the elbow on the inside and penetrated to the bone. The downward stroke of the knife continued and tore the arm from the elbow to the wrist. Mrs. Hewitt fell back on the bed, from which all the children, with the exception of the baby, had fled.

Hewitt appeared to think that his murderous purpose was accomplished, for, throwing the knife on the floor, he sprang to a window. The sash was down and inside was a wire netting. He did not wait to remove the netting or to raise the window, but sprang through, carrying screen and sash with him. He landed on his head and fractured his skull.

The neighbors were aroused by the screams of Mrs. Hewitt and rushed into the house. A doctor was summoned and the police called.

The doctor stopped the flow of blood from Mrs. Hewitt's arm and dressed the wounds of the children. For Hewitt he could do nothing. He had been carried into the house and died within an hour without regaining consciousness. Mrs. Hewitt will recover, although very weak from loss of blood.

Sunday at Chautauqua.

Chautauqua, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The baccalaureate sermon to the C. L. S. C. class of '94 was delivered yesterday by Bishop John H. Vincent, whose subject was the "Breadth of Christianity." It was a vigorous and brilliant sermon. Bishop Vincent also delivered an address in the evening on "The Means Required to Counteract the Tendency to Doubt Among Young People." A second song service was held in the evening and at 8 o'clock Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut, of New York, gave illustrated Bible readings on "The Footprints of the King."

Died at the Age of 117.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Eunice Conrad, the oldest woman west of the Alleghenies, died Saturday at her home in Gilmer county, at the age of 117 years. Mrs. Conrad's memory was wonderfully retentive almost up to the day of her death. Born in 1777 in Virginia, she passed through many interesting and important epochs in the history of the country. She with her parents settled in Gilmer county in 1787.

Frank Manning May Die.

Troy, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Frank Manning lies at the jail here between life and death as the result of a clubbing received at the hands of Police Officer Mooney. The clubbing took place in front of the police court. Manning, who had been committed to jail for intoxication, attempted to break away. Officer Mooney knocked him down and clubbed him after he fell. Mooney was not suspended.

A BIG FIGHT AT HAND

Japanese To Attack the Chinese Stronghold.

Despite Torpedoes and Submarine Mines the Japanese Have Entered the Harbor of Wea-Hei-Wei and Reconnoitered the Forts—Enemy Asleep, but Waking Up.

London, Aug. 20.—The Shanghai correspondent of the central news gave in yesterdays dispatches a gloomy view of affairs at Wei-Hai-Wei, the fortified city on the Shantung promontory. There is little doubt that the Japanese intend to attack this Chinese stronghold shortly, despite the tradition of the Chinese that the place is impregnable. The lights along the promontory have been extinguished and the buoys have been removed and the Chinese are constantly adding to the defences by laying torpedoes and submarine mines. Nevertheless on three successive nights in the past week Japanese torpedo boats have entered the harbor and reconnoitered the forts. The crews of the Chinese torpedo boats, which lie in the harbor, had no inkling of the nearness of the enemy until the Japanese vessels were leaving. The Wei-Hai-Wei fort then opened fire, but it was too late to accomplish anything.

The success of these three Japanese expeditions has greatly shaken the confidence of the army in the impregnability of Wei-Hai-Wei. The supposition is that the Japanese are preparing for a combined land and sea attack on the stronghold. The garrison is being increased to meet the attack and heavy guns are being added to the artillery in the interior line of defences.

The foreigners who were employed in the Wei-Hai-Wei arsenal are leaving the place. Nearly all the Englishmen and Scotchmen have gone, and within a few days only natives are likely to be left in the shops. The feeling against foreigners is running high among the military of the city.

The soldiers have fired several times upon foreigners who were leaving the shops, and have been checked only with difficulty by their officers. All the foreigners are reproached and insulted as they depart. None of them has been wounded as yet, but their escape has been due almost solely to the strenuous efforts of the officers, who have been charged with the responsibility for their safety.

The main Japanese squadron has been sighted again in the gulf of Pe-Chi-Li.

The natives of the seaports have been forbidden to use Japanese coins.

EMMA GOLDMAN AGAIN.

Ten Months on the Island Fail To Curb Her Tongue.

New York, Aug. 20.—Emma Goldman, fresh from her ten months' incarceration on Blackwell's island, addressed an immense concourse of her friends and admirers, most of whom were anarchists, at the Thalia theatre last evening, 2,800 persons being present.

Her remarks were lively, but not fiery, and there was no need of police interference, although ample arrangements had been made to suppress disorder or put a curb on anything like incendiary talk.

The meting was called to order by Marie Louise, a French anarchist, who presided. The first speaker was Charles W. Mobray, the English anarchist. He denounced the "capitalistic press." He was followed by Marie Rada, an Italian, who, in turn, was succeeded by Sarah Edelstadt, who spoke in German.

Then the chair introduced Emma Goldman. Miss Goldman said she was prosecuted for talking. It was for the principles and thoughts of anarchy for which brave men like Santo, Ravachol and Henry—men far braver, nobler and more intelligent than Judge Martine—had died, that she was convicted. Miss Goldman said that in spite of such men as Martine and McIntyre they would work ahead, and, after her, there would be others who would give their last drop of blood for the cause, shouting "Vive l'Anarchie!"

Messrs. Justus Schwab, Palm, Estere and Prehner also made addresses.

Corner Stone Laid.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The new corner stones of two new and handsome churches—Catholic and Baptist—were laid here yesetrday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Services at St. Jacob's Roman Catholic church were conducted by Father Sulinger, of the Church of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin, Forty-ninth street, New York city. Mgr. Farley was expected, but failed to appear. The services at Grace Baptist church were conducted by the Rev. William Montagen, of New York city, assisted by many clergymen from this and many other cities.

Methodist Camp-Meeting Closed.

Sing Sing, N. Y., Aug. 20.—A large crowd of people attended the closing day of the Methodist camp meeting on Sing Sing heights yesterday. Fully 5,000 people attended, coming from all parts of Westchester county and New York. The services commenced with a "love feast" at 8:30 a. m. Most of the campers left for their homes today.

Chicago Pilgrims To Pay Homage.

Detroit, Aug. 20.—Between 300 and 400 pilgrims will leave this city at 9 o'clock this evening on the steamer Lorra, under the guidance of Rev. F. J. Van Antwerp, of the Holy Rosary church, of this city, to pay homage at the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, near the city of Quebec. The party will reach that city Saturday and be transferred to Beaupre in a ferry. They will remain about a week.

Suicide of Captain Nicholson.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Captain E. W. Nicholson, superintendent of the United States treasury stables, committed suicide here yesterday by shooting himself in the breast. The wound did not cause immediate death and he was taken to the Emergency hospital, where he died a few hours later. Deceased was an old soldier and was about 55 years of age.

MANUFACTURERS ARRESTED.

A Jersey Firm Charged With Armor Plate Frauds.

New York, Aug. 20.—Deputy United States Marshal Daly went to the large works of the Benjamin Atha & Illingworth company, manufacturers of steel, in Harrison, N. J., Saturday, with a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Romaine, and effected service upon two members of the corporation in a criminal suit, which has been begun against it by the United States government.

It is said to be another case of plugged castings furnished to the ordnance department at the navy yard at Washington.

The warrant commanded Deputy Daly to apprehend all the principal officers of the corporation.

It charged them with having "unlawfully and fraudulently conspired to defraud the United States by furnishing and delivering to the said United States, under and by virtue of a contract, steel castings which were not sound and free from defects and imperfections, such as blow-holes, etc."

In the Harrison establishment the officer found only Mr. John Illingworth. The service of the paper was the first knowledge the latter had of the fact that the corporation had come in conflict with the United States in a manner similar to that in which the Carnegie company and the Chester Iron company have recently been involved. It was decided that he and Secretary Denman should accompany the officer to Jersey City, where, in accordance with instructions received from the secretary of the navy several days ago, they were arraigned before Commissioner Romaine.

District Attorney Henry S. White, who has charge of the case for the government, was unable to be present, but in accordance with an understanding previously had, bail was fixed in the nominal sum of $1,000, and Messrs. Illingworth and Denman were accepted as their own bondsmen.

Commissioner Romaine fixed September 8 as the date for the examination.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED.

Four Experts Captured by the Chicago Police.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—City detectives yesterday arrested four expert counterfeiters, who have been flooding the neighborhood of Western avenue for several weeks with spurious silver coin dollars, halves and quarters. The men caught are Thaddeus Strankewiez, Joseph Rosthenvitch, Casper Steaker and John Klogski. Their victims were store and saloonkeepers.

One of the detectives discovered Rosinenvitch paying for drinks with some of the "queer" dollars, and with the aid of other officers ran down the rest of the gang.

Strankewiez had a little jewelry store as a blind for his part of the business—plating bad money to make it passable. The police, armed with search warrants, made a concerted raid on the homes of the gang and found plenty of the coin in them. The outfit for making the stuff was also found secreted on their premises.

REV. HOFFZUGOTT DEAD.

The Oldest Member of the Passionist Order in America.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—Rev. James Hoffzugott, the oldest member of the Passionist order in America, died yesterday at St. Joseph's monastery near this city. He was eighty-one years old and celebrated the golden jubilee of his priesthood in May, 1889.

He entered the passionists order fifty-nine years ago, and was ordained a priest three years later After ten years as a missionary to Bulgaria he was called back to Rome and made pastor of a church in the Eternal city for five years. In 1857 he came to America. He was pastor of churches in Pittsburg, Pa., and in Dunkirk, N. Y., for thirty years.

THE MINERS' HARD LOT.

A Repetition of Last Winter's Sad Experiences Predicted.

Pittsburg, Aug. 20.—Troublesome times are in prospect for the coal miners in the Pittsburg district and the fall and winter season may witness a repetition of the experiences of last winter. Several mining companies show a disposition to repudiate the Columbus, O., agreement. To meet the threatening emergencies the miners' national organization has opened permanent headquarters in Pittsburg and national officials will be in constant attendance.

The construction of extensive barracks for the accommodation of new men at the Turtle Creek mines of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company tend to confirm reports of an aggressive move by that company.

A number of mines in the vicinity of California, on the Monongahela river, are idle on account of the haulers and laborers refusing a reduction in wages.

Work in other parts of the district is greatly restricted by reason of a car famine. Discrimination is openly charged against the railroads in the allotment of cars.

You hear a great deal about oatmeals as good as H-O. Do you ever hear that H-O is as good as some others?

MENNONITE BRETHREN MEET.

Feet Washing a Feature of Yesterday's Services.

Spring City, Pa., Aug. 20.—The quaint ceremony of feet-washing was the great feature at the Mennonite brethrens' camp-meeting in Egolf's woods yesterday. More than one hundred men and women washed each others' feet, and this was supplemented by the laying on of hands for the healing of the sick. Five thousand people assembled about the tabernacle, where the religious meetings are held.

On both sides of the altar had been placed two large tubs of water. One was for the women and the other for the men. Hymns were sung, and then, when all was hushed, two men and two women in the audience arose and walked to the altar. Each donned a long apron. Then they sat down on the altar rail and took off their shoes and stockings. One woman remained seated upon the rail and placed her right foot in the tub of water. The other woman knelt and carefully washed it and then dried it with a towel. Then the left foot was treated in a similar manner. Meanwhile the congregation remained in the most profound silence.

When the first woman's feet had been washed, she knelt and her companion sat upon the altar rail and had her feet treated in a like manner. When they had finished, without saying a word, they put on their shoes and stockings, laid aside their aprons, kissed each other and returned to their seats in the congregation.

While this was in progress the two men had gone through a ceremony exactly similar to it. They also ended by embracing and kissing each other.

In this way pairs of men and women patronized the tubs of water until over one hundred persons had had their feet washed. All enmity among members is supposed to be washed away by this performance.

COXEYITES RELEASED.

One Hundred Wealers Started West by Governor Brown.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—One hundred members of the army of the common weal were released from the house of correction yesterday morning and were started for Cincinnati over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Gov. Brown had a conference with the imprisoned Coxeyites a few days ago and agreed to pardon them provided the habeas corpus proceedings which had been instituted at Upper Marlboro be withdrawn. This provision was readily acceded to by the men, who also agreed to leave the state if given their liberty. Late Saturday night the governor went to the house of correction and selected 100 of those of the men who had given western addresses. They were placed in two coaches which were brought to Baltimore and attached to the Cincinnati express, leaving here this morning. The men are in charge of a squad of Baltimore and Ohio detectives, who will see to it that they arrive at their destination safely.

Since Camp Liberty, at Hyattsville, was raided and the eighty-eight members of the army taken to the house of correction, many additional arrests have been made, and the institution was becoming overcrowded. There are nearly 200 men remaining at the farm who claim allegience to Coxey's cause and they will be sent out of the state as fast as Gov. Brown can make the necessary arrangements.

To Join in the Fight.

New York, Aug. 20.—Last night a number of Japanese officers left the Grand Central depot, at 7 o'clock, bound for Vancouver. Under orders from the mikado, they are homeward bound for Europe to resume their places in the army and navy.

At 9:15 p. m. four car-loads of Chinamen left the same depot, bound for Shanghai.

At Vancouver Japs and Chinamen will embark on the same steamship, the Empress of Japan, Aug 27. They are homeward bound to take part in the fight between China and Japan.

An Ex-Minister's Disgrace.

New York, Aug. 20.—An expelled Methodist minister, William E. Beyer, was arrested Saturday in this city on the charge of renting flats for immoral purposes. He is a partner in ownership of the New York property with the Walker bank embezzler, J. W. Love, it is said.

Hotel Proprietor Dead.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 20.—Gabriel Weingarten, aged forty years, of 125 East Ninety-third street, New York city, who was proprietor of the hotel Savoy at this place, died suddenly at the hotel yesterday. He leaves a wife and three children.

INDIANA POPULISTS.

A Free-for-All Fracas Marks the Close of Their Convention.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 20.—In a free-for-all fracas, which marked the close of the populist convention here Saturday, Delegate Walker was struck over the head with a heavy oaken chair, felling him to the floor, while others were pushed about and roughly handled. The Rev. S. A. Hawthorne, the populist candidate for congress from the Tenth district, occupied a place on the stage and witnessed the proceedings. The convention was the most turbulent and boisterous in the history of Lake county.

A full county ticket was nominated, but on account of technicalities it was decided that the proceedings were out of order and the ticket therefore irregularly named. A new convention has been called for next Wednesday.

Farmon Won the Championship.

Paris, Aug. 20.—In the one-kilometre bicycle race at the Velodrome de Seine yesterday, Farmon won the championship of France.

GOSSIP FROM BERLIN

Matters of Interest at the German Capital.

Manufacturers Somewhat Elated Over the Passage of the American Tariff Bill—Comments of the Press on the New Measure—Miss Carroll a Lavish Entertainer.

Berlin, Aug. 20.—Manufacturers and exporters interested in the American trade are somewhat elated over the passage of the tariff bill. In the textile industry the relief from the last months of suspension is especially apparent. Exporters expect an increase of business with the United States in everything except raw sugar.

The news that the tariff question had been virtually settled in Washington filliped American stocks on the bourse; also the mining and banking shares. The optimistic views of those nearest the German export trade have not been shared by the press which affects to have a rather small opinion of the new measure. The Koelnische Zeitung regards the acceptance of the Gorman bill as a merely provisional act. The new tariff, it says, is merely a resting place, beyond which lies the plan of more radical revision.

The Kreuz Zeitung says: "The new tariff breaks definitely with the McKinley system and that is something, but it benefits Germany only as far as the woollen trade is concerned."

The Vossische Zeitung, a rabid free trader, thinks little of the Gorman bill and expects from it only a very slight benefit for German manufacturers.

The Tageblatt says: "The revision of the McKinley act has come too late to help materially that branch of our industry which is connected most closely with the American trade. The manufacturers who depended largely on American custom have had time to get on their own legs. There is not likely to be any revival due to the new tariff, excepting, perhaps, the woollen trade."

The emperor's orders against the continuation of the Caprivi-Miquel newspaper conflict have suppressed much of the agitation over the proposed measure against anarchists and socialists. Only the radical, clerical and social democratic organs continue to inveigh against any attempt to pass special repressive laws or curtail the rights of free speech and assembly. The radicals and clericals maintain that the Caprivi-Miquel fued is as fierce as ever and must lead to a cabinet crisis during the next session of the reichstag. The chancellor, they say, has suffered a mortifying defeat at Miquel's hands and has been forced temporarily to countenance anti-anarchist measures which but a few weeks ago he disclaimed publicly. The inference is that once defeated, the chancellor is tottering and may be pushed at any time to a fall by the powerful hand of the finance minister.

The lavish hospitality of Miss Helen Carroll, an American girl, who has taken Chateau Fantaisie, near Bayreuth, for the summer, is attracting the attention of the whole country. Numerous American women are her guests for the whole festival season, and she entertains them with royal generosity. The chateau has sixty rooms. It belonged formerly to Duke Alexander, of Wurtemberg, but changed hands soon after his death. Miss Carroll's expense in keeping it as an open house for her friends are reported here with exactness by all the dailies. She is said to have paid out some $5,000 in getting her equipage to Bayreuth, $2,500 in rent for the chateau, and $50,000 in general expenses.

Fretherr von Wangenheim, a member of the German embassy in Madrid, is coming home on a bicycle for his midsummer holiday. He left Madrid on July 28. He will end his journey in Hamburg.

The persistent spread of cholera in several districts of east Prussra causes considerable alarm here, although there is no reason for expecting an epidemic in western or southern Germany. An imported case in Cologne last week startled the Rhine cities, but an examination of the Rhine water by the medical board showed that it had not been contaminated. The western seaports also are as clean and healthy as ever.

The social democrats have turned the cholera scare to their account in the beer boycott. They are circulating placards which assert that the boycotted beer has been poisoning and would surely infect with cholera all persons drinking it. The brewers and their supporters have protested against this sort of warfare, but the police have declined to stop the distribution of the placards.

The Wagners have caused something of a scandal in Bayreuth by having their St. Bernard dog treated at the city hospital. Dr. Landgraft, their family physician, and at the same time chief surgeon at the hospital, operated on the dog in the regular operating room. While the Bayreuthers do not object to Siegfrid's reading birthday poems to Frau Cosima's pet animals, they are bitterly opposed to the use of their hospital for veterinary purposes and they moved their city council yesterday to pass a resolution condemning Dr. Landgraf severely for his conduct.

Empress Augusta Victoria visited her mother-in-law, the Empress Frederick, in Friedrichskron for several days last week. She is supposed to have been arranging for a family council to be held soon after the emperor's return from England. The subject concerns the accusations which Leberecht von Kotze was charged with bringing against numerous persons at court. Society is much interested in this council, as the decision is likely to affect the court circle materially during the coming season.

Predicted the Hour of His Death.

Columbus, O., Aug. 20.—John Verdon, a penitentiary convict, from Cincinnati, who dropped dead from heart disease Saturday, predicted the day and hour of his death. When he was received at the prison he wrote this prediction on a slip of paper, which was given to another convict to keep. The paper was examined to-day and found to be exactly true.

THE END NEAR AT HAND

Adjournment of Congress Expected This Week.

Both Branches Now Only Awaiting Action of the President on the Tariff Bill—Nothing To Do But To Clean Up the Ends of a Very Busy and Entertaining Session.

Washington, Aug. 20.—There is good reason to believe that the week that opens to-day will see the close of the second session of the Fifty-third congress. The work of the senate is finished; the last of the appropriation bills was completed and the conference report was adopted Friday, and there is nothing now for the senate to do but to clean up the ends of a very busy and a very entertaining session.

About the only thing that keeps senators here is the tariff, and the general impression now is that the president will permit it to become a law just as soon as the treasury officials are ready to carry it into effect. That he does not intend to veto the bill is clear, for the law print is now being prepared at the government printing office. After to-day it is likely that the senate will meet for a short time daily and then adjourn pending the reception of the tariff bill. Until it is known just when to expect this measure from the president it is not likely that a joint resolution fixing a day for adjournment will be introduced. In the meantime there will be an effort (and perhaps a successful one) to pass the house bill to repeal all laws authorizing a rebate of the internal revenue tax on alcohol used in the arts. Mr Sherman (rep., O.), in his "plain talk" on Saturday showed the necessity for the passage of that measure; and Mr. Allison (rep., Ia) will be heard on the same point and on the whole subject of this session's tariff legislation.

House of Representatives.

Washington, Aug. 20.—There is nothing much for the house of representatives to do, apparently, but to adjourn. The adoption of the Murphy resolution in the senate Saturday is taken as an expression of determination on the part of that body to do no more business, and the futile efforts of the managers to get a quorum to vote on the sugar trust and the sugar bounty resolutions demonstrated the fact that "like the house" the senate was practically without a quorum. Therefore it is assumed that none of the bills yet in conference between the two houses need be further considered at this session, for it is not likely that they would be passed, even were the conferees to come to an agreement thereon.

Among this class of measures are two proposed judicial changes—one relating to the powers of commissioners appointed by territorial courts and the other the payment of state taxes against corporations in the hands of receivers appointed by the United States courts.

The committee on rules has notified chairmen of committees applying for a day on which to consider business reported from them that no more allotments of time for that purpose will be made. As long as the house remains in session bills may be considered and passed by unanimous consent, and nothing that does not meet general approval stands any show of getting through.

Just before the house adjourned last Thursday an effort was made to gain consideration for the bills reported by a conference committee and agreed to that day by the senate prohibiting the immigration of anarchists. But objection was made by several members and the probabilities now are that it must go over until next session.

Two Fatal Accidents.

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 20.—Henry Harman, in Logan county, was showing some friends a Winchester rifle yesterday when the weapon slipped from his grasp, fell to the ground, was discharged when the contents entered his brain, producing instant death. A workman, while felling timber in the woods near by where Harman was killed was caught under a falling tree later and his life crushed out.

Bank To Resume Business.

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 20.—The directors of the lately suspended Wichita bank announced last night that they have been able to make such arrangements with their depositors as will enable them to reopen that institution Sept. 1. Bank Examiner Ewing has satisfied himself of the ability of the bank to meet its obligations and resume business.

Investigating the Charges.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 20.—An investigation into the management of the Childs-Drexel Union printers' home in this city is being conducted by the visiting committee. It is generally believed here that the management will be vindicated.

Engagement Announced.

London, Aug. 20.—The engagement of Mrs. George Torrance, of New York, and Donald Hindmarsh, a London stock broker, is announced.

CIRCULATION EXCEEDS THAT OF ALL OTHER PLAINFIELD DAILIES COMBINED.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 20, 1894

CITY EDITION, 3 O'CLOCK.

How fleet the seasons! Soon the sign Ice-Cold Soda will be turned to the wall, and the slushy tramp of the Rubber Boot Brigade will be heard along the Netherwood star-route post-road.

That Plainfielder is most enjoying life who amid the comforts of home revels in these glorious Plainfield August days and drinks in the beauty and romance of these lovely Plainfield August moonlight nights.

At last a favored scheme of the Big Six is coming to pass. Plainfield's electric road is to cover the town, and will develop the pleasure spot at South Plainfield lake. Good can come out of Nazareth.

Plainfield is not included in the proposed consolidation scheme. She doesn't want to be. Blessed is Plainfield in her distinctive characteristics. The only thing she covets in marriage is North Plainfield borough. Only Somerset forbids the banns.

Prince Miller will have to build a big addition to his hotel palace if his corps of musicians does not stop growing. Every Sunday we read in The Herald that during the week the Netherwood orchestra is going to be augmented. No doubt Aug meant well in his original use of the word, but this augmentation has been steadily going on for three years, and is getting rather difficult of deglutition.

Abundant advertising is Plainfield's now. People in the big cities are noting with joy that the only barrier to residence here (lack of sanitary sewerage) is about to be removed. All who ride wheels (and (all the world does ride) are becoming infatuated with the city which boasts such a superior cycling track as a side-show. The national editors are not quit of singing in their journals of Plainfield's beauty and cleanliness. And Ollie Teall is impressing New York's 400 with the superior advantages of Plainfield and its biggest hotel over all other places within business distance of New York. What with Clarence Teel the hustling cycle press agent and Ollie Teall the Hotel Netherwood press agent, Plainfield is sure of results that ought to make her able to hire one or both 'em steady.

CHURCH CHIMES.

A rally will be held in the Emmanuel Baptist Church next Sunday, with preaching by imported ministers.

Grace M. E. Church and Sunday-school had the banner excursion. They paid all bills, and have $20 40 left.

A promise meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society will be held in Trinity Reformed Church tonight at 8.

Chauncey Hyde Demaray of Somerville was the very acceptable organist in the First Baptist Church yesterday. C. W. McCutchen was the precentor.

The Sunday-school and Christian Endeavor Society of the First Church of Christ will leave tomorrow morning at 7:30 from their church for a day at Boynton Beach.

Trinity Church congregations heard two excellent sermons by Rev. Arthur Crane yesterday. He is a pleasing and effective preacher. His thoughts come burning from the brain, without the intermediary of notes. Well chosen stories emphasize his points, and a clear delivery and eloquent inflection add weight to his words and make beautiful his readings. He is to preach in the First Baptist Church the next two Sundays.

Next Thursday Warren Chapel and its friends expect to enjoy, to its full, a day at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. As the season is so near its end, many will take this opportunity for a farewell visit to the shore. Arrangements have been made for free delivery of lunch packages at Rose's pavillion, where they will be kept safely till dinner time. Baby-carriages will be taken only as far as the Asbury Park railroad station.

In the First Baptist Church yesterday Rev. Asby Jones delivered two powerful sermons to large congregations. In the morning his discourse was on the text "Enter in by the narrow gate". His principal thought was that the masses were too much inclined to liberalism, and what was needed was the narrownees of the truth as found in God's word. His text in the evening was "Love one another". He showed how it was possible to distinguish Christians in the world and the essentials most necessary to Christian living. Both sermons were very helpful, and won admiration for their many fine points.

The elders, officers and adult scholars of the First Church of Christ met at the home of Elder Bush, Elm place, last Friday evening, to consider the advisability of the Sunday-school abolishing the office of treasurer and paying money direct into the church fund. After a thorough discussion it was decided that it would not be the be the best thing to do, as the Sunday school needed all the money which was received. The financial account was gone over and a debt of $2,500 was found to be the correct figures. If the members can hold their church and present standing till September 1, substantial aid is promised which will help them materially.

SCOTT BROTHERS AND OTHERS FROM PLAINFIELD WIN.

Crescent Wheelmen Do Clever Work Against Crack Cyclers from Outside Clubs—Five of the 21 Prizes Stay in Plainfield, Though 84 Contested for Them.

Six hundred spectators who between the acts were treated to a display of signboard painting applauded a series of fine cycling races on the Crescent track Saturday afternoon, and though many of the speedy riders from other clubs were among the 84 contestants Plainfield's entries acquitted themselves with honor.

The crop of oats and weeds in the field which the track encircles, had been harvested, and hence the riders did not drop out on the long turn. The platform which the judges had been wont to use had been converted into a base-ball back-stop, and the officials were glad of the excuse to stand in the shade of the grand-stand. For the sun was hot, though a strong wind blew.

That wind prevented attempts at record-breaking. It cushioned against the riders as they came in on the home stretch, and bothered them on the outward turn. Still, there was no lack of speedy work of close and exciting struggle for the mastery.

It is Monte Scott no longer, but Great Scott. Monte recalls the Spanish game of chance, but Scott is a certainty. He is the mountain that towers up after the game. For instance, look at his work in the 2/3-mile scratch. He crowded close to the other fellows, and on the finish came out in great shape, shooting ahead at the turn, and running away from the crack yellow riders. He fought fiercely against Coffin in the second heat of the mile open, and after beating him by a foot made a good show in the final.

Then what a pretty race he made of the lap event. Erts and Granger of the Riversides connived to beat him, but Scott kept his head level and his heels oscillating, and the one point by which he beat 'em was as good as a hundred. He led at the tape on the first and second laps, and was content with second place on the balance.

There were no darning-needles on Great Scott's brother, either. He did some lively treading in the one-mile handicap, winning his first trial heat with plenty of wind, and after a splendid spurt coming a close second in his second trial. He lost the final by only a few inches, and every velociman knows what a small fraction of a pedal-turn that means.

Sangstad was somewhat a victim of circumstances. He was all primed for the one-mile handicap, but lost a pedal and fell before he had gone 300 yards. Then in the novice, after getting place in the final by clever work in the trial, he was crowed out on the high bank in the last lap and lost time on the rough ground. He rode up with a fine burst of speed, but the distance was too great to catch up with the place men. He set the pace hot in the two-mile handicap, and led for three strong laps; the second mile was too much after such a speed.

The work of Line, including his brave defeat of Granger, commanded admiration, and Titsworth did some mighty pretty spurting, reducing his predecessors' leads to inches. Darling did some good speeding, as in the 2 3-mile scratch, where he dashed ahead and kept a fine lead for quite a distance; and in the third heat of the mile handicap he made a beautiful fight against Bofinger, and was only a wheel's diameter behind him when the tape was reached.

It was during one of Darling's spirited spurts that the only serious accident of the day occurred. Rydell and Darling were fighting together in the second heat of the second trials, one-mile handicap. Just after entering the homestretch, they fell. Rydell arose, but Darling lay where he struck, and had to be carried from the track. He is today unable to use his right arm or right leg, and his face is a mass of bruises.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Several women cyclists attired in the reform dress, visited Plainfield yesterday.

Curt Gotthell started this morning on his trip to Chicago with his Hy-Lo wheel.

George Wilson of Hillier & Co. rode his wheel to Morristown Saturday afternoon. He returned yesterday.

Horace Sherwin, Patrick Mahon and Frank Eick had a pleasant ride to Long Branch yesterday afternoon on their wheels.

Isaac N. Lines, Charley Maltby and A. H. Barnett will be the representatives of the Crescent Wheelmen in the 25-mile road race Labor Day.

Norman Mague of 35 Somerset street has heard nothing regarding the wheel that was stolen from his place some time ago. He feels confident, however, that it will be recovered.

An expert colored rider gave an exhibition on a high wheel on Third street yesterday afternoon. It resulted in his taking a tumble, after which he picked himself up and went on.

H. B. Wells and Philip Wells of Washington avenue and Champlain L. Riley of Richmond street rode on their wheels Saturday morning to Perth Amboy, where they spent the day in fishing and sailing.

F. L. C. Martin, who represents the Wheelmen's Protective Company of New York, a corporation with a capital of $500,000 and whose business is to insure bicycles against theft, is receiving a great many applications. This company upon notification of the loss of a machine agrees to loan the loser a machine for 30 days, and if it is not recovered by that time to give him a new machine. The cost is only $1 a year after the first year, when an additional charge of $1 is made for registration. This is a great scheme, and all Press readers should consult Mr. Martin with reference to having their wheels insured.

Pool On the Pigeons.

Six fine homing pigeons were released from the liberty pole in front of Sisser's Hotel, Scotch Plains, yesterday morning at 11:40. The birds were young, but of excellent stock, and were flown with a view to developing them for a match from Pennsylvania. They were owned by John Smith of Nineteenth street and Fourteenth avenue, Newark, and released by Charles Cort of Newark. Scotch Plains sports formed a $30 pool to go to the man guessing nearest the time of flying.

Happy These Little Ones.

Passers-by on East Front street all noted the happy company of children at Rockview Home and Day School last Saturday. The only unusual thing was that a birthday was being celebrated. It is doubtful if more fun was enjoyed than on many another day during the Summer, except to the little girl in whose honor they had come. The children have all the privileges of a home in every sense of the word at this school.

Sabbath Observance.

Eighty Plainfielders had a clam-bake on Johnston's drive yesterday. They ate and drank their fill, and had a fight.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A special meeting will be held in Salvation Army Hall Thursday evening at 8, conducted by Ballentine Booth.

—The members of John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, are urgently requested to be present at the meeting tonight.

—Five cents secures you a fine embroidered, hemstitched handkerchief, at Putnam & DeGraw's. Pay your nickel and take your choice.

—Wm. Dackerman the famous clam-baker will prepare the clam-bake for the grocers picnic Labor Day. The tickets for the bake will be limited to 150.

—The 2:08 Royal Blue train was delayed two hours Sunday morning by a wreck. Its locomotive was disabled near Bound Brook by collision with freight cars, and had to be replaced.

Her Fingers Crushed.

Florence, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bickert of North avenue, met with a painful accident Saturday evening. While her father had his wheel out in the yard cleaning it, she began playing with the pedals and revolved the wheel. She quickly let go of the pedals and the first two fingers of her right hand caught in the chain, inflicting severe pain, and causing the blood to flow. She was taken to the house where her mother cared for the injured members.

TROLLEY TRACTION.

PLAINFIELD'S COMPANY PLANNING TO COVER THE CITY.

Netherwood, Dunellen, Hillside Cemetery and Crescent Oval All to Be Reached—New Market Lake the Next Development.

The Street Committee of the Plainfield Common Council and the Street Railway Company have at last agreed on terms, and in the very near future the line will be extended to both Dunellen and Netherwood. Later it will be run to Hillside Cemetery and the Crescent cycling track.

The Central Jersey Traction Company has acquired control of a site for pleasure grounds along South Plainfield lake, and when they complete their plans linking Philadelphia and New York and intervening towns by trolley they will open up the lake as a resort.

PARTICULAR MENTION

Dr. Jenkins and wife will be home Wednesday.

Alfred E. Holmes of East Fifth street has returned from Sea Girt.

Miss Maud Lord of Netherwood is making a two-weeks visit at West Point.

Miss Johnston of East Fifth street is visiting friends in northern New Jersey.

Miss Florence B. Beale of Netherwood is home after a visit to the New England States.

Miss Evelyn Taylor of Philadelphia is the guest of Miss Woodruff of East Second street.

Miss Clara Force of East Front street returned Saturday from a pleasant stay in Asbury Park.

Miss Sue Boss of West Front street returned Saturday evening from a visit in Hunterdon County.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sanford of West Seventh street are staying at the Maplewood, White Mountains.

Daniel E. Davis and family of East Fifth street have returned from Southold, L. I., where they have been spending several weeks.

Miss Lucile Pretty of Chicago and Miss Mildred Cone of Brooklyn are stopping at the home of Miss Alice Haynes of First place.

Miss Mabel Wilson of Putnam & DeGraw's will enjoy another week's vacation. She returned Saturday evening from New York State.

S. St. J. McCutchen and family and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., are expected home tomorrow from C. W. McCutchen's camp, Lake Placid.

R. M. Dawson of Jersey City is to be the Plainfield Superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company, and takes hold Monday, August 27.

Mrs. Fred Cutter and her sisters, Misses Laura and May Mulford, left this afternoon for Ocean Grove. They will stop at the Carleton Hotel.

Mrs. Augustus H. Holmes, Miss Gussie Holmes, and Miss Ethel Holmes, have returned to their home on East Fifth street after a visit to friends in Fitchburg.

Daniel Ayres, owner of a large truck farm in Hammontown, Atlantic County, has with his family been visiting his brother Wm. C Ayres, Plainfield's landmark.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Addis and Mrs. Addis's sister, Miss Carrie Heidt, returned home Saturday from Kenoza Lake, N. Y., where they have been for the last month.

Nathan Lane, Jr., of Sycamore avenue, who has been spending two weeks at Good Ground, L. I., leaves there today for Brooklyn, where he will visit relatives for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loughlin and family left town this afternoon for Troy, where they will remain for fifteen days, that being the allotted time Mr. Loughlin has for his vacation.

Garret Conover of North Plainfield, now a Senior in the Rutgers Theological Seminary, left today for the home of his parents, Clinton, Hunterdon county. He will stay a month for a complete rest.

H. D. Brewster and family of Washington avenue have returned from Wolfeboro, where they have been enjoying camp life. The remainder of the party are now at the Marion House, Lake George.

Cyrus F. Boice and Frank Bowman went to Flemington Saturday to witness a ball game between two local teams. They are endeavoring to keep up their interest in the national game, which dates back to the time of the invincible Crescents.

Judge A. C. Smith of the Court of Errors and Appeals was in Plainfield Saturday for a short visit to his friend, R. E. Coriell. A ride through Plainfield's streets convinced him that this was the handsomest town he ever visited, and he says so very emphatically.

Ruptured a Blood Vessel.

Robert Perrine, an employe of L. A. Rheaume in the mill on East Fourth street, came very near losing his life Friday afternoon.

He was cutting the panels for a door on a circular saw, when a piece of oak flew back, striking him in the right side of the stomach. It resulted in the rupture of a blood vessel, from which he lost about three quarts of blood.

He was taken to his home and Drs. Boone and Lowrie were called. They did all that was possible for Mr. Perrine, and today he is much better.

DISASTROUS CONFLAGRATION

$50,000 Worth of Property Destroyed at Salem, Mass.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 20.—An alarm of fire at 5:15 yesterday afternoon was for a disastrous conflagration in the machine shop of the Boston & Maine railroad, at the foot of Northey street, on the north river. The works are used for the construction of bridges, switches, and supplies, and were fitted with improved machinery in every department arrived it found a roaring discovered, it was a small blaze in the dry house, but as the house was full of dry lumber, it was but a few minutes before the flames spread througnout the building. When the fire department arrived it foud a roaring furnace. The general alarm was at once sounded, but owing to a lack of horses, there was a long delay in getting the relief steamers to the fire. The works are so located that it was impossible to get back of the fire and fight it from that side and it was soon evident that the flames would make a clean sweep to the railroad track. From the dry house the flames communicated to the long carpenter shop and planing mill, and this burned like a pile of shavings. The building was parallel to the welding shop, and the latter was soon entirely consumed. The works comprised the manufacturing plant of the maintenance and way departments, and here were manufactured all the bridges, gates, switches and supplies not let out on contract.

The loss will be about $50,000.

The rails on the main line were badly warped by the intense heat of the great fire. Whether the works will be built in the same location is very doubtful. Duplicate trusses and bridge trussels for nearly all the bridges on the road and a large number of valuable patterns which were stored here, were destroyed.

The Bardin Divorce Case.

Chamberlain, S. D., Aug. 20.—The Bardin divorce trial is ended, but the decision has not yet been rendered, the defendant's attorney having been granted ten days to file a written argument. The general opinion is that Bardin has made a very poor case. It is understood that if he loses the case the New York authorities are prepared to proceed against him on the charge of bigamy, he having married a Miss Gile, at New Haven, after deserting the plaintiff in the pending case, and is now living with her at Kimball, this county.

JERSEY'S GIANT CITY.

BIG CONSOLIDATION SCHEME DISCOVERED BY A CONGERS WEEKLY.

Important Move Being Made in Hudson County—Plan to Unite the Big Municipalities into One Mammoth Community.

[From the Congers (N. Y.) Wise Shore Herald.]

A quiet move is on foot in Hudson County having for its object a far-reaching scheme of municipal consolidation which shall completely eclipse the efforts of Chicago in that direction. The Jersey City papers are evidently not "on" to it, but your correspondent has seen a petition that is being circulated among the solid business men there asking the State Legislature to grant a charter for no less an area than Jersey City, Hoboken, Newark, Orange, Paterson and Passaic combined, together with the interlying territory extending from the Hudson River back to the Orange Mountains.

The whole immense and valuable water front from Bayonne to Fort Lee is included in the future great city.

Commercially, it is believed, the scheme will commend itself to the people as one of practical wisdom, and that is probably the real reason why the bankers and heavy property-owners are first being asked to indorse it. In these days of practical politics, however, it is only fair to suspect the existence of either a job or the gratification of some man's ambition in a stupendous deal of this sort.

The petition of the Legislature gives no inkling of the politics, if any, behind it. It is known, however, that Andrew H. Green was asked to furnish, and did furnish, an outline of the plan to be followed, both in securing the legislative sanction at Trenton and in perfecting the consolidation. The petition reads as follows:

To the Honorable the Senate and Assembly, Trenton, N. J.:

The undersigned individuals and corporations, believing that the present scattered political divisions of the cities and towns of the Hudson River district of New Jersey deprive us of the prestige to which we are fairly entitled, by reason of our commercial importance, respectfully petition your honorable body to enact such legislation as shall result in the consolidation of the following cities and townships into one great municipal incorporation:

Cities and Towns.	Counties.	Population 1890.
Newark	Essex	181,830
Jersey City	Hudson	163,003
Paterson	Passaic	78,349
Hoboken	Hudson	43,648
Bayonne	Hudson	19,033
Orange	Essex	18,814
Passaic	Passaic	15,027
Uniontown	Hudson	10,643
Harrison	Hudson	8,332
Hackensack	Bergen	6,004
Elizabeth	Union	37,674

Also all lying within the following boundaries: Beginning at a point in the westerly bank of the Hudson River at 40 deg. 55 min. north latitude, thence westerly along said latitude to the point of intersection with 74 deg. 12 min. west longitude; thence southerly to the point of intersection of said 74 deg. 12 min. west longitude with 40 deg. 52 min. north latitude; thence westerly along said latitude to the point of intersection with 74 deg. 15 min. west longitude; thence southerly along said longitude to 40 deg. 38 min. north latitude; thence easterly in a direct line to a point in the Staten Island Sound opposite the mouth of Morse's Creek; thence easterly and northerly through the Kill Von Kull and New York Bay and the Hudson River at tidewater, to the place of beginning.

Dated Jersey City, Aug. 4, 1894.

It will be seen that a popular keynote has been struck in the use of the word prestige. If there is one thing lacking in a Jerseyman's cup of happiness it is that self-same word. His State has everything else—power, population and pride. Now, if he can also secure the prestige which a magnificent commercial metropolis will give him, he will be right "in it" with his haughty neighbors across the North and East rivers.

With a territory smaller than that which Chicago covers at the present time the proposed new city would have a population of 750,000. It will be seen that the ten cities mentioned in the petition contained 559,487 people four years ago. The remaining towns had something over 100,000 in 1890, giving a total of nearly 700,000. It is estimated that by the time the consolidation can be accomplished, say three years hence, the ordinary increase over the figures of 1890 would be sufficient to enroll 1,000,000 souls in the new city.

It would be about No. 4 in the ranks of American cities, with a choice for third place if Brooklyn did not look well to her laurels. But Brooklyn is planning a second big bridge, while Jersey is rejoicing over her recent victory in securing No. 1. The latter will do more for her in proportion than the Roebling affair has done for Brooklyn, seeing that an immense railway traffic will go over this between New York and the West, while Brooklyn leads to nowhere and can never be anything but the bedchamber of the Greater New York.

Should Brooklyn lose her identity entirely the Jersey metropolis would have a clear title to third place.

Field Day Tomorrow.

A number of Plainfield's young athletes will hold handicap games tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 on the Gentlemen's Driving Park track. The list of events is as follows:

Running high jump.
100-yards dash.
Standing broad jump.
440-yards run.
Throwing the base-ball.
220-yards dash.
Putting the shot.
Running broad jump.

The committee of arrangements consists of J. W. Beveridge, L. Bull, Jack Dumont and F. W. Goddard, who will provide first and second prizes for each event. Admission to the grounds and grandstand will be free.

Good Fishing at Tier's.

Wm. Pangborn, Jr., and Allen Squires, both of North Plainfield, each caught a large carp in Tier's lake this morning, which is getting to be a good resort for the anglers.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases have on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

OBITUARY.

Fred L. Walker.

After an illness of two weeks, death brought to a close the life of Fred L. Walker in his 24th year, this morning at 7:45. He was only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker, who have full sympathy in their deep sorrow.

Stricken with typhoid fever, he gradually grew worse, and the best medical aid failed to stay the rapid progress of the disease.

About two months ago while seated at the dinner table in his home, he wrote out the arrangements for his funeral, and when his mother pleaded with him not to do it, he replied by saying "We never know when we will be called".

Yesterday he was conscious part of the time, and sang very sweetly "A boy's best friend is his mother". He also called his mother and told her to kiss her boy for the last time.

Decedent was a convert during the Mills meetings. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and of the Christian Endeavor Society, and held the office of Color-Bearer in John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V.

He was well known in Plainfield, and was a valued assistant in numbering the houses of the city. Those who did not know him personally remember him as the one-armed newsboy of years ago.

Funeral services will be held from his late home, 313 New street, Thursday afternoon at 2, and from the First Baptist Church at 2:30.

The Camp of Sons of Veterans will take charge of the services.

—The harvest home in South Sterling tomorrow will draw many Plainfielders.

DON'T starve yourself if you have dyspepsia, indigestion, or a weak stomach, as it only build up the system on a low diet, but eat generously, then take one of immediately after meals until cured. These pills cause the flow of bile and pancreatic fluid to occur as the food leaves the stomach—nature's method; and it is wise to observe natural laws, for in this way only can we expect perfect cures. Dr. E. R. Mackey, one of New York's most celebrated physicians, and hundreds of other noted physicians vouch for the pills. If you are constipated, get bottle with white label, otherwise with yellow. REALITY AND ROMANCE.

Dr. Deane's

AMUSING FICTION FOUNDED ON A DUNELLEN EPISODE.

George Messler, Revisiting Familiar Scenes, Stirs the Inventive Genius of a New Brunswick Scribe, Evidently in Training for the Summer Novel Factories.

The Daily Press has already recorded how George Messler came back to Dunellen seemingly prosperous, how he called on old friends and sent word to his forsaken family that if they wished they might call on him, and how they declined to have anything to do with him. Those were the prosaic facts.

It remained for the New Brunswick Home News to weave a gauzy Summer novel out of this slender material. Such a masterpiece of fiction must not be lost to the appreciative public which knows the principals, so The Press reprints it:

RIP VAN WINKLE REVIVED.

RETURN OF AN ERRANT HUSBAND AFTER SIX YEARS OF OBLIVION—MRS. MESSLER DID NT RECOGNIZE THE FACE AGAINST THE WINDOW PANE.

There was a scene right out of "Rip Van Winkle" in Dunellen, a village nine miles from here, in Middlesex County, a few nights ago, and the dramatic episode has just come to light. Six years ago George Messler was just such a good-natured and drunken wretch as the famous old toper of the village of Falling Water. He had come to be the butt of the village and the abomination of his hard working and patient wife. Messler had prospered some in running a hardware and tinsmith's shop, but his inordinate appetite for strong drink led to many a quarrel between him and his indulgent wife, who was a Miss Jeroloman, and of a good family.

He went away one stormy night in March, just six years ago, leaving no trace of his whereabouts. After a few days had passed and Mrs. Messler heard nothing of him, she concluded that George must have left her for good. Time softened her heart toward the man, but all efforts that she and her friends made to find some clue to the missing husband resulted in naught. Mrs. Messler took hold of the business, and through hard work and the sympathies of the villagers placed the unpretentious shop on a paying basis.

After a few years folks in Dunellen ceased to talk of George Messler. A helpful family grew up about the forsaken but still faithful woman and people when the subject was revived said that Mrs. Messler was a lucky wife.

In the violent storm of Wednesday night but few noticed the scantily attired figure of a man that trundled slowly through the soaking rain, unheedful of the fierce lightning glare and heavy peals of thunder. He walked up the main street of the village peering inquisitively into the dimly lighted shop windows and halting now and then as if undetermined whether to push on or to seek the inviting comfort of the cheery homes. No one recognized in that halting step, sad face and ragged clothes the once well-known tinsmith of the village.

When he came to a cross street that stretched away from the main road for half a mile he turned just above where the steeple of the village church showed clear and strong in the fitful lightning's glare and trudged down the road in the direction of a modest home nestled back from the road among the pines, from between whose branches gleamed a welcoming light.

George Messler knew that he was approaching his old home. He walked up the path past the rough kennel, in which slumbered a slothful dog Schneider, and when he had arrived at the huge old-fashioned double door, knocked timidly. There was a slight commotion inside. The knock had been heard. In the storm, Mrs. Messler said this morning, she was not sure whether it was a knock or the sound of something falling in the yard. The children were about her knee in the middle of the room crouching in fear before the fierce lightning. She confesses that she had not courage to open the door. A moment later, she looked out of the kitchen window and beheld a face peering at her out of the darkness. Strong woman as she is, the sight made her flesh creep. She did not recognize the face, and then, lest the children should notice her fright, turned away, speechless in her terror.

When she had the courage to look again the face was gone. When her eldest boy came home from the village that night she told him of the strange face at the window.

"Oh, it was some tramp,"—said young Messler.—"That dog of ours is no good, anyhow."

Next morning a villager sought the Messler home with the news that he had just met George Messler on the road leading out of Dunellen towards Bound Brook. Mrs. Messler smiled incredulously. She had long believed her husband dead, for at the time of the Johnstown flood the papers recorded the death of one Messler whose description tallied exactly with the missing tinsmith of Dunellen.

"But,"—persisted the news bearer—"he talked with me about you, told me that he was up here last night and could not get in, that you saw his face in the window and refused to give him shelter."

Mrs. Messler trembled as she heard the story. The strange face in the window came back to her. It was George and she had refused to take him back. Since then she has been miserable over her error. Messler disappeared as completely after his visit to his old home on Wednesday night as he did that fateful night in March six years ago. Mrs. Messler now says that if George Messler sees this he must return to his wife and children, where he will be welcomed. All Dunellen feels the sorrow that now pervades the cosy little home that nestles so invitingly among the pines. Dunellen's "Rip Van Winkle" knows not the heart burnings within that home today or he would return to the wife that bore with him through many a sorrowful hour.

Funeral of John B. Moore.

The funeral of John B. Moore, who died in Plainfield, last Wednesday, a member of the vestry of the Church of the Redeemer, Astoria, took place Friday afternoon in that church, Rev. Drs. Belden and Kuehn of Astoria, and Simpson of Plainfield officiating. The music was by the vested choir of the church under the direction of Mr. Siebert, the organist, and the members of the vestry were the pall-bearers. Mr. Moore had been a member of the vestry and superintendent of the Sunday-school of the Church of the Redeemer for many years and was greatly esteemed. He recently removed to Plainfield, but continued his official connection with the church. He leaves a wife and family.

NEW SEASON AND NEW MANAGER.

Some of the Plays Booked by Experienced Isaac Varian.

Under the management of Isaac C Varian the following list of attractions is already booked to appear in Music Hall this season: Charley's Aunt, The Charity Ball, Wang, Robin Hood, Lady Windermere's Fan, 1492, Robert B. Mantell, Charles Dickson, Jane, Trip to Chinstown, Glorians, Louis Aldrich, A Texas Steer, Men and Women, Keller, Marie Wainwright, The Kimball Opera Company, Paul Kavar, Lost Paradise, Thomas Keene, Silver King, The Ensign, Yon Yonson, The Dazzler, White Squadron, Thomas Q. Seabrook, Peter Dailey, Span of Life, Struck Oil, and others.

Mr. Varian was formerly a citizen of Plainfield, well-known to many of our oldest and most prominent people. He was born in the city of New York, and received his education at the public schools, married at the age of 19, and in his twentieth year took up his residence in Plainfield. In the following year he made his first appearance upon the dramatic stage at Mansion House Hall, (now the City Hotel.) Jacob Thorn was then its proprietor. The company consisted of such well-known artists of the days gone-by as James W. Collier, Mary Mitchell (sister of Maggie Mitchell), Harry Hotto, Maurice Pike, and they toured the States of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York.

In his twenty-second year he took out a company under his own management, which was very profitable, playing all the large towns and returning to Plainfield at the end of the season. His family was much opposed to his continuance in the profession, so they induced him to retire and take up mercantile business in Plainfield. This was not as profitable as his relatives had predicted. He remained here, however, and during a residence of fifteen years he became identified with many of Plainfield's activities. He was the organizer of the present fire department, and its first officer, and was instrumental in having an act passed by the Legislature making Plainfield a fire district.

After fifteen years of residence here Mr. Varian sold his property and removed to New York city. He again embarked in the theatrical profession, this time as business manager for the famous Kiralfy brothers, opening at the Academy of Music, New York, with that grand spectacular play "Around the World in Eighty Days". This was a great success, and was played in all the large cities of this country, making a small fortune for the Kiralfys. Several years later on the Kiralfys produced "Michael Strogoff" at the Academy of Music, New York, to an immense business, doing the large cities afterwards.

The year after "Strogoff" was done Mr. Varian assumed the management of George Parkes, the well-known comedian who helped to make the fame of Augustus Daly's stock company. Mr. Parkes starred in "Our American Cousin", and his Lord Drundreary was considered the equal of Sothern's. Mr. Varian next become business manager for Max Strakosch, the great impressario, (who introduced the great Adelina Patti to the American public), at the Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York. At the close of the season Albert Eaves assumed the management and Mr. Varian remained as business manager. During the next ten years he toured the country, with almost unvarying success.

Just prior to engaging with the Kiralfys, Mr. Varian managed Wallace Grant's tour in the society play of "Remorse", which was first brought out at the Globe Theatre, New York, in March, 1878.

On the 4th of June 1888, Mr. Varian produced at The Amphion Theatre, Brooklyn, Munro's society comedy, "A Wife's Error", under the tittle of "Parvenues". This was his greatest success during his whole theatrical career.

Besides the regular plays, Mr. Varian plans to give Plainfield a subscription series, producing here those stars of national reputation, Davenports, Sousa's Band, John Drew, Julia Marlowe, Damrosch Orchestra, and the Marie Tanvery Grand English Opera Company.

—Several of Plainfield's young men left this morning for Atlantic Highlands, where they will enjoy the delights of camp life for a week.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d. N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1893.

These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

MARKS OF BEAUTY.

Some Exaggerated Features Are so Considered by Savages.

Amongst uncivilized nations there are many tribes with whom some exaggerated feature is regarded as a mark of special beauty, says Answers, the breadth of the nose, the thickness of the lips, or artificially encouraged hanging ear-lobe being in some quarters considered great personal adornments, and oftentimes securing for the fortunate possessor of them the envy and admiration of all members of their tribe. And, as in China, the diminutive, distorted feet of the women are the delight of their male adorers, so in other lands the possession of a heavy burden of superfluous adipose tissue is deemed to be the first and most vital point in the equipment of a "belle," in many cases a woman's chances of becoming wed depending mainly upon her weight.

Even in our own land instances are not wanting of the pecuniary advantages attendant upon the possession of extreme lack of beauty.

Years gone by, when country fairs were ranked amongst the most popular amusement of the populace, nearly every country village had its especially ugly man who, season after season, carried off sacks of potatoes, shoulders of mutton and other prizes, as signs of his success in "grinning through a horse's collar," these trophies being awarded to the rustic who pulled the most hideous face framed by that article of equine trapping.

In some of the great cities of the east, where polygamy is tolerated, ugliness of feminine feature may be said to be at a premium. The rich ladies, many of whom have perhaps hundred of underlings in their employ, ever keeping a watchful eye open to see that no rival deposes them in their domestic reign, regularly select as their servant girls and young women of the very plainest looks.

HINTS TO WOMEN.

Ladies wishing a smooth skin made without harm can obtain it by purchasing ten cents' worth of tincture of benzoin. Dissolve it in a pint of wine and use on the face at night. The face should first be washed with pure and fine soap and then rinsed off in clear, cold water. The benzoin can be dissolved in water, but wine is preferable.

For a rough or sunburned skin use two ounces of distilled water, one of glycerine, one of alcohol and half an ounce of tincture of benzoin. Without the water and with the addition of two ounces of prepared chalk, free from bismuth, it makes a fine cosmetic for whitening the face and is not injurious like the expensive "balms" or "bloom" so highly advertised.

Boil a small piece of green benzoin in spirits of wine until it becomes a rich tincture. Fifteen drops of this poured into a glass of water will produce a liquid that looks like milk and emits a most agreeable perfume. This wash, while an excellent remedy for spots, pimples, and eruptions, renders the skin clear and brilliant and the cheeks a beautiful rosy color.

Another wash is made of medicated soap, which can be bought of any druggist, melted and made into balls, with finely ground oatmeal. Oatmeal and buttermilk together possess wonderful beautifying qualities, and oatmeal by itself now occupies a place on many dressing tables. Steeped in water in small quantities, its balsamic qualities and glutinous oiliness make the flesh beautifully soft and white. A little lemon juice may be added advantageously.

If a remedy is wanted to produce immediate and wonderful effects in whitening the skin, use tar and olive oil heated together and cooled. Use upon the face when going to bed, with a mask of thin old linen or muslin put on to prevent coming off—further protecting the pillows by an old sheet thrown over them. In the morning a bath of white castile soap and water brings the face out pure and softly tinted as a child's. This is not only the best, but one of the most harmless and cheapest preparations that can be procured.

A New Toque.

It is rumored that quite large bonnets are to be worn, but they have not yet put in an appearance. Tulle, silk gauze, and crepe de chine are the only trimming on many of the Leghorn hats, while others have flowers or feathers in addition. The most stylish sailor to wear with the drill gowns must exactly match the color of the dress and have a band and bow of the color in the blouse. The toque is still popular. A late design is shown in our cut. The material is cream guipure, embroidered with jet. It has a drapery of cream velvet, and black feathers studded with jet. It goes very prettily with one of the new cream and black costumes.

Care of Brushes.

A number of little things in the care of one's brushes determines the length of their service and the condition in which they last. For one thing, a hair brush should be washed often enough to keep it thoroughly cleansed. For this soda water or ammonia water must be used, and then the wet bristles set downward—do not turn it on its back—and left in the sun to dry. A nail or tooth brush should never be left in the holder with the bristles uppermost. It stands to reason that water will soak into them in time with such treatment, and that discoloration and general demoralization will follow.—Commercial Advertiser.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money.

...Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify, with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could [illegible] sleep, sit down or move without serious discomfort and [illegible]. Such was my condition when I [illegible] to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and [illegible] to say that as soon as he [illegible] of my case, I began to improve in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles. My cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonials in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

A FAMILY OF ROBBERS

Mother Arrested; Father and Son Escaped.

The Woman Captured After a Long Chase and a Hard Fight With the Officers, in Which One Constable Was Badly Clubbed—The Arrests Made Near Trenton, N. J.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 21.—The arrest of a woman and the escape of her husband and son after a hard fight with the officers of the law, in which Constable Phillips, of Bennington, was badly clubbed, has thrown into a state of great excitement the little village of Glenmore, ten miles from this city.

The robbery last winter of the summer home of ex-City Attorney S. S. Spencer Wirt, of Jersey City, at Middleburg, near Metuchen, was traced to the woman and the two men who, with a little girl, have been living at Glenmore for the past two months as city people in the country for the summer under the name of Clark.

The woman was captured only after a three-mile chase. She had over $1,000 in her possession, and was sent to the Somerville jail, while the little girl has been taken charge of by the authorities.

The men are still at large, but efforts are being made to capture them.

At Clark's home over thirty articles of wearing apparel, silverware and household goods were identified as having been stolen from the Wirt residence. There was also identified a Brussels carpet belonging to a professor at Princeton, where the Clarks also lived for a while.

The robbers are believed to have operated extensively, and more thefts are expected to be traced to them. Their real name is said to be Johnson.

Fatally Injured in a Runaway.

New York, Aug. 21.—A horse attached to a carriage containing Miss Emma Schaffner and Mrs. Beatrice Graham became frightened in Central park last evening and ran away. While making a sharp turn on the East drive the carriage was dashed against a tree, throwing the occupants violently to the ground and both sustained serious injuries. They were removed to the Presbyterian hospital, where Miss Schaffner died shortly after her admission. The physicians say that Mrs. Graham will recover unless complications arise from the injuries she received internally.

Seven Hundred Rum-Sellers Indicted

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 21.—The Shelby county grand jury found 200 more indictments against liquor dealers in and near Memphis yesterday, making a total of 700 up to date. Indictments have also been found against a score of real estate dealers, and more are expected to follow, running the total up to 1,000, all for fault to pay privilege taxes. The disclosures of this grand jury show that $1,500,000 have been lost by the state, county and city in the last eight years.

Business Picking Up on the Reading.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 21.—The Reading company has issued orders to work double turn at its shops in this city. Recently there has sprung up a great demand for box and gondola cars and in order to supply the trade it has been found necessary to work overtime. A perceptible increase in freight business is noted all along the Reading system.

Bank Clerk Locked Up.

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 21.—Mayberry Miller, a former clerk in the Second National bank of this city, was placed under arrest last night, charged with falsifying the books of the bank with intent to deceive the examiner and assist Cashier Gardner in defrauding the depositors. He failed to get bail and was placed in the city lock-up.

Chief Sanchez Dead.

Denver, Col., Aug. 21.—General McCook has received telegraphic information of the death of Chief Sanchez, of the White mountain Apache tribe. He was killed in a drunken quarrel at Cedar Creek, Ari., Saturday. Sanchez was a tall, handsome Indian, and was 42 years of age at the time of the [illegible] most forgotten Cibicu battle, in 1881.

Gardner Stricken With Remorse.

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 21.—The district attorney has received information from a source, he refuses to disclose that Gardner, the absconding cashier of the Second national bank, was stricken with remorse and would give himself up to justice. Gardner is expected to return to-day.

Peterson and Marshall Matched.

Pittsburg, Aug. 21.—Peterson and Marshall were matched last night to fight for $1,000 a side at catch-weights. If Marshall defeats Peterson Dixon is to fight Marshall at 120 pounds for $2,000 a side, the largest purse offered and the featherweight championship of the world.

HOW TO KEEP COOL.

If You Carefully Act Upon the Advice Given Below You Will Be Pleased With the Results.

"Keep cool!"

Excellent advice in summer time, but not very easy to follow. Apparently, it would be just as reasonable to say "keep strong, healthy and vigorous amid the sweltering heat of this trying season." And yet this is not only possible but it is something that every person can do if the right means are adopted.

Keep cool!

When you feel tired out on a hot day, have no appetite and feel scarcely able to work, don't rush off for a drink to "brace up" on or swallow other injurious stimulants. Follow common sense principles. You are languid and lack energy because your system is in a low condition. You are hot because your body does not throw off the extra warmth that is generated. You are weak because you do not get sufficient nourishment. There is only one way to overcome these unhealthy conditions and that is by supplying what the system needs, by restoring healthy action The best way to do this is to take the newly discovered pre-digested food at least once daily. This food known as Paskola is not a drug or a concoction but a pure starchy food, in liquid form, delicious to the taste and exceedingly refreshing. Being pre-digested it is absorbed by the system the instant it is swallowed. Paskola gives tone to the system, it prevents dyspepsia, it perfects the digestion. It imparts strength and vigor to those who are weak and debilitated. As a health giver it is unsurpassed.

Keep cool!

Loss of health means loss of a great many other things also. It pays to be well. If you would feel cool, strong, well, vigorous and ambitious in spite of summer heat, try Paskola. You will like it; everybody does who has ever taken it. You are sure to recommend it after taking it as others have done. Paskola is popular because it has merit.

A pamphlet giving full particulars about Paskola will be sent on application to the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade street, New York.

Fired at a Burglar.

Babylon, L. I., Aug. 21.—The residence of Joseph T. Thompson, on South road, was entered by burglars at midnight. Mr. Thompson, who is a member of the New York Stock exchange, heard noise in the dining-room, and hurrying down stairs fired two shots at a man running across his lawn. The would-be burglar escaped. None of the valuables are missing.

Bavarian Society Convention.

Baltimore, Aug. 21.—The annual convention of the Bavarian National society of North America was called to order at Harigari hall yesterday and will continue its sessions until to-morrow night. The society is for beneficial purposes and has branches all over the country.

Dr. James Kitchen Dead.

Philadelphia, Aug 21.—Dr. James Kitchen, who for many years was a prominent physician in this city, died last night, aged 94 years. He was graduated from the university of Pennsylvania in 1822. After practising allopathy for fifteen years he changed to homeopathy.

Takes Command of the New York.

THE STRIKE PROBLEM

As President Eugene Debs Would Solve It.

Testimony Before the National Labor Commission—Has Always Opposed Strikes, But Believes at Times the Condition of Employes Demands Some Such Action.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—President Eugene V. Debs, of the American Railway union, occupied the stand for nearly four hours yesterday before the national strike commission. He advocated a co-operative commonwealth, the abolition of the wage system and the government ownership of railroads. He told his side of the strike as a connected narrative which was frequently interrupted by applause from the laboring element present.

T. H. Morrissey, first vice grand master of the order of Railway trainmen, and grand chief clerk of the order of Railway conductors also testified.

President Debs said if there had been a revolution it would have been directly chargeable to the press of Chicago rather than to the American Railway union. Editorials had been written all over the country, he asserted, based on matter sent out by the Western Associated press, the editorials in every case attacking the A. R. U. on information which was absolutely false.

"Do you charge the general managers with being responsible for the strike?" asked Commissioner Wright.

"Well, I could hardly go as far as that. I believe, however, they had much to do with keeping it up."

"How would you gain the demands of the laborers on quasi public corporations?" asked Judge Worthington.

"There are two ways. One is the way adopted by the old brotherhoods. That is, getting a schedule of wages gradually from the companies. There has been little good in this mode of procedure. It takes a strike to win sometimes, but I don't believe the railroad employes of this country could win a strike to-day if they were all organized in one brotherhood, because the courts are against labor. I can show in twenty years of writing that I have always been opposed to strikes, but I think there are times when they are justifiable, no matter how much the public is discommoded."

Mr. Debs said he did not think the general managers were always to blame in reducing wages, because their orders came from a higher source. He believed the A. R. U. could never be crushed, and that the spirit of organization among laboring men would always be strong. He predicted that more serious troubles would occur than ever before.

"Now," continued Mr. Debs, "you have asked me how I would avert railroad strikes. I believe the government ownership of railroads would be far better than the railroad ownership of the government. I do not believe any lasting good can come from arbitration, and I do not think the government supervision of railroads would answer the purpose. In such a case as that of the Pullman company I believe compulsory arbitration would be of benefit. A state court might be of some good for ordinary labor troubles. I would in such a case have a trial of the differences by jury. I am in favor of some system, however, that will result in mutual good feeling and neither strikes nor compulsory arbitration can result in anything but ill feeling. I am in favor of licensing railroad employes."

President Debs was cross-examined by Commissioner Kernan, who sought to bring out the point that a state board of arbitration would be of benefit in adjusting labor troubles. Mr. Debs admitted that it would be of temporary benefit, but advocated, above all things, the government ownership of railroads, notwithstanding Mr. Kernan pointed out that such a state of affairs would probably be impracticable.

"I believe in abolishing the wage system," said the witness. "I believe in a co-operative commonwealth."

"In other words, you believe in state socialism," said Chairman Wright.

"Well, in the essential points of state socialism. The wage system is nothing more than slavery."

Messages from the Far East.

New York, Aug. 21.—The Anglo-American Telegraph company has sent out the following notice: "That far east traffic of yesterday (20th) has not arrived. Messages which left Shanghai at 10:25 p. m. on the 19th arrived at 3 p. m. yesterday, being sixteen hours and thirty-five minutes in transmission. Yokohama messages which left at 7:40 p. m. on the 19th arrived at 3 p. m., being nineteen hours and twenty minutes in transmission."

Japanese War Loans.

London, Aug. 21.—The Yokohama correspondent of the Central News says that Japan's 4-percentage war loan has been fully subscribed. The Central News correspondent in Tien Tsin denies the report that China will arrange to place a loan in England. The Central News correspondent in Shanghai learns that China has completed arrangements with an agent in England for large supplies of firearms and ammunition.

Sicilian Tenants' Troubles.

Rome, Aug. 21.—The disputes between the landlords and tenants in Sicily have been revived by the refusal of the landlords to abide by the conditions which they accepted under the pressure of last winter's disturbances. The peasants decline to accept the old conditions, and the landlords will not grant any other. Trouble seems imminent.

YALE'S FOOTBALL ELEVEN.

Candidates To Begin Regular Training on September 3.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 21.—Final orders have been given the candidates for the Yale football eleven by Captain Hinkey. They will meet at Travers island on September 3 and will at once settle down to regular training. The coaches have not been decided on, but Captain Hinkey will direct the work for a fortnight. Much attention will be given to the changes in the new style of play necessitated by the new rules. The backs will report first and the forwards a week later.

Walter Camp, the Yale coach, of this city, said to-day, in speaking of the coming season: "Yale's policy this year will be to work the candidates much less than heretofore. The directors of the team realize that the course of work has been too exacting, and will lighten the training materially this fall."

Mr. Camp also said that the newly adopted rules would eliminate many of the rough features of the game previously prominent.

EZETA'S CASE.

A New Warrant To Be Issued So the Bennington May Come In.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—The tug Sea King, with Lieut. Stoney, of the United States navy, on board, started at noon for the Bennington. Whether any papers went out was not known. General opinion was that there was not, and the tug took out a large quantity of provisions, which seemed to indicate that the Bennington was to remain outside a while longer.

It is not known yet whether the papers from Washington will be sufficient to land Ezeta or whether a new warrant for him will be sworn out here. Assistant District Attorney Knight said to-day that a warrant would be issued here so that as soon as that was done the Bennington would come in. It would be necessary only for the vessel to come within the jurisdiction of the federal courts, then Ezeta would be taken from her. Habeas corpus fight will probably be made before Commissioner Peacock.

GORMAN GIRLS TO WED.

The Engagement of Two Daughters of the Senator Announced.

Baltimore, Aug. 21.—The engagement of Richard Johnson, of Washington, to Miss Daisy Gorman is announced. Miss Gorman is the second daughter of Senator Gorman, and Mr. Johnson is the son of Kurtz Johnson, the well-known banker of Washington. The Johnsons are an old Dorchester county family and have been prominent on the eastern shore for many years. Miss Daisy is considered the handsomest of Senator Gorman's daughters, and is very popular in Washington and in the local society of Howard county.

Another engagement in Senator Gorman's family just made public is that of his daughter, Miss Madie, to her cousin, Stephen Gambrill, jr. Mr. Gambrill is the son of Stephen Gambrill, of Laurel, who married Senator Gorman's sister. Both the Gambrills, father and son, have positions in the departments at Washington.

Labor Congress Elects Officers.

Elizabeth, N. J., Aug. 21.—The labor congress adjourned last night after electing the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Samuel Holt, of Paterson; vice-presidents, C. E. Woodnutt, Bridgeton, and George Welban, of Jersey City; secretary, D. H. Green, Newark; assistant secretary, Robert E. Buero, New Brunswick; treasurer, John F. Colvin, Paterson.

Young Woman Killed by a Train.

Maspeth, L. I., Aug. 21.—Maggie Ludwig, 19 years old and residing with her parents in this village, was instantly killed last night by a west-bound Rockaway beach train near Freeman's curve. Miss Ludwig was employed at Habermann's agate works, and in company with Barbara Smith, was walking on the tracks when struck by the train.

THE H-O COMPANY, New York

THE SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUST.

Some Curious Facts About the Above-Ground Buildings of the Insect.

New York, Aug. 21.—Before the section of zoology Dr. J. A. Lintner, entomologist of New York, told some curious facts about the above-ground buildings of the seventeen-year cicada (locust). He stated that ordinarily the insect comes out from the ground through a small round hole, but in several localities in New York and New Jersey the papa has built on the surface, weeks before emerging, cones, or cylinders, of clay brought up from beneath to the height of from one to two-and-a-half inches, in continuation of the underground shaft.

These structures have been discovered this year in perhaps twenty localities in New York state and a half-dozen in New Jersey. They are quite exceptional, for previous to this year they had been reported from only two localities in the United States, and only one specimen was known in museums—that of the United States National museum at Washington.

One brief notice of them only occurs in the entire literature of cicada septendecim up to the present year. They are built at least one month before the insect escapes from them. The object of their building, what purpose they serve or why they are so exceptional is entirely unknown, and no satisfactory reasons can be assigned for their construction.

In one locality, observed at New Baltimore, N. Y., twenty-five of them could be counted to the square foot. They formed a miniature adobe city.

HEAVY RAINFALL AT BOSTON.

Guests Carried from a Flooded Restaurant on Waiters' Backs.

Boston, Aug. 21.—The rainfall of yesterday afternoon was, in the briefest time, the greatest ever recorded by the weather bureau in this city. In fifty-two minutes the rain fall was 1.65 inches. Aside from the excessive rain, the shower was not abnormal, the wind being light and the lightning not particularly severe. The heavy floods caused by the storm poured into the cafe in the basement of Fellner's restaurant. The many guests in dinner were obliged to finish their meals perched high on the stools.

Then came the question of getting out. The floor was flooded to the depth of eight to twelve inches. Deliverance came in the shape of bare-footed waiters, who carried out the imprisoned guests on their backs. The restaurant of the same name on Exchange place received an equal drenching. The basements of all the buildings on Dock square and from there down through the market section to the wharves presented a very sorry appearance.

SEVERE ELECTRIC STORM.

Considerable Damage Done in the Vicinity of Middletown, Conn.

Middletown, Conn., Aug. 21.—A severe electrical storm struck Higganum about noon, accompanied by high wind and hail. Lightning struck the house of C. H. Treadwell, demolishing the chimney and unroofing the ell. Mr. Treadwell, his daughter, her husband and two children were shocked, and an infant child in the bedroom overhead was buried beneath the falling plaster, but escaped uninjured.

Hezekiah Scoville's house was also struck and a 200-pound stone, on top of the chimney, together with the chimney, fell into the house. Several workmen in Scoville's factory received severe shocks. It was the worst storm for five years. The damage done to other houses down the river was quite severe. Crops were destroyed by hail.

M'PHERSON NOT TO RESIGN.

The Senator Denies the Truthfulness of the Washington Report.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 21.—The Daily Advertiser publishes the following from its New York correspondent:

"Senator McPherson told the Daily Advertiser correspondent, at his office, 136 Chambers street, that the statement published in the form of a dispatch from Washington yesterday that he contemplated resigning his seat in the United States senate was absolutely without foundation. The statement, he said, was never authorized or even hinted at by him in any form. He said that when he decided to retire from public life he would give due and timely notice of the act.

"The senator intends sailing for Europe to-morrow on a brief trip for the benefit of his health."

Typhoid Epidemic at Elizabeth.

Elizabeth, N. J., Aug. 21.—Typhoid fever has become epidemic here, over fifty cases having been reported, and a joint investigation by the local and state boards of health is probable. To the use of polluted water is attributed the cause of the outbreak. The health boards will also investigate the case of mysterious poisoning of children at Elizabethport, which was charged to polluted well water.

Celebrated Her 100th Birthday.

Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 21.—Mrs. Mary Morey celebrated her 100th birthday at her home, on Sandwich street, yesterday. There was a steady stream of callers, three generations being represented. Many remembrances were received from friends. Mrs. Morey is a native of Plympton, but has lived in Plymouth the past seventy-five years. Her health is remarkably good for her age.

New York Populists Active.

New York, Aug. 21.—The populists of New York city have determined to nominate their own city and county ticket, and have asked organized labor to enter the field of politics and unite forces under their standard. The populists of the state will also hold a convention and put a state ticket in the field. The state convention has been called to meet in Saratoga September 11 and 12.

COLONEL'S HARD FIGHT

Breckinridge's Efforts at Lexington a Failure.

The Voters Decline To Be Converted to the Disgraced Congressman's Faith—An Exciting Incident During the Speaking—One Man Accidentally Shot.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 21.—The Breckinridge storming of Hon. W. C. Owens' home yesterday was a failure, so far as converting the citizens of Dick Johnson's old home to the Breckinridge faith was concerned. Special trains were run from all points in the Ashland congressional district, and probably 2,000 people landed in the city. On nearly every house and the Lancaster hotel, where Colonel Breckinridge stopped, placards were thickly tacked up bearing the device: "Our candidate, Hon. W. C. Owens."

The speaking took place in the court house, which held only about 600 people. There were probably 200 women present. Colonel Breckinridge was introduced by Dr. John Lewis, who said that he did not condone the adulterous acts of Colonel Breckinridge, but was not willing to desert a friend in need. The colonel was on his metal and did his best to convert some of his Scott county opponents, but his dragging into the campaign the name of their idol, Richard M. Johnson, was too much and not a man extended the colonel his hand of sympathy.

The colonel reached Georgetown before any of the trains arrived, but passed through the streets unnoticed to the hotel, where a few people entertained him until his friends came in.

There was an exciting incident during the speaking. Professor J. Poynts Nelson, of this city, was shot through the left thigh, and for awhile the excitement ran very high, but it was soon found out that the shooting was accidental, the wound being inflicted by a pistol in the hands of George Glass, a Breckinridge man, who was trying to shoot a negro, with whom he was involved in a difficulty. Both Glass and the negro were arrested.

DESTITUTION AT PULLMAN.

Gov. Altgeld Finds the Late Strikers in a Sad Plight.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Governor Altgeld, in his official capacity, came from the state capital yesterday to personally investigate the condition of 1,000 destitute ex-employes of the Pullman Palace Car company, their wives and children. Chairman Heathcote, of the strike committee, and his colleagues had written a letter to the governor, telling him the former employes of the company who were out of work were in a starving condition, and that their families were also suffering for want of the necessities of life. After a thorough investigation the governor found that this statement of the condition of the idle people in Pullman and its vicinity were not exaggerated; he also found that there was no longer any strike at Pullman; that all the old men had been applying daily for work for the last ten days. All not employed are now suffering men and women, not strikers.

The governor proposes to relieve the unfortunate people as quickly as he can get the city authorities to act.

Pardons for Coxeyites.

Baltimore, Aug. 21.—Christopher Columbus Jones and Marshal McKee were released from the house of correction yesterday through Gov. Brown's pardon. These men were in charge of "Gen." Coxey's forces at Hyattsville, when the raid was made by the Baltimore police and were, with the others, sentenced to three months for vagrancy. Jones and McKee intended to fight the governor in the courts, but accepted their unconditional pardons and left for Hyattsville to wind up Coxey's camp. The remaining Coxeyites will be pardoned and sent out of the state in a day or two.

THE HEART

is liable to great functional disturbance through sympathy. Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, often causes it to palpitate in a distressing way. Nervous Prostration, Debility and Impoverished Blood, also cause its too rapid pulsations. Many times, Spinal Affections, cause it to labor unduly. BABY'S SECOND SUMMER

MOST ANXIOUS TIME FOR MOTHERS AND NURSES.

Greater Susceptibility to Sudden Intestinal Disorders—Worse Than the First Few Months of Its Life—Lactated Food.

The dangers of the "second summer" have always been a familiar piece of nursery wisdom.

Every year, with a regularity that strikes terror into thousands of homes, there comes with the midsummer weather the present fearful jump in the death rate among children. As physicians continually warn parents, extraordinary care in baby's food is now essential.

An intimate knowledge of just what babies require to keep well and free from summer illness, produced lactated food. Children fed on this thoughtfully considered nutriment grow rapidly and develop bone and muscle, as well as into fat, plump babies. It contains every necessity for baby's rapid growth.

A food as simple in its composition, as rich in nutritive parts, and as closely resembling healthy mother's milk has never before been produced. Lactated food is also the proper thing for children when weaned, because they like it, and are thus easily led to this important change in diet.

In thousands of cases, where nursing protracted into warm weather has reduced the vitality and richness of the breast milk, babies that showed signs of fretfulness and often colic become again fat and sturdy when put on a diet of lactated food. It is undoubtedly true babies that have had the advantage of their mother's milk seem to stand the heat of summer best, providing the natural food agrees with them. But when hot weather brings down the strength of both mother and child there is always danger of the severe bowel affections which come on so suddenly and are so often fatal.

Physicians prescribe lactated food to be kept always on hand and used at once upon the first indication of looseness or loss of strength, or if baby is evidently not thriving on its present diet. Lactated food is the diet physicians use in their own families.

RENEWING ITS WORK.

To Those in Need, This Society Is a Friend Indeed.

The District Committee of the Charity Organization Aid Association met in the Crescent Avenue Church last night, to prepare for Fall work.

It was reported that 18 applications for work had come in to the Superintendent, Mrs. Woodruff, since Aug. 9, and 4 cases of need had been presented since Aug. 13. In each case of need provisions were given. 238 cases have been relieved since organization to date.

The applications for work ought to interest those looking for help, and the need of relief ought to appeal to those able to give funds to the treasury, which is low.

Those wanting work or help should apply to the Charity Organization rooms, corner North and Park avenues, or to the Relief Association rooms, Madison avenue and Second street.

PRISON PREACHING.

PLAINFIELD PEOPLE PROFIT BY EVANGELIST ELGAR'S ELOQUENCE.

This Famed Interpreter of the Gospel Tells of His Experiences Among Fallen Men, and Vibrates the Strings of the Human Heart into Responsive Concord.

The pulpit of the Park Avenue Baptist Church was supplied Sunday by Rev. Thomas Elgar, Prison Evangelist, of Williams Bridge. The congregations were large.

In the morning he preached on "A Ten-Stringed Instrument", taking for his text the second verse of the thirty-third Psalm, "Praise the Lord with harp; sing unto Him with the psaltery and an instrument of ten strings", and said in part:

"John at Patmos saw twenty-four elders praising Christ, in his vision of heaven. In the temple the musical service must have been inspiring. I believe in the consecrating of our voices to God. David was a cunning player; his ten-stringed instrument drove the evil spirit out of Saul. Mercy, salvation, joy, strength, and contentment, are five of the strings with which we should praise Him today. The first string is mercy; we live in a day of mercy, and our mercies are without number.

"Working among the prisoners, I find it so hard to obtain any mercy for them. Look at what was done to obtain mercy for Carlyle Harris. Another case that comes to mind is that of a young man, about 22, escaped from a work-house. After several weeks he was captured, accused of attempting the life of a keeper, and given a sentence so severe that it seemed to all terrible. He was to remain two years more in the workhouse, and finish his term of imprisonment, then go to State Prison for twenty years, and finally serve one year more in the workhouse for carrying firearms. He was not allowed at service for fear of violence. I went to his cell—and such an interview! he said all the wickedness he knew he had learned at the work-house. His friends and I asked that he might be sent to State Prison immediately, where he would be better treated. He was at last sent, and had a promise of something else being done if he did well for the next five years. But only recently I received a letter from his sister saying he had died in the hospital, but, thank God! believing in Christ.

"How hard it is to obtain human mercy! But our God is not like that. He responds immediately to our call. What a wonderful Saviour!

"Salvation is the next string. A man saved from fire or from shipwreck tells everyone the tale of his deliverance, and we rejoice. A prisoner pardoned is so happy; and yet we are not thrilled as we should be at the wonderful mercy of God who gives us salvation.

"Three other strings: Joy, strength and contentment: how they vibrate! But fullest contentment comes not here but 'when we awake in His likeness'. We long to be like Him, and see Him and the 'home not made with hands'

"This instrument has ten strings, of which I have given but five; the sixth is the storm string. We all enjoy storm music and every organist and pianist has some storm piece; but there are storms in our lives — illness, and financial troubles—that are not so enjoyable. See the hard times during the past year; they come from the storm of error we have allowed to sweep over our land. We have worshiped and thought more of Columbus than of God. We bow to the almighty dollar, making a god of it. Then there are the storms of doubt and fear. In these, let us turn not to books nor men, but fly to God. Go to Gethsemane or Calvary.

"In Sing Sing there was a young man who had fallen from high place. Imprisoned for years, melancholy seized him. Fond of nature, he wrote a song, which I will read:

"The roses bloom in the garden,
The bee comes wooing the flowers,
The song-bird pipes to her nest-mate
Through all the golden hours.

"The breeze is freighted with fragrance
From forest, and field, and lea;
But youth has fled, and hope lies dead:
So what are they all to me?

"The blue-bird rocks in the tree-tops,
Free as the Summer air,
Swings and sways and warbles
With never a flutter of care.

"Memories never haunt him,
No thought of the morrow has he,
But the guarded wall like a sombre pall
O'ershadows it all for me.

"I sit in the glowing twilight,
And gaze on the evening sky,
On the glorious sunset banners
That athwart the hill-tops fly;

"Till the diamond eyes of heaven
Look down on the bond and the free—
But I see the stars through prison bars—
So what are they all to me!

"Ah! the flowers have lost their perfume,
The Summer breezes are chill,
The bees are naught but gluttons,
And harsh the songbirds trill:

"For the mighty voices of nature,
Of heaven, of earth, of sea,
Have naught of cheer for the prisoner's ear:
What, what, are they all to me!

"A song from an instrument out of tune, hopeless, despairing! Oh, young men here this morning, may you never have to write such a song as that!

"Another string—that of tears. In Springfield, Mass., I met a man who for years had been away from God. His children died, and he had no God to comfort him in his utter grief. Through this affliction and those tears God brought him back to himself. 'Blessed are they that mourn.' I pity the man who cannot cry.

"The next string is the shepherd string; we touch it again and again.

"The nineth string is the bugle call 'Awake!'—the string of enthusiasm. The forces of evil seem uppermost everywhere. Are we as active as we should be? Do we respond to His call? We should awake and go forth in His name after those who are lost. It is our business.

"The last and greatest string is the string of praise. God is good to us; surely we should praise Him. We cannot touch any of the strings without this one. From Him comes every good and perfect gift."

In the evening Rev. Mr. Elgar spoke on "Forgotten Men; or, Trumpet Blasts from Stone Walls", saying:

"Most ancient of musical instruments is the trumpet. It was used on joyful occasions, but usually as a warning. It is always necessary to warn the people, and I am here to re-echo the blasts from the prison-walls.

"The message of Jesus Christ is always received eagerly by the prisoners. Many are crying for that to which they are strangers. 'Tis our duty to help them. The prisoners are very wicked, but there are many wicked men outside of the prison-walls. I have often been asked what is the use of preaching to the men in jail. The only way for these forgotten creatures to rise is through the Lord Jesus Christ, and He must be brought to them. There is no other remedy for their moral diseases. I am glad that I can go to tell those wretches of the stepping-stones to their Shepherd.

"A chaplain once asked me to attend his Christian Endeavor society. I did, but was sorry not to hear any of their experiences in the Christian life. Remember the prisoners in your Christian Endeavor meetings, in your prayer meetings; let them not say that they are forgotten by the world."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PLAINFIELD'S SEWERS.

No Provision for Home Labor in the Form of Contract Adopted.

The Plainfield Common Council in special session last night rescinded its former resolution fixing August 21 as the date for opening sealed bids, for sewer construction, and set Wednesday, September 5, as the date.

A form of Sewerage contract was adopted, against which Mr. Frazee spoke because it contained no provision for giving home laborers the preference; and Messrs. Frazee, Millington and Westphal voted against that form of contract.

Those voting for it were Messrs. See, Bird, Ginna, Erickson, Dumont and Stockton.

The Clerk was instructed to procure 200 printed copies of the proposed specifications and contract, and to advertise the call for bids.

A PLAINFIELDER CHOSEN.

Miss Spangenberg Accepts a High Honor in C. E. Work.

Plainfield is to be congratulated on the high honor which is hers in having one of its daughters chosen for the management of a great and noble work.

The young woman is Miss Alice Spangenberg, daughter of the ex-Councilman. She has been a most faithful District Secretary of the Christian Endeavor cause, and has shown such remarkable qualities in managing and building up the work that she has been besought to accept the high and important office of State Superintendent of the Missionary Department in New Jersey. After long consideration and constant urging she has accepted. Her decision will bring much joy to Christian Endeavorers throughout the State, and is another laurel wreath for Plainfield.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Trinity Reformed Church will be closed next Sunday, it being in the midst of its annual house cleaning.

The pulpit of the Crescent Avenue Church will be filled Sunday by Rev. Dr. Raymond, President of Union College. The Doctor has truly a host of Plainfield friends, who will be glad of this opportunity to hear again the preaching of this former Plainfield pastor.

"I am no fanatic, I hope, as to Sunday," —said Joseph Cook—"but I look abroad over the map of popular freedom in the world and it does not seem to me accidental that Switzerland, Scotland, England and the United States, the countries which best observe Sunday, constitute almost the entire map of safe popular government."

Editor Pearsall says in The Westfield Standard: "When our preachers have the courage to teach a broader humanity from the pulpit, and to welcome the mechanic with the threadbare coat to as high a place in the synagogue as the 'sister' in her silks and diamonds, their congregations will increase vastly, and labor will come to see that religion means something for it beside the dried bones of dogma and the skeleton of a soulless theology."

Reception to Firemen.

The Committee on Soldiers and Sailors Work of the W. C. T. U., under the direction of Mrs. M. C. Dobbins are arranging for a reception to be given the firemen of the city Tuesday evening, August 28, in their rooms on Watchung avenue. A literary and musical programme will be rendered, followed by a collation.

Continues in Good Hands.

The Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company has bought out the local retail business of the Hygiene Ice Company, supplying 125 customers. The Hygiene Company will continue to manufacture ice and sell it at wholesale all along the road, and will supply the Cold Storage Company with the purest and best of ice for Plainfield people.

—A grand subscription concert will be given in Hotel Netherwood Thursday night.

INGERSOLL MANIA.

Suicides Result from the Colonel's Declarations.

(Special to The Press)

New York, Aug. 21.—A policeman walking in Central Park shortly after 6 this morning, found the bodies of a man and woman in the ramble opposite Eightieth street. That of the woman had a bullet wound in her breast and the man's was shot through the heart.

Letters found on the bodies indicated the names of the persons, Juliet Fournier, twenty-six years old, and Julius de Marcus.

From the position of the bodies when found it was apparent that DeMarcus had shot the woman before killing himself. She lay on her face on the ground and his body had fallen across hers also face downward.

The police say that premeditation in the act was plain. The man was seen about the neighborhood as early as ten yesterday, and it is supposed that the woman met him at a much later hour. The bodies were still slightly warm when found.

In one of the man's pockets was found a newspaper clipping concerning a recent letter by Robert G. Ingersoll declaring the right to commit suicide.

Paterson, Aug. 21 — Rudolph Gloor committed suicide at George Britt's Cedar Cliff Hotel Haledon sometime last night or early this morning by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. He was 79 years of age, and unable to work. He had lived with Britts, through the kindness of the latter for two years. He was an early riser, and when he did not appear at breakfast this morning, Britt visited his room to find him dead. Gloor spent Sunday reading the New York World's sensational articles on Ingersoll's claim that suicide was justifiable.

THE POPE WAS PROSTRATED.

He Had an Attack of Syncope on Sunday, from Which He Has Recovered.

[Special to The Press]

Rome, Aug. 21—It is learned that the Pope is prostrated by an attack of syncope Sunday, and for a short time his condition greatly alarmed the members of his household.

He recovered, however, and is reported today to be in excellent health.

Byers' Kidnapping Case.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The case of alleged kidnapping of Ebenezer M. Byers, the Pittsburg iron manufacturer, by Dr. W. Lewis Tallman, of this city, came before Judge Sears yesterday. The court gave Mrs. Byers' lawyer until this afternoon to file the traverse of the answer made by the doctor.

Socialist Nominations.

Elizabeth, N. J., Aug. 21.—The Socialistic labor party's Union county convention, held here, nominated for congress James Bell, of Plainfield; Randolph S. Miller, of Elizabeth, and Arthur Scott, of Plainfield.

York Mills To Resume Sept. 4.

Biddeford, Me., Aug. 21.—The York mills will probably start September 4. The employes have not been notified, but there are prospects that they soon will be.

Millionaire's Son Arrested.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Allen Lewis Alford, the young son of General George S. Alford, a prominent citizen of Dallas, Tex., a millionaire and politician of note, was arrested here last night on the charge of forgery.

There died recently in Madrid Don F. Madrazo, one of the most gifted artists of Spain. He had reached the Biblical limit in age. Among his most famous pictures are "Godfrey of Bouillon Proclaimed King of Jerusalem," painted in 1839; "Marie Christine as a Nun at the Bed of Ferdinand VII," "Women at the Sepulchre of Christ," and many portraits of Spanish aristocrats. There is great regret in Spain at his death.—New York Herald.

Corporation Notice.

Proposals for Sewers

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a special meeting duly called for the purpose held August 20, 1894, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1894, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the city of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials in the construction of such portion of the sewer contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25, 1894, as provided for in the plans and specifications now on file in the office of the City Clerk, No. 109 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $1,000, payable to the Treasurer of the city of Plainfield.

The Engineer's estimate of the quantities of material required and the work to be done is approximately as follows:

10 feet 24 inch pipe sewer.
3,780 feet 18 inch pipe sewer.
6,130 feet 15 inch pipe sewer.
6,570 feet 12 inch pipe sewer.
1,095 feet 10 inch pipe sewer.
9,910 feet 8 inch pipe sewer.
960 Y branches.
67 manholes.
28 drop connections at manholes.
25 lamp holes.
Two 150 gallon flush tanks.
One 1,000 gallon flush tank.
300 extension connections on Y branches.
5,000 feet tile under drains.

Duplicate plans may be examined and forms of proposal, specifications, contract, bond, etc., may be obtained at the office of the Engineer, 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

All proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Sewers."

JAMES T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

Allen, Peapack, Somerset
nd a most congenial home it is.
en is postmaster now, and held the office during Cleveland's first administration. He is also a director of the First National Bank of Somerville, a stockholder and director of the Rockaway Valley Railroad, and a director in the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Somerset County. Besides supervising the care of his large farms, he makes yearly western trips and buys largely of Indiana sheep, bringing them to his fertile Jersey fields and turning them loose to graze and grow fat for the market. He is eminently a man of honor, and his wisdom and uprightness in all his dealings make him a source of advice and counsel for the many who go to him. During Mr. Allen's absence from home (and he is necessarily away a part of nearly every week day) his farm is looked after by a competent and careful steward, Elias Trimmer, who keeps everything in fine trim indeed.

Peapack progresses. Several fine dwellings are in course of construction. A stage line makes quick trips to and from Somerville under the personal operation of its sociable and accommodating owner, Charles Crater. We found the trip of 12 miles a very enjoyable one, and hope soon to make it again.

The stage is not the only local transit, for Peapack has two railroads, the celebrated Rockaway Valley, and the D., L. and W. The country is beautiful with its diversity of hills, all under a high state of cultivation. It is a lovely, thrifty, prosperous community.

Our visit to the Peapack farm was a splendid rest amid home comfort and Nature's beauties. The hospitable treatment of Mrs. Allen and of her daughter Miss Sarah are a treasure of memory, and the good things of their bountiful table were a continual delight to appetite and good digestion.

During our visit we were treated to a ride to Mendham and Bernardsville. Mr. Allen, we regretted, had made a previous business engagement, and could not go with us, but his right-hand man Mr. Trimmer guided the mettlesome horses over the smooth hard roads. The three-seat wagon was easy riding, the driveways were superb, and the speed was brisk. Soon we reached Mendham, Morris County, and thanks to the courtesy of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company were enabled to talk to Plainfield and ask for further leave of absence in order to drive around the beautiful settlement of Mendham and then continue to that charming Summer resort Bernardsville, a queen among the rare green hills. Space forbids giving a list of the elegant country seats there. If you h but never been, go as soon as you can revel in your surprise and wonder at vastness of the display of wealth an the glory of the scenery.

You can depend on cordial gree from the people, and delight and wo at the scenic splendor that awaits among these nearby hills.

Four cyclers from out of town visited Dunellen Sunday, and evidently had a nervous attack caused by tarrying too long at the flowing bowl. The exhibition was painfully amusing to the spectators.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the New Market Baptist Church will give a peach and ice-cream festival on Dr. W. J. Nelson's lawn this evening. Friendship Cornet Band will furnish the music. All who go are promised a good time.

Mrs. George Messler and daughters are greatly incensed at the false story of the New Brunswick Home News, and will tomorrow visit the office of that paper and demand a retraction. This family lives quietly, peaceably and happily, and it is a shame that their quietude is disturbed by such false reports.

COMMUTERS COLUMN.

The Central Railroad Company of New Jersey has made special reductions in the rates to Washington, on account of the convention of Knights of Pythias. The convention will be held at the National capital from August 27 to September 5 inclusive. The tickets will be sold at special rates from August 23 to 28 inclusive, and will be good for return until September 15.

A commuter who crosses the Jersey Central ferry twice a day says that he would be contented with his lot if Congress would pass an act driving out of the country the bootblacks who have a monopoly of the business on the ferry-boats, and against whom The Press has so repeatedly directed attention. "These boys"—he said—"are all energetic Italians, with sharp, ringing voices. From the time the boat starts until she makes fast to the slip they keep up a continual screaming. They won't allow pas- but r for protection. They get their hined when they reach New York, ve declared an uncompromising t against the Italians."

An Old Shirt for a New.

A crowd of men and boys were attracted to Hop Lee's laundry on West Front street, last evening, about 7:30 by loud talk. It seemed that Fritz Conde had left a new shirt to be laundered, and after getting his package home found an old shirt. This angered him, and back he went. It all ended in talk, however.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

When will Watchung avenue be opened is a question one frequently hears As it has already cost the taxpayers about $7,000 and the street has not been opened it will be pretty safe to say that it never will be, unless the costs are saddled on the taxpayers at large. That part of the street already opened went through unimproved property which is improving every day, and if the ones who should move in the matter would only take up the question, they certainly would hear some loud talking. Call a meeting and face the subject at once.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The officers of the Christian Endeavor society are trying to secure a $75 round-trip rate from New York to the convention which meets in San Francisco next year.

New Jersey Christian Endeavorers are hopeful that the great convention of 1895 will come to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. Ten thousand dollars will be needed for the expenses. Senator Bradley has pledged $500, and other pledges for nearly $2,000 have been secured. At the Cleveland convention over 30,000 delegates registered. Were the convention to come to the "twin cities by the sea" there would be thousands more in attendance.

The plan adopted by the New Jersey State Union of having a State Endeavor flag has found many followers in other unions. The Philadelphia union recently selected an ensign of red and blue, and thousands of these will be seen at the next convention. The New Jersey flag of orange and black is very handsome, made of silk, mounted on a rubber staff, which can be disjointed and carried in the pocket. Every one of the 225 delegates at Cleveland carried this State emblem.

"OUR MARY'S" DEBUT.

HER FIRST ROMEO TELLS AN INTERESTING STORY.

A Ridiculous Recitation, Followed by a Four Months' Canvass for the Sale of Tickets, Precedes Her Discouraging Debut as Juliet.

W. M. Griffiths, an actor who played Romeo to Mary Anderson's first Juliet, tells the Louisville Courier-Journal the story of her debut. Perhaps a few grains of salt should go with the story, but whether all fact, or part fact and part romance, it is thoroughly interesting.

"I can well remember," Mr. Griffiths said, "the first time Mary Anderson ever recited to show professional people what she could do. The scene was too thoroughly ridiculous ever to be forgotten. I was then a member of Barney McAuley's stock company here and was the leading actor. After the performance one night I was just going out the stage door when Johnny Mackey, now dead, called me back.

"'Hold on,' he said, 'you don't want to miss the fun. We've got a stage-struck girl here and she's going to recite.'

"I walked back into the theatre, and there on the stage was a strip of an undeveloped girl who couldn't have weighed one hundred pounds. There was but one thing about her to attract attention, and this was her eyes. I never saw eyes which seemed so large and furtive. In the front row sat Barney McAuley and a lot of newspaper men. Soon she began to recite from 'Romeo and Juliet,' and when she came to the part where the love-lorn lass refers to her ancestor's bones, she got down on the stage and rolled all over the place. She wore a dark dress of the cheapest material. The stage was never scrubbed and not swept with any great regularity. The result was that she caused quite a cloud of dust, and Barney and the newspaper men applauded uproariously, laughed immoderately, and shouted 'Bravo!' with such intensity that her words could scarcely be heard.

"When she had finished the newspaper men insisted on having more, and she stood in a frightened way, with her large eyes glancing timidly from one to another, apparently willing to recite further selections. Her dress, which had been dark, had become perfectly white with stage dust, and Barney concluded the gang had enjoyed enough for one evening, and told the girl that would do. This was Mary Anderson's first appearance as an aspirant for dramatic honors.

"Later she came to Barney McAuley and said she wanted to make her debut in 'Romeo and Juliet.'

"'My child,' said Barney, 'you can have my theatre if you will pay me $400 for it whenever you are ready to appear.'

"'But where am I to get that much money?' she asked in despair.

"Barney then suggested that she go around and get people pledged to attend the performance. If they didn't want to buy tickets, he would accept the pledges of business men in good standing. So out she started, trudging the streets from place to place. For four weary months she kept going daily.

"Finally she raised the amount and went to Barney, who had never dreamed the girl would succeed. Only Barney and Mrs. McAuley were present when the delighted girl told of her success. After Barney realized the girl had actually raised the sum he had fixed, he asked what play she had chosen for her debut.

"'Romeo and Juliet.'" was her answer.

"'But, my dear,' he remonstrated, 'the costumes will cost you at least $150.'

"At this the poor girl fainted. She felt she could not raise another cent. When she had revived, Mrs. McAuley said the aspiring girl should wear her costumes. The idea of a strip of a girl in Mrs. McAuley's costumes was absurd, but she was too happy to think of this. When we came to rehearse the part, she was utterly unfitted for it. My greatest difficulty was in showing her how to act when she came to the lines 'My life, my love, my soul.' At the first, Juliet should gently caress Romeo, at 'my love', her arms should be thrown passionately about his neck, and when 'my soul' is reached, Juliet should fairly throw herself at Romeo. She was afraid even to put her arms coldly about my neck.

"'Have you ever been in love?' I asked.

"'No, sir,' was the timid reply.

"'Didn't you ever put your arms around a man's neck?'

"'No, sir!'

"'Then how in the world did you hap pen to select "Romeo and Juliet?"'

"'I don't know, sir. That was what I recited.'

"Though it was Saturday night the house was packed. My? what a failure she was! I never saw anything so awkward since I was born. She would go across the stage in three steps. I have never ceased wondering how she managed it. This put a stop to her career for a time. Ben Debar, of St. Louis, wrote Barney McAuley, stating he had an open date, and would like to have an attraction. Barney responded that there was a girl here who had packed his house, principally on the claim that she was the daughter of a Confederate General, though he didn't know whether her father had been in the army at all. By working on Southern sentiment, Barney thought St. Louis people might be worked, too. This was tried with capital results.

"John Norton was attracted by this and undertook to star her, with the result that he lost every copper he had. Prior to this Dr. Griffin had persuaded his brother to put up $1,000 to take Miss Anderson and her company through small Kentucky towns. They came to me and I refused to go, saying it was pure madness. The brother backed out then. Miss Anderson has since thanked me for my action, saying that but for my good sense she would never have become famous

NO MORE SPEECHES

Republicans Have Heard Enough Tariff Talk.

Several Democratic Senators Ready With Campaign Speeches, But Any Attempt To Deliver Them Will Be Met With Opposition—Congress Now Only Awaiting Adjournment.

Washington, Aug. 21.—In explanation of the hasty adjournment of the senate yesterday until to-morrow, Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Chandler, in discussing the matter after the senate had adjourned, said that they had learned that there were at least half a dozen democrats who had prepared elaborate speeches, which it was the intention to have circulated by the democratic campaign committee in the congressional campaign. These speeches had been prepared without notice to the republicans so that they might reply; and, inasmuch as the democrats had been given every opportunity to speak during the long debate and had declined, the republicans were unwilling to permit the democrats to go into the matter and re-open the whole tariff debate, presenting the situation as they viewed it in the light of recent events. Both Mr. Chandler and Mr. Aldrich declared that the republicans would not permit these speeches to be made. They said there was no quorum in the city, and as the senate had declared that it was impracticable to have any more contested legislation at this session, the republicans were also unwilling that there should be any speeches for the purpose of explaining how it all came about and what it all meant. The indications are that the senate will simply drift, pending the arrival of the tariff bill, with whatever action the president may see fit to make. Any attempt to take up the free raw material bills will prove futile and any effort on the part of any democratic senator to take the floor to make a speech will be the signal for the point of no quorum to be made. It is the present intention of the minority to prevent action looking to the correction of the mistakes that may be found in the tariff bill, and if their policy should be carried out successfully the tariff bill as it stands will be put on trial, so to remain until the next session of congress.

House of Representatives.

The house was in session but fifty minutes yesterday, and in that time transacted but little business of importance. A bill was passed appropriating $9,000 for additional clerical force in the bureau of internal revenue and $5,000 for the expenses of the commission to determine the amount of the claim of the Venezuela Steam Transportation company, of New York, against Venezuela. The question was asked of Chairman Sayers if the $9,000 appropriation was made necessary by the operation of the proposed income tax, and he answered that it was probable, but he did not certainly know. A bill was also passed to incorporate the society of American florists, also a joint resolution directing the secretary of war to return to Massachusetts the flags of the Fifteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-third and Fifty-eighth regiments of Massachusetts volunteers. Mr. Tarsney's bill to amend the lead ore item, as agreed upon by the committee on ways and means, was reported and placed on the calendar.

The conference report upon the bill authorizing the secretary of the interior to grant rights of way and sites over and upon the public domain for gravel pits, reservoirs and pipe lines, was presented by Mr. Lacey (rep., Ia.) and agreed to. Mr. McCreary (dem., Ky.) endeavored to secure consideration for the substitute for Mr. Boutelle's resolution recognizing the Hawaiian republic, and reported from the committee on foreign affairs; but Mr. Payne (rep., N. Y.) objected on the ground that minority members of the committee not present desired to discuss the matter. In response to Mr. McCreary's suggestion that there should be no further delay, Mr. Payne said the committee had waited so long before reporting the resolution that nothing would suffer by postponing action a day or two longer.

THE PRESIDENT'S PLANS.

After a Day on the Water He Leaves To-Day For Washington.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Aug. 21.—The president took his first fishing trip down the bay yesterday. He was accompanied by Dr. O'Reilly and Captain Evans. They left in the Ruth soon after 8, and after fishing most all day for scup and tautog they made sail for Gray Gables. The wind had fairly died out but with a favorable tide Ruth reached the landing at 7:30 p. m. It was a long, slow sail. Scup and tautog have struck into the bay and the president and his party had fairly good luck. Unless Mr. Cleveland changes his mind he will leave for New York on the John D. Rogers this afternoon, arriving in Washington to-morrow afternoon.

The Disease Spreading, Despite the Efforts of Health Authorities.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 21.—Despite the assertions of the health authorities that they are able to cope with the small-pox and prevent an epidemic, the disease is rapidly spreading. Eight new cases were reported during the past twenty-four hours, and the pest-house is so overcrowded it was found necessary to erect tents for the accommodation of patients. That fact is said to be the cause of an outbreak in the vicinity of the pest-house.

Tarsney Did Not Prosecute.

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 21.—The cases of the men accused of tarring and feathering Adjutant-General Tarsney were called yesterday afternoon in Justice McCoach's court at Colorado City, but the prosecutors failed to put in an appearance and the cases were dismissed.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

36 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify, with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

STUDIES IN SCIENCE

Interesting Papers Read at the New York Meetings.

"Salt and Savagery," "The Dwarf Race of the World," "Iriquois Migration," "Evolution in Cooking Schools," and "Coxey's Army" Some of the Subjects Discussed.

New York, Aug. 22.—Before the section of anthropology at the association of science meeting yesterday afternoon Frank Hamilton Cushing, government ethnologist for the bureau of American ethnology at Washington, read a paper on "Salt and Savagery." He referred to the universal liking for salt among the Indians of America. The Indians believed that the first salt came from the sun.

According to Indian mythology there is a salt goddess, who is a daughter of the ocean. Mr. Cushing related geneology, and then proceeded to discuss the influence of salt upon the culture of the Indians in the southwest. He stated that he believed that nothing led the cliff dwellers down from their inaccessable dwellings to live in villages more than their desire for salt. Coming down from his arboreal retreat, where he lived on nuts and fruit, he found the seashore and acquired a taste for a substance now universally used.

R. C. Haliburton read an interesting paper on "The Dwarf Races of the New World," and "Iroquois Migration" was the subject of a brief paper by Rev. Dr. Beauchamp.

Before the section of botany Dr. Byron D. Halsted, in a paper on "A Root Rot of Beets," described a new disease of those vegetables.

Major Jed Hotchkiss, of Staunton, Va., showed specimens of wood cut from trees that had been marked by surveyors 107 years ago. The presence of the injury was still manifest upon the surface of the trees after all these years. The growth per year was about one-twelfth on an inch.

A paper on "Evidences as to the Former Existence of Large Trees on Nantucket Island" was read by Dr. Burt G. Wilder, of Cornell university, who stated that he believed that when the island was first settled the greater part of the area north of the southern plains was covered with a forest growth, which afforded some architectural timber.

The social science and statistics section listened to papers on "The Defects in Municipal Fire Departments," "The Evolution in Cooking Schools in Washington, D. C.," and "Coxey's Army and the Russian Thistle."

The papers on the first two subjects were read by Mrs. Laura Osborne Talbott. Mrs. Talbott has the interest of the firemen much at heart. She declared that, along with all the usual fire equipments of the fire department, each municipality should provide fireproof and water-proof clothing and robes, made of asbestos or other material, for each fireman, at the expense of the city.

B. E. Fernon, chief of the forestry division, department of agriculture, spoke at the association rooms on "The Battle of the Forest." He stated that the earth is a potential forest. If left to itself, without interference by man, the forests would finally occupy all the ground. Its perennial nature and height above all other vegetation and its remarkable recuperative powers secure this final victory to the arborescent flora.

MANY PUBLIC BEQUESTS.

Over $100,000 Disposed Of by the Will of the Late Arthur Rotch.

Boston, Aug. 22.—The will of the late Arthur Rotch, the well-known architect, gives more than $100,000 to public and charitable purposes.

To Abbott Lawrence Rotch and William Caleb Loring, his trustees, he gives $25,000 in trust to pay the income to his aunt, Joanna Rotch, of Milton, during her life, and at her death the whole of the principal is to go to the Massachusetts Eye and Ear infirmary. The Boston Childrens' Aid society is given $5,000; Boston Architectural club $5,000 for the purchase of books and collections; trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts, $25,000.

To the president and fellows of Harvard college is given $25,000 for the use of the Lawrence Scientific school for the formation and maintenance of a department of architecture.

In Memory of Bishop McMahon.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 22.—Impressive ceremonies were held at St. Joseph's cathedral yesterday, it being the anniversary of Bishop McMahon's death. A solemn requiem mass for the repose of the bishop's soul was said, the celebrant being Bishop Tierney, assisted by several priests. The cathedral was heavily draped in purple and black, and about seventy priests of the diocese participated in the services.

THE BIG MILL STRIKES

Situation at New Bedford Unchanged To-Day.

Now Resolved Into a Fight Between the Yarn and Cotton Mills—Believed That Concessions Will Be Made to the Spinners, Thus Compelling Other Workers To Go In.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 22.—The strike situation to-day has apparently changed but little. Neither side has made any concessions, and the situation has resolved itself into a fight between the yarn and cotton mills. It is thought that in less than a week after the Howland, Pierce and City Manufacturing companies' mills start up that all the other yarn mills will be running, but that the other mills will make a fight for awhile and then make concessions to the spinners who will go in, compelling the other operatives to follow. This is an opinion generally heard among those most interested in the strike.

Notices posted on the Wamsutta mills gates indicate a bitter strike, the help being called "late employes."

The situation among the weavers is vastly different than among the other classes of operatives. The weavers contend that they have not only suffered a cut down in wages by an actual reduction, but also a cut down by being paid by the pound. The bitterness of their sentiments was demonstrated last evening at a mass-meeting, held in the South park, where hundreds crowded around and listened to an interesting appeal from Secretary Hart, of their union. The meeting was called to see how the weavers felt on the particulars bill. The chairman announced that it was decided at the meeting of the union weavers on Monday morning, and a resolution passed to that effect, that the weavers do not return to work until particulars are furnished and that the particulars bill be made the issue of the strike, as far as the weavers are concerned. The chairman further said that he was not going to be cut down, but that he expected to have his warps cut out soon after he returned to work, and the new goods would be put in, which would probably be equivalent to a reduction of from 15 to 20 per cent. The chairman called for a vote on the motion that the weavers do not return to work until the manufacturers agree to comply with the particulars bill. It was carried unanimously, and cheers rent the air to show the weavers' enthusiasm.

Andrew G. Pierce in an interview said yesterday: "We are indifferent on the question of the strike so far as its effects upon the mills is concerned, and are entirely willing to shut down under the circumstances. It the operatives were unwilling to continue working under a cut down, that is their concern. Under existing conditions the inducements to continue operating the mills were scarcely worth the while, and we have all agreed to shut down indefinitely, with the exception of Mr. Howland."

"Do you consider his attitude a violation of the compact entered into by the several corporations?"

"I cannot look at it in any other light. Perhaps he can. I dare say he will stand before the country as a great philanthropist and friend of labor."

STABBED A FRENCH OFFICER.

Another Dangerous Anarchist Arrested in Paris.

Paris, Aug. 22.—Albert Daudey, a militant anarchist, stabbed Police Sergeant Babestan in the Rue de la Cite Monday evening. He was overpowered by two policemen and was got to the station after a brisk tussle. The sergeant was removed to a hospital, where an examination showed that the wound was not a mortal one. He is making fair progress towards recovery.

When confronted by a commissary of police shortly after the stabbing, Daudey boasted that he was an anarchist. He was sorry, he said, that the wound was not a mortal one. He had mistaken Babestan for Poisson, the officer who arrested Emile Henry. Somebody else would have to dispose of Poisson now. After Poisson's death, Daudey said, Premier Dupuy and President Casimir-Perier would be cared for by the anarchists.

Two men who loitered near Daudey when he attacked Babestan ran away as soon as they saw the policemen coming.

ALTOONA BANK FAILURE.

Another Sensation and Greater Surprises Said To Be Coming.

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 22.—The arrest of Harry Claybaugh, assistant cashier of the Second National bank, was followed last night by another sensation—the receipt of a telegram from the Gilkinson Detective agency, at Pittsburg, stating that Cashier Gardner had been seen in that city during the morning and asked an order for his arrest. This was given at once, but up to the present time his capture has not been announced.

Mr. Claybaugh, upon being approached after his arrest, refused to make any statement except that he would make startling revelations when his case came up for trial, and the impression was given that these revelations would implicate Bank Examiner Miller.

Work of a Great Little Mare.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Allx Monroe Salisbury's wonderful little mare created a sensation at Washington park yesterday by turning the track in 2:05 1-4 in an attempt to break the record for the course—2:06 1-4—made by Nancy Hanks in 1892. The concensus of opinion among well-known horsemen of this city after the race was that the performance was the grandest ever accomplished by any trotter, as the track was fully two seconds slow and the day hardly adapted for record smashing.

DEALT IN VILE LITERATURE.

The Arrests Made at Lancaster, Pa., Considered Very Important.

Philadelphia, Aug. 22.—Charles C. Rickerson, a lad of 17 years, who was arrested Monday in Lancaster, Pa., at the instance of Anthony Comstock for sending objectionable literature through the mails, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Craig here yesterday. He waived a hearing and was held in $1,000 bail.

M. L. Dellinger, aged 39 years, also of Lancaster, who was arrested by Mr. Comstock at the same time on the charge of printing the matter, will be tried at Lancaster, his offense not coming under the jurisdiction of the United States courts.

Mr. Comstock stated yesterday that the arrests were the most important he had ever made in Pennsylvania, and he was satisfied that the fountain head of the greatest publishers and distributors of vile matter in the country had been unearthed.

Young Rickerson told Mr. Comstock yesterday, so the latter states, that Dellinger's wife was a party to the crime, and that H. J. Gast, night clerk in the Lancaster post-office, advised the violators as to the method of distribution. No further arrests will be made at present, but Gast has been dismissed from the postal service.

Life-Saving Stations Re-opened.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Superintendent Kimball, of the life-saving service, has had a quick response to his orders, issued yesterday under authority of the new law that life-saving stations shall be in operation ten months in the year instead of eight, as heretofore, in which he directed that all stations along the Atlantic coast should be opened immediately. He received a telegram from his New Jersey superintendent saying that the stations along the Jersey coast would open to-day.

Wounded His Rival.

Glen Campbell, Pa., Aug. 22.—Robert Bettani, a wealthy Italian, owner of a large quarry, yesterday emptied the contents of a shotgun into William Wood, a weigh boss, at Urey mines. They were rivals for the hand of an 18-year-old daughter of Thomas Bellis, superintendent of the Urey Ridge Coal company, of this place. Bettani escaped. It is thought he made for Altoona, where he has considerable money. Wood is not dangerously hurt, although forty shot are lodged in his body.

Italian Banker Absconds.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 22.—There is weeping and wailing in the Italian colony over the sudden disappearance of Giovani de Fuscio, who conducted a "Banca Italiana" at No. 24 Boyden street. De Fuscio was supposed to be wealthy and the owner of a valuable row of brick houses of Boyden street, where his bank was located. The aggregate amount of which he absconded with is not obtainable, owing to the excitement among the depositors.

Will Not Need American Hops.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The American consul at Hamburg, Germany, reports to the state department that the hop harvest, which is but a few weeks off, will equal the yield of the most favorable years in the past, and in consequence American hops, which have been extensively used in Germany during the last year, owing to the small local yield and exhorbitant prices, will find few, if any, buyers in the Germar market.

Claim Against New York State.

Albany, Aug. 22.—The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company has filed with the state board of claims a claim for $93,123 for the destruction of the railroad embankment of Dr. Webb's railroad, running through the Adirondacks, which is operated by the New York Central Railroad company.

Preferred Death to Disgrace.

Middleburg, Pa., Aug. 22.—The dead body of George Bolander, son of Chas. Bolander, a well-to-do farmer, was found in the woods near town yesterday with a bullet hole through his head. He committed suicide rather than face allegations of theft made in a letter sent to him an hour before he shot himself.

For Violating Game Laws.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 22.—Game Warden Penney arrested Nason E. Oatley and James Smith yesterday for violating the game laws. The men belong in Connecticut, just over the state line, and have been purchasing quail, woodcock and partridges during the close season. As a result of their transactions the woods in the western part of the state have been nearly depleted of this game. The men have found a market for their goods among the Newport cottagers, who have been paying fancy prices in order to get the game at this time of the year.

HILL'S ANARCHIST BILL.

Provisions of the Measure Now Before the House.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The bill which the senate passed at the instance of Senator Hill, and which the house vainly tried to take up for passage yesterday, had these for its leading provisions:

No alien anarchist shall be permitted to land in the United States, but this prohibition shall not apply to political refugees who are not anarchists. The superintendent of immigration, when satisfied that any alien anarchist has been allowed to land, or that any alien resident of the United States is an anarchist whose presence in the country is a menace to the peace and well being of society, is authorized to arrest such anarchist, give him a public hearing, and, if the charges are supported, deport him from the United States.

In order to avoid any abuse of authority on the part of the superintendents of immigration, the person to be deported may appeal from his decision to the secretary of the treasury, who shall render a final decision. The additional safeguard is provided of a right to obtain a writ of habeas corpus from any United States judge who is authorized to review the findings of the superintendent and the secretary, and also on the question of alienage and identity.

The bill also directs the appointment of twelve immigration agents, who shall be stationed abroad and satisfy themselves as to the character of the persons intending to migrate to the United States, particularly whether they are anarchists, criminals or alien contract laborers.

The report which Mr. Boatner, of Louisiana, from the judiciary committee, made in favor of the bill states that owing to severe legislation recently adopted by France and Italy, a great many dangerous anarchists are making their way to the United States and as, under existing laws, they cannot be denied admission to our territory, the United States will soon be the rendezvous of these human monsters unless the proposed legislation is speedily adopted.

"Your committee is of the opinion that the United States is fully justified by existing conditions in using all its powers to prevent immigration and settlement in this country of men who repudiate all laws, all government and practically proclaim themselves as the enemies of mankind."

There is apparently no doubt that the bill would pass the house readily if a quorum were present and a special order were brought in from the committee on rules giving it consideration.

Colonel Stump, the superintendent of immigration, who drafted the bill, has telegraphed Representatives Outhwaite, Reed and Burrows, the absent members of the committee on rules, to return to Washington.

SHOT AND KILLED HIS WIFE.

A Reading, Pa., Man Then Unsuccessfully Tries To Kill Himself.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 22.—Reuben H. Walters, aged 55 years, shot and instantly killed his wife at their home, 613 Pine street, this city, last evening. After firing the fatal bullet he deliberately put the muzzle of the weapon to his own head and pulled the trigger, firing two shots, neither of which took effect.

Walters is a hatter by trade and is employed at John R. Miller's factory. Neighbors say that when he returned home on Monday he and his wife had a quarrel, which was kept up until the tragedy.

Walters left the house after the shooting, but was soon arrested. He had very little to say, but declared that he regretted not having made a more complete job of it.

Walters was under the influence of liquor at the time of the shooting. His wife was a quiet, inoffensive woman.

Williams, Newark, N. J., $6,074, and N. P. Pearson, Ithaca, N. Y., $18,495.

Jackson-Corbett Fight.

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 21.—Sioux City's offer for the Jackson-Corbett fight is still somewhat of a mystery to everybody in the city who is not on the inside of the scheme to bring the fight here. The thing was worked up very quickly and sprung after all the details were arranged. The men who have appeared on the surface say they are backed by the best people in the town, and hint at who some of them are; and when the best people are asked about it they all refuse to give any information, and deny interest in it.

State Firemen's Convention.

IS BARREMORE SANE?

Confined in a Mad House Unjustly, It Is Claimed.

Committed Through the Efforts of His Wife, Who Was Then Appointed Guardian of His Estate—Friends Are Now Interesting Themselves in His Behalf.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 22.—A petition has just been filed in the court of chancery praying for the release of James A. Barremore from the insane asylum at Amityville, L. I., where, it is claimed, he is confined, although perfectly sane. Mr. Barremore is a very wealthy man and formerly a member of the diamond brokerage firm of Randal, Barremore & Billings, of New York, from which he derived an income of $7,000. His wife, a daughter of Dr. Van Buskirk, of this city, secured his commitment and is at present the guardian of his estate, which embraces, among other things, $53,000 in cash.

Barremore drank heavily, and in 1892 went to a Keeley institute in Philadelphia, from which he was discharged, cured. On May 2, 1892, his mother died and left him an additional $25,000. Meanwhile his wife had been trying to secure his commitment to an asylum and succeeded five days after he secured the legacy. It was done by trickery, Mr. Barremore's friends allege, and for no good purpose.

Mr. Barremore has been denied the privilege of communicating to his friends, he asserts, and finally succeeded in smuggling a letter out by a discharged patient. It was addressed to Senator Daly, of Hudson county, who at once began habeas corpus proceedings, but was unsuccessful.

The case was referred to a commission, which declared him insane. His wife was then appointed guardian and custodian of his estate.

Friends took up the case and had two of the best alienists of the country examine him. They reported that he was sane and a special master was appointed to take testimony by Vice Chancellor Van Fleet, who expressed himself that he would get the true facts of the case and restore the property held by Barremore's wife to him.

TWO GRAVES FOR THEM.

The Last Request of the Central Park Lovers To Be Disregarded.

New York, Aug. 22.—The mother of Juliette Fournier called at the morgue last night and had the body of the girl placed in a coffin and taken home. The body of Julius de Marcus is still at the morgue. His parents will have the body taken home to-day.

The mother of the girl and the friends of Marcus declare that the request of the couple to be buried together in one grave will not be carried out, as they are opposed to it.

When Juliette Fournier married her uncle, Henry Fournier, in Paris last November, the first act of a tragedy began that culminated in Central park yesterday in the death of two—the young wife and her lover, Julius de Marcus, at the hands of the latter. When the bodies were found in a clump of bushes by a policeman, lying by the side of the woman was her corset, removed in order that the bullet would not fail in its work of death.

Whether the lover killed both her and himself, or whether she aimed the pistol, will probably never be known.

Letters found beside them explained their motive for committing the rash deed. They were madly in love with each other, and preferred death to separation.

JAPANESE LOSSES HEAVY.

Attacked by the Chinese Forces and Routed Twice Last Week.

London, Aug. 22.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Times telegraphs under yesterday's date: "General Tio, commander of the Feng Tien division, telegraphs that on Friday the Chinese attacked the Japanese at Ping-Yang and drove them with a heavy loss to Chungho, a distance of eleven miles. The Chinese re-attacked on Saturday and drove them out of Chungho. The Japanese loses were again heavy. Chungho is now in the hands of the Chinese. It is expected that another great battle will be fought to-day.

"The Chinese fleet is in full possession of the gulf of Pe-Chi-li. The Japanese are re-embarking a large number of troops at Fusan. Their destination is unknown."

Big Four Depot Burned.

Cincinnati, Aug. 22.—The Big Four freight depot at Third and Wood streets burned yesterday afternoon. The building was two squares long and was valued at $500,000. Owing to the material of which the structure was built the flames could not be checked. A row of several frame buildings opposite the depot caught fire several times, but the incipient blaze was extinguished in every case.

Cold Weather in New Hampshire.

Intervale, N. H., Aug. 22.—Last night was one of the coolest August nights ever known among the mountains. A cold, stiff breeze has been blowing, snow has been visible on Mt. Washington and Mt. Jefferson has been white with frost. If the wind dies there will be a complete freeze-out. At midnight it was 6 degrees above freezing.

This Anarchist is Bloodthirsty.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Howard Davis, a wild and woolly anarchist, formerly of this city, lately of Chicago, was arrested here last night for writing threatening letters to Mayor Green, in which he said he was going to burn the city, kill off all the officials and then skip out.

Miss Mary Sherman To Wed.

Cincinnati, Aug. 22.—The Tribune's Washington correspondent telegraphs information that the engagement of Miss Mary S. Sherman, only daughter of Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, to Mr. James McCallum, assistant to the clerk of the supreme court of the United States, will be announced this week. The wedding is to take place in December.

STRIKERS WERE QUIET

Hoodlums Guilty of Acts of Violence at Chicago.

Testimony of Newspaper Reporters at the National Labor Commissioners' Inquiry—United States Deputy Marshals Branded as Inefficient and Sources of Constant Irritation.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Reporters told the story of the Pullman railroad strike to the national labor commissioners and representatives of most of the Chicago newspapers were on the witness stand during the day. They were practically unanimous in the declaration that hardly any of the strikers took part in the acts of violence or obstruction during the riots. They testified that most of the overt acts were committed by hoodlums who had no connection with the railroads. With one or two exceptions all branded the United States deputy marshals as inefficient and a source of constant irritation to the strikers.

Mr. Miller denied the statement of Vice-President Howard, of the A. R. U., made on the stand, that the witness drew the first pistol during the riot at Blue Island. He declared that a score of revolvers were drawn almost at the same time. He told of an attempted assassination of himself and another reporter during the trouble at the stock yards. The witness said he observed many instances of violence and often saw men throw switches and upset cars. He had no knowledge that any of the men who participated in these acts were railroad men, but he thought a certain percentage of them were from their knowledge of railroad business.

T. Harding, another newspaper man, corroborated the statements of his predecessors. He testified to seeing ex-railroad employes try to stop rioting without success. He thought in a few cases railroad strikers were to blame. He was followed by other reporters, who gave similar testimony.

Chief Deputy Marshal Donnelly testified that he had about four thousand deputies under him during the strike. He acknowledged that some of his men were inefficient, but denied that as a whole they were as worthless a body as represented by the reporters. He did not recognize any striker among those whom he saw commit violence.

SCHEMED TO ROB YALE MEN.

Career of the Adventuress Arrested at Hartford Well-Known.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 22.—The developments in the confidence woman's case all indicate that she is associated with her husband and perhaps others in a scheme to victimize Yale graduates all over the country. Dr. Robert Ames, of Springfield, came here and identified "Mrs. Robbins" as the woman who last week swindled Yale graduates in that city. A letter from L. A. Rice, Hotel Lafayette, Philadelphia, was received by the chief of police yesterday, in which Mr. Rice states that the woman is the wife of Edward R. Howe, a graduate of Harvard, '64, who, he states, is a civil engineer when not in jail, and whose residence is No. 85 La Salle street, Chicago. He was until recently serving a term of six months in jail in Chicago for swindling.

The woman's husband's picture and several letters from him, have been found in her trunk at the hotel. "Mrs. Robbins" admitted that she was born in Amherst, N. H., in 1848, and her maiden name was Martha E. Stiles. She has been an adventuress since 1868 and joined forces with Edward R. Howe in 1884. Since then the couple have victimized numbers of Harvard graduates, and have lately begun on Yale men.

MRS. BALDWIN GIVEN $20,000.

Mexico Settles for the Murder of a California Man by Bandits.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The Mexican government has made a settlement of the claim of Mrs. Janet Baldwin, of California, for the murder of her husband, Leon M. Baldwin, by bandits at Ventanas, Mex. About six years ago the six assassins who participated in the crime were promptly killed. Mrs. Baldwin claimed an indemnity of $100,000 through the United States government, and Secretary Bayard wrote some strong dispatches on the subject to Mr. T. B. Connley, American charge d'affaires at Mexico, but the Mexican government denied any responsibility for the murder. Finally a compromise was affected by the payment of $20,000.

MOSELY RELEASED.

The Missionarie's Freedom Regained by Consul-General Donnelly.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The secretary of state has received a telegram from Consul General Donnelly announcing that he had secured the release of Rev. H. R. Mosely from prison at Sattille, and accompanied him over the border to the United States.

Press dispatches several days ago announced that Mr. Mosely, who is a Baptist missionary, had been thrown into jail upon the supposition that he was distributing a pamphlet entitled, "Three Centuries of Romanism in Mexico."

What a Minister Says.

Trinity Station, Morgan Co., Ala.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—In the fall of last year I suffered from rheumatism in my left shoulder and elbow. I tried a great many remedies, recommended to me by friends, but they all failed to afford relief. From the time I began Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, until I felt that I was cured, was a period covering four or five months. While the attack lasted, I suffered a great deal, and could not dress or undress myself. Although I am 72 years old, I now regard my health as splendid. I had spent a great deal of money previously, in various kinds of medicine, but the "Discovery," from the day I commenced until I was well, cost only FOUR DOLLARS.

All that's Yellow is not Cottolene

There's hardly a housekeeper in the country but has heard of Cottolene the new vegetable shortening. It is a strictly natural product; composed only of clarified cotton seed oil, thickened for convenience in use, with refined beef suet, pure and sweet. So composed,

COTTOLENE

Was bound to win, and to drive out lard from the kitchens of the world. When housekeepers wish to get rid of the unpleasant features and results of lard, they should get Cottolene, taking care that they are not given cheap imitations with vegetable names, spuriously compounded to sell in the place of Cottolene.

It's easy to avoid disappointment and ensure satisfaction. Insist on having Cottolene.

Excitement Over the Running—Closeness in Jumping Decided by a Toss-up—Prizes Won in Various Departments.

The handicap games held yesterday afternoon on the Gentlemen's Driving Park track were a success. Quite a number of Plainfielders, including several of the fairer sex, were present, and lustily cheered the contestants on to victory.

The first event was the running high jump, and Goddard, the scratch man, had no trouble in defeating his opponents. In the 100-yards dash, Talmadge, with a handicap of 10 yards, held the lead for a short time, but M. J. Dumont, from the 5½-yard mark, had no trouble in passing him. The scratch man tried hard to overtake Dumont, but the start was too much and he won easily. J. W. Beveridge (2¼ inches) and George Wells (scratch) tied for second place in the standing broad jump; on the jump-off they tied again; a second jump-off had the same result, and the referee decided that a coin should be tossed. Beveridge won the toss.

J. M. Dumont (scratch) won the 220 yards dash by two feet from Beveridge (10 yards,) passing him cleverly a few yards from the finish. The 440 yards run was the most exciting event of the day. M. J. Dumont (22 yards) led at the start and ran very prettily, but Schuyler overcame the difference between them and passed Dumont 50 yards from the tape and won very easily, Goddard came in a poor third. Schuyler won the throwing of the base-ball with ease. The summary of the events was as follows:

Running high jump—First prize, pocket-book; second prize, tray. Won by F. W. Goddard (scratch); J. B. Dumont (1¼ inch.) second; Frank Talmadge (5¾ inch.) third. Height, 4 ft. 2 in.

100-yards dash—First prize, paper weight; second prize, candlestick. Won by M. J. Dumont (5½ yds); J. B. Dumont (scratch) second; J. W. Beveridge (scratch) third. Time 11 3-5 seconds.

Standing broad jump—First prize, watch-chain; second prize, silver pencil. Won by M. J. Dumont (4 in.); J. W. Beveridge (2¾ in.) second; George Wells (scratch) third. Distance, 7 ft. 6 in.

Putting the shot—First prize, autograph album; no second prize. Won by R. D. Simpson (scratch); Frank Talmadge (3 ft. 4 in.) second. Distance, 17 ft. 9 in.

220-yards dash—First prize, cup and saucer; second prize, watchchain. Won by J. M. Dumont (scratch); Beveridge (10 yds) second. Time 28¾ seconds.

Running broad jump—First prize, pocket-knife; second prize, comb. Won by R. D. Simpson (scratch); J. B. Dumont (1¾ in.) second; J. W. Beveridge (3 in.) third. Distance 12 ft. 7 in.

440 yards run—First prize, pencil and guard. Second prize, silver pin. Won by V. R. Schuyler (5 yards); M. J. Dumont (22 yards) second; F. W. Goddard (5 yards) third. Time—1 minute 4¾ seconds.

Throwing the base-ball—First prize, paper weight. Second prize, paper cutter. Won by V. R. Schuyler (scratch); M. J. Dumont (30 ft.) second; J. B. Dumont (15 ft.) third. Distance—241 feet 2 inches.

Morris J. Dumont won the prize, a pocket toilet case, for scoring the most points, having scored 16.

The officials were:

Referee—Louis Waring.
Assistants—Lambert Fish, James Middleditch, Sherwood West.
Starter—Albert Woltmann.
Timer—Charles B. Morse.

TAXES AND DOGS.

Township Committee Adjusts the One, and Decides to Shoot the Other.

The business which called the North Plainfield Township Committee together last evening was principally that of examining the books of Assessor J. H. Cooley.

In the absence of Clerk Horace J. Martin, his son, Horace Martin, Jr., filled his position, and read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved.

There being no communications, the bills were presented and warrants were ordered drawn for them.

The question of the amount of money necessary for the coming year to run the township was then taken up.

Last year about $9,000 was appropriated, and Mr. Smith thought that $4,500 would be sufficient, as there are no suits on hand and the present financial standing is good. The above amount was decided upon.

The Assessor's books were approved after due inspection. The tax rate for next year will be known the first Monday in September.

J. W. Van Horn made a statement regarding the case of John Corwin who was sent to St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, sometime ago. He stated that he had been given a bill to the amount of $75 for board and treatment of Mr. Corwin. The committee decided that they were not responsible for the amount, as the man had not been sent there officially. The bill was ordered returned to those in charge of the hospital.

Mr. Allen made a motion that all dogs found running at large that were not registered be shot, which was carried, and it was decided to appoint Mr Allen to carry out the matter. All dogs should be registered, with the town clerk, Horace J. Martin.

The meeting adjourned to the call of the Chair.

Court Coddington.

In the City Court this morning F Drake for throwing stones was reprimanded and released; and Patrick Bergen for being drunk and disorderly and striking an officer was given his choice of $15 or 30 days by Judge Coddington.

Brookside Improvements.

Dr. J. H. Cooley is making several improvements about the Brookside Retreat. In the rear he is erecting a large new barn, and has just finished building a dam across the pond.

HARVEST HOME.

Good Things of Life Richly Enjoyed Amid the Beauties of the Passaic Valley.

The harvest home picnic held at the farm of Israel J. Coon yesterday was well attended, many coming from Plainfield, New Providence, Martinsville, and adjacent villages. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in greeting old friends and forming new acquaintances.

Many of those present visiting for the first time the Passaic Valley were surprised at the natural beauty of the landscape, which is probably the finest in the State, with its wealth of verdant green and its well-kept farms, its barns filled with bounteous harvest. It is the most picturesque and at the same time the busiest part of this farming section.

A large number of the farmers left their well laden peach orchards and with their families spent the day at the harvest home.

The music, both vocal and instrumental, as well as the addresses, were enjoyed by the gathering, and their appreciation was shown by frequent encores.

Following was the programme:

Selection..........Orchestra
Messrs. Guttman, Rogers, Conde and Frazee
Vocal selection..........Quartett
J. Townsend, H. J. Martin,
Mrs. Chas. Steiner, Miss Etta Krymer.
Prayer.......Rev. Mr. Wells of Liberty Corner

Address—Ideals.........F. A. Pope, Martinsville
Solo—O Promise Me.........Miss Etta Krymer
Address—Brains......M. L. Rhodes, Mt. Horeb
Selection..........Orchestra

Intermission for Refreshments.

Selection..........Orchestra
Vocal—Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming. Quartette
Address—Sunshine, Rev. Peter Gibbs, Millington
Music—piano and flute—Home Again and Old Joe's Dream....Messrs. Guttman and Townsend
Address—Faithfulness in Little Things, Rev. W. C. Kinsey, Dunellen
Selection—Pilot Brave..........Quartette
Address—Unity, Rev. Geo. Bowers, Coontown
Vocal duet—Larboard Watch, H. J. Martin and Mrs. Steiner
Vocal solo—If the Little Stars Would Tell, Miss Etta Krymer

Refreshments were served on the grounds. All the tables were well patronized, and it was a wonderful feast of the best products of good growing and good cooking. Only 30 cents was charged for this sumptuous feast.

A game of base-ball on the meadow was enjoyed in the afternoon.

Mr. Coon's thrifty farm, commanding such a superb view, was much admired, and his hospitality won him many friends.

TAX RATE HIGHER.

PLAINFIELD'S PERCENTAGE GOES UP TWO POINTS.

Fire, School and Poor Fund Departments Getting More Expensive—Amounts to Be Raised for the Various Municipal Purposes.

The Plainfield Common Council last night examined and approved the tax assessor's books and fixed the tax rate at 2.22 on each $100. This rate compared with that of last year is as follows:

	1893.	1894.
County Tax	58c.	55c.
State School Tax	28c.	27½c.
Fire Department Tax	24c.	25c.
Library Tax	4½c.	4½c.
City Tax	50c.	48c.
Poor Tax	3½c.	6c.
Free Sch'l and Bonds Tax.	54c.	56c.
	$2.20	$2.22

The Council decided that it required the following amounts:

County	$38,009.20
State School	18,769.80
Fire Department	17,000.00
Library	3,000.00
City	33,000.00
Poor	4,000.00
Schools and Bonds	38,935.90
	$152,714.90

The tax rate of $2 22 raises the following amounts:

County	$ 38,458.27
State School	19,229.14

18-Year-Old Boy Held for Murder.

Boston, Aug. 22.—Raphael Ropi, an Italian boy, 13 years old, residing in this city, was arraigned at Somerville yesterday on the charge of manslaughter in causing the death, by drowning, of Germoro Bronice, another Italian boy, aged 10, by throwing him into a flooded clay pit at East Somerville two weeks ago Sunday. Ropi was held in $2,500 for the grand jury. In default he was committed to jail.

Royal Wedding Postponed.

London, Aug. 22.—Labouchere's Truth says that the wedding of the czarewitch and Princess Alix of Hesse has been postponed until January or February.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

MAN AND PROPERTY.

A PLAINFIELD FAVORITE PREACHER OUTLINES THE DIFFERENCE.

Masterly Sermon by Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond Who is to Preach in This City Again Next Sunday—Points for Wage-Workers and Capitalists to Consider.

A great delight to Plainfield will be the opportunity to hear and meet again next Sunday that old-time favorite of Plainfield church-goers, Rev. Andrew V. V. Raymond, D. D., LL. D., now resident of Schenectady and President of Union College. His friends, and they an legion in Plainfield as elsewhere, will love to look into his eyes again, hear his voice of love and instruction, and shake his hearty hand.

To show that Dr. Raymond has lost none of his eloquence and power, and to afford Plainfielders the opportunity of treasuring another of his discourses, the following, his latest delivered sermon, preached in the West End Avenue Collegiate Church is herewith published:

How much then is a man better than a sheep?—Matthew xii: 12.

That is a strange comparison of values, a man and a sheep. What could have led Christ to suggest even that one was worth more than the other—no one ever thought of questioning a truth so self-evident. Surely this must be a waste of words; but let us see. On a certain Sabbath a man with a whithered hand stands before Christ; other men whose hands are all right also stand before him, but they are not thinking of hands just now; there is evidently something more important upon their minds; it is the proper observance of the Sabbath. They have theories of what ought to be done, and especially of what ought not to be done on that day of the seven, and they are anxious to try Christ by their theories. He is known to have power to heal withered hands; will He exercise that power on this particular day? They do not care for the poor fellow with the shrivelled arm, but they do care to convict Christ of being a Sabbath breaker. Now that is a singular state of mind or of heart, to be more anxious to convict one person than to help another. We could not understand it at all if a question of religion were not involved, but we have learned that religion accounts for some strange things in this world, and among the strangest is this, that it makes some men vindictive rather than merciful, so that the cure of withered hands becomes nothing compared with the vindication of a theory. At least that is what religion did on the occasion before us. It might have made a difference if one of those Pharisees had had an arm hanging limp at his side, but as no one of them was thus afflicted, they could afford to open the question of the legality of healing on the Sabbath day, with a view to establishing the wickedness of this Jesus of Nazareth who stood before them. So they put the question squarely to Him: "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath day?" He could not evade it, and He did not try to evade it, but He first answered their question by asking another: "What man shall there be among you that shall have a sheep, and if it fall in a pit on the Sabbath day, will he not lay hold on it and lift it out?" Now that was something which every one of them would do without any upbraidings of conscience, and Christ had only to assert the self-evident truth that a man is worth vastly more than a sheep, to make His conclusion irrefutable. "Therefore it is lawful to do good on the Sabbath day." The strangest part of the whole story is that the Pharisees could not see the force of this logic, for after Christ had healed this man they had a council against Him how they might destroy Him. So that they practically decided in favor of the sheep having claims superior to those of a man.

MAN AND PROPERTY.

We recognize at once the varied teaching of this incident; it throws much light on the vexed question of Sabbath observance; it suggests the unreasoning, obstinate, blind spirit of Phariseeism, but we turn to the story chiefly for the sake of the comparison instituted between man and property, for the sheep of the story is regarded as a piece of property. Christ is careful to mention the fact of ownership, and this, I think, indicates the deepest meaning of the illustration. A Pharisee might not be moved by mercy to put a stray sheep out of misery. Everything shows that the element of mercy did not enter into his consideration of what was lawful on the Sabbath day, but when it came to serving something which belonged to him, he could be depended upon to do whatever was necessary and to justify himself in so doing.

BREADTH OF THE SUBJECT.

Viewed in this light, you see at once the broad suggestiveness of the illustration, the claim of humanity superior to the claim of property. As such it meets us at the present time with peculiar force. As never before, perhaps, the issue is joined today between the rights of man and the rights of property. This is the deepest meaning of the struggle everywhere apparent. Indeed it has been at the heart of every great conflict since the world began. Every moral advance, every step forward in civilization has been in the direction of the claims of men as men over the claims of everything else on earth, and the mission of Christianity is to present these claims of human hearts and human lives; to place men really above a sheep in every question that carries with it duty and responsibility, thus involving essential righteousness. It is a fact established by all history that men naturally give greater attention to their own possessions than to the interests of other men. This is only saying that self-interest is the law of most lives, and that the average man, if asked to choose between the claims of a sheep and the claims of a man, will always decide for the sheep, if it has his brand; and just because this is so, the moral heroism of the ages has always appeared along the line of zeal for humanity. The men who are loved have ever been lovers of men—the champions of human rights—brothers of all mankind. This single fact marks the distinction between the greatness which is touched with nobility of soul and every other form of greatness, a distinction which men are quick to recognize. Admiration may be given to scholarship, to genius, to personal bravery, but homage is paid only to that which is instinct with love for humanity. No other works of the brain or of the hand hold the place in universal regard given to those who have voiced or established the rights of man, the claims of human brotherhood. There is more of immortality in such a song as "A man's a man for a' that" than belongs to any treatise on science that can be named.

AN ILLUSTRATION.

It was this quality of human interest that gave such nobility to the life of our own beloved Whittier. His humanity exalted him more than his genius, and his name will live when other names more praised today have been forgotten. He sang to men because he sang for men, as he himself said:

"Nor mine the seer-like power to show
The secrets of the heart and mind;
To drop the plummet line below,
Our common world of joy or woe,
A more intense despair or brighter joy to find.
Yet here at least an earnest sense
Of human right and weal is shown,
A hate of tyranny intense,
And hearty in its vehemence,
As if my brother's pain and sorrow were mine own."

This is the spirit which has immortalized his name—the same spirit which has glorified a man here and there in every age by making him the champion of the people in the face of human selfishness. Every reform has been essentially the recasting of the world's thought concerning the rights of man. It has established a new estimate of the worth, and so the claims of purely human interests. Whatever has not tended toward this result has not been a reform movement, a real advance, although it may have been marked by discoveries and inventions which have added vastly to the world's wealth. In fact whatever increases wealth and so magnifies possessions, is found to be in the end hostile to the general peace, marking a backward rather than a forward movement, and for this sufficient reason: When possessions are magnified men as such are minified. The standard of judgment affecting all our thought of men is their property. Respect for them, reverence for them, is conditional upon the amount of their possessions. And so every commercial age has been the precursor of a conflict for the vindication of the rights of men, as men, apart from every other consideration.

Moral degeneracy, whatever its particular form, always moves along the line of a low estimate of the dignity, the worth, the inherent claims of simple humanity. And so, because supreme regard for possessions depreciates the value of men and the considerations due to them as men merely, the increase of wealth is invariably accompanied by injustice, inhumanity, immorality. I am speaking, of course, in general terms and of a general principle. It would be easy, were it necessary, to establish this principle in unnumbered historical references. It is not a mere theory, but a fact of human experience, and our plain duty is to recognize it and be instructed by it.

PRACTICAL APPLICATION.

As already indicated, this principle finds a supreme illustration in this present time, and in our own land. In the early days of American life it will not be questioned that men were drawn together in close fellowship, the fellowship of a common humanity and of equal rights. This was due in part doubtless to the conditions of life in a new world, the necessity of common interests, and it was directly fostered by the relative poverty; but beyond this, the equality of man was an article of faith for which men were ready to die.

It was the fundamental theory of the new national life which began here more than a hundred years ago. That theory has never been abandoned as a theory, but since that early day wealth has come to America, such wealth as no single nation has ever before possessed, and with this has come division—the gradual alienation of man from man—so that we find today classes more or less hostile to each other. But the truth I wish to emphasize is this: All this division and strife grow out of a depreciation of man himself, through the appreciation of mere riches. This change has been wrought unconsciously for the most part, and so multitudes are not willing to admit it; nevertheless, it is true, and it is so of necessity. Take our modern legislation; more and more it follows the direction of property interests. The great questions agitating the public are identified with money. The dominant issues of the last Presidential campaign were, as they will be of the next Presidential campaign, commercial. The arguments of both sides were simply an appeal to human selfishness.

SUPERIOR INTERESTS FORGOTTEN.

What leading question today touches the deeper interests of humanity, those interests which are not conserved by the earnings of capital and the amount of wages? What constitutes the real well-being of man, anyway? The growth of his intelligence, the unfolding of his moral nature, his growth in the likeness of God. Where do we find any zeal for these ends to be compared with the zeal for his single right to get more money than he is getting now? We do not deny that money is a blessing or rather may be a blessing, but more money does not imply a purer home life, even if it does mean a larger house. More money does not insure contentment, even if it does multiply pleasures. More money does not foster unselfishness, even if it does increase charitable gifts. In view of this evident fact we contend that, as a people, we are depreciating the worth of man as man, and our virtue lies especially in our consideration for sheep—man's property. The time was when the deeper interests of man commanded attention. Those were the days that produced heroes, when men met scorn and calumny for the sake of some great principle of righteousness. What leaders of the present will go down to history with anything of the glory of Sumner and Seward and Lincoln? There is slavery still in our land, the slavery of ignorance, of base passions, of degrading appetites. The pitiable condition of thousands, yes, of millions, convicts us of inhumanity, while our hearts are not moved by pity and our hands are not raised to relieve. It is not a question of commercial policy, of a readjustment of capital and labor, but a question of moral reforms, calling for human sympathy, for the recognition of the right of every man to the blessings of Christian character, his right to be taught, protected, cheered, encouraged, till he gains the mastery over himself, and stands in the independence of conscious integrity. Negro slavery riveted no more galling fetters than does the slavery of vice. There was no more wretchedness on Southern plantations than there is today in Northern cities. The auctioneer's hammer separated no more families than does the saloon now. The overseer lashed human bodies no more furiously than does sensuality today. There is not a single particular in which the wretchedness of Negro slavery is not paralleled and more than paralleled by the slavery of the present, and, what is more, this slavery is defended by government, as much as the former, so long as government sanctions the agencies that degrade and demoralize. And why does not the government emancipate? Because now, as then, vested interests, property rights, interfere. Money tyrannizes over legislatures; political ambition forbids the antagonizing of a powerful class.

I know not how the new emancipation shall be effected, but effected it must be, since God is righteous. Only this I think is evident. He will work now as formerly, by awakening human sympathy, by appealing to the innate sense of justice, by magnifying the value, and so the rights of the human soul, by quickening conscience, until men shall fight for degraded brothers, for women robbed of their homes, for children born in moral slavery. Those were not idle words which Christ spoke to the Pharisees, "How much then, is a man better than a sheep?" He would teach the superior claims of human hearts and lives till zeal for possessions shall be turned to zeal for humanity, and the sight of human wretchedness shall prompt to as quick relief as the sight of endangered property.

It is our privilege to enter into fellowship with the heroic souls of all the past—by living, laboring, sacrificing for the enslaved of earth. Nothing more glorious than this has ever fallen to the lot of man. But for this our own souls must be filled with love. Men created in the image of God, with inherent possibilities of godlikeness, must rank in our thought above everything else in this world of ours. For them we must feel with such instinctive sympathy that we too may say: "As if my brother's pain and sorrow were mine own." And to have this sympathy, this passion for humanity, we must be filled with the spirit of Him who above all others, bore the sin and sorrow of the world upon His own heart, whose mission it was to move among the friendless, the forsaken, the sinning—there to preach deliverance, to open the prison doors, to bind up the broken hearted. We must be baptized with His spirit, His compassion, His tenderness, His gentleness, before we can know His power. The great need of the enslaved about us is, first of all, a need in Christian hearts of more of the spirit of Him who was called the friend of sinners, and until this need is met all the cries of human wretchedness are in vain.

"Need has its rights, Necessity its claim,
Yea, even self-wrought misery and shame
Test well the charity, suffering long and kind.
The home-pressed question of the age can find
No answer in the catchwords of the blind
Leader of the blind. Solution there is none
Save in the Golden Rule of Christ alone.
As if my brother's pain and sorrow were mine own."

Mrs. E. Esty is stopping with Mrs. C. D. Boice, Jr.

Mrs. Fowler Vail is visiting friends in Hackettstown.

W. H. Baker of New York is visiting Goldson Smalley.

Rev. W. C. Kinsey left today for a three-weeks vacation.

William Jennings is confined to his home with malarial fever.

John Donohue is much worse, and it is feared he will not recover.

Mrs. A. D. Pope of Plainfield spent yesterday with friends in Dunellen.

F. H. Gise and family and Miss Michle spent yesterday at Boynton Beach.

Mrs. Smith of Bound Brook is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Swackhamer.

Peter Shultz was able to go out driving yesterday for the first time since his illness.

D. L. Dodge of Brooklyn is spending a short vacation with his mother in New Market.

Mrs. W. R. Hetfield and her cousin, Miss Beavers spent yesterday at Washington Rock.

Charles Challam, coachman for the late Mr. Ryder, has gone in the book business in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Hetfield left Dunellen yesterday for Newburgh. They will be gone two weeks.

Mrs. W. S. Shotwell returned to Brooklyn yesterday after a pleasant visit of two months with Mrs. Amos Vail.

The great and only George Thatcher of Plainfield drove through Dunellen yesterday, and was the object of much respectful admiration.

An effort is being made to secure Rev. W. C. Kinsey to make an address at the reception to be given by the W. C. T. U. of Plainfield to the firemen.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nelson entertained a few of their friends Monday evening at their home. The evening was pleasantly spent in a social way, and all had an enjoyable time. Those present were: Mrs. L. B. Nelson, Messrs. Abe and Frank Nelson, New Market; Mrs. Hannah Nelson, Miss Georgia Nelson, Russell Carter, Brooklyn; Mrs. Jennie Newhall, John and Abbie Newhall, New York; Miss Anna Frazee, Plainfield.

The fourth annual reunion of the Tingley family takes place at the farm of David F. Blackford on the road from New Market to South Plainfield, Wednesday, Aug. 29. The Friendship Cornet Band will be in attendance. Rev. F. Fletcher of New Market and others will deliver addresses. Every one is welcome. Dinner will be served at 12 sharp. Uncle John Tingley is the general manager.

Two men from Dunellen and one man from Plainfield visited West Dunellen at an early hour Sunday morning. On their way they pulled Mr. Reusch's fence down, and destroyed the fence on Robert Lowrie's property. When they reached their destination, which was near Henry Wendell's home, they commenced to stone his house, which resulted in the breaking of considerable glass. Mr. Wendell woke up, and getting his revolver, opened fire. He shot both of the Dunellen men, one in the left ear, and the other in the left leg. Having thus marked them for future reference, he retired, and now intends to have them arrested.

Washingtonville.

A young son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Titus died Monday.

David Smalley and family are visiting Israel J. Coon of Smalleytown.

The entire population of Warrenville is spending the day at Boynton Beach.

Miss Solomon of New York is visiting her friend, Mrs. Karett of Union Village.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith of Washingtonville leave Friday morning for a two-weeks visit in Toronto, Canada.

A. H. Wilmont of Metuchen is visiting his brother-in-law, H. J. Smith, Washingtonville, where he hopes to recover his health.

While Mrs. Bloom of Washingtonville was visiting Mrs. Bartell Sunday evening, her horse broke loose and ran away. He was caught in Warrenville and returned to the owner.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

A brass band touring the villages murdered "Sweet Marie" here today.

The tree trimming ordinance will be published tomorrow in The Daily Press.

The Township Committee last night passed the ordinance requiring trees to be trimmed, and examined and approved the assessor's books. The tax rate was fixed at 12 cents on each $100

Had They the Right to Lease?

Previous to the meeting of North Plainfield Township Committee last evening, a discussion arose over the right of the committee to lease certain property on the mountains to John French, which was done some time ago.

The property had been in the possession of the township for eleven years, and thirty years being the limit it was leased to Mr. French for nineteen.

Now it is claimed that the taxes have been paid on the property and that the committeemen were not at liberty to lease it.

Mr. French is quoted as saying that he is willing to give up the property if the committee are desirous of his doing so.

Good Chance for Young Men.

The Y. M. C. A. will be glad to hear at once from any young man in Plainfield who would like the opportunity to join a class in any branch of study, the name of such study or studies. If there is a sufficient demand for studies other than those already taught they will be added, if practicable.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

BOROUGH BITS.

Gleanings in the North Plainfield News Field.

Robert Clark has gone on a cycle trip to Lake Hopatcong.

John Schenck has severed his connection with the Electric Light Company.

Teedie Smith will move into his new house on Allen place, Watchung Park, some day next week.

Al. Warnock, Herman Deike's right-hand man, expects to go in business at Cranford in the Winter.

Mrs. Al Smalley and family and Miss Jessie Coddington go tomorrow to Asbury Park for one week.

Harry Williams of Somerset street and Jackson avenue has returned from his yachting trip as brown as a nut.

Mr. and Mrs. John Krewson of Grandview avenue started Monday for a three-weeks stay in Bucks County, Pa.

Nell Pickett of Grove street has returned from her forced visit to Sheriff Dilts. It was to be 90 days, which would make it end in September.

The North Plainfield School Trustees last night decided to call Supt. Boss home Sept. 1, as there are 1,500 new school books to be covered before school opens.

Henry Bender, George Bremer and Fritz Conde are the committee that will pilot the Saengerbunds to New Brunswick next Sunday, assisted by Mein Herr Gaub.

John Wolf will apply for a hotel license at the September term of Court, to keep an inn and tavern on the old Peter Baldwin estate, which is just over the North Plainfield border and in Warren Township.

Charles Greader of Chatham and Somerset streets, while returning from his Evona hay field yesterday afternoon about 4, on top of a load of new-mown hay, fell from the same and received severe injuries. Dr. Adams is attending him.

Gaston Henry, an employe of Robinson Pound, was fined $15 and costs for maintaining a nuisance at the foot of the mountains east of Somerset street, in Justice Sperry's Court last night. He paid the fine, and the Board of Health of the borough, appointed by ex-Mayor Saunders, are being praised by the citizens.

PEACHES PHENOMENAL.

The Jersey Crop Greater Than Ever Before.

The Press has made a careful inquiry among the largest growers who ship fruit from the towns of Washington, Somerville, High Bridge, New Germantown, Bound Brook, White House, and Blairstown. They substantially report that there have been some great yields, but this year the crop is phenomenal and surpasses the most sanguine estimates of the enthusiasts who early predicted a fine yield. The fruit this season is the finest shipped from this section in years. The hail storm which prevailed in the eastern part of Somerset county did some damage to growing corn, but very little to the peach section.

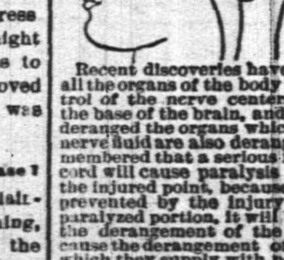
Peach trains are now running on the Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads, and some choice fruit is being sent to market. The fruit shipped some time ago was of inferior quality but brought big prices. Shipments now are of peaches of fair size and good flavor. One of the most successful peach growers in Hunterdon county says there will be nearly a million baskets and never so fair and fine in flavor. There are six exchanges—Flemington, Pittstown, Jutland, White House, Clinton, and Annandale. Most of the peaches are sold at the exchanges and then consigned to Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and Buffalo.

—Henry Adams and Augustus Wilson spent today fishing at Sebring's Mills.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.



Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL.

The English government has adopted the Bertillon system of identifying criminals by measurements.

The German government has decided to paint their torpedo boats bluish-gray, this color being, they consider, the least visible under the electric light.

Prof. Dewar has demonstrated that metals augment their magnetic qualities and increase in strength by diminution of temperature. Iron at 180 degrees can endure double its normal tensile strain.

The Massachusetts State Board of Health has just issued a circular which it is hoped will aid in the suppression of consumption. It places the annual deaths in the State from it at nearly 6,000.

The difficult genera Rosa and Rubus are the subject of careful study by French botanists. A Rhodological Society has been founded for the purpose of publishing an herbarium of the roses of France, named by the Belgian rhodologist, M. Crepin.

A course of lectures at the Royal Institution which has created much interest is that by Captain Abney, on color blindness. Excessive tobacco smoking has long been known to be an important factor in color blindness, and Captain Abney indorses the truth of this observation.

The discovery of a new chemical compound, nitrate of cobalt, is announced, and is said to be a most efficacious antidote to poisoning by cyanide of potassium or prussic acid. The discoverer, Dr. Johann Antal, a Hungarian chemist, tried the antidote first on animals, and afterward on forty living persons who had been accidentally poisoned by prussic acid. In not a single case did the antidote prove a failure.

The British Board of Trade has just prepared statistics of the accidents at highway grade crossings on the railroads of the United Kingdom for the last five years. The total number of persons killed is 369. Of this number, 327 are reported from England and Wales. Only 141 of the fatalities were at public carriage roads, the remainder being at private or "occupation" roads or public foot paths.—Railroad Gazette.

A trial of the great electric search light set up at Sandy Hook for the purpose of coast defense has been made by the ordnance board. The signals were easily read by the weather officials stationed in the tower of the Equitable building, in New York city, twenty miles away. The atmosphere was rather foggy, and it is believed that, under the most favorable conditions, messages could be read at a distance of forty miles.

Dr. V. Harley, in the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Great Britain, states as the results of experiments upon himself, that sugar is proven to be a muscle food. Seventeen and a half ounces when fasting increased his working power from sixty-one to seventy-six per cent. On adding seven ounces to a small meal the total work done was increased from six to thirty per cent. During eight hours, eight and three-fourths ounces increased his working power from twenty-two to thirty-six per cent.—Popular Science News.

The prefects of the several French departments have issued orders to the various schools, dating from the first of January, enforcing that all drinking water supplied to the pupils shall be boiled, and that the cleansing of the floors, desks, etc., of the school-rooms is to be no longer done with dry dusters and brooms, but with moist cloths, to prevent the spread of dust. Once a week a thorough cleansing is to be carried out with an antiseptic.—New York Times.

THE CENSUS OF SEX.

The excess of males over females in the country at large is 1,513,510. The excess of single males, however, is nearly twice as great, or 2,761,588.

The United States will show the smallest proportion of single and the largest proportion of married adults, while the reverse is true in Ireland and Scotland.

There is an excess of single males in every State and Territory except the District of Columbia, while, on the other hand, the widowed females are uniformly in excess in every State and Territory of the Union.

In a few States the number of the divorced in each one hundred is appreciable, there being one divorced male in New Hampshire, and one divorced female in New Hampshire, Connecticut, Florida, Utah and Nevada.

Out of every one hundred adults, says Carroll D. Wright, in the Forum, in the United States in 1890, there were twenty-six single, sixty-five married and nine widowed. There were thirty-one single, sixty-four married and five widowed out of every hundred males, as compared with twenty single, sixty-seven married and thirteen widowed out of every one hundred females.

In Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont there are, practically, fifty-four single, forty-two married, and four widowed males and forty-nine single, forty-two married and nine widowed females. These three States have the smallest proportions of single and the largest proportions of married in the whole country, while the proportion of widowed is fully as large as in any other part of the Union.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify, with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

BRECKINRIDGE SCORED

No Mercy Shown to Him at the Owen Barbecue.

Twenty Thousand People Listen to Speakers at Lexington Denounce the Disgraceful Congressman and Point Out With Bitterness His Evil Life.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 22.—At the great Owen barbecue here yesterday Judge J. R. Morton, of this city, made a thrilling address, introducing Hon. George B. Kinkead. Judge Morton said that it was unfortunate that there was a division of the strength opposed to the renomination of Breckinridge. He thought that the people would finally triumph in the defeat of Breckinridge, and that Mr. Settle, the third man in the race, would not receive much support as soon as it is found out that Owens is the contending man against Breckinridge. He said that the 20,000 people leaving their homes to-day and turning out in one mighty protest against the re-election of Breckinridge would seal his doom.

Judge Kinkead's arraignment of Colonel Breckinridge was one of the most brilliant ever heard. He told of the inconsistencies of Breckinridge, reviewing his entire life and putting in in a dramatic way the proceedings of Judge Bradley's court in Washington. "See him as he introduces his mistress into the school at which your daughters are taught, and of which he was a trustee," he said in a burst of eloquence, assuming the role of Marc Antony. Judge Kinkead told of the deception practised by Breckinridge on Mrs. Blackburn, "the widow of a man whom Kentucky was proud to honor."

He was followed by Professor C. M. Alberti, a local politician, who went after Colonel Breckinridge for intimating that he was the only man in the district fit to represent it in congress. "What a calamity would befall us if he should die," said the speaker, and the applause which followed lasted for several minutes.

Mr. Owen's arraignment of Colonel Breckinridge was the most scathing that has yet been delivered in the campaign. He told how the colonel would quake when in battle, completely disfiguring his war record. In referring to Breckinridge's repentance for his nine years of dual life, he said that should he commit a crime for which a negro would be lynched in Kentucky to-morrow, he would tell his friends he was penitent and declare to those who disapproved of the deed that he was a fit subject to send to congress and defy them to say aught against him.

The address of Mr. Owens was heartily received, and the 8,000 women present expressed much enthusiasm.

Major H. C. McDowell, speaking of the crowd last night, said that he believed Breckinridge had met his Waterloo. Should Breckinridge get the nomination, the republicans will run McDowell against him.

ALL MILLS TO CLOSE

Rumor of Startling Importance at Fall River.

Manufacturers' Association Believed To Have Decided Upon Positive Measures To Force the Operatives Into Surrendering—A Surprise at Suncook, N. H.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 22.—The manufacturing situation is decidedly mixed. The cloth market has advanced from 2⅞ cents to 2¾ cents for 64x64s since yesterday noon, and this amount is more than sufficient to equal the amount that would have been saved to manufacturers by reducing the cost of production by reducing wages 10 per cent. At the latter figure there is very little demand, and treasurers are not anxious to dispose of goods.

Figures carefully prepared show that 25.6 per cent. of all the looms in the mills were in operation to-day. The gain, as compared with yesterday, is set down as between 1,300 and 1,500.

Rumors of startling importance were afloat here this morning to the effect that all mills in this city have been ordered to close to-night at 6 o'clock, and that the order will include every mill in the city, except those controlled by the Fall River Iron works. Secretary Rounseville was asked what foundation there was for these rumors, but contrary to his usual custom, he declined to answer negatively or affirmatively. One other manufacturer adopted the same course. It has been learned beyond question, however, that the executive committee of the Manufacturers' association met secretly and voted to order all mills under their control to close to-night for an indefinite period, probably for four weeks, or until the operatives feel like returning to their looms. The order comes wholly unexpected on the part of the operatives, and was not looked for by many manufacturers.

The great event of the past few hours, outside of the advance in the cloth market, has been the strike and consequent shut-down at the Globe yarn and the Sanford mills. These strikes are the direct outcome of the erratic course adopted by Arnold B. Sanford in dealing with his spinners. Mention of this course has been made from time to time in the press dispatches, and the outspoken anger of operatives and manufacturers is even greater than it was yesterday.

Mr. Sanford says the affair is a result of a misunderstanding and makes a long explanation in the evening papers.

When this statement was read by more than a dozen manufacturers they were emphatic in denying that they knew of any reservations attached to Mr. Sanford's signature to any agreement, and if there were any he alone knew of them. The attempt to bring in Mr. Kerr, of the Thread company, and Mr. Chase, of the King Philip, has already stirred up much feeling, as the spinners have concluded a satisfactory agreement with Mr. Kerr and with Mr. Chase, while the spinners at the Globe and Sanford mills are on strike.

The Strike Reaches Suncook, N. H.

Suncook, N. H., Aug. 22.—Four hundred weavers in the China mill walked out last evening, surprising the overseers. The company is run by Fall River prices, the agent being Colonel David L. Jewell. A 10 per cent. cut down was ordered Tuesday, which reduces the weavers to about 17 cents per cut. The help are French, good laboring people, and the company wants them to work under the same schedules as are in force in Fall River. It is rumored that all three of the large mills, the China, Pembroke and Webster, will have to shut down, as their help may refuse to work. The excitement is great to-day.

Waiting for Arbitration.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 22.—The strikers are now waiting to see if anything will come out of all the talk and action about arbitration. At a meeting of the secretaries of the various labor organizations it was voted to attend the conference proposed by Mayor Brownell, which will be held to-night. It was also voted to continue the meetings of the secretaries each week during the strike.

Great Storm at Pueblo.

Pueblo, Col., Aug. 23.—Late last evening a tremendous storm, which has been gathering for days, burst over this city. The rain fell in torrents and the lightning flashed incessantly for over an hour. The street railway was compelled to cease operations for a time and many telephones were burned out. So fast did the water rise in the Fountain river that an alarm was sounded and the police were busy all night getting the dwellers in the bottoms to places of safety.

New Bicycle Records.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 23.—Three new bicycle records were made on Hampden park yesterday afternoon by members of the Rambler team. J. P. Bliss made a half mile, flying start, in 54 3-5 seconds and later a half mile, standing start, in 58 1-3. The old records were 55 seconds and 59 2-5, respectively. Lumsden and Githens, who paced Bliss the first half mile on the tandem, made a new mark for that machine in 54 4-5 seconds.

New York Grand Lodge I. O. O. F.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The grand lodge of Odd Fellows elected the following officers: Grand master, Sidney L. Rowlands, Brooklyn; deputy grand master, Alfred A. Guthrie, Albany; warden, Samuel J. Pesoa, New York; secretary, John G. Dubert, New York; treasurer, Charles A. Wehr, New York; representative, George Dilkes, New York. Jamestown was selected as the place for the meeting of the grand lodge next year.

Wales Thanks His Sailors.

Cowes, Aug. 23.—The Prince of Wales mustered the crew of the cutter Britannia shortly before his departure for Homburg. He commended all for their excellent performances of their duties and presented to Captain Carter a pocket aneroid compass, inscribed with these words: "A present from the Prince of Wales to Captain Carter, in recognition of Britannia's winning six successive races from the Vigilant."

Voyage of a Bottle To Discover Ocean Current.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The hydrographic office of the navy is in receipt of an ocean current report that was thrown overboard from the British steamship Maine on October 12, 1891, in a position on the trans-Atlantic steamer routes about 450 miles southwest from the coast of Ireland.

It was found by Mr. Robert Gray on the eastern side of Great Inagua island, Bahama, May 8, 1894. In this interval of thirty-one months the bottle containing this report most likely skirted the coast of Europe and Africa and then crossed the Atlantic west in the equatorial current, drifting about 5,000 miles.

MEDAL FOR GEN. ESTES.

Rewarded for an Act of Gallantry During the Late War.

Washington, Aug. 22.—By direction of the president a medal of honor has been awarded to Brevet Brigadier General Llewllyn G. Estes, United States volunteers, for most distinguished gallantry at Flinn river, Ga., Aug. 30, 1864.

This officer, while serving as assistant adjutant general on the staff of General Kilpatrick, voluntarily took command of troops and made a gallant charge across a burning bridge upon the rear guard of the enemy, drove them from their barricades, and extinguished the fire, enabling the union army to take advantage of its position on the further bank.

RESCUED FROM DROWNING.

Narrow Escape for Three Prominent Jersey Politicians.

Cape May, N. J., Aug. 23.—State Comptroller Hancock, ex-Postmaster Yard, of Trenton, and the clerk of Mercer county, Barber Gummere, who are here to attend the nominating convention to-day, were rescued from the surf last night by Lawyer Thomas Byrnes, of Philadelphia, and a volunteer lifeboat crew.

The trio were swept off by the undertow and would have been drowned had it not been for the heroic action of Byrnes, who swam out with a life line.

FLOODED WITH MONEY.

Whiskey Trust Borrowing Right and Left—Many Gaugers at Work.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 23.—The Whiskey trust has succeeded in borrowing all the money it needs for the present, and has deposited over $1,000,000 in one of the city banks. This was borrowed in small lots, and parties are offering the trust money in all directions.

There are now more than sixty extra gaugers employed here re-gauging, and to-day's collections of internal revenue amounted to $531,921.25, the largest in the history of any office in this state. All the trust houses are shut down but one, and this will soon follow suit.

Withdrawing Whiskey from Bond.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 23.—Ninety-two thousand gallons of whiskey have been taken out of bond in this internal revenue district since the new tariff bill was passed. The tax paid is $82,800. There are but 15,000 gallons more in bond.

THE BURGLAR HIS BROTHER.

Mr. Dixon and Wife Fight Fiercely With a Robber.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 23.—The house of Michael Dixon, at Poquonnock, was entered by a burglar yesterday. A fierce struggle ensued between Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, and the burglar proved to be Richard Dixon, Mr. Dixon's youngest brother.

He stole two gold watches and $32 in money and was afterwards arrested at East Granby. He is a noted criminal.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

Crisp Believes It Will Become a Law Without Presidential Action.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Speaker Crisp said yesterday that he felt very certain that the tariff bill will become a law.

He does not expect the president to sign it. He thinks it will become a law without the executive signature, and that congress will adjourn within an hour after this fact becomes known to the members and senators.

HOLMAN RENOMINATED.

The Indiana Congressman Nearing His Thirty Years in the House.

Shelbyville, Ind., Aug. 23.—Congressman William R. Hollman was re-nominated in this, the Fourth, district yesterday on the first ballot. Hall received thirty votes and Holman 164.

At the expiration of this term Holman will have been a member of congress thirty years.

CHICAGO LABOR INQUIRY.

Further Testimony Before the National Commission.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Although Chairman Wright announced at the beginning of yesterday's session of the labor commission that most of the representatives of the A. R. U. and of organized labor in general had been heard and that the railroad side of the question would be taken up, the day was about equally divided between both sides. Real estate agents testified that property in Pullman rents as cheap as that in the vicinity, the difference in accommodation being taken into account. More testimony was given by reporters.

Assistant Fire Marshal Fitzgerald made a good witness for the strikers, declaring that the majority of the incendiary fires were set by boys who had no connection with the railroads. The commissioners declined to say whether they will summon George M. Pullman or Vice-President Wickes. Commissioner Wright said that in dealing with the railroad side only the Illinois Central and Rock Island railroads would be considered, these being the roads designated by President Cleveland.

"We have no power to compel the general managers of other roads to attend," said Mr. Wright, "except as they are able to give testimony bearing on these two roads."

Mr. Longgruen testified that after he went back to work at Pullman a man told his mother that if the strikers ever caught him out after dark they would kill him.

John Fitzgerald, assistant fire marshal of Chicago, read a long list of cars, towers and other railroad property burned, showing great loss to the railroads. The oldest person he saw setting fire to the cars was a youth 19 years of age. All the rest were mere boys. He had seen no railway employes doing incendiary work. Once railroad men helped him to extinguish a blaze. He had seen a man cut firehose, but did not recognize him. The crowds had never obstructed the work of the department that he knew. He did not know if the incendiary boys had been instigated by the strikers. One hundred and forty-seven cars, five switch shanties, six depots and eight towers were burned in his district from July 5 to July 8, inclusive, this being the period of greatest violence and incendiarism.

Dr. John McLean, of Pullman, told the attitude of the company towards the men injured while at work. His duty was to care for all such men until they recovered. He did not think a hospital necessary at Pullman. He said the company paid the expenses at a hospital downtown of all men hurt while in its employ. In the case of the man whose hands had been hurt, the witness said the man had employed another doctor, and thereby ignored the company in the matter. Payment of his expenses at the hospital had been refused by the company on that account.

Dr. McLean asserted that the trouble with those hurt at Pullman was in a measure due to the use of liquor by the employes. In 4,000 cases of injury the witness had never seen the company refuse to pay all the expenses connected therewith, besides drug-store bills amounting to $1,700 annually.

DESTITUTE PULLMAN STRIKERS

The Work of Distributing Food to the Sufferers Begun.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—The relief appeal issued by Governor Altgeld was received by the destitute people of Pullman yesterday with general expressions of joy and gratitude for the interest taken by the governor in their relief. The relief committee received some supplies in the morning and the headquarters were opened again with the expectation of getting much money and provisions in response to the proclamation.

When the doors of the supply station were opened 400 men were assembled in double rows waiting to have their baskets filled. One thousand loaves of bread, made from flour sent by the citizens of Allegan, Mich., were distributed. Cash contributions were received, which went to make $100 in the treasury for the purchase of meat, to be used in extreme cases.

An evening paper is authority for the statement that the Pullman company has recognized the Brickmakers' union of Pullman and Roseland, and the strike in that branch of the big concern will soon be over.

Vice-President Wickes refused to discuss the matter for publication.

DRIFTS INTO POETRY

Mr. Brosius' Speech Places Him on Record.

The Pennsylvania Congressman's Very Unique Description of the Action on the Tariff Bill—He Summons the Muses and Winds Up With a Staircase Effusion.

Washington, Aug. 23.—A most remarkable contribution to tariff literature appears in the Congressional Record. It is a speech by Representative Marriatt Brosius, of Pennsylvania, printed under the general leave given in the rule by which the house of representatives last week concurred in the senate amendment to the bill. The keynote of the production is given in the quotation from Fletcher, with which the matter is introduced: "Let me write the ballads of a nation and I care not who makes their laws." After a brief dissertation in the usual manner upon democratic deficiencies, Mr. Brosius says:

"I shall not set before our unregenerate brethren their sins of omission and commission in the scarlet livery of their real turpitude, but I shall let the matters be established by witnesses of well-approved character for tenderness and mercy. I shall summon the muses, who each in her own peculiar field, yet all with uniform consent and true poetic ardor, have volunteered to transmit the manifold delinquencies which shall engage their pen to coming generations on wings of immortal song."

Beginning then with the quotation from the "Bigelow Paper:"

That a merciful Providence fashioned us hollow,
O' purpose that we might our principles swallow.
The belly can hold a great many of them, it can—
And bring them up ready for use like a pelican.

Mr. Brosius indulges is no less than twenty-three rhyming, if not poetical, descriptions of the shortcomings of the majority. Some of them are parodies of well-known airs of lines. "The Old Oaken Bucket" being the pattern for a few of them, and they are dressed in German, Irish and street gamin dialects. The acrostic is also invoked, the more satisfactorily to express the orator's opinion of the attitude of the democratic administration towards the policy of protection. The last effusion has a "staircase" refrain, after the fashion of James Whitcomb Reilly. The "poem" gives Mr. Brosius' view of the results of the "big storm" next November, and closes with the words:

Now the south is in the saddle and the Bourbons rule the roost,
With their outfit of free traders, cranks and Coxeyites to boost,
As they strive to topple over Thrift's fair temple in a day,
And sit down on northern progress in the true old southern way.
But the voters will be heard from ere this devil's work is done,
With an avalanche of ballots that will startle Washington.
November's blasts will chill their souls, from congressmen to bums,
And they'll hustle for their cellars—
When
The Big Storm Comes."

CLEVELAND AT WASHINGTON.

He Returns from Gray Gables, Evidently in the Best of Health.

Washington, Aug. 23.—President Cleveland returned to Washington last night from his outing at Gray Gables. He seemed to be in the best of health.

The congressional limited train, to which the president's private car was attached, arrived at the Pennsylvania railroad station at 8:20 o'clock, exactly on time. Outside the crowd waiting for returning friends, there were not more than fifty people at the station who had been drawn there by curiosity to see the president.

Private Secretary Thurber had arrived early and went down the platform to meet the president. Some of the white house ushers and a few policemen in citizens' clothes were also there. Mr. Cleveland walked down the long platform to the station entrance with Mr. Thurber. Behind were Secretary Lamont, who had joined the party in New York, and Dr. O'Reilly, of the army, who accompanied Mr. Cleveland to Gray Gables.

Firemen's Convention Closed.

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The New York State Firemen's association concluded its twenty-second annual convention and adjourned to meet in Troy the third Tuesday in August, 1895. The following officers were elected: President, John F. Schlosser; vice-presidents, W. C. Elliott, Elmira, and J. R. Mahoney, Lockport; secretary, Thomas Honohan; treasurer, G. H. Scott, Coxsackie; statistician, W. E. Churchill, Weedsport.

New York Cleveland League.

Albany, Aug. 23.—James C. Matthews, president of the New York state Cleveland league, an organization of colored voters, has issued a call for the executive committee of the league to meet in conference in this city Tuesday, September 4, next, at 10 a. m. Each senatorial district is entitled to one representative in the committee.

Cincinnati Liquor Dealers Defiant.

Columbus, O., Aug. 23.—An evening paper prints interviews with a large number of Catholic saloon-keepers of this city upon Bishop Watterson's stand against the liquor traffic as engaged in by members of the church in his diocese. Almost without exception they are defiant against the order, and say they will neither leave the church nor quit the saloon business.

Jersey City's Marshal in Trouble.

Asbury Park, Aug. 23.—Capt. "Jack" Graham, Jersey City's marshal and a deputy sheriff for Hudson county, who caused the arrest last week of C. E. Bell, of Hillsboro, O., on the charge of being a pickpocket, appeared before Justice Borden and gave bail in the sum of $200 for his appearance before the grand jury to answer to the complaint of assault and false imprisonment preferred by Mr. Bell.

A Cider Mill Wrecked and the Owner Nearly Killed.

Wolcott N. Y., Aug. 23.—In a raid of temperance crusaders here yesterday on a cider mill they blew up the structure with dynamite. The proprietor had a narrow escape from death.

Old, But a Fiend.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 23.—Last night Melinda, the ten-year-old child of Jonathan Monaghan, of Rouserville, thirteen miles east of Hagerstown, was assaulted in a lonely woods by Stephen J. Aikens, aged 52, a tramp. The cries of the little girl brought help. Aikens was captured and committed to jail.

Suit Against Budd Doble.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Budd Doble, the horseman, has just been made defendant in a $10,000 damage suit filed in the superior court by S. A. Brown & Co. The plaintiffs charge that Doble did not give their horse, Belle Vera, an opportunity to test her speed in various races, thereby incurring loss to them.

Must Refrain from Secular Subjects.

London, Aug. 23.—The Daily Chronicle's Rome correspondent says: "The pope has sent a letter to the Italian bishops requesting them to instruct the clergy to refrain from secular subjects in their sermons. The occasion for the letter arose from the preaching of political reforms by some priests."

1,800 Ballots and No Nomination.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 23.—On the 1800th ballot the Sixth district democratic convention voted as follows: Burke, 37; Poindexter, 32; Abbott, 22. At one time Burke lacked but two votes of being nominated. The convention is still in session.

San Francisco, Aug. 23.—The United States steamer Philadelphia arrived from Honolulu yesterday afternoon, having made the passage in ten days. All was quiet at the islands when the warship left.

Believe Juual Was Murdered.

Danvers, Mass., Aug. 23.—The report that Conrad Juual, the Norwegian contractor, had committed suicide in Lexington, Mass., is discredited here, where Juual belongs, and the theory that it is a case of murder is generally accepted by his friends. They state that he was in no financial strait, that his family were pleasant, and that there was absolutely no cause, as far as they know, for him to have taken his own life.

Reported Battles Not Confirmed.

London, Aug. 23.—Neither the foreign office nor the Chinese legation has received any news of the battles mentioned by the Times correspondent yesterday. At the legation the officials say that General Yeh, who formerly commanded the Asan, has joined his force of 2,000 men to the Chinese northern army at Ping-Yang. The success of this movement, the Chinese say, proves that the Japanese troops in Korea are either weak or negligent.

Connecticut Prohibitionists.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 23.—The following state ticket was unanimously nominated by the prohibition convention: Governor, Dewitt C. Pond, of Hartford; lieutenant-governor, Edward Manchester, of Winsted; secretary of state, Louis A. Babcock, New Haven; treasurer, William Ingalls, Pomfret; comptroller, O. G. Baird, of Huntington.

Anxious About Labor Day.

Columbus, O., Aug. 23.—A committee representing organized labor called at Governor McKinley's office to inquire why the usual labor day proclamation had not been issued this year. The governor is out of the state and will not return until next week. Labor day is September 3, and for the first time is a national holiday.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:
Dear Sir—I think your "Favorite Prescription" was the preservation of my life. I was under the doctor's care for three months with womb disease and a gradual wasting all the time. I was so weak that I could not be raised in bed when I commenced taking the "Prescription," and by the time I had taken three bottles I was up and going when over I pleased, and have had good health and been very strong ever since. That was four years ago. I have recommended it to a good many of my friends, and they have taken it and are highly pleased.

FOUR BLACK WEEKS.

DEATH'S BUSIEST HARVEST TIME AMONG THE BABIES.

August Heat Adds Hundreds to the Mortality Rate—Lactated Food Keeps Up Babies' Strength and Saves Their Lives.

More persons will die during the coming four weeks than at any other time of the year.

"And the greatest proportion of these deaths," says the New York Press, "will strike down children under five years of age, and from six to eight out of every 10 will be traced by the Board of Health to the ignorance and carelessness of mothers who will yet mourn the loss of their children as sincerely and deeply as any mother could."

The greatest source of mortality this month and next will be diarrheal diseases due to improper food, which sows the seeds of disease. Hot, wilting nights ripen them into full fruition.

Boards of Health, physicians and mothers agree that there are but two ways by which babies' lives may be absolutely insured against cholera infantum and the wasting disorders of hot weather. One is healthy mother's milk, and the other is lactated food.

In eight cases out of 10 where a physician is called because the "baby is not doing well," he sees that all that is needed is a more nourishing diet, and after advising such a rich but easily assimilated nutriment as lactated food the child shows right off a gain in weight and color and liveliness.

This most remarkable of all infant foods has great nourishing powers. It is made with the most scrupulous attention to purity and freedom from any source of contagion. It fills the tiny veins and arteries with ruddy, pure blood. Sound sleep follows its use, and rapid growth comes as naturally from a well-fed system as sleep does when the nervous centers are properly nourished.

Sunshine is food; it is meat for strong men, but the very young, the aged and the feeble are wilted and worsted by the fierce heat. For them as well as for mothers trying to nurse their children through the hot summer, nothing so quickly and easily keeps them strong as lactated food. Every intelligent mother at once understands why it is possible for lactated food to build up the tissues so rapidly and to give strength to babies and persons with delicate stomachs when her physician explains to her the simple ingredients of this preparation—sugar of milk and the nutritive qualities of wheat, barley and oats.

"The weight and size, not the age of the baby, should determine its food," says Dr. A. Siebert of the New York Polyclinic Children's Hospital. At the first indication that baby is not thriving, give it lactated food. But be sure to feed it regularly. Lactated food will plump out the cheeks of thin, pale-lipped babies and make them gain steadily in weight. For weaning babies and during the teething period there is no substitute for lactated food. It resembles in every respect healthy mother's milk. It is particularly grateful to nervous, fretful children who are hungry and insufficiently nourished, yet find their usual food displeasing to their weak and disturbed stomachs.

Ask the first mother you talk with what she knows about lactated food. It will be hard in many communities to find a mother who has brought up a family who has not a personal knowledge of this splendid nourishment. Says Mrs. D. C. Baker, of Tiffin, O., whose baby is shown above:

"We have been so well pleased with the use of lactated food for our baby that we feel like doing something to further the use of it by special recommendation. Our baby was very delicate when born and weighed but three pounds. We were very soon compelled to resort to artificial food, and by the advice of Dr. H. C. Wells, our family physician, we commenced using lactated food, since which time she has made a steady, healthy growth, and has never had one single day of sickness in sixteen months, and we have never lost one hour of sleep on account of teething."

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 23, 1894

CITY EDITION, 4 O'CLOCK.

The outcry against the menhaden fishing steamers along the New Jersey coast is louder this season than ever, and apparently with good reason, for, in the words of a correspondent, "it is no uncommon thing to count on a clear day from twelve to fifteen of these steamers plying their trade within a radius of two or three miles, either at Barnegat Inlet or anywhere along Island or Squan Beaches. With the utmost assurance they stand right in the mouths of the inlets and scoop the waters of the teeming millions of fish that have always made the bays their spawning ground." The purse nets used by these vessels take everything from the smallest menhaden or "moss-bunkers" to the largest blue fish, weak fish, sea bass, and rock fish. In one week during July the cargoes of a menhaden steamer, landed at New Gretna, were estimated at 712,000 fish. When, some years ago, an effort was made to obtain congressional relief for the local fishermen, the western and southern representatives could not be interested, and the New England representatives, acting in behalf of the capital invested in the fishoil factories, were strong enough to shelve the legislation proposed. The menhaden fishermen are not the only enemies of the propagation of food fish. "The fish pounds from Mantoloking up to Sandy Hook"—says an observer—"are becoming almost as much a destroyer of the food fish as are menhaden steamers. The pounds are built in the very lines of travel always pursued by the food fish, and with long outstretched wings take in whole schools. At Elberon and Sea Bright this Summer between 300,000 and 400,000 pounds of fish have been caught in two days."

Connecticut has a woman mail-carrier in the person of Charlotte Waldo, who drives her wagon every day over the worst route in the State, lying between Ashford and Bolton. She covers 36 miles in all, going on duty as early as 6 in the morning and stabling her horse at about the same hour in the evening. In the course of her travels she passes through Ashford, West Ashford, Mansfield, Four Corners, North Coventry, Quarryville and Bolton. "The route", says the Hartford Times, "is controlled under government by Dwight Shurtliff of illicit distillery fame, who receives $600 a year for it". Charlotte Waldo gets for her services $150 a year, Shurtliff furnishing the team. In early Spring the roads of the Ashford-Bolton route are almost impassable, and after a snowstorm they are seldom broken out for a day or two. Last Winter the woman, although obliged to shovel a road through heavy drifts at times, never missed a mail-train. Her personal appearance is thus described by one who accompanied her over the route recently: "She was of medium height, and although not fleshy her entire build suggested great strength and endurance. Her face and hands were as red as a boiled lobster, from the exposure to all kinds of weather. Her hair cut short and parted in the middle, huge black eye-goggles, a black sailor hat with a white ribbon and a huge bow much the worse for wear, a pair of large men's shoes on her feet, and the resolute determined look on her face, all gave her a decidedly masculine appearance as she stood there with one hand on the carriage ready to get in, and the other holding the mail bag.

THE SECRET ORDERS.

Chief Grant and Thomas Cahill were given the hunters degree in Paugh Caugh Naugh Sinque Tribe last evening. The attendance was very large.

The Oriental degree will be worked by Franklin Council, No. 41, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, this evening. Several members of William G. Holton Council of Dunellen are expected to be present.

Trinity Commandery, No. 9, K. T., held a special meeting last evening to drill in preparation for Field Day in Asbury Park, August 29. Another meeting to perfect the drill will be held Monday evening, August 27.

The refusal of Grand Master of Exchequer, Col. C. V. N. Wilson of Long Branch, to accept a reelection has created an unusual interest in the nominating the officers of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey Knights of Pythias, which takes place in the subordinate lodges the first meeting in September by the several Past Chancellors. Several names are discussed in connection with the nomination, among whom Capt. A. Lincoln Reiley of Philipsburg, the efficient Adjutant of the Second Regiment, seems to be a favorite and will be the choice of a large number of lodges.

Sawed His Hand.

James Southard, while sawing wood this morning for George Bullmer in North Plainfield, caught the second finger of his right hand in the teeth of the saw, cutting it to the bone. He was, however, able to continue work, after putting a bandage on the finger.

OBITUARY.

Chas. Schemerhorn, Jr.

Manager Charles Schemerhorn of the Western Union Telegraph office, and his wife, were sadly afflicted today by the death of their son and only child, Charles Schermerhorn, Jr. The young man was 24 years of age. He was born in Burlington, and brought to Plainfield by his parents when a babe in arms. He learned civil engineering, and became skilled and proficient in the work. He was for two years with the Government Survey on the Red River, and accompanied Gen. Delafield to Austin, Texas, where for one year he was in charge of construction of sewers.

While at the head of water-works construction in Newberne, N. C., he was stricken with pneumonia, which left his lungs so affected that his parents sent him to Saranac. He improved there for a time, but again began to fail, and was brought home to be under the personal care of his mother.

The devoted parents used every means to save the life of their loved one, but at 5:30 this morning he entered peacefully and calmly the sleep which is as happy as it is eternal.

He died in the faith, a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, and was spiritually prepared for the end he felt to be near. The only other society to which he belonged was the Sons of the American Revolution, New York city.

Services will be held from the residence of the bereaved parents, 147 East Fifth street, Friday evening, and interment will take place in Hillside Cemetery Saturday morning.

Every heart feels a deep sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. Schermerhorn in their affliction, and the host of friends find consolation in the thought that his end was peace and in the faith that he has gone to partake of the joys of the redeemed.

Mrs. John D. Moore.

Mrs. Mary E. Moore, wife of John D. Moore, passed away this morning at 7:15, at her home on Chatham street, after an illness of five months. Death was caused by inflammation of the lungs, which had developed within the past few days.

Mr. Moore was born in Washington Valley 74 years ago. Her younger days were spent at home, and when she was married to Mr. Moore they took up their residence on Chatham street, in which place they had lived thirty-three years.

Three brothers and one sister survive her. The brothers are George and Nathaniel Taynor, who live in North Plainfield, and Andrew Taynor, who lives in Illinois. Mrs. W. H. Coombs, her sister, is also a resident of North Plainfield. Mrs. Moore was a regular attendant at Warren Chapel services, accompanying her husband. She was eyes for him in his sightless condition, and the present affliction leaves him in sorrowing night. The couple were inseparable and a model of happiness.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon from Warren Chapel.

Hiram B. Mulford.

A saddened household is that of Lewis B. Mulford, of the Park avenue firm of Hummer & Mulford, for the light of their home, their little 9-year-old son Hiram B., has gone forth into the great beyond, leaving their hearts bruised and aching, their hearthstone desolate.

For two weeks that malignant disease, diphtheria, held the little boy a sufferer. Through all the tortures of his illness he has been brave and patient. His own pluck, and the skilful medical and tender parental care accorded him, wrought improvement; but heart trouble developed, so seriously that Drs. Carman and Hedges were in consultation at 12 last night.

At 7 this morning the end came. With the solicitude such as parents alone can feel, he was being watched and tended. As the body lay in his father's soothing arms, there came the blissfulness of everlasting sleep; and the gentle little soul that had shed on earth so much sunshine and love, passed to the arms of the Saviour.

All during his illness, little Hiram had said "Don't worry, papa! Don't worry, mamma! I am only going to Heaven!

And his last word was "Mamma!"

At the funeral the stricken family will be alone in their grief, precaution against contagion compelling private services.

An infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Naylor died yesterday morning at the home of the parents, East Front street.

The death occurred yesterday afternoon of Pauline Coon, 4½ year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coon of George street and Hill avenue, from diphtheria. The funeral will be private from the house this afternoon.

AT REST.

Fred L. Walker.

The funeral services of Fred L. Walker were held from his late home, 313 New street, this afternoon at 2, and from the First Baptist Church at 2:30, Rev. Arthur Crane officiating.

At the house a short service was held. The attendance of friends and relatives was very large. Delegations from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and Women's Relief Corps, No. 10, were present. John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, took charge of the service. They were accompanied by members of the Independent Drum and Fife Corps.

At the church Rev. Arthur Crane conducted the service and spoke in a fitting manner of the decedent. His remarks were especially helpful. Mrs. Steiner, Miss Etta Krymer, J. Townsend and Horace J. Martin sang two beautiful selections, favorites of the departed one.

At the conclusion of the service the funeral cortege marched to Hillside Cemetery, where the Sons of Veterans conducted their burial service. Those taking part were Chaplain Edward T. Bowman, acting Captain W. C. Dobbins, acting First Lieutenant Charles Stephens and Second Lieutenant Willard S. Sutton.

They were assisted in the service by the drum corps. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Crane.

Those acting as pall-bearers from Camp 28, were: Herbert C. McVoy, James M. Vail, Clifford Compton, George Bedford, and Theodore Kurtzhals and William Stewart friends of the decedent.

The floral tributes were beautiful and consisted of a pillow red, white and blue flowers, with the inscription "Camp 28, S. of V", an anchor from the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church with the letters "C. E.", a cross of roses from the Woman's Relief Corps, and a wreath from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73.

They are to be gone three weeks. Mrs. F. E. Miller, wife of Netherwood's proprietor, is their guest on the trip.

M. Powers & Son's coal yard is now open with 400 tons of first-class coal under cover. They will not be undersold by rivals. They are now selling No. 2 nut coal for $4, and are a reliable firm to deal with.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SCHEPFLIN SETTLEMENT.

Creditors to Get 40 Per Cent—Legal Allowances.

The Middlesex County Orphans' Court made an order Tuesday allowing C. Schepflin & Co., the manufacturing clothiers of this city, who recently made an assignment, to compound with the creditors at 40 cents on the dollar. Elias R. Pope was allowed $3,000 for services as assignee and Craig A. Marsh $1,500 for services as counsel.

Exciting Runaway.

A horse belonging to one of the boarders at the Hotel Netherwood was driven to Frank Hand's blacksmith shop this noon to have new shoes put on. The man in charge was hitching her to a sulky, when she became frightened and started to run toward Front street. The sulky collided with the curb and the wheels were completely wrecked.

The animal passed Front street and Park avenue at a lively gait, and got as far as Watchung avenue, where she was captured by Jed Smalley and returned to the man in charge, who went back to Netherwood.

Pleasant Time at Lyceum Hall.

A social and dance was given by the C. Y. M. L. in their hall corner of Sixth and Liberty streets last evening, which was attended by about 100 people. All enjoyed the dancing and other pleasures. The committee in charge consisted of T. Commerford, J. J. Hibbitts, M. Higgins, J. Moran, W. O'Connor and D. J. Shea. The floor managers were M. Higgins and D. J. Shea. O'Reilly furnished the music.

The Horse Too Was Tired.

As a man and two women, all evidently under the influence of liquor, were driving on Madison avenue in the vicinity of the electric light station about 7 last evening, the horse got tired of pulling so many "loads", and lay down in the middle of the road. Passers-by assisted in getting the horse on his feet again, and the trio went their way.

To Help a Good Work.

A writing-desk of good size and having several drawers is wanted for the office work of the Citizens Organized Aid Association. One which has been used, if in good repair, will answer the purpose, provided the price is low enough. Apply in person or by letter to the treasurer, H. P. Reynolds, at the pharmacy corner Park and North avenues.

To Bowl for a Team.

Workmen are engaged in oiling the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum bowling alleys, and the next game in the individual tournament will be rolled tomorrow night. The tournament is for the purpose of selecting a team for the Diocesan Union Tournament the coming Winter.

Fanwood Township Ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the removing and trimming of trees standing upon or in the side lines of the sidewalks within the Township of Fanwood.

The Inhabitants of the Township of Fanwood by their Township Committee do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That all trees standing on the inner or outer side lines of any of the sidewalks within said Township of Fanwood, which said trees, or the branches thereof, shall in anyway interfere with or obstruct the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks or the approaches thereto, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the approach of vehicles to said sidewalks, or any of them, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the light from the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks, or any of them, shall be so trimmed by the owner or owners of the lands adjacent to the sidewalks upon which said trees may be standing, within twenty days after the passage of this ordinance, as not to permit of any obstruction to the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks, or the approaches thereto, or any obstruction to the approach of vehicles thereto from the public roads or streets, or permit the obstruction of the light or lights from any of the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted that said trees shall be trimmed as referred to in the preceding section by the persons and in the manner therein mentioned, under the direction of the chairman of the Township Committee of said Township of Fanwood, or such other person or persons as said Township Committee may designate or appoint.

Sec. 3. And be it enacted that if any person or persons owning the lands lying adjacent to the sidewalks within said township aforesaid shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance, said person or persons so offending shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

A NEW TRACK RECORD.

BARNETT SETS A PACE FOR FUTURE 5-MILE RACES.

Wm. McCutchen Makes His First Track Appearance in a Month and Wins Two Contests — Titsworth Heavily Handicapped—Taylor's Skill at Cycle Creeping.

The regular Wednesday matinee races of the Crescent Wheelmen occurred yesterday afternoon, and a small but highly interested audience was present. The first event was a one-mile race open to boys under 16 years of age. W. M. McCutchen, Harry Fulper and John Clark lined up to the tape. McCutchen coasted down the bank on the short turn and took the lead, Fulper set the pace in the second lap and all loafed. At the sound of the bell Fulper immediately spurted and McCutchen followed him. McCutchen gradually gained until the final spurt when he passed Fulper and won by three lengths, Fulper second and Clark third. The time was 3 min. 12 sec.

The second race was a two-mile handicap for the Victor Wheelmen, which afforded much fun. John Venable started from the 130 yard mark, Alfred Wilson had 125 yards, S. Godway 100 yards, and Joel Bolden and Charles Vandeveer started scratch. The start was made with the bell, and the men, not understanding the signal, all started at different times. Venable secured a good lead which he maintained until the fifth lap. The scratch men loafed at the start but soon changed their tactics and spurted after the leaders. They caught Conway on the fourth lap. Wilson caught Venable on the fifth lap, and Bolden and Vandeveer, who were close behind, passed him also and on the long turn passed Wilson. Bolden led almost to the finish when Vandeveer shot out and crossed the tape a winner by an inch. Bolden was second and Wilson secured third place. The time was 5 min. 46 4 5 sec.

A one mile handicap was the next event and the starters were: U. B. Crane (200 yards), F. P. Taylor (200 yards), John Clarke (150 yards), Harry Fulper (150 yards), Charles Maltby (50 yards), and Nathan Titsworth (scratch).

Titsworth caught Maltby before they had gone 200 yards, and the two started after the limit men. Taylor took the lead at once and set such a pace that he was never headed. Clarke passed Crane and Fulper and started after Taylor. Maltby dropped out on the second lap and Titsworth went it alone. He passed all the field but Taylor, and although he made a beautiful spurt he could not overcome Taylor's lead. Taylor won easily. Titsworth was second and Fulper beat Clarke for third by two lengths. Time—2 min., 37 seconds.

The feature of the day's sport was an exhibition five miles by A. H. Barnett without pace makers. The time of each lap was 47—45—49—51—51—52—53—53—54—52—54—57—55—53—49 seconds; for the miles it was 2:26, 5:03, 7:42, 10:20, 12:55. This is the track record for the distance, and is a very creditable performance considering the fact that he had no pacemakers and that there was a strong wind.

The Victor Wheelmen were given another chance to show their speed in a ½-mile race. Joel Bolden, Charles Vandeveer, John Venable and Alfred Wilson were the starters, but at the very start it was shown that the race lay between Bolden and Vandeveer. Vandeveer led with Bolden close behind. Bolden spurted and passed him, again their positions changed until on the home stretch Bolden left Vandeveer behind and won by a length and a half, Vandeveer second and Venable third. The time was 51 2 5 sec.

The next event was a one-third-mile handicap, John Clarke was given 75 yards, W. M. McCutchen 50 yards, and S. C. Crane 40 yards, while Nathan Titsworth started from scratch. Titsworth passed Crane on the far turn and caught Clarke a few feet from the tape, but was unable to pass McCutchen who had left Clarke behind on the far corner and crossed the line an easy winner. Titsworth secured second place by a foot, Clarke was third. The time—47 seconds.

The last race of the day was a 50-yard slow race. Nathan Titsworth, Harry Fulper, Meridith Dryden, John Clarke, S. Clinton Crane and Fred Taylor lined up as starters. Almost at the start, Clarke fell out; Dryden was next. Taylor was now last man, with Crane next. Titsworth spoiled his chances by touching the fence, and Fulper also dismounted almost at the tape. Crane crossed the finish line a length in front of Taylor, making Taylor the winner, conclusively proving that he was slow as well as fast. The winner's time was 2 minutes and 10 seconds.

J. C. Kirkner and I. Townley were in charge of the meeting and deserve great credit for the way in which they managed it. Louis Darling used his stentorian voice to give the word "go", while Mr. VanSickle kept the crowd supplied with the details of the races.

Lost a Valuable Horse.

Patrick J. Casey, the undertaker, had a valuable horse which he permitted to run in a large field near his home on Fourth street, when not in use.

While the animal was exercising early this morning, the right foreleg was broken in two places.

A neighbor awakened Mr. Casey, telling him what had happened. He at once sent for Dr. Herbert and Dr. Voorhis of Somerville. When they arrived they decided that the horse could not be saved, and in consequence they chloroformed the animal.

Mr. Casey valued him at $125, and feels the loss keenly.

O'KEEFE'S BAD FALL

Luckily, Fractured Ribs Are His Worst Injury.

James O'Keefe of East Sixth street, a mason employed by J. P. Emmons, the builder, met with a serious accident Monday morning. While at work on a scaffold on one of the new buildings in Watchung Park, he found that one of the braces on the building interfered with his work, and in his endeavor to pull it from its fastenings pulled too quick and was precipitated through the beams inside the building to the cellar two stories below.

He was picked up by his fellow-workmen and taken to his home. A physician was at once summoned, and found that in his fall he had broken two ribs.

His wife at the time he was taken home was in New Brunswick with one of his daughters, in consultation with Dr. Donahue about a daughter who is ill, and she knew nothing of the accident until she arrived home and found her husband in bed.

Today the patient is getting along nicely under the careful treatment of Dr. Boone.

Wonderful Bargains in Clothing.

A great bankrupt sale of clothing was begun today, and is now in progress, in Love's Building, West Front street, opposite White's. It offers an opportunity to clothe one's self in substantial and handsome garments at a price so low that the most modest purse can afford to invest.

The men's suits are of all styles, and are sold as low as $3.75. For $9.50 one can get an elegant suit sold for $20 in New York. Custom-made suits fresh from the tailors are sacrificed at $13.75, though they are easily worth $30.

Clothing for boys and youths is sold at rates so low that every parent should immediately take advantage of the rare chance to clothe his son well for little money.

Think of a pair of trousers for 75 cents! There's no need to buy overalls when regular goods are so cheap.

Men's hats are reduced from $3 to 75 cents. Underwear is practically given away. A pair of suspenders goes for 8 cents, and half-hose are only 3 cents a pair.

Everything that a man, boy or child wants to wear is to be found at this sale at prices which mean many dollars in pocket to purchasers.

Go now, as the rush of people is fast seizing the opportunity to clear out the stock.

—Every Thursday night after tonight the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum alleys will be devoted to the use of the women during the Winter.

Michael says if it is necessary he will use a shot-gun to protect his property and life, and he intends seeing that he is protected. The justice put them under $200 bonds to keep the peace, and in a little while after they were seen digging more potatoes. Yesterday afternoon Michael went to Plainfield to get Attorney Geo. DeMeza for counsel in the matter, and declared he was going to have his father and brother sent to jail.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

The Fanwood Township ordinance requiring trees to be trimmed or removed where they interfere with travel, is published in The Daily Press today.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Olaf Sangstad was unable to ride in yesterday's races on account of stiffness.

The prizes for the handicap games of Tuesday afternoon were given out at the home of J. W. Beveridge on East Ninth street.

A century run will take place Labor Day from Philadelphia to Newark by the Time Wheelmen. It is expected that 300 wheelmen will take part.

Louis H. Darling, who was injured at the Crescent Wheelmen's race meet of last Saturday, is out again. He limps a little, but is not very much the worse for his tumble.

The officers for the 25-mile road race of the associated cycling clubs of New Jersey Labor Day will be: Referee, F. P. Prial; starter, F. Kerr; judges, M. A. Heath, M. V. Perkins, W. E. Eldridge, Howard A. Smith and H. L. Saltonstall.

Two colored boys, who assist Israel Jones in caring for the Park Club property, had a bicycle race yesterday on the driveway inside the grounds. Coming down the home-stretch they rode so fast that they were unable to stop. One tried to dig up flowers with his handle bars and the other attempted to climb the fence, but only succeeded in somewhat damaging his front wheel.

The Union County Roadsters will hold their ninth race meet at the Rahway track Labor Day, September 3, at 3 p. m. The New York Times has donated a $50 gold medal for the one mile novice race, which ought to draw a large entry list. In the handicap races the first prizes will be diamond rings. The events are: 1-mile novice; ¼ mile handicap; ½ mile handicap and 1-mile handicap. There will be a band of music in attendance, and the admission has been placed at 25 cents. Entries close with A. H. Chamberlain, chairman of the Union County Roadsters Race Committee, Lock Box 55, Rahway, N. J., August 27, who will furnish entry blanks and full particulars upon application.

The New Jersey Road Race 25-mile open handicap under the auspices of the Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey, is well under way, and every indication points to a great success. It will take place Labor Day, Sept. 3, over the fastest course in America named Union County Course, starting at Elizabeth, N. J., Morris avenue, at 11:30 a. m. sharp, then to Springfield, to Westfield, to Rahway, to Elizabeth, and turn and finish at Rahway. The course is now in excellent condition and every day there can be seen any number of men training over this fast course for this great event. The prize list is not yet complete but it is safe to say that we will have four high grade wheels and other valuable prizes. For the first time prize the New York Times has donated a $50 gold medal, second time prize the Union County Roadsters have donated a gold watch. Entries close with A. H. Chamberlain, Lock Box, 55, Rahway, N. J., August 29. Red flags will be stationed at every turn of the road. An elegant hat rack will be given to the club that has the most number of men to finish within the time limit of one hour and 30 minutes. Look out for records.

L. Bamberger & Co. Growing.

Certain changes now being made in the establishment of L. Bamberger & Co., the enterprising Newark dry-goods firm, will add more room on the first floor, as well as for the use of an additional elevator which will be a great public convenience. Arrangements have been made to secure one or more of the upper floors occupying the entire area of the building. These additions will give the firm room for many new departments, particularly one for shoes, which they propose to make conspicuous.

All this shows the constant growth in popularity and enterprise which marks the career of L. Bamberger & Co. Although comparatively new comers to Newark their store is always a scene of trade activity.

Court Coddington.

The City Court presented a busy scene this morning, when the following cases were brought up before Judge Coddington:

James Carroll and John Forsyth, for fighting on the boulevard, were given 30 days in which to make friends again.

Joseph Burke was caught riding on a freight train. Ten days was thought necessary for him to think over his transgression of the law.

Wm. Thompson left $3 with the city as a fine for being drunk and disorderly.

—Everybody is going to George Thatcher's minstrels tonight.

—Apparatus for steam heating is being placed in the Babcock Building.

—Gardner, the Somerset street baker of Home-Made fame, has genuine Boston-baked beans fresh every evening at 6. He sells them at 15 cents a quart and 8 cents a pint. Anyone calling for them will do him a favor to bring a dish to put them in.

"Those Female Ills can be cured. I suffered long and severely. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me. I advise any woman who suffers with any form of female weakness to try it."—Mrs. Walter Wilcox, 736 West St., Philadelphia, Pa.

GREAT BANKRUPT SALE

$30,000 WORTH OF FINE

Men's Boy's and Children's

CLOTHING

At Love's Building, West Front St., Plainfield, N. J.

One of the largest New York clothing house has failed and this immense stock has been brought here to be sold at retail and turned into cash at once to satisfy creditors. The immense store next to Randolph's City Drug Store, opp. White's Dry Goods and Housefurnishing Store has been rented for this occasion.

This Great Sale Will Commence Today at 9 a. m.

Rain or shine. Remember this elegant stock of fine clothing must be sacrificed at enormous loss.

Everything at 50c. on the Dollar.

Bring this adv with you and convince yourself that what we advertise are all facts. We will rush them off in one great sweeping sacrifice. Read this carefully and remember this is no humbug. The stock is just from the tailor's hands, all new and desirable, expressly made for the coming season, and the only reason that it is offered at such great sacrifice is because we must have the money at once. Read the following and remember we only mention a few of our bargains. We have better bargains on our counters than in this ad. Read the wonder.

SUITS.

Men's good desirable suits for $3 75, worth $8. With each of these suits we give a written guarantee that you may keep them a whole week at your home and if you find out that this suit is not worth $8, we will give you the money back.

Elegant Cassimere Suits in sack and cutaways, well worth $10. During this sale you can have them for $4 75. Nobby Dress Suits for young men, $7 75, worth $15. These suits are all fine all-wool cloth, made for this year's wear, and will make a handsome Sunday suit. Remember our price is only $7 75. We also have about 200 suits in black worsted and fancy cassimeres, each of them warranted "tailor made", and have the tailor's trade mark on them. Each of these suits is actually a bargain at $20, but we will sell them for $9 50.

Our Greatest Offer.

Custom made suits that cost from $25 to $30 for only $13 75. If you wish to have a finger in the pie just pay attention to this grand offer. These suits are "order" made, all from imported cloth. They are made in Prince Albert style, 3-button cutaways and sacks. The materials used in these garments are actually the very finest, and they are made by the celebrated French artist tailor, Prof. Dessar, on Broadway, N. Y., and these we sell you for $13 75. This is the greatest bargain we have in the store; be sure and don't miss it.

Youth's Clothing.

Good suits for young men for $2 75, worth $5; elegant business suits $4 95, marked down from $10; fine Sunday suits $6 85, well worth $13.

WE HAVE NO DAMAGED GOODS, no fire stock or shopworn trash, but everything is new and desirable, and made in first class fashion for the best retail price. We must have money, and must, therefore, turn our stock into cash at once. Here is a chance you seldom get.

PANTS.

Don't buy any overalls. We will sell you nice pants for 75c; fine business pants for $1 25, $1 50, $1 75, $2 and $2 50. We have the finest line of tailor-made Dress Pants, price $2 75, $3, $3 50 and $4. Each pair of these pants are tailor-made and worth double the money we ask for them. Children's knee pants 19c a pair, Overcoats for Spring, Fall or Winter, for men, boys and children, and many other bargains that we cannot mention here. Come at once, don't wait. Remember such a sale has not been heard of in the history of Plainfield and will never occur again. Be sure you come and see the goods whether you wish to buy them or not. It costs nothing to look.

Children's Clothing.

Our prices will bring splendid

SUITS WITHIN REACH OF ALL

and we have an immense stock of these goods suitable for children. Jersey Suits, Braided Suits, Double-Breasted Suits at panic prices. See here! Good suits for children at $1, $1 25, $1 75, $2 25, $3 and $4.

Come and See Us. Don't Put it Off Too Long. Delays are Always Dangerous.

Men's Hats.

GARDNER ON THE OCEAN

The Absconder En Route for China or Japan.

According to the District Attorney of Pittsburg the Ex-Bank Cashier Has With Him a Cool $100,000 in Large and Small Denominations Taken from the Defunct Institution

Pittsburg, Aug. 23.—"Harry A. Gardner, the defaulting cashier of the Second National bank of Altoona, is en route for China or Japan, and has with him the sum of $100,000 in bank notes of large and small denomination," so spoke Samuel B. Griffith, assistant district attorney, when asked regarding the truth of the rumor that Gardner had been in this city Tuesday.

"Gardner was in Portland, Ore., a few days ago," said Mr. Griffith, "and he has likely left the country by this time.

"A week ago last Monday Gardner learned that Bank Examiner Miller was going to investigate his accounts. Gardner at once began preparations for a flight and left that afternoon, taking every dollar of the bank's money he could carry.

"The capital stock of the bank is $100,000, and the defalcation is in excess of that sum."

Five Killed at a Crossing.

Paris, Tenn., Aug. 23.—A terrible accident happened on the Paducah, Tennessee & Alabama railroad last evening. As the north-bound train was nearing Haed, Ky., about fifteen miles north of Paris, in passing a crossing it struck a wagon loaded with people, and five of the occupants met their death. The killed are: Misses Jennie and Lillie Ray, aged 18 and 20, daughters of J. T. Ray; his son, Tobe Ray, and two young ladies, Misses Hannon. A young man named Ray was badly injured.

Callahan Found Guilty.

New Orleans, Aug. 23.—In the criminal district court yesterday the jury in the case of John T. Callahan, which has occupied the attention of the court since Monday, Aug. 12, returned an unqualified verdict of guilty. The crime for which Callahan was convicted was demanding and receiving a bribe while a member of the city council. The punishment provided for the crime by law is imprisonment at hard labor for from one to five years.

His Leave of Absence Extended.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 23.—It is learned to-day that the time for the departure of Colonel Charles Denby, United States minister to China, has been extended a few days, but the most persistent inquiry failed to develop the exact time he is to leave San Francisco. Colonel Denby is now in Logansport, Ind., and from there will go to Arizona to visit his son.

Called to Wells College.

Auburn, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Wells college, in Aurora, has called William E. Waters, Ph.D., of the university of Cincinnati, to its presidency, to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. E. S. Frisbee, D.D. Professor Waters has accepted, and will enter upon the discharge of his duties at the opening of the collegiate year, next September. He graduated from Yale in the class of '78.

Persian Building for Central Park.

New York, Aug. 23.—H. H. Topakyan, Imperial Persian commissioner to the world's fair, has written a letter to the park department. It offered to give to the park department the building built for Persia at the world's fair. He suggested that it would be a fine ornament for Central park. The board decided to accept the building and decide afterwards what to do with it.

Indians Fire a Reservation.

Wichita, Kan., Aug. 23.—News came from Chandler, O. T., at midnight that the Indians had fired the Kickapoo reservation, and that a vast area is now blazing. The reflection of the fires was said to be visible thirty or forty miles off. The Indians are opposed to the proposed opening of the lands in October, and they think by burning off the grass they can keep settlers out.

Indians Causing Trouble.

El Reno, O. T., Aug. 23.—According to information received here the Kiowa and Comanche Indians are becoming troublesome because they have not received the $60,000 due them from the cattlemen for leases of their country. In some parts range fences have been destroyed and cattle slaughtered.

Scheme To Aid Pullman Strikers.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Governor Altgeld and Mayor Hopkins have decided on a plan for the relief of the starving Pullman strikers. The scheme is to secure the aid of the railroads by their furnishing free transportation to all those of the town who desire to seek work in other cities and towns of the country.

$1,000,000 Secured in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 23.—The Whiskey trust has secured from three local banks $1,000,000, to be used in paying tax on whiskey. The names of the banks, as well as the endorsers, are withheld, but there seems to be no doubt of the correctness of the statement.

Drowned Trying To Save His Horse.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 23.—John Pratt, of Lodi, was drowned in the Passaic river yesterday afternoon. He was driving a wagon to the bank to load some barrels with water. His horse backed into the river and Pratt jumped in to help it climb out. He could not swim and was drowned.

Assisting Kelly 'Wealers.

St. Louis, Aug. 23.—The ninety Kelly 'wealers who were stranded here two days ago on their return from Washington, and who have since been on the point of starvation, were shipped to Omaha, Neb., last night over the Wabash railroad.

Sir Charles Tupper Ill.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 23.—A special cable says that Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian high commissioner to England, was taken suddenly ill on a train while visiting Scotland and had to be removed to a hospital.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those, who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,

OUR SAILORS OUSTED

The Spanish Drive Them Out of Bluefields.

American Interests Left to the Protection of the British Marines and They Did Not Remain — Natives Driven Out—Information Conveyed by Private Letter.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—A few days ago brief dispatches received from Managua, Nicaragua, stated that Bluefields had been taken by a Nicaraguan army. Nothing else has been heard officially.

A letter received by William K. Ingram, a native of Bluefields, who is studying dentistry in this city, conveys some interesting details, among them the fact that not only were the natives driven out of Bluefields, but Uncle Sam's marines likewise, the latter retiring to the Columbia and the Marblehead, leaving only British marines to protect foreign interests in the town.

The letter is from Ingram's brother, James R. Ingram, a member of the Bluefields Banana company and one of the influential residents of the turbulent town. The date is four days later than the invasion of the town by the Nicaraguans. After speaking of the approach of the invading Spaniards in their steam launch, Mr. Ingram says:

"In less than no time, all Bluefields was alarmed. It happened that the United States cruisers Columbia and Marblehead and H. M. S. Mohawk were outside the bar and the respective captains landed men. Some of the Marblehead's men were ashore before the captain of the Mohawk called an assembly of people in town and told them not to fire. He told those who wanted protection to go where his soldiers were, that is, where we used to play cricket, and, you may believe me, almost the whole of Bluefields was up there by the next two days. In fact, it was like a city.

"At last the Spaniards landed and all was quiet. They ordered, you may say, Capt. O'Neill, of the Marblehead, to quit the government house, and the next day he left, but is still out at the bluff.

"The other American captain, seeing that, withdrew his troops, who were at the Masonic hall, and left immediately. So the Englishman was left alone.

"The next day after the Americans had left, the Englishman had to go to Port Limon to cable; so he told us that whoever wanted protection should go on the ship, and he had in all 800 people. He left some of his men to protect his consul, Mr. Hatch."

The remainder of the letter deals with the hoisting of the flag of the invading Nicaraguans, and the establishment at Bluefields of martial law. Mr. Ingram says that American interests in Bluefields are considerable, being, in fact, paramount to those of any other foreign nation.

JENNIE GRIFFIN ARRESTED.

Claims That Necessity Drove Her To Commit Larceny.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 24.—Jennie Griffin, nineteen years old, with a month-old baby in her arms, told a strange story in the police court yesterday. She was arrested in Springfield Wednesday, charged with theft of clothing from two Hartford women. On the stand she claimed to have been married two years ago to Henry Kendall, a twine manufacturer, of Springfield, Mass., who afterward moved to Buffalo, and died there suddenly. She then discovered, she declares, that he had a previous wife living. Afterward she was married to Joseph Smith, a sewing machine agent, who deserted her. A month ago she came to Hartford and had her baby at the hospital. She admitted the theft, but claimed to have been driven to the crime by want. Judge Barbour paroled her for sixty days in charge of Superintendent Muller, of the Open Hearth.

A GREAT PROPHET.

What He Has to Say About Foretelling the Weather and Preserving the Health.

Probably no man connected with the Weather Department is so well-known or popular as Sergeant Elias B. Dunn, who has charge of the Bureau in New York City. He is a bright, happy man with a clear eye and a springy gait, although his duties and cares are numerous.

"How do I keep well and fat and chipper," he said recently to a newspaper man who asked him the question. "Why I look after my health carefully, that's all. No matter how hard the gales may be or how much responsibility for the weather I have on my shoulders, I look out for my digestion very carefully. I am a firm believer in modern discoveries and I have found that the pre-digested food Paskola does wonderful things for those who use it. I use it in my family and find that it not only is a food that enters quickly into the blood and life but that it aids all other food to digest. People who wish to be up to the times and avail themselves of all modern discoveries or improvements should by all means use Paskola. If you are not thoroughly posted about it and want to know more, go around to the Company's office at 39 Reade street, New York City, or better still send for pamphlet giving full particulars about it. I tell you you will never regret it."

Sergeant Dunn evidently believes thoroughly in everything he undertakes, and he is just now utilizing the electric search light in which he is interested, in throwing the word Paskola upon the clouds and walls where the light is employed. All that can be learned from what he says regarding Paskola is more than true and it is by no means surprising that it has become so popular.

A pamphlet fully describing Paskola and what it does, will be sent free to any address by the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade st., New York.

HIPPOLYTE WAS ILL.

Minister Haentjens Instructed To Deny Reports of Revolution.

New York, Aug. 24.—Minister Clement Haentjens, of the Haytian legation, yesterday received a cablegram from President Hippolyte confirming Saturday's report of his illness, but containing the information that he had fully recovered his health. The cablegram was terse, and read as follws:

"Was indisposed Saturday. Have recovered. Deny reports in newspapers."

Minister Haentjens says that the last sentence: "Deny reports in newspapers," applies to the rumors of an impending revolution at the next election.

HIS HANDS AND FEET TORN OFF.

A Buffalo Truckman Killed by an Explosion of Ammonia.

Buffalo, Aug. 24.—Joseph Bissinger was driving along Grace street yesterday afternoon with a load of ammonia, used for making ice in breweries. One of the tanks containing the stuff exploded with a loud report, hurling Bissinger twenty feet, throwing him through the boughs of a tree. He came down on the opposite side of the street. His hands and feet were torn off by the explosion and he was instantly killed. No reason for the explosion is known.

Uncle Sam Buys on Installments.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The twenty-fourth payment for the construction of the armored battleship Oregon was made by the navy department yesterday to the Union Iron works, of San Francisco. The payments on this vessel are in thirty equal instalments, of which three are reserved until after her final acceptance by the government. This indicates the near approach to the completion of the Oregon.

Wool in Bonded Warehouses.

Washington, Aug. 24.—An official statement prepared at the bureau of statistics, treasury department, places the amount of wool in bonded warehouses on July 31, 1894, subject to free entry when the tariff bill becomes a law, at 63,799,321 pounds, of the value of $7,516,672. To bring this wool in free will necessitate its export and re-importation under the law.

Gov. Flower Sets Free the Youth Who Killed Ruby Nelson.

Buffalo, Aug. 24.—Governor Flower has pardoned young Harry Spisz, who, in a fit of jealous rage, shot and killed Ruby Nelson in the fall of 1889 in a house on Michigan street. Young Spisz, a mere boy, was her lover. He is still under 21.

The plea for the boy, backed up by the pathetic sight of the old blind father, touched the governor.

Refuse To Make Good His Shortage.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 24.—The information was received at the Salem city hall yesterday that the bondsmen for Clerk Natheniel M. Brown, of the water board, who is short in his accounts, will refuse to make good any loss that may be discovered on the books. They claim that the board has been negligent in not having the books audited for the past twelve years. The board will probably bring suit against the bondsmen just as soon as the real amount that is lost is known.

To Command the Pinta.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Lieutenant Commander A. R. Couden, who for the past three years has been recognized as one of the leading ordnance experts of the navy, will be detached from duty at the navy department and ordered to command the Pinta. Commander Couden takes this duty, which is generally considered undesirable, because it is necessary that he should have a tour of sea service, and no other commanding duty is at present available.

Flying the Kearsarge's Flags.

New York, Aug. 24.—The three flags from the ill-fated Kearsarge, which Captain Malcolm, of the schooner Relief, brought into port on Wednesday, floated gayly from the mastheads of the schooner at sunrise yesterday. Captain Malcolm said that he did not know what disposition he would make of the relics.

CARNEGIE CO. GUILTY

Armor Plate Frauds Reported to the House.

Confessions Made by the Superintendents and Other Charges Proven—Government Inspectors Not Corrupt, but Grossly Negligent—Plates on Certain Vessels To Be Retested.

Washington, Aug. 24.—After several months of careful inquiry into the charges affecting the integrity of the armor-plate, bolts and other appurtenances furnished to the government by the Carnegie Steel company, of Pitsburg, the special committee to whom the work was delegated have finished their report and laid it before the house. This special committee consisted of Mr. Cummings, of New York, chairman; Mr. Talbott, of Maryland; Mr. Money, of Mississippi; Mr. Doliver, of Iowa, and Mr. Wadsworth, of New York.

The resolution authorizing the investigation was offered in the house by Mr. Dunphy, of New York, and passed on the 22d of May. Two days later the special committee was called together. An immense mass of testimony was taken, which was submitted with the report.

The report shows that the contract with the Carnegies covered a period of two years and three months—from November 20, 1890, to February 28, 1893. The armor-plate contracted for was 8,793 tons, costing in the aggregate $5,441,320.

In opening the report Mr. Cummings cites the charges against the company, eleven in number, which are summarized as follows:

That plates did not receive the uniform treatment required by the specifications of the contract; that false reports of the treatment of plates were systematically made to government inspectors; that bolts did not receive the double treatment required; that specimens taken from the plates, both before and after treatment, to ascertain the tensile strength of each plate were stretched without the knowledge of the government inspectors, so as to increase their apparent tensile strength when actually tested; that false specimens taken from other plates were substituted for specimens selected by government inspectors; that the testing machine was manipulated by the order of the superintendent of the armor-plate mill so as to increase the apparent strength of the specimens; sepcimens selected by the inspectors were re-treated before being submitted to test; plates selected by inspectors for ballistic test were re-treated with the intention of improving their ballistic resistance, without the knowledge of the government inspectors; that in violation of the contract, pipes or shrinking cavities, erroneously called blow-holes in plates, were plugged by the contractors; that the government inspectors' stamp was either duplicated or stolen and used without the knowledge of the inspectors, and that the government inspector, in inspecting bolts, was deceived by means of false templets, or gauges.

Under the first charge, Superintendent Schwab, a stockholder in the company, admits that plates did not receive uniform treatment, explaining this by saying that the uniform results alone were required.

The second charge is proved by the rough records of the company itself of over 700 plates and lots of bolts, which came into the hands of the navy department. The records show that the superintendent almost invariably changed the figures taken from the slates of the heaters. In some cases he returned to his clerk an entirely new report in his own handwriting. There were "fake" reports of treatment of plates that had received no treatment whatever. Over 95 per cent. of the records examined show that Superintendent Cline changed the reports to be made to the government inspectors, the changes evidently being made for the purpose of deceiving the government inspectors.

The investigation shows that there were only two furnaces for the treatment of the plates and bolts up to September, 1892. After this a third furnace was added, and three were used until August, 1893, when a fourth was added. After information of frauds practised in the works was given and a penalty exacted by decision of the president, other furnaces were added, until to-day ten are in use.

It is clearly evident to the committee that there were not enough furnaces to turn out the work reported, if plates were treated according to the specifications of the contract and in accordance with the direction of the government inspectors.

The charge that "specimens taken from the plates both before and after treatment, to ascertain the tensile strength of each plate, were stretched without the knowledge of the government inspectors, so as to increase their apparent tensile strength," is admitted by Superintendent Corey.

The allegation that "false specimens taken from other plates were substituted for the specimens selected by the government inspectors," is also practically admitted by Superintendent Corey.

The further allegation that "the testing machine was repeatedly manipulated by order of the superintendent of the armor plate mill so as to increase the apparent tensile strength of the specimens" is admitted by Superintendent Corey and practically admitted by Superintendent Schwab.

The charge that specimens taken for physical test were re-treated, although not acknowledged by Superintendent Corey, is practically proven by a report from the ordnance board, printed in the evidence.

Superintendent Corey admits that part of the eighth charge that alleges the plates selected by the government inspectors for a ballistic test were re-treated without the knowledge of the inspector.

Superintendent Corey denies that his re-treatment was given with the intention of improving the ballistic resistance of the plates. He says that he gave them this unlawful treatment and re-treatment as an experiment, alleging by this he could ascertain whether a re-treatment and repeated re-treatments benefitted the plates.

There is no doubt in the minds of the committee that the secret re-treatment was given to increase the ballistic resistance of the plates with the express purpose of passing inferior grups and of securing premiums thereon, as the grups had been nominated for premiums. The company would hardly resist the rejectig of 779 tons of armor, valued at over $410,000, in making experiments, unless they were positive it was safe to do so.

The ninth charge, that, in violation of the specifications of the contract, pipes, or shrinking cavities, erroneously called blow-holes, were plugged by the contractors and the defects concealed from the government inspectors, is admitted by Superintendents Corey and Schwab. They allege that in all cases these plates would pass the requirements of the ballistic tests.

The tenth allegation, that the inspectros' statement was either duplicated or stolen and used without the knowledge of the government inspectors is, in the opinion of the committee, hardly sustained. The stamp may have been used in some instances without the knowledge of the government inspector while his attention was diverted to something else, but there was nothing systematic about it and there is no evidence that it was either duplicated or stolen.

The eleventh allegation, that the government inspector, in inspecting bolts, was deceived by means of false templates, or gauges, is unsupported.

After dealing with various charges and admissions made under them the report takes up the subject of government inspection and says: The evidence discloses the fact that the government inspection was negligent and defective. None of the inspectors were, however, charged with dishonesty, nor is there any evidence tending to show that any of them were corrupt. Some were diligent and others negligent.

After disposing of the government inspection the report takes up the subject of criminality and in this connection says that if the criminality of a wrongful act is to be measured by the deliberation with which it is committed, the magnitude of the evils likely to result from its perpetration, and the want of provocation with which it is done, the frauds which your committee have found are worthy to be called crimes. The servants of the Carnegie Steel company (whether with or without the knowledge of the company) to increase their gains, continued for many months to commit acts whose natural consequence would be the sacrifice of the lives of our seamen in time of war, and with them, perhaps, the dearest interests of the nation.

The company was hired to make the best possible armor plate and paid an enormus price for so doing. They were hired to make an armor that would stand the shots of an enemy and upon which the nation might rely in time of need. They were paid between $500 and $700 a ton and thousands of dollars a plate for so doing. Resting under these obligations the company or its servants have perpetrated manifold frauds, the natural tendency of which was to palm off on the government an inferior armor, whose inferiority might perchance appear only in the shock of battle and with incalculable damage to the country.

No fine or mere money compensation is adequate atonement for such wrongs. The commission of such frauds is a moral crime of the gravest character. Your committee do not consider it as within their province to draft a criminal statute; but they do feel under obligation to call the attention of the house to the importance of protecting in the future the interests of the treasury, the lives of our seamen and the safety of the nation by appropriate legislation, denouncing as crimes all such acts of fraud and deception practised upon the government in connection with armor plate and other material of war and making such acts severely punishable in all persons who commit them or aid and abet their commission.

The report created an animated colloquy between Mr. Cummings (dem., N. Y.) and Mr. W. A. Stone (rep., Pa.) The report was accompanied by a joint resolution (which was agreed to), directing the secretary of the navy to have plates now on certain ships removed and subjected to ballistic tests to determine their quality.

Mr. Stone asserted that the Carnegie company, while just as anxious for the investigation and tests as the house or its committee, had not been accorded fair play in the investigation. This aroused Mr. Cummings, who made a spirited response, declaring that the Carnegie company's interests had been more carefully attended to in the investigation than had those of the navy department, which had also, he said, been on trial.

Farmers' Encampment.

Mount Gretna, Pa., Aug. 24.—The Farmers' encampment drew immense crowds to the park yesterday. Every train brought hosts of spectators, and during the morning 2,500 people arrived on special trains. The large number who came in vehicles and on foot will increase the number considerably. Various timiates have been made, and it is claimed that between 10,000 and 15,000 were present in the afternoon. Representatives of the Fourteenth, Fifth and Tenth regiment rifle teams arrived yesterday and occupy quarters near the range. The contest will be waged next week.

A CHILLY RECEPTION.

Coxeyites Not Welcomed in the City of Brotherly Love.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—The sixty Coxeyites who were unloaded from a train upon Philadelphia, whither they were sent by the Maryland authorities after having been released from that state's house of correction, met with a chilly reception by the local authorities.

The late followers of the commenweal agitator spent the night wherever they could find shelter, and in the morning two of their number, acting as a committee, called at the office of Mayor Stuart. Their object was to request that homeward transportation be furnished the members of the "army."

The chief executive, however, was not in the city, and an attache of the office directed them to Superintendent of Police Linden. With meek countenances the pair appeared before the latter functionary and related their story, only to be met with a gruff "Get out of town as quickly as you can."

In thus admonishing the committeemen the police superintendent made no reference to the furnishing of transportation, but supplemented his advice with a warning that the Philadelphia house of correction would receive the army, individually and collectively, if it did not depart.

The superintendent afterwards relented and said the army might stay in Philadelphia if it went to work, but the committeemen were not seeking employment, and they withdrew.

As the police are keeping a sharp eye upon the "hoboes" their departure before long by a route not yet selected is looked for.

TO ATTEND THE G. A. R.

Navy Department Employes Ask for Leaves of Absence.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Applications having been made to the navy department in behalf of the employes at the navy yards and stations who are members of the Grand Army of the Republic, for leave of absence to allow them to attend the annual national encampment at Pittsburg, September 11, Admiral Ramsey, acting secretary of the navy, has issued an order calling attention to section 1545 of the revised statutes, which prevents the department from granting leave of absence with pay to per diem employes, but such employes, upon written application to the commandant, will be permitted to absent themselves from the navy yards without loss of positions provided their services can be spared.

Salaried employes who are members of the G. A. R., and who can be spared may be granted leave to attend the encampment without referring their application to the department, but time absent in excess of the full period allowed during a calendar year shall be without pay.

"LIBERTY OR DEATH."

Two People Drowned While Trying To Escape from Blackwell's Island.

New York, Aug. 24.—Acting Warden Rickard, of Bellevue hospital, notified police headquarters yesterday that two bodies were at the morgue, one of a man, the other of a woman.

Both the man and woman were dressed similar to the patients in the charity institutions on Blackwell's island. The bodies have not yet been identified. It is thought that the man and woman were drowned while trying to escape from the island, but nothing so far has been learned to substantiate that theory. Both bodies were very much decomposed and have probably been in the water for several weeks.

ROGUES' GALLERY IN EVIDENCE

Mr. Wellman Creates a Sensation in the New York Police Trials.

New York, Aug. 24.—Mr. Wellman created somewhat of a sensation in the police trials yesterday when he took Warden Smith in hand by handing him a photograph from the rogues' gallery and asking him if it that was his photograph.

Smith looked at it and said he never sat for that photograph.

"Didn't you and a man named Ward commit a burglary together, and was not your picture taken and placed in the rogues' gallery at Yonkers?"

"I don't know anything about that."

The picture was admitted in evidence.

BLAMES THE STRIKERS

St. John, of the Rock Island, On the Stand.

Tells the National Labor Commissioners That He Believes the Railroads Can Prove That the Strikers Were Rioters—Favors State Boards of Arbitration.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—It is evident from the earnestness with which Commissioner Kernan argued with General Manager St. John at the session of the national labor committee for a state board of arbitration to settle the differences between labor and capital that such a board would be one of the recommendations, if not the chief one, of the commission. Mr. St. John, who is general manager of the Rock Island system, was on the stand five hours. He declared the last riots were precipitated by land participated in by strikers, rather than hoodlums. He flatly denied several statements made by Debs and others and offered testimony in refutation of other testimony which was given. He denied that Gen. Miles had conferred with the general managers in any way.

Mr. St. John resumed the stand at the opening of the afternoon session. He stated that about 475 men engaged in the late strike had applied for work on the Rock Island road and had been informed the company could not use them. He cited several cases where the company had of its own volition increased wages. He corrected his statement of the morning that the government had deputy marshals who protected Rock Island property, saying the company paid them.

Engineers and firemen were sworn in as deputy marshals.

"These latter bore the star of the United States?" asked Mr. Kernan.

"Yes, sir."

The witness continued: "I wish to say in regard to a statement made by a witness to the effect that there are 150,000 members of the A. R. U. that it is my conviction that 120,000 of this number do not work for any railroad at all, nor have they been connected with any road."

"Is it fair to presume that a large proportion of the rioting and burning of cars was done by hoodlums and not by railroad men?" asked Mr. Wright.

"We believe that the strikers did nearly all of it," answered Mr. St. John. "We have no doubt that we will be able to substantiate this statement later."

All knowledge of a book containing a black list and distributed among the various roads was denied by the witness. He denied that yardmaster Lovejoy was discharged for being a member of the A. R. U., but because of a necessity for reducing the force, a yardmaster being no longer required at La Salle.

The witness then entered into a history of the General Managers' association. It was, he said, a voluntary and not an incorporated association with a constitution and by-laws. It included twenty-four lines, all with terminals in Chicago and its object was to solve problems presented to the general managers. It seems to be the idea that the General Managers' association was formed solely to crush labor organizations. That is one of its remotest objects. The witness read a list of business discussed last year, showing that many weighty matters were dealt with. "We have only considered strikes once or twice during the existence of the association since 1886," said the witness. "That is the smallest part of our business."

Several cases were cited where the labor grievances had been adjusted satisfactory to both sides. "No man can give a single case where the wages have been reduced since we adopted our last schedule," said the general manager.

He denied the statement made by President Debs that wages were being reduced by the General Managers' association, characterizing it as purely imaginary.

"In the last three months the earnings of the Rock Island road had decreased $800,000," said Mr. St. John, and intimated that another cut in wages might be necessary before long.

In reply to the question: "What have you to offer as a solution of the labor problem?" Mr. St. John read an answer. Arbitration was the only thing he favored at all, but as a general proposition he could offer no solution. He condemned the sympathetic strike as one that could never be settled by arbitration.

Carlisle at the White House.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Secretary Carlisle spent most of yesterday afternoon at the executive mansion discussing with the president the new tariff bill. It has been stated that Secretry Carlisle would make public a statement as to alleged defects and errors in the tariff bill, but now it is said he will defer an expression of his opinion on this matter.

Flags To Fly During Business Hours.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Secretary Carlisle has directed that hereafter the United States flag shall be hoisted over all public buildings under the control of the treasury department during the hours of business unless stormy weather prevents its display. The revenue flag is also to be displayed over custom houses.

WILLIE DAY KILLS HIMSELF.

He Was Champion Runner of the World.

Willie D. Day, champion runner of the world, and well known in Plainfield, committed suicide early this morning by hanging himself from a tree near the club-house of the New Jersey Athletic Club at Bergen Point.

His body was found at 11 by two fishermen walking along a path through the woods just back of Capt. Ryder's boat-house, which is only a short distance from the club-house.

The fishermen ran at once to the home of Day's parents, near Bergen Point, and notified them of their discovery. Day's act was a complete surprise to his relatives and friends.

He was arrested Tuesday on a complaint made by the Manhattan Laundry Company of Jersey City, for whom Day had acted as a collector. The complaint stated that Day had collected $112, for which he had failed to account.

Day told his friends that the company owed him money, and that it was not true that he had embezzled the amount. He said that the complaint was a put-up job.

He put a bold face on the matter, and his friends who stood by him in his legal fight did n't think that he was taking the matter to heart.

His relatives were of the opinion this morning that he must have brooded over the accusation in secret and becoming discouraged had decided to end his life.

Day was the youngest son of his parents, who are well-to-do, and very well known about Bergen Point.

Day held the five-mile championship and also the three-mile championship of the world for running.

FAITHFUL HERMES.

A Plainfield Carrier Finds His Way Home Over 260 Miles of Ocean.

When Charles M. Evans of this city sailed for Europe last June on the steamer State of California he took with him two homing pigeons belonging to Ferdinand P. Pepin of Elizabeth. He liberated these birds on the ocean, when the steamer was 260 miles out from Sandy Hook. On these birds he sent a message to friends in Plainfield and a message to The Press. One of these pigeons was the noted bird Hermes, which had made many wonderful flights. It was thought perhaps this bird would reach home the same day he was liberated, but days passed and neither one appeared. The owner had given up the birds for lost, when, after seven-weeks absence, the faithful bird Hermes arrived safely home, but he had been so long away that the messages were lost.

THE MONUMENT REVIVES

NEW INTEREST AROUSED FOR THE PROMISED PLAINFIELD TRIBUTE.

Plainfield to Have an Excursion to the Battlefields Where Plainfield Blood Was Spilled, All in the Cause Which Has Languished Awhile.

The Great Civil War of 1861 to 1865 was the turning point in the destiny of the American Union, and the Battle of Gettysburg in the very middle of the year 1863 was the turning point of the war. During the whole first half of that year the life of the nation was held as in an evenly balanced scale. The assurance and audacity of the Rebel leaders increased, and with savage impetuosity and confidence they cut their splendidly disciplined army across the border and into the heart of the Northern States. In Pennsylvania they ravaged the countryside, marching on towards Harrisburgh. Then at Gettysburg the two great armies met in fierce and decisive conflict. From that battle the Rebels retired discomfited, broken, well-nigh vanquished. The war went on, and on Southern soil the Confederates still fought bravely and desperately—but never again with that bold and audacious confidence which characterized them when they crossed the Potomac northward on their way to Gettysburg. In the relative strength of the armies engaged and in numbers sacrificed in the great slaughter of the conflict, Waterloo and Gettysburg have been well compared. But the question decided at Gettysburg in 1863 was even greater than that settled by force of arms at Waterloo in 1815.

No wonder then that Gettysburg has come to be the Mecca of patriotic pilgrims! No wonder that the National Government has taken charge of the battlefield. It was fitting too that those loving and eloquent words of Lincoln should be spoken in the air which had rung with the huzzas of the Union Army and into which had been breathed the last sighs of the dying patriotic soldier.

The States of the Union have spent large sums in beautifying the battlefield of Gettysburg and the National Cemetery in which her heroes repose. New York, for example, has appropriated sums for its various regimental monuments. These sums have been enlarged by the efforts of the surviving soldiers, and the amounts thus increased have been expended in noble monuments to the memory of the brave. For instance, the 44th New York Regiment, in which Capt. John E. Stewart, now of Plainfield, served, and which was in the brigade commanded by the gallant Gen. Dan Butterfield, has put up a very noble and striking monument on Little Round Top at a cost of more than $10,000.

And thus it has come about that Gettysburg is today the most impressive object lesson in American history if not in all history. The town, the cemetery, the hills on and about which that fierce July conflict raged, these, and the thousand landmarks and monuments which have since been raised by conscientious and reverent hands to note points of interest and deeds of valor, tell a story of endurance, bravery and patriotic self-sacrifice that can scarcely be told elsewhere.

Last year a number of our Plainfield veterans visited Gettysburg. Two of them, Major W. D. W. Miller and Capt. John E. Stewart, then planned an excursion on a somewhat broader scale for 1894; and Major Miller has already taken the preliminary steps toward carrying out this plan. If appreciated on its merits a large part of Plainfield will want to go along on this excursion, for it contemplates not only a party of veteran soldiers but also the families and friends of soldiers, and indeed the public generally so far as they choose to participate.

This is not a money-making scheme. The whole expense of each person going from Plainfield including railroad fare, room and meals, will probably be compassed within the sum of $15. If at the end of the affair there is found to be a surplus it is promised to be devoted to the Plainfield Soldiers Monument Fund.

Apropos of this fund of which Capt. Stewart is Treasurer, and in which Major Miller is warmly interested it is quite probable that in more ways than one this trip will give a new impetus to the enterprise. Some novel suggestions not yet matured and therefore not publishable are under consideration and will be ready for a later exploitation.

The party is expected to leave for Gettysburg on or about Thursday morning, October 11, and should have to light them over the battle field not only the brightness of the October sun, but, as well, the glory of the October full-moon. The train will leave in the morning, making the entire trip by daylight. It is expected that the historian of Gettysburg, Col. John B. Batchelder, will accompany the party and it will otherwise be well supplied with guides and men familiar with the field and its story. It was on that field that Major Miller himself was severely wounded—as was also General Hancock on whose staff the major was serving.

A final circular is promised for the middle of September; but in the meantime it is hoped that a pronounced interest in this trip will be awakened, and that any persons favorably disposed will communicate with Major W. D. W. Miller at his home in Plainfield, or at his office 26 Liberty street, New York city. This article is not written at the request of Major Miller nor of any promoter, but simply as the expression of a hearty interest in a plan which seems to open up much in the way of educational and patriotic advantage to Plainfield; and it is particularly appropriate because so many of our Plainfield soldiers fought and shed their blood about Old Round Top.

Carriage Carelessness.

This morning while a woman was purchasing some groceries at F. W. Dunn's, she left a baby carriage with her baby on the sidewalk.

The carriage started to roll, and ran off the curb into the gutter, upsetting, and throwing the child out. The baby was not hurt, fortunately.

HER EXCURSION SPOILED

Unfortunate Attack of Fits Almost Causes Death to a Plainfield Woman.

Miss Mary Howard of West Fourth street accompanied the Warren Chapel excursionists to Asbury Park yesterday. While in bathing in the afternoon she was taken with a fit, and but for the prompt action of the life-savers would undoubtedly have been drowned. She was brought to the shore, and taken to a hospital, and after some time she was again able to enjoy the pleasures of the Park.

While returning home last evening, as the train neared Elizabeth, she was again taken with a fit, even worse than that of the afternoon. Kind friends took care of her, and it took the combined strength of three or four men to hold the unfortunate woman.

When Plainfield was reached, she was carried from the train into the telegraph office at the North Avenue station. Dr. Probasco was at once summoned, and labored with her for several hours before she was able to be taken home in a carriage.

About a year ago she was subject to fits, but it was thought that she had been entirely cured.

It is thought that staying in the water too long is what caused the fits.

BIG INJUNS TO COME.

Plainfield's Hyphenated Tribe to Have a Big Reception.

Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque Tribe are planning for a grand reception to take place Wednesday evening, Sept. 5, in their rooms.

Tribes from Trenton, New Brunswick, Rahway, Elizabeth, and Newark have been invited.

Court Coddington.

In the City Court this morning, Mrs. Brown of Short Second street made a complaint against her husband, Thomas Brown, for using indecent language to her. He pleaded non vult. They both decided to live apart and thus avoid any further trouble. The judge suspended sentence.

Thomas Martin had a set-to with Edward Wolf yesterday. The latter used some very strong language and Martin made a complaint before Judge Coddington. Mr. Wolf was fined $10.

The Fountain Arrives.

The public drinking fountain presented by the Local Christian Endeavor Union arrived yesterday, and is being erected today by A. M. Griffen's men at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, where it will prove a public benefit to man and beast.

The inscription "Presented by the Local Union P. S. C. E., Plainfield, N. J." is on the fountain. A mistake has been made in the letters, as the "Y" is missing.

Opposition Aroused.

Competitors of the new clothing dealers on West Front street are endeavoring to have them closed out under a new State law which compels transient clothing sales to be licensed. The managers of the concern claim that they are here to stay, having leased the store for a year, and they continue to serve their large number of patrons undisturbed.

Died of Smallpox.

Word was received last evening by Miss Ella Conover and Charles Conover of the death of their brother William, which occurred at the pest-house in Newark from smallpox.

This is indeed a sad blow, as they have been unable to assist in any way, on account of the nature of the disease.

Looked After the Straylings.

Two little girls named King and Vail were left at Asbury Park by the Warren Chapel excursion yesterday. When the train reached Plainfield M. M. Dunham telegraphed to the Park to have the children cared for and forwarded to Plainfield as soon as possible.

In a New Suit Sunday.

Car 144 of the Street Railway was sent back to Newark today, there being no further use for it. Car 4 has received its new coat of paint, and will be out Sunday. Car 3 will then be taken off and treated likewise.

HIS SAFE A SPICE BOX.

STOREKEEPER CLEAVER ROBBED IN THE NIGHT.

The Thief Must Have Been Hiding in the Store When it Was Closed for the Day—Money the Only Article Stolen.

When Thomas Cleaver of Scotch Plains, brother of Rev. J. B. Cleaver, started to enter his store this morning he found the door open. Search revealed that $12 left over night in the store was missing. When locking up the night before Mr. Cleaver's assistant had put a bag containing $12 in one of the spice boxes, as was his usual custom.

The bag had completely disappeared, but nothing else was touched. Neither the door nor any of the windows showed the slightest mark of violence, so Mr. Cleaver is of the opinion that the thief secreted himself somewhere in the store, and, after all had gone, taken the money and made his escape. Robert Walpole and Robert Snider, both near neighbors, claim that they heard noises about midnight, but both supposing it to be in the next house took no further notice. Mr. Clum, who lives directly above, returned late and went straight to bed; he says he heard no noise, and also says that he would not have heard any as he sleeps very soundly.

Who the thief was, no one has the slightest idea except that it is evidenty one who is familiar with the store or else he would not have known where the money was to be found.

—The money value of Thatcher's house last night was over $600.

—Frank Foster was slightly burned in the face by a carelessly thrown cigar butt last night.

—Another bustle and hurry-up time for the bargains offered by VanEmburgh & Son. Read the list in their ad.

—The Warren Chapel excursion train made the run from Asbury Park to Plainfield last night in 1 hour and 35 minutes.

—The Scott Printing Machine Works are soon to be supplied with water from the water-works. A large main is being laid to connect with the Richmond street main.

—Fred S. Moore of West Front street wishes to deny the report published in another paper that he was taken suddenly ill Wednesday night and had to summon a physician.

ADJACENT ACTUALITIES.

GLEANINGS OVER THE BROOK AND ROUND ABOUT PLAINFIELD.

North Plainfield.

Jed M. Smalley has a promising colt which J. N. Honeyman is handling.

Sam Taynor has been more than successful with his crops on his Short Hills farm.

The Mair boys are making extended improvements on the old Sam Allen farm on Mountain avenue.

Mr. Neally and family of Newark now reside on Vine street. Mr. Neally is a buyer for Seely Edsall.

Lewis Bird of Summit avenue has a peach orchard at Long Hill of 1,800 trees, from which he expects to realize a good profit.

R. H. McCollough, proprietor of the steam mill, is already making up a party to go on an extended hunt when the law is up, which will be Nov. 1.

Jeptha Wagener has at last a nice horse and wagon to come to town with, and the nag can make the dust fly in the face of any ordinary roadster.

W. A. Schutt of Duer street is one of the oldest and most esteemed employes of the Western Union Telegraph Company. He is one of the big salaried men, and deserves it.

A professional songstress residing on Fairview avenue whose voice every morning can be heard trilling all over the neighborhood, is said to be about to go on the road with a theatrical company.

The personification of patience may be seen posing in different attitudes all day long on an embankment alongside Tier's Lake, waiting for a cork to bob up and down. And sometimes the cork does—pop up.

Ed Allen, the stage driver, says it takes a long while to become a millionaire in his business. But then Ed and his pipe and horse do take things easy—and they have just as much comfort out of life as if they hustled more.

Three hotel keepers who within a year have purchased business and good wills at high prices are decidedly against any more licenses being granted in the borough. It is said that the temperance element will not make any concerted attempt to defeat any new applications, as their last final charge embraced nearly a million dollars worth of property-holders who protested vainly against the removal of a license from one section of the borough to another. There is a law which gives councils in boroughs like North Plainfield privileges to grant license to sell malt liquors, and there are citizens who would like to see an applicant apply to the present Council to see how they stand on the question. Just now there is granted by the Somerset County Court of Common Pleas four hotel licenses, and license to two bottlers, and to two wholesale liquor dealers and bottlers. In the township there is only one hotel license issued from the same Court. The borough profits by the traffic in this business to the extent of about $2,000, while the township receives only about $150. The revenue in both cases is appropriated to the repair of roads. As there is said to be illegal dealing in both borough and township, the fight that is now on among the licensed dealers is bitter and a trifle selfish, and it is hoped it will be the means of eventually taking the whole question from the County Court and placing the license question in the hands of the Council or in an Excise Board.

FELL THROUGH A SEWER TRAP.

Singular Accident Which Might Have Had Bad Results.

A singular accident occurred yesterday afternoon which might have proved serious. Mrs. William Richards, accompanied by her sister, Miss Maggie Gerry, was walking on Watchung avenue and in crossing at Second street Miss Gerry stepped on the iron cover of the sewer basin, causing it to turn over. Miss Gerry fell through the hole a distance of about four feet. Her sister managed to help her out of the predicament, and no injury was done.

FOUGHT SIX ROUNDS.

One Way of Settling a Dispute.

A fight occurred in Scotch Plains last night about 6:30. The combatants were John Rank, a carpenter, and John Sisser, barkeeper. They had high words over something, and settled their dispute in front of the hotel. Six rounds were enough for Rank, and he retired with a black eye and a badly bruised face. Sisser was also somewhat bruised about the nose and forehead. Both are large men, weighing fully 180 pounds apiece.

HYMENEAL.

Travell—Ansley.

Ira Winthrop Travell, instructor in the higher branches of the classics and mathematics at the High School, and Miss Margaret Belle Ansley of Geneva, N. Y., were married Wednesday, August 22, at the home of the bride's father, Marcus Ansley, of Geneva. Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Travell will reside at 249 East Ninth street, Plainfield.

—Another dance will be given at the Arlington Hotel tomorrow evening. Sam Frazee will furnish the music.

THATCHER'S TRIUMPH.

PLAINFIELD'S OWN MINSTREL SCORES ANOTHER SUCCESS.

He and His Merry Minstrelsy and Musical Company Show the Townspeople About Gotham and Are Given a Roseate Greeting.

Just as the Dutch are said to have taken Holland, so George Thatcher took Plainfield last night.

The town was his before, but last night he took "a fresh holt" on what he had, and grabbed more of it.

Music Hall was just a jam of people. Not only were the seats too few, but standing space was crowded till there was scarcely room to breathe. That was before the show began. After the curtain went up, there was n't an inch of space to spare, for the crowd was squeezing the walls with their hearty and continuous laughter.

"About Gotham" is mostly fun. That was to be expected. But there's also abundant music, and a dash of tender sentiment. And that was expected, too. The size of the audience was a gratifying tribute to the popular townsman who has so long been a star before the public, and it was an earnest expression of the confidence which the people have that Thatcher will never disappoint them.

The production has the elements of farce and comedy, with minstrelsy cleverly intermingled. Harry W. Emmett prepared it for Mr. Thatcher, and his inspiring genius and untiring stage direction have been a most important factor in the triumph which attended the maiden production of the piece. He is a hard worker, a brilliant writer, a capable actor. He assumes several parts effectively at various stages of "About Gotham".

The company is carefully chosen from clever celebrities. Thatcher is a show in himself. His quaint and original fun-making has lost none of its charm, and is given excellent opportunity for effective display. This quiet gentleman who lives so happily in Summer-time in his Seventh street home, sets all the world's sides to shaking, when the stage season is on. He has a side-partner, a quiet and gentlemanly veteran like himself, by name Ed Marble, who in this new play is the same old reliable balance-wheel as of old, and who with E. C. Jobson gave a capital presentation of the vagrant vagaries of the Commonweal.

Carroll Johnson, fresh from his character successes in Boston and New York, is leading comedian with Mr. Thatcher, and made a popular hit with his varied and remarkably faithful impersonations. He is a smooth and finished actor.

Dave Foy is unique. He is just Dave Foy, and that's all there is about it. His avoirdupois, accentuated by make-up, postures and grimaces, made him a king of comics, and this prize negro comedian won much personal plaudit.

For voice, for genuine music, what could be more satisfactory to the critical ear than Wm. H. Thompson's barytone? He has power and richness, and perfect control. He is not only gifted, but he knows how to use his gift. His song "The Raft", with choral accompaniment, was beautiful.

Fred W. Oakland is another old-time favorite inseparable from the Thatcher troupe; and Griffen, Daly and Marks fully sustain their eminent reputation in their vocal and acrobatic line.

The young women of the company are bewitching stage queens. Pretty, vivacious, charming, Miss Helen Byron captivated more hearts than that of her stage lover. She is an earnest devotee of her art, and the future holds a high place for her in the realm of comedy and song. Her sister, Miss Henrietta Byron, was a damsel of fascinating grace. Dazzling was the beauty of Miss Cora Carlisle, the belle of the National Guard full-dress entertainment. Miss Alice Beauvet is a prima donna with a voice that makes up in sweetness what it lacks in strength. Miss Florence McKinley was so lovely a creature of sunshine that one wondered how a husband could have the heart to forsake her even in a play.

These and others constitute a company that just fits the play, and with Theodore Metz in charge of the perfect orchestration no detail of harmony is overlooked.

So altogether "About Gotham" is a go, a hit, a success. Plainfield audiences are proverbially hard to suit, but "About Gotham" thoroughly suited this big houseful, and besides the plaudits and the encores and the bouquets and floral baskets showered over the footlights, a giant horseshoe wrought of roses was handed up to Mr. Thatcher, and the legend across it was "Success!" Everybody applauded that, just as they applauded the splendid scenery, the gorgeous costumes, the beautiful women, the catchy music, the jokes local and foreign, the sweet songs, the individual performers, the entire production.

Thatcher and his troupe will with this new piece find fresh laurels awaiting them not only about Gotham but about everywhere.

The only blemish in the piece is one that Mr. Thatcher will have immediately removed, and that is the immodest costuming of the "Sunbeam Dancers" in the finale. It was too bad to afflict a refined audience with the exhibition of their dancing in such garb. The "Sunbeam" costumes did not arrive till last night, and no one but the wearers knew what they were till they appeared on the stage.

Plainfield has had an especially good opportunity to judge of the personal qualities of the Thatcher players, during their rehearsal stay in town, and has found them a people of modest behavior and refined disposition.

Their manager, W. H. A. Cronkbite, is a gentleman of established reputation in the profession, and is in this instance the accomplished master of a happy family of geniuses.

The Thatcher troupe appear tonight in Asbury Park. They rest Saturday and Sunday, and appear next week in the following Pennsylvania cities: Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Easton, Allentown, Pottsville, Reading. The next week will be spent in Baltimore.

PERPETUALLY PEDALLING.

Cycling Comment of Especial Interest to Plainfield Wheelmen.

The annual club road race of the East Orange Ramblers will take place over the Plainfield-East Orange road September 25, eighteen miles.

Over twenty women cyclists have entered the eighty-mile run of the Young Men's Institute Wheelmen to Long Branch next Sunday. There will be 250 riders in the run.

The jaunty and chipper maidens in the opening song of George Thatcher's show last night wore reform cycling costume to perfection. The dress of belted jacket and loose dark-blue knickerbockers was acknowledged to be graceful and becoming.

"A large number of local riders"—remarks The Evening Post—"has entered the annual race meet of the Mercer County Wheelmen, which will take place Saturday. In the novice race A Brown and E. C. Johnson seem to have the best chances of success. The 2:40 class race has good men in W. L. Darner, George H. Coffin, and Charles Granger. Ray Dawson and Monte Scott are the scratch men in the mile handicap. In the half-mile handicap George C. Smith will be on scratch. Ray Dawson, Alexander Brown, Chas. Granger, and F. L. Coffin should make the race interesting. The one-mile scratch race should be a hot contest between Monte Scott and George C. Smith. The two mile handicap has Dawson and Scott on scratch; both Bofinger and Darner have good fighting chances. George C. Smith should have little trouble winning the half-mile scratch race. The Riverside Wheelmen's team is the best in the team races."

DOLLY IS DEAD.

She Was Faithful to the Last, and the Children's Favorite.

Mrs. Percy C. Ohl's bay mare Dolly died last Tuesday.

Dolly had the honor of being the leading horse at the opening of the Plainfield Riding Academy. She was thoroughly familiar with all the saddle gaits, and perfectly understood the commands, which she would obey without the guidance of the reins.

Dolly was a great favorite with the children and timid riders; and her almost human intelligence on many occasions saved a threatened serious mishap.

At least fifty pupils in Plainfield had their first horseback lessons on Dolly.

She seemed too gentle a creature for a violent death, but by accident she was caught fast in a pit, died, and was buried there.

An appreciative friend has inscribed over the grave an epitaph in verse, expressive of the belief that equine immortality is Dolly's reward for her faithful virtues.

—Judging from the new ad. of Van-Emburgh & Son, of their next three days sale, it will be to the interest of all to attend.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 589 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. CONCERT AND HOP.

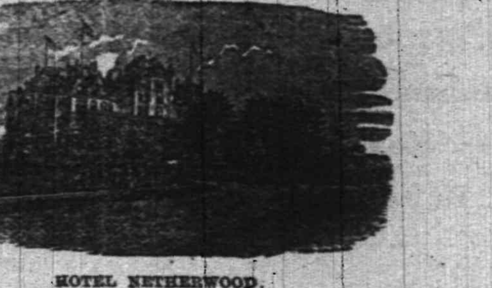
SOCIETY PEOPLE ENJOY A DELIGHTFUL EVENT.

Hotel Netherwood the Scene of Another Brilliant Social Function —Fair Ones Exquisitely Gowned Make It a Fairy Scene.

[Special to The Press]

NETHERWOOD, Aug. 23—The grand subscription concert for the benefit of Professor Richard Stoelzer and the orchestra announced for this evening was a pronounced success. A generous subscription was awarded the members of the orchestra, attesting the appreciation of the guests for the excellent music rendered during the season.



HOTEL NETHERWOOD.

The programme already published in The Press was rendered by the artists named in a manner that earned for them well merited applause and commendation.

After the concert the remaining hours were devoted to dancing by the happy participants.

An excellent collation was served by Proprietor Miller for the guests and their friends during the evening

The large parlor and the piazzas were thronged with a joyous party who were all warm in their praises of the brilliant event.

The costumes of the participants were charming, and evidenced the exquisite taste of the fair ones. Other charming events will follow in rapid succession during the present and Fall season.

The season thus far has been a succession of brilliant events, and the large number of guests sojourning here seem thoroughly satisfied with their surroundings. From this fact it is only fair to conclude that the excellent management of the hotel under the personal supervision of our worthy host, Frank E. Miller, is thoroughly appreciated by his patrons.

The season thus far in point of numbers has been phenomenal when compared with other resorts, and the Fall season bids fair to excel any of its predecessors.

The Netherwood is well filled with prominent families and others from New York, Brooklyn, and other cities. Accessions to the present number of guests may be looked for from the mountain and seaside resorts at this period as in former seasons.

The Sunday evening concerts and Saturday night hops are delightful events, and receive warm commendation from guests and their friends.

Fanwood Township Ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the removing and trimming of trees standing upon or in the side lines of the sidewalks within the Township of Fanwood.

The Inhabitants of the Township of Fanwood by their Township Committee do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That all trees standing on the inner or outer side lines of any of the sidewalks within said Township of Fanwood, which said trees, or the branches thereof, shall in anyway interfere with or obstruct the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks or the approaches thereto, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the approach of vehicles to said sidewalks, or any of them, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the light from the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks, or any of them, shall be so trimmed by the owner or owners of the lands adjacent to the sidewalks upon which said trees may be standing, within twenty days after the passage of this ordinance, as not to permit of any obstruction to the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks, or the approaches thereto, or any obstruction to the approach of vehicles thereto from the public roads or streets, or permit the obstruction of the light or lights from any of the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted that said trees shall be trimmed as referred to in the preceding section by the persons and in the manner therein mentioned, under the direction of the chairman of the Township Committee of said Township of Fanwood, or such other person or persons as said Township Committee may designate or appoint.

Sec. 3. And be it enacted that if any person or persons owning the lands lying adjacent to the sidewalks within said township aforesaid shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance, said person or persons so offending shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Greatest Lockout of Textile Operatives Ever Known.

Fall River's Important Industries Paralyzed—Some of the Manufacturers Have Orders on Hand and They May Secure an Early Resumption of Work.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 24.—Last night marked the commencement of the greatest lockout of operatives ever known in this city, and that implies the greatest concerted lockout of textile operatives in one centre in America. No member of the Manufacturers' association makes any pretensions of telling how long it will last, for it is brought about by the low condition of the trade and the "voluntary vacation" entered into by a vote of 263 members of the Weavers' union. With the possible exceptions of the Kerr Iron works, Conanicut and Seaconnet mills, every corporation in town will remain closed until it is shown that a vote of "three-fourths of the spindles represented in a certain agreement" shall decide that the gates may be reopened and opportunity offered for workers to return to their places.

An exact statement of the number of idle operatives was given yesterday, showing that excepting the above mentioned mills thirty-four mills employing 21,950 hands, with weekly pay-roll of $123,475, are idle. It is possible that the Seaconnet may not be able to run as it now hopes to do.

During this lockout the weavers will receive no assistance from their union and the manufacturers, by shutting down, will avoid the necessity of supporting those mills that were compelled to shut down on account of the strike or vacation of the weavers.

The Iron works mills are owned by the American Printing company and will pay full wages, consequently the weavers will not be ordered out; and the same fact holds good in regard to the Conanicut mills.

All of the manufacturers do not take kindly to the lockout, but inasmuch as they signed their names to an iron-clad agreement, they feel in duty bound to close and await developments. Some of them have fair orders and would like to fill them. They will, of course, be a powerful factor in securing an early resumption, despite market conditions. Some idea of the effect the shut-down may have on the trade may be judged from the fact that the city contains 35 per cent. of all the cotton spindles in the whole state and 15 1-2 per cent. of all in the United States. No serious trouble is anticipated during the idleness that is pending. As a rule operatives are very orderly, and it is fair to presume that they will take the lockout philosophically.

Yesterday afternoon a small but heated meeting of the Weavers' association was held for the purpose of making some provision for the strikers at the King Philip mill, who have been idle for twenty weeks. It was voted to pay the strikers one week's allowance while the vacation is on, and at the next general meeting, to be held three weeks hence, it will be decided what other allowance shall be made. During the discussion the representatives of the strikers left the hall and crowded into the corridors, where the reporters were congregated, and roundly denounced the management of the union. They threatened to take the place of other weavers just as soon as the present vacation was over, and were very much angered because of the alleged injustices on the part of the acting president. One member of the union told a representative of the strikers that some of the latter would be receiving more under the strike allowance than could be made under the proposed reduction of wages. Secretary Whitehead said the trouble with the men resulted because the president would not allow the strikers' representatives to violate the privileges of the floor.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

ENCOURAGED VIOLENCE

Egan Accuses Howard of the A. R. U.

Sensational Testimony at the National Labor Commission Inquiry—Chief of Police Brennan Gives the Strikers a Good Record—Deputy Marshals No Good.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Strike Manager John M. Egan, Chief of Police Brennan, Chairman St. John, of the General Managers' association, and General Superintendent Charles Dunlap, of the Rock Island railroad, constituted the interesting quartette which occupied most of the time of the national labor commission yesterday. Mr. Egan created a sensation when he read a sworn statement charging Vice-President Howard, of the American Railway union, with openly counselling violence during the strike. Mr. Dunlap claimed to have seen railroad men engaged in inciting riots, and Chairman St. John flatly denied the existence of a black list. Other witnesses were also heard during the day. The strikers offered the testimony of Engineer John Norton in rebuttal. He swore he was, as he expressed it, "black-listed" by the Rock Island railroad.

Mr. Dunlap told the story of the Blue Island riots. He corroborated General Manager St. John's statement of the trouble. He had on one or two occasions seen railroad ex-employes inciting riots, but had not seen them actually engaged in overt acts.

Chief of Police Brennan succeeded Mr. Dunlap. His orders to the Chicago police force were to protect property, disperse mobs and preserve the peace. This, he claims, they did until July 3, when the troops arrived. Then the city authorities in a measure gave place to the national authorities. Three thousand officers were on duty during the strike.

Chief Brennan testified that the only time he saw a mob it was made up of women and children, with only a few men. He made the statement that the entire police force was kept constantly busy for a week obeying the call of railroad companies. Every such call was promptly responded to.

"The deputy marshals were more in the way than of service," said Chief Brennan. "The police force frequently had occasion to arrest them for indiscriminate shooting. I have here the record showing that three of the United States deputy marshals were arrested for highway robbery. They are now in the county jail."

The interesting statement was made that the average arrests in this city are 100 a day. The average was no higher during the strike than before it.

Strike Leader Egan did not know of his own personal knowledge whether strikers took part in the riot or not. In his reports he had always designated them as "strikers or their sympathizers."

Mr. Egan thought as a solution of the railroad problem that licenses should be issued by the United States to employes. He wanted these employes uniformed. He thought both employes and railroads would be benefitted by this plan. The railroads should also insure their men, and at the end of a certain time pay over to them their money with interest. A heavy penalty should be imposed on railroads if they broke their agreement, and in case of employes doing so they should forfeit their licenses.

"How would you fix a scale of wages?"

"I would have the employes of each railroad meet with the officers and fix a schedule of wages. I think there would be no trouble in doing this."

"It is charged," said Mr. Kernan, "that you have used money to employ men to burn cars."

"Considering the source from which that statement came it is the vilest kind of a lie. I consider it on a parity with other statements made by Debs, Howard and others."

The commission expects to finish its work by August 29.

OUTLOOK OF BUSINESS

Evidence of an Expansion of General Trade.

Serious Industrial Disturbances, Drouth in the West and a Disposition To Continue To Buy for Near by Wants Only the Principal Deterring Features.

New York, Aug. 25.—Serious industrial disturbances in New England, drought in central and far western states curtailing nearly all staple crops and a disposition in all lines to continue to buy for nearby wants only, fail to greatly influence general trade throughout the country, the trend of which is toward further improvement. Northwestern states east of the Missouri and the Atlantic and gulf coast southern states report relatively greater gains in volume of traffic and in the spread of that better feeling and confidence in a larger volume of business in the fall, on which improvement in business depends.

Prominent among evidences of expansion in general trade is this week's bank clearings total, $820,000,000, a gain over last week of about 4 per cent., and over the like total one year ago, when clearings got down to about low-water mark, the increase is 20 per cent.

It is also worth noting as a sign of the business movement that every city's clearings total for the week is larger than a year ago, except one. Gains in clearings at whiskey markets, Louisville, Cincinnati, Paris and Lexington, have naturally been expanded extraordinarily. The greatest apparent increase in volume of business during the week is at St. Louis, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and San Francisco.

At larger eastern cities there is evidence of an increased confidence that the autumn will bring a largely augmented demand in nearly all staple lines, and Baltimore already announces a decided improvement, southern buyers having placed good orders there for dry goods, notions, millinery and shoes. Slight gains are reported in petroleum and shoes at Philadelphia, and in cheaper grades of footwear and in the securities market at Boston. Sales of wool at the latter point have fallen off sharply, and wool importers and dealers having the raw product in store in bond find transactions checked because of doubt whether in will be admitted free or not under a new tariff. Renewed strength in the eastern states in the cotton goods market may hardly be regarded as an evidence of relation of demand to supply, it being based on the lockout and strike of mill employes. Neither Buffalo nor Pittsburg find trade features to report other than that merchants anticipate a revival of demand in the fall. Iron and steel prices in western Pennsylvania have tended downward within a week, production having grown steadily in advances of demand.

At Cleveland groceries are most active, and the outlook for freight rates is better, which is true at Duluth as well. The least encouraging report is from Cincinnati. At Louisville, even though drouth threatens tobacco, demand for dry goods and groceries is larger, as is also true at Detroit. From Chicago word is received of heavier mail order and personal buying of dry goods, clothing, shoes, hardware and iron from Indiana, Illinois, part of Iowa and northwestern states. Orders from west of the Missouri river are light, owing to unfavorable crop reports. Drouth is said to have curtailed the Illinois butter and cheese yield, and short supplies of hogs west result in the shutting down of packing houses in Iowa and Nebraska. Southern purchases at St. Louis continue heavy, the feature of the week, more than offsetting decreased western purchases due to drouth. Rains have helped pasture land in Kansas and Iowa, but not the yield of corn.

General trade at southern cities betrays no change within a week in volume of transactions or demand, business on the whole being relatively better than in some other portions of the country. There is a better request for lumber at Charleston, for hardware and machinery at Augusta, Fosin at Savannah and whiskey at Nashville. Prospective early movement of cotton is expected to stimulate trade in all staple lines.

Attempts of New Bedford and Fall River cotton goods manufacturers to reduce wages have caused strikes and lockouts affecting nearly 30,000 employes, operating fully 3,000,000 spindles, over half the cotton spinning capacity of the country. Print cloths have advanced ⅝c. as a result, and the prospect seems to be for a month's suspension of operations, with heavy loss to employers and employed.

Stock prices at New York are strong and advancing, though the public is timid and waits for the expected effects of the tariff law. Strong professional interests, however, are on the bull side, and the short interest in the granger stocks facilitated an advance in railroad shares, despite the corn crop damage. Sugar has been quiet and heavy, but distillers has rallied sharply on the news that the company has obtained money to take its goods out of bond before the tariff bill goes into effect. Many of the specialties have made advances and the inquiry for bonds is large.

Business failures in the United States reported this week number 251, against 224 last week, 456 a year ago, 189 two years ago, 186 three years ago, and 184 four years ago.

S. O. V. Aid Society's Officers.

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 25.—The Ladies' Aid society, Sons of Veterans, has elected the following national officers: President, Miss Madge Hewey, Illinois; vice-president, Miss Pearl Willis, Indiana; treasurer, Mrs. Ella Jones, Pennsylvania; Chaplain, Mrs. A. P. Davis, Pennsylvania; chief of staff, Mrs. John Morgan, New York; inspecting officer, Miss Kate Raynes, Ohio.

Buffalo's Public Building.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The public building at Buffalo, over which a contention as to site and plans has raged for a year or more, is now about to be started. Forrested & McConnell, of Buffalo, were the lowest bidders, at $4,958, for the excavation and sewer connections.

CHILDREN HELD FOR FORGERY.

Two Boys Arrested After Their Parents Had Settled the Matter.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Jesse Stone, aged 13 years, and his brother, Elias, aged 10, sons of Elias A. Stone, the well-known New York lawyer and who lives in this city, were arrested last evening on a charge of forgery.

On Tuesday last Jesse, accompanied by his brother, went to the office of Liveryman Van Arsdale and presented an order for a horse and carriage, purported to be signed by their mother, which stated that Mr. Stone would pay the bill upon his return from Ocean grove.

The boys secured the horse and buggy, leaving about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and did not return until late Wednesday morning.

Later it developed that another order had been forged, on which they secured provisions for their outing. When Mr. Van Arsdale presented his bill to Mrs. Stone she denied all knowledge of having incurred the debt. Explanations ensued, and the boys confessed their guilt.

Mr. Van Arsdale's bill was paid and Mr. and Mrs. Stone supposed the matter settled, and were surprised when their sons were arrested. The lads were arraigned before Judge Bard, in the court of special sessions, and the eldest was held in $250 bail for examination, and the younger one was paroled in the custody of his father, who was present, until Monday morning next.

SIR JULIAN SAILS FOR HOME.

A Probability That the Ambassador May Not Return.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Sir Julian Pauncefote's call on President Cleveland yesterday was informal and exceedingly brief. The ambassador leaves New York for England to-day, and will join his family on the continent. As in the British diplomatic service annual leaves of absence are accumulative, and as Sir Julian has not been away from his post for a considerable time, he has now four full months to his credit.

It seems to be believed in English foreign office circles that Sir Julian will be the next ambassador to the Ottoman empire, which would be quite a promotion from his Washington post, and as in that event he would not return to this country, his call on President Cleveland may have been in the nature of a tentative leave-taking. His relations with both administrations, that of Mr. Harrison as well as the present one, have been exceptionally cordial, and as there has always existed between the President and the ambassador mutual respect and friendship, it would have been strange if Sir Julian had not called at the white house with the existing probability of his permanent recall. Mr. William Edward Goschen, secretary of the embassy, will be charge d'affaires during Sir Julian's absence.

A PHYSICAL WRECK.

Mrs. Lease Unable to Appear at Prohibition Park.

New York, Aug. 25.—The superintendent of Prohibition park, Staten island, announced that Mrs. Mary F. Lease has been obliged to cancel her engagement to speak there next Sunday afternoon, and that in her place Father McGlynn will deliver an address on "The Model Commonwealth," with a prelude devoted to the answer of questions on "Satolli and the Saloons."

Mrs. Lease has written a pathetic letter from the Kansas State Insane asylum, under date of August 16, closing with the statement: "I am physically wrecked for this season."

WILL REMAIN OPEN.

Failure of Pottsville Iron Works Will Not Affect the Employes.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 25.—Treasurer Lewis said to the United Press reporter yesterday that no statement of assets and liabilities could be given. It is announced, however, that the works, which employ at present fully 1,000 men when running full handed will remain open.

There are many big orders being filled, and between 600 and 700 hands are on the pay-rolls, and some of the departments are running double turn.

Deserter Faulkner Caught.

New York, Aug. 25.—Hamilton Faulkner, an apprentice aboard the United States cruiser Chicago, deserted that vessel about August 10, while she was visiting Southampton. He took passage on the American liner New York, and was arrested on the ship's arrival at Quarantine. Faulkner is about 17 years of age and was born in Lynchburg, Va. He will be taken to the Brooklyn navy yard and tried by court martial.

NO ILL FEELING AT FALL RIVER.

Mill Owners Anxious To Resume and Operators Contented.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 25.—The second day of the big shutdown of mills here opened without a disturbance of any kind so far as court relations are concerned. The released operatives were glad to get away from the confinement of the factories, and they began to seek refreshment on the waves and shores of Mount Hope bay. As a rule they are not prominent on the streets, except the female contingent, who are noticeable on account of their bright, tidy clothing, as if a holiday was at hand.

While the present feeling exists between the manufacturers who forced the shut down as a result of the meeting of the weavers that voted it last Friday night and which now appears likely to remain for a couple of weeks, no sensational stories of poverty, oppression or abuse of the rights of capital and labor will be well founded so far as Fall River is concerned.

The help are not idle because they struck work, the manufacturers have not closed the mills in anger, and there the case rests until other developments cause a resumption or an attempt to resume.

The supposed unity among the manufacturers who signed the peculiar agreement that preceded the meeting of the 6th inst. does not exist, in fact, although a goodly share of the mills have been closed. The trade conditions would be no worse if the reduction had been accepted than it has been for months past, and many of the manufacturers have concluded that there is a slight improvement.

Several manufacturers arrived at this conclusion last Monday morning, and they decided to run their mills. They succeeded to an extent that induced their help to work along a little while until the business conditions elsewhere were adjusted, and when the order to shut down came to them they gave it reluctantly. They are already at work endeavoring to convince other manufacturers of the folly of closing down, while a goodly number of operatives are sincerely looking for employment.

The Iron works mills and the Conanicut mills are running in full to-day under the wage schedule in force a week ago, while the Durfee and Seaconnet mills are being fully operated on a ten per cent. reduction in the wage schedule. There are other mills in the city that can be operated if the treasurers decide to break the agreement they entered into before the 6th of August. There is a growing hope that the manufacturers of the city will not shut down by agreement longer than labor day, and to-day there is every prospect that some men will be released from their agreement or will break away from it before that time.

The impression seems to be gaining ground that the manufacturers association in ordering a shut down of all the mills in the city just at this time is not in a fair way to realize the benefits expected to be gained by such a move. Whatever profit is to come as a result of the curtailment of production in Fall River is likely to go into the pockets of manufacturers in other parts of New England, and it is expecting a great deal too much of human nature to believe that the manufacturers of this city will continue for any great length of time to destroy their own market for the benefit of Rhode Island and other mill owners. Evidences of discontent have already cropped out among the managers of the stronger mills.

Situation at New Bedford.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 25.—The strike situation has dwindled down now to a fight as to who can hold out the longer, the operatives or the mill men. Before the board of arbitration left town Mr. Warner tried to get some additional facts from the mill managers, but on account of their not being at the mill he did not succeed very well. He wanted the facts to present at the meeting of the board, which will probably be called together in Boston next Monday to consider the New Bedford strike.

Strikers Vote to Remain Out.

Suncock, N. H., Aug. 25.—Six hundred out of 1,500 mill operatives are out to-day, and there is a possibility that the mills may have to shut down Monday. Everything is quiet. At a mass-meeting held yesterday the strikers voted to remain out, 200 more having left work, including forty ring spinners. Merchants here will not give much credit if a shut down occurs, and the outlook is decidedly unpleasant.

HERE'S A NOVEL OFFER.

Scheme to Have Jackson and Corbett Fight on the Water.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 25.—The projectors of the daring scheme to build a platform in the Atlantic ocean off Sandy Hook, to be called Atalantis, are after the Jackson-Corbett fight. The projectors made the offer through Mike Donovan, of the New York Athletic club.

"I am authorized to offer a purse of $25,000 for the fight," he said, "and there's no monkeying about it, either. The company has nearly four millions behind it, and its island will be completed before next February."

"I'm afraid you're a trifle enthusiastic," said Jackson, mildly, but Donovan said he wasn't a bit. "These people," he continued, "are willing to put up $25,000 Saturday as a guarantee in the hands of any responsible man agreed upon by yourself and Corbett. This they assure me will be their first step. Furthermore, they will set aside $5,000, which is to be divided between you and Corbett in case it is impossible for them to pull off the fight on the date selected."

FORTY MINERS PERISH

Suffocated in a Burning Colliery Near Seattle.

Seventy Men in the Mine at the Time of the Explosion and Only Thirty Succeeded in Getting Out Alive—Evidences of a Wild and Desperate Effort of the Victims to Escape.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 25.—A terrible catastrophe occurred in the Oregon Improvement company's coal mines at Franklin, thirty-four miles from this city, yesterday afternoon. Already thirty-seven dead bodies have been recovered from the mine, and it is known that many others are imprisoned in the fiery furnace. The number is as yet only a matter of conjecture, and it is probable that none will escape.

The first news of the tragedy was received in this city by Manager Smith, of the mine company, in the shape of a telegram from the mine superintendent at Franklin. This message stated that the mine was on fire and many miners, both white and black, were imprisoned. Later a second telegram was received, reading substantially as follows:

"Thirty-seven dead bodies have been taken out and it is supposed that there are more to be recovered."

Manager Smith, upon the receipt of the first telegram, sent out a special train bearing Superintendent Corey and a crew to assist in subduing the flames, if possible, and ordering them to take care of the company's property and rescue the men.

The officials in this city are reticent and refuse to give out any information whatever beyond the fact that the mine caught fire and that thirty-seven dead bodies have already been removed.

The fire, it is said, caught in breast No. 62, in the sixth level, but of the cause nothing has been learned. The last report was to the effect that the fire was still raging, and heroic efforts were being made to recover others known to be in the mines.

A late telegram from the scene says that the thirty-seven men killed, probably died from being suffocated by smoke, as the bodies do not show burns of a fatal nature.

Another dispatch from the railroad operator at Franklin says the wives, children and comrades of the dead men are crowding around the mouth of the mine, frantic with grief. Their lamentations are heart-rending, moving the strongest to tears.

A later telegram states that the fire is now thought to be out, and the damage will not be so extensive as at first supposed. The smoke had the effect of deceiving the men as to the extent of the fire.

No more bodies have been recovered up to this hour, but men are now engaged in exploring the mine.

It is now known that 70 men were in the mine at the time of the fire and that 40 perished.

Several men were badly bruised and one colored man was taken out with a broken neck, their wounds indicating that they had thrown themselves against posts and timbers of the gangway in a wild and desperate endeavor to escape.

EXPLOSION IN A COLLIERY.

One Man Killed, One Fatally Injured and Others Hurt.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 25.—Shortly after noon a fatal explosion of gas took place in the workings of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company's colliery at Gilberton.

Frank McCormick, fire boss, of Shenandoah, was killed. He leaves a wife and five children. Lewis Ball, a Polander, of Shenandoah, aged 18, was fatally injured, and George Davis, of Gilberton; Thomas Leahy, inside foreman, of Gilberton, was badly burned and is in a serious condition. Several others were burned badly about the head, limbs and body, and after rescuing parties had reached them they were covered with crude black oil used on car axles. This oil to some extent allayed the pain.

Gilberton colliery is not considered a gaseous mine and only one accident of this kind is reported there from explosions in 1892, but it is supposed that a small body of gas was dislodged and exploded by a blast and the falling coal from the pillar exposed a larger body that was fired by the explosion of the first.

QUEEN OF THE OCEAN.

New York Breaks All Previous Records from Southampton.

New York, Aug. 25.—The American line steamer New York, sister ship of the Paris, came to her dock last evening after the quickest voyage ever made between Southampton and this port, either way. The time from the Needles to Sandy Hook lightship was six days, eight hours and thirty-eight minutes.

The Paris, in her record-breaking trip in June, 1893, covered 3,052 miles in six days, nine hours and thirty-seven minutes, the average hourly speed being 19.86 knots.

This record is now cut down fifty-nine minutes.

The Fuerst Bismarck's eastward record was six days, eleven hours and forty-four minutes, beaten now by two hours and thirty-six minutes.

LIKE A THIEF IN THE NIGHT,

Consumption comes. A slight cold, with your system in the scrofulous condition that's caused by impure blood, is enough to fasten it upon you. Consumption is Lung-Scrofula. You can prevent it, and you can cure it, if you haven't waited too long, with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For Scrofula, Weak Lungs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all severe, Lingering Coughs PIERCE guarantees a CURE.

MRS. LINCOLN, obliged to work hard on a farm.

Before taking the "Discovery" I would have four or five bad spells every day and would cough up mouthfuls of solid white lumps, and before I took one bottle it stopped it. I could not walk across the room with the pain in my back and sides, but soon the pain was all gone, and I could sleep well at night. My general health is much better since taken the "Golden Medical Discovery," although I have been

BATTLE WITH COMMONWEALERS

Count Bybakowski Defies Buffalo's Sheriff.

Armed With Clubs, His Followers Endeavor To Prevent Arrest—They Are Charged Upon by Deputies, Beaten and Injured and Taken Into Custody—Several Seriously Hurt.

Buffalo, Aug. 25.—There was a pitched battle at Cheektowaga shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon between Count Bybakowski's followers and a band of men headed by Sheriff Taggart. The sheriff's men consisted of deputies, policemen and citizens.

After the battle two of the tramps were found lying on the field with crushed skulls, and it was believed that they would die. When the count and his followers were taken to Justice Forester's house, near the city line, they were temporarily placed in a field near the house. Sheriff Taggart and his deputies, several policemen and a number of citizens stood near.

The count learned that a sentence of thirty days had been fixed up for him and that his men would also be sent to prison for varying terms.

The count gathered his men in a circle and he stood in the middle, which was about three men deep. Every member of the count's army was armed with a big club.

"Boys, will you stand by me?" cried the count.

"We will," they all shouted in unison.

The commonwealers drew closely about their leader, and it became evident that they intended to fight for freedom.

Then Sheriff Taggart shouted to his deputies: "Take that man," and he also commanded the policemen standing near, and all citizens within sound of his voice to fall in as special deputy sheriffs.

He was very generally obeyed. The deputies and police advanced upon them. Several shots were fired.

There was a short, sharp struggle.

Clubs of the deputies and policemen came into vigorous play. For about three minutes the count's army held their ground, fighting desperately with their clubs. Then they broke and ran, all but about eight of them, who stood close to the count.

The count, seeing that most of his followers had fled, ran after them, and the remnant of his band followed.

Sheriff Taggart's men took after the tramps quickly. They overtook the count and arrested him and several of his followers. The others were closely pursued, the sheriff giving orders that every man of them be arrested. The count stood inactive in the midst of his followers and took no hand in the fight.

When the battle was over two of the tramps were found lying on the field with broken heads. They were so badly injured that it was believed they would die. Several others in the count's army was hurt, but not seriously.

All of the shots came from Sheriff Taggart's men, but none of them took effect. The tramps had only their clubs. Two policemen received injuries and some of the citizens suffered from the tramps' clubs, but on the side of Sheriff Taggart's men there was no serious injury.

Later investigation discloses the fact that twenty-five of the hoboes and deputy sheriffs were injured. Nine hoboes were so badly hurt that it was necessary to take them to the hospital. The count and 150 of his followers have been placed under arrest, the count being held for assault in the second degree for which he can receive five years imprisonment.

REVIVAL OF OLD LAWS.

The Revolutionary Condition in Hayti Makes This Necessary.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The effects of the revolutionary condition in Hayti is shown from the fact that the secretary of state has been advised by the representative of the United States at Port au Prince of the revival of the Haytien law of 1864, relative to persons arriving from foreign countries in the open ports of that republic or who depart therefrom.

By the provision of this law the captain of an incoming vessel and all his passengers are required on coming ashore to proceed directly to the bureau of the port, after which they are to be immediately conducted to the bureau of the place. The commandant thereof must receive the declaration of all passengers, verify their passports and certify to their identity. When these data are not sufficient, or are irregular, it is his duty to adopt measures necessary for the security of the state.

The declaration of each passenger shall contain: His name, first name, profession and residence, the date of his arrival; his nationality and the mention whether or not his intention is to reside in the country or is only passing through on a voyage.

A captain who, on landing a passenger, fails to conduct him to the bureau, is liable to a fine of $500 or $1,000 for each person not declared. Any passenger on arrival who does not possess a passport or produce papers certifying his identity, or who refuses to obey any of the requirements of this law, shall either be obliged to re-embark immediately or remain under police surveillance until he can, unless he can be vouched for by a resident or licensed foreigner.

All persons proceeding to Hayti are obliged to go before a consulate of the republic, if one exists at the place of departure, and have vised or delivered to him a passport by such consular officer under the penalty, on arrival, of a fine of $300.

A passport is also necessary in order to leave the country.

California Democrats.

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—The democratic state convention nominated ex-Congressman James H. Budd, of Stockton, for governor on the third ballot. W. C. Peter, of Santa Cruz, was nominated for lieutenant governor. Congressman James G. Maguire was renominated for congress from the Fourth district.

AUGUST FOR HEALTH.

IT MUST BE WHETHER YOU TAKE A VACATION OR NOT.

Take Time Now to Strengthen Nerves and Body—See That Every Part of the Body Becomes Well Fed.

Eleven months for business, for money-making, for absorbing work. Take August for becoming strong and well.

Get back to your proper weight; relieve the tired nerves of their irritability; fill the body with ruddy, vigorous, serviceable blood. You will work to twice the purpose with a clear head and a body undisturbed by aches and pains.

Give Paine's celery compound a fair trial in August.

Weariness and lack of strength is a matter of the nerves and brain. It is the exhaustion of the nerve centres that produces the feeling of lassitude and depression.

Digestion and assimilation are the first to become affected by diminished nerve power, and as the functions are so closely connected with every part of the body the entire system shares in their disorder. Men and women about middle age take little exercise, their blood becomes slow and impure and all their important organs sluggish, while a constantly increasing load of anxiety and care keeps their nerves from being properly nourished. Such persons will find a steady gain in health, in vigor and in good spirits from Paine's celery compound taken steadily through the month of August.

The reason for the high regard in which Paine's celery compound is held by physicians for building up the weak, the sickly and the nervous, is because all its ingredients are known to medical men to feed the nerves and to provide pure and rich blood for all the weak parts of the body. Every trace of nervous exhaustion disappears when the nerves that govern the functions of the body are thus abundantly supplied with their appropriate food.

The disturbances of the nervous system whether neuralgia, rheumatism, debility, extreme nervousness or heart trouble, are due to derangements in nutrition. Headache, a sense of weight on top of the head, a feeling of constriction about the forehead; these are very significant symptoms and should be heeded. Better and more complete nutrition is demanded for the nerves and brain. Thin, pale faces, wasted frames, unhealthy skin and low spirits tell unmistakably of blood too thin and poor to properly nourish the body.

Paine's celery compound brings an increased, natural appetite, assists the assimilation of the food and quiets and restores a healthy nervous action.

Big Shells Explode Perfectly.

Sandy Hook, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Five 15-inch projectiles, each containing 300 pounds of nitro-glycerine, and one containing 200 pounds, were fired at the fourth day's test. The explosions were perfect, three exploding when striking the water, causing a thunder-like noise and emitting sheets of flame. No fire was visible from those exploding under the water, but the usual rising up of the water caused by the force of the explosion was perceptible.

Steamer Sir Donald Damaged.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 25.—The steamer Sir Donald, presented by Sir Donald Smith, the Montreal millionaire, to the branch of the English mission of the deep sea fishermen, working at Labrador, struck a rock in Assizes harbor, lost her propeller and sustained other damages. She is being towed here. This is the second steamer belonging to the mission that has been disabled this year.

Populist State Chairman Resigns.

Boston, Aug. 25.—At a meeting of the populist state committee Henry R. Legate read a letter resigning the position of chairman and state organizer, declining to serve any longer. Mr. Legate also declined to accept the nomination for congress in the Tenth district.

Another Bicycle Record.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 25.—Harry Tyler established new bicycle records for the quarter and half-mile unpaced at Hampden park yesterday afternoon. He made the former in 36 2-5 seconds, and the latter in 56 4-5 seconds, breaking George F. Taylor's record of 58 seconds and 1:00 1-5 for the distances made yesterday afternoon.

People Who Weigh and Compare

Know and get the best. Cottolene, the new vegetable shortening, has won a wide and wonderful popularity. At its introduction it was submitted to expert chemists, prominent physicians and famous cooks. All of these pronounced

AT REST.

Charles H. Schermerhorn, Jr.

The sad obsequies over the remains of the late Charles H. Schermerhorn, Jr., were held last evening at 7:30 from the home of his parents, East Fifth street. The house was filled with friends and relatives who had known decedent from childhood.

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope Chapel, conducted the services, which were very impressive, and his remarks were touching and sympathetic.

An appropriate solo, "The Christian's Good Night", was sung by B. T. Barnes, and touched the hearts of all.

Interment was in Hillside Cemetery this morning.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A large carriage factory, L-shaped, is to be erected on South avenue near Central street.

—Foreman J. Stahl has put up signs at the fire-boxes showing where keys may be obtained.

—Six houses are soon to be built on Leland avenue between North avenue and East Front street.

—Addis & Son, sanitary plumbers, are out with a handsome white wagon, with black and gold sign.

—When trade is slack what there is of it goes to those who have the courage and energy to ask for it.

—Brace up. The great bracer is Leggett's digestive malt extract. Only 20 cents a bottle, or 6 for $1.

—Another moral is pointed by Marsh, Ayres & Co. today in their ad showing how great waste may be avoided.

—Postmaster Leonard G. Vean of Garwood has appointed J. J. Pendergast, station agent, assistant postmaster.

—The public schools will reopen Sept. 4. For the first day only, the High School will commence at 9 instead of 8:20.

—A story you will find profitable reading is told by White of Plainfield concerning goods and prices that will save you quarters and halves.

—The chiefs degree was worked on two candidates, and the adoption degree on one candidate, at the meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe last evening.

—The abolishment of the Netherwood post office and the establishment of free Netherwood delivery by mounted carrier from Plainfield, will soon be effected.

—A team shoot will take place on the Plainfield club grounds at Benner's, Wednesday. The local team of 15 men will be pitted against 15 from the Union Gun Club of Springfield.

—The excursion of Packer Lodge, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen of Easton, passed through Plainfield at 8 a. m. today, on the way to Highland Beach. It consisted of about 8 car loards.

—As one of Rheaume's lumber wagons was being drawn from Fourth street into Park avenue this morning, the wagon pole caught in a rear wheel of a farm wagon, lifting it off the ground. With little difficulty the tangle was undone, and both proceeded.

William's Wisdom.

"It so falls out that what we have we prize not to the worth while it is ours." Shakespeare evidently meant that for those who do not take care of their sight. Neglect of that precious sense may lead to blindness. If you prize it you should care for it at once. It is a duty you owe to yourself to have your eyes examined by an expert optician. Such you will find at Collier's, 103 Park avenue.

That Bridge Should Be Kept Open.

It is hoped that the New Brunswick Board of Trade will be successful in its efforts to prevent the Pennsylvania Railroad Company from building in that city a bridge over the canal without a draw, thus preventing the traffic of vessels with high masts and steamers through the canal. Such a structure would be a great blow to Bound Brook and the whole lower portion of Somerset County through which the canal passes.

Has His Eye on Every Detail.

The officials of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company are making a tour of inspection along the road in a special car. The general passenger agent, Charles S. Lee, whose extraordinary executive ability and watchful supervision of the workings of this popular road make it the success it is, and the people's favorite, personally inspected the offices at Ash Brook, Picton, Roselle and Lyons Farms yesterday.

Let Others Do Likewise.

Alfred Cocks has inaugurated sidewalk improvements in Netherwood which it is hoped will be followed by others of like nature. He is paving the walk in front of his new house with Martinville stone such as that in front of the Babcock Building, each stone being 4 feet wide and 7 long.

Death of James H. Cory.

The death of James H. Cory, son of the late Henry A. Cory, occurred in New York last Monday, in his 58th year. He leaves a mother who is 80 years old, and two sons. At one time he was a resident of Plainfield, and was well known here. Interment was in the Presbyterian Cemetery, North Plainfield, this morning.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

BEEKMAN'S PLUM

Bitter Fight Over the District Attorneyship of New Jersey Ended at Last by President Cleveland.

President Cleveland sent to the Senate yesterday the appointment of John W. Beekman, of Perth Amboy, to be United States District Attorney for New Jersey.

President Cleveland's nomination of John W. Beekman, of Perth Amboy, to succeed Henry S. White, as District Attorney for New Jersey, probably ends one of the most bitter controversies that the public men of New Jersey have engaged in for the recognition of the present administration.

The early candidate for the office was ex-State Comptroller William C. Heppenheimer, but the suggestion did not "go" well in Washington, probably because Heppenheimer was closely identified with the administration of Governor Abbett, which threw its influence against Cleveland's nomination in the days that preceded the Chicago Convention.

Then there was a remarkable silence about the matter till suddenly the State was surprised by the announcement that the President had sent in the name of James Parker of Perth Amboy for the position. Mr. Parker had been a warm Cleveland advocate when Mr. Cleveland needed friends to tackle the Abbett influence.

During all the intervening season of silence, however, there were some who were in active pursuit of the place. Miles Ross is a member of the Democratic National Committee. While Abbett was plotting to send an anti-Cleveland delegation from the State to Chicago Mr. Ross was warm in Cleveland's support.

Mr. Ross had demanded no recognition for his work till he made up his mind that he would like to name the new District Attorney. Senator McPherson agreed to help any suitable man whom Ross should name.

Mr. Ross was said to have solicited the privilege in the hope of naming ex-Governor George C. Ludlow, and so placating one of his most influential local foes. When McPherson gave his consent Mr. Ross offered the place to Mr. Ludlow, who declared he would accept no office whatever at Mr. Ross's hands.

While Ross was looking about for some one else he saw that Mr. Cleveland had nominated Captain Parker. He went at once to Washington to see Senator McPherson about it, and the Senator went to Mr. Cleveland and asked that the nomination be withdrawn, and after a deal of persuasion the President yielded.

Ross then learned that Mr. Parker was no great admirer of his and that Mr. Beekman and Parker were bitter foes, and so, to punish the Perth Amboy captain for daring to ask for an office without first seeing him, he decided upon Mr. Beekman.

When President Cleveland was introduced to Mr. Beekman he was not pleased with him, and doubting his fitness sent him back to New Jersey to get letters of recommendation. These were procured and proved satisfactory it seems.

Mr. Beekman is not widely known as a lawyer in New Jersey. He has served three terms as a member of the Assembly. He was on hand to support the coal combine legislation of the winter of 1892, and it was understood that if his vote were needed to pass the race track bills in 1893 it was at the service of those who were promoting them. He is short, slim, gray haired and between fifty and sixty years old.

Elizabeth Sponge Works Destroyed.

FABLES OF THE PHOENIX.

How He Builds His Own Funeral Pyre and Lights It.

The paragon of all fabulous creatures was the bird described by the ancient writers under the title of the "Arabian phoenix." Ovid says: "Although most beings and things have their origin in other individuals of their own species, there is one remarkable exception to this general law—the miraculous bird called the 'phoenix,' which reproduces itself." According to a belief which Herodotus heard expressed at Heliopolis, the famous Egyptian "city of the sun," this miraculous bird visited that place once every 500 years—always coming from the direction of Arabia—on the occasion of its father's death, and always buried him with peculiar ceremonies.

According to the best evidences which can be gathered from the writings of Ovid, Pliny, Herodotus and Dion Cassius, after the phoenix had lived his allotted lifetime of five hundred years he selected a spot and prepared his own deathbed, which consisted of a sort of nest, or funeral pyre, made of leaves and branches of the oak, ears of sweet spikenard, cinnamon bark, yellow myrrh, etc. Seating himself upon this he flapped his wings with such velocity as to cause the nest to take fire. After bird and nest had been consumed a little worm appeared in the ashes and rapidly developed into a full-fledged phoenix. The first care of the new bird was to arrange for the sepulchre of his father's ashes, which Herodotus described as follows:

"With the myrrh and other gums it has amassed the phoenix fashions a ball as large as it can carry. The ball it hollows out, and in the hollow places puts the ashes of its dead parent. The ball is deposited in the nest, and the young phoenix carries the whole from Arabia to Egypt for the purpose of interring its father's ashes at the 'city of the sun.' Having reached its destination it lays its burden down upon the altar of Helios and disappears as mysteriously as it had come." The legends connected with this fabulous bird vary in some of their details, but all agree in the statement that only a single bird of the species was living at any one time.

A Moral.

There was a man in a faraway town
Who thought him wondrous wise.
He swore by all the fabled gods
He'd never advertise.

His goods were advertised at last,
And thereby hangs a tale.
The ad was set in nonpareil
And headed "Sheriff's Sale."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 26. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The joy of the Christian life.—John xv, 1-11.

There is joy in the Christian life, and it is one of the best signs of the present age that Christian people are beginning to learn this fact and to experience the joys of Christianity. The time was when religion was surrounded by a cloud. Joy and happiness and cheerfulness found no place in the life of the saint. But that cloud is being rapidly dispelled, and rightly too. Christian people should be the happiest people in the world, for, like godliness, they have the promise of this life and also of the life to come.

In the Scriptural reference before us we see some of the leading characteristics of the Christian's joy.

1. The Christian's joy is of divine origin. It is "the joy of the Lord." Jesus has spoken to his disciples about the intimate relation that exists between Himself and them, illustrating it by the vine and branches. He has emphasized the necessity of their abiding in Him, and then adds, "These things have I spoken unto you that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be filled." It is then Christ's joy that is to be in the Christian. As Christ gives peace to His followers, so also He gives joy to them. He gives joy to the heart and joy to the one who is faithful in serving Him.

2. The Christian's joy is complete. "And that your joy might be full." The Lord Jesus never does His work by halves. When he gives salvation, he gives a perfect and complete salvation. When He gives peace, He gives perfect peace, and when He gives joy He also gives a full and complete joy. How full and how complete should be the joy of every one who has the testimony of the Spirit with His spirit that He is the child of God, who has had the Saviour's whisper to Him, "Thy sins be forgiven thee," and who has the sweet consciousness that He is at peace with God, and that his life is right in the sight of God! The joy of the world is brief. It worketh death. But the joy of the Christian is perfect—perfect in character and endureth forever.

3. The Christian's joy is accessible to all. "There is but one condition to this full joy of the Lord. It is a condition easy of fulfillment. It is that we should abide by faith in Christ and have Him abide in us. Endeavorers, cultivate the joy of the Christian life. Find joy and happiness in serving God. Let no harps be hung upon the willows. "Rejoice in the Lord alway."

More Than Two Million Endeavorers.

I have read that three natives of India once happened to come together from quite different states, and being unable to speak one another's languages found themselves at a mission station. At last one of them looked up to heaven and repeated the word—which was substantially the same in every dialect throughout India—"Jesus." The second brother said "Amen," and that was the same in every tongue, and the third added, looking and pointing upward, "Hallelujah," which was the same everywhere. We, too, are unable to speak one another's native language. We come from every clime, from every land. Our skins vary in color; 460 are red, 18,700 are yellow, 97,020 are black and 1,907,620 are white, making in all an interracial and international army of over 2,000,000. Our actual enrollment, including active and associate members, is now 2,023,800. And yet there is one common rallying name for us all, and above that the name above every name.—Secretary Baer.

An Australian Incident.

A well known Congregational minister of Australia became discouraged about his society, and one night he said, "Now we are going to pray, and God wants every active member to pray." They knelt down, and 15 prayed right away whose voices had never been heard before. That was the Pentecost of that society.—Selected.

Resolve to Do Good.

Without the resolution in your hearts to do good work so long as your right hands have motion in them and to do it whether the issue be that you die or live, no life worthy the name will ever be possible to you, while in once forming the resolution that your work is to be well done life is really won here and forever.—Ruskin.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

West Virginia serves notice on New York that she will carry away the umbrella of state next year, Illinois means to recover the junior banner, and Pennsylvania, "the pig (iron) state," gives notice that she proposes to take every banner next year.

There was a spirited contest between Washington and Baltimore for the convention of 1896. Washington won.

About 1895 it is not yet clear. The convention will be held at San Francisco if the railroads give a sufficiently favorable rate. This they have not yet done. If the rate cannot be obtained by Sept. 1, some other place will be chosen. This was the understanding when San Francisco was first promised the convention.

As a token of their claim upon him as a Cleveland boy, because of the 18 years of his life in their city, the Cleveland Union gave Secretary Baer a beautiful basket of flowers.

In delivering his great oration in that amazing audience at Cleveland Governor McKinley stood on an island in a sea of faces.

The Christian Endeavor male quartet of Cleveland sung with rare acceptance and were frequently encored.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

UP-TO-DATE SUGGESTIONS FROM THE NEW YORK SUN.

Material and Make-up for Out-Door Wear—Seasonable Hints as to Colors and Trimmings—Latest Fads in Millinery.

The first impulse of every true woman is to make herself attractive. She is not so helplessly conservative in her clothes as men are, and, while she wishes her costume to be useful and perfectly suited to its purpose, she has an eye to the possibility of one which will be both becoming and picturesque.

Just now the garden parties are uppermost in the feminine mind, and the gowns may be gorgeous in color, unique in design, daintily fanciful, or severely simple, but they must—to be correct—be built for a special effect. The popular materials for these dresses are taffeta, crepon silk muslin, lace, and embroidered batiste, and within reason and good taste you may combine them how you will and be quite sure of an up-to-date gown. Among the tweeds and serges are some new varieties in coloring which are more showy than the plain ones so long in vogue. In colors everything is worn, providing it is a delicate shade made effective with a fit of contrasting color. Whether it be in gown or hats, the most widely popular combination is black and white, which came into special favor over a year ago, and has steadily gained ground ever since, with no limit to its variations.

A pretty waist to be worn with a checked silk skirt is made of batiste, showing a line of black chiffon up the back and front, with kilted ends falling from the neck to the bust. A batiste dress is very effective mounted over yellow silk and trimmed with satin ribbon edged on each side with a batiste frill, and a Frenchy touch of color may be given by a pink velvet collar band. Much accordion plaited black grenadine, made up over colored silks, is used for skirts and bodices, with sleeves of the bright color, and entire gowns of yellow chiffon, trimmed with jet, are not considered too vivid for garden party gowns. Shot crepons of indescribable tints are trimmed with jet and bright colored velvet and silks.

A pretty model for a black and white crepon is given in the first cut. The plain skirt is simply trimmed with a narrow ruche of the crepon, and the bodice is of white satin, veiled with black chiffon, accordion plaited. Handsome jet passementerie forms the belt and outlines the yoke, at either side of which are loop bows of black satin ribbon, which give a very stylish effect.

Fancy buckles are one of the fads of the season. They are to be found in every imaginable size and shape, from the tiniest circlet to the large oval ones so popular; from the cheapest plated affair to the gold jewelled ones quite beyond the purse of the average woman. The buckle's service does not end with its usefulness at the belt, but it appears on hats and neckbows, and tiny ones are arranged on bows on our gowns.

Coarse brown and yellow straw trimmed with shades of deep blue are a feature of summer hats, and blue poppies are a late addition to the unnatural flower garden of millinery fame. Dark blue tulle or tulle of any color is an important adjunct in headgear, no color, or any combination of colors, being too incongruous for the season's fancy. A purple bird, a bunch of cherries, and blue rosettes are the variety on one hat. Ivy is in fashion and entire bonnets are made of it, with little tufts of pink roses in front and back.

THE CUNNING FISH.

Johnny Mann went out to catch
 Fishes from the sea,
Singing: "Prithee little fish
 Nearer come to me!
Darling little fishie, stay
 Prithee, do not swim away!"

"Dearest Mr. Johnny Mann!"
 Thus the fish replied:
"Business calls, and I must go
 Out upon the tide!
That's because I chance to be
 A fish, and not a goose, you see!"

NEW FAD OF NEW YORK BOYS.

They Are Flying Kites With Chinese Lantern Tails From Roofs.

The New York small boy has a new racket. He flies his kite by night and attaches a Chinese lantern to the tail of it. The sight of hundreds of these bright colored lanterns sailing high in the air at night is picturesque. Nobody seems to know who originated the idea—perhaps it was borrowed from China, where old and young fly kites and do all sorts of absurd things with them—but it has spread all over town and has become the rage among the boys.

Most of this new-fangled kite-flying is done from the roofs of tall tenements, and this accounts for the absence of the small boy from the streets lately.

A west side father, living just off Eighth avenue, started out the other evening to look up his young hopeful, who hadn't been seen or, more suspicious still, heard from for an hour or more. He visited all the usual haunts of the youngster, and was surprised to find them deserted. Not a boy was to be found anywhere.

"Dey's up on de roof flyin deir kites," explained a little girl. The searcher looked up, and for the first time noticed the lanterns floating high overhead in the dusk. He mounted to the roof and found his young hopeful, with a dozen other boys of his own age, all very quiet, for they were on forbidden ground, but enjoying themselves hugely. The man counted twenty-nine lanterns on that one roof. Then, having been a boy once himself, he joined the group and enjoyed the kite-flying as much as any of them, until his young hopeful suggested that it was "time to go home."

HE WANTED THE DOG.

But He Wouldn't Trade His Sister Even With an Actress.

Delia Fox, looking very captivating, tripped daintily into a Sixth avenue surface car at Forty-seventh street the other afternoon. The pretty comic opera star was not alone. She was accompanied by a King Charles spaniel that nestled in her arms and seemed ready to weep on the slightest provocation. Miss Fox took a seat next to a bright boy about three years of age, who immediately became mightily interested in the dog. Next to the boy sat his mother, holding a cooing baby. After regarding doggie with intense admiration, the boy became emboldened and patted the animal's head. Then, after an inquiring glance at the actress and getting an approving smile, the little fellow said:

"You wouldn't give me that dog, would you?"

"I tell you what I'll do, my little man," was the response; "if you give me the baby you can have the dog."

The youngster was somewhat staggered, but he whispered in his mother's ear, and she laughingly held the infant toward the boy as though willing to make the trade. Taking his baby sister in his arms the little fellow half held it toward the actress, but suddenly clasped the babe close, covered it's face with kisses, and said:

"Keep your dog, you can't have our baby!"

Blood was thicker than water.

Miss Fox laughed heartily and the other passengers smiled. When the actress and her four-legged pet got off at Fifty-ninth street, the boy cast one longing look at the silky-haired canine, and then with a sigh devoted his attention to his sister.

PETS OF BIG ANIMALS.

Lions will not Kill Rats or Mice; They are too Small.

The way in which lions treat the tiny creatures of animal life is a study. It may be that there is some animal language, and that the legend of the little mouse which saved the lion's life by gnawing the net has become known to the denizens of the jungle and handed down as animal folk-lore; or it may be that the king of beasts has a positive contempt for anything extremely small. It is, however, a fact that lions will not attack tiny animals when they are put together. Professor Darling, the famous lion tamer at Hagenbeck's menagerie, has made many curious experiments in this direction with the animals under his control.

"I never saw a lion kill a rat or a mouse," says the professor, "and I have had many of them put in a cage with my five lions. My attention was first drawn to this fact when I was on my way from London to Batavia, in Java, on the ship Rotundo. I had my five lions with me, and in the quarter of the ship in which they were housed were many rats.

"One day I saw Leo, my favorite lion, lying down and holding between his paws very loosely, a monster rat. I thought that perhaps the cat instinct in the lion had made him catch it, and that he would probably play with it a while and then eat it. Imagine, however, my surprise when I saw him loosen the rat and the rodent make no attempt to get away, but run up and over his gigantic paws and play with him. We were a long time making the trip, and every day this rat went into Leo's cage, and the two played together as gently as two children. I made several attempts to capture the rat, hoping that perhaps I might take it ashore with me, but I could not succeed; and I promise you that old Leo did not at all like my attempting to interfere with his pet. He could have killed that rat a thousand times, but he never did it."—Recorder.

About Ocean Cables.

The new cable which has just been laid across the Atlantic weighs 650 pounds to the mile. This is the biggest of all the cables. Although this latest one is larger than the others, the fashion of making cables has not changed since 1851, which shows how wise as well as brave those first projectors of the cable were. There is now invested in Atlantic cables over $60,000,000. When the first one was talked of hardly any one would belive in it. Perhaps it will be this way with flying machines.

Do not forget that well-bred people are always thoughtful and polite.

FOR FAIR READERS.

THE PRETTY HISTORY OF A FAMOUS AND FASHIONABLE ROSE.

How the Marechal Niel Received Its Name. The Servant Question Discussed. The English and American Home as Compared by a Man, of Course.

There is a pretty little history in connection with the naming of the fashionable Marechal Niel rose, which, as generally known, is named after the famous General of the Franco-Austrian war. "When Niel was returning from the scene of his victories in war," writes an eminent florist, "one of the peasant women along the line of march presented him with a beautiful basket of yellow roses. One of these flowers still had its roots clinging to it, and on his arrival in Paris, Niel planted the flower in his garden. The rose thrived and finally grew to a bush covered with blossoms. The General then presented the plant as a gift to Empress Eugenie. She was delighted with the beauty and fragrance of the flower, and on learning that the rose had no name, said significantly: 'Then I will give it one. I christen it the Marechal Niel,' and at the same time she bestowed upon the amazed General the jewelled emblem that betokened his promotion to the exalted office of Marechal of France."

IF YOU WANT GOOD SERVANTS.

Here are Some Rules For Them, Direct From the Wise East.

A writer in The Boston Transcript gives a long list of rules tending to the elucidation of this subject, from which a few of the most significant are culled.

Give her as good wages as you can; pay her regularly or give her reasons why she should wait.

Do not expect her to be a mind reader, but tell her just what you want done.

Give her as pleasant a room as possible, and let her have time to keep it in order.

Do not talk as if your own way was the only right way to do things.

Never allow the children to treat her with disrespect or make her unnecessary work.

Never reprimand her before children or strangers.

Always say "good morning" and "good night."

Alway say "please" and "thank you" when you ask her to do anything for you, and insist upon the children doing the same.

A command given in an abrupt, disagreeable tone will often make her angry or unhappy.

If you like her, tell her so sometimes.

If she is cross or irritable, be patient with her. She may be suffering acutely, mentally or physically.

Above all things, do not scold, blame, or find fault with her any more than you can possibly help. Nothing will discourage her so much. She needs encouragement a thousand times more than she needs discouragement.

To sum up, be as kind, patient, sympathetic, reasonable, considerate, and respectful to her as you would wish ot'er women to be to your own daughter if she is ever obliged to do housework for a living.

For A Little Girl.

A stylish little empire gown for a dainty little maiden of seven or eight summers is composed of cerise colored foulard finely plaited in one piece, cut on the straight to the yoke, and set onto the plain-fitted bodice lining. The large shoulder collar is made of white bengaline plaited full on the shoulder. It is finished with large white shoulder rosettes and has a throat ruching of cerise ribbon. The collar has three rows of stitching. There are full balloon sleeves of plaited foulard and white undersleeves.

English and American Homes.

A writer in a contemporary American magazine who compares English and American home life says that the most striking difference is that the chief end of an English home is the comfort of the man, but the chief end of an American home is the comfort of the woman. That accords with American tradition about the manners and customs of the English, and probably it is as nearly true as epigrammatical statements are wont to be. Still, one may wonder whether it would not be almost as illuminating to suggest that the chief end of English homes is the comfort of the proprietors, while the ruling consideration in the American homes is the propitiation of servants. Unless current information upon the subject is misleading, both master and mistress in an English home can buy much more domestic comfort than the same expenditure could gain for them in America; and that mainly for the trite reason that English servants are better trained, more easily procured, and cheaper than in America.

How Cheerfulness Beats Cosmetics.

Cosmetics are generally good for nothing but the drug business. One merry thought, one kind word, and the smallest contribution to another's happiness will do more for the complexion than a table full of cold cream, violet powder and other skin whiteners. A sweet thought will make the face brighten and the eyes sparkle every time it is harbored. It was Alice Cary who sang this old truth so gracefully thirty years ago. Don't mind the cosmetics, little woman; just be as cheerful as you can. Make the best of things. Avoid disagreeable people. Don't read or listen to the horrible. Try to forget the unpleasant things in life. Be cheerful, be gentle, and so be lovely.

Do not be one minute late at a lunch or dinner.

SEVEN HATS IN ONE.

Being an Account of the Device of a Clever Young Woman.

The Leghorn hat is conspicuous at the summer resorts just now. The summer girl wears one with almost all of her afternoon frocks. A novelty about the Leghorn hats this season is that they are trimmed entirely in one color. An ingenious summer girl now at Richfield Springs has already appeared in seven different Leghorn hats. Her friends have been speculating on the number of trunks necessary to contain her wardrobe and they have decided that it took at least one trunk simply to bring her Leghorn hats to the Springs. In this they have been mistaken, for this gayly attired summer girl brought with her but one Leghorn hat and seven different sets of trimmings. One day she appears in a Leghorn hat trimmed with loops of baby-blue chiffon and two Prince of Wales tips in the same color. The next day the hat will be overgrown with pink rosebuds, which will wind themselves in and out a band of pink chiffon rosettes. On other occasions the hat is trimmed with bachelor buttons and tulle to match. With a white gown it appears laden with white lilacs and loops of white moire ribbon. Some days it is adorned with black violets and black chiffon; in fact, it is made to harmonize with almost every gown in her wardrobe. It takes but a few minutes to retrim the hat, and it enables the young woman to have seven hats for a comparatively small cost.

POCKETS AND THEIR SUBSTITUTES.

Some Devices of the Clever Girl to Outwit the Dressmaker.

Andrew Lang maintained with some show of reason that woman has no pocket only because man has left her nothing to put into one. Miss Laura, the other day, remarked that woman was allowed no pocket nowadays because she tried to put too many things into it and so spoiled the effect of the best gowns of Madame the Modiste, and consequently injured the lady's reputation. In support of her theory Miss Laura drew forth a fat pocketbook—samples being the cause of its well filled appearance—a bunch of keys, two rumpled letters, the Dresden handle of her umbrella, a tiny bottle of salts and an address book.

"It's a shame," commented Miss Laura's companion, "to spoil the hang of a skirt by carrying the combined contents of a desk and a top drawer in it. I don't wonder the dressmakers have rebelled."

Miss Laura's friend was wearing a skirt of brown armure cloth, and from her brown-ribbon belt dangled a brown suede chatelaine bag. It was very pretty and it contained all the odds and ends that were spoiling her companion's skirt.

"I have an old-fashioned beaded one of grandmother's," she said, "which I wear with prints and organdies and lawns. It is quaint and dainty and holds no end of things. Why, even at dances I always carry a bag swung from my belt. It is of heavy white corded silk, embroidered thickly in seed pearls, and it swings by a silver chain. It is big enough to hold my powder puff, the tiniest of needle-books, to mend the inevitable rent in one's skirt, a miniature pincushion, my salts and my fan. And it's distinctly ornamental. Then I have a black leather one, not too good, for daily use. I have long ceased to be dependent upon Madame."

Still, a well-made pocket need not spoil a gown. It need not even show. It should always be cut in a point at the top (never at the bottom, unless you want to turn it inside out every time you need your penknife, key or thimble), and the point firmly sewed to the belt of the dress. This done it cannot possibly "sag." Always set it in a seam or under a deep pleat, near the back, face it up with the dress material, carefully press all seams, and you can have two such pockets in one skirt.

A Pretty Tea Table.

The Germans have a pretty way of arranging their tea tables with two cloths. The first, which is often colored, is trimmed with heavy lace; this lower cloth may be of denim or cloth or ecru linen. Over this is a second cloth of white damask. This may be either plain or embroidered in the old German cross-stitch in blue and red, which is so very popular abroad, although it has not been adopted to any great extent in this country, our American housewives preferring pure white.

Kindred Spirits.

The greatest compliment a gentleman or a gentlewoman can pay an acquaintance is an invitation to dinner. Of the multitude of people met in a lifetime only a few are nice enough to dine with. Some very good men and women make disgusting table companions. Calamities, murder, cholera, war, famine and sickness are discussed in the dining-room by people who pretend to be refined, but who are in reality gross, coarse and boorishly vulgar.

Do not allude to your poverty. One should be as reticent in regard to it as to his riches.

The Latest Novelty!
BABY SHOES COATED WITH COPPER
And plated in Silver, Copper oxidized, or Antique Brass.
We do not paint them, but ACTUALLY cover them, by a galvanic process, with a heavy coating of copper; thereby preserving them for an indefinite period.
All mothers will want their babies' first shoes preserved by this method.
If the little toe is worn through, and a button off, or a seam ripped, they will look all the more natural.
No matter what condition the shoe may be in, we cover them, and retain all the natural detail.
As a useful and ornamental souvenir it has no equal.

WATER GAP HOUSE,
DELAWARE WATER GAP, PA.
The location of this house, on a spur of the Kittatinny Mountain, is the Finest in the Whole Range
of the Blue Ridge. From its elevation are compassed views of great extent and beauty, embracing the gorge through which the river winds, the Upper Delaware Valley to the north, and Cherry Valley westward. From the Pioneer Walks, through hundreds of acres of forest, charming vistas are opened, affording frequent surprises for the alert pedestrian. The quiet and lake-like repose of the Delaware is very attractive to oarsmen and from the boat fine views of the great pass are obtained. The drives in every direction throughout the neighborhood are diversified and interesting. The hotel is large and complete in every detail, with broad verandas, a well-lighted billiard rooms, bath room, electric bells and mountain spring water in bed rooms. Superior table.
Good bass fishing in season on the Delaware, and trout fishing in the adjacent tributaries.
For the accommodation of business men a daily train leaves the Water Gap at 7:02 a. m., and arrives in New York at 9:30 a. m. Weather, cool. Breezes, delightful.

THE PRETTY SKATER.

It was in the beginning of the sixteenth century. A wonderfully fine Sunday morning in the winter had dawned. The clear, cold winter sun was sparkling on the snow covered roofs of Antwerp.

At the north end of the town a small, well frozen lake had been formed by the outlet of the smaller canal. Church was just over. The last sounds of the bell were still trembling on the crisp air as they died away. A merry throng was on the lake. A delightful picture of youthful gayety presented itself to the visitor. The slender forms of youths and maidens, with their glittering skates, seemed to skim along as if driven by the wind.

Every now and then a pretty girl swept by all the other skaters, who bowed to her respectfully and watched her with admiration. But, like a proud swan, she went on further and further. Her elegant dress betrayed the wealthy patrician.

Finally, the form of a young man, coming from the other end of the lake, came gliding toward the pretty skater. Her eyes sparkled with joy. He bowed to her reverently, but then he confidently grasped the little hands she stretched out toward him. They glided on in silence for some time.

"Why do you remain all alone, Antje?" he asked suddenly. "The young patricians will think it haughtiness on your part."

Antje drew up her rosy lips in scorn. "That just suits me, Cousin Adrian!" she laughed. "I wanted to wait for you undisturbed!"

"Oh, Antje, you must not do it! As grateful as your cousin is to you for your friendship, you must never forget what a deep, immeasurable abyss separates the wealthy Antje Van Der Solst from the poor goldsmith, Adrian Van Benschotten!"

"Oh!" pouted Antje, "but suppose I do not like any one else as well as Adrian?" and with a proud, loving look she scanned his noble, stalwart form in its plain brown doublet.

"I must go away, hard as it is for me to do so. My honor demands it. It is my duty. Shall I notice, Antje, how my little cousin's affection grows stronger day by day? To say nothing of her own heartache! And to know that we may never come together! It is better that I go while my Antje is still young, so that she may easily forget the poor goldsmith. You will know and love a better man, but I shall remain true to my first love!"

"Adrian! I shall never love any one else but you."

* * * * * *

The finest house on the Schlede quay belonged to Mynheer Van Der Solst.

A stately repose reigned in the reception hall, covered with rugs and decorated with large chests, mirrors, weapons and shields, which led to a suit of richly furnished apartments. The last one was Antje's own, a charming and dainty room.

Rare tropical plants adorned it. Costly silver covered the toilet table. Heavy red silk draperies fell from the golden crown of the tester to her bed. Gobelin tapestries from Brabant showed scenes from the Bible. In the midst of this splendor Antje sat in the cozey, upholstered bay window and gazed sadly out upon the dead winter landscape. Her eyes were red from weeping. Now and then a soft sob escaped her half open lips. There had been a terrible scene. Mynheer—her father, who had always been so kind and lenient—now swore that only a wealthy merchant should become the husband of his only daughter. "I will never give you to that poor beggar!" were his last words.

It was not on account of the difference in rank, for the goldsmith's art was greatly honored in the sixteenth century, but Mynheer considered Adrian an idle dreamer.

Time crept slowly by and weighed heavily on Antje. Finally she found some diversion in her embroidery frame. The beautiful lace collar upon which she was at work had been intended for a bridal gift for Adrian.

"Now the collar shall ornament my shroud!" thought Antje, and gave way to sombre thoughts. She did not even notice that she had repeatedly pricked her middle finger until the blood from it had already made a large red spot. The fine brussels cambric was spoiled. Antje angrily threw the frame into a corner. Just then, Greta, her maid, entered and handed Antje a small package bearing Adrian's handwriting.

Quickly Antje broke the seal. A small silver article set with a blue stone, fell out and rolled down to Antje's feet. Inquisitively, Antje picked it up and looked at the strange trinket in astonishment, then put it down indifferently, took up the parchment and read:

"My Dear Sweet Antje: I knew very well that you would not send me a good message. Now I am on my way to England. Believe me, I only act from motives of pure, disinterested love. But you, my dear child, must obey your noble father, who is anxious for your welfare only. Farewell, my darling. Be happy and try to forget. Ever your loving,

ADRIAN.

"P. S.—Perhaps I may give you just a little souvenir. The silver trinket is a little cap which I thought of for the protection of your delicate finger, when I noticed how often you pricked it at your embroidery."

"Then Antje alternately pressed the letter and the little finger cap to her lips and held up her hand as she made the vow—"Adrian, I will wait until you return to take Antje with you!"

* * * * * * *

Three years have passed. A long, magnificent wedding procession is moving to the grand Jacob's Cathedral, at Antwerp.

The pretty bride who smiles so happily under her lace veil, is Antje Van Der Solst. She has not lost any of the freshness of youth, but has blossomed out even more beautiful and queenly, a full blown fragrant rose. The bridegroom is a rich, stately looking man from Sheffield. He looks his best in his costly velvet waistcoat, decorated with a wide golden necklace of honor—altogether a distinguished figure among the patricians following the bridal pair.

Antje is following the man from Sheffield to the altar with her father's blessing, and still she has kept her vow, for the bridegroom is Adrian Van Benschotten, the inventor of the thimble.

The practical Englishmen had soon appreciated the value of the invention, and through it Adrian had attained riches and honors.

The renowned goldsmith of Antwerp lived a long, happy life with his faithful Antje. At their golden wedding, however, the venerable couple still showed to their great grandchildren the origin of their fortune—the first thimble.—Romance.

THE METROPOLITAN NEWSBOYS.

Their Amusements and Remarkable System of Abbreviations.

Newsboys who are too young, too discreet, or too impecunious to gamble amuse themselves with games of agility which the Italian boys have introduced during the past few years. One of these resembles the American schoolboy game of sheepfold, but has been christened in the park "swipe de base"; and another, which seems to be the Italian idea of our "three old cat," is called "chase de rub." I believe "rub" is an abbreviation of rubber ball. But, I am not sure, for it is never easy, and it is sometimes impossible, to secure an English translation of newsboy language.

I was much interested in knowing why the boys sometimes cry "Nextry," when calling an extra edition. After much investigation I learned that when a boy says "Rextry" he thinks he is saying, "Here is your extra," and "Nextry" is a condensed form of asking, "Do you want an extra?" Any reader can, by rapidly repeating "Here is you extra," easily arrive at "Rextry"; but with only the result to work backward from, I found the process of reconstruction difficult.

The newsboys of the lower end of town speak an identical dialect, whether they are Irish, Italian or Jewish. The younger boys know only a few hundred words of this dialect, which answers all their purpose of friendly and trade intercourse; but the children of foreign parents fall into the vernacular when a quarrel or other exciting cause demands greater fluency.—Harper's Young People.

THE BICYCLE MAIL SERVICE STAMP.

Used Between Fresno and San Francisco During the Strike.

The employment of bicycles as a means of carrying the United States mails is a decided novelty, and the fact that it was successfully done for several days is remarkable, but it will probably be a long time before bicycles become again important in Uncle Sam's mail service. This bicycle mail service was operated between San Francisco and Fresno, a distance of several hundred miles, during the recent great strike on the Southern Pacific Railroad Company's lines.

To bicyclists and stamp collectors alike this system is interesting; to the latter particularly, because it was the means of producing a new local stamp, which, in future historical interest, is comparable to the famous and now excessively rare balloon stamps of the Franco-German war. These balloon stamps were used for messages directed out of Paris, when all means of surface communication with the outside world had been cut off by the Prussian armies. Balloon postal cards were also issued. These are also extremely rare. One of the few men in this country who has any of these is Mr. George L. Watson, a stock broker of Wall Street, and the possessor of probably the largest and most valuable collection of postal cards in America.

A cut of this curious bicycle stamp is given. It was crudely engraved in great haste. It tells the reasons that called for its issue. In the upper angles are the letters A. R. U., meaning the American Railway Union, and in the lower angle the word "strike." Future stamp collectors fortunate enough to own this reminder of the greatest labor disturbance this country has ever seen may tell without trouble when the strike took place.

THE STRIKE STAMP.

The blockade so interfered with mail service on the Southern Pacific Railroad that, for the convenience of the merchants who wanted to forward mail to San Francisco, Arthur C. Banta, the manager of a bicycle house in Fresno, originated the idea of running a bicycle mail route between the two cities. He quickly made arrangements, and for a number of days profitably carried letters by bicycle at 25 cents apiece. Of course, each letter wore the United States two-cent stamp. The trips were made in relays of fifty miles, the entire journey occupying from two to three days. July 19, when the strike was declared off, the bicycle mail service ceased. The color of this interesting stamp was green, and about 5,000 copies in all were printed. The first issue contained an error in spelling "Francisco." This was not discovered until 800 copies had been printed. A few were printed on regular United States stamped envelopes in brown ink.

Maybe the Hindus Understand It.

Vedanta philosophy is a philosophy of Adwaita, the non-duality of soul and matter. The Vedantins believe that there is no evil in the nature of things, but only in the way in which the mind of man perverts it, and the material manifestations are but shadows of the Eternal Ens clothed in name and form. The attainment of, and way to, this Absolute Bliss lies through knowledge alone; and indeed he who knows One knows all. Thought can never transcend thought; and all that we know of is thought. Names and Forms are mere assumption, not separate from Thought.—Journal of the Maha Bodhi Society.

Yes, Actually the Oldest.

The oldest living soldier is said to be Nicolas De Savin, who has just celebrated his 126th birthday, and who was born in Paris on April 17, 1768, enlisted in the army formed at Havre by Napoleon for an expedition against the English. He is now living in Russia, and when asked recently how he accounted for his extraordinary age and vigor, he replied in the following Latin lines, which must warm the hearts of the virtuous and temperate:

> Multa tulit fecitque, sudavit et alsit,
> Abstinuit venere et vino.

—Army and Navy Journal.

A STORY TOLD.

A little work, a little play,
To keep us going—and so, good-day!

A little warmth, a little light,
Of love's bestowing—and so, good-night!

A little fun to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing—and so, good-morrow!

A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing. And so—good-by!

A BREEZY PRINCESS.

LOUISE OF LORNE LIKES TO THROW OFF RANK'S TRAMMELS.

A Delightful Guest, At Home in the Kitchen or Parlor, and Proud of Her Housewifely Accomplishments. Some of Her Recipes.

Princess Louise, of England, wife of the Marquis of Lorne, is fond of occasionally throwing off the restraints imposed upon her by her rank and of visiting incognito those friends to whom she is strongly attached. Not long ago she thus favored a friend who has a castle on the Isle of Wight, and a merry, delightful guest she proved to be. She took active part in all amusements, and was as thoroughly at home in kitchen chat as in that of the drawing-room. Her practical suggestions of domestic economy proved what is said of her to be true—that she is the most accomplished housekeeper of all the Queen's daughters. She is thrifty and economical; prudent, though generous. She assured Lady F—— that she takes great pride and satisfaction in superintending personally the domestic affairs of her own household.

"How could I expect to sustain my position as the head of my large household if I were not practically acquainted with the duties of each servant?" she said, in a confidential little chat one afternoon, as they sat in the garden. "I really enjoy my duties, and I can give you many excellent recipes that I have evolved from my own inner consciousness," she added, with just a touch of pride. "I'm sure that I use the very simplest and best method of preserving eggs ever invented!" she exclaimed, enthusiastically.

"What is this method?" asked her hostess.

"I sit before a lighted lamp and hold each egg, small end up, between my eye and the flame; if there is a clear, reddish transparency, the egg is sound. When all have been carefully examined, I rub each thoroughly with fresh, strongly salted butter; then placing one carefully in the centre of the bottom of the packing case I build around it circles of eggs, layer upon layer, until the case is filled. By following this simple method you can keep eggs sweet and fresh a whole winter and they taste as good as if newly laid."

"If there is anything I dislike it is cobwebs," said the Princess. "They are so suggestive of carelessness. It is a weakness, I will admit, but I am never in a house twenty-four hours before I have explored every room from garret to cellar, to see if there are any webs, and if I find any—either they take their departure or I do."

Next to cobwebs Louise shuns the autograph fiend. So rarely is her signature obtained that he who possesses it may consider himself a favored individual indeed. She is sweet and motherly in her attitude toward young women; girls especially are her favorites, and she wins enthusiastic admiration from her own sex wherever she goes. Boys find her sympathetic and liberal, and she has their eager co-operation in every sensible undertaking that she suggests.

She is magnificent rather than handsome, and looks every inch the princess. Her figure is superb; her hair is of a beautiful golden blonde shade, and her large blue-gray eyes are very expressive. In manner, though dignified, she is always cordial; she possesses the happy knack of at once setting you at your ease, and those who come in contact with this gracious and fascinating woman consider themselves favored indeed if they are admitted within the charmed circle of her personal friends. Next to the Princess of Wales she is perhaps the most popular of the princesses royal.

Louise is noted for her exquisite taste and for the perfect fit of her garments, and is always gowned simply for the street. She says that jewels and silks are proper only for indoor fetes and state occasions, while a cloth dress is always soft and becoming and amply dressy for the street.

SHE GOT HER UNCLE.

An American Girl's Letter Touched Emperor William.

A little American girl has just softened the heart of the stern German Emperor in a very pretty way. Every young German man has to serve a certain time as a soldier after his education is completed, and this little girl, who lives in this country, journeyed all the way over the sea to visit a certain "dear uncle," only to find that he was off at the barracks doing his soldier duties. She was greatly disappointed and much distressed, and as she was told that no one but the Emperor could help her, with true American independence she decided to write to him. She did so, telling him how sorry she felt to find her dear uncle away, and saying that she had often heard of the Emperor's kindness, and was sure, when he knew all about the circumstances, he would arrange for her uncle's return.

The letter reached the Emperor, and eventually arrived at the War Office, with instructions attached to it. Eight days after, the "dear uncle" was informed that he might either postpone his military duties entirely until next year, or receive permission to spend some days in his native village. The quaint appeal of the trusting little niece quite won the monarch's heart.

Odds and Ends.

Glass carafes are at present used instead of the water pitcher, and add much to the beauty of the table. They are by no means expensive, and those that have rustic, low broad bowls are to be preferred.

Lace insertion set in the middle of the silk curtain is one of the new things in vestibule curtains. This four or five inch strip of handsome heavy lace admits additional light and adds to the beauty as well.

Sealing letters has come into fashion again. Of late years it has rather gone out of style, but now when many persons wish to be courteous they send their letters sealed. It is much more polite to take the trouble of lighting a match and impressing the wax that fastens the envelope with one's personal mark than to fasten the flap down in the usual manner.

In embroidery for doylies the wreath and bow knot design are still very popular, the former for the round doylies, the latter for all sizes and sorts. A charming set of doylies recently sent to a bride are all done in wreaths of different flowers, no two being precisely alike. The whole effect is dainty in the extreme.

ENGLAND'S GREATEST ACTOR.

Nat Goodwin Magnanimously Overlooks a Snub By Irving.

Henry Irving is without doubt the best actor of Shakespearean plays now living, and his genius, and that of his brilliant feminine star, Ellen Terry, are as thoroughly appreciated by American audiences as they are in the theatres of London. Notwithstanding Irving's welcome and the freehearted friendliness always extended him in his tours to this country, the press reports have it that he could not resist the indulgence of a little English snobbery on the occasion of the recent visit of our own inimitable Nat Goodwin to the other side. Goodwin, however, takes a broad-gauge view of the incident and emphatically denies that there was a quarrel between himself and Mr. Irving. He says:

HENRY IRVING.

"Mr. Irving did make a mistake in pronouncing my name, and called me 'Nit Goodrich,' or something of that kind, but he did not mean to slight me and I never thought he did. Everybody laughed and so did I. Mr. Irving has always been very kind to me and I have to thank him for many favors."

How Fortunes are Made.

The largest fortunes of the present day have been acquired by applying an acute and enterprising mind to the improvement of the conditions of life. Some of the largest among them may be traced to the extension of the railroad, telegraph and telephone systems, to the sewing machine, to the automatic agricultural machines, to the application of electricity to mechanics, to new applications of chemistry to manufactures.

Henry Bessemer, who discovered a way to convert carburetted iron into steel was a type. He rendered it possible to gridiron this country with steel rails, and, of course, he became a millionaire. Any young man who will devise a method of making an article of general use at less than the present cost, will make his fortune as he did. The article need not be an important one so long as it is generally consumed.—San Francisco Argonaut.

London's Rival to the Ferris Wheel.

The last stage of the work in connection with the gigantic wheel at the exhibition at Earl's Court was entered upon yesterday afternoon, when the axle of the wheel was hoisted to its position on the plummer blocks on top of the towers. The heaviest and most difficult part of the work is now accomplished; the material for the wheel itself lies immediately at hand in the grounds of the wheel-works, and it is confidently expected that the monster wheel will be in working order next month. The forty cars, thirty first-class and ten saloons, will afford accommodation for about 1,000 passengers, and to make the round trip it will take twenty minutes. The towers which form the supports of the wheel contain four stages of large rooms; and the axle, which is made of steel tube seven feet in diameter, will serve as a passage from one tower to the other. About 1,500 tons of steel will be used in the structure.—London Daily News.

MAGIC

For Nerve, Brain and Blood.

MAGIC IRON-TONE is an ideal summer drink. Served at fountains with soda it is incomparable. It must be remembered that the average summer drink is just so much syrup and water, having no medicinal properties, and which only serves to provoke instead of to assuage thirst. But MAGIC IRON-TONE not only quenches thirst, it gratifies the longing for "something that will go to the spot;" it sparkles and bubbles along the palate and the throat; it gratifies the parched stomach and immediately clears the films from the brain. It dispels the despondent, depressed feeling inseparable from weariness and overwork; it lightens the load the system seems to be carrying, causes the eye to flash, the mind to spring into activity, and the nerves and muscles to jump from a flaccid to an elastic condition.

MAGIC IRON-TONE EXTRACT FOR HOME USE.

25 CTS. A BOTTLE.

One bottle makes thirty-five Delicious Drinks when prepared as per directions, and served with Ice Water or Ice Cold Carbonic Water.

SUPERIOR AS A BEVERAGE TO ROOT BEER

And prepared with less trouble. Ask your Druggist for it.

MAGIC IRON-TONE is especially recommended for Brain-Fag or Mental Exhaustion, Nervousness, Physical Weakness, as in convalescence, or from Excesses, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Mal-assimilation, Night Sweats, Insomnia, Gravel, etc.

Nursing Mothers will find it a True Tonic, not beneficial to themselves alone, but also to their offspring. Bottles for home use, 25c.

KELLY SHEDS BLOOD.

He Gives an Exhibition of the Power of Westfield Rum.

Michael Kelly was before the court at Westfield last evening charged by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Kelly, with assault and battery. Kelly had been on a spree all day and in the afternoon went to his house with an axe and chased everybody out of the place. About 6 he started in to repeat the clearing-out process and was about to strike his wife with a milk pail, when the daughter-in-law stepped between them. The interference made Kelly furious, and he struck her and the year-old infant that she held in her arms several times with the milk pail. Then he picked up a stone and struck his daughter-in-law on the head with it, cutting a gash in her scalp two inches long. With the blood streaming down her face the woman fled to the Justice's office and made complaint against Kelly, who was arrested by Officers Korstee and Sparks and bailed for a hearing.

BUGS IN THE JUG.

Tom Burns of Plainfield Gets a Lesson in Life's Vicissitudes.

(From The Perth Amboy Democrat.)

Thomas Burns, a young man residing with his parents in Plainfield, is in trouble. He was arrested last night at Florida Grove, by Chief Burke, on a charge of having taken money belonging to his father and gone off on a spree. He was taken to the lockup where he had a new experience in the way of fighting with hosts of bed-bugs.

His father came from Plainfield today, and took the young jackass back to his native city.

Burns is not quite twenty years of age —was very fashionably dressed—and has a face like an Apollo. He took his arrest very coolly.

The Chief found $9 in his pocket, so that Burns would at any rate soon have got to the end of his tether, and like the Prodigal Son gone back to Plainfield and helped to consume the fatted calf. When he departed from this city he took on his clothing a supply of our celebrated bed-bugs.

B. FAY MILLS TO SPEAK.

Sunday to Be a Great Day at Asbury Park Auditorium.

Tomorrow will be a great day at the Asbury Park Auditorium. B. Fay Mills will preach morning and evening. At the National service at 4, Col. H. H. Hadley, of St. Bartholomew Mission, New York, and Mrs. Margaret Bottome, president of the King's Daughters, will speak on "Reaching Masses". Adjutant Wray of England, the singing evangelist, will take part in the services. Miss Bessie Mechlem, with her saxophone, will be at each of the meetings.

Daisy Delmore's in Joe's Troupe.

(From The Elizabeth Daily Leader.)

J. B. Miller of the Elm House leaves today for Philadelphia to direct a dress rehearsal of the Delmore Opera and Burlesque Company, of which Mr. Miller is a part owner. The company will appear in this city during the holidays on their return from a tour through the southwest. Mr. Fisher, who is associated with Mr. Miller, will conduct the management of the company. Miss Daisy Delmore, Griff Williams, Sam Johnson, Fannie Robinson and Mabel Rice are among the many well known members of the company, which consists of forty-two members, including the orchestra.

The Pullmans Are Coming.

It is stated on good authority that the Pullman Company are negotiating for the Mills property at Garwood through the Garwood Land Improvement Company. The people of Garwood and vicinity are awaiting anxiously some definite statement concerning the negotiations as the location of the works there would cause an immediate rise in the value of real estate. Parties who are in a position to know something about the matter refuse to make any statements regarding the extent of the proposed Pullman plant.

Plainfield Pockets Picked.

(From The Asbury Park Daily Press.)

Pickpockets got in their nimble-fingered work among the Plainfield excursionists yesterday. Two ladies reported the loss of their purses at Ross's pavilion. Officer Hoagland of the Ocean Grove force was given a pocketbook which one of the boat boys found on the edge of Wesley Lake at its lower end. There was no money in it. Papers which it contained showed that it was the property of a Plainfielder.

Death of a Plainfield Daughter.

The death occurred in Brooklyn yesterday morning at 3 of Mrs. M. E. Pauline Kingsland, wife of Marshall Kingsland, and daughter of Alba o Lyons who at one time was sexton of the First Baptist Church in this city.

The funeral services will be held Monday morning at 11, from her late home, 51 St. Felix street, Brooklyn. Interment will be in Cypress Hill.

The Deadly Loose Match.

George Leland of Central avenue, while busily engaged in a conversation on Front street last evening, noticed the fumes of burned clothing, and on investigation discovered that a lot of matches had ignited in his vest pocket. Before he could remove the matches, a hole was burned in the vest.

Obstructionists.

An agent of the electric railroad company is at work in Cranford getting consents for the right of way along South avenue. He is not meeting with flattering success, as the people do not look with favor upon the electric road project.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

FIRE IN THE BOROUGH.

An Overheated Chimney Calls Out the Department.

While Patrick Sharkey and his family were seated in the dining room of their home on Mountain avenue last evening about 8:30 his little girl heard a crackling noise which startled her.

Mr. Sharkey immediately got up and went to the hall, thinking someone was trying to get in. While there his attention was attracted upstairs, where he saw a blaze.

He hastened to the place of the fire, which was in a small bedroom on the second floor off the hall.

In the meantime Patrick Eagany was told of the affair, and pulled Box 134, corner of Mountain and Westervelt avenues. The department responded quickly, and a few pails of water put out the fire. The cause of the fire was an overheated chimney. The damage was slight.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Monte Scott and Nathan Titsworth will be the representatives of the Crescent Wheelmen at this afternoon's race meet of the Mercer County Wheelmen in Trenton.

While John Eickert was taking his usual evening spin on his wheel last evening he collided with a cycler going in the opposite direction. With the exception of a shaking up, no damage resulted.

Thursday morning saw Herbert Moore of Grove street on his way to Boynton Beach. He spent the day swimming and sailing and returned in the evening. He is now making preparations for a ride next Thursday to Newburgh, where he will visit relatives for a week. He will go alone.

Monte Scott, the crack Class A rider of the Crescent Wheelmen, contested in the race meet at Scranton last Wednesday afternoon. The result of his efforts was five prizes: two first prizes, two second prizes, and one third prize. The prizes consisted of diamonds valued altogether at $155.

Charles E. Vail received a letter yesterday from Curt Gotthell dated in Utica, Thursday. It stated that his partner, Mr. Truax, was played out and had taken the train for Chicago, and that he had done the same. Curt says he is as fresh as a daisy, and has gained 2½ pounds. He will try for the record on the return trip. They rode all the way to Utica.

The following is from The Wheel and Cycling Trade Review: "If you want to have lots of fun get up a race for those who have never ridden in a race, as did the Crescent Wheelmen at their matinee last week. Such a collection of upper-scale ages and weights, assorted from Feel skeletonism to Rogereeque adiposity, was never seen on any track before. The following were some of the other prize bicycle beauties on exhibition: Richard Williams, C. L. Titsworth, Charles Lester, James Buckle, J. W. VanSickle, T. J. Carey, George Stevens, John Petrie and W. J. Stevenson."

The Wheel and Cycling Trade Review gives the following rap: "Lovers of bicycle racing experienced hardly less astonishment than regret at the small attendance at Plainfield on Saturday. The Crescent Wheelmen spent $4,000 in building not only the best, or rather the only real bicycle track in the metropolitan district, but one of the best in the country, which, I am sure, should it be tested by the flyers, would soon prove a not insignificant rival of Waltham; they put up $400 in prizes, which attracted over 200 entries, among them a liberal pick of Class A's best men; and yet the Plainfielders came not. There is plenty of wealth there and the bicycle proportion of the population is large, even in comparison with that of other cities, which would argue an inclination toward and a widespread interest in bicycling. All these considerations aside, I marvel at the lack of local pride in an enterprise which has attracted so much outside attention. Let the local papers, and through them the bicyclers, call the Plainfielders down for their lack of local pride, and let them know how outsiders regard their indifference. The track is a great advertisement to the town, and by bringing bicyclers to it, will show them its beauties and advantages as a place of residence."

Appreciate Their Kindness.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—Through the columns of your worthy paper, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker would gratefully return their thanks to their friends, and especially to the societies of Christian Endeavor and Sons of Veterans, and also to the quartette of singers, for their public expression of sympathy and kindness at the funeral of their deceased son.

ROBERT WALKER.
MRS. ROBERT WALKER.

Saved Mrs. Rennie's Life.

Mrs. Jennie Rennie of Virgil, N. Y., had been sick for a year or more with overflow of the gall and ulcers of the stomach. Her physician told her she could not live. Mrs. Rennie's mother had found such benefit from the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, that she persuaded her daughter to use it, which she did, with the result that it cured her of these diseases, and she says she was never as well as now.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Park Avenue Baptist Church has organized a quartette to lead the singing at their Friday night prayer meetings.

Frank Linbarger of Elizabeth was in Dunellen yesterday on business.

T. C. Morse of Jersey City visited William VanMiddlesworth yesterday.

Miss Flora Staub of New York is visiting Miss Alice Hullett of New Market.

Mrs. Jennings and family spent yesterday with Mrs. Barry of Grove street, Plainfield.

Mrs. Brady and her daughter Miss Laura of Plainfield called on Dunellen friends yesterday.

The future gives promise of being very lively in matters pertaining to law in New Market and vicinity.

The condition of John Donohue is reported as much worse today. He is gradually growing weaker.

Rev. Frank Hamm of Westfield will occupy the pulpit of the M. E. Church both morning and evening tomorrow.

Mr. Lyness and Mr. Woods of Jersey City, who are stopping at Elias Milliken's, enjoyed a spin yesterday by carriage and bicycle.

Mr. Winckler and daughters of North Plainfield spent yesterday afternoon pleasantly by driving through Dunellen and vicinity.

An attractive transparency has been erected in front of John Tingley's place of business, and when lighted it illuminates for a considerable distance around.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Brown of New Market have purchased a handsome new piano for their daughter Miss Nellie, and will surprise her on her return from Ocean Grove next week.

Mrs. Ransom of Astoria, L. I., who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Radford, Plainfield, accompanied by her friend Miss Mary Brown called on Mrs. S. P. Brown in New Market yesterday.

Rev. Mr. Stinson of Milwaukee, formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, is visiting friends in Dunellen. Tomorrow he preaches in the First Presbyterian Church of Plainfield, morning and evening.

The hours for keeping the polls open at the special school meeting September 4, in the New Market public school-house, have been changed from 7 to 8:30 to 3 to 8, so as to allow everybody in the district a chance to vote. In addition to the $1,000 asked for, $300 more is needed for extras. This will also be voted on.

It was intended by Justice Storms to conduct a hearing yesterday to prove the right of property in the case of Luckey against Evans, but this could not be done on account of the other pressing business of the Court. Mr. Luckey has, however, refused to make a settlement, and Constable George Huff will post the bills for the sale of goods, which will probably be next week.

John Runyon, an enthusiast on the water question, which the citizens of Dunellen are endeavoring to solve, measured the distance from town to the spring on the mountain, and found it to be 9,290 feet. He thinks it will be only a short time before a reservoir will be placed near the spring and an inexhaustible supply of pure water be furnished to Dunellen. The Borough Commissioners are warming up to the feasibility of the project.

Your correspondent had an interview with a prominent citizen in regard to the coming special school election which takes place Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 4, from 3 to 8, in the New Market public school. The fact that there was a probability of the $1,300 for school purposes being voted down brought out the discussion of the future of the schools. $1,000 was at first thought sufficient, but later it was found that an additional $300 was needed for incidentals. "If the amount is not voted for, what will be the outcome?" —was asked. "Well"—was the reply—"we have been told by the county superintendent of schools that if the amount is not granted we are to close the schools; at the same time it is understood we are to pay the teachers just the same. If we don't, it will cause several lawsuits which will be very expensive. But"—the speaker continued—"there is a possibility that the amount will be voted down, although we are hoping for the best, and if the citizens vote intelligently we will get the amount. Considerable dissatisfaction is being expressed over the new law, and the feeling against it does not seem to diminish, but on the contrary it increases." There is a chance of the State money being withheld in case the money is voted down. This will make things exceedingly complicated, and the outcome is anxiously awaited.

The trouble which has been brewing between Wm. Gallagher and his son Michael for some time time past, came to a decisive point yesterday afternoon, when genuine fight was indulged in. It came about over the digging of potatoes by the father on property alleged to belong to the son. The son became very angry, and went for his father in earnest. The result was that the son got the worst of it, and, being enraged, started off to have his father arrested, which he did, Constable Warden taking him before Justice Storms in New Market. Michael was represented by Judge W. A. Coddington, and the father by Harry Morrell, both of Plainfield. It has been a long time since so much excitement has been furnished the quiet-loving people of New Market. Women and children turned out to see the proceedings, and a most lively scene ensued. It was impossible to restore quiet, as everybody wanted to talk at once. Judge Coddington managed to get in a few words, and told Wm. Gallagher that he must keep off the property. He also told Michael that if he found his father on the place, to throw him off, whereupon Mr. Morrell told William that he knew what to do, and that was to pick his son up and fire him out. After much effort the father was put under bonds to keep the peace, Videll Fyquott going his bail. In the meantime Constable George Huff held a warrant for the arrest of Michael Gallagher, which charged him with forgery to the amount of $46. Michael pleaded not guilty. He will be given a hearing next week.

READY FOR THE REVIEW.

Trinity and St. John's Commanderies Have a Preparatory Drill.

Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, of Plainfield, visited Elizabeth Thursday night as guests of St. John's Commandery, and the organization had a drill preparatory for the trip to Asbury Park next Wednesday, on the occasion of the field day and review. Trinity Commandery unites with St. John's in the excursion on that day, and the promises are that it will be a successful and pleasurable event. The commanderies will give a short parade and drill on Broad street, Elizabeth, on the morning before the departure of the trains.

Sewell Praises Plainfield Players.

General Sewell, who was a spectator of the recent parade of the J. O. U. A. M., in Asbury Park, was especially interested in the excellent playing of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps of this city and complimented them highly. A few days ago Charles M. Ulrich received a letter from the General, who inquired about the corps, and wanted to know if they would be in Washington next week with the Knights of Pythias. Through an unfortunate misunderstanding, the corps will not be present, and a corps from Brooklyn will accompany the local Knights.

—The boys of Westervelt avenue over the brook had a feast this afternoon. A huckster drove by, and baskets of peaches in the rear of his wagon upset and the peaches scattered all over the street. They were scooped before he noticed his loss.

Mrs. Mary A. Tupper has been released, at Wilton, Me., from the custody of extreme Female Weakness, which kept her a prisoner in bed unable to walk. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made the change. She advises all sick women to take this valuable medicine, and be thankful for their lives, as she is for hers. It costs only a dollar at any druggists, and the result is worth millions.

GREAT BANKRUPT SALE

$30,000 WORTH OF FINE

Men's Boy's and Children's

CLOTHING

At Love's Building, West Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

One of the largest New York clothing house has failed and this immense stock has been brought here to be sold at retail and turned into cash at once to satisfy creditors. The immense store next to Randolph's City Drug Store, opp. White's Dry Goods and Housefurnishing Store has been rented for this occasion.

This Sale is Now in Progress.

Rain or shine. Remember this elegant stock of fine clothing must be sacrificed at enormous loss.

Everything at 50c. on the Dollar.

Bring this adv with you and convince yourself that what we advertise are all facts. We will rush them off in one great sweeping sacrifice. Read this carefully and remember this is no humbug. The stock is just from the tailor's hands, all new and desirable, expressly made for the coming season, and the only reason that it is offered at such great sacrifice is because we must have the money at once. Read the following and remember we only mention a few of our bargains. We have better bargains on our counters than in this ad. Read the wonder.

SUITS.

Men's good desirable suits for $3 75, worth $8. With each of these suits we give a written guarantee that you may keep them a whole week at your home and if you find out that this suit is not worth $8, we will give you the money back.

Elegant Cassimere Suits in sack and cutaways, well worth $10. During this sale you can have them for $4 75. Nobby Dress Suits for young men, $7 75, worth $15. These suits are all fine all-wool cloth, made for this year's wear, and will make a handsome Sunday suit. Remember our price is only $7 75. We also have about 200 suits in black worsted and fancy cassimeres each of them warranted "tailor made", and have the tailor's trade mark on them. Each of these suits is actually a bargain at $20, but we will sell them for $9 50.

Our Greatest Offer.

Custom made suits that cost from $25 to $30 for only $13 75. If you wish to have a finger in the pie just pay attention to this grand offer. These suits are "order" made, all from imported cloth. They are made in Prince Albert style, 3-button cutaways and sacks. The materials used in these garments are actually the very finest, and they are made by the celebrated French artist tailor, Prof. Dessar, on Broadway, N. Y., and these we sell you for $13 75. This is the greatest bargain we have in the store; be sure and don't miss it.

Youth's Clothing.

Good suits for young men for $2 75, worth $5; elegant business suits $4 95, marked down from $10; fine Sunday suits $6 85, well worth $13.

WE HAVE NO DAMAGED GOODS, no fire stock or shopworn trash, but everything is new and desirable, and made in first class fashion for the best retail price. We must have money, and must, therefore, turn our stock into cash at once. Here is a chance you seldom get.

PANTS.

Don't buy any overalls. We will sell you nice pants for 75c; fine business pants for $1 25, $1 50, $1 75, $2 and $2 50. We have the finest line of tailor-made Dress Pants, price $2 75, $3, $3 50 and $4. Each pair of these pants are tailor-made and worth double the money we ask for them. Children's knee pants 19c a pair, Overcoats for Spring, Fall or Winter, for men, boys and children, and many other bargains that we cannot mention here. Come at once, don't wait. Remember such a sale has not been heard of in the history of Plainfield, and will never occur again. Be sure you come and see the goods whether you wish to buy them or not. It costs nothing to look.

Children's Clothing.

Our prices will bring splendid

SIGNALS FROM MARS.

PROF. WIGGINS' BOLD THEORY CONCERNING THE RED PLANET.

The People of Mars Said to Be Signalling to Those of the World. M. Flammarion's Intereresting Speculations.

Some recent disturbances on the planet Mars, have set Prof. Wiggins to theorizing, and he asserts that the people of Mars are trying to communicate with those of the world. The Professor's theory has attracted some attention and for several weeks the newspapers have been discussing it, usually with gay skepticism, but occasionally with simulated seriousness.

M. Flammarion, the distinguished French astronomer, is one man of standing who has seriously discussed the question, and finds it a fascinating one. Indeed, M. Flammarion and his French colleagues have a financial interest in discussing the subject because of the bequest of 100,000f. left to the person in the Institute of Paris who shall find means of communicating with a planet, and especially with the planet Mars.

M. Flammarion holds that the idea is less bold than the telephone or the phonograph, and in arguing out the question declares that it is by no means proved that Mars is not signalling to us. Thus calling on the other fellow who is sceptical to prove the negative, M. Flammarion, without attempting to prove the affirmative, proceeds to show how the earth might signal to Mars.

He thinks that if a triangle of luminous points were to be traced on a level plain—a triangle, let us say, of 100 miles on either side—reflected in the daytime by solar light and at night by electricity, it would probably be visible to the astronomers of Mars. Of course, Flammarion has to assume that there are astronomers on Mars who are interested in the earth. To more surely attract attention he would change the formation of this enormous electric light display, after a period, into a square, and then into a circle. He argues that if we saw first a huge triangle of light on the surface of our smaller cousin, and then a square and then a circle we should be satisfied that a geometrician lived on Mars, and that he suspected us of having a geometrician among us and desired to communicate with us.

M. Flammarion boldly expresses the opinion that Mars is much further in advance in astral life than we are. It is older, smaller and therefore more easily cooled, and while more distant from the sun and possessing a more severe climate than the earth, there is no reason why human life should not exist under much similar conditions prevailing here. He is not willing to go so far as the lawyer-astronomer of Denver, who declares that he knows that no man on Mars is less than seven feet tall or lives less than one hundred years, but he believes the chances are in favor of the planet being inhabited.

As to the possibilities of communication, M. Flammarion thinks it may be accomplished through interastral magnetism. He is led to entertain this expectation by the discoveries in this connection made by Edison in his Ogden (N. J.) mine. The inventor put in a telephone and presently heard sounds which could have arisen from nothing but terrestrial magnetism. At the same time solar disturbances were frequent and of great violence, and he did not hesitate to co-relate the two orders of facts. M. Flammarion says that every solar phenomenon has its counterpart in the manifestations of terrestrial magnetism, despite the great distance of the sun from the earth, and he thinks by this gate we may enter an avenue that if full of surprises—even to getting news from Mars.

SHORT NOTES AND PERSONALS.

Little Paragraphs That May Repay Reading.

The Princess of Wales is said to be ushering in an economic style by wearing two-button gloves again.

Friends of Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris are taking the trouble to deny that she is to be married to General Henry Kyd Douglass, a pleasant, elderly bachelor, who served in the Confederate army. General Douglass, who escorted Mrs. Sartoris North the other day, has his home in the mountains of Maryland, among which Mrs. Sartoris spent the summer, and was her constant attendant.

Frau Cosima Wagner, of Bayreuth, widow of the composer, is causing much comment by her growing eccentricities. She recently composed five poems in honor of her son Siegfried's five dogs. On Siegfried's birthday she gave a reception, and after the guests had assembled she called in the dogs and had her five poems recited and sung for their benefit.

KISSING THE BABY.

It is a Custom Which Ought to Be Violently Discouraged.

There is one respect, at least, in which democratic American mothers will do well to imitate royalty. That is the way in which indiscriminate caresses are forbidden the adoring circle of relatives to his little royal highness, the new baby of many names. No one but the queen and the Duchess of York are permitted to kiss him.

That is a most wise rule. A baby is something more than a flower to be passed from hand to hand, or a peach to be bitten. It is a nervous little organism, more liable to disorders of all sorts than older people. And yet it is much to be doubted whether Corbett himself could stand the treatment bestowed upon a helpless infant. It is tossed and cuddled and kissed. No one ever waits to learn whether it is in a mood for caresses. No one ever imagines that it would be better content with less demonstrative affection. It is half smothered beneath kisses. It is rendered breathless, feverish and nervous by the treatment it receives. And the mother who permits such things wonders that the baby cries so much "for nothing."

MAN IS SOMETIMES USEFUL.

An Independent Woman Can't Always Get Along By Herself.

"That woman, no matter how clever and independent, find herself at times unable to get along without man's assistance was illustrated at the waiting room of the New York Central Railroad the other morning," said a commuter. "Two Sisters of Charity were waiting for the 9:40 train, and four others had come down to see them off. The travelers had a lot of packages beside their satchels, and they found it impossible to manage them all. The bundles would slip and the satchels would knock against people, and prove stumbling blocks for the feet of the unwary. The womanly fear that the train would get away without them increased their agitation.

"At the critical moment a male acquaintance came in to see them off. In less than a minute the women's despair had vanished. He quickly settled all doubts about the train, procured some string and fastened the small bundles together, stowed everything out of everybody's way, and talked the troubled nuns into a state of composure. He took their tickets, and when the guard at the door announced the train, he grabbed the bundles and valises, hustled the nuns through the gate, and secured good seats on the shady side of the newest and best ventilated car. No wonder that they heaved a sigh of relief and thanked him with every evidence of gratitude. Yet the women who are vowed to a life of single blessedness surely ought to be able to be independent of masculine assistance, if any woman can be. The moral is plain, isn't it?"—N. Y. Sun.

CHARMING BUT COSTLY.

Tea Gowns Are Rather Expensive Luxuries This Year.

The ideal summer tea gown is only for the woman of wealth. It is a graceful robe, made of diaphanous materials, which cost about $2 a yard and are always accordion plaited, which means that double the amount of material is required.

A tea gown from Worth has the entire front made of accordion-plaited pale blue chiffon, crossed here and there with yellow twisted lace insertion. White mousseline de soie, embroidered in pale blue discs, forms the sides and demi-train of of the gown. It is made over a foundation of pale blue silk, which gives to the mousseline de soie an exquisitiely delicate tint.

Revers of accordion plaiting edged with the lace insertion fall over the puffed sleeves like epaulets. White moire ribbons confine the tea gown slightly at the waist.

The woman who cannot afford to have a whole gown of chiffon or mousseline de soie can still use this effective design, developing it in materials which are sheer in quality but inexpensive.

THOSE TERRIBLE WRINKLES.

Some Plans for Making the Face Smooth and Beautiful.

A writer on the subject of face beautifying says:

Actresses and others whose duty it is to keep lovely, keep among their most valued possessions a piece of the unwashed fleece of a lamb. With this they "rub the affected parts," as the patent medicine advertisements say, and soon they discover that the oil of wool has so softened the skin as to make it show an "unwrinkled front," and to present to the touch the smoothness of a dewy rose leaf. This secret of the green-room was imparted by one to whom all green-room secrets are as if written in an open book, and it is a guard against the hand of time which it has not been given to the public to know before. A remedy well worth trying. Ask your butcher to get you a piece of the fleece and use it freely night at night when you are preparing for bed.

An excellent thing is to dust the face while wet with fine borax and let it dry. This refines the skin and stimulates fresh growth, besides bleaching it. The powder should not be washed off, but brushed off. This, too, is a remedy for wrinkles. A paste of borax and glycerine has a wonderful effect in softening the skin.

There is another defect which is a terrible affliction to the woman whose feet are standing just where youth and age meet, and that is the drooping of the cheeks below the line of the chin. To somewhat remedy this, an authority says that the face should be bathed in salt water, and then have the deep lines of the face rubbed with thick cream and rose water, care being taken not to touch any other part of the face.

Marshmallow paste put on at night, 'tis said, will do away with wrinkles and restore one's youth, while lint dipped in hot milk and laid on the face and neck for ten minutes will soften the skin and make it fresh and beautiful.

The First "Blue Ribbon."

Although Mme. du Barry loved rose pink, she wore the first cordon bleu, a title that has been used ever since to signify a skilled cook. The dishes she prepared for Louis XV. so delighted the palate and eye of that imperial epicure that he conferred upon her the "cordon bleu."

MEN OF IMPORTANCE.

THE YEAR 1809 FAMOUS FOR THE NUMBER OF GREAT MEN.

Lincoln, Darwin, Gladstone and Tennyson were Born that Year. Greeley's Impetuosity and the Little it Impressed His Associates.

The year 1809 was fruitful of great men. It was the year of Lincoln's birth, of Darwin's, of Gladstone's, of Tennyson's. Here we have the century's greatest man of science, two of its greatest statesmen, and of poets, born since its beginning, the most representative if not the greatest that it has to show of English-speaking men. His claim to be the greatest only Browning can dispute, in virtue of his intellectual force, his dramatic energy, and his lyric fire, and it may well be doubted whether, with these advantages, he overtops the Laureate, to whom must be allowed a range of faculty, a perfection of form, a felicity of phrase, a sustained nobility of thought, a breadth of sympathy, a speaking from and to the heart of his own time, and a chastened passion of worship for all grand and lovely things, which in their aggregation and consent constituted a poet of whom "the spacious times" of good Victoria might well be proud. To have had at once a Tennyson and a Browning has been a piece of singular good fortune. The conjunction of these two, the former so devoutly classical, the latter of romanticism all compact, offers to M. Taine a very interesting comment on his method of accounting for all literary products by the country and the immediate environment. That the comment is so unfavorable is perhaps the reason why M. Taine does not so much as mention Browning in his "History of English Literature."

A STORY OF GREELEY.

A Discharged Editor who Placed no Confidence in His Dismissal.

The Chicago Newspaper Union publishes an article containing a considerable variety of misinformation concerning Mr. Donald C. Henderson, the experienced editor of the Allegan Record, a valuable Republican journal of Michigan. Mr. Henderson has been an editor forty or fifty years, and was for several years employed on the New York Tribune, where he was the only man who could approach Mr. Greeley in the management and understanding of election statistics. Generally the chief was not too hard on him, but there is one story which our Chicago contemporary does not tell.

Mr. Greeley came in one day in a discontented mind, and, meeting Henderson near the door, he said to him, as he held out an unsatisfactory column of election figures: "Henderson, you did this?" "Yes, sir," answered the young man modestly. "Well, then," continued the great Horace, "go away from here! I discharge you! I dismiss you! I don't want to see you here any more! Go away!"

Dr. Ripley, who had come in during this conversation, supposed, of course, that Henderson would obey the order and depart; but he found him at work there next morning as tranquil as a summer sky. "Why, Henderson," said he, "are you here? Didn't Mr. Greeley dismiss you yesterday?" "Yes, sir," replied the young man; "but I didn't place confidence in what he said." And for several years afterward he continued to labor in the editorial department of the Tribune.—N. Y. Sun.

BRET HARTE'S GOOD JOKE.

He Fooled His Friend Labouchere, Who Refused His Poem.

His most famous London joke made a victim of a celebrated man. Dressing himself in the threadbare, frayed, fringed and faded garments which would quite likely be worn by a cross between a Bohemian journalist and a tramp, Bret Harte visited the office of Labouchere's Truth and asked to see the eminent journalist. He was ushered into the holy of holies, the inner office of the newspaporial M. P., and told him that he had a poem which he would be pleased to sell, and asked Mr. Labouchere to look it over. But the famous lance-hurler of the London press at first refused to glance at the offering, but upon Harte's earnestly pleading his immediate need of money Mr. Labouchere hastily examined the production. Then he returned it with the remark:

"I cannot use this trash."

"But, my God!" exclaimed Harte, "I'm starving!"

"What do you want for it?" inquired Labouchere.

"Is it worth a pound?" said Harte, with an expression indicating that his heart was crawling up in the vicinity of his larynx.

"Want a pound! It is not worth the paper it is written on," raged Labouchere. "If you want charity I can give you a few shillings, but it would only be accompanied by advice to the effect that a strong, able-bodied man like you can make more money and give less cause of offence by seeking employment at hop-picking or shipping before the mast instead of attempting to worm your way into journalism. Why did you not join the expedition for the relief of Gen. Gordon? Who are you, anyway?"

"Bret Harte," was the answer, as the major portion of the disguise was removed, and the astonished Labouchere beheld a club companion whom he had known for years. The poem, however, will soon be published to the world, and it is one of Harte's greatest efforts. But its introduction to the great world will not be through the columns of London Truth.—Washington Post.

The Stone Over Emerson's Grave.

After having been for many years marked by only a huge bowlder of uninscribed granite, the grave of Emerson has been decorated by a bronze tablet. This is fastened in the stone, and bears the following inscription:

RALPH WALDO EMERSON,
Born in Boston, May 3, 1803,
Died in Concord, April 27, 1881.
"The passive master that lent his hand
To the vast soul that o'er him planned."

The quotation is from Emersons' poem, "The Problem." All the chippings made when the stone was cut to accommodate the plate were taken away, to keep them from falling into the hands of curiosity seekers. They will be presented as souvenirs to a favored few. The philosopher's grave is in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery.

Do not force into your conversation the names of the noted personages you may have chanced to meet.

THIS MODEL WASN'T TIRED.

She Had an Extremely Trying Pose, But it Didn't Matter.

Good artist models are unusually plentiful this summer, and the studios of the better-known painters are flooded with applicants who want to pose. A majority of these are not professional models, but theatrical people, who, being stranded in the city for the season, which is an unprecedented one in theatrical annals for dullness, and being short of money are very glad to pick up a few dollars in the studio.

The most remarkable thing about these theatrical posers is the ease with which they assume difficult attitudes and the patience with which they preserve them. A well-known painter recently employed a young woman who has been a variety actress since her early childhood to pose for him, and "set" the model in an extremely difficult position. He made things as easy as possible for her by arranging a rest for her head, and every few moments he would stop and tell her she could rest. To this the invariable response would be:

"Oh, I'm not tired. Go right ahead. Never mind me."

He would insist, however, on her resting. One day, determined to test her endurance, he painted steadily for nearly half an hour, purposely omitting to offer her a chance to rest, and presently, in his interest in the work, forgot all about the possible discomfort of the girl. When he finally did think of her, it was with a start of self-condemnation, as he saw by his watch that the patient model had held that trying pose for more than an hour.

"I'm through for to-day, Stella," he said to her. "I forgot all about you. You must be awfully cramped."

No answer or movement from the model.

"By Jove! She must have fainted," said the painter. "What a careless beast I am."

He went over and lifted the girl, who stirred, looked around in a puzzled way, stretched herself, and said:

"What? What time is it? Did you call me? Oh, I guess I must have fallen asleep."

"How on earth came you asleep all twisted awry like that?" inquired the amazed artist.

"That's nothing," returned Stella, smiling, "I did a contortion act for three years, and that pose is a soft thing for me."—N. Y. Sun.

LIGHTHOUSES ARE ANCIENT.

Virgil Tells of Apollo's Temple Light Guiding Sailors. Other Old Beacons.

Beacon lights to guide the wave-tossed mariner to a safe harbor must have been almost coeval with the earliest commerce. There is positive record that lighthouses were built in ancient times, though few evidences now remain to us from old writers or in crumbled ruins. This is not strange, for light towers, never the most stable architectural form, were exposed to the storms of sea and war.

The Greeks attributed the first lighthouses to Hercules, and he was considered the protector of voyagers. It is claimed by some that Homer refers to lighthouses in the XIX. book of the Iliad.

Virgil mentions a light on a temple to Apollo, which, visible far out at sea, warned and guided mariners. The Colossus at Rhodes, erected about 300 B.C., is said to have shown a signal light from its uplifted hand.

The oldest towers known were built by the Libyans in lower Egypt. They were temples also, and the lightkeeper priests taught pilotage, hydrography and navigation. The famous tower on the Isle of Pharos, at Alexandria, built about 285 B.C., is the first lighthouse of undoubted record. This tower, constructed by Sostratus, the architect, was square in plan, of great height and built in offsets. An open brazier at the top of the tower contained the fuel for the light. At Dover and Boulogne, on either side of the English Channel, were ancient lighthouses, built by the Romans. But the lighthouse at Corunna, Spain, built in the reign of Trajan, and reconstructed in 1684, is believed to be the oldest existing lighthouse.—E. P. Adams, in Cassier's Magazine.

LI HUNG CHANG'S MISFORTUNES.

Encountered the Emperor's Displeasure, and the Loss of his Rifle Factory.

Li Hung Chang, the Chinese Viceroy, whom General Grant characterized as one of the four great statesmen of the Eastern continent whom he met in his trip abroad, experienced peculiar afflictions at the beginning of the war between China and Japan. Chang is an all-around statesman, and was supposed, from this remote point of observation, to embrace about all the knowledge and power possessed in the flowery kingdom. It seems, however, that in the beginning of the present unpleasantness, Japan caught the Chinese army napping, and proceeded to score a victory. For the remissness on the part of the Viceroy-General the Emperor deprived him of the yellow jacket, which garment carries with it a vast amount of Chinese glory, and which is bestowed only in recognition of services of a high and lofty character. It is said that the Emperor's object in treating the Viceroy as he did was not to disgrace him in the eyes of the world, but simply to reprove him for his dilatoriness. The rebuke merely signifies that the war is to be prosecuted in earnest, and that the Viceroy will be held primarily answerable for the issue.

To add to his troubles his large rifle factory, the only one in China, was destroyed. The Viceroy had been working on this factory for several years, and he expected it to demonstrate that Chinese workmen could turn out as good guns as foreigners. He also expected to fill large orders for the Government to supply troops for Corea.

Great Alteration Sale!

We are now making extensive alterations in our building, and it will be finished about Sept. 15. We will then have 3 floors of 6,500 square feet of space to display the finest line of Dry Goods, Cloaks, Gent's Furnishings, and House Furnishing Goods ever brought to Plainfield, and ours will be one of the handsomest stores in the city.

To make room for our Immense Fall Stock, we are closing out our entire stock at surprisingly low prices. Every article in our store from a pin to a fine Brussels Carpet has been marked down. This is no catch penny sale, but a real fact, and only one way to be convinced is to price our goods before purchasing elsewhere; you can save money by buying from us.

We mention only a few articles that we are closing out at such low prices:—15 dozed ladies' chemisettes in all colors and sizes at 8c, sold elsewhere at 25c; 500 more of those fine Brussels mats at 23c, cheap at 50c; 25 dozen napkins at 5c; this is less than manufacturer's prices; 30 dozen fine linen towels, 50 inches long, closing out price 23c, worth 35c. We are displaying the finest line of table cloths in the city, from 49c up.

If you are in need of Housefurnishing Goods it will pay you to wait until we have placed in our stock. We are positive we can save you money.

Fanwood Township Ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the removing and trimming of trees standing upon or in the side lines of the sidewalks within the Township of Fanwood.

The Inhabitants of the Township of Fanwood by their Township Committee do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That all trees standing on the inner or outer side lines of any of the sidewalks within said Township of Fanwood, which said trees, or the branches thereof, shall in anyway interfere with or obstruct the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks or the approaches thereto, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the approach of vehicles to said sidewalks, or any of them, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the light from the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks, or any of them, shall be so trimmed by the owner or owners of the lands adjacent to the sidewalks upon which said trees may be standing, within twenty days after the passage of this ordinance, as not to permit of any obstruction to the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks, or the approaches thereto, or any obstruction to the approach of vehicles thereto from the public roads or streets, or permit the obstruction of the light or lights from any of the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted that said trees shall be trimmed as referred to in the preceding section by the persons and in the manner therein mentioned, under the direction of the chairman of the Township Committee of said Township of Fanwood, or such other person or persons as said Township Committee may designate or appoint.

Sec. 3. And be it enacted that if any person or persons owning the lands lying adjacent to the sidewalks within said township aforesaid shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance, said person or persons so offending shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Passed Aug., 21, 1892.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

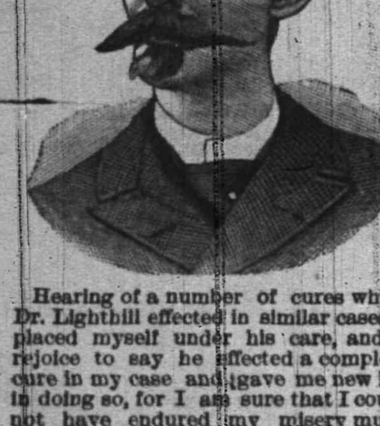
A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.



Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT, 304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

can be consulted daily (except Thursdays) on all CHRONIC, OBSTINATE AND COMPLICATED diseases of the human system of whatever name and nature, at his office and residence,

PYTHIANS IN SESSION

Meeting of the Supreme Lodge in Washington.

Business Houses Along the Line of March Decorated With Bunting and Pythian Symbols—Prize Drills an Interesting Feature—1700 Tents Erected to Shelter the Visitors.

Washington, Aug. 27.—To-day witnessed the beginning of another of those great gatherings for which this city has become notable in recent years. Its nucleus will be the annual meeting of the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias which, while of great interest to the members of that order, will not have that general attractiveness of its auxilliary, the assemblage of thousands of knights of the Uniformed Rank.

Stands for spectators have been erected at principal points, and nearly every business place along the line of march is decorated with bunting and Pythian symbols. Over on the grounds of the Washington monument is located Camp George Washington, where 1,700 tents have been erected for the shelter of the visiting commands.

It is impossible to give a correct estimate of the number of knights who will attend the encampment, but the officers admit that the attendance has fallen far below expectations. The failure of the railroad companies to make cut rates to Washington is given as the principal reason for the small contingent of Pythians from abroad. The number of visitors is also much smaller than the estimates made.

Services were conducted at the Foundry Methodist church yesterday by Rev. Mr. Sanderson, chaplain of the supreme lodge, for the benefit of the visitors, but the encampment proper will not open until to-night.

The opening ceremonies will consist of a reception to officers and representatives of the supreme lodge, tendered by the citizen's committee. This will be held in the spacious convention hall, which will hold 10,000 people. Vice-President Stevenson and District Commissioner Ross will make addresses of welcome, and music will be furnished by the Marine band.

Business will begin to-morrow with the meeting of the supreme lodge in Builders' Exchange hall at 10 o'clock, and continuous sessions will be held from day to day until the business of the lodge is completed. To-morrow afternoon the great parade of the Uniform rank will take place and President Cleveland will review the marchers, as will also General Schofield and the officers of the supreme lodge.

Wednesday will be the most interesting day of all from a popular point of view, for it marks the beginning of the prize drills between the crack organizations of the order. The drills will be held on the grounds of the Washington baseball club, and will be continued through until September 1, when the prizes will be awarded.

Wednesday evening there will be a grand illumination parade, and a cavalry prize drill at Fort Myer will be the feature of one of the remaining days.

A large number of commands will contest for the drill prizes. Some of those intending to participate have not been formally entered yet, but the list will practically be completed by to-morrow morning.

BUSINESS RESUMPTIONS.

Indications of a Prosperous Winter at Troy, N. Y.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The mammoth plants of the Burden Iron company and the Albany Iron works, in South Troy, resumed operations this morning. For several months these works have been practically idle, and the hundreds of employes were forced to seek other employment.

At the Albany Iron works seven double furnaces were lighted and 175 workmen called in.

With the Burden and Albany Iron works in operation the business of the collar and shirt factories rapidly increasing, and a fair prospect of a renewel of activity at the steel works in the near future, the indications for a prosperous winter at Troy are favorable.

Only Advertising Himself.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 27.—Judge Cooley, who returned home from the American Bar association meeting at Saratoga, says in reference to Gov. Altgeld's recent strictures. "Let him talk. He only advertises himself, and I do not care to assist him in his efforts. I do not care whether people talk about me or not."

For Uttering Worthless Checks.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 27.—Shortly before midnight Detective Parker arrested John D. Borden, who is wanted all over the state for uttering worthless checks. When searched checks in blank and checks made out were found in his pockets.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

August Miller Arrested and Lodged in Jail.

His Victim Took an Active Part in the Silk Dyers' Strike and Is Supposed to Have Divulged Secrets of the Union—Anarchists Planned His Death, It Is Believed.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 27.—August Miller, a leader in the recent strike of the silk dyers here, has been arrested and committed to the county jail, charged with having murdered Max Ohlenschlaeger at Allendale, Bergen county, on the night of May 28.

The murdered man also took an active part at the meetings and processions of the strikers. Towards the end of the labor troubles Ohlenschlaeger was suspected of being in league with the bosses and reporting the proceedings of the meetings to the president of the Jacob Weidman Silk Dyeing company.

He was selected by his associates to collect money for the strikers, and on the morning after starting on his mission his dead body was found near the Erie railroad. It is believed that his death was planned by the anarchists, and Prosecutor Gourley is in possession of evidence to couple Miller with the crime.

August Moeller, one of Miller's four accusers, alleges that the prisoner had on one occasion said to him that it was time to get Otto Van Hagen out of the way. A few days later Van Hagen was found lying on the sidewalk with a fractured skull. He died a few days later.

The murdered man boarded with Miller at No. 222 River street, in this city.

UNDER THE BAN OF THE ARMY.

Shells Found to Be Dangerous Ordered Out of Service.

New York, Aug. 27.—A special from Chicago says: The explosions of caissons in the batteries under Major Randolph, now manoeuvering at Evanston, have been discovered to be directly due to a device which forms a part of the equipment of schrapnel shells. This device, faulty in construction, and therefore more dangerous to friends than to foe, is to-day under the ban of the army, and it has been ordered out of service.

This will render the shells perhaps as useless as so much scrap-iron, and it will become necessary to adopt some other invention for exploding missiles. This is the conclusion reached by the experts detailed by the government to examine into the matter. It is the basis of the report of Colonel Williston, inspector of the department of Missouri, concurred in by General Miles and Captain Rogers Birnie, in command of the artillery now here.

General Miles goes further and says the carriages of every caisson in the army are a century behind the times, and submits plans and drawings for a style comprehending new lines.

OFFICERS TO BE BEHEADED.

China Will Make Reparation for Recent Outrages on Missionaries.

London, Aug. 27.—A dispatch from Tein-Tsin to the Times says:

"An imperial edict, which has just appeared, condemns the officers responsible for the recent outrages on missionaries and orders that they be beheaded.

"The actual criminals are rebuilding the chapels, and liberal compensation will be given to the relatives of the victims. Li Hung Chang has expressed regret to the British minister."

It is reported in Yokohoma that fifty Japanese camphor makers in Formosa have been massacred.

Formally Praised; Then Censured.

London, Aug. 27.—One hundred and five firms who had exhibits at the world's fair in Chicago have sent to Home Secretary Asquith a memorial expressing their sense of obligation to the British commissioners.

After formally thanking the commissioners the exhibitors criticise it severely. They regretted greatly, they said, that the commissioners were not in close touch with the exhibitors. Although £14,000 had been expended on the commission's headquarters they were of no practical use. Only £3,000 had been expended on decorations of the British section and the British exhibitors, compared with those of other nations, had suffered a serious disadvantage in consequence, most noticeably in the manufacturers' building.

Throws Down the Gauntlet.

New York, Aug. 27.—Robert Peel, son of Sir Robert Peel and grandson of the famous old English statesman, Sir Robert Peel, has thrown down the gauntlet in behalf of Miss Kittie Sanford, of Bridgeport, Conn., a pretty American girl, daughter of Professor Samuel Sanford and granddaughter of Henry Sanford, president of the Adams Express company, declaring that he came to America to win the girl he loved, and that the marriage would take place in spite of all opposition on the part of Miss Sanford's grandfather.

Earthquake in Greece.

Athens, Aug. 27.—An earthquake shook Corinth, Chalus, Zante and Atalanta yesterday morning. It was not very violent, but is set the inhabitants of the four districts in a state of panic, as a repetition of the severe shocks felt early in the year was feared generally. The pople fled to the fields, where many of them remained over night. The damage to property was slight and as far as is known nobody was killed.

Both Legs Almost Severed.

Providence, Aug. 27.—Martin Flaherty, a brakeman on the Consolidated road, lost his life in a shocking manner at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. He was climbing upon a freight car, when he slipped and fell under the moving train. Both legs were almost severed from his body. He was twenty-two years old and lived at No. 216 South Wyoming street, Scranton, Pa.

MR. MORTON'S STATEMENT.

Will Give the Gubernatorial Question Serious Consideration.

New York, Aug. 27.—Among the prominent passengers who arrived yesterday on the steamer La Normandie was the Hon. Levi P. Morton. To a number of newspaper men who sought an interview with Mr. Morton on board the steamer he gave out the following statement:

"In reply to your questions I can only say that, although I have no desire to re-enter public life, I have received as many letters from personal and political friends in different parts of the state urging me to allow the use of my name as a candidate for the governorship, that now that I am at home I shall feel it due to them and to the republican party, which has so highly honored me in the past, to give the question serious consideration."

Further than this Mr. Morton would make no statement. He said that his health was excellent and that he enjoyed his trip very much.

Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, was also a passenger on the La Normandie.

KOMATZU AT CHICAGO.

The Japanese Prince Hurrying to His Native Land.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Prince Toriheto Komatzu, first cousin of the Mikado of Japan, admiral in the Japanese navy, travelling incognito as Count Mishina, arrived in Chicago Saturday night from the east on his way to his native land, via San Francisco, for which city he left last evening. The prince and his travelling companion, Lieutenant Nagasaki, of the mikado's navy, were met at the Michigan Central depot on their arrival by a party of Japanese living in Chicago, and escorted to the Palmer house, where a suite of rooms were engaged. The prince said through his chamberlain that he was greatly pleased to note the friendly feeling evinced by the American press and people toward Japan in regard to the war with China.

The prince was here during the world's fair on his trip around the world.

MARRIED A MULATTO.

A Methodist Preacher of Fostoria, O., Creates Quite a Sensation.

Fostoria, O., Aug. 27.—A decided sensation was created here by the marriage on Saturday of the Rev. Mr. Thompson, of the Methodist church of this city, to Miss Libbie Hawk, who is a mulatto. She is an attractive young woman, well educated, refined, and a great church worker. She was a member of the Rev. Mr. Thompson's congregation, and for the last five months he has been paying her marked attention. His congregation remonstrated vigorously and finally, a few weeks ago, he was given an indefinite leave of absence and the church was closed.

MR. NEWTON EXONERATED.

Reports of His Expulsion Came From Unfriendly Sources.

Greenfield, Mass., Aug. 27.—S. S. Newton, master of the local lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, recently reported suspended because of non-payment of dues, is still a member of the order. He has receipts in full for his dues, and, in addition, a letter from headquarters which entirely exonerates him from any blame for giving to the press the orders relative to the expulsion of all members who had in any way taken part in the western strike. The report of Mr. Newton's expulsion undoubtedly came from some one unfriendly to him.

Efforts will be made to ascertain who started the rumors of suspension.

PETER DE CAMP DEAD.

He Ran the First Locomotive on the Jersey Central Road in '27.

Elizabeth, N. J., Aug. 27.—Peter De Camp, aged 85, died at Elizabethport last evening. He ran the first locomotive on the Central railroad of New Jersey in 1827, when the road ran from Elizabethport to Somerville.

He has been in the employ of the road since as engineer, and in late years as storekeeper.

Mowbray Steals Away.

New York, Aug. 27.—The fact has just leaked out that Charles Wilfred Mowbray, the English anarchist, made a hurried and quiet exit from this country last Wednesday. He sailed under an assumed name in the steerage of the White Star steamer Tuetonic. The John Most faction of the Reds claim that Mowbray has gone home disgruntled and discouraged, while others say that he intends to return in November.

Bicycle Races Abroad.

Paris, Aug. 27.—The bicycle race from Paris to Denant, Belgium, was won by Andre, who covered the distance in 13 hours and 13 minutes. Waller, who was second, covered the distance in 13 hours and 25 minutes. At the Velodrome de la Seine Mercier won the five kilometre race for the professional championship. A. A. Zimmerman won the 2,000 metre race easily by a length. Banker was second and Barden was but a length behind him.

FIFTY PERSONS HURT.

Serious Trolley Car Accident Near Orange, N. J.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 27.—A serious trolley car accident occurred about 7 o'clock last evening on the Suburban Traction company's new line between Orange and Eagle Rock, in which fifty persons were more or less seriously injured.

The car, which contained about eighty people, while descending a steep grade on the side of the mountain, just east of Mountain avenue, became unmanageable and dashed into a curve at a terrific rate of speed, breaking the flange of one of the wheels in front of the car.

The car left the track and capsized down a slight embankment.

Broken glass flew in all directions and the excited occupants were thrown into a confused mass. Order was restored finally and the injured were removed in ambulances to the Memorial hospital. The following are the names of the more seriously injured:

John Loyd, aged four years, had his arm crushed completely off at the elbow, making amputation necessary.

Mrs. Frank Davis, of Bloomfield, arm broken and head injured.

Willie Coyle, aged six years, of Orange, three ribs broken and it is feared that he will die.

Many persons who were injured by the overturning of the car or by the flying glass had their wounds dressed at the hospital and went their way, leaving no names.

PANIC AMONG BATHERS.

William Carr Instantly Killed By a Stroke of Lightning.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 27.—William Carr, aged about twenty years, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by a bolt of lightning while in bathing with two young ladies. He had just entered the surf and had but risen from a dive beneath a breaker when a flash came—the first intimation of a storm—and the bolt struck him a fatal shock. His companions, the Misses Farnum, were within ten feet of him when the bolt descended. They suffered a severe electrical shock, and were prostrated at the sight of their companion's lifeless body.

There were hundreds of people in the surf nearby, and thousands on the strand and beach who saw the fatal flash and the mark it struck. There was an instant panic among the bathers, who felt more or less the radiating shock, and they hurried out on to the strand as if fearful of another visitation of the destroying element.

Although restoratives were instantly applied, young Carr could not be revived. His death is said to be the first by lightning ever occurring at this resort.

MATTERS GROWING WORSE.

Political Troubles in the Choctaw Nation Becoming Serious.

Paris, Tex., Aug. 27.—Deputy Harper arrived here last night from the Indian Territory with Barton Jones, Lew Wesley and Stoick Emer, charged with the murder of Eli Baldwin on the night of Aug. 21. He has writs for others, but could not find them.

All reports from the seat of the trouble in the Choctaw nation show matters are growing worse.

At the late election in Cedar county Jackson Billy and Albert Jackson were opposing candidates. Billy received a jmaority, but the vote of the county was thrown out on account of irregularities. This left it to the next governor, who will be Jefferson Gardner, to make the appointments. George Davenport, a friend of Albert Jackson, was a candidate for county judge. It is thought Davenport has been killed.

A person who left the Sulphur Springs court ground yesterday says there are twenty men in chains being treated in the most cruel manner. More arrests will be made by the federal authorities.

OCEAN GROVE CAMP MEETING.

Yesterday the Greatest Day in the History of the Place.

Ocean Grove, Aug. 27.—Six days of the national camp-meeting passed by and yesterday was celebrated the biggest camp-meeting ever known in the history of this place. It was termed the "red-letter day."

The railroads ran excursions from different parts of the country and hundreds were thereby permitted to attend the day's meetings and hear distinguished speakers, who could not otherwise come to the grove to stay.

The attendance was larger than ever before, and it was the grandest camp-meeting Sunday in the annals of the association.

Anywhere from forty to sixty thousand people attended the various services at this, the City of Churches.

A large crowd gathered at the 9 o'clock meetings and shouts of "hallelujah" and "glory to God" were heard in the chapel and tabernacle, while many were being brought into the light and led to a higher Christian life.

Sorrento's Distinguished Guests.

Sorrento, Me., Aug. 27.—Vice-President Stevenson is expected to arrive here on Wednesday. He will join his family, who, with a party, including Chief Justice Fuller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer and Colonel and Mrs. Fred Grant, will go to Bangor to attend the Eastern Maine state fair, returning here by special train on Wednesday evening.

Charleston Sails for China.

Vallejo, Cal., Aug. 27.—The United States steamer Charleston sailed for China via Honolulu at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The Philadelphia docks in a day or two. The Bennington is now being fumigated. Several of the crew have been allowed their liberty and there is evidently no serious malady aboard.

GORMAN NEEDS REST

His Health in a Very Precarious State.

Advised by His Physician To Leave for Europe at the Earliest Possible Day—His Family Have Been Greatly Alarmed for Several Months—The Senator Now at Saratoga.

Baltimore, Aug. 27.—Senator Gorman's physicians advise him to leave for Europe at the earliest possible day, not only for the benefit of the sea voyage but for the purpose of taking treatment at one of the German spas. His health is declared to be in a very precarious state. An intimate friend of the Gorman family said:

"It is true that Senator Gorman's family and friends have been greatly alarmed about his health for several months, and his physicians have frequently advised him that he must devote a long period to absolute rest and abstain from work of all kind, or else he would break down completely and irrevocably.

Mrs. Gorman has often begged him to give up all work and go away to Europe or some other place where he could be out of reach of the politicians and others who always followed him about from place to place wherever he may go as long as he remains in this country, or on a line of railway.

"The senator left Washington for Saratoga Saturday for a rest. If he does not improve the whole family will probably go to Europe. It is their intention at all events to go to Europe in the spring, after the short session of congress is over, and remain there all next summer. If congress had adjourned earlier this summer they would have gone abroad, and may do so yet, and remain until the short session begins in December. The fact is, Senator Gorman has worn himself out by hard work, and if he does not stop he will not last long. He has been told this often, and it is only his iron will that has kept him up for months."

APPEALED TO CHRISTIANS.

Evangelist Barnes Speaks from the Pulpit in Breckinridge's Cause.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 27.—The famous evangelist, George O. Barnes, delivered a sermon in the court house here last night which electrified his large audience, as it was a powerful appeal to all Christians to vote for Col. Breckinridge for congress. He cited Bible authority to prove that he was right and said he pitied the preachers who had so little of the spirit of Christianity in them as to denounce the colonel. These remarks created a wonderful effect on his hearers. About twenty of them got up and went out, and one man asked Barnes in a loud voice: "How much did you get for this?"

Ex-State Treasurer S. G. Sharp, who is a strong Breckinridge man, went to the interrupter and told him to hush. He soon left. For a while the scene was an exciting one, some cheering the preacher, others condemning him, and all wrought up to the highest pitch. Such a scene has seldom been witnessed here at a religious meeting, but quiet was finally restored and Barnes concluded his address by begging his hearers to be forgiving.

"SUICIDE IS NO SIN."

This Expression of Ingersoll Partly Responsible for McNamee's Death.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 27.—Col. Robert G. Ingersoll's recent letter asserting suicide is no sin is partly responsible for a suicide that came to light yesterday. The body of Joseph J. McNamee, thirty-two years old and single, was found on the beach of Minnesota point, a short distance east of the ship canal and it is probable he threw himself in and was carried out into the lake by the current which sweeps around Minnesota Point. The body was almost unrecognizable, because it had been pounding on the beach a long time. The victim's intention to make sure work is shown by the fact that he had bound his feet with his scarf and his hands with a handkerchief.

Eight weeks ago he came here for his health from Kansas City, where he and his brother had been in the commission business. He spent his $400 in sprees and became despondent when his brother refused to send him money for his hotel bill. To his fellow-boarders he talked suicide and quoted Ingersoll, and ten days ago he disappeared. His parents, who are well-to-do, live at Junction City, Kan.

No News From Bluefields.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Secretary Gresham said this morning that no news had been received at the state department from Bluefields, but that he expected full dispatches from there late to-day, giving the latest developments in the situation there. The secretary was averse to expressing any opinion regarding matters at Bluefields, preferring to await the receipt of official advices.

Britannia Seaman Drowned.

London, Aug. 27.—The dingey of the Prince of Wales' cutter Britannia capsized yesterday in Portland roads and two of the crew were drowned.

GOOD SPIRITS

follow good health while low spirits, melancholia, impaired memory, morose, or irritable temper, fear of impending calamity and a thousand and one derangements of body and mind, result from pernicious, solitary practices, often indulged in by the young, through ignorance of their ruinous consequences. Nervous debility, and loss of manly power, not infrequently result from such unnatural habits.

To reach, reclaim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of an association of medical gentlemen, who have prepared a treatise, written in plain but chaste language and treating of the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases.

A copy of this useful book will, on receipt of this notice, with 10 cents in stamps, for postage, be mailed securely sealed in a plain envelope. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE END TO-MORROW

Closing of Second Session of 53d Congress.

No More Legislation in Connection With Contested Matters—Republicans Determined To Prevent Delivery of Campaign Speeches—Final Days Marked by Peculiar Incidents.

Washington, Aug. 27.—If there ever had been a lingering hope of more legislation during the remainder of this session of congress that hope was dispelled by a remark made behind closed doors on Friday afternoon by Mr. Quay, that it was to be understood that there should be no more legislation at this session in connection with contested matters. This was acquiesced in, and a few moments later an adjournment was had.

The closing days of the session have been marked by a number of peculiar incidents, and the unexpected has frequently happened.

One of the incidents referred to has been the transaction of legislative business behind closed doors. Senators of both parties have a number of measures that require only the final action of the senate to enact them, but the republicans were not willing to provide the quorum, nor would they permit business to proceed in open session by unanimous consent, for fear the democrats would, by some means, find the opportunity to make the campaign speeches they have prepared. For this reason legislative business, against which no objection was made, was transacted behind closed doors by general consent on Thursday and Friday. Under this arrangement no speeches could be made and the record was prevented from becoming the vehicle for the dissemination of alleged campaign literature.

Republicans were not, however, the only ones who offered objections to the consideration of contested matters. Mr. Blanchard has effectually blocked, for this season, at least, any effort to change the rules so as to provide for cloture.

Mr. Blackburn wanted to have his committee sit during recess and consider the many amendments to the rules that have been referred to his committee. He asked consent to this arrangement, but Mr. Blanchard, who sees in cloture the possibility of free sugar, entered an emphatic objection.

There will be no legislation of any sort to-day or to-morrow. To-day's session will be short, affording more than anything else, an opportunity for the vice-president to announce his signature to various bills. A few odds and ends is being cleared up, but nothing more than that. To-morrow the president will send a message with his approval or disapproval of the various matters that reach him at the last moment, and at 2 o'clock the second session of the Fifty-third congress will stand adjourned without day.

THEY WANT THE BOUNTY.

Louisiana Sugar Planters Bring Suit in the U. S. Court.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Judge Morris Marks, of New Orleans, representing the sugar planters of Louisiana, is here for the purpose of entering suits in the United States court of claims for the recovery of the sugar bounty for the year 1894-95.

The petition recites the provision of the McKinley law, "that on and after July 1, 1891, until July 1, 1905, certain bounties shall be paid to growers of sugar, upon certain prescribed conditions as to the filing of bonds and taking out of licenses, etc. It recites that for the present year all these formalities have been complied with and have been formally accepted by the United States; that under the provisions of the section quoted the planters have gone on and enlarged the areas of sugar planted, secured advances from their brokers and have made their crops, and they demand that the United States shall carry out their part of the contract. The total amount of bounty expected to accrue on this year's crop will be somewhere in the neighborhood of eleven million dollars.

AGAINST THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

A Rather Tame Demonstration in Hyde Park Yesterday.

London, Aug. 27.—The National league for the abolition of the house of lords made a demonstration in Hyde park yesterday. The demonstration had been much advertised and was expected to be an imposing affair, but it was a fiasco. Hardly 10,000 persons were present. Dispersed among the twelve speakers' platforms, they looked pitiably few.

William O'Brien, Dr. Tanner and Thomas Curran, all Irish members of parliament, delivered the principal addresses.

They elicited little enthusiasm.

William O'Brien warned the government that the continuation of the Irish support would depend on its fidelity to the crusade against the lords and their policy of blocking the way to reform.

COLONEL CROFTON ASSAULTED.

Lieut. Welch Strikes the Commander Three Blows With Clenched Fists.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Col. Crofton, commandant of the Fifteenth regiment at Fort Sheridan, was assaulted by Lieut. Welch. Welch called on Col. Crofton at that hour and as the two were conversing outside the tent, Welch suddenly struck Col. Crofton three blows in the face with his clenched fists. Officers near by seeing the assault, interfered and placed Welch under arrest. It is thought that Welch is insane and he was under the influence of liquor at the time of the assault. The cause is not known.

Death of James W. Converse.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 27.—Deacon James W. Converse, principal owner of the Converse Manufacturing company and the Phoenix Furniture company of this city, and president of the Mechanics' National bank, Boston, died yesterday at Swampscott, Mass., aged 86 years. He left an estate of $7,000,000, of which $2,000,000 is invested in the furniture plants and real estate in the city. He was one of the pioneers of the furniture industry in the west.

OBITUARY.

David Richards.

At his late home 91 Westervelt avenue, occurred the death of David Richards yesterday morning at 9, in the thirty-second year of his age.

His death was caused by a heavy cold which was taken a week ago and developed into pneumonia. The efforts of the best medical skill were baffled in the attempt to save his life. The end was peaceful and quiet.

Mr. Richards was born in New York thirty-two years ago, and at the age of 10 moved to Somerville, in which place he lived till about five years ago. Fourteen years he was associated with John Schomp in the law business, and two years with lawyer John Freck.

Five years ago he went to Omaha and engaged himself with the law firm of Schomp & Corson. He returned to Plainfield June 28 of last year, and was married to Miss Bertha Fisher of North Plainfield. They took up their residence in Omaha, but the climate did not agree with Mrs. Richards and they returned to Plainfield, Mr. Richards going back again at the earnest solicitation of his employers.

About five weeks ago he came to Plainfield and connected himself with Craig A. Mareh, intending to remain in the East.

In Somerville he was well known, being an honorary member of Co. H, National Guard, also a member of the bar, and for 12 years was an active member of the Knights of Pythias, having filled every chair. Four times his fellow-townsmen elected him town clerk. In his younger years he joined the First Baptist Church of Somerville, and was still a member.

Mr. Richards leaves a wife and daughter, two brothers, Edward and William of Plainfield, and a sister Miss Mary D. Richards of New York. The sadness of the bereavement weighs heavily on all who knew him.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3 from the house 91 Westervelt avenue.

MORE WELLS.

The Great Drought Does n't Diminish the Supply in the Old Ones.

The boring tools are being received at the Netherwood pumping station, and the work of constructing four new wells, similar to those in use, will soon be begun. The additional supply will not be drawn upon until next year. The new wells are made in anticipation of increased business, both because of the introduction of sewers into Plainfield and the proposed extension of the territory supplied. The dry weather affects the wells but little.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Samuel Case very acceptably filled John McLaughlin's place as usher in the First Baptist Church yesterday.

A praise service was held in the First Baptist Church last evening, conducted by Rev. Arthur Crane. The attendance was large.

Plainfield was glad to meet again yesterday Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond. He preached to large congregations in the Crescent Avenue Church. In the morning his topic was the great faith of the centurion, Luke VII: 7-8. An informal reception followed the services. In the evening Dr. Raymond alluded to the great pleasure he experienced in again visiting the city of his former pastorate and seeing so many familiar faces. Dr. Raymond was the guest of Major W. D. W. Miller during his stay.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

TAKEN TO THE ASYLUM.

Pitiful Case of Affliction by Insanity of the Mother of Many Children.

Mrs. Allie N. Lines of Elizabeth, who with her husband and six children has been visiting the Misses Manning of 248 East Front street for two weeks, was taken this morning to Morris Plains, Dr. J. B Probasco of Plainfield and Dr. T. F. Livengood of Elizabeth having pronounced her insane.

The affliction of Mrs. Lines is a peculiarly sad one. She has had several such attacks before, while her children were but a few weeks old, but she always recovered. Several years ago, shortly after the birth of her fourth child, she bit her mother. It was thought that the wound had some connection with the insanity and death of the mother a short time afterwards.

The oldest of the children is 11 years old, and the youngest six weeks. The oldest three are girls, and the rest boys. The last child is quite ill because of the shock experienced when the insane mother tossed the infant wildly from her on the bed.

Mr. Lines is inclined to believe that the immediate cause of the turn for the worse in his wife's condition was the quarreling on two occasions last week of a neighbor with his family. The Misses Manning are Mr. Lines's aunts. Marshal Lines, his cousin, assisted in taking the woman to the asylum today. Mr. Lines has a large store in Elizabeth. He was formerly in business here with J. C. Allen of West Front street.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Summit is to have a glimpse of the Tableaux Phantasms which delighted Plainfield.

—Van Emburgh's sale Saturday night was a great success. The store was thronged with crowds, and the clerks were kept hustling till after 10. Mr. VanEmburgh gives all the credit to advertising.

—Neuman Bros. will receive tomorrow a shipment of canning peaches, bartlett pears, greengage and damson plums, choicest varieties; also a selected lot of melons to please everybody. Watchung avenue corner of Fifth street.

—A bully good shirt for 39 cents. That's what Hallock advertised in The Daily Press and in 24 hours he was cleaned out of them. Now he has a fresh lot, and they'll go quick. Get a half-dozen while you're about it They look and wear as well as a shirt for a dollar.

Court Nash.

Justice Nash will try the boy, Jack Chapman, arrested by Policeman Mattox on a charge of stealing potatoes from Fernands Brown of LaGrande avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2.

George Houseman was arrested for non-payment of taxes this morning. He was released after he had arranged to settle with Collector Nash.

Judgments against Zimmerman and others rendered by Justice Nash this afternoon were for $49.23 in favor of Landreth & Sons, and for $43 83 in favor of the Leibrandt & M'Dowell Stove Company.

A Pleasant Visit.

The bowling alleys of Hotel Arlington were reserved Saturday night for a merry party from Somerville, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Murphy, Miss Maggie Smith, Miss Lizzie Smith, Miss Katie Credon, Simeon D. Apgar, Harry Rankins and Wm. Watt. Some of the ladies had never before bowled, but soon developed remarkable skill, and a series of lively matches was played. Strikes and spares were frequent. The game of the ladies against the gentlemen was cleverly won by the gentler sex, though Mr. Murphy, who represents the Somerville Beef Company, made a phenomenal score.

Knights Off for Washington.

Fanwood Township Ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the removing and trimming of trees standing upon or in the side lines of the sidewalks within the Township of Fanwood.

The Inhabitants of the Township of Fanwood by their Township Committee do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That all trees standing on the inner or outer side lines of any of the sidewalks within said Township of Fanwood, which said trees, or the branches thereof, shall in anyway interfere with or obstruct the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks or the approaches thereto, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the approach of vehicles to said sidewalks, or any of them, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the light from the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks, or any of them, shall be so trimmed by the owner or owners of the lands adjacent to the sidewalks upon which said trees may be standing, within twenty days after the passage of this ordinance, as not to permit of any obstruction to the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks, or the approaches thereto, or any obstruction to the approach of vehicles thereto from the public roads or streets, or permit the obstruction of the light or lights from any of the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted that said trees shall be trimmed as referred to in the preceding section by the persons and in the manner therein mentioned, under the direction of the chairman of the Township Committee of said Township of Fanwood, or such other person or persons as said Township Committee may designate or appoint.

Sec. 3. And be it enacted that if any person or persons owning the lands lying adjacent to the sidewalks within said township aforesaid shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance, said person or persons so offending shall on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Passed Aug. 21, 1894.

YANKED THE YANKEES.

Enterprising Evona Residents Read the Papers and Give an Example of the Speed of Jersey Justice.

A storekeeper and a carpenter, residents of Evona, acted successfully as detectives yesterday. Their work resulted in the capture of two Connecticut boys who had turned horsethieves and started on a camping trip.

It all came about through the thieves stopping to make a horse trade in front of Bennett Brittin's place on West Front street Saturday afternoon at 2. Mr. Brittin noticed a peculiar rig which came from the East. The team, a bay and a sorrel, were hitched to a long three-seated surrey without a top. The back seat was missing and a trunk and a pile of blankets were in its place.

The two boys met John W. James, the Socialist aspirant for Sheriff, and after considerable argument the vegetable dealer exchanged his black horse and $3 for the sorrel. The strange horse seemed rather thin, but James was confident that good feeding would prove what a bargain he had struck.

The outfit then passed out of sight on the road to Dunellen. Mr. Brittin thought no more about the matter until 9 yesterday morning when he read in The Herald that Mrs. Catherine Miller of Bridgeport had reported to the New York police that a team, surrey, trunk and provisions had been stolen from her by her fifteen-year-old son, Harry Miller and a nineteen-year-old friend, Barlow Clark.

Mr. Brittin at once remembered the amateur horse dealers and called upon Jacob Kriney, constable and carpenter of Evona, and proposed a trip up the road in the detective line. The two accordingly set out in Mr. Brittin's rig. They found traces in Dunellen, lost the trail in Bound Brook, recovered it near Somerville and finally found that the two boys had camped four miles back of Somerset's county seat.

Constable Kriney and Somerville's chief of police moved down upon the camp at 1:30 yesterday afternoon in their official capacities with Mr. Brittin as an assistant. The boys were preparing to leave the place. After a short parley they acknowledged who they were and what they had done. The young thieves and their plunder were taken to town, the boys being allowed to change their bicycle suits for ordinary clothing.

They answered readily all the questions that were put to them. They had been on the road two weeks, and were on their way to Georgia. They hoped to sell the outfit in Philadelphia to secure money for their southern trip. The horses had been fed 10 quarts of oats the first night out and none since. The first stop in New Jersey was near Newark. The next was between Cranford and Roselle where they said they were attacked by swarms of mosquitoes. Their custom was to camp beneath the carriage. A single revolver was their only weapon. They had clothes enough to last three years.

The boys claimed that it was the peculiar New England style of the surrey and [illegible] of the trunk that led to their [illegible], as it was noticed the more along [illegible]d, the principal comment being [illegible] was a rig returning to the West [illegible] Buffalo Bill's Wild West show. The [b]oys had $14 and were willing to pay back to James the $3 he gave them to boot. They said James had told them that his bob-tailed black was younger than their sorrel, the latter being aged 15 years. A resident of Somerville who heard this said that he knew James's horse was 42 years old as he had owned it himself years ago.

The boys were not put in prison over night. The Bridgeport chief of police was summoned by telephone and reached Somerville late last night. Constable Kriney went to Somerville this morning at 7:17 to present a bill of expenses.

Court Coddington.

City Judge Coddington this morning sentenced Albert Keyser, guilty of drunkenness, to pay a fine of $3 or go to jail for 10 days. He had no money at hand.

A quarrel between two colored women was ventilated. It occurred on East Front street Saturday night and Sergeant Kiely arrested the participants. Lavinia Washington appeared to be the greatest offender, and was fined $3. Mary Jetter's crime appeared to have been an exciting argument, and as she had been struck by Lavinia sentence was suspended.

Sheridan Jones and James Scott were other colored offenders. They also talked to one another on East Front street Saturday evening. Policeman Frederickson arrested them. Judge Coddington suspended sentence when he found that the men had not yet begun to fight when they were captured.

Latest Phase of the Heavenly Rest.

Rev. Dr. Page writes from Massachusetts, regretting the occurrences which brought about the announcement from him that he would discontinue his work in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Evona. He will return to Evona the first part of September to spend a week with friends in the vicinity of the mission where he has done the work of a rector without having the office.

It is claimed that four families, including 13 communicants, are about to leave the church. Lay reader Charles S. Lewis will probably officiate for some time, as no rector is to be called at present.

The Glorious Cereus.

A number of neighbors and Plainfielders called on Mrs. E. L. Kieb of Fanwood Saturday evening to admire a beautiful specimen of night-blooming cereus. Two flowers on the same stalk were in bloom. The plant was placed in the midst of other choice flowers of Mrs. Kieb's growing.

A night-blooming cereus on the veranda of the house of Charles Randolph, West Front street, last evening, aroused the admiration of a number of passers-by and friends.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

FINE SPORT AT THE TROTTING PARK

Plainfield and Neighborhood Horses Do Some Speedy Trotting.

A large number of prominent horsemen and their friends gathered at the Plainfield Driving Park Saturday afternoon to witness trials of speed and settle the question of supremacy which has existed for a long time between the gentlemen of sporting proclivities from Union and Middlesex counties. Whether the question has been solved or that they are likely to arrive at a solution of the problem in the near future remains to be seen, as victory first perches on one banner only to be wrested from the victor at their next meeting. The friendly rivalry existing between the gentlemen from the different localities enhances the interest of these meetings and gives to all lovers of horseflesh a most enjoyable day of sport.

A few of the many owners and judges of horseflesh present were the following: Ed Ames of Woodbridge, behind his speedy horse Pilot; Annese brothers of the same place, driving the fast stepper Norman; Nate Robbins of Metuchen, who says that his stylish team is able to keep ahead of his road wagon; Mr. Hayes, drawing the reins over his fast trotter Andy. Mr. Arkell of Westfield, owner of the speedy pacer Dorkes, was a prominent figure on the judges stand. A. C. Vail of Plainfield appeared at the track with his Budonward, whose record is 2:22¼. He gave an exhibition mile in very fast time. O. T. Waring of this city was out with his stylish and well-mated team, which turned out a mile in 2:45 and repeated in 2:46. He can keep the best pair in these counties on the move. Ed Ames with Pilot and F. F. Ames behind Norman had a friendly contest in which Pilot won the heat in 3:12½.

Another interesting event was Nate Robbins behind Buffalo Bill and Mr. Brantingham with Unknown, in which Buffalo Bill won in straight heats in 2:48½ and 2:50.

The main interest was centred on the race between Mr. Arkell's pacer Dorkes, driven by Charles Brower, and F. F. Ames's bay gelding Gen. Benham, driven by J. Osborn, in which Dorkes took first and second heats in 2:28 and 2:32, while Gen. Benham captured third and fourth heats in 2.35 and 2.31. Owing to the lateness of the hour this race was not decided. The race between Mr. Hayes's Andy and Mr. Carpenter's Prince, driven by their owners, was a close and exciting contest, Prince winning the second and third heats and the race in 2.39½ and 2 40½ and Andy taking first heat in 2-42.

CEEDY JAY.

AFTER THE BOROUGH GAMBLERS.

Marshal Pangborn Fulfilling His Title, "A Terror to Law-Breakers."

John Giddis of 27 Greenbrook road was arrested by Chief Marshal Pangborn Saturday afternoon and in the evening answered before Mayor Needham to a charge of keeping a gambling house. He was found guilty and fined $5. His offense was committed Sunday, August 19, when he allowed a number of young men to gather in the barn on his place and throw dice for money.

Another arrest for crime of a more serious nature was made by the chief marshal the same afternoon, Julius Warsofskie, a Hebrew who keeps a shoe-shop on the Somerset street bridge. The county line runs through the store. Warsofskie was charged with running a gambling game of cards on the Somerset side Saturday morning from from 1 to 4. He was taken before Mayor Needham. His counsel, Attorney George DeMeza, asked for a postponement of a week. The prisoner was released on furnishing $100 bail to appear before the Mayor this evening at 6:30.

Winn Leads to Winning.

A one-sided game of base-ball was played Saturday on the Park avenue grounds, the Orientals defeating the Arlingtons by the score of 28 to 6. The Arlingtons were unable to find Winn's curves, and got only 3 base hits, while Swalm was batted by the Orientals for 16 safe bags and gave 10 bases on balls. The teams:

Orientals—Fleming, 2b; Doyle, cf; Muldowney, 1b; Winn, p; Moran, c; Kuhn, 3b; McGinley, ss; Scott, rf; Sheridan, lf.

Arlingtons—Kurzhals, rf; Owens, 2b; C. Sutphen, 3b; Lederer, cf; M. Sutphen, 1b; Phillips, ss; Mumford, c; Brown, lf; Swalm, p.

Kuhn and Fleming made 3-base hits, and Mumford and McGinley 2-baggers.

"Incog" in Music Hall.

Charles Dickson will appear in Music Hall Saturday night, Sept. 1, presenting "Incog". Mr. Dickson has the reputation of being the cleverest light comedian on the American stage. Still a very young man, he has attained the position to which he has arrived as the result of talent and unremitting labor. He began at the foot of the ladder. His company comprises Geo. W. Barnum, Gustave Yorke, Frederick Backus, Homer Granville, Augustus Halbach, Thomas Ross, Samuel Doherty, Edgar Allen, and the Misses Lillian Burkhart, Gertrude Whitty, Kathryn Karmen and Florine Campbell.

Thatcher's Show a Go.

(From The Asbury Park Daily Journal.)

Thatcher's minstrels and the farce-comedy, "About Gotham", is the best combination with the prettiest and most taking play yet seen in Asbury Park. Nick Loritz, who has witnessed about everything, says there "isn't anything on the stage that can touch it". A big house last night agreed with him.

REV. Daniel F. Warren, D. D., Rector Holy Trinity Church, Jersey City Heights, says:

"Dr. Deane's

are unquestionably good. They are, in my opinion, all they claim to be. I have tried them and found in them what I needed. I believe they will cure Dyspepsia, and that is saying much for any medicine. I am glad, therefore, to give my testimony."

MILES AND HURLEY.

The Millionaire and His Nephew Again Before the Public.

Nobody at the District Attorney's office would confirm the report today that the Grand Jury was considering charges of forgery against William Miles, the aged millionaire who home was so long in North Plainfield. According to a story current such charges were instigated by Mr. Miles's nephew, William S. Hurley, a flour merchant in the Wallabout Market, Brooklyn. Mr. Hurley himself was not at his place of business when a reporter called there today. Neither was he to be found on the floor of the Produce Exchange, of which he is a member. His counsel, ex-Surrogate Daniel G. Rolling, is out of town, as are also Mr. Miles and the lawyers of the latter.

It is said that during the week Hurley, with David V. Carvalho, the handwriting expert, appeared before the Grand Jury with documents once in the possession of Miles, and presented by them, which Mr. Carvalho declared to be forgeries. One of the documents, it is alleged, was the will of Mr. Hurley's father, Samuel Hurley, who was formerly in the tanning business with Mr. Miles, and the other a settlement paper between the two, by the terms of which Hurley relinquished his business claims with Miles.

These same papers figured in a civil suit brought by Hurley against Miles and his brother Jacob in October, 1892, for $350,000. This suit was suddenly discontinued and it is thought that the latter move was taken because Miles did not fulfil the terms of the settlement with Hurley because he became dissatisfied with them. Mr. Miles is a Welshman, and for years was the president of St. David's Society. He has also held numerous positions of trust.

F. W. Miles of 356 Somerset street, North Plainfield, son of Jacob Miles, expressed great surprise at the news of Mr. Hurley's last move, and said that his family thought the whole matter had been finally disposed of at the trial of the civil action, when no forgery was proved.

In the former suit it was shown that the Miles brothers gave Samuel Hurley's widow $13,000 as the entire share of herself and children in the estate. When John Kerwin, the commission merchant, attempted to purchase certain tenements in Williamsburg from William Miles, and was told by the latter that being in the name of a poor relative named Hurley they could not be sold without family trouble being caused, W. S. Hurley became suspicious and the civil suit followed. He found, he claims, other properties of his father's in the possession of Mr. Miles, from whom he demanded the surrender of the Williamsburg houses. Instead of surrendering them, though, Miles gave him $20,000, and prior to the bringing of the $350,000 suit offered him $40,000 more it is said.

Death of Decamp the Veteran.

Peter Decamp, eighty-five years old, died Saturday night at his home, 139 Broadway, Elizabeth. He was the oldest engineer on the Central Railroad, and pulled the throttle of the engine "Easton" on the first trip from Elizabeth to Easton after the road was extended from Somerville in 1827. He leaves a widow, who was his second wife, and several children. At the time of his death he had charge of the round and tool house at Elizabethport. He had lived in Elizabeth nearly all his life.

Reception to Firemen.

The W. C. T. U. will give a reception to the firemen of Plainfield and North Plainfield tomorrow evening in their rooms on Watchung avenue.

An excellent programme has been arranged, which includes selections from the Y. M. C. A. quartette, remarks by H. P. Darling of Westfield, who is a noted speaker; and Rev. Arthur Crane will probably be present with several other speakers. A collation will be served.

Another Benefit of the Souvenir Edition.

A portion of the New York Times of yesterday bore a striking resemblance to the Editorial Souvenir Edition of The Daily Press, the page being illumined with illustrations reproduced from The Press, and with a story of Plainfield founded on The Press story, much of which was quoted outright. It was a great ad for the town.

Perils of Housekeeping.

Mrs. Horace Huff of West Fifth street scalded her left hand and forearm very badly yesterday. She was removing a piece of meat from a pan in which it was cooking, when it slipped from the large fork and threw the hot grease over her arm. The burn is very painful.

—The likeness is remarked of one of the Charles Dickson bill-board portraits to Judge W. A. Coddington.

—The Niagara Insurance Company, through their Plainfield agents, VanBuren & Timpson, settled with Nathan R. Lee Saturday, for the damage to his house by fire. The amount was $500.

—Garret Dreier presented A. R. Johnson with a Spalding base-ball bat Saturday night which will be contested for Labor Day at Boynton Beach in a ball between the Ridgewoods and the Dunellen Juniors.

CROSS OF THE SCRIPTURES.

Fine Example of Ancient Irish Art Reproduced in Plainfield.

C. W. McCutchen has just had completed for erection in Hillside Cemetery a memorial cross which illustrates to perfection the beauties of ancient Irish art. It was built at Thos. J. Brennan's stone works in New York, on detailed drawings furnished by Architect Charles H. Smith.

In general design and dimensions it is a reproduction of the famous "Cross of the Scriptures", at the Seven Churches, Clonmacnoise, Ireland, which tradition ascribes to a period previous to A. D. 924, and which still stands, despite the lapse of centuries, in a splendid state of preservation. The cross, including the base of 2.6 feet, is 13.2 feet high, and the width at the arms is 4.8 feet. The base is a plain diminishing stone, 3.4x3 10, with polished surfaces for inscriptions, but the cross, which is 10 8 feet high, is a mass of the beautiful interlacing ribbon design peculiar to the decorative art of the ancient Celt. The design has neither beginning nor end, thus symbolizing eternity. Five rings ornament the face of the cross, all having the interlacing design, save one, on the shaft, which incloses a carving of a dove, typifying the descent of the Holy Ghost. There are other ornamental features adapted from the various antique crosses of Ireland. The stone used is from the blue limestone quarry of Peter Rafferty, in Balinasloe, about eight miles from Clonmacnoise, and is of a non-porous nature which renders it impervious to moisture. The Clonmacnoise cross was doubtless chiseled from the same stone.

CYCLING COMMENT.

John Keefe and Adam Angerbauer wheeled to Eagle Rock yesterday.

Rev. G. Hauser of the German Reformed Church has joined the cycling ranks.

Brazil Waldron and Horace Huff took a spin on their wheels to Newark and Springfield yesterday.

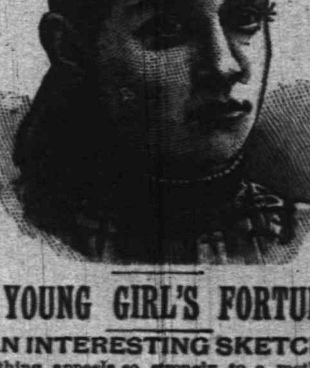
Because of complaints that the sidewalk on West Front street near Grant avenue was being used extensively by cyclers, Special Policeman Robinson was sent there yesterday afternoon. He found six violators of the ordinance. Three of them, John Emory, Albert Schomp and Edward Vail, were fined $1 each by City Judge Coddington this morning. The others will be dealt with later.

Plainfield saved the State Saturday at the inter-State bicycle meet on the fair-grounds in Trenton. The Mercer County Wheelmen were out in force on their local track, but not one of them succeeded in getting a prize. Monte Scott won a first and a second. Those two were the only prizes that remained in New Jersey. Henry B. Scott was an unlucky starter in the 2:40 class mile. In the one-mile handicap he secured 110 yards in front of W. F. Sims, scratch, and reached fifth place. He was unsuccessful in the final. L. N. Line did not obtain a place in the final of the 2:40 mile. Nate Titsworth and Charles N. Rydell were in the heat with him, Titsworth finishing fourth in both the heat and the final. The race was declared off, the limit being four seconds below the time of the final, 2:49. Titsworth got no place in the half-mile scratch nor any in the half-mile handicap where he started 35 yards ahead of Sims, the virtual scratch man. Monte Scott started in the one-mile scratch and the two-mile handicap. In the scratch he was second behind George C. Smith, 2:24. Sims was third and Barbeau fourth. Scott won the handicap in 4:37 2-5. He was the nearest man to scratch, riding from the 40-yard mark.

Plainfield Presses Wanted Everywhere.

J. A. Compton, an expert machinist of the Scott Printing Machine Works, after just returning from the West, where he was putting up web and lithograph presses, starts again tonight for Minneapolis. On his way he will stop about two weeks at Baltimore to erect a large web perfecting press for The Morning Herald. From there he will go the Crown Lithograph and Engraving Company, Minneapolis, to erect there large lithograph presses. He will be in the Western States about three months. Then he will return to Plainfield.

—Business of importance will come before John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., at their meeting this evening.



A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen and New Market.

Mrs. H Laners of Jersey City is the guest of Mrs. W. S Brokaw.

Mrs. William Van Middlesworth has returned home from a pleasant visit in Bayonne.

David Farley and his sister Miss Anna, of Fanwood, were guests of Miss Lillie Staats Saturday.

Isaac Hillyer has been making some extensive improvements for Mrs. Vars at her place of residence over the post-office.

Miss Celia Staats returned Saturday after a delightful three-weeks vacation spent at Bloomsbury, Clinton and Lake Hopatcong.

George Richardson concluded his two-weeks vacation Saturday. It was spent in Asbury Park. He rode his wheel home in three hours.

Frank Covey and Charles Johnson, accompanied by Mrs. Smallwood and son William of Netherwood took a horse-back ride to Orange Saturday afternoon.

Edward Herlick, Dr. Brakeley's efficient clerk, was seized with cramps Saturday afternoon, and though he suffered considerably he pluckily remained at the store.

Charles Young of Plainfield rode his wheel to Dunellen and New Market Saturday and called on several friends in the interest of the J. O. U. A. M., of which he is an active member.

A horse belonging to Staats Randolph was taken with the colic in Dunellen Friday night, and Mr. Titsworth took him to Nelson's barn, where assistance was secured. It took several hours to render the animal relief.

It now looks as though the difficulty between William Gallagher and his son Michael were settled. Friday afternoon quiet was restored, and they agreed to take what rightfully belonged to them and live apart. William Gallagher says that he will have nothing more to do with his son and that he will disown him. Constable Warden was asked to make the settlement, which he did Saturday afternoon, to the satisfaction of both parties

Mrs Disosway, the accomplished organist at the Auditorium in Ocean Grove, will take her daughter, at the close of the meetings, to Toronto, where she will remain a year. This is done in order to give Miss Disosway a first-class musical education. Mrs. Disosway is a cousin of Mrs. Peter V. Huff of Dunellen, and had the pleasure of a visit from her and Mr. Huff recently, when old times were talked over.

South Plainfield.

MANUFACTURERS IN TROUBLE.

The Eaton & Stephens Manufacturing Company Will Assign.

Boston, Aug. 27.—The Eaton & Stephens Manufacturing company, manufacturers of boots and shoes, with factories at Holliston and Cochituate, has voted to make an assignment for the benefit of its creditors to Arthur S. Nash, one of its directors.

The assignee states that the company has been doing a fairly prosperous business, but that on account of stock taken at the Holliston factory last July showed such a shrinkage from that taken January 1, 1894, when the company was organized, that the above course was determined upon. He thinks that the assets ought to be sufficient to pay all creditors in full. According to its balance sheet on Aug. 25, 1894, the assets were $332,385.64; liabilities, $239,241.28.

AN ANARCHIST SUSPECTED.

Cowardly Murder of a French Army Officer.

Paris, Aug. 27.—A dispatch from Mentone says that M. Huisset, secretary to the army commissariat, has been murdered there. He was shot in the back as he was entering his house. The murderer is supposed to be an anarchist, who sought revenge for the recent raids made by the police upon his comrades.

Jail Delivery at Oswego.

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Four prisoners, John Ryan, Peter Williams, James Riley and Frank Burns, escaped from the county jail at daybreak yesterday morning. No trace of them has yet been discovered.

Big Fire at Belle Vernon.

Belle Vernon, Pa., Aug. 27.—A fire started at 1:30 a. m. in J. W. Alamong's livery stable and spread until thirty buildings, consisting of hotels, residences, stores and stables were destroyed. The homeless persons were taken care of by neighbors. The loss will aggregate $30,000. No estimate has been made of the insurance.

...Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Districh, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

CLEVELAND'S REASONS

For Not Signing the Tariff Measure.

The Bill Not Consistent With Democratic Ideas of Tariff Reform—Livery of the Party Stolen and Worn in Service of Republican Protection—The People the Sufferers.

Washington, Aug. 28.—President Cleveland has written the following letter to Representative Catchings, of Mississippi, in which he sets forth his views of the new tarriff law, and gives his reason for not approving the bill:

My Dear Sir—Since the conversation I had with you and Mr. Clarke, of Alabama, a few days ago, in regard to my action on the tariff bill now before me, I have given the subject further and more serious consideration. The result is I am more settled than ever in the determination to allow the bill to become a law without my signature.

When the formation of legislation which it is hoped would embody democratic ideas of tariff reform was lately entered upon by the congress, nothing was further from my anticipation than a result which I could not promptly and enthusiastically endorse.

It is therefore with a feeling of the utmost disappointment that I submit to a denial of this privilege.

I do not claim to be better than the masses of my party, nor do I wish to avoid any responsibility which, on account of the passage of this law, I ought to bear as a member of the democratic organization. Neither will I permit myself to be separated from my party to such an extent as might be implied by my veto of tariff legislation, which though disappointing is still chargeable to democratic effort. But there are provisions in this bill which are not in line with honest tariff reform, and it contains inconsistencies and crudities which ought not to appear in tariff laws of any kind. Besides, there were, as you and I well know, incidents accompanying the passage of the bill through the congress which made every sincere tariff reformer unhappy while influences surrounded it in its latter stages and interfered with its final construction, which ought not to be recognized or tolerated in democratic tariff reform counsels.

And yet, notwithstanding all its vicissitudes and all the bad treatment it received at the hands of pretended friends, it presents a vast improvement to existing conditions. It will certainly lighten many tariff burdens that now rest heavily upon the people. It is not only a barrier against the return of mad protection, but it furnishes a vantage ground from which must be waged further aggressive operations against protected monopoly and governmental favoritism.

I take my place with the rank and file of the democratic party who believe in tariff reform and will know what it is to refuse to accept the results embodied in this bill as the close of the war, who are not blinded to the fact that the livery of democratic tariff reform has been stolen and worn in the service of republican protection, and who have marked the places where the deadly blight of treason has blasted the counsels of the brave in their hour of might.

The trusts and combinations—the communism of pelf—whose machinations have prevented us from reaching the success we deserved, should not be forgotten or forgiven. We shall recover from our astonishment at their exhibition of power, and if then the question is forced upon us whether they shall submit to the free legislative will of the peoples' representatives or shall dictate the laws which the people must obey, we shall accept and settle that issue as one involving the integrity and safety of American institutions.

I love the principles of true democracy, because they are founded in patriotism and upon justice and fairness toward all interests. I am proud of my party organization because it is conservatively sturdy and persistent in the enforcement of its principles. Therefore I do no despair of the efforts made by the house of representatives to supplement the bill already passed by further legislation and to have engrafted upon it such modifications as will more nearly meet democratic hopes and aspirations.

I cannot be mistaken as to the necessity of free raw materials as the foundation of logical and sensible tariff reform. The extent to which this is recognized in the legislation already secured is one of its encouraging and redeeming features, but it is vexatious to recall that while free coal and iron ore have been denied us, a recent letter of the secretary of the treasury discloses the fact that both might have been made free by the annual surrender of only about seven hundred thousand dollars of unnecessary revenue.

I am sure that there is a common habit of underestimating the importance of free raw materials in tariff legislation, and of regarding them as only related to concessions to be made to our manufacturers. The truth is their influence is so far-reaching that if disregarded a complete and beneficent scheme of tariff cannot be successfully inaugurated.

When we give to our manufacturers free raw materials we unshackle American enterprise and ingenuity and these will open the doors of foreign markets to the reception of our wares and give opportunity for the continuous and remunerative employment of American labor.

With materials cheapened by their freedom from tariff charges the cost of their product must be correspondingly cheapened. Thereupon justice and fairness to the consumer would demand that the manufacturers be obliged to submit to such a readjustment and modification of the tariff upon their finished goods as would secure to the people the benefit of the reduced cost of their manufacture and shield the consumer against the exaction of inordinate profits.

It will thus be seen that free raw materials and a just and fearless regulation and reduction of the tariff to meet the changed conditions, would carry to every humble home in the land the blessings of increased comfort and cheaper living.

The millions of our countrymen who have fought bravely and well for tariff reform should be exhorted to continue the struggle, boldly challenging to open warfare and constantly guarding against the treachery and halfheartedness in their camp.

Tariff reform will not be settled until it is honestly and fairly settled in the interest and to the benefit of a patient and long suffering people.

Yours, very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

THE GOULDS NOT PLEASED.

Prince of Wales Withdraws the Britannia from All Races.

Torquay, Aug. 28.—The Prince of Wales's cutter Britannia has been scratched for the regatta here, and the big race, consequently, has been abandoned.

Capt. Carter has received a telegraphic message from the Prince of Wales, instructing him not to race Britannia again this season in any of the regattas. The action of the Prince of Wales is due to the accident by which, on Saturday last, Chief Officer Simons and Caterer Roper, of Britannia, and Engineer Brookman, of the steam yacht Tabura, were drowned.

After the race for the Cape May cup Vigilant will be laid up, probably at Southampton. The Goulds do not anticipate taking her to the Mediterranean. Regarding the yachting season of 1895, Mr. Howard Gould remarked:

"I expect to come over here next year with a new Herreshoff twenty-rater. The matter is not settled, but that is my present intention. Of course, if there is a challenge issued for the America's cup things may be more lively at home, and it is probable that I shall remain there, as it is quite likely that my brother George will build a cup defender.

"So far as the Cape May cup is concerned Vigilant will certainly insist upon contesting for it. As I understand the conditions, Britannia must defend it. She cannot transfer that privilege to Satanita without the consent of the New York Yacht club. If Britannia does not sail against us she must give up the cup."

Opening Reception at Washington Held Last Night.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Last night was to witness the formal opening of the Knights of Pythias encampment by a reception at Convention hall, at which the vice-president was to be the central figure, but the death of Congressman Shaw, of Wisconsin, a past supreme chancellor of the order, at his home in Eau Claire, caused a change in the programme. A meeting of the supreme council was held to take action on Mr. Shaw's death, and it was decided that the reception should not be held, as a mark of esteem to his memory.

A meeting of the commanders of the various state brigades has been called to take suitable action.

Affairs were very quiet at the monument grounds camp during the day. Thousands of persons visited the scene and a large number of these made the trip to the top of the Washington obelisk.

After once declaring off the reception at Convention hall on account of Congressman Shaw, the supreme lodge amended its decision by agreeing that the reception might be held without the sanction of the supreme officers. The reception was therefore held and a very brilliant affair it proved to be. Addresses of welcome were made by Vice-President Stevenson and President Rose, of the board of district commissioners. Mr. Stevenson's spech was the event of the evening, although it was very brief.

NEW TARIFF BILL A LAW

Became Such at Midnight Last Night.

Operative Without the President's Signature — Treasury Department Busy Sending Out Telegrams of Instructions to Custom Collectors—Goods in Bond To Enter Free.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The new tariff bill became a law at midnight last night without the president's signature. Secretary Carlisle sent telegrams of instructions last evening to collectors of customs throughout the country directing them to carry out the provisions of the new act.

Secretary Carlisle has instructed customs collectors that goods placed in bonded warehouses under the McKinley law and made free of duty under the new tariff act are entitled to free entry, and need not be exported and reimported in order to get the benefits of the new act.

This is of especial interest to the wool trade as a large amount of wool is stored now in bonded warehouses.

In this, as in all other mooted questions, the secretary will follow the intent of congress and let aggrieved parties appeal to the courts if they care to contest on technical grounds.

In accordance with this determination he undoubtedly will hold that diamonds are dutiable, notwithstanding the erroneous punctuation of the free list. The secretary sent the following telegram to customs officials at all ports of the United States:

"Vessels with cargo not discharged nor entered for consumption may be made vessel warehouses temporarily for such goods as shall be entered today in bond."

The secretary sent the folowing telegram to collectors at New York, San Francisco, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Orleans, Chicago and Port Townsend, Wash.:

Collector of customs—You are instructed as follows concerning the collection of duties under the recent revenue legislation of congress:

1. All articles heretofore subject to duty, but made free by the provisions of the new act, may be withdrawn from warehouses on and after Aug. 28, 1894 without the payment of duty.

2. All manufactured articles, specially or generally provided for in schedule K, which are composed wholly of materials other than wool or worsted, or of which some one material other than wool or worsted is the component part of chief value, will be admitted on and after Aug. 28, 1894, at the rate of duty prescribed in the new act; all other manufactured articles, specially or generaly provided for in said schedule, will continue until Jan. 1, 1895, to pay the rates of duty imposed thereon by the act entitled: "An act to reduce the revenue, equalize duties on imports, and for other purposes," approved Oct. 1, 1890.

3. Coffee and tea and hides and skins, raw or uncured, whether dry, salted or pickled, will be admitted free of duty on and after the 28th day of August 1894, and the treasury circular (S. 12,510), dated March 24, 1892, issued in accordance with the proclamation of the president of the United States, dated March 15, 1892, and directing the collection of duties upon certain articles being the products of, or exported from Venezuela, Colombia and Hayti, is hereby revoked.

THE COLONEL HARD HIT

Publicly Denounced by His Former Sister-in-Law.

Miss May Desha in an Open Letter Appeals to the Voters of Kentucky To Defeat Breckinridge, Restore the Reputation of the State and Do Honor to the Memory of Her Departed Sister.

Louisville, Aug. 28.—Miss Mary Deshaw, of Washington, sister of Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge's second wife, has issued an appeal, addressed "To the men and women of the Blue Grass," urging the defeat of Col. Breckinridge. It is in part as follows:

"I have hesitated for many days before writing this letter, because I know the prejudices of Kentucky men and their opinion that if a woman lifts her voice against 'the established order of iniquity' she is out of her sphere. But the occasion is so grave that I venture, even at the risk of shocking my friends, to tell you some truths which it is necessary for you to know, knowing well you will never hear them from Kentucky men who have been in Washington. They are bound to keep silence, either from the feeling of loyalty which is stronger in man than in woman, or from 'a fellow feeling that makes them wondrous kind.'"

That Col Breckinridge will be returned to congress has never for one moment entered my mind. The very thought of it is an insult to the state whose boast has been that her 'men were brave and her women virtuous.'

"I am not troubled about his re-election, but I am afraid that the politicians will send some onelike him. If they suceed in renominating him or some other immoral man, will the reputable portion of the community unite on a man, regardless of politics, who can lift the soiled banner of the Ashland district, cleanse its stains by a pure life and bear it with such honor that we, who live in Washington, and have been deeply humiliated, may again be able to say, with uplifted heads: 'We are Kentuckians!'

"The plain truth is that of all immoral delegations in congress, that of Kentucky has the reputation of being the worst. With the Taulbee and Breckinridge scandals and the low obscenety of Thompson, you will not wonder at it.

"To the women of the Blue Grass I give my grateful thanks that they have remembered my sister—her faithful, beautiful life—and have showed by every means in their power their appreciation of it, and their detestation of the man who dishonored her while living, who has desecrated her memory and disgraced her children.

"To the Confederate veterans, I would say—living she never forgot you. In persecution, in trial, in exile her own people were always remembered. You passed resolutions of respect when she died and followed her to the grave with almost the honors given to a soldier—show that your protestations were sincere by retiring to private life the man who has committed the unpardonable sin against her, and by sending to congress a respectable, reputable man, to lift Kentucky, the state she loved so well, back to its proud place among its sister states. "With pride in Kentucky's past, with shame and confusion that even one man is left within her borders who is wiling to se her humiliated, with an abiding trust in the final triumph of law and order, decency and morality in her midst, I am,

MARY DESHA,
A citizen of the Ashland district of Kentucky.

The letter caused much excitement here. It is the talk of the town, recalling to mind as it does the memory of the woman who founded the Kentucky Woman's Veteran association.

Col. Breckinridge spoke at Ather, this county, yesterday. His address was devoted principally to evening up scores with ex-Controler of the Treasury Milton J. Durham, Judge Jere Morton and Judge Kinkaid, who have recently ben making such hot speeches against him.

The colonel thought something was wrong politically or personally with each of his assailants, and the crowd went wild with enthusiasm.

REGAINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Cannon of England Outwrestled Mac Inerney the American.

Liverpool, Aug. 28.—MacInerney of America and Cannon of England met here last evening in a wrestling match for $500 a side and the championship of the world. The first bout, Graeco-Roman, was won by Cannon in seven minutes. The second, catch-as-catch-can, was won by MacInerney in thirteen minutes. Cannon had the choice of style of wrestling in the third bout and decided upon Graeco-Roman. He won the fall in about eight minutes, thus getting back he championship of the world. About 5,000 saw the match.

PULLMAN'S SIDE OF IT

Interesting Admissions by the Multi-Millionaire.

Only Cut Wages in a Department Losing Money—The Company Declared a Dividend of $2,800,000 This Year, but Still Refused To Maintain Wages.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—George M. Pullman appeared before the national labor commision yesterday afternoon as a voluntary witness. The president of the company which bears his name said the reasons for reducing wages were purely a matter of business, as the manufacturing department was losing money. He saw no reason why the company, although it had this year declared a dividend of $2,800,000 should raise the wages of men in a department which was losing money. As to matters of detail, the witness referred the commission to Vice-President Wickes, who followed him on the stand.

Mr. Pullman explained the clause in the lease which provides that either party may terminate it by giving ten days' notice was for the protection of the Pullman company, so that it might exclude all objectionable characters.

"What is the capital of the Pullman company?" asked Chairman Wright.

"Thirty-six million dollars."

"It has been stated in the public press that the Pullman company has a surplus of $16,000,000?"

"It is more than that," said Mr. Pullman. "This represents individual profits and is for the most part invested in assets."

"Are the dividends you pay based on a capital of $36,000,000?"

"They are. The dividends are two per cent. quarterly. The company has paid dividends since the beginning. For three years it paid three per cent. quarterly and for a while 9½ per cent. annually. Latterly it has paid 8 per cent. annually."

"Has it been the practice of the company to reduce wages from time to time, and if so will you tell us of such reductions?" asked Mr. Wright.

"I am not familiar with the daily workings of the town of Pullman. I will have to refer the commission to the second vice-president for those details. I will say, however, that for months we did not have an order for a car. I realized that unless something was done there would be suffering at Pullman, and after a consultation with Vice-President Wickes I determined to make bids under the actual cost of construction. We did this and I remember the first order was for 55 cars. I put in a bid for these cars at from $300 to $400 below the cost of a car, making up my mind to make this contribution rather than see my men idle. I believe many other car builders in the country felt the same way. As evidence of this the next lowest bid to mine was only $24 higher than mine. On another occasion I bid for a lot of 250 cars at a loss of $15 on each car, preferring to do this rather than see the freight shops closed. I underbid the next competitor only $1 a car. It cost us about $50,000 to keep the men at work as long as I did. I explained all this to Mr Heathcote, the leader of the strikers, who said to me: 'We want the wages of 1893.' I informed him that was impossible. I told him it would be a most unfortunate thing if the wages of 1893 were restored; that there was only six or eight weeks' work here as it was, and there was none in sight at the rate on which the wages of 1893 were based."

Mr. Pullman then said he told Mr. Heathcote that as long as he remained in the employ of the company he could have access to the highest officials and could even see the books, if he pleased.

"Were the books, as a matter of fact, shown to the strike committee?" inquired the chairman.

"They were not, because the men made no effort to see them."

"Are you at the town of Pullman much?"

"Not a great deal. I don't have time."

"What attempts, if any, did you make for a satisfactory adjustment of the troubles at Pullman?"

"An answer to that will come better from Vice-President Wickes."

"It has been stated publicly, very freely, that you were approached by the strikers, who looked for a settlement of the troubles and that you said you had nothing to arbitrate?"

"I did not use exactly those words. I may have told them something of the sort."

Judge Worthington then took the witness in hand. He asked if the Pullman Land association was a seperate corporation from the Pullman Car company.

Mr. Pullman replied that it was entirely so. The latter company owned the 500 acres on which the town was built and the improvements thereon. The stockholders of the two companies were about the same. There was, however, no community of interest.

"Can you tell the amount of wages paid the men since the formation of the company?"

"$32,847,924. For materials we have paid out in that time $73,000,000."

"The success of the company has been phenomenal, has it not?"

"I strived to make it so. I tried to make it good for the public, good for the employes, and, incidentally, good for the company."

Mr. Pullman then related his experience as an inventor and projector of the modern sleeping car. Under questioning by Judge Worthington he made the following statement:

"The profits fell off nearly $600,000 in the month of August alone last year as compared with the same month in 1892. As to the reduction of wages, I shall have to refer you to the people who had that matter in charge. I do no remember of any efforts at arbitration made by the Pullman company."

"Has the company made or lost money during the last year?"

"It has made money. It paid its usual dividend of 8 per cent., about $2,000,000 in all."

"Do you think it would have been right, Mr. Pullman, for a company making as much money as the Pullman company has, which last year declared a dividend of $2,800,000, to have in some measure shared its profits with the employes at Pullman?"

"The manufacturing department of Pullman is entirely separate from any other department of the company. The manufacturing department was losing money, and I see no reason why we should, simply because the company was prosperous, raise the wages in a particular department which was losing money."

"Has the company ever in ten years of unusual prosperity increased the wages of its employes?"

"It has not."

"What did you see that was so objectionable in submitting to a third party the question whether you should raise the wages of your employes or not?"

"I refer you to my written statement, which declares, in effect, I am able to manage my own business."

"Do you not think it would have been just to have divided with these employes a little while, so as to give them at least a fair living?"

"I do not. It would have amounted to a gift of money to these men. It was simply a matter of business."

Judge Worthington read a copy of the Pullman lease, which requires the tenant to do all the repairing. "Now this is not true, is it?"

Mr. Pullman seemed embarrassed. He said the Pullman company repaired the roofs; he knew that much, but he could not say as to other repairs. The lease also provided that in case the tenant did not make these repairs an amount of money sufficient to do the work should be deducted from his wages. When Mr. Pullman heard all these statements read he declared he could not swear to that lease as a Pullman lease. Mr. Doty, the acting Pullman landlord, gave it to him, he said. "I think the American Railway union was the cause of the trouble at Pullman," continued the witness. "We will retain no man in our employ who is a member of the American Railway union."

"Were rents reduced when wages went down?" asked Judge Worthington.

"They were not. So little income was coming from rents that we could not afford to reduce them further."

"Were your wages and those of other officers of the company reduced?"

"They were not."

"Why was this not done?"

"Well, if the wages of the superior officers were reduced they might have quite us."

THEIR TERMS EXPIRE.

Senators Whose Successors Are To Be Elected This Year.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The terms of the following United States senators expire March 3 next, and the legislatures which choose their successors are to be elected this falll:

Manderson, Nebraska; James McMillan, Michigan; R. F. Pettigrew, South Dakota; Thomas C. Power, Montana; George C. Shoup, Idaho; William D. Washburn, Minnesota, and Edward O. Wolcott, Colorado.

NEW WHISKEY TAX.

Internal Revenue Collectors Notified by Telegraph of the Advance.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The following telegram was sent to collectors of internal revenue at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon:

"After to-day collect tax on spirits at one dollar and ten cents per gallon and proportionate rates on all fractions of one-tenth or more. Notify all stamp deputies. JOS. S. MILLER, Commissioner.

UNCLE SAM'S GAINS.

Probably $20,000 Ahead by the New System of "Docking" Congressmen.

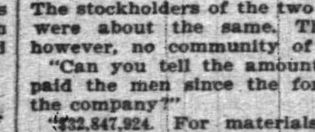
Washington, Aug. 28.—The new system of "docking" salaries of absent members of congress has left an aggregate of several thousand dollars, perhaps $20,000, of the forfeited pay of members in the hands of the sergeant-at-arms. This goes back into the treasury, so the government gains considerable by the transaction.

Dismissed Officers Appeal.

New York, Aug. 28.—Justice Beach, of the supreme court, has granted a writ of certiorari to Lawyer Fromme on the application of ex-Police Captain Doherty and ex-Wardmen Hoch and Bernard Mehan, all of whom were dismissed from the police force on July 24 last, charged with having received money to secure police protection. Mr. Fromme said he intended to fight the matter through the highest courts.

Good Templars Annual Session.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 28.—The city is fast filling up with delegates, fully 1,000 of whom are expected to attend the 30th annual session of the grand lodge Independent Order of Good Templars of the state, to be held in the Kingston opera house Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.



DIFFERENT TIMES bring different methods. The big, bulky pills such as our grandfathers had to put up with won't do to-day. Medical science has gone beyond them. It has given us something better—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets; tiny as mustard seeds, but more effective than anything you can take. That's because their methods are more natural. They have a peculiar strengthening or tonic effect on the lining membranes of the intestines, which gives a permanent cure. They prevent, relieve, and put an end to Biliousness, Constipation, Jaundice, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Sick or Bilious Headaches, Indigestion, and every like disorder.

"Incurable" cases of Catarrh are cured, perfectly and permanently, by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The makers of this medicine guarantee it to benefit or cure, or money refunded. By all dealers in medicines.

A REPORTER'S STORY.

What a Learned Professor Told the Writer and How It Was Put Into Practice.

(New York Exchange.)

I felt very badly and run down yesterday, probably about the same as many other people do just at this time. I was tired, weak, nervous, had no appetite, had had poor sleep for several nights, my mouth tasted badly and my head ached. I did not feel like work and so concluded to take a half holiday.

Just as I was turning into Broadway I met a friend who is a Professor in one of the New York colleges. We strolled leisurely along and I told the Professor of my trouble.

"Well," he exclaimed, "I know just what is the matter with you. Your stomach is sour and out of sorts and has virtually gone on a strike. I don't blame it a particle. See how you abuse it, by over eating, under eating, hasty lunches, wrong kinds of food, and all that sort of thing. It is only natural that it should rebel.

"That is all very well, Professor," I replied, "but if the stomach will not digest food what are you going to do?"

"Do!" he exclaimed, "why artifically digest the food for the stomach of course. Are you trying to make fun of me?" I asked.

"Not in the least. It is just as easy to digest food outside the stomach as within it," he exclaimed.

"Now you are mystifying me," I said.

"Nonsense. It is very simple. When you take food into your stomach it begins to digest the minute the saliva touches it; this progress is carried on still more in the stomach also in the intestines. Now can you not see how easy it is to mix vegetable digestive principles with the food even before you take it into the mouth, so that it is practically digested even before you touch it? That seems simple enough, does it not?"

I was bound to admit that it did.

"Well, that is just what scientists and physicians call pre-digestion or artificial digestion, and the discovery that it can be done is working a revolution upon the subject of digestion. Paskola, or pre-digested food, is simply a nourishing and starchy food, artificially digested. It gives the stomach no work whatever to do and at the same time aids the digestion of other foods; in other words, it gives the stomach a vacation. Take my advice and try it; you will certainly be surprised at the effect. Instead of feeling weak, tired, despondent, with a sinking sensation at the pit of the stomach and general lack of energy, you will find yourself strong, active, healthy and a new man."

I did not take the Professor's advice that day, thinking perhaps my little vacation would bring me around all right, but I did not. The next day I tried it though, and have received so much benefit and been brought around so completely that I determined to publish the arguments and advice of the learned Professor just as they occurred and for the benefit of others—and this is what I have done.

Paskola can be had of any reputable druggist. An interesting pamphlet descriptive of the product will be sent free on application to the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade st., New York.

NORTH PLAINFIELD ON THE TRACK.

Learning of Mayor Gilbert the Advantages of Plainfield's Coming Sewers.

The North Plainfield Committee on Sewers, Councilmen Lounsbury, Peck and Neal, met with Mayor Needham and Counsel Reed last night and listened to Mayor Gilbert's explanation of the advantages of sewers and the superiorities of Plainfield's proposed system. They listened intently to his remarks, and agreed that sewers would be a good thing, but the harmlessness of filtered sewage as drinking water, as cited in the South Framingham case, seemed incredible. As was said by an interested listener, "That filtered sewage business is hard to swallow, and it's going to be hard making Mr. Gilbert's new table water popular."

Mayor Gilbert was present by invitation, and Counsel Reed to give his legal advice. The committee will report to the Council next week, and petitions for sewers will be started among the citizens.

Augustus Utzinger, beer bottler, of Jackson avenue, has engaged Attorney George DeMeza to defend him at his trial at 2 in the afternoon, Friday, Sept. 7, in the City Court. Utzinger is charged by Chief Grant with selling beer in the city without the formality of taking out a license. The police will try to prove that he sold beer after the manner of a saloon-keeper several times, while Utzinger claims that he has always had an order for goods he has disposed of.

Court Coddington.

The trial of Mrs. Pickett of South Second street on a charge of abusing her neighbor, Mrs. Canary, was set down today for Saturday morning.

Edward Hoover, for being drunk, was given of choice of paying $5 fine or going to jail for 20 days.

Charles McCann of Liberty street, accused by his wife of breaking furniture, will be tried Saturday morning.

Jacob Goodman was sent to jail for 20 days for being drunk and disorderly.

Joseph Swick paid a $1 fine for peddling without a license.

Milton Darby and Edward Heckmen, who rode on freight trains, were released under suspended sentence.

THE SECRET ORDERS.

Three candidates were initiated by the Royal Arcanum last evening.

There was a good attendance at the final drill of Trinity Commandery, No. 9, K. T., in preparation for the field day in Asbury Park tomorrow.

Fourteen Red Men from the two tribes of Plainfield went to Somerville last evening and assisted in the celebration of the second anniversary of Naraticong Tribe, No. 31. Remarks, recitations and a banquet were enjoyed.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Zimmerman may ride at the next meet of the Crescents.

The South Brooklyn Wheelmen will run to Plainfield Sept. 2.

Charles Archibald of Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, rode to Plainfield with a friend Sunday and called on his cousin, E. E. Vail of Elmwood place.

A number of the Crescent Wheelmen paraded about town last night with transparencies advertising the races to be held tomorrow afternoon beginning at 3.

One of Many Such Local Cases.

Since the escapade of Kate Parkinson and Clara Conger, resulting in finding the missing girls in Newark, Clara Conger's stepfather has been seeking the arrest of Garrett Mattis, a lad who is accused by the Conger girl of ill-treating her. Clara is 14 years old, and Mattis not much older.

Yesterday two men called on Justice Mosher and demanded the arrest of Mattis. Finding that the alleged offense took place in Middlesex County, the justice sent them to New Market. The arrest of Mattis is expected this afternoon.

Mr. Runyon Recovering.

Charles Runyon of West Seventh street is still at the Bayview House, Atlantic Highlands. He is recovering from the injuries he received in a runaway a few days ago when he was thrown from a carriage by the actions of a frightened horse. Three stitches had to be taken in cuts on his head.

Is Capt. Martin Snared at Last?

People are asking today if Cupid has at last laid hold of genial Capt. F. L. C. Martin, who has so gaily defied the little god of love. All that is known is that he was seen on a Jersey Central train yesterday, escorting a popular Plainfield young lady, and carrying a sachel labeled "Bride and Groom".

Hopes to Resume Work.

J. W. Cramlery, one of the regular linemen of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company who has been very ill for several weeks with rheumatism, will try to do a little work again in a day or two.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CONNECTICUT ASHORE.

The Big Sound Steamboat Runs on a Sand Bank.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 27.—The steamboat Connecticut of the Providence and Stonington line went ashore on a sand bank at Field's Point early this morning in a fog.

Her passengers were taken off by river excursion boats and the freight by barges.

The steamboat was expected to float at high tide this afternoon, as she was but a few feet from the channel. The vessel sustained no damage.

CUSTOM HOUSE RUSH.

More Business Done Today Than in the Whole Preceding Year.

New York, Aug. 28—Because of the change in the tariff, the amount of business transacted in the Custom House today was greater than the total volume of business for a whole year past.

HORSES NOT INVITED.

But for Man and Dog the Water Soon Will Flow.

The dedication of the public drinking fountain erected by the Christian Endeavor Local Union at the corner of Front and Somerset streets will take place tomorrow evening at 7:15.

The exercises will be conducted by Rev. Arthur Crane, and E. M. Cave, President of the Union. Members of all Christian Endeavor societies and their friends are urged to be present.

The programme will consist of singing, "Rescue the Perishing"; Scripture lesson; an address by President E. M. Cave; prayer by Rev. Arthur Crane; singing, "Throw out the Life-line", and the benediction.

Mayor Gilbert has given his consent to the holding of the exercises, and the water will be turned on when the fountain is dedicated.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. Mr. Thompson, principal of the Canaan (Conn.) Academy, assisted in the services in the Church of the Redeemer Sunday.

The meeting at the Third Street Mission Thursday night will be led by J. C. Whiting, a very interesting speaker, and there will be special music.

A letter has been received by Trinity Church Clerk Daniel VanWinkle from Rev. Cornelius Schenck stating that he and his family will be home this week, and he will occupy his pulpit Sunday. All are well.

A congregational meeting of the First Church of Christ was well attended last evening. Deacon John Ackerman presided. The seal of the society was received and accepted. It was decided to refer the whole of the financial complication to the trustees for settlement. The principal matter for consideration is the executing of a $2,000 mortgage to the John Stewart estate. It is probable that this will be done at once, as the church cannot be sold with the Stewart claim against it. The trustees will meet tomorrow night.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A fine new sign has been painted for Charles Greader at Somerset and Chatham streets.

—100 baskets more of choice fruits will be received by Neuman Bros. tomorrow. Call early. Watchung avenue and Fifth street.

—Take your overcoat with you, but by all means go and enjoy the glories of Mauch Chunk, on the cheap and popular Jersey Central excursion, Labor Day.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will hold a regular monthly meeting in their headquarters on West Second street this evening. Practice may be resumed.

—The North avenue Chinamen take one glass of soda-water a day. They invariably take plain lemon, and complain that it is too cold. Of course they go to Reynolds's.

—Mrs. Allie N. Lines reached the Morris Plains asylum yesterday afternoon at 2:30 She did not realize whither she had been taken. The Misses Manning will care for the children.

—With the constant building going on in Plainfield, David T. Kenney of North avenue is kept busy putting in superior plumbing such as he excels in, and his men are sought after continually to make thorough repair of defective old systems.

Busy as a Bee, and More Useful.

William P. Howe, who cultivates the farm of the late George Stewart in Washingtonville, is now engaged in the carpentry business in this city, and has to do the agricultural work after his eight hours daily labor at his trade.

Penitent Hankerson.

When Court Needham closed last night Court Crosley commenced. Prime Hankerson, colored, of Westervelt avenue, was called up for a lecture on peaceable living and neighborly courtesy. He appeared to be penitent, and the formal charge was withdrawn.

Death of Elmo Daniels.

Sad affliction has visited the Daniels household at 521 East Sixth street, in the death of their 14-year old son Elmo. The funeral will be from the afflicted parents' residence tomorrow afternoon at 2.

Press Criticism Heeded.

Minstrel George Thatcher has gracefully accepted the suggestion of The Daily Press and excised the objectionable features of the "Sunbeam Dance".

WHAT DOES IT MATTER?

"It matters little where I was born,
Or if my parents were rich or poor;
Whether they shrank at the cold world's scorn,
Or walked in the pride of wealth secure;
But whether I live an honest man,
And hold my integrity firm in my clutch,
I tell you, brother, plain as I am,
It matters much!

It matters little how long I stay
In a world of sorrow, sin and care,
Whether in youth I am called away,
Or live till my bones and pate are bare;
But whether I do the best I can
To soften the weight of adversity's touch
On the faded cheek of my fellow man,
It matters much!

It matters little where be my grave,
Or on the land or on the sea,
By purling brook or 'neath stormy wave,
It matters little or naught to me;
But whether the angel Death comes down
And marks my brow with his loving touch,
As one that shall wear the victor's crown,
It matters much!

JAPAN'S DEBT TO MRS. JINGU.

A Woman, It is Said Led Japan's First Naval Expedition.

It is to a woman that Japan owes her claim to Corea and to the naval supremacy of the Eastern world. The first naval expedition which made Japan's "arms to shine beyond the seas," as the chroniclers of the day so proudly wrote, was planned and conducted by a woman, the Empress Jingu, and it was directed against Corea. The Empress Jingu, according to the Japanese chronicles, was young and beautiful. As a reward for her fidelity heaven inspired her with the determination to conquer Corea. So Jingu, ordering a fleet to be collected, set out in 201 A.D. upon Japan's first naval expedition.

The Empress won a rich reward for her courage and energy, and Corea became tributary to Japan. Immediately upon her return a child was born to the Empress, who, when he grew up, became a great warrior, and is now worshipped under the name of Hachiman, God of War. In later times it became the fashion to attribute the Corean victory to the influence of the unborn child. All over Japan there are temples erected in honor of both Hachiman and Jingu, and as late as 1874, when the Japanese troops left for Formosa, many of them prayed for the especial protection of Hachiman, God of soldiers.

King Milan's Bargain.

King Milan of Servia once went to the hotel of a distinguished lady, who was giving a bazaar for the benefit of the poor children of Paris. As soon as the King appeared upon the scene she advanced toward him with a splendid silver salver in her hand, on which was beautifully emblazoned the family arms. On it lay a pretty little bunch of violets. "How much, madame?" asked the King. "Twenty-four louis, sire," was the soft response. Milan paid her the sum she asked with a courteous bow, took the salver from her hands, placed the bouquet in his buttonhole and walked off with the tray under his arm.—Argonaut.

Young York's Stunning Cake.

The cake used at the ceremony of the christening of the infant Prince at White Lodge was pure white, ornamented in relief with the royal, the Duke of York's and the city of Edinburgh arms, entwined with delicate wreaths of York roses, and surrounded at the base by flowers, satin ribbon and delicate lace. On the top of the cake stood a cradle, with satin coverlet draped with lace and surmounted by a crown, while at the head of the cradle were crossed two silk banners, the royal arms and the Union Jack. The whole was mounted on a silver stand, and measured thirty inches in height and sixty-two inches in circumference.

A Young Queen in Mischief.

The little Queen of Holland has been getting into mischief. She was returning from Switzerland with her mother in a special train a short time ago, when the alarm cord was pulled and the train stopped. The railway officials were unable to find the offender and were scolding away near the royal carriage, when the little Queen's head appeared at the window and she cried out in great alarm, "It wasn't me, please." The officials, being satisfied that the real culprit was revealed, ordered the train to proceed.

An Amusing Scientific Experiment.

An ingenius boy, with any musical instinct, can produce the most marvelous tones with an ordinary paper knife. In fact, one can play tunes with it by striking the knife against a hollow piece of furniture—the angle of a desk, for example. By experimenting all sounds of the gamut can be produced. Various airs can be played after some practice with this primitive instrument.

Didn't Know Pauline was a Princess.

In Stuttgart, some time ago, Pauline, the King's daughter, who dresses very plainly, was passing a sentinel, who, not recognizing her, failed to give the proper salutations, and a sergeant across the street attracted his attention, and by violent gesticulations endeavored to prompt him, whereupon the soldier said to the princess: "Say, Miss, the sergeant over there wants to see you."

Her Perfumed Fountain.

The Empress of Russia keeps a perfume fountain in her reception room, and can have any one of a dozen fragrant odors sprayed about by pressing a button. Very often when her husband touches a button his attendants sniff danger.

A very pleasing table decoration that is easily carried out throughout the summer months is the addition of flowers to the finger bowls. Use double bowls, one large enough to hold the other and fill the space between the two with very small blossoms. The effect of dipping the finger into the flower encircled water is decidedly unique and agreeable.

Do not dress inappropriately or conspicuously. It is better to be underdressed than overdressed. Women of refinement give attention to the shoes first, the gloves next, while the dress and bonnet are later considerations.

...cted ...isor- ...riod of ...place of ...e trial of ...was charged ...of the Morals, ...nance. ...e lockup was ...crowd of natives ...trial began at 6:30. ..., who had just returned ...on, was an interested guest. ...rshal Pangborn represented the ...orities until Corporation Counsel Reed came in while the third witness was testifying. The defendant's lawyer was Attorney George DeMeza.

Three Plainfield policemen, Frederickson, Mattox and Rockafellow, testified that Julius Barschofskie had conducted a game of cards for money in his shop on the Somerset street bridge the night of Friday last and the morning of Saturday. Mattox and Frederickson had seen the table, the cards, the money and the players on looking through two holes in a rear door. The game was being played on the Somerset county side of the shop. The policemen testified to having heard remarks about raising, going better and placing the ante. Those who had gazed through the holes told of the coins they had seen. Rockafellow had heard remarks. The holes were described as being as large as a lead pencil, the two officers insisting that they had been able to see through them in spite of the claims of Counsel DeMeza. Rockafellow had been attracted by the loud noise at night.

Julius was the first witness for his side. Counsel DeMeza explained that the case should be dismissed because the defendant's name was Barschofskie, not Warschofskie as the complaint stated. Counsel Reed remarked that the appearance of the man made the dismissal unnecessary. The defendant's lawyer then protested that the Court had no jurisdiction as the men had been in Union County at the time when they were said to have been disorderly in Somerset.

Barschofskie's evidence was a narrative of what had occurred that night. He had remained up until 2 trying to sell his business to Abraham Kuntzman. The remarks about money which the officers claimed they had heard related to the price of various shoes. No table had been used for card playing but an employe and a friend had played casino until 9:30. The men were on the Union County side of the line all the time.

Max Schwinkelhofer was called next. He was Pole No. 2 who had played casino on a lap-board with the workman. He stuck to the time 9:30 and the Union County claim. Max Epstein, the workman, came next. The aid of Herman Moss as an interpreter was called. Epstein told the same story as his employer and friend. He had not talked with Barschofskie about the matter at all. The holes in the door were no larger than a match and the officers could not have looked through them. Abraham Kuntzman, who has a shop in the City Hotel building, was introduced as the prospective purchaser of Barschofskie's stock. He agreed with the others on everything except as to the way the men had left the shop. He had paid for beer once during the night. Helman Sermer was another Polish witness who knew all about the innocent way in which the night had been spent.

In summing up Attorney DeMeza relied upon the testimony of the Poles to clear his client. Prosecutor Reed read the section of the ordinance referred to and explained that according to evidence of all the witnesses every clause of it had been violated.

Mayor Needham said that the case was one which called for greater punishment than a fine. He imposed a fine of $19 and in addition sentenced Barschofskie to go to Somerville for five days. Attorney DeMeza said he would go to the Supreme Court with the case, and was allowed ten days in which to obtain a writ of certiorari. To guarantee the good faith of the convicted man $25 was deposited with the borough.

Not Plainfield's Style.

John Rafferty of Park avenue found business grown so that he hunted for another good man to assist at the bar. He accepted a young chap, who said he had been years in the business. But the newcomer could n't draw a glass of beer, and went rushing about with a towel on his shoulder in a style that proved him a Bowery hash-house waiter. He was so cheeky with patrons that he was set to work polishing brass fittings, and after finishing his trial day was shipped.

'Twill Be Greater Next Year.

Pastor Brice feels truly grateful for the success of the South Stirling harvest home. He desires The Press to thank all the good people of the country, even outside of the congregation, for their zealous work, and Plainfield friends for their attendance and co-operation. The affair netted $100, which is a creditable result for the first venture.

Needs a New Lamp.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—Will The Press kindly inform the residents of Central avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets why the street lamp located in this block is seldom ever lighted, making it very gloomy, as well as dangerous, for driving during these dark nights. AFFLICTED RESIDENT.

Feels Himself Secure.

Postmaster Charles J. Noel of Netherwood states that he has just been empowered to contract for the carrying of the mail between his office and the railroad station for a year, which to his mind indicates that his office is not to be abolished Oct. 1 as has been reported.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

GRAND JURY MAY HEAR MR. MILES.

Ex-Justice Davis Interested in the Charges Against the Defendant.

It was expected when the Grand Jury ordered an indictment for forgery against William Miles formerly of North Plainfield last Friday that the indictment would be filed in Part I in the General Sessions today. This is not probable now, owing to action taken by former Supreme Court Justice Noah Davis.

Mr. Miles, it will be remembered, was indicted on complaint of his nephew, William Samuel Hurley of Wallabout Market, Brooklyn, son of the late Samuel Hurley, Miles's former partner in the tanning business.

Young Hurley brought suit in the Supreme Court in 1892 against Miles for $350,000, on the ground that Miles had retained unjustly a part of the late Samuel Hurley's property. The suit was withdrawn, however, before a decision had been reached, and Judge Barrett, presiding, congratulated the litigants on their action in terminating the proceedings.

On what basis the suit was withdrawn neither the plaintiff nor the defendant has disclosed. Ex-Justice Noah Davis was one of the counsel for the defendant.

Miles, who is eighty-three years old, is at Martha's Vineyard. He has been there all Summer.

Ex-Justice Davis visited Acting District Attorney John F. McIntyre yesterday and said that it would be only just if the Grand Jury should consent to hear Mr. Miles before filing an indictment. It was like a thunderclap to Mr. Miles, he said, to hear that he had been indicted.

The defendant, on learning of the action of the Grand Jury, had started at once for this city to get a hearing before that body. He will probably arrive in New York today.

Mr. McIntyre acceded to the ex-Justice's request, and will go before the Grand Jury and acquaint them with the situation. There is no doubt that the Grand Jury will await the old gentleman's arrival.

The complainant charges that Miles forged a paper by which he claimed in the civil suit that Hurley senior had settled all transactions with him.

Peak-Planting by a Plainfielder.

Leo Daft formerly of Plainfield was flag-bearer for the recent ascenders of Mt. Ranier, the highest peak of the United States except Mt. St. Elias, and planted the American colors at the summit, in the crater of the extinct volcano, 15,550 feet above the sea. A full-page description of the trip, with vivid illustrations, is given in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer of Sunday, Aug. 12.

A Man of Public Spirit.

The prospect of immediate macadamizing of Duer street fills the residents with joy. They have largely to thank for this great public improvement the liberality of L. B. Woolston, who generously advanced the money which subscribers have been delinquent in paying. He should be speedily reimbursed.

To Play Two in One.

As an appetizer to the menu of hearty laughter which he afterward serves in "Incog", Charles Dickson, when he appears at Music Hall, Saturday evening, will offer a new curtain-raiser, "The Salt-Cellar". This is a domestic glimpse in one act, and relates in quaint humor the experiences of a newly married couple.

A Flourishing Garden.

Henry T. Smith of 65 Westervelt avenue has among the other attractions at his residence a fine garden. A specialty therein has been his tomatoes, which have produced abundantly, and in size the fruit has approached nearly two pounds apiece.

Hard Luck of the Greaders.

Mrs. Charles Greader, whose husband fell from a load of hay and received injuries that confined him to his residence, is suffering intensely from a cancer. An operation was recently performed, and there are slight hopes for her recovery.

Carrying Out the Idea.

Finding the system of hiring outside labor so popular among the majority of the Council, one of the minority who fought so vigorously for the home workmen on the sewer contract has employed an out-of-town contractor to do some stonework for him.

A Veteran in the Business.

W. R. Mattox, who has had charge of Music Hall for the Board of Directors, has been highly complimented for his management of the house during the successful rehearsal and first-night production of "About Gotham".

The Only Accident Was to Himself.

It takes A. V. D. Honeyman to manage an excursion. During his European trip he had only one accident, and that was to himself. He caught the end of the forefinger of his left hand in a car door and will lose the nail.

Surprising Criminal Census.

John Goodwin of Manning avenue visited State Prison last week. He says that he was informed by one of the keepers that there are over 1,000 prisoners in the institution.

Generous Mr. Ackerman.

The trustees of St. John's Guild announce that Ernest R. Ackerman's contribution enabled them to give 1,359 poor people a day of pleasure on the water.

Scotch Plains.

James Ritchie has returned from a trip to Atlantic City.

Charles Wade, of Buckley's store, is ill with chills and fever.

The roping in of the diamond is an improvement on the ball grounds.

Miss Amy Cook of Park avenue is spending a week in Ocean Grove.

A number of men from the Plains went to the McAuliffe-Griffo fight last night.

Henry Schwalbach's latest catch in the Passaic River included seven fine bass.

Edson Day and Charles Boyer went yesterday to the Passaic river to fish for bass.

Regret is expressed by all for the severe illness of Mrs. David Ross of East Front street.

Charles Brown and family of Park avenue have returned home from a week of vacation.

John Flannery has returned from a vacation trip of ten days spent in Newark and elsewhere.

Three different teams are considering a game with the Scotch Plains nine Saturday afternoon.

Augustus Frentz and family of Westfield avenue made a carriage trip to Boynton Beach Sunday.

Mrs. W. C. Stanbery and Mr. and Mrs W. R. Stanbery are recorded as honored guests at Seabright.

Tickets are out for the stereopticon lecture to be given Sept. 6 for the benefit of the choral society.

Roy Day stopped William H. Carter's horse while it was running away on Park avenue Saturday night.

Rowland C. Tredwell and family of East Sixth street, Plainfield, spent Sunday with friends in the village.

John L. Force has had his West Side Hotel wired for electric lights, ready for the opening tomorrow night.

Boston Campbell rejoices over the return of his employer and his consequent release from responsibility.

The boys of the Plains beat a Fanwood nine of junior players on the local diamond yesterday afternoon 9 to 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith of Bound Brook spent Sunday with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark.

The Misses Huston will return to New York city Saturday from spending the Summer in the Stanbury cottage on Park avenue.

Rev. J. S. Braker is engaged in correspondence with a musician with the aim of engaging him as leader of the choral society.

Union services will be held by the Baptists and Methodists next Sunday evening, Pastor Mariett preaching in the Baptist Church.

Charles Stumpf has secured ten names for the list which he is preparing in anticipation of organizing a division of Sons of Temperance.

Charles Boyer of Perth Amboy, accompanied by his son Charles, is spending a week with his brother-in-law, William Day of Mountain avenue.

George Randolph, Jr., aged nine, fell from Collins's stage while he was playing about yesterday afternoon. He was stunned and had to be attended by Dr. F. W. Westcott.

Frank Wilson of Kingston, N. Y., formerly of the Plains, is visiting relatives in New Brunswick. He wheeled over to the village Sunday and yesterday and called on friends here.

The way the spectators responded to the request of the collector at the ball game Saturday afternoon guarantees the continuance of the series of games in the Plains.

The longest hit ever made on the local diamond was that of Lewis Frentz Saturday. He forgot to touch second base in his hurry and gained nothing but exercise from his strong batting.

Sam Frazee and Tony Cregier will be the musicians at the opening of John Force's West-Side Hotel, Scotch Plains, tomorrow afternoon and evening. The Clipper Quartette will sing. Jas. Loughlin will dispense liquid refreshment.

The society of Mountain Lodge, Little Moose Lake, Adirondacks, finds a welcome addition in Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, daughter Miss Daisy; and their friend Miss Corlies of Plainfield is the belle of Bisby Lodge in the nearby League Club preserve.

The score of the game Saturday afternoon between the local team and the Lenox Athletic Association of Brooklyn was 10 to 1 in favor of the Plains. The players were: Scotch Plains—Schmidt rf; Fields 3b; Johnson p; C. Frentz cf; Macauley lf; Hand ss; Ball c; L. Frentz 1b; Erickson 2b. Lenox Association—Donigan 3b; Leach rf; Whitson 2b; Sautelle cf; Simmonds lf; Flannigan ss; Shomer 1b; Taylor p; Simonson c.

Fanwood.

The train order posts and boards are now up, but have n't been used.

Harry Robinson paid a flying visit to Fanwood last week. He was chipper as a bird, and his friends were glad to see him.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pentz entertained Mr. Pentz's father Sunday, and the merry family party enjoyed a drive to Mendham.

John L. Jones, Jr., of Flemington, has purchased the house on North avenue lately occupied by Mr. Lawrence and is now moving in.

The residence of the Misses Hayes is fast approaching completion. The fine plumbing work of George Tobin is now receiving the finishing touches under Mr. Tobin's direct management.

Walter Force of Fanwood, who was dangerously ill, is now able to sit out on his front veranda, and the hack boys are able to resume their ball games, which were discontinued while he was ill.

Augustus Frentz has taken a contract to construct a $40,000 residence for Hon. Carl Schurz at Murray Hill. Mr. Frentz is so busy with that and other contracts that he has n't time to collect his rents.

Iceman Wheeler, who has been supplying ice to Station Fisher, took exceptions to Fisher patronizing Iceman Lambert, and said that when he came back from his route he would get even with him. Judge Moore was notified, and Wheeler did n't come back.

The sidewalks at Fanwood are still being added to by the same material which is lining the pockets of the shoemakers at the expense of the residents. Upon the best authority it is stated that a prominent Jersey Central official has recently purchased a large block of shoe-factory stock. This looks reasonable, as, although the work is done by Mayor Downer of the township, the railroad company furnishes the material which is being placed upon the walks.

Dunellen and New Market.

Jacob Snell is visiting in Hunterdon County.

Robert Carpenter is out again after a few-days illness.

Mr. Lyness and H. Woods have returned to their home in Jersey City, after a pleasant visit of two weeks with Elias Milliken.

Adam Dealsman will spend the week in Asbury Park, and bring home his family, who have been stopping several weeks in the Park.

The many friends of John Thomas Donahue are in deep grief over his death, which occurred this morning, aged 25 years, 8 months and 11 days. Typhoid fever was the illness.

Ebenezer Tingley of Roycefield, who has been visiting his brother George in Summit, paid his brother John a visit on his way home yesterday.

William Riker, coachman for Frank Covey, who while caring for one of the horses was bitten in the lip, is doing well under the care of Dr. Brakeley.

The committee on text-books met yesterday afternoon in Dr. Whitford's office, Dunellen, for the purpose of adopting books for the local and district schools. The committee, Dr. Whitford, Albert Soper, and William Fitz Randolph, were assisted at the meeting by Revs. A. I. Martine and Frank Fletcher.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson, her daughter Miss Georgia, her granddaughter Edna Garner, and her grandson Russell Carter, who have been stopping at the Nelson House, left there today and will spend a few days at the home of Mrs. Martin, Grove street, North Plainfield. They will then return to their home in New York.

PLAINFIELD'S THEIR MODEL.

New Brunswick Officials Given an Insight in Modern Fire Methods.

Chief Doane entertained a party of interested visitors from New Brunswick with an exhibition of the workings of the fire department yesterday afternoon. The party was composed of Chief Greenwald, Alderman and ex-Chief Jaques, the three members of the Fire Committee and the city clerk.

The New Brunswick committee are about to decide whether a bell or a whistle is the better alarm to adopt when the Gamewell system is introduced into their city. The volume of the Plainfield gong was shown by the Chief at 4:30 when he sounded a single blow. They were much pleased with the noise.

The visitors were given an opportunity to examine, in addition to the gong apparatus, the workings of all the details of the fire service. The arrangement of the new headquarters especially interested them. They expressed themselves as astonished at the inexpensiveness, the efficiency and the completeness of the equipment.

In the evening, after the New Brunswick visitors had gone, the Chief showed a party of Plainfielders the whole system of answering alarms, bringing out the horses in all the houses.

G. A. R. ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT.

Low Rates to Pittsburg.

Interest in the annual reunions of the Grand Army of the Republic and Naval Veterans Association grows with each succeeding year, not only among the veterans themselves, but among all patriotic citizens of the republic.

The encampment this year at Pittsburg from present indications, promises to be as interesting and enthusiastic as any reunion since the war. Thousands of veterans from all parts of the country will be present, and Pittsburg will surpass herself in showing them her hospitality.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. will sell excursion tickets from all ticket stations on its line east of the Ohio river, for all trains September 6 to 10, valid for return passage on all trains until September 25, inclusive, at one fare for the round trip.

Senator Hill to Speak in Somerville.

United States Senator David B. Hill will make an address at the annual exhibition of the Somerset County Agricultural Society, which takes place in Somerville Sept. 12 and 13. F. P. Olcott, a New York banker, who has a country residence at Bernardsville, is a great friend of the Senator, and induced him to promise to attend. In a letter written to Mr. Olcott last week, Mr. Hill promises to speak on agriculture (no politics) at noon Thursday, Sept. 13.

Honorably Contracted.

(From The New Brunswick Home News.)

Editor T. W. Morrison, of the Plainfield Evening News, who has been at the Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, for the past ten days, undergoing a surgical operation, has almost recovered and is expected to be around in a day or two. Mr. Morrison is well known in this city. The disease for which he is treated was contracted while he was in the Union Army and a captive at Libby Prison.

Fanwood Township Ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the removing and trimming of trees standing upon or in the side lines of the sidewalks within the Township of Fanwood.

The Inhabitants of the Township of Fanwood by their Township Committee do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That all trees standing on the inner or outer side lines of any of the sidewalks within said Township of Fanwood, which said trees, or the branches thereof, shall in anyway interfere with or obstruct the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks or the approaches thereto, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the approach of vehicles to said sidewalks, or any of them, or which shall interfere with or obstruct the light from the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks, or any of them, shall be so trimmed by the owner or owners of the lands adjacent to the sidewalks upon which said trees may be standing, within twenty days after the passage of this ordinance, as not to permit of any obstruction to the free passage of pedestrians walking to and fro on said sidewalks, or the approaches thereto, or any obstruction to the approach of vehicles thereto from the public roads or streets, or permit the obstruction of the light or lights from any of the electric or other street lamps along said sidewalks.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted that said trees shall be trimmed as referred to in the preceding section by the persons and in the manner therein mentioned, under the direction of the chairman of the Township Committee of said Township of Fanwood, or such other person or persons as said Township Committee may designate or appoint.

Sec. 3. And be it enacted that if any person or persons owning the lands lying adjacent to the sidewalks within said township aforesaid shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance, said person or persons so offending shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Passed Aug., 21, 1892.

EDWARD L. HAND, Township Clerk.

Corporation Notice.

Proposals for Sewers

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a special meeting duly called for the purpose held August 20, 1894, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1894, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the city of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials in the construction of such portion of the sewer contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25, 1894, as provided for in the plans and specifications now on file in the office of the City Clerk, No. 109 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $1,000, payable to the Treasurer of the city of Plainfield.

The Engineer's estimate of the quantities of material required and the work to be done is approximately as follows:

10 feet 24 inch pipe sewer.
3,780 feet 18 inch pipe sewer.
6,130 feet 15 inch pipe sewer.
6,570 feet 12 inch pipe sewer.
1,095 feet 10 inch pipe sewer.
9,910 feet 8 inch pipe sewer.
960 Y branches.
67 manholes.
28 drop connections at manholes.
25 lamp holes.
Two 150 gallon flush tanks.
One 1,000 gallon flush tank.
300 extension connections on Y branches.
5,000 feet tile under drains.

Duplicate plans may be examined and forms of proposal, specifications, contract, bond, etc., may be obtained at the office of the Engineer, 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

All proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Sewers."

JAMES T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

ODDS AGAINST BRECKINRIDGE.

Thousands of Dollars Wagered on the Congressional Fight.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 28.—As the time draws near for the congressional primary to be held, the betting men are getting their money together, and to judge from present indications there will be more money wagered on the result of this contest than was ever laid on an annual election in Kentucky.

Col. N. P. Pepper, of Frankfort, has already wagered $21,800 on Owens. He is now betting $1,000 to $800 on Owens, and wants all the takers he can get. Col. E. F. Clay, proprietor of the famous Runnymede farm, is said to have wagered some big amounts on Owens. W. H. Laudeman, the well-known bookmaker, and D. F. Frazer, one of the owners of the Phoenix hotel, are taking all the bets they can get. It is stated that Riley Grannon will send as much as $40,000 here to bet on Owens.

The only Breckinridge plunger so far developed is C. K. Oldham, the real estate broker. He has laid between $800 and $1,000 on the colonel, and he says he will bet more.

Accidentally Killed Himself.

Glens Falls, Aug. 28.—Hon. Alson B. Abbott, a prominent and highly respected citizen of Warren county, was instantly killed at his home here yesterday by the accidental discharge of a shotgun which he was cleaning, preparatory to going hunting. In 1878 he was elected as member of assembly from this county and served one term. He was a candidate for the nomination for senator in 1889, but was defeated.

Benefit Game for Charlie Bennett.

Boston, Aug. 28.—The Boston baseball club, with Champion James J. Corbett occupying the left field, played with a picked nine yesterday afternoon a benefit game for ex-catcher Charlie Bennett, who lost his legs on the railroad recently. About $5,000 was netted for the unfortunate man.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARRINGTON PLACE,
Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN ZANDT,
304 and 306 Park avenue.

Dr. Lighthill

THE KNIGHTS IN LINE

Waving Plumes Reviewed by the President.

Fully 8,000 Men, Representing the Order All Over the Country, Make a Magnificent Showing—Streets Crowded Almost to Suffocation To View the Parade.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The Knights of Pythias had an ideal day for their parade, and the streets along the line of march was crowded almost to suffocation. Fully 8,000 men were in line. Broadcloth uniform coats were a little too thick for comfort, perhaps, but the knights did not appear to mind such a slight inconvenience and made a magnificent showing with their waving plumes and gold and silver accoutrements.

The parade assembled at Camp Washington on the monument grounds at 4 o'clock and marched up 17th street to Pennsylvania avenue, where the procession turned and the knights marched in review past President Cleveland. A small stand, decorated appropriately, had been erected in front of the white house, and on this the president stood during the entire time occupied by the procession in passing.

Mr. Cleveland, accompanied by Col. C. A. Kahlo, Major-General Carahan's chief of staff, in full uniform, and Col. John M. Wilson, U. S. A., the commissioner of public buildings and grounds, walked through the white house grounds to the stand amid continuous applause, and as he came in view of the thousands assembled at that point, a great cheer went up, to which he responded by doffing his hat. He took a dignified interest in the incidents that occurred in his presence. Folowing his custom, the president reserved his salutes for the national flag and for the heads of divisions.

Members of the citizens' committee on horseback led the parade. They were followed by the National Rifles, the National Fencibles, the champion prize militia company of the United States; the Corcoran Cadets and other local military organizations. Then came Maj.-Gen. Carahan, commander-in-chief of the Uniform rank, riding at the head of his staff, composed of brigadier-generals and colonels to numerous to mention.

Preceding in line was according to seniority of commanding officers of brigade. The Indiana brigade occupied the right. The line was as follows:

Indiana brigade, First Maryland regiment, First Alabama regiment, Kansas brigade, First regiment of the District, Oklahoma City division, Massachusetts brigade, First Maine regiment, First New Hampshire regiment, Iowa brigade, Illinois brigade, First Louisiana regiment, First regiment Maritime provinces, Toronto division, Wisconsin brigade, Kentucky brigade, Texas brigade, Pennsylvania brigade, West Virginia brigade, First Virginia regiment, Missouri brigade, New Jersey brigade, Wilmington division, Ohio brigade, Tenessee brigade, Arkansas regiment, Minnesota brigade, Michigan brigade, New York brigade, Connecticut brigade, Rhode Island regiment, Coast brigade—consisting of the First Georgia regiment, First Florida regiment and First Colorado regiment, First South Dakota regiment, cavalry squadron, composed of the Baner Hussars, of Illinois, D. D. Bowers Hussars, of Missouri; Phil Sheridan division and Joe Hooker division of New York; Arlington division of the District.

The line of march was eastward along Pensylvania avenue from 17th stret, down 15th street, past the treasury department building to Pensylvania avenue, thence eastward to the Peace monument at the foot of Capitol hill, around the monument and back to the camp by the same route. The column moved along the north side of the avenue, and after turning the Peace monument, came up on the south side, so that for part of the time one part of the line was going in one direction and the second part in another.

FRENCH FORCES BEATEN.

Driven to Timbuctoo After Three Days' Fighting.

Paris, Aug. 29.—A dispatch from St. Louis, capital of the French possessions in Senegambia, to the Journal des Debats, says that the Touregs recently surprised the French, and after three days' fighting pursued them to Timbuctoo, where another fight took place, resulting, as before, in favor of the Touaregs.

The French sortied from Timbuctoo, but were overwhelmed with numbers and forced to retire. In the latter fight three companies of French soldiers were completely cut to pieces.

M. Delcasse, minister of colonies, has received no information confirming the Debats' report of the defeat of the French soldiers by the Touaregs at Timbuctoo.

GOV. WAITE ARRESTED

Serious Charges Against Colorado's Executive.

Other Warrants Issued for the Arrest of Police Officials—Conspiracy Charged the Complainant — The Governor Refuses Bail and Creates a Scene in Court.

Denver, Col., Aug 29.—Gov. Davis H. Waite was arrested last evening on a warrant charging him with opening and retaining a letter addressed to Mrs. Likens, formerly matron at Police headquarters. The warrant was issued by United States Commissioner Hinsdale, who also issued warrants for the arrest of President Dennis Mullins, of the police board; Hamilton Armstrong, chief of police, and Kate Dwyer, matron at police headquarters.

The complaint was made by Mrs. Likens and was investigated by Post-office Inspector McMahon. Mr. McMahon laid the matter before United States District Attorney Johnson and a formal complaint was drawn up.

The letter upon which these warrants were based was written to Mrs. Likens by Jesse Parr, of Pueblo, who answered an advertisement for a housekeeper. Mr. Parr said he was in need of a friend and a good woman in this letter, and two of the words have been underscored by pencil, which Parr says was not done by him.

It was about six days after this letter was received that Mrs. Likens was discharged. It is charged that this letter to Mrs. Likens was not only unlawfully opened, but there was a conspiracy; that this letter went into the hands of Chief Armstrong, Mrs. Kate Dwyer, Denis Mullins and Gov. Waite, and the answer to this advertisement for a housekeeper was the point they urged against Mrs. Likens.

Gov. Waite after his arrest created quite a scene in Commissioner Hinsdale's office. Mr. Rhodes opened the proceedings by saying that he would like to have the governor plead to the charge against him. The complaint was read and the governor answered "Not guilty."

Mr. Rhodes added: "When will you be ready, governor?"

"I am ready now," the latter replied.

"I will ask that the case be set for a hearing on Thursday so that we can have our witnesses here," continued Mr. Rhodes, "and I suggest that bail be placed at $5,000."

With an excited air the governor sprang from his chair and paced back and forth before the comissioner.

"I will not give bail!" the governor sudenly exclaimed. "I am the governor of this state and these proceedings are had to interfere with me in the administration of my office. I will not give bail. You may send me to jail."

"I ask your honor to issue mittimus," said Mr. Rhodes, "but I have no objection to the governor giving his personal recognizance in the sum of $5,000."

The governor interrupted the proceedings several times, and finally Mr. McMahon was placed on the stand. He testified that he had received the letters from Dinnis Mullins. Gov. Waite denied in his statement having had the letters.

He said that a letter addressed to Mrs. Likens was read to him, and that it asked that a mistress be furnished. He denies that he made use of it as a basis for the dismissal of Mrs. Likens. Mr. McMahon said that he had statements from Mrs. Likens, Jesse Parr, who wrote the letter, Mulins and Armstrong.

Mr. Rhodes handed the governor a copy of the document and said: "I wish to treat you with the dignity and courtesy that your office deserves, but in order to show to you that we have foundation for these charges I will hand you the written statement of Chief Armstrong, who says he got the letter from you."

"Armstrong is mistaken," the governor answered.

The amount of the governor's bail was finally reduced to $100, and the others were released on their personal recognizances.

A number of prominent populists say it is a political scheme on the part of the anti-Waite men to injure the governor politically.

A LUCKY BENEDICT.

He Falls Heir to $3,000,000 After Three Days of Wedded Bliss.

Indianapolis, Aug. 29.—Elmore Gilmore, a country school teacher of Eckerty, Ind., wedded a pretty farmer's daughter a few days ago and in the course of three days received a letter from Mahlon & Reid, barristers, of Newry, Ireland, informing him that he had fallen heir to three million dollars, the estate of an uncle incounty Derry.

He will leave the last of the week with his bride to claim his property, having established satisfactory proofs of his heirship.

FORCING THE FIGHTING.

A Report That the Japanese Are Landing Troops in China.

London, Aug. 29.—The morning Post prints this dispatch from Shanghai:

"The Japanese are reported to be landing in force northwards of Taku, preparatory to marching on Pekin. Another report is that the Japanese have disembarked 20,000 troops on the Ya-Lu-Kiang, which runs along the boundary line between China and Corea. They are said to have 28 warships there and to plan an attack on the Chinese from the rear."

Broken Axle Wrecks a Train.

Lock Haven, Pa., Aug. 29.—An eastbound freight train on the Beech Creek road was wrecked yesterday by the breaking of an axle. Fifteen cars were piled in a mass. Drover Smith of Mehaffey, Pa., is under the wreckage and is supposed to be dead. Brakeman Haines, of Jersey Shore, was seriously injured. About 50 sheep were killed.

Two Murders in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—Two murders occured in the southern portion of the city yesterday. During a drunken frenzy James Foley, aged 42, kicked and beat his mother, Honora Foley, to death. Joseph Roetrigues, a sailor, became involved in a drunken brawl and was kicked to death.

CANADIAN LUMBER BOOM.

Caused by Passage of the Tariff Bill Which Makes Cedar Free.

Manitowanig, Ont., Aug. 29.—There are a large number of cedar lumber buyers around this week, and it seems probable that most of the timber taken out last winter will be sold this fall. This activity is due to the passing of the United States tariff bill, under which cedar is made free. At Gore Bay several lumbering firms have men on the north shore of the Georgian bay looking for suitable sites for saw mills. The taking off of the American duty on sawn lumber will cause a boom in the lumber business along the north shore.

Practicing for Monday's Shoot.

Asbury Park, N. J. Aug. 29.—Rifle teams representing the states of Maine, Georgia, District of Columbia, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and a team of the United States regulars are on the state camp grounds at Sea Girt practicing at the rifle ranges for the big shoots to begin on Monday next.

Tragedy in a Court Room.

Pleasant Hill, Ill., Aug. 29.—Jmes W. Barnes, a local desperado, while being tried for disturbing the peace, attempted to escape. E. W. Edom, the town clerk, intercepted Barnes, whereupon the later plunged a knife into Edom's left breast, killing him instantly. Barnes was jailed.

Pittsburg Secures a New Shortstop.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 29.—Fred E. Steere, Shortstop of the New Bedford baseball club, has been signed by the Pittsburg club of the National league. He will report to the club today. Steere played on the Brown university team up to the last season, and is considered one of the best shortstops in the country.

Hotel Proprietor Fails.

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 29.—A. G. Freed, proprietor of the Tremont House at Landsdale, has failed to the extent of $30,000. The sheriff has levied on his property.

Strike Situation Remains the Same.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 29.—The strike situation has dwindled down now to a fight as to who can hold out the longer, the operatives or the mill men. Before the board of arbitration left town Mr. Warner tried to get some additional facts from the mill managers, but on account of their not being at the mill he did not succeed very well. He reported the facts presented at the meeting of the board, which will probably be called together in Boston next Monday to consider the New Bedford strike.

THE GREAT ARTISTS.

POLLAJUOLO was the son of a poulterer, whence his name, and began his career as a wood carver.

BUDKOMART was one of the first painters to execute court scenes, such as coronations and marriages.

GUIDO'S later works are very inferior. They were painted in haste, to raise money for the gaming table.

D'AVANZO was the first modern painter who attempted to give an optical illusion to his pictures.

HOLBEIN was only sixteen years old when first engaged in painting altar pieces for the churches in Basle.

DURER was the son of a goldsmith, and, showing an appreciation of art, was apprenticed to a draughtsman.

VALESQUEZ was a self-educated painter. His scenes and models were generally taken from peasant life.

TITIAN began to sketch before he was four years old. His favorite models were his wife and daughter.

JANSSEN'S life was made miserable by an extravagant wife, and his last years were passed in extreme want.

JEAN COUSIN was originally a glass stainer, who left that business to become the first historical painter of France.

THE TRANS-JERSEY SHIP CANAL

Engineer Haupt's Report Adopted—Two Routes To Be Surveyed.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—At a meeting of the trans-Jersey ship canal commission it was decided to adopt the report of Lewis M. Haupt, engineer in charge, and put parties in the field to-day to survey two proposed routes for the sluiceway.

In his report Mr. Haupt found it would be commercially unprofitable to build a canal which it is proposed to extend from Philadelphia to Raritan bay at tide water, and suggests two 25-foot elevated lift locks. The Delaware and Raritan rivers were said to be the only real available sources of supply, and two routes were suggested, both starting from Bordentown.

The first has railroad crossings and a surface 52 feet above the sea level, and the second has no railroad crossing but would encounter a height of 90 feet to go through.

Challenge Pennant of the North Shrewsbury Won by Baby.

Red Bank, N. J., Aug. 29.—An interesting race was sailed on the Shrewsbury river at this place yesterday for the challenge pennant of the North Shrewsbury river. The race was over the regular club course, distance ten miles. There was a good full sail breeze from the south. In addition to the pennant a valuable silver cup was presented to the winning yacht by William Van Tint, owner of the famous Yum Yum yacht.

The starters were William Bass' Baby, Van Tint's Yum Yum, Frank Taylor's Louisa, Dr. Thompson's Francis R., Del Fisher's Clytie and Frank James' Pauline.

The race was closely contested throughout, and was finally won by Baby, whose corrected time was 1 hour and 33 seconds, 13 seconds ahead of the Pauline.

NEW BASEBALL LEAGUE.

The First Professional Baseball Organization in New Jersey.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 29.—A new professional baseball league, to be known as the Atlantic League of professional baseball clubs, has been organized. The cities represented at the meeting, which will make up the first five of the total eight embraced in the league, are Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Trenton and Wilmington, Del. The three additional cities will be selected from the following: Atlantic City, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Asbury Park, Camden, Orange and Plainfield.

This is the first professional organization in this state, and the first game will be scheduled for play early next May, and each club will play 140 regular league games.

AGENT PARMALEE IN TROUBEE.

Arrested on a Charge of Crooked Pension Dealings.

Rochester, Aug. 29.—Deputy United States Marshal Scholl has arrested Edward H. Parmalee, a pension agent of Bergen, N. Y., on a charge of acknowledging as a notary public affidavits of Sarah H. Miller for pensions, so that it was made to appear that Mrs. Miller signed the vouchers in the presence of Parmalee in Bergen, when in reality she signed the vouchers in Rochester.

Parmalee was held in $500 bail to await the action of the United States grand jury. He was immediately rearrested on another charge of a similar nature, for which the same amount of bail was demanded.

TOMASI GETS A DIVORCE.

His Actress Wife Now in a Position to Marry Actor Henley.

New York, Aug. 29.—Achille Tomasi the musical director, has been granted an absolute divorce from his wife, Lulu May, known on the comic-opera stage as Helen Bertrand. The decree was handed down by Judge Dugro in the superior court, Aug. 24, but the fact has been kept secret.

The co-respondent in the case was Edward J. Henley, the well-known character actor, who is at the present time conducting a roof garden enterprise in St. Louis.

Miss Betrand is an Indianapolis girl, and has gained much reputation as a singer in comic opera.

The Texas Damaged.

Washington, Aug. 29.—On putting the battleship Texas in drydock at Norfolk it was found that the blades of her propellers were seriously bent, one perhaps due to contact with the passing schooner which was drawn under her stern during the dock trial of the vesel a month ago, and the other, it is supposed by striking at the entrance of the dock. A board will be appointed to locate the responsibility.

New Corporations.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29.—The following companies have filed certificates of incorporation with the secretary of state: The National Chocolate Tablet and Specialty Manufacturing company of New York city; capital, $5,000. The Friedman-Doscher company, of Brooklyn, to manufacture and sell all kinds of soap and soap powders; capital, $50,000.

WASHINGTON DESERTED

The Worn-Out Solons Hurrying to Their Homes.

The Last Day's Proceedings the Most Commonplace Performance That Ever Closed a Long Session—No Official Word Communicated on the Tariff Bill.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The last act in the great legislative spectacle that has attracted the attention of the whole country for the last nine months having been performed in the senate chamber, the worn-out solons have left the city as rapidly as possible, and this morning hardly a baker's dozen remain. The hotel corridors are deserted, the legislators having repaired, in most instances, to their homes to look after their political fences, whic have been sadly neglected in the past on account of the necessity of their presence in the great tariff fight.

The proceedings were the least interesting and most commonplace performance that ever closed a long session in that body. Although there were only two hours assigned to it, there were no less than three recesses taken within that time, as a resource against the weariness and dreariness of the occasion; and when the vice-president made his farewell speech and declared the senate adjourned without day, the spech and the declaration were heard by only twenty senators.

As to the fate of the tariff bill which had absorbed and almost monopolized public attention throughout the long session, there was not a word officially communicated to the senate. It had been supposed that the senate would have been notified by the house that the bill had become a law through the expiration of the ten days allowed by the constitution to the president of the United States for the return of a bill with or without his approval. But the only notification of the fate of that great measure was that which was gathered from Mr. Cleveland's letter to Representative Catchings, of Mississippi, with its covert allusion to democratic traitors.

There was no message from the president or from the house of representatives in relation to the matter, and there was no allusion to it in extremis, except the effort on the part of Senator Jones, of Arkansas, to explain, in a private colloquy with two other democratic senators, some of the polariscope mysteries in connection with the sugar schedule.

The final adjournment of the senate took place at a minute before 2 o'clock.

House of Representatives.

The announcement of the adjournment of the house without day was made by Speaker Crisp with no ceremony whatever, and it interupted the reading clerk, as he was making his way through the text of the Hoar anti-lottery bill, consideration of which had been asked for by Mr. Terry (dem., Ark.) just two minutes before the hour fixed for adjournment.

This last act in the drama of the session had been preceded by the usual wearisome wait for the return of the committee appointed to wait upon the president, notifying him that congress was ready to adjourn, and asked if he had any further communication to make. The wait, however, was partly occupied in taking a vote by tellers upon the passage of the resolution reported authorizing the printing of 60,000 copies of the comparison of the rates of the tariff bill with those of previous bills. The point of no quorum had been made by Mr Johnson (dem., O.), who was opposed to the passage of the resolution, and failing to get a modification so as to enable Chairman Wilson to add anything he desired in the way of explanation to the comparison, he insisted upon his point. This forced a withdrawal of the resolution.

Several efforts were made to secure the accomplishment of desired legislation, but the only proposition which met unanimous approval was that to print 2,000 copies of the digest and rules for the second session.

Messrs. Maddox (dem., Ga.), Brookshire (dem., Ind.), Piggott (dem., Conn.), Daniels (rep., N. Y.) and Updegraff (rep., Ia.), were appointed members on the part of the house of the commission to investigate and report upon the liability of the government, if any, for the disaster at Ford's theatre last year, by which 21 clerks in the war department lost their lives.

The resignation of W. C. Oates, governor-elect of Alabama, as a representative from that state, to take effect Nov. 5, was announced in a letter to the speaker.

Chief Justice Galt Resigns.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The new Japaneseanese minister, Mr. Shinichiro, Kurino, was presented to the president by secretary Gresham yesterday.

A "RUN DOWN"

and "used-up" feeling is the first warning that your liver isn't doing its work. With a torpid liver and the impure blood that follows it, you're an easy prey to all sorts of ailments. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures every one of them.

PIERCE Guarantees a CURE.

MRS. BRANSFORD.

I can truthfully say that I believe your Golden Medical Discovery saved my life. When I began your treatment two years ago I had been given up by the Doctor, and my friends had lost all hope of my recovery. I had suffered for years with torpid liver; I had chronic pleurisy and catarrh in a very bad form. Attended with hemorrhages—was confined to my bed two months. In a few days after beginning your medicine I could perceive a slight change for the better; in three months I felt almost like a new person. Yours truthfully,

7,000 WITHDRAWALS

Wild Rush of Brokers to the Custom House.

Remarkable Business on the First Day Under the New Tariff Law—Big Importing Houses Represented and Lawsuits Threatened. — Reports from Other Cities.

New York, Aug. 29.—The withdrawals of bonded goods under the ruling of secretary Carlisle, which opened yesterday morning under the new tariff law, reached nearly 7,000.

The brokers employed many extra clerks to do their business, and the custom house clerks were kept busy until after midnight.

Claim lawyers were also on hand by the score, many of them ready to take advantage of that "semi-colon" in the new act, which affects importers of diamonds.

A circular was posted early in the morning by Mr. King, showing the class of goods for withdrawal from bond under Secretary Carlisle's decision, and the rates of duty under the McKinley act, and, also, the new law It was on these goods that the deposit duty was taken, subject to a readjustment. Following is a list of the principle articles affected:

Bead trimmings, aniline dyes, art flowers, glassware, cotton hosiery, cotton lace curtains, cotton embroideries, guns and rifles, linens, pig iron, iron ore, paper, manufacturers of silk, peas, beans, muskroots, all spirits classified under the McKinley act, ale in casks, cot. velvets 16c. per yard, cotton wearing apparel, tobacco.

Considerable excitement occurred over the new tariff on worsted goods, all the large firms who import them being represented. Among them were the H. B. Claflin company, Arnold, Constable & Co., Fred Butterfield, Rothfield, Stein & Co., and Stregitts & Ballin.

These firms claimed that the Dingley act was repealed by the passage of the McKinley law, which made all other previous legislation void. It was decided to order in one case of worsted goods for examination in anticipation of the heavy lawsuits which the importers are about to bring against the government.

William H. Stein & Co., custom house brokers, who are largely interested in this class of goods, said that the question regarding their entry was one of the most important of the new law and would involve much litigation.

There was no particular excitement in sugar, but the representatives of the trust were on hand at the custom house.

Colector Kilbreth said that he had not heard of any numerous arrivals of cargoes of raw sugar in anticipation of the increased tariff.

Raw sugar was free of duty before the passage of the new act, which puts a duty of 40 per cent. ad valorem upon it, and adds to that one-eight of 1 per cent. for refined sugars. The trust has large stocks on hand and has raised the price one cent a pound within the past two weeks.

All the warehouses are overcrowded with goods, and the steamers to arrive next week will contain such large cargoes of goods from foreign warehouses and from private warehouses of foreign manufacturers that extraordinary activity will be necessary in the custom house to relieve the pressure.

The crop of sugar in Cuba was harvested in June last, and therefore plenty of time was had to transport it to this port before the new tariff went into effect.

At the opening in the morning several brokers crowded into the withdrawal room, and Fred Burns, the official announcer, whose deep, sonorous voice could be heard all over the old building, made all the official announcements and told the struggling crowd to "get in line." Finally the brokers settled down to business and presented their checks to the clerks, receiving in return official orders for the removal of goods from bonded warehouses. Under the new law all the brokers were required to have licenses.

The withdrawals included various clasdses of goods, upon which there was a question as to the tariff under the new act, and a deposit duly was taken averaging about 50 per cent., subject to readjustment of the duty after investigation.

The reports from other cities show that the custom houses were besieged from the opening hour until late in the afternoon by brokers and clerks seeking the release of goods.

EPIDEMIC OF SUICIDES.

Three Persons Attempt to End Their Own Lives in Washington.

Washington Aug. 29.—An epidemic of suicide seems to have broken out in the national capital, three attempts at self destruction having been made in the past 24 hours.

Two of the seekers after forgetfulness were men past the meridian of life both inspired by drunkenness, and both unsuccessful in their efforts.

The third, Elizabeth Walter, an 18-year-old girl, employed in a drygoods store. She lived with her uncle, C. F. Walter, at 59 Defrees street, northwest, and took morphine.

Jealousy Causes a Murder.

Hoboken, N. J. Aug. 29.—Paul Gans, fourth engineer on the steamship New York, of the American steamship line, murdered Clara Ahrens yesterday in this city. Gans fired four bulets into the head of the unfortunate woman. Jealousy was the cause. The murderer was arested.

The WREN in Business

It is characteristic of the Wren that it will sneak in and occupy the nest made by another bird, in preference to building one of its own. This same trait is often seen in business. It is shown by the imitators of

COTTOLENE

No sooner has the wonderful merit of this new vegetable shortening, so much better than lard, created for it a remarkable sale and popularity, than the business wrens are ready to move upon the market with many worthless counterfeits. Any housekeeper can be easily and cheaply convinced of the value of COTTOLENE by simply giving it a trial. They will then be unwilling to go back to lard, or go down to fraudulent imitations.

All Plainfield Is Going.

The funniest of all comedies, Mrs. R. Pacheco's "Incog", will be presented in Music Hall Saturday night. This play has met with the greatest possible success, and public enthusiasm has been unprecedented and unanimous—its great merit calling eulogies upon its bright, witty lines and humorous situations. The plot is ingenious."

Smokestack Falls from Grace.

Edward Hoover, of smokestack fame, went to Elizabeth for a stay of a month in the County Jail today. He could have obtained his freedom by paying a $5 fine, but he spent all his money geting drunk. He had been paid for work by the gas company just before his spree began. He was covered with paint when he went away.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Mrs. Bond will speak in Hope Chapel, West Fourth street, near Plainfield avenue, tonight at 8. This will be her last address in Plainfield, as she sails soon for Macedonia.

A Big Contract.

M. Powers & Son have been awarded contract to lay 12,900 feet of bluestone flagging and curb on LaGrande avenue from Richmond street almost to Berckman.

This will be a great public improvement. Messrs. Powers secured the contract in face of much sharp competition. The firm does splendid work, and its prices are right.

$75,000 IN HAND.

The City Holds It in Trust as Evidence of Sewerage Bidders' Good Faith.

The sewerage agitation has brought over $75,000 in contributions of $1,000 each to the office of City Clerk MacMurray. The money is in certified checks made payable to the city, but the authorities will not be able to use it to start the sewers with. None of the checks will bring any advantage to the sender except one, for they all come from contractors who send them as evidences of their good faith in bidding on the job.

These 75 contractors are scattered all over the eastern States. A week remains in which others may send in estimates. As each of the bidders investigates thoroughly the situation the liverymen are making money carrying the inspecting representatives about the city.

The drivers are beginning to study Plainfield's soil and the science of excavating and laying pipes. They are called upon to tell about the cost of sand, water, brick, lime and labor and for reports on soil distribution and street grades. The digging on LaGrande avenue where the commissioner is grading the street is always inspected, usually in connection with a trip to I. Boehm's deep cellar.

The contractors talk very fairly on the local labor question. When shown a copy of the councilmanic resolution recommending the employment of Plainfield people they generally show their willingness to at least give the men here a good trial. They express no love for Italians. The estimates coming from so many men, the Sewer Committee think that the work will be done for a very reasonable price.

NO INDICTMENT.

The Miles Case Is Settled After a Confab of the Lawyers.

There is little prospect now that the indictment which the Grand Jury found against Millionaire William Miles, alleging perjury, will be filed.

The complaint was made to the Grand Jury against Miles by his nephew, William S. Hurley, of Brooklyn. Charges of forgery were also made by young Hurley against his uncle.

Miles's counsel, ex-Judge Noah Davis, called upon District-Attorney Fellows Saturday and requested him to secure from Foreman Stearns of the Grand Jury, permission for Mr. Miles to appear before that body and be heard. This was allowed, and Mr. Miles was to have gone before the Grand Jury yesterday. He did not appear, however. Ex Judge Davis, instead, sent a note to Acting District-Attorney McIntyre stating that the difference between uncle and nephew had been amicably adjusted. Mr. Hurley called at the District-Attorney's office later and confirmed this report, so Mr. McIntyre says. The latter stated last night: "There was a conference in the office of Daniel G. Rollins, counsel for Mr. Hurley, between Mr. Hurley and ex-Judge Davis Monday afternoon, and Mr. Davis, representing Mr. Miles, retracted the statements made which were offensive to Hurley. That is all I know of the matter."

DEATHS AT A FIRE.

Two Men Burned to Death, and a Boy Killed by Jumping.

New York, Aug. 29.—Two unrecognizable men were burned to death in a fire which broke out in the five-story brick tenement 226 Rivington street at an early hour this morning, and a boy who leaped from the fourth story was carried lifeless to the police-station. In his fall he struck three firemen who were climbing to his aid, and all went to the ground in a heap. Two were uninjured, but the third man, Timothy Collins of Engine Company No. 14, who was highest up, was removed to Gouverneur Hospital, suffering from severe contusions of the chest.

DEATH OF PAMLICO.

A Fine Trotting Stallion Lost to the Turf.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 29—Pamlico, one of the greatest race stallions on the grand circuit, died suddenly at Charter Oak Park this morning. He was taken ill with congestive chills yesterday, and in spite of every effort to save him he died. Pamlico had a record of 2:10.

HORSE FORSAKEN FOR BAR PONIES.

This Rural Visitor Cared More for His Own Entertainment Than That of His Patient Beast.

Wealthy William Hetfield of Two Bridges, ex-collector of Fanwood Township, drove to town yesterday with a black horse hitched to a light wagon. At 3 in the afternoon he tied the horse on Park avenue near Nash's and went away.

Eight hours later the rig was still in the street. The horse had not been cared for. Policeman Frederickson found Hetfield on North avenue, too drunk to realize the advantage of driving off without making a disturbance. The policeman took him to the lockup. Special Policeman Robinson drove the rig to Roberts's stables.

In the City Court this morning Hetfield appeared before Judge Coddington in quite a different state from that in which he was when arrested. He was given a choice between paying $5 and staying in Elizabeth for 20 days and of course took the financial punishment.

SUIT OVER A NOTE.

Signers Endeavoring to Escape Payment.

Judgment was lately entered in the New Jersey Supreme Court against William Hewson and Charles J. Noel at the suit of Frank E. Woodruff on a note made May 6, 1889, by William Hewson in favor of Charles J. Noel for $300, payable three months after date. The note was placed by Mr. Noel in the hands of William A. Woodruff for discounting, and by him placed in the hands of his son, Frank E. Woodruff, who brought suit against the defendants, Hewson and Noel, for the face value of the note, with interests and costs, the total aggregating about $400.

Today on application of Hance & Powers, attorneys for defendants, Judge VanSyckel granted a rule to show cause why judgment lately entered should not be opened.

The claim of the defendants is that they never realized on the note.

The Boy's Friends Say It's Blackmail.

Nothing further has been done in the case of young George Mattis, who is accused by Charles Perrine of ill-treating his daughter, Clara Conger. The friends of the boy say that the threats of bringing the matter into court are made with the aim of levying blackmail.

A letter sent to a New York newspaper from South Amboy yesterday accused another Plainfield boy of being an accomplice of Mattis. The letter was discredited, and was not published.

Perrine is a detective employed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and Mattie's friends think that the "lawyers" who came to town Monday were friends who offered to assist the stepfather. Queries as to the financial standing of the families of the two boys were made by them during their stay in Plainfield.

Young Mattis did not go to work today. He is said to be still in Plainfield.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A number of wheelmen have been caught riding on the sidewalk in Evona. Sixteen were arrested Sunday, and three Monday.

A bicycle and a sulky collided on Park avenue in front of Justice Nash's office last evening at 8:30. No serious damage resulted.

Monte Scott abstains from riding much this week because of having sprained one of his knees slightly while racing in Scranton. He rode in Trenton Saturday, but will wait without working for the road race of Monday.

There is a feature of cycling more important to the general public than mere speed, and that is touring. For the development of this feature good roads are necessary, and that is why the great army of wheelmen is enlisted in the work of road improvement. The proceeds of the Asbury Park meeting will go to this good cause.

The greatest bicycle meeting of the season in the East will begin at Asbury Park tomorrow and continue till Saturday. The meeting is held in the interest of the good-roads movement, and nearly every prominent rider has entered for the races. The cracks of Class B, who have brought the bicycle to a degree of speed that rivals that of the greatest of the trotters and pacers of the turf, will be out in force to illustrate what the wheel is capable of.

—A young workman returning home from Scott's Press Works fell in a fit on the corner of Arlington avenue and Fourth street at 6:15 last evening. He was attended to by men who were at hand, and soon recovered. He was able to go alone to his home in the West End.

A VERY PRETTY STORY.

The Mischief Done and Undone by a Baby that Loved Gold.

Here is a rather pretty story which is vouched for by a London journal, showing how a small baby once got his mother into serious difficulties, and then made amends by getting her out of them again. It seems that a poor seamstress with a child in her arms was tried for the theft of three gold coins. She said in defense: "I went to my employer's house on business. I carried my child in my arms as it is now. I was not paying attention to it. There were several gold coins on the mantelpiece, and, unknown to me, it stretched out its little hand and seized three pieces, which I did not observe until I got home. I at once put on my bonnet and was going back to my employer to return them, when I was arrested. This is the solemn truth, as I hope for Heaven's mercy."

The court could not believe this story. They upbraided the mother for her impudence in endeavoring to palm off such a falsehood for the truth. But she so pertinaciously asserted her innocence that a novel experiment was made in her favor. One of the officials proposed to renew the scene described by the mother. The gold coins were placed on the clerk's table. The mother was requested to resume the position in which she stood at her employer's house. There was then a breathless pause in court. The baby soon discovered the bright coins, eyed them for a moment, smiled, and then clutched them in its fingers with a miser's eagerness. The mother was at once acquitted.

CURRENT NEWS AND GOSSIP HEARD IN WASHINGTON.

Senator Sherman's Home, Fortune and Ambition. The Unlucky Russian Mission. Few Congressmen Have been Diplomats. About Lieut. Schwatka.

Among the many stately homes at the capital, the owners of which are members of Congress, the residence of Senator John Sherman is conspicuous. Some reckless guessers have said that his new white stone house in Franklin square cost a million of dollars, which, of course, it did not, but probably it did cost a hundred thousand. It is very beautiful, and the Senator and his wife and an adopted daughter live there. The million or more that John Sherman has accumulated he has made in Washington real estate chiefly; and, for a sagacious man with money, real estate here has offered many opportunities for profitable speculation.

Senator Sherman is said to have given up the idea of ever being President, believing that he is too old to endure the strain, but if a nomination came to him he would hardly refuse. The Senator says he has received his warning that he must husband his physical and mental resources, yet his step is spry and his tongue, too, for when he does talk in the Senate, his knowledge, no matter what the subject, seems to be superior to that of almost any other man upon the floor. The Senator, though, does not work so hard as formerly. He is making things easier for himself.

The recent resignation of Andrew D. White, Minister to Russia, recalls the fact that no one of his predecessors (among them Simon Cameron of Pennsylvania) ever completed his term of office. Mr. White followed an invariable precedent when he resigned after two years of service. For some reason the Russian Mission has always been spoken of as an "unlucky" Mission. Every man who has held it has died in office or resigned. For many years it was considered almost a perquisite of the State of Pennsylvania, but it has been held by men from the South and from the New England States. It will not surprise anyone if Mr. Breckinridge leaves St. Petersburg even sooner than Mr. White has done. Mr. Breckinridge is notoriously a poor man; and Mr. Cleveland did him a doubtful kindness when he appointed him to a mission which pays only $17,500 a year in one of the most expensive capitals of Europe. So it will not surprise the friends of the Arkansas statesman if he sends in his resignation in the first year of his service.

It is an astonishing fact that there are in the House to-day only three men who have been appointed to diplomatic posts and in the Senate there are none. In the early history of Congress it was a common thing for a member of the Senate or the House to resign his place to accept a diplomatic appointment, and, returning from his post, to become again a candidate for Congress. It was usual in those days to find diplomatic material in Congress. It is becoming less and less a custom of the President of the United States to appoint to high office men who are holding places in Congress.

The recommendation by the Senate Committee on Pensions that Mrs. Ada L. Schwatka, widow of Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, be given a pension of $30 a month, was thus spoken of by Thomas A. Markham of Cheyenne:

"I knew Schwatka very well. He was one of the most jovial, whole-souled fellows I ever met. He saw hard service in Indian campaigns in Wyoming, Nebraska, and Dakota in the seventies, but his reputation dates from the time when he took charge of the expedition to the frozen North to search for relics of Sir John Franklin's expedition. He cleared up the mystery of the loss of that famous explorer, made a sledge journey of over 3,000 miles, and discovered a river which was named for President Hayes. Subsequent explorations in Alaska gave him additional fame. He afterward took to drink, and separated from his family, but after taking a course for dipsomania he gave up the bottle and became a total abstainer."

The breezy Post, that hits where it will in both parties, tells this story concerning an event that politicians will not soon forget:

With the echo of his masterly defence of President Cleveland still ringing in the ears of his colleagues, Senator Hill walked into the cloak-room and dropped into an easy chair to chat with Senator Smith. Presently a page appeared, carrying a note enclosed in a large square envelope addressed to Senator Hill.

"Ah," said Mr. Smith, with a tone of inquiry, "an invitation to dine with the President to-night?"

Senator Hill looked up from the note with a twinkle in his eye. "Not at this stage of the game," said he.

A few weeks ago a wild and lurid book was let loose upon Washington with the plagiaristic and blasphemous title, "If Christ Came to Congress." It represents that a pretty Southern girl comes to Washington to secure employment in one of the departments. She falls into a great deal of trouble, and this book of something like four hundred pages, luridly illustrated, recites these troubles, or most of them, and leaves the others to the imagination. The author makes many startling revelations, or alleged revelations, about the private lives of Senators, Representatives and even Judges and Presbyterian clergymen, and it is, in general, the kind of book one would expect from the title. As no one is paid to read it, the book is not likely to have a wide circulation.

The Centre of England.

An oak tree which stands in the middle of the high road leading from Leamington to Warwick is said to mark the centre of England. How long ago it was planted is not known, except by computation of its girth, which is about 12 feet, and shows the tree to be between 300 and 400 years old. Tradition has warranty for the importance it gives to this ancient oak. The bole would be cut in two by straight lines drawn from Berwick-on-Tweed to Southampton; Carlisle to Selsea Bill, Birkenhead to Eastborn, Holyhead to Deal, St. David's Head to Lowestoft, Land's End to Ingoldmell's Point, Devenport to Saltfleet, Bidport to Hornsea, Portland Bill to Scarborough, Bournemount to Saltburn, the Needles to Sunderland, Brighton to Lytham, Hastings to the mouth of the Dee, Greenwich to Abergele, Hyths to Conway, Dover to Bangor, and Harwich to Aberdovy. These are all places on or near the coast, and they do not exhaust the list.

Librarian Spofford's Immortals.

Mr. Spofford, the Librarian of Congress, has selected twenty-five authors, artists and philosophers whose statues will be placed in the new building. Greece, Rome, Italy, England, Germany and of course the United States, are represented. Not a single French or Spanish name is on his list. Surely Moliere and Cervantes are greater figures than Macaulay! Balzac is a more imposing personality than Sir Walter Scott. Mr. Spofford modestly said that he expected a great deal of criticism of his choice. His gift of prophesy is better than his discrimination—Sun.

FIREMEN ENTERTAINED.

Evangelist Crane Tells How He Was Choked Off on the Saloon Question.

With a programme of entertainment, brief talks on temperance and a social greeting the women of the W. C. T. U. welcomed the firemen at a reception in the Union's rooms in the Rink Building last evening. Miss Cara Peck presided. Flowers and flags were the decorations.

Miss Peck opened the meeting by reading the sixth chapter of Judges. Mrs. Martin I. Cooley sang very feelingly "Trusting Jesus", the audience joining heartily in the chorus. Rev. Arthur Crane then prayed. A quartette composed of Horace J. Martin, L. A. Hummer, John E. Townsend and Charles Hummer rendered an appropriate song, "Beware of Fire". In commenting upon the comparison of alcohol with fire Miss Peck referred to the fact that the temperance women were being aided by the teaching of the dangers of drinking, 39 States having introduced such instruction in the public schools.

Miss Arnold read "The Fire" very effectively. Mrs. Newton Honeyman, accompanied on the piano by Miss Swain, sang a solo of tender sentiment, "Somebody's Boy". Miss Peck next called upon Mr. Crane for an address, explaining that the firemen were right if they had concluded by this time that they had been trapped by the women to be treated with plain temperance talk.

Mr. Crane began with a story and gave up much of his talk to others which had a fitting application. He told of habits, the first his own of expecting to be called upon at every meeting he attended. Last Sunday he had said plain things for temperance at an open-air meeting and a few hours later at a similar meeting had been requested to say nothing against the saloon-keepers as he had done before. In referring to the prospects of the temperance cause he said he had ceased hoping for help from one of the great political parties. If the firemen would each save a single man a year from alcohol they would be assistants of the women in a most practical way. Conversion was the one cure.

Miss Peck said she knew of not a home destroyed, not a heart broken, not a soul lost because of the passage of the tariff bill. Its importance does not compare with the temperance movement neglected by the voters. All the people, all the ministers of Plainfield, all except the members of the W. C. T. U., seemed satisfied with the saloon system. She hoped things would be different.

The quartette followed with the singing of "Don't Say It's None of Your Business". Short testimonies were next given. Miss Peck then spoke of the position of the political parties and the saloon. She regretted the absence of Mr. Darling of Westfield, who had been expected to speak. In inviting the audience to stay for refreshments and a social time she said that a similar affair had been held for the G. A. R. men last Winter. The evening was passed very pleasantly then but since the occasion not one of the men had attended a meeting of the Union. She hoped it would be different with the firemen. The evening closed with a social hour.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL'S PLANS.

Various Nations to Send Their Best Artists to This Local Entertainment.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, is making elaborate preparations to open the season of 1894-95 with a grand entertainment. It will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 20, in the Casino. The Swedish Ladies Quartette, composed of Sweden's greatest singers, has been engaged; each is a gifted soloist.

During the first part of the concert they appear in their picturesque national costumes, and later in evening dress. James S. Burdette, the celebrated reader, reciter, humorist and impersonator, will make his twelfth appearance in Plainfield, and as he is a great favorite of lovers of pure fun, he will receive a royal welcome. Soto Sunetaro, Japanese fantasist and illusionist, will unfold before the eyes of the audience a perfectly bewildering dream of Oriental splendor and mysticism, with beautiful Japanese settings, costumes, and startling electrical effects. The entertainment is bound to be the usual Royal success, for H. B. Ely, A. M. Rea, and M. A. Korff, have the affair in charge.

For the Grocers Picnic Game.

A. R. Johnson of the Ridgewoods has received from local merchants four gifts of goods to be contested for at Boynton Beach Labor Day by his nine and the Young Americans of Dunellen. Mulford Estil presented a base-ball, J. M. Harper a catching-glove, U. B. Crane a pair of stockings and Garret Dreier a bat.

Judge Nash As a Marrying Man.

Justice Nash officiated at a quiet wedding in his office about 3 yesterday afternoon. He married Miss Dora Neilson to Albert Alselmerk. Constable George R. Rockafellow and Caterer William J. Stephenson were right-hand men. Mr. and Mrs. Alselmerk are Plainfielders, and will remain in the city.

Wheeling Notes.

Samuel G. Taynor's wagon met with a breakdown shortly before 6 last evening. A wheel fell apart on Liberty street between Third and Fourth streets.

FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

FIREMEN FOOLED.

Two Unknown Men Said the Crescent Rink Was Burning, and an Alarm Was Sounded.

The fire department went out on another false alarm last night. It was rung by Policeman Frederickson with the consent of Chief Grant after the two had been assured that the Crescent Rink was burning.

The alarm came at 9:45. The firemen who attended the reception of the W. C. T. U. had left the Rink a few minutes before. Cries of fire began near the building. Two young men ran from the Watchung Avenue bridge along the track in front of the North Avenue station, then crossed North avenue and went to the corner at Park avenue.

Chief Grant and Policeman Frederickson were standing together by Fred. Dunn's grocery when the two ran up. The first shouted that the Rink was afire. The chief told Frederickson to pull Box 13. The policeman asked the two if they were sure there was a fire and the second said one of the third flats was in flames. Frederickson pulled the box.

Alarmer No. 2 called to his companion that the firemen at the headquarters should be told where the fire was and then both disappeared in the excitement. Samuel Randolph, who was on the corner when the alarm was given says that both were young men about or over 20 years of age. They wore rather rough suits of dark material. Although he did not see their faces he thinks he might recognize the pair if he saw them together again.

Box 13 calls out all the apparatus in use in the city. Chief Doane and other firemen who had returned from the reception were near the new headquarters. As the horses were being hitched the cry that it was the Rink that was burning reached the firemen. The noise of shouting on North avenue had been heard by them before the alarm was sounded.

The firemen started out quickly. The collar on Gazelle's hose wagon horse slipped off by the corner of Park and North avenues and the men went without the horse. All was confusion when the Rink was reached. Watchung avenue was blocked by an immense crowd. Chas. Hand seemed the least excited of all. The hose was laid and all preparations made for an exhibition of fire-fighting except the finding of the fire.

The nature and size of the building brought out the people in a hurry and excited the firemen on the way. The fact that the Union had just been entertaining the members of the department gave color to the claim that the firemen had caused the sending of the alarm to show the women in the rooms how they worked. This the men indignantly deny. The two young men who met the policemen might have acted in good faith, believing the shouts of others that the building was burning.

WORKMEN WANT PAY.

Disaffection Among the Carpenters on the Babcock Building.

The men employed by John Chandler, the contractor and builder, in finishing the interior woodwork of the Babcock Building quit work Monday and are negotiating with Executor Joseph A. Hubbard for the payment of wages by the estate.

Chandler finished the ground floor and then made a contract to put in the woodwork on the two floors next above. Complaints that he was not paying his men regularly was the cause of a notice which was given him some time ago that the contract was in danger of being taken from him. This action has now been taken by Executor Hubbard.

The workmen claim that Chandler used the money he received from the estate to pay old debts. The total amount of wages claimed is about $800. They say they called on the executor for this amount and were told that the estate would compromise by paying them 75 per cent. of the money. They have not yet agreed to accept this, but it is probable that a settlement will soon be reached. The work on stairs, wainscoting and mouldings, which is still to be done, would take the eight men about two weeks to finish.

TENNIS TOURNEY.

Hillside Club's Annual Contest for the Cup.

The annual tournament for the championship of the club and for the club cup will be held on the grounds of the Hillside Tennis Club Monday, Labor Day, Sept. 3. All entries MUST be sent in on or before Saturday, Sept. 1, to any member of the committee. The entrance fee is 50 cents. Play begins at 9:30 sharp.

Offended at Being Called Out of His Name.

James Matthews of West Front street, who seems over sensitive when the boys address him under another name, was in the City Court this morning. He had been arrested on Front street yesterday afternoon for chasing young neighbors who called him "Jack". He paid a fine of $5, not entertaining the Judge's suggestion that 20 days in jail would do instead.

Potato Thievery.

At the hearing of thirteen-year-old Jack Chapman in Justice Nash's Court yesterday afternoon the father of the boy tried to prove that it was the boy's ten-year-old brother who had stolen potatoes from the garden of Fernando Brown of LaGrande avenue. The Justice believed that Jack was the guilty one, however, and he was held for the Grand Jury.

PLAINFIELD'S CHANCE.

She May Recover Her Base-Ball Prestige by Joining This New League.

At a meeting held at the Continental Hotel, Newark, yesterday, the Atlantic League of Professional Base-Ball Clubs was organized. The newcomer will not open up for business this year, but simply perfected the organization in order to secure protection for locality and players for 1895. Sam Crane, the old-time second baseman, a warm personal friend of our own Manager Keller, was elected President of the league, and will also act as Treasurer and Secretary. Melvin O. Compton, of Newark, is the Vice-President. Charley Genslinger, ex-President of the Southern League, and Ted Sullivan, the veteran manager, are behind the venture.

Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Trenton and Wilmington, Del., were the cities represented at the meeting. It will be an eight-club league, and applications for the remaining franchises have been received from Atlantic City, New Brunswick, Plainfield, Orange, Asbury Park and Camden.

Such a project has long been under consideration, and it is believed that under conservative management it will be a paying league. The cities will be bunched so closely that the usual large expense of railroad travel will be lightened greatly, and it is proposed to have an $800 per month limit. That is, the salaries of each team, including the manager's, shall not be more than the limit $200 per week. There are scores of promising minor league players to be secured at figures which will keep a team under the limit. The necessary consent to place the team in Jersey City has been received from the New York Club. The Atlantic League will, of course, be under National League protection.

Messrs. Crane, Genslinger and Sullivan are experienced base-ball managers, and things look very promising for the new organization. It will play 25 cent ball. It is said that the Atlantic just got ahead of the Eastern League in placing a club at either Jersey City or Newark. Presidents Powers and Crane are the best of friends, however, and no friction will arise from the conflict of interests. Ambitious local players can address Mr. Crane, in care of the Polo Grounds.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen and New Market.

Mrs. Frank has returned from Ocean Grove.

Mrs. A. A. Lake is recovering from a recent illness.

Miss Della Dunn is visiting friends in Leonardsville, N. Y.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Abner Coriell, Monday evening.

Daniel Richardson returned yesterday from a visit with friends in Martinville.

Mrs. Ford Weller of Bayonne is being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Staats.

Miss Lillian Warden has returned home after spending several weeks in South Easton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wright of St. Simmons Mills, Georgia, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Warden.

Mh. and Mrs. Minius have returned to their home in Jersey City after a visit at the home of Elias Milliken.

The Dunellen public schools open Tuesday September 4, and the New Market schools one day later.

Asa Bush, formerly a resident of Dunellen and now of Orange, was a welcome caller on many friends yesterday.

Four applications for membership in the Foresters were received Monday evening, and one candidate was initiated.

H. C. Buchanan of New York has rented through C. W. Johnson, real-estate broker, the house on Fairview avenue owned by W. J. Meyer of New York. He takes possession today.

C. W. Johnson has secured photographs of several Dunellen residences, which will be placed in his real-estate office in New York for the enlightenment of those who don't already know of Dunellen's charms.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield, who are entertaining Mrs. Hetfield's cousins, the Misses Beaver of New York, passed a very pleasant afternoon yesterday on New Market lake. Miss May Gise accompanied them.

John Donohue who died yesterday morning at 2:30, was stricken about three weeks ago with typhoid fever, and was confined to the house ever since. He was in the employ of the Central Railroad, having charge of the Church street crossing, which position he had held for the past five years. The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 from St. John's Catholic Church, and interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Plainfield.

Finderne.

The Finderne, the mammoth and elegant hotel on the Jersey Central beyond Bound Brook, was a blaze of light Saturday evening, on the occasion of its first Saturday open hop. Heretofore the hops have been exclusively for the guests, but on this occasion outsiders reaped the benefit of an open night. The 550 electric lights with which this establishment is equipped caused a magnificent illumination which could be seen for many miles, and attracted the attention of all the passengers on the Jersey Central and those out pleasure driving. The magnificent parlors and ballroom presented a lively scene as the guests and visitors passed the evening indulging in the delights of the "light fantastic". J. S. Westlake, the manager, and H. A. Trimm, were ideal hosts, and carefully looker after the comfort of the visitors, who upon arrival quickly formed themselves into "investigating committees" and very carefully examined every nook and corner of the palatial house. James Curtis as master of ceremonies had the dancing floor in splendid condition, and kept the devotees of Terpsichore free from ennui by completing an enjoyable programme of fourteen dances between 9 and 11:30, which hour came much too soon for the young people. Although an informal hop, the costumes were very pretty and noticeable. The popular manager of The Finderne has ingratiated himself into the good opinion of society in this vicinity by announcing open hops, which will be informal, every Wednesday and Saturday from the present week up to October 31. Among those present were noticed Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Westlake, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Trimm, Miss Ethel Trimm, Mrs. E. C. Trimm, Mrs. A. M. Westlake, Miss Florence Westlake, Miss E. Negus, Miss E. S. Boice, Miss Beech, Miss L. P. Negus, Miss French, Miss Lucia French, Miss Dure, E. French, J. McLoughlin, E. T. Barcalow, G. W. Barcalow, H. V. Negus, T. D. Van Syckel, D. E. Gavin, W. H. Abbott, Mrs. Tienker, B. F. Hanfield, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. George, Mr. and Mrs. J. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Young, J. G. Triscurt, Mrs. Hering and Mr. Bridges.

MR. CORNISH RENOMINATED.

These Jerseymen Want United States Senators Elected by the People.

The Democratic Congressional Convention for the Fourth New Jersey District, held in Washington yesterday, renominated Johnston Cornish by acclamation. The platform adopted reaffirms the Chicago platform, and commends Grover Cleveland and the House of Representatives for their tariff stand.

It demands an amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by the people in their respective States. It also endorses the position taken by the Direct Legislation League of this State.

The State Agricultural Society.

The thirty-sixth annual exhibition of the State Agricultural Society will be held at Waverly Park, on the line of the Pennsylvania railroad, between Newark and Elizabeth, on Monday, Sept. 3, (Labor Day), and will be continued for five days. Since the last fair was held these beautiful grounds have been made more so by the construction of other buildings and renovating the old ones. These improvements will add largely to the comfort and attractions of the coming exhibition. The buildings on the grounds, including the horse stables, cattle sheds, sheep and swine pens, have all been put in thorough repair. The grand-stand has been overhauled and strengthened, making it one of the most comfortable of its kind in the State. Its seating capacity has been increased and from it the visitor has a commanding view of the track and the whole of the fair grounds. The new main exhibition building is in complete order, affording rare advantages for showing domestic and manufactured goods to the very best advantage. Besides the improvements mentioned, a number of commodious closets have been built for the comfort of visitors. The prospects for a large exhibition were never more promising than they are at present. The entries are larger than usual in every department. The horse department will have specimens from the best breeders in our own and adjoining States, both for carriages, roadsters and speed. The exhibition of neat, thoroughbred cattle will far surpass any previous exhibition held on the Waverly grounds. The entries of sheep, swine and poultry are numerous, coming from the best breeders in the State, and competition will be lively and exciting in these departments. The agricultural implements and improved labor saving machinery, which is always an attractive feature of the State Fair, will have large additions this year from the best manufacturers in the country. The departments including home and domestic goods will be interesting and instructive to visitors. The display of fruits, flowers, grain and vegetables will be usually well represented this season, both in the size, quantity and quality. In fact the display of fruit at Waverly for the last five or six years has far surpassed any other held on the Atlantic seaboard. The railroads will sell excursion tickets to the fair grounds at reduced rates from all parts of the State, and a day or two spent on the grounds during the fair week will prove time and money well invested. One can see there our best horses for driving and speed, the choicest bred, neat cattle, sheep, swine and poultry, the best and rarest products of the farm, garden and orchard, with all the modern improved labor-saving machinery now in use. There is another feature of the State Society's strict rules which we admire and commend, and that is pool selling and gambling have always been positively prohibited during the fair week.

Preparing for the Fair.

At the regular monthly business meeting of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps last evening William Cook was promoted from the social rank to active membership.

President E. E. Vail appointed a committee to prepare for a fair to be held in October. Those selected were Chairman W. C. Force, Secretary Horace G. Adams, Treasurer Frank Carver, John Bolsterle and Frank Manchester. Routine business was transacted. A practice drill followed.

Took 12 Innings to Decide.

An exciting game of base-ball took place on the Park Avenue grounds yesterday afternoon, between the East Ends and the Arlingtons. It was a 12-inning contest, the Arlingtons winning by the score of 12 to 11. Batteries—East Ends, M. Heffern, D. Kane; Arlingtons, Van-Horn, Owens.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Sold by A[D] Hallinan, 205 North Avenue, opp Station.

G. A. R. ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT.

Low Rates to Pittsburg.

Interest in the annual reunions of the Grand Army of the Republic and Naval Veterans Association grows with each succeeding year, not only among the veterans themselves, but among all patriotic citizens of the republic.

The encampment this year at Pittsburg from present indications, promises to be as interesting and enthusiastic as any reunion since the war. Thousands of veterans from all parts of the country will be present, and Pittsburg will surpass herself in showing them her hospitality.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. will sell excursion tickets from all ticket stations on its line east of the Ohio river, for all trains September 6 to 10, valid for return passage on all trains until September 25, inclusive, at one fare for the round trip.

The Sermon Story a Fake.

Because of the sensational stories sent abroad from an unreliable source, Postmaster Hetfield is constantly receiving letters concerning the report that Mrs. Lines was made insane by a sermon she heard. Distant clergymen have secured from him correct information and will denounce the falsehood from the pulpit.

Sariva's Death Confirmed.

New York, Aug. 27.—A Valparaiso dispatch says President Peixoto, of Brazil, has officially confirmed the news of the rebel General Saraiva's death.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NEW EVIDENCE

Of Dr. Lighthill's Success.

A Flattering Testimonial From Col. John Dietrich, One of Plainfield's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

16 ARLINGTON PLACE, Plainfield, N. J., July 17, 1894.

I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Lighthill for his speedy and radical cure of a most painful malady of over ten years standing.

I deem it proper to say to all afflicted to place themselves under the care of this skilful physician and be permanently cured.

I will cheerfully impart any information I possess when called upon.

JOHN DIETRICH.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE.

The Interesting Testimony of Mr. W. E. Dilts, the Popular Passenger Conductor of the N. J. Central.

ROSELLE, N. J., July 1, 1894.

My Friends and the Public:

I take pleasure in calling public attention to the remarkable cure which Dr. Lighthill effected in my case. For the past ten years I had been afflicted with a severe form of piles which finally gave me the greatest pain and distress nearly all the time, and from which I could not obtain any relief, in spite of all my efforts.

Hearing of a number of cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in similar cases, I placed myself under his care, and I rejoice to say he effected a complete cure in my case and gave me new life in doing so, for I am sure that I could not have endured my misery much longer. And it will be a matter of importance to those who are suffering from this disease to learn the happy fact that Dr. Lighthill effected my cure without giving me pain or detaining me from work.

W. E. DILTS.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt,

Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit down, lie down or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose grateful testimonial is in Dr. Lighthill's possession.

T. R. VAN-ZANDT, 304 and 306 Park avenue.

TROUBLE IN HIGH LIFE

Rumor of a Display of a Vanderbilt Skeleton.

A Parisian Beauty Who Is Said To Have Brought Trouble Into the Family of William K.—Mrs. Vanderbilt, According to Reports, Intends Suing for Divorce.

New York, Aug. 30.—The rumor that Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt may, by an open suit for divorce, trot out in full view of the curious public the skeleton that report has had it they have hidden for some time has caused endless toungue-wagging on this side of the water.

The report from Paris is that Mrs. Vanderbilt is determined to bring suit against her millionaire husband, and in this connection the name of Nellie Neustretta, a well known Parisian beauty, is mentioned.

It is also stated that Vanderbilt is willing to have a seperation, but is not inclined to agree to the terms mentioned by Mrs. Vanderbilt, who demands an annual allowance of $300,000, the custody of the children and the three houses at Newport, Islip and New York.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who was formerly Miss Smith, of Mobile, a blue-blooded family with little possessions, is a handsome woman with beautiful golden hair and blue-gray eyes. She is a lavish entertainer, but has a will of her own that, it is said, has at times caused her husband considerable annoyance.

After the wreck of the Alva at Newport Mr. Vanderbilt had his present yacht, the Valiant, built in England, and organized a party for a trip around the world, in which Mrs. Vanderbilt, who is an enthusiastic yachtswoman, was to accompany her husband.

Many stories reached America about quarrels on board the yacht. These, it is said, were principally caused by Mrs. Vanderbilt's atempts to dictate to the party how they should behave on all occasions.

When at last the cruise broke up suddenly without any plausible reason being given there was a perfect babel of gossip's tongues in all the exclusive sets on this side of the water.

Mrs. Vanderbilt then went to Paris, where a house had been procured for her. It was a perfect palace, but did not suit Mrs. Vanderbilt's fastidious tastes, and she ordered extensive alterations and improvements. When Mr. Vanderbilt protested there was a scene, and he went to London, returning for the Grand Prix on June 17.

At the Grand Prix he met the woman whose name is mentioned in connection with the present story, and he is said to have been completely dazzled by her beauty.

American residents were soon shocked by stories of their millionaire countryman having fitted up rooms in sumptious fashion for Nelly Neustretter. The open way in which he paid attention to this woman was shown by the fact that he provided her with servants with livery of the same pattern as that worn by Mrs. Vanderbilt's servants.

The story of her husband's infatuation for the woman of course reached his wife's ears and it was then, it is asserted, that she determined to seek the courts, but up to this time none have been received, and the playing card business is at a standstill.

The marriage of the young couple, for he was scarcely twenty-four years of age, and she was younger, was a social event of importance in 1874. They lived a quiet, happy life for years in this city. He was a devoted husband and she a model wife. Three childrn were born to them, all of whom are still living.

William Kissam Vanderbilt is the third son of the late William H. Vanderbilt. He is forty-four years of age, and is considered the handsomest member of the Vanderbilt family.

To Honor Ohio's Governor.

Auburn, N. Y., Aug. 30.—A letter has been received in this city from Gov. Flower's private secretary expressing the desire of the governor that the Second Separate company will volunteer the same courtesy to Gov. McKinley upon his visit to this city next Wednesday as they have already offered to Gov. Flower upon his visit on the day folowing. In accordance with this request the local organization of the national guard will be the escort of Ohio's governor as well as of her own commander-in-chief.

Deputy Marshals Turn Robbers.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—David McDonald and John Madigan, two ex-deputy marshals, were arrested yesterday, charged with looting a Santa Fe dining car. Both men were employed during the recent strike. They entered the car and carried away everything portable, including the silverware and linen, cut glass ware, coffee pots, etc.

5 000 SMITHS MEET

Annual Reunion of Persons Who Bear That Name.

Unique Gathering of the Descendents of the Original Hollander in Old Peter Smith's Apple Orchard at Peapack, N. J.—Many Outsiders Attracted by the Affair.

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 30.—Old Peter Z. Smith's apple orchard at Peapack, N. J., was crowded yesterday by about 5,000 persons who bear the name of Smith, the occasion being the nineteenth annual reunion of the Smith family of this section. The meeting was larger than any of the other eighteen.

There were Smiths of all ages and descriptions and the gathering was a most interesting one.

President Isaiah Smith presided at the hanquet board. He holds the office of president for the reason that he resides in the old Smith homestead, which was first inhabited by the original Peter Smith, who came over from Holland in 1600.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Rev. Dr. Evarts made an address to the Smith family and later a band concert was given.

The vicinity was alive with fakirs who were strung along the country roads leading to the Smith grove peddling their wares to the rustics who bore the honored name of Smith.

There were also hundreds of visitors from the city who came out of curiosity to witness the unique affair.

NEW YORK CUSTOM HOUSE.

Rush Not So Great as When the McKinley Law Went Into Effect.

New York, Aug. 30.—To-day is another day of rush at the custom house and the volume of business is so great that it will take hours of extra work and many additional men to handle it. It is not, however, abnormally large for the early days of the new tariff, and the total receipts for to-day and yesterday did not amount to as much as they did on the day the McKinley bill became a law.

The total receipts from customs at this port yesterday were $805,103; on the day before they were $512,344, while on the day the McKinley law went into effect the receipts were over $2,000,000. The number of applications made for withdrawals yesterday was 3,000 and 581 were passed upon.

These figures do not include the withdrawals of goods on the free list.

WITHDRAWALS AT BALTIMORE.

Despite the Low Rate of Duty Receipts Largely Increased.

Baltimore, Aug. 30.—Withdrawals at the custom house of goods in bond have been very large during the past two days, the increase in receipts, notwithstanding the lower rates of duty, being nearly 300 per cent. Not a barrel of whiskey has been taken out of bond during the two days in which the new tariff bill has been in force, distillers having withdrawn enough under the old rate of 90 cents per gallon to supply their demand for some time.

Applications have been filed with Internal Revenue Collector Vandiver for 100,000 two cent stamps for playing cards, but up to this time none have been received, and the playing card business is at a standstill.

OCEAN GROVE CAMP MEETING.

To-day the Great Religious Gathering at Asbury Park Will Disperse.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 30.—There is no abatement in the attendance at the great Ocean Grove camp-meeting. Last night there was a big turnout to attend the last evening service of the camp. Rev. Thomas L. Poulson, of Jamaica, L. I., adressed an audience of over 5,000. To-day is the closing day of the camp-meeting. The baptism of infants took place at 9 o'clock, and this will be folowed by the administration of the Lord's Supper at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

TRIED TO SHOOT HIS WIFE.

May, an American Horse-Trainer, Arrested in Vienna.

Vienna, Aug. 30.—F. W. May, an American hrose trainer, was arrested here yesterday at his wife's instance. She says that he fired three shots at her from a revolver.

Trap-Shooting Contest Winners.

Auburn, N. Y., Aug. 30.—In the championship contest yesterday between teams of trap-shooters from Rochester, Utica, Syracuse and Auburn, comprising the New York Central league, the Syracuse team won, the score being 89 out of a possible 100. Utica was second with 86, Rochester next with 84, and Auburn last with 99. E. D. Fulford, of Utica; Glover, of Rochester, and Carr, of Auburn, made clean scores.

New York's July Death Rate.

Albany, Aug. 30.—The report of the state board of health for the month of July states that there were 12,500 deaths reported during the month of July, which was 2,700 more than in June and 2,500 more than the average for the preceding six months. The mortality is nearly the same as that of July, 1893, and proportionately for the past ten years.

Senator Hill's Birthday.

Albany, Aug. 30.—United States Senator David B. Hill yesterday passed his 51st birthday. The senator was at work in his law office all the day, but was kept busy receiving the congratulations of his friends and members of the constitutional convention and democratic state officials.

Freight Rate War Threatened.

New York, Aug. 30.—The Atchison and Erie roads have cut rates on packhouse products from the Mississippi river points to New York to 25c. a hundred. This is a reduction of six cents. Unless the rates are promptly restored a rate war may result.

SLEEPY GRASS OF NEW MEXICO

After Eating It Horses, Cattle and Sheep Are Overcome by Sleep.

Over in Lincoln county, in this territory, there is a peculiar kind of grass known as sleepy grass. It has the property of putting to sleep any animal that eats of it. Sleepy grass grows among the other grass and is eaten by all kinds of stock readily. Its existence was unknown for years after settlements had been made in Lincoln county. Stockmen and others noticed that animals would sometimes stand motionless for an hour or two at a time, but it never occurred to them that the cause of this apparent resting was a distinct grass. The discovery was finally made by one of a party of travelers going from San Antonio, a small station on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, near Socorro, to the Pecos valley, in Lincoln county. The trip is a long one and a portion of it is over some of the roughest country in New Mexico. Water is not plentiful along the route, and for miles there is hardly grass enough to feed a jack rabbit, while on other portions of the route there is a rank growth of grass.

It was in one of these fertile places, a very table oasis in the desert, that the discovery of sleepy grass was made. The party halted about noon for luncheon and the team was unhitched and picketed out to graze for an hour or so. The horses commenced eating with a will, for they were hungry and there is no more tempting grass to a horse's appetite than the black gramma which is to be found in nearly all parts of New Mexico. They fed for a few moments and then suddenly stopped, and, holding their heads about on a level with their shoulders, stood as motionless as if they were carved of stone. This behavior was not in accordance with the ideas of one of the party as to what hungry horses ought to do. He went to where the horses were standing and found them fast asleep. On speaking to them in a loud tone they both awoke and commenced eating as if nothing had happened. They had eaten only a few mouthfuls when both were sound asleep again. They were aroused, but fell asleep as before. By this time the remainder of the party had become interested. The horses were awakened several times only to fall asleep after each successive arousing.

None of the party had ever seen horses act so and all agreed that something they had eaten had caused them to sleep. Each of the party began a search, and the plant which is known in Lincoln county as sleeping grass was discovered. The story was related by the travelers to an officer of Lincoln county, and since that time the effect of this grass on animals has been observed by many persons.

Horses, after eating of it, in nearly all cases sleep standing, while cows and sheep almost invariably lie down. It has occasionally happened that travelers have stopped to allow horses to feed in places where the grass grew pretty thick and the animals have had time to eat a considerable quantity before its effects manifested themselves. In such cases horses have gone to sleep on the road. They fall asleep while being hitched up, and it often requires a sharp cut with the whip to rouse them. They start off at a good pace, which gradually slackens until finally the heads droop and they come to a stop, sound asleep. A loud word will sometimes suffice to start them again, but oftener the whip is needed. The effect of the grass passes off in an hour or two and no bad results have ever been noticed on account of it.

If a horse be allowed to sleep until the effects pass off he appears to be very much refreshed and will travel a long distance without apparent fatigue, but if urged to go during the period of drowsiness which follows eating sleepy grass he seems to be wearied even after the inclination to sleep has passed away.

Cattle on the ranges frequently come upon patches of this grass, where they feed for perhaps half an hour, and then fall asleep for an hour or more, when they wake up and go to feeding. The programme is repeated perhaps a dozen times, until thirst obliges them to go to water. Sleeping grass is found in several localities in Lincoln county, but has never been reported in any other part of New Mexico. Whether, like the poppy, it contains opium, or whether its sleep-producing property is due to some other substance, has not been determined.—N. Y. Sun.

Jealous Husband Kills His Wife.

Columbus, O., Aug. 30.—George Kolb, a drummer, shot and instantly killed his wife last night as she stepped from a carriage in front of their home. She was 34 years old and very handsome. Kolb did not attempt to escape. At the city prison he blamed her for it, saying he believed her unfaithful.

THE GREAT MILL STRIKE.

Two Firms Give In at New Bedford—Operators Encouraged.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 30.—The strike situation remains practically unchanged and little excitement attended the opening of the Bennett and Columbia mills. The stirring speeches made on the common have not put the manufacturers in a very good state of mind, although they refuse to have anything to say in reply to any of these meetings, it being against their policy to be drawn into conversation about any action the srikers may take of this kind.

The operatives have a more hopeful feeling since the managers of the Bennett and Columbia mills have given in to their demands.

The card and picker roomassociation and weavers' executive committees are kept busy sending delegates from the city seeking aid and receiving word of the progress made by those already in other cities. The exodus of mill help from the city has partially ceased and to-day only 20 through tickets to Canada were sold, making 100 in all.

By the starting up of the Bennett and Columbia mills about one-third of the card and picker room help is now employed.

D. T. Leon, of New York, a great labor leader, will address the strikers on the common next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Richard McGuy, of Olneyville, R. I., who recently successfully conducted a big strike in that state, will come here and advise the local labor leaders in the present difficulty.

VICIOUS BILL IN EVERY WAY.

Mr. Roosevelt Denounces the Measure to Reinstate Mail Clerks.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Before leaving Washington to investigate charges against the postmaster at Lancaster, Pa., Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt expressed some characteristically vigorous views respecting the work of the commission, the practices pursued in the departments, and the construction of the laws relating to the commission. After giving credit to Senators Cockrell and Lodge for securing the provision in the appropriation bill which gives to the commission the right to select its own clerks, which the house struck out of the bill, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I want to call attention to the passage of the Bynum bill in the house to reinstate the democratic railway mail clerks, who were turned out prior to the classification of the Railway Mail service in 1893. It is a thoroughly vicious partisan measure, and I cannot but express my astonishment and regret that not one single democrat in the house voted against it. If it should become a law it would be a precedent for the enactment of similar measures whenever a change of administration took place. It is introduced purely in the interest of the spoils-monger, and is a thoroughly vicious bill in every way."

PYTHIAN ENCAMPMENT.

Great Parade Past the Capitol Building Last Night.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The visiting Pythians had an inspection and review yesterday afternoon on the White lot, a great oval field south of the white house. Four o'clock was the hour set for the event, but it was an hour later before the head of the column marched past Maj.-Gen. Carnahan and his staff, brilliantly uniformed and mounted on horses gaily caparisoned.

Thousands of people witnessed the review and the police arangements were so perfect that the field was kept clear for the participating knights. Owing to the lateness of the hour about half the Pythians only, about 4,000 in number, took part in the review.

In honor of the visiting Pythians, an industrial parade was held last evening on Pennsylvania avenue. Judging from the great number of spectators it proved the most attractive feature of the encampment. The wide avenue was never more effectively decorated at night and the capitol apeared in a blaze of light on a scale never heretofor attempted.

For the first time in the history of the big white building the figure of the Goddess of Liberty surmounting the dome, was strung with electric lights placed there by Albert Ports with the daring assistant electrician, hose feat was previously described.

The Pythian sisterhod held a long session yesterday in receiving and considering reports. It was announced that nothing had been done to adjust the differences with the Pythian sisters.

HONORED FOR GALLANTRY.

A Medal Awarded to Lieutenant Smith of the Iowa Infantry.

Washington, Aug. 30.—By direction of the president a medal of honor in the name of congress has been presented to First Lieutenant Henry L. Smith, Seventh Iowa infantry, for most distinguished gallantry at the crossing of Black river, North Carolina, March 15, 1865.

This officer was then serving on the staff of the brigade commander, under fire and at the peril of his life, fearlessly plunged into a swiftly flowing river swollen beyond its banks and rescued a soldier who had been swept down the stream beyond his depth.

Instructions to Revenue Collectors.

Washington, Aug. 30.—In a circular issued by Secretary Carlisle to collectors of customs, they were instructed that duty should be exacted upon importation of all bags, except such as are commercially known and recognized as "bags for grain made of burlaps," at the date upon which the new tariff act went into effect.

ROUTED BY CHINESE

4,000 Japs Reported to Have Been Slain.

Big Battle in Corea—Forces Guarding the Ping-Yan Passes Driven From Their Positions — Thirteen Japanese Warships Fire on Chinese Troops, Killing Several Hundred.

Shanghai, Aug. 30.—Al sorts of rumors are afloat concerning the battle said to have been fought between the Chinse and Japanese troops on August 15, but nothing official has been received here.

According to reports received by the press, a force of 5,000 Chinese troops attacked the Japanese forces guarding the PingYang passes in northwest Korea and drove them from their position.

The Chinese were joined by a large force of Koreans, who applied for and assignment to the Chinese advance guard.

These accounts say that the next day the Chinese were reinforced by 4,000 men from Yi Chow, and with this augmentation on August 15 engaged and defeated the Japanese at Chong-Ho.

Additional troops to the number of 16,000 joined the Chinese army on Aug. 16, and next day another attack was made upon the Japanese, with the result that the latter lost 4,000 men and left a large amount of ammunition, baggage, etc. on the field.

FOUGHT WITH A TRAMP.

A Plucky Nanticoke Woman Drives Off and Wounds an Intruder.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 30.—Thomas T. Hughes, a Nanticoke farmer, left home Tuesday, leaving his wife alone in the house. She noticed four or five men in a field nearby, gathered apparently around a keg of beer.

A few minutes later one of the gang appeared at the Hughes house. He told Mrs. Hughes that a keg of beer had been stolen and he accused her of knowing where it was secreted. She denied it, and told him that she had seen him and a gang of pals drinking the beer in an adjoining field. At this the man became angry and abusive. When he refused to go out, she grabbed a roling pin, which the man also made a lunge for, and together they struggled about the house, upsetting chairs and tables. The woman was hurled violently against the door of the dining room, but she got up, disappeared from view, and immediately reappeared with a shotgun.

Before the tramp knew what she was about she had levelled the gun at him and fired a load of bird shot into his legs. He ran out and limped up the road, leaving a trail of blood. He was followed some distance by the blood, but could not be overtaken, as his companions helped him to escape.

BUSINESS PICKING UP.

A Decided Improvement in the New York Dry Goods Market.

New York, Aug. 30.—The closing days of the month are not only keeping up the improved record in the dry goods market, but are raising the average both in volume of business, in staple and fancy cotton goods and in price. There are many buyers in the market just now in both commission and jobbing circles, and salesmen on the road are making good returns, while the appearance of the whole district shows a large outward movement of merchandise.

The advances in prices are still confined, so far as openly quoted, to a few lines.

The outlook for fall and winter is most encouraging.

Reports that certain mills which have been shut down are to start up again are the indications that agents have succeeded in reducing stocks very materially, and in most instances these mills will start to manufacture goods again on somewhat more favorable terms than prevailed when they shut down.

PILOT DIAPER BLAMED.

No Excuse for Causing Vigilant To Go Aground.

London Aug. 30.—The report of Prof. Harvard Biles, professor of naval architecture at the Glasgow university, upon the damage done to Vigilant by touching the rocks off the Needles on Aug. 18 while preparing to start for the match race with Britannia, is published to-day.

The Pall Mall Gazette, comenting upon this report, puts the entire responsibility upon Pilot Draper, and says:

"There is no excuse for his blunder, and it is evident that Vigilant's keel touched the rocks."

A SURGEON'S KNIFE

gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer necessity for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting.

The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that RUPTURE or Hernia, is now radically cured without the knife at without pain. Chronic, chafing trusses can be thrown away! They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death.

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are now removed without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting.

STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases. For pamphlets, references and all particulars, send 10 cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

WILSON SCORES TRUSTS

Speech Accepting Renomination to Congress.

The Power of Money in Making Laws Must Be Stopped by Democrats—A Better Tariff Will Yet Be Secured—The Present Measure a Step in the Right Direction.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 30.—The democratic congressional nominating convention for the second district met here for the purpose of renominating Hon. William L. Wilson. In accepting the nomination, Mr. Wilson said in part:

"I am more deply moved by your action to-day than I have ever been before. The action comes in such a way as to stamp with your approval the services which your representative was called upon to render for the supremacy of democratic principles.

The congress which adjourned Tuesday was charged by the American people with a duty—to wrest from the grasp of private and selfish hands the power of federal taxation. To this mission the immediate representatives of the people gave themselves earnestly and faithfully. In that work they were at all times cheered and encouraged by their great leader, who for eight years, in defeat and victory, has led in the movement for tariff reform.

"I have never faltered in the belief that you, my friends, were tariff reformers without reservation. I knew that the democrats of West Virginia were not protectionists for West Virginia and reformers and free traders for other states.

"I need not recite to you the successive steps, the material and baneful alterations through which the house bill quietly passed into a law, without the signature of the president.

"You know by what influences this was brought about. The country knows and history will know where to put the responsibility for the partial failure to dislodge the great privileged interests from our tariff. I am not sure that this very failure may not be a harbinger and assurance of the speedier and more complete triumph of commercial freedom than the smooth and unobstructed passage of the house bill would have been.

"The American people are aroused as hardly anything else could have aroused them to the deadly menace that protection begets to the purity and very existence of free government. They have a single great trust empowered by our tariff laws to control the production and sale of a necessity of life, parceling out the country with its partners, and using its law made wealth and power to thwart the best efforts of the people to reduce their own taxation.

"But the new bill carries in it substantial relief to the American people, and must be accepted as a substantial beginning of tariff reform. It means cheaper clothing, cheaper tools, cheaper pottery and many other necessaries for the people. It means freer and larger commerce with those nations that buy our farm products and consequently larger and better markets for our farmers."

KILLED BY A HUNTER.

Fate of a Little Girl While Berrying Near West Albany.

Albany, Aug. 30.—A farm hand named Farnham while out hunting four miles from West Albany yesterday accidentally shot Ella Cross, aged 6 years. The young girl was berrying with her mother, and received a charge of bird shot in the left breast, killing her instantly.

Mrs. Cross received several shot in her right leg and fainted. After recovering she carried her dead child for half a mile before she was relieved of the burden at a neighboring farm house. Farnham gave himself up.

EMPLOYING ALIENS.

Gov. Flower Demands an Explanation of Two State Institutions.

Albany, Aug. 30.—Gov. Flower has written the board of trustees of the Hudson River state hospital at Poughkeepsie that he is informed that the law is being violated at the institution, in the employment of men who are not citizens of the United States. The board is asked to investigate this charge and report to the governor the facts without unnecessary delay.

The governor has also sent a similar letter to the trustees of the reformatory for women at Bedford, N. Y.

Parliamentary Elections.

London, Aug. 30.—Elections were held in Leicster yesterday to fill the parliamentary vacancies left by the retirement of Sir Jmes Whitehead and James A. Picton, liberals, who were returned without opposition in 1892. Walter Hazell, liberal, defeated Joseph Bugess, labor, by a vote of 7,184 to 4,402. Henry Broadhurst, liberal, defeated Mr. Rolleston, conservative, by a vote of 9,969 to 6,967.

Cuba Will Retaliate.

London, Aug. 30.—The Central News correspondent in Madrid says "In consequence of the American tariff, the government custom officials in Cuba will apply the maximum to all imports from the United States. The officoals expect serious injury to the Cuban sugar industryas well as to the Cuban treasury from the higher tariff on American imports.

DEADLIEST OF POISONS.

Shophanthidin, from an African Plant, an Atom of Which Is Dangerous.

To the best of our knowledge the most deadly poison is that which was discovered by Prof. Fraser, of Edinburgh, Scotland, and known as shophanthidin. He separated it from the African poison plant, shophanthus hispidus, by means of ether and alcohol. As little as a one-thousandth-millionth part of an ounce of crystallized shophanthidin produces a distinctly injurious effect upon the heart, and a very small quantity is fatal. Another deadly poison is cyanogen gas, the principal ingredients of hydrocyanic or prussic acid. At ordinary temperatures it is simply a gas, but can be condensed by cold and pressure into a thin, colorless liquid and becomes a solid at 20 degrees Fahrenheit. The inhalation in its gaseous state of a most minute quantity would cause instant death. One of the most deadly poisons is arseniuretted hydrogen, or arsenic, which is formed by decomposing an alloy of arsenic and zinc with sulphuric acid. It is a colorless gas, possessing a fetid odor of garlic, and acts as a most deadly poison. Adolph Ferdinand Gehlen, a chemist born about 1775 at Butow, in Pomerania, was the discoverer of it. While experimenting with it at Munich, on July 15, he inhaled a single bubble of the pure gas and died in eight days from the effects. The accident occurred through his smelling at the joints of his apparatus to discover a flaw. Others engaged in chemical operations have died from the effects of this poison in three days.—Brooklyn Eagle.

COTTOLENE IS MADE TO EAT

Made from clarified oil, expressed from Cotton Seed—as pure and golden as the Southern Sunshine which produces it.

For convenience in handling, there is added to this oil enough beef suet to make it a semi-solid.

The combination of these two pure natural products makes Cottolene, a shortening and cooking fat, with which in healthfulness, cleanliness, flavor and economy, nothing in the world can compare.

IMITATIONS are MADE TO SELL

To sell on the merits of the genuine. To sell by substitution; or by deception. To sell to the injury of the genuine, to the dissatisfaction of the consumer, to the detriment of the dealer, to the loss of all concerned—except the scheming counterfeiter himself.

If you wish the best food and the best health, you should insist that your cooking be done with genuine Cottolene. Refuse all contercits.

Sold in 3 and 5 pound pails.

BRIDAL DECORATIONS.

The Trunk Got Here, But Brought with It a Motley Lot of Unexpected Luggage.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Denison of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., are spending their honeymoon at the home of Miss Carrie C. Boice on Jackson avenue. The groom is superintendent of a large coke manufacturing plant in Mt. Pleasant. His bride, who was formerly Miss Eloise Reppert, is an alumna of Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa., where she formed the acquaintance and lasting friendship of Miss Boice.

In order to save the bother of looking after baggage, Mr. Denison had his trunk shipped by express direct to Plainfield. It arrived in town in a truly ornamental condition. The groom's friends had got wind of his plans, and while the trunk was lying in the Mt. Pleasant express office they fastened to the straps a motley assortment of boots, shoes, rubbers, and slippers. Further decorations were made by winding around the trunk 20 yards of bright-colored ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Denison will leave for home tomorrow.

MUST PAY THE INSURANCE.

Justice Mosher Decides a Case Against the U. S. Company.

Justice Mosher decided the case of Michael Koller against the United States Industrial Insurance Company this morning. Koller sued through Attorney Geo. DeMezz for the insurance on the life of his late wife.

The company had stated that the amount claimed, $56, would not be paid because Mrs. Koller was ill when the policy was made out a year ago, but no defence was made this morning. The company's lawyer was content with claiming that the summons had not been served on the proper official. The justice gave the plaintiff a judgment for $56 28 and costs.

CYCLING COMMENT.

F. A. Dunham, the Crescent civil engineer, has issued the official description of the course he has surveyed for the Associated Cycling Club's 25 mile race Labor Day.

Monte Scott rides in Asbury Park this afternoon. He has 30 yards handicap ahead of Jenny in the two-mile race. Barnett in the Class B two-mile handicap has 170 yards start from Johnson.

Secretary Chamberlain of the Associated still thinks that a New Jersey cycler will win the 25-mile road race Monday. He bases his judgment on the good work of several riders who live near the course and have trained daily for the last two weeks. Plainfield is n't far from the course.

The Victor bicycle has scored another success in the case of Dr. Wm. L. Russell of West 93d street, New York. He has been spending a time with his father-in-law, Dr. Lewis, and has learned to ride one of Rogers's Victors with such excellent results as to health that he contemplates giving up all but office practice in New York and making his home in Plainfield. He has gone to Boston today but hopes to be in Plainfield permanently in time for the October and November "wheeling". Plainfield's roads and wheels are a large factor in the many attractions of our city.

Despite the threatening weather, the colored cyclists of Plainfield turned out in full force to join the run of the Victor Wheelmen to Florida Grove. They started from the Park club-house shortly after 9. The members of the Victor Wheelmen who started were: Captain Israel Jones, William Fisher, Alfred Wilson, Thomas Bowser, John Venable, L Somerset, T. Johnson, Louis Peterson, Willis Anderson and Joseph Bolden. Those cyclists not belong to the club who started were: Miss James, Miss Jenkins, Mrs. Randolph, Richard Randolph, Clarence Manning and Thomas Morris. They will attend the colored people's salt water day at Florida Grove and enjoy the grand clam-bake provided for the occasion. They expect to return soon after 7.

ROBBED BY MASKED MEN.

An Old Farmer Beaten Almost to Death Before His Wife and Daughter.

Phillipsburg, Aug. 30—Three masked men entered the house of Philip Reese, an old farmer, near Carpentersville, last night, and covering him with revolvers, demanded his money. Reese was sitting down at the time, but showed an intention to fight. He was overpowered and clubbed almost to death. The robbers secured a gold watch, a little silverware, and $500 in gold which was hidden in an old trunk. Reese's wife and daughter were so terrified that they were unable to make an outcry. There is no clue to the robbers.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

McCUTCHEN A FAVORITE.

He Is Rapidly Coming to the Fore in Local Cycling Races.

The regular midweek races held yesterday afternoon attracted 75 Plainfielders to the Crescent track. The spectators were all interested, of course, but the enthusiasm did not make it necessary to have special policemen in attendance.

The racing began at the regular time, 3:30, although it had been expected that an earlier start would be made. The riding was spirited. Will McCutchen's defeat of Nate Titsworth and L. S. Darling in the ½ mile scratch was the one feature which was commented upon by all when the afternoon's sport was finished.

In the 1-mile 2:50 class were started L. N. Lines, Nate Titsworth, L. S. Darling, Wm. McCutchen, W. J. Dodd, F. P. Taylor and R. J. Arner. Lines set the pace for the bunch in the first lap. The racers became more excited on the second lap, Darling going ahead. Lines passed him on the back and Titsworth came around ahead of Darling on the turn. The finish, in 2:42, was in the order first named.

Then Monte Scott gave a 1-mile exhibition. Lines, Darling and Titsworth paced him. From a flying start he rode in 2:09½. His knee had improved and he did not think it necessary to postpone riding.

Irvington-Millburn Barnett was the next exhibitor. He rode two miles unpaced in 5:02, the laps ending as follows: :49, 1:38, 2:30, 3:21, 4:13, 5:02.

The three starters in the one-mile race for boys under 16 were John Keefe, Will McCutchen and J. Gluck. Gluck is a Westfielder and was allowed to go in only with an old machine as a handicap. He usually rides a fifteen-pound racer. He came out with a cushion-tired woman's wheel of the 1891 style. He set the pace for two laps. The finish was rapid. Gluck's rear tire jumped from the rim before the tape was reached. Keefe finished first in 3:57 with McCutchen a close second.

The ½-mile scratch was a surprise. McCutchen, Titsworth, Darling, Arner and Dodd were in it. Dodd did n't get a good start. Arner could not keep in the bunch. McCutchen shot out, set the pace, held the pole, kept ahead bravely on the last turn and won in :34 1-5. Titsworth was second and Darling third. McCutchen rode well. He is not 16 yet and has had no chance to train this season except during the past week.

The one-mile handicap with five starters ended the affair. McCutchen, 110 yards, passed Taylor, 120 yards, on the first lap and then dropped out on the short turn. Lines, scratch, passed Arner, 40 yards, in the second lap and went ahead fast. Arner dropped out. Lines passed Dodd, 90 yards, and Taylor and the limit man fell back. Lines was first in 2:28 3-5, ahead of Dodd. Taylor rode the mile out.

Opening the Hotel Netherland.

The Hotel Netherland, at Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, was thrown open last night to invited guests of the managers, Messrs. Stafford and Whitaker. Every window in the lofty and elegant structure was brilliantly illuminated. Victor Herbert's Twenty-second Regiment Band occupied the centre of the rotunda, and collations were served in the main dining rooms and in half a dozen reception rooms on the upper floors. Three thousand cards of invitation had been issued, and among the distinguished guests welcomed by Chief Clerk Peter Wright were several Plainfielders. The hotel is a $3,000,000 palace provided with every perfection for the public, and Plainfield patrons will find popular Mr. Wright pleased to see personally that they are luxuriously quartered whenever they are in New York.

Executor Hubbard Hopes That, for the Babcock Building Workmen—Judge Coddington Takes Legal Measures for the Workmen.

Executor Hubbard and Builder Chandler state that they have been misunderstood and misquoted by the carpenters who have complained through The Press of the delinquent payments for work on the Babcock Building.

Mr. Chandler denies that the contract has been taken from him. He still holds the contract, and he denounces as utterly false the statement of the workmen that he collected the money due him and paid it for other things.

Mr. Hubbard says that the workmen came to him and wanted to know if there was a likelihood of their getting their money. He told them he hoped they would be paid in full. But there was at present only about three-fourths of the funds available. They asked him if he would advise them to settle on that basis, and he said he would not advise. He did not offer them any percentage in settlement.

City Judge Wm. A. Coddington today instituted mechanic's lien proceedings against the owners of the building in behalf of 12 men who were employed on the structure by Chandler. The total of the various amounts claimed is about $1,000

PUGILISTS ARE OFTEN WHIPPED.

In Rough and Tumble Fights They Seem to Get the Worst of It.

The summary manner in which Sullivan was whipped by a waiter last week has raked up reminiscences among New Yorkers of the barroom fighters of a decade ago, who always looked upon a pugilist as an easy prey. There were at least half a dozen men in different sporting resorts in this city a few years ago who considered it a great opportunity when they could pick a fight with a famous pugilist, and they invariably came off victors. For twenty years Larry O'Brien, who was an undersized, consumptive-looking man, would jump at a prize fighter's throat on the slightest provocation, and he always made it a point to pick a quarrel with the sluggers he met about town at night.

None of these barroom fighters or professional bouncers would have a living chance with a pugilist in a ring, and the success they all had out of the ring has given rise to the belief that prize fighters are not able to defend themselves under ordinary conditions against the assaults of professional toughs. It is very largely a question of environment. The bouncer is at home in his saloon, seldom drinks, and always knows what he is about. If a prize fighter is in the saloon the chances are that he is more or less intoxicated. Boxers are thought so carefully to avoid fouling that they fight fairly as a matter of instinct, no matter how much under the influence of liquor they may be. The barroom sluggers, on the other hand, resort to every disreputable trick known in guerrilla warfare, from butting to scratching, biting, and kicking their antagonist. All of this is on the authority of a famous boxing instructor, who believes the public is in a condition of rabid excitement over the defeat of Sullivan by a rank outsider.

Trouble Made by a Dog.

One often reads of a Newfoundland dog saving a person from drowning, but here is a story of another kind telling how one of these great dogs came near drowning his master:

Jacob Maul, a New York man, led his Newfoundland by a chain to East Pier the other afternoon. The dog, wanting a swim, jumped overboard and dragged his master after him. Then Louis Elgin jumped in to the rescue, and Maul dragged him under twice. John Quinn, another man who witnessed the accident, jumped in and helped them all to shore. Then Policeman Mitchell, of the East 126th street station came up. He understood Maul to say that Elgin and Quinn threw him overboard, and arrested them and preferred charges against them. The two men had a difficult time in proving that, instead of committing a criminal act, they had been engaged in saving human life.

That Royal Engagement is all Right.

The rumor that the engagement of the Princess Alix to the Czarevitch was to be broken off has proved to be without foundation. What gave rise to the story was the fact that in marrying the Czarevitch the Princess would, of course, have to enter the Greek Church and renounce her Evangelical religion. This, it was said, she objected doing. What she did object to was a phrase in the formal declaration required of her, to the effect that the religion of her fathers was "false." This word was cut out, and there is no reason to suppose that any further difficulties of the same nature have arisen.

Capt. King's Conservation of Force.

It is said that Capt. Charles King has entirely given up the use of the pen in his literary work, and escapes all the drudgery of authorship by the use of the phonograph. FOR THE relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail

HO, EVERYONE THAT THIRSTETH!

Christian Endeavorers Dedicate a Fountain Whose Waters Are Cool and Free.

The local Christian Endeavor Union dedicated the new water fountain at the corner of Front and Somerset streets last evening. An open-air service was held on the spot. A large crowd, both of Endeavorers and those attracted while passing by, stood in the street and attentively listened to the service.

Horace J. Martin opened the meeting at 7:30 by singing "Rescue the Perishing", the crowd joining in the chorus. Rev. Arthur Crane then read as a Scripture lesson the story of the women of Samaria and spoke in general on the story. He told the people of the living water.

President E. M. Cave of the Union made the address of the evening. He said the fountain was the first of a number to be erected by the Endeavorers. He encouraged the members of the young people's society to do more active work in all the lines of Christian Endeavor effort. Mr. Crane then made the prayer of dedication, invoking God's blessing and asking Him to give the members of the Union more power to do good.

Mr. Martin led the singing of "Throw Out the Life Line". The water was turned on shortly before 8 by C. E. Thompson of the East Third Street Mission Society where the idea of having the fountains originated. The doxology was sung as the water flowed. Then everyone was invited to taste the water. All responded and until late in the evening a group of thirsty people surrounded the fountain.

WELL MATCHED.

Climax Club Marksmen Lead the Springfield Team a Lively Race, and Lose Only by a Narrow Margin.

The return match between the Union Gun Club of Springfield and the Climax Club was shot yesterday on the club grounds in Fanwood. The Springfield club presented a strong team and defeated the home club by the narrow margin of six birds.

The Climax boys had a strong trio in Brantingham, Smith and Keller as their wheel squad; they went to the score pitted against Sigler, Drake and Miller, three of the strongest men in the State, and by magnificent work reduced a lead of 11 points to six, each man breaking 24 out of a possible 25. The visitors were entertained by the home club. Boniface Benner added to the enjoyment of the day by supplying a bountiful lunch free to all the shooters and their friends. The scores of the team race and the winners of the several sweepstake matches were as follows:

Event No. 1, at 10 Empire targets—Keller and Brientnall first with 10; Sigler and VanDyke second with 8.

Event No. 2—Brientnall 10; D. Terry, VanDyke and Miller 9 each; Keller and Sigler 8.

Event No. 3—VanDyke, Keller and Sigler 10; Brientnall and Heritage 9; C. Smith, Miller and Richmond 8 each.

Event No. 4—Keller and Richmond 10; Brientnall and VanDyke 9; Lindsley, Addison, Miller, Soper, Sigler, Hebbard and C. Smith 8 each.

Event No. 5—Brientnall and Sigler 10; Keller, VanDyke, Manning and W. Terry 9; Lindsley, Hebbard, Miller, Brantingham, Addison, D. Darby, "Scott" and Heritage 8 each.

Event No. 6—C. Smith and H. Campbell 10; Keller, Richmond, Brantingham and R. Williams 9; Brientnall, VanDyke, Sigler, Woodruff and Soper 8 each.

Event No. 7.—Brientnall, Keller, C. Smith and Sigler, 10 each. Brantingham, D. Darby, R. Williams, "Scott" and "Williams", 9, Richmond, Addison, Miller and Manning, 8.

Event No. 8.—C. Smith and Roberts, 10. Drake, Brantingham and Hebbard, 9. Keller, Sigler, Woodruff, Manning, Goodman and Scott, 8.

Team Race—13 men a side at 25 Empire targets each man:

Union Gun Club of Springfield—Richmond 21, Lindsley 16, Soper 23, R. Williams 19, Hebbard 18, Heritage 24, L. Terry 20, VanDyke 22, Brientnall 25, Sickley 22, Drake 23, Sigler 23, Miller 20. Total 275.

Climax Gun Club of Plainfield—Campbell 23, J. Zeglio 18, Manning 23, W. Terry 18, "Williams" 20, D. Darby 15, Squires 21, "Scott" 23, D. Terry 16, Swody 20, Brantingham 24, C. Smith 24, Keller 24. Total 269.

Last and Best of the Season.

The local lodges of Odd Fellows have solved for Plainfielders the question how to spend Labor Day delightfully. They will on that date conduct a great and glorious excursion, the last of the season, to Asbury Park, and give the people another opportunity to spend a day amid the pleasures of the shore and witness the great parade, concert, and other field-day exercises. The fare is cheap, and you can stay at the Park till 9 p. m. The train will stop at Netherwood, Fanwood and Long Branch.

Tennis Tourney.

The annual championship tournament of the Hillside Tennis Club will be held on their courts Monday, Labor Day, Sept. 3, commencing at 9:30 sharp. The committee, D. O. Tiffany, F. W. Walz and H. D. West, will receive entries on or before next Saturday. The entrance fee is 50 cents.

A Good Teacher.

Robert Whittaker of Watchung avenue is instructing three young men of East Fifth street in the mysteries of the trapeze.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

TINGLEYS GET TOGETHER.

Uncle John Conducts Another Great Reunion of the One Big Family.

There is scarcely a man, woman or child in this section of the State who does not know Uncle John Tingley of Dunellen, and when, four years ago, he inaugurated the reunion of the Tingley families, his fame increased and for miles around he became one of the most popular men known. The reunions have grown larger and more successful each year.

Yesterday was the time set for the fourth celebration, and very early in the morning those who had planned to attend arose and prepared for the journey to the David Blackford farm. The homestead is between South Plainfield and New Market. As a place for an affair of this kind it cannot be improved. Nature has endowed it with her very best, and all found the generous hospitality of the Tingleys predominant.

For weeks past John Tingley, the general manager, and his faithful assistant David Blackford, have been arranging for the affair. Invitations had been sent far and wide.

As fast as the people began to arrive they were given a royal welcome and made to feel right at home. Of course, everyone brought lunch, and the long tables were heavily laden. What a feast it was, from the incomparable home-made bread such as "our mothers used to make", to the old-fashioned home-made pies that every boy has begged from grandma. And then there were all the good things in between, meats, salads, fruit, and delicacies, that were simply immense.

At 12:30 dinner was announced, and nearly 200 people sat down to partake of the bountiful. All did justice to the feast before them. None was slighted, and the most careful attention was given to each one. The Press reporter was particularly favored. Seated beside two of the family's fairest daughters, he was not permitted to want for anything.

At the close of the dinner, Friendship Cornet Band of New Market gathered on the lawn in front of the house, and discoursed such sweet music that the older members of the family present were filled with renewed ambition, and several expressed themselves as feeling like boys and girls when they used to celebrate the old-time Fourth of July.

In a very neat speech, John Tingley introduced Rev. Frank Fletcher of New Market to the audience, and such a rousing speech as he made would have filled anyone with joy and happiness. His wit and humor evoked the heartiest applause, and all felt well paid for their trip, after hearing such an excellent address. The divine has almost come to the conclusion that he must be related to the Tingleys, and thoroughly enjoys these occasions.

After more music, Rev. F. Peterson of New Market was introduced, and his remarks were listened to with intent interest. He heartily agreed that the event was one never to be forgotten. The audience was very much pleased with Mr. Peterson's remarks.

The rest of the afternoon was given to music and sociability, and many who had not met since last reunion found plenty to talk about. Old acquaintances were renewed, and there was a general freedom. Each told of how he had been prospered during the year.

When the time for departure arrived, all gave a hearty vote of thanks, and agreed that they had experienced the happiest day of the year with the good old Tingley family.

The Tingleys present at the reunion were: John Tingley and family, of Dunellen; Ebenezer Tingley and family, Geo. Tingley and family, Lewis Tingley and family, of Roycefield; Daniel Tingley and family, of Summit; Wm. Tingley, of Newark; Stelle Tingley and family, of South Branch; Joseph Tingley and family, of Weston.

Others present were: Charles Boice, Mrs. Walter Clawson, Wm. Giles, Aaron S. Brower and family, David Runyon, Eugene Runyon, of Dunellen; Rev. Frank Fletcher, Rev. F. Peterson and family, Foster Sofield and family, Abner Corriel and family, Miss Mattie Moore, Isaac Titsworth, William Dunham and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Fitz Randolph, Dr. Nelson and family, Dewitt Giles and family, Nelson Giles and family, L. Squires and family, Dr. M. J. Whitford, John Richards and family, Cornelius Ryno, Z Osmun and family, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Blackford of New Market, D. Blackford, Mrs. Blackford, Alexander Randolph and family, Ephraim Boice and family, A. D. Tappen, William Clawson and family, C. H. Conger and family, Maxson Dunham and family, Joel Manning and family, Mrs. Pyatt of South Plainfield, E. GaNun and family, Eden Boice, Mrs. Jennie Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smalley, Mrs. Smalley, Henry Biddle, Miss Biddle, John Briant and family, Mrs. John Thickstun, Mrs. Merrill, Miss Maud VanDyke, Mrs. Way, Plainfield, Mrs. A. G. Sparks, Miss Margaret L. Sparks of Newark; Edward Randolph and family, Mahlon Stelle and family, Lewis Walker and family, Runyon Walker, Mr. VanAlstyne, Gifford Stelle and family, Peter Clawson, Manning Randolph and family, Samuel Dayton and family, Lewis Harris, Albert Boice, Frank VanNiee and family of Piscataway; Peter Lant and family of Short Hills; John Haas and family, Miss Mamie Sparks of Liberty Corner; Mr. and Mrs. Acken, George Acken of Millington; Miss Demler, Miss Milliken of Washingtonville; Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Talmadge of Metuchen; Daniel Manning and family, the Misses Ackerman of Evona.

THE SECRET ORDERS.

Chief of Police George W. Grant was raised to the rank of warrior at the meeting of Paugh Caugh Naugh Sinque Tribe of Red Men last evening. Committees were appointed to receive the visiting tribes next Wednesday night.

At the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., this evening, the subject of erecting a large handsome public fountain will be discussed. It is the intention of having one suitable for man, horse, and dog. A location adapted to such a fountain is being looked for and no doubt will be found.

FAREWELL TO PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. Bond Gives Parting Message to a Hope Chapel Audience, on the Eve of Her Return to Macedonia.

Mrs. Lewis Bond, the Macedonian missionary, gave a farewell talk before sailing for her field of work next month, in Hope Chapel last evening. The middle part of the chapel where the roof has just been raised, was well filled with attentive listeners to the remarks of the earnest worker.

Mrs. Bond described the country and the political situation and relations of Bulgaria, Macedonia and Turkey. She sang and recited in the Bulgarian tongue and exhibited dolls dressed in the various costumes of the country.

The ways of the Christian churches now established in Macedonia were explained by Mrs. Bond with comments which made those present feel that a thoroughness marked the work of the eastern converts which was often lacking in this country. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Bond there are but one more missionary and his wife and one or two young women working in the field referred to. The converts are very useful in bringing others to Christ.

The audience was much interested when the speaker told of how the new converts sought to take their families from under the power of the priests. The church in which Mrs. Bond labors has even a foreign missionary for the relief of the Chinese and the Africans connected with it. The teaching of the older pupils to read the Bible is one of the most important works. The one aim of the workers, said Mrs. Bond, is not to build up a church of great numbers, but to have each new member a true Christian, both in the congregation and in the daily life.

NEWS OF NEAR NEIGHBORS.

Dunellen and New Market.

C. K. Hills returned from his trip yesterday.

The Borough Commissioners will meet Monday evening.

Miss Carrie Van Horn of Brooklyn is visiting Miss Lou Adams.

Miss Carrie Stanford of Elizabeth is visiting Mrs. Abram Dunham.

Mrs. C. Matthews of Brooklyn is the guest of Mrs. Charles Dickason.

Miss Foster of Poughkeepsie is visiting at the home of James Gregg of Dunellen.

Charles Keunlen and wife of Hoboken have returned home after a visit with his father.

Mrs. McKnight of Jersey City has returned home after a pleasant visit with Miss Hague.

John Hague and family have moved from Dunellen and taken up their residence in Evona.

The Misses Grace and Mabel Giles of Millstone are visiting their sister, Mrs. W. H. Carman.

Joseph Martin and Bob Schiereth were among the Plainfielders fishing at New Market yesterday.

Mrs. Orlemann and daughter of Montclair returned home yesterday after a visit with Dunellen friends.

Miss Ida Edsall returned to her home in Brooklyn yesterday after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Fred Nelson.

Mrs. Reihman of New York played the music of the requiem mass at the funeral of John Donahue this morning.

City Judge Coddington and wife of Plainfield, accompanied by friends, spent yesterday afternoon fishing in New Market pond.

The funeral services of John Donohue were held this morning from his late home at 9:30, and from St. John's Church at 10. The attendance of friends and relatives was very large. The music was in charge of Mrs. Reihman and the following young women sang in the choir: Miss Anna Maier, Miss Carrie Hyle, the Misses Kelley and the Misses Hunt. The service was very touching. A large handsome cross of flowers with the word "Comrade" rested on the casket. This was a gift from friends. Those acting as pall-bearers were: T. Ronayne, T. McKinley, Edward O'Keefe, Joseph Reidy, Henry Lyons and Joseph Maier. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Plainfield.

Scotch Plains.

Henry Cook is in Washington with the Pythians.

Miss Lottie Pierce of Newark is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Orman Noble.

Mrs. J. S. Braker's mother and aunt have returned to Lewisburg, Pa., after a visit here.

The Sons of Temperance will meet next week to elect officers. Richard Robison announces himself a candidate for patriarch.

Richard Bobison's pitching was the feature of the game between the Scotch Plains Juniors and the Young Arlingtons played on the Plainfield Latin School grounds yesterday. He struck 12 men out. This helped make the score 15 to 9 in Scotch Plains's favor.

The Scotch Plains team will play the St. Paul's nine of Prospect Park, Brooklyn here, Saturday afternoon. Two games will be played on the local grounds Labor Day. The Plains will meet the Westfields in the morning and the Rahway's in the afternoon.

John L. Force gave everyone who attended, a royal welcome at the opening of his West Side House last evening. Bunting and lanterns decorated the exterior, while incandescent lights made bright the rooms within. All agreed that Mr. Force was an excellent landlord, and that he would have a most successful career in the village as a hotel-keeper.

The regular services will be resumed in All Saints' Church next Sunday with Sunday-school and catechising at 9:30; the Holy Communion and sermon by the rector at 10:45; evening prayer and lecture at 7:15. The rector proposes to institute this coming season a series of lectures and concerts for the young people of the parish, to take place at least every fortnight and to interest them in literary and educational improvement. He will also aid in every way the Choral Union, which has been started in the village, as he believes that the movement in that direction will be of great value to all the religious societies in the place.

The House Should Be Crowded.

No more welcome announcement could be made by the management of Music Hall than the appearance at that theatre Saturday night of that clever young comedian, Charles Dickson, in Mrs. Pacheco's side-splitting comedy of errors, "Incog". This comedy has achieved some remarkable records, chief among them being its runs of 100 nights in New York and 50 each in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco.

A CONSIDERATE BURGLAR.

He was so Polite that the Woman who Caught Him is Half Sorry.

Mrs. Lehman, a young married woman of New York, tells this interesting story of a Chesterfieldian burglar, who is now in the Tombs:

"I came in from driving and found the rear hall door locked. In a few minutes I left to buy some things for supper. When I returned the rear hall door was open and I thought my husband was home. 'Where are you, papa?' I called. There was no answer. 'Oh, pshaw!' I said, and stamped my foot. 'Don't try to hide from me, papa.' Still no answer. I went into the next room. The door was ajar and I pushed it. It hit somebody. 'Now, come out, papa; don't hide,' I said, and out stepped a well-dressed young man. 'Papa will be here soon,' he said, bowing politely. 'Who are you?' I asked. 'Oh, that's all right,' he answered, smiling. 'Papa will be in in a minute.'

"I thought that my husband had come home and brought company, and I was so glad to think that I had bought some huckleberry cake. All this time the man was bowing and smiling and walking easily toward the door.

"'Who are you? What's your name?' I asked.

"'Me? Oh, my name's Jones—Jones—at your service, madam;' and with a smile and a bow he walked out of the door and down the stairs.

"As he reached the bottom, like a flash it struck me that he was a burglar. Then I hurried after. As I reached the pavement I screamed and tore after him. I screamed at every step until he was caught. Now that I've got my diamonds back I'm sorry that he is locked up. Just think how considerate he was! Why, he might have knocked me down and injured me. Instead he behaved like a perfect gentleman. He looked it, too, with his diamond ring. I'd have given him $200 for it—his two-carat diamond stud and his magnificent watch and chain! In court this morning the judge asked me if the ring, stud and watch were mine, I answered 'no,' and the man bowed and said: 'I thank you, madam, very much.' Oh, he's a gentleman, if he is a thief, and I'm so sorry that he is locked up."

BISMARCK'S VARZIN PIGS.

The Great German Prince Holds Them Above Anarchists.

Prince Bismarck, when not irritated, is a man of nice and just discrimination, as this instance to wit:

Certain newspapers of Germany have lately printed an alleged interview in which the retired statesman and dynasty-maker is represented as comparing anarchists with his Varzin pigs. This was a confusion of the moral verities which Bismarck did not propose to let go unprotested. He promptly authorized the Hamburger Nachrichten to deny the interview.

Not content with this step, the bluff old gentleman, when referring to the repudiated interview, exclaimed: "I would not disgrace my Varzin pigs by such a comparison."

Bismarck is a sound judge of pork.—Evening Telegram.

Emperor William's Concession to Baths.

It has often been noticed that the large lordly castles in Germany are totally devoid of bathrooms. The absence of this convenience, considered by John Bull as an object of the first necessity, has always caused the English to make fun of the Germans on this subject. This came to the ears of the German Emperor, and as he never does anything by halves, every cabin of his yacht Hohenzollern, destined for the members of his own family or of his suite, has been provided with a small bathroom. But where the Imperial fancy reveals itself in all its brilliancy is in the desire of His Majesty to give also to the sailors and marines of the Hohenzollern the benefit of total or partial immersion. Underneath one of the decks at the end of the vessel he has had a large swimming bath installed, where the soldiers and sailors can both plunge and swim at their ease. This bath is provided with sea water, which is heated in winter by thermo-syphons. This innovation is one of the curiosities of the strange yacht Hohenzollern—half a pleasure yacht, half man-of-war.

Hard Luck, but Married at Last.

A bride at Newark had a hard time of it in getting married the other day. First of all she insisted that she would only drive to the church in a new coach, and much time was lost in finding such a vehicle. Next, when the church door was reached, the bride was found in tears, and the cause was that, in her excitement, she had forgotten to put on her white shoes. And as she refused to allow the ceremony to proceed until she had rectified this blunder, the party had to return to her home, quite a distance away. The correct shoes having been put on a new start was made but, in entering the carriage the bride slipped and sprained her ankle. This caused further loss of time. Once more the wedding party set out, but again there was a mishap; in crossing a railroad track, one of the hind wheels of the coach was wrenched off, and the bride was thrown into the road. An effort was then made to induce the bride to take one of the other carriages in the procession, while the occupants proceeded to the wedding in a street car, but she refused, and seated herself on a doorstep until another vehicle was procured. This ended the chapter of accidents and the young woman was safely married.

Too Much for the Wages.

From the following advertisement printed in an English newspaper it would seem that the clergy of Hampshire don't take much stock in the principle of the living wage:

"Wanted, for country rectory—Steady married man to attend to kitchen and flower garden, also pigs, poultry and meadow; willing to be useful; churchman; good character; one able to sing in choir preferred; cottage to be rented; wages, 15s. per week. Address Rectory, Winchester."

This steady married man, churchman and singer would have about 1s. 6d. a day to live on after paying for his cottage, or say 37 1-2 cents.—N. Y. Sun.

Ida Lewis's Work and Salary.

The yearly salary of Ida Lewis, the famous keeper of the Lime Rock Lighthouse, at the south end of Newport harbor, is $750 and two tons of coal. She is past fifty now, her hair slightly streaked with gray and her face somewhat rugged and weather-beaten, but she is still alert and strong. She began her wonderful record of life-saving with the rescue of four small boys, whose boat capsized in the harbor before her.

Pennsylvania Tours to the South.

For several seasons past the announcement of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's tours to the South has been looked for with interest, and the pleasant anticipations of those who participated in them have been more than realized. For the present early Autumn, announcement is made of two personally-conducted tours from New York to the mountains of Maryland and Virginia and the two most prominent cities of the upper South. The specific points covered by these tours are Gettysburg, Blue Mountain, Luray Caverns, Natural Bridge, the Grottoes of the Shenandoah, and the cities of Richmond and Washington.

It would be difficult to plan a tour of ten days which would embrace a more interesting group of places, as every one of them has an individual interest that cannot fail to enlist wide and favorable attention. The scenery of the entire route is picturesque and attractive, and the season is timed so as to present the scenic beauties in their best form.

These tours will leave New York and Philadelphia on September 15 and 29, and the members of the party will travel in special trains of parlor cars provided exclusively for their use. The entire round trip covers a period of ten days, and excursion tickets, including all traveling expenses, will be sold from New York at $55 and Philadelphia $53.

For itineraries containing complete information as to routes, special train service, descriptive notes, etc., apply to or address Tourist Agent, 1196 Broadway, N. Y., or Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

THERE is Health in the Wheel.

Firm muscles, good complexion, and cheerful spirits are the result of plenty of out-door exercise and sunshine. Cycling is the popular sport of the day.

The 1894 Columbias are a realization of the ideal in bicycle construction—a triumph of American skill and enterprise. Constantly advancing in the line of progress, Columbias still maintain their proud position as the standard bicycles of the world—unequalled, unapproached.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When ironing, sit instead of stand, and work in a cool room.

Pineapple should never be eaten by sick persons, but the juice to drink is very beneficial.

A drop of oil and a feather will do away with the creaking in a door or creaking chair.

Single beds are now not only fashionable, but hygienic. Double beds have little sale with wholesale dealers.

After a room has been newly papered, there should be ample oportuality given the paper to dry upon the walls before a fire is built in the apartment.

In arranging the kitchen closet, put powdered borax on the shelves to prevent roaches and other vermin from getting between the paper and shelves.

A cheap table may be beautified by having the shelves covered with china silk, white with yellow flowers. The legs are gilded or enameled with white enamel.

As far as possible sleeping rooms should be selected that are daily purified by the sun's rays. Fresh air is all right, but it needs to be supplemented by sunlight.

In putting down carpets, spread newspapers over the floor, then put clean straw evenly over the paper and put the carpet down. The carpet will last longer with this lining than any other. The dust will sift through on the papers.

Carpets are giving away to rugs, and women who have ever made carpets will hail the news that rag rugs are being made by women in cities for use in rooms where there is "hard wear." These rugs, when well made, are very handsome.

Sally Lunn.—One quart of flour sifted with three small teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat two eggs with two tablespoonfuls of sugar; add three tablespoonfuls of melted butter and one pint of milk; stir in the flour and a teaspoonful of salt. Bake.

The Ice in the Refrigerator.—"In the summer," said a housewife, "the ice in the refrigerator melts very rapidly. To make it last as long as possible we used to wrap about it an old blanket or a piece of carpet, but now-a-days we wrap it up in newspapers. It keeps better in newspapers, and we no longer have the trouble of washing and drying the other wraps; when the newspapers are wet we simply throw them away."

The Complexion.—Nothing is so destructive to a fair complexion as the habit of going to bed with an unwashed face. Get the dust and powder off; open the pores, and give the skin a chance to do its work. In the endeavor to do this, don't plaster it with soap. But, "no matter what you do," as poor Rosina Vokes used to sing, don't wear vaseline or glycerine or any kind of grease to bed. It doesn't do any good, and it spoils the linen.

Prune Pie.—Set a dish of well-washed, clean prunes covered with water in an oven fairly well heated, and let them swell. Then take them out and remove the pits, and take the pits and the water in which the prunes have soaked, and adding a little more, stew the pits for half an hour; this liquid must be saved to pour over the prunes when they are in the pie ready to bake. The juice and the prunes must be put in cold. Bake with a top and bottom crust.

Hot Milk Cure.

These who are afflicted with skin eruptions, especially with the red blotches and hard little lumps, known as the eczemous acne, will find relief by persevering in the following simple and inexpensive cure:

Do not bathe the affected parts in water; this aggravates cutaneous affections. Each night, before retiring, heat about a pint of fresh sweet milk. Do not let it boil, but let it rise just to the boiling point. Boiled milk loses its healing virtue. Then, with an old linen handkerchief, sop the hot fluid generously on the affected parts. Do not wipe the milk off, but let it dry into the skin.

In the morning bathe the skin in a little hot milk, or in a dilution of listerine in hot water, in the proportion of two parts of water to one of listerine. Eat no constipation food. Avoid especially new fine bread, sugar, pastry and all starchy foods. Fruit, lettuce and radishes may be taken with good result. Be careful not to worry. Worriment is often the direct cause of eczema. Exercise actively in the open air, but do not heat the system.

If you will follow these few simple rules, and will persist in the application of the hot milk each night before retiring, the red spots will soon fade away, and the hard lumps will gradually soften and disappear.

A Dry Shampoo.

Many women who have luxurious tresses and who take cold easily are obliged to forego washing them as often as they would like because of the difficulty of getting them dry quickly. For such, a dry shampoo is the next best thing, and, if carefully and thoroughly done, it removes the accumulated dust and dandruff almost as well as washing. The hair should be shaken loosely over the shoulders and the head manipulated with the fingers till all foreign matter is well loosened and scattered through the hair, which should then be parted in different places all over the head, and the parts cleansed with a stiff little brush, after which the entire head and hair should be very thoroughly brushed in sections till the dandruff is brushed out as much as possible, when some good hair tonic or scalp cleanser may be rubbed on and the snarls engendered by the whole process gently combed out, and the ends of the hair clipped. This last should always be done once a month to promote the growth of the hair.

Possible Masters.

A Boston woman asks this question: "What would prevent, if we were to have universal suffrage in Massachusetts, our disfranchising the male population? Nothing in the world, if we were united. There are 49,000 more women than men in this State, and we should have it all our own way, and would soon be masters of the situation."
